of product from television. I am convinced that your position is correct and actually I anticipated this type of pressure from the present Administration. When I accepted joint chairmanship with Samuel Goldwyn and Jack Warner of the "Eisenhower-for-President" movement in Southern California some of my Democratic friends pointedly told me that I was making a mistake and when I took several stars with me to attend the Eisenhower rally in Denver I was again advised that this action on my part would not find favor with either the Taft forces or the present Administration. The filing of this preposterous and un-American suit indicates that apparently my Democratic friends knew what they were talking about."

Tell Stevenson He is 'Well Supported' in Hollywood

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., August 7. — Gov. Adlai Stevenson, Democratic nominee for President, was told here yesterday that he is "well supported" in Hollywood.

The advice came from M-G-M writers Leonard Spigelgass and Allen Rivkin, who called at the Governor's mansion and had a half-hour session with Stevenson. They said they told him the film colony was divided about 50-50 between the two contenders.

$30,000 for Gleason

BOSTON, Aug. 7.—Jackie Gleason, appearing at the RKO Boston Theatre, will end a week's engagement tonight with a gross of $30,000. Gleason worked on a 50 per cent-of-the-house basis and no guarantee.

separate contract for his own circuit of 115 theatres.

Under the ITOA agreement, it was explained, individual members of the organization can elect to sign or not sign the yearly contract. It was made clear, however, by J. M. Collins, ASCAP sales manager, that ASCAP would guard against any infringement of music copyrights by theatres playing recordings during intermission hours, or at other times.

It was acknowledged that during the last eight months of negotiations with theatre executives, the playing of ASCAP non-film, recorded music without compensation had occurred.

Brandt, hailing the new agreement, said that theatres now need not be dependent on music in the public domain. The ITOA president said he soon would begin talks with ASCAP on music rights in vaudeville houses.

Brandt also saw the new pact as opening the way for the wide use of ASCAP music in the promotion of pictures, citing his utilization of the songs in "High Noon" to sell that film to the public.

ASCAP's Collins pointed out that the new master agreement was a voluntary contract, that exhibitors not wishing to play ASCAP music need not do so. Collins declined to estimate the yearly revenue to ASCAP from this source, explaining that this year would be the first time the schedule of payments would be in effect.

On the licensing agreements with major producers, Collins said that most production companies either have signed or are in the process of signing a new contract covering a 12-month period with ASCAP. Among others present at the signing of the contracts was Otto A. Harbach, ASCAP president.

The schedule of yearly rates for theatres, which was reported previously in MOTION PICTURE DAILY, follows: Four-wall theatres: Up to 600 seats, $15; 601 to 1,200 seats, $24; 1,201 to 1,600 seats, $36; over 1,600 seats, $48. Drive-in theatres: Up to 350 cars, $36; 351 to 650 cars, $48; over 650 cars, $60.

RKO Radio Sues Writers

RKO Radio has brought suit in Federal District Court in New York against writers James H. Montgomery and Harry Tierney, alleging that they failed to deliver the motion picture rights to their play, "Irene." RKO stated that the writers breached a contract signed by them and asked the court for a judgment calling upon the defendants to deliver the assignment to the play.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 7.—Scott R. Dunlap will produce "Pocahontas" for Allied Artists in color, with James S. Burkett directing. The story, by Stephen B. Worth, was acquired June 6, the studio revealed.

Film Imports by Canada Increase

Ottawa, Aug. 7.—The Canadian government reports imports of films into Canada advanced slightly in the first five months of 1952, rising to $2,564,000 from $2,479,000 in the same period of 1951. May imports amounted to $573,000, against $498,000 in the same month a year ago.

New NBC TV Film Division Is Set

The top organization for the newly-created film division of National Broadcasting has been set by Robert W. Sarnoff, vice-president in charge of the division, who reports that John B. Cron, formerly manager of film syndication sales, has been named manager of television film sales in the new unit.

Stanton M. Osgood, formerly executive assistant to the director of television operations, was appointed manager of television film production. Cron and Osgood will report to Sarnoff.

John W. Kiermaier, formerly assistant to the director of production units, was named assistant manager of television film production, reporting to Osgood.

Benjamin Raub of the NBC legal department, and Robert Anderson of the controller's office, have been assigned to the new film division.

MEMBERS of the continuations committee of the industry arbitration conference were in spirited disagreement at the close of their successful two-day meeting here last week over the weighty issue of whether or not they should use the word "agreement" in their press release to describe the meeting of minds that had been achieved.

Even though the 10-man group had reached agreement on the matters which should be incorporated in a draft, work on which is scheduled to start here next week, those opposed to so informing the press argued that there can be no agreements until the principals have approved.

The "nays" had it and their position became even more vacuous when the committee's statement to the press meticulously refrained from mentioning anything that had been agreed upon.

Thus an effort was made to withhold from the industry the news that an accord had been reached in committee for fear that someone might mistakenly suppose it constituted an "agreement" on something the committee had no intention of disclosing. Moreover, the industry is fully aware of the entire procedure for approval which must be pursued before any agreement on arbitration becomes binding.

Despite the committee's overcautious stand, reportorial persistence brought to light the agreement in principle, meaning only a meeting of minds of committee members, that had been reached at last week's sessions. When this fact was duly reported, it was repudiated by some committee members and the hassle among others was resumed.

The fault, if any, lies with the press policy espoused by the arbitration conference. Its sessions from the start have been closed to the press. No provision is made for interrogation of participants. A carefully censored handout is prepared for the press after the sessions and formal agreements not to talk are entered into by the participants.

What seems to rankle is that despite all these precautions, some facts manage to emerge, free of the technical colorations preferred by some.

N. Y. Times Editorially Scores U. S. 16mm. Suit

THE following editorial, entitled "TV and the Movies," appeared in the New York Times of Friday, Aug. 8. Because it presents so lucidly for public understanding of the Times' vast readership some of the fallacies of the government's ill-advised anti-trust suit to force the sale of 16 mm. films to television, MOTION PICTURE DAILY reprints the editorial in full, by special permission of the New York Times.

The Department of Justice has started an anti-trust suit against a number of Hollywood motion picture producers for the express purpose of forcing them to make their films available to television. In our opinion it is a suit born of fuzzy bureaucratic thinking that clearly flouts economic reality.

The department is asking the producers to sell to television the 16mm. duplicate prints of the 35 mm. films normally shown in the nation's picture houses. Traditionally, these prints have been shown in churches, clubs and military service camps, and the producers understandably have imposed restrictions on their use lest they

Attorney-General Given Two Weeks to Reply

TOLEDO, Aug. 10.—The attorney-general of Ohio was given two weeks within which to file a brief defending the State's censorship laws, labeled "unconstitutional" Friday by exhibitor Martin G. Smith's counsel in the Municipal Court hearing on the newsreel test case, brought about through the cooperation of the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio and the Motion Picture Association of America.

Smith, the defendant in whose Westwood Theatre here the newsreel at issue was shown, entered a plea of not guilty.

The major portion of Friday's hearing was taken up by Walton C. Ament, vice-president and general manager of Warner News, Inc., called by the defense as an expert newsreel witness. Ament on the stand outlined the history of newsreels, their

F. Myers said that an arbitration plan "may be ripe for consideration" at that time and that Allied's board of directors may seek the advice of the convention before acting on it.

Pointing out that the convention would follow the national election, Myers said it would go into plans for bringing to the attention of a new administration and a new Congress "the strange attitude of the Department of Justice toward the motion picture industry."

The convention's advisory committee will meet in Chicago Wednesday and Thursday on planning the program. On the committee are general convention chairman Jack Kirsch, Allied president Wilbur Snaper, Ben Marcus, Stanley D. Kane and Myers.

The convention will be held Nov. 17, 18 and 19 at the Morrison Hotel in Chicago, in conjunction with the TESMA trade show.

Uses Fight Theatre Telecast as Argument in Ohio Censor Case

Toledo, Aug. 10.—The new medium of theatre television highlighted the defense brief submitted Friday in Municipal Court here in the newsreel censorship test case.

The brief pointed out that the Robinson-Maxim bout was seen via theatre TV at the Albee Theatre, Cincinnati, without prior censorship or being subjected to taxation. "If the same prize-fight had been recorded on film and shown the same day or the next day in the same theatre, then the Division of Film Censorship would have insisted on licensing and collection of fees," the brief stated.

The defense also pointed out that "a film can be run in a television studio any place in the country and reproduced in every home in Ohio that has a television set and there is no attempt at censorship or taxation."

COMPO Dues Drive Gets Head Start

Advance work by sales forces in many parts of the country has given the Council of Motion Picture Organizations' drive for dues, which officially opens today and continues through the week, a substantial head start, it is learned.

So effectively was the drive organized in many exchange territories that salesmen in making their rounds last week were able to begin the collection and pledge solicitation work several days in advance of the official opening of the drive, with the result that it already has achieved considerable momentum. With the cooperation of all distribution companies, sales forces have been instructed to devote all of their time if necessary, or as much as may be required, to complete the solicitation work this week.

To Match Exhibitors

For every dollar subscribed by exhibitors, distribution will make a matching contribution to COMPO. While the bulk of the membership dues payments will help finance the all-industry campaign for repeal of the 20 per cent Federal admission tax, the drive is a general COMPO financing project, as well. Little in the way of dues payments has made its way into the COMPO treasury in recent months to finance all of the normal COMPO activities, and the national dues drive this week is being counted upon to remedy that deficiency as well as to provide financing for the industry's anti-tax effort.

With H. A. Cole of Dallas and Pat McGee of Denver, co-chairmen of the tax campaign, synchronizing their national organizing effort with COMPO headquarters here, no action has been taken to date on the long-contemplated designation of a campaign co-ordinator, a full-time paid post. Under consideration for the office have been H. M. Richey of Loew's, Paul Short of National Screen Service, Maurice Bergman of Universal and Sam Shain, public relations adviser. Unavailability of several of them has delayed a choice, it is said.

The COMPO dues plan is as follows: theatres up to 500 seats, $10 annually; 750 seats, $15; 1,000, $25; 2,500, $50; over 2,500, $100, and for drive-ins: 300-car capacity, $10 annually; 500, $15; 600, $25; over 600, $50.

To Map 'Movietime' Tours This Week

Plans for fall "Movietime, U.S.A." tours will be mapped this week in Hollywood. Top executives of the Council of Motion Picture Organizations will begin conferences there tomorrow with major studio heads on the tours. The meetings are slated to be held through Friday.

Another topic to be discussed is the COMPO campaign to repeal the 20 per cent Federal admission tax.

COMPO will be represented by Sam Pinanski and Trueman T. Rembusch, members of the governing triumvirate, and Robert J. O'Donnell, head of "Movietime, U.S.A." An alternate is expected to be named for Al Lichtman, another member of COMPO's triumvirate. Robert W. Coyne, COMPO special counsel, also will not attend.

Schimel Not Going To UNESCO Meet

Due to pressure of business affairs, Adolph Schimel, vice-president and general counsel of Universal, has called off his scheduled trip to Geneva, Switzerland, where he was to serve as U. S. delegate to the UNESCO inter-governmental conference on copyrights.

In a brief submitted by Robert P. Golden, counsel for the defense, prior censorship of newsreels was hit as a clear violation of the Federal and State contitutional guarantees of free speech and free press. The tax imposed by Ohio on motion pictures, including newsreels, was also called "unduly discriminatory."

The brief also charged that the Ohio censorship rules are "so vague and indefinite and leave so much to the judgment and discretion of the particular censors, that they cannot be upheld." It also claimed that the U. S. Supreme Court had upset the Ohio law in the "Miracle" and "Pinky" cases and asked the Ohio court to declare that the censorship of newsreels is specifically unconstitutional.

During Friday's morning court session, Municipal Court Judge Frank W. Wiley witnessed a screening of "The American Newsreel," in addition to the short trailer announcing that it had not been submitted for prior censorship. It was this newsreel which led to Smith's arrest on July 17 when he exhibited it in the Westwood Theatre.

Following the filing of a brief by Attorney-General William O'Neil, the defense is expected to be given a week within which to reply.

'IA' Convention in Tribute to DeForest

Minneapolis, Aug. 10.—The IATSE annual convention here voted to express its appreciation and commendation to Dr. Lee DeForest for his scientific developments and contributions to the motion picture industry, and for the economic strides all "IA" members have made as a result of his inventions.

'IA' Meet

cent Jacobi of New York and Charles Hathaway of Oklahoma City.

All other officers of "IA," headed by Richard Walsh, president, were reelected by acclamation, and without opposition, earlier. The contests for the fourth and sixth vice-presidencies, held by Brennan and Snow, respectively, forced a ballot for those offices which resulted in their reelection. Walsh's reelection gives him his sixth consecutive term.

Hugh J. Sedgwick, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario, Canada, Provincial Federation of Labor, was elected a vice-president to fill the vacancy created by the death of William P. Covert. Others reelected included vice-presidents Harland Holmden, Roger M. Kennedy, Carl G. Cooper, Harry J. Abbott, O. M. Jacobson and Louise Wright.

The week-long convention of 1,200 "IA" delegates adjourned at the weekend after adopting resolutions protesting production of films abroad for U. S. consumption for tax-saving purposes, or to take advantage of cheap production and labor costs, and approving an "IA" part in the industry's campaign to obtain repeal of the 20 per cent Federal amusement tax.

The convention instructed the International president to take whatever precautionary steps necessary to prevent the illegal use of the "IA" emblem, and the executive board, as well, to take necessary steps to prevent the exhibition in theatres, on television or elsewhere of films made under substandard working conditions which carry the "IA" label without being qualified or authorized to do so.

The convention referred to the International president for further consideration a proposal that the "IA" enlist in the industry fight against the government suit to force the sale of 16mm. feature films to television and other non-theatrical users. No action was taken on proposals that "IA" aid in the drive to win patronage for theatres, Walsh having expressed the informal opinion to the convention that while the union was willing to do its share, he felt that good films, good equipment and good theatres would have to provide the basic solution.

Other resolutions adopted by the convention were primarily of a political rather than trade character, meticulously adhering to the AFL political action line.

Defeat Tax Proposal

DETROIT, Aug. 10.—Voters at Ann Arbor turned out in record numbers to defeat decisively a proposal to levy a city tax on films, sports events and other forms of entertainment.

N. Y. Times Editorial

jeopardize business at theatre box-offices. Now the department demands the removal of those restraints so that the TV broadcasters can have access to Hollywood's reservoir of feature attractions.

The basic absurdity of the suit is its assumption that Hollywood not only must accommodate its chief competitor but do so on terms ruinous to itself. At its present stage of development television as a whole can afford to pay a total of about $25,000 in rental fees for a Hollywood film made some years ago, whereas showing the same film for another run in theatres may mean $200,000. To this must be added the further fact that TV does not charge the public for its shows, yet the motion picture exhibitors must ask admission fees.

By the Justice Department's line of reasoning, in short, the publisher of a best-selling novel would be obligated to make his property available to a free "throw-away" pamphlet financed by advertisements of local merchants and accept whatever remuneration the pamphlet's owner could pay. Application of the anti-trust laws must be tempered with a little more horse sense.

When television gains its full economic stature with the construction of many more stations, both the Hollywood producers and the video broadcasters will find it mutually advantageous to work out an accord. Indeed, there hardly could be a better example of the elasticity of our economy than the adjustment to the upheaval in show business brought about by television.

It is in the public interest that both TV and the motion picture industry should flourish and they must have time to learn to live together. The Department of Justice is ill-advised in prematurely trying to tip the scales to one side's advantage.

Merian Cooper Is Loaned to Cinerama

A loan arrangement has been effected by Cinerama Productions Corp. with Argosy Pictures Corp. whereby Merian C. Cooper, president of Argosy, will be loaned to Cinerama to serve as general manager in charge of all production, it was disclosed at the weekend by Lowell Thomas, Cinerama Productions' board chairman.

The loan-out, which is non-exclusive, will begin following the completion of Argosy's next production for Republic Pictures, "The Sun Shines Bright," which John Ford, Cooper's partner in Argosy, will direct beginning Aug. 18.

Cinerama Productions' first picture, "This Is Cinerama," will be shown for the first time in New York late in September. The company will probably produce at least two pictures a year, Thomas said.

Thomas explains that Cinerama Productions Corp. is an entirely separate corporation from Cinerama, Inc. Cinerama Productions was formed to produce entertainment for the Cinerama medium, while Cinerama, Inc., is an organization headed by H. E. Reeves, which controls and supplies technical guidance and materials necessary to produce motion pictures in the new medium.

Theatre patrons who buy and eat popcorn are going to be given a chance to vote in a Gallup-and-Roper type poll to predict the outcome of the nation's up-coming presidential election. To be known as the "Presidential Popcorn Poll," this new plan to boost popcorn sales will be conducted by the Blevins Popcorn Co., Popcorn Village, Nashville, with the cooperation of selected dealers and theatre circuits. Bulletins covering results of the poll week-by-week will be released to news and wire services and radio stations, direct from Popcorn Village. Local releases will feature the results at the local theatre. The company will also furnish point-of-sale material to be used to promote the idea to theatre patrons and to post results as the poll progresses.

MEMBERS of the continuations committee of the industry arbitration conference were in spirited disagreement at the close of their successful two-day meeting here last week over the weighty issue of whether or not they should use the word "agreement" in their press release to describe the meeting of minds that had been achieved.

Even though the 10-man group had reached agreement on the matters which should be incorporated in a draft, work on which is scheduled to start here next week, those opposed to so informing the press argued that there can be no agreements until the principals have approved.

The "nays" had it and their position became even more vacuous when the committee's statement to the press meticulously refrained from mentioning anything that had been agreed upon.

Thus an effort was made to withhold from the industry the news that an accord had been reached in committee for fear that someone might mistakenly suppose it constituted an "agreement" on something the committee had no intention of disclosing. Moreover, the industry is fully aware of the entire procedure for approval which must be pursued before any agreement on arbitration becomes binding.

Despite the committee's overcautious stand, reportorial persistence brought to light the agreement in principle, meaning only a meeting of minds of committee members, that had been reached at last week's sessions. When this fact was duly reported, it was repudiated by some committee members and the hassle among others was resumed.

The fault, if any, lies with the press policy espoused by the arbitration conference. Its sessions from the start have been closed to the press. No provision is made for interrogation of participants. A carefully censored handout is prepared for the press after the sessions and formal agreements not to talk are entered into by the participants.

What seems to rankle is that despite all these precautions, some facts manage to emerge, free of the technical colorations preferred by some.

N. Y. Times Editorially Scores U. S. 16mm. Suit

THE following editorial, entitled "TV and the Movies," appeared in the New York Times of Friday, Aug. 8. Because it presents so lucidly for public understanding of the Times' vast readership some of the fallacies of the government's ill-advised anti-trust suit to force the sale of 16 mm. films to television, MOTION PICTURE DAILY reprints the editorial in full, by special permission of the New York Times*.*

The Department of Justice has started an anti-trust suit against a number of Hollywood motion picture producers for the express purpose of forcing them to make their films available to television. In our opinion it is a suit born of fuzzy bureaucratic thinking that clearly flouts economic reality.

The department is asking the producers to sell to television the 16mm. duplicate prints of the 35 mm. films normally shown in the nation's picture houses. Traditionally, these prints have been shown in churches, clubs and military service camps, and the producers understandably have imposed restrictions on their use lest they

Ohio Censors Hit for Free Speech Denial

Attorney-General Given Two Weeks to Reply

TOLEDO, Aug. 10.—The attorney-general of Ohio was given two weeks within which to file a brief defending the State's censorship laws, labeled "unconstitutional" Friday by exhibitor Martin G. Smith's counsel in the Municipal Court hearing on the newsreel test case, brought about through the cooperation of the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio and the Motion Picture Association of America.

Smith, the defendant in whose Westwood Theatre here the newsreel at issue was shown, entered a plea of not guilty.

The major portion of Friday's hearing was taken up by Walton C. Ament, vice-president and general manager of Warner News, Inc., called by the defense as an expert newsreel witness. Ament on the stand outlined the history of newsreels, their

F. Myers said that an arbitration plan "may be ripe for consideration" at that time and that Allied's board of directors may seek the advice of the convention before acting on it.

Pointing out that the convention would follow the national election, Myers said it would go into plans for bringing to the attention of a new administration and a new Congress "the strange attitude of the Department of Justice toward the motion picture industry."

The convention's advisory committee will meet in Chicago Wednesday and Thursday on planning the program. On the committee are general convention chairman Jack Kirsch, Allied president Wilbur Snaper, Ben Marcus, Stanley D. Kane and Myers.

The convention will be held Nov. 17, 18 and 19 at the Morrison Hotel in Chicago, in conjunction with the TESMA trade show.

Joseph Sommer, father of Arthur Sommer, general manager of Brandt Theatres, died Friday at the age of 70. Services were held yesterday at Beth David Cemetery, Long Island.

Toledo, Aug. 10.—The new medium of theatre television highlighted the defense brief submitted Friday in Municipal Court here in the newsreel censorship test case.

The brief pointed out that the Robinson-Maxim bout was seen via theatre TV at the Albee Theatre, Cincinnati, without prior censorship or being subjected to taxation. "If the same prize-fight had been recorded on film and shown the same day or the next day in the same theatre, then the Division of Film Censorship would have insisted on licensing and collection of fees," the brief stated.

The defense also pointed out that "a film can be run in a television studio any place in the country and reproduced in every home in Ohio that has a television set and there is no attempt at censorship or taxation."

COMPO Dues Drive Gets Head Start

Advance work by sales forces in many parts of the country has given the Council of Motion Picture Organizations' drive for dues, which officially opens today and continues through the week, a substantial head start, it is learned.

So effectively was the drive organized in many exchange territories that salesmen in making their rounds last week were able to begin the collection and pledge solicitation work several days in advance of the official opening of the drive, with the result that it already has achieved considerable momentum. With the cooperation of all distribution companies, sales forces have been instructed to devote all of their time if necessary, or as much as may be required, to complete the solicitation work this week.

To Match Exhibitors

For every dollar subscribed by exhibitors, distribution will make a matching contribution to COMPO. While the bulk of the membership dues payments will help finance the all-industry campaign for repeal of the 20 per cent Federal admission tax, the drive is a general COMPO financing project, as well. Little in the way of dues payments has made its way into the COMPO treasury in recent months to finance all of the normal COMPO activities, and the national dues drive this week is being counted upon to remedy that deficiency as well as to provide financing for the industry's anti-tax effort.

With H. A. Cole of Dallas and Pat McGee of Denver, co-chairmen of the tax campaign, synchronizing their national organizing effort with COMPO headquarters here, no action has been taken to date on the long-contemplated designation of a campaign co-ordinator, a full-time paid post. Under consideration for the office have been H. M. Richey of Loew's, Paul Short of National Screen Service, Maurice Bergman of Universal and Sam Shain, public relations adviser. Unavailability of several of them has delayed a choice, it is said.

The COMPO dues plan is as follows: theatres up to 500 seats, $10 annually; 750 seats, $15; 1,000, $25; 2,500, $50; over 2,500, $100, and for drive-ins: 300-car capacity, $10 annually; 500, $15; 600, $25; over 600, $50.

To Map 'Movietime' Tours This Week

Plans for fall "Movietime, U.S.A." tours will be mapped this week in Hollywood. Top executives of the Council of Motion Picture Organizations will begin conferences there tomorrow with major studio heads on the tours. The meetings are slated to be held through Friday.

Another topic to be discussed is the COMPO campaign to repeal the 20 per cent Federal admission tax.

COMPO will be represented by Sam Pinanski and Trueman T. Rembusch, members of the governing triumvirate, and Robert J. O'Donnell, head of "Movietime, U.S.A." An alternate is expected to be named for Al Lichtman, another member of COMPO's triumvirate. Robert W. Coyne, COMPO special counsel, also will not attend.

Schimel Not Going To UNESCO Meet

Due to pressure of business affairs, Adolph Schimel, vice-president and general counsel of Universal, has called off his scheduled trip to Geneva, Switzerland, where he was to serve as U. S. delegate to the UNESCO inter-governmental conference on copyrights.

SWG to Hold ATFP Strike Rally Tonight

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10.—The Screen Writers Guild has completed plans for a rally tomorrow night for the strike against the Alliance of Television Film Producers. At the rally the SWG will formally propose an assessment of one per cent on the salaries of its members working in motion picture studios to finance the strike.

Heineman Drive Rounds 1st Lap

United Artists' Dallas, New Orleans and Montreal exchanges have taken first-prize money in the first six-week lap of the company's "Bill Heineman Sales Drive," winning against exchange groups into which all branches have been classified, it was announced by vice-president Max E. Youngstein, who is drive captain.

There will be two additional laps, one running six weeks and the other seven, all in honor of William J. Heineman, UA's distribution vice-president.

Hit Ohio Censors

In a brief submitted by Robert P. Golden, counsel for the defense, prior censorship of newsreels was hit as a clear violation of the Federal and State contitutional guarantees of free speech and free press. The tax imposed by Ohio on motion pictures, including newsreels, was also called "unduly discriminatory."

The brief also charged that the Ohio censorship rules are "so vague and indefinite and leave so much to the judgment and discretion of the particular censors, that they cannot be upheld." It also claimed that the U. S. Supreme Court had upset the Ohio law in the "Miracle" and "Pinky" cases and asked the Ohio court to declare that the censorship of newsreels is specifically unconstitutional.

During Friday's morning court session, Municipal Court Judge Frank W. Wiley witnessed a screening of "The American Newsreel," in addition to the short trailer announcing that it had not been submitted for prior censorship. It was this newsreel which led to Smith's arrest on July 17 when he exhibited it in the Westwood Theatre.

Following the filing of a brief by Attorney-General William O'Neil, the defense is expected to be given a week within which to reply.

Stars must be glamorous — always

• Everybody loves the star. She's the darling of the box office . . . the apple of the producer's eye. Her glamour is everybody's good fortune— an inspiration to writers, directors, cameramen— a responsibility to technicians.

In the studio, technicians frequently collaborate with representatives of the Eastman Technical Service for Motion Picture Film . . . consider the best type of film, black-and-white or color, to use . . . to set control systems for the laboratory that assure standards of high image quality. 'IA' Convention in Tribute to DeForest cent Jacobi of New York and Charles Hathaway of Oklahoma City.

All other officers of "IA," headed by Richard Walsh, president, were reelected by acclamation, and without opposition, earlier. The contests for the fourth and sixth vice-presidencies, held by Brennan and Snow, respectively, forced a ballot for those offices which resulted in their reelection. Walsh's reelection gives him his sixth consecutive term.

Hugh J. Sedgwick, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario, Canada, Provincial Federation of Labor, was elected a vice-president to fill the vacancy created by the death of William P. Covert. Others reelected included vice-presidents Harland Holmden, Roger M. Kennedy, Carl G. Cooper, Harry J. Abbott, O. M. Jacobson and Louise Wright.

The week-long convention of 1,200 "IA" delegates adjourned at the weekend after adopting resolutions protesting production of films abroad for U. S. consumption for tax-saving purposes, or to take advantage of cheap production and labor costs, and approving an "IA" part in the industry's campaign to obtain repeal of the 20 per cent Federal amusement tax.

The convention instructed the International president to take whatever precautionary steps necessary to prevent the illegal use of the "IA" emblem, and the executive board, as well, to take necessary steps to prevent the exhibition in theatres, on television or elsewhere of films made under substandard working conditions which carry the "IA" label without being qualified or authorized to do so.

The convention referred to the International president for further consideration a proposal that the "IA" enlist in the industry fight against the government suit to force the sale of 16mm. feature films to television and other non-theatrical users. No action was taken on proposals that "IA" aid in the drive to win patronage for theatres, Walsh having expressed the informal opinion to the convention that while the union was willing to do its share, he felt that good films, good equipment and good theatres would have to provide the basic solution.

Other resolutions adopted by the convention were primarily of a political rather than trade character, meticulously adhering to the AFL political action line.

Defeat Tax Proposal

DETROIT, Aug. 10.—Voters at Ann Arbor turned out in record numbers to defeat decisively a proposal to levy a city tax on films, sports events and other forms of entertainment.

N. Y. Times Editorial

jeopardize business at theatre box-offices. Now the department demands the removal of those restraints so that the TV broadcasters can have access to Hollywood's reservoir of feature attractions.

The basic absurdity of the suit is its assumption that Hollywood not only must accommodate its chief competitor but do so on terms ruinous to itself. At its present stage of development television as a whole can afford to pay a total of about $25,000 in rental fees for a Hollywood film made some years ago, whereas showing the same film for another run in theatres may mean $200,000. To this must be added the further fact that TV does not charge the public for its shows, yet the motion picture exhibitors must ask admission fees.

By the Justice Department's line of reasoning, in short, the publisher of a best-selling novel would be obligated to make his property available to a free "throw-away" pamphlet financed by advertisements of local merchants and accept whatever remuneration the pamphlet's owner could pay. Application of the anti-trust laws must be tempered with a little more horse sense.

When television gains its full economic stature with the construction of many more stations, both the Hollywood producers and the video broadcasters will find it mutually advantageous to work out an accord. Indeed, there hardly could be a better example of the elasticity of our economy than the adjustment to the upheaval in show business brought about by television.

It is in the public interest that both TV and the motion picture industry should flourish and they must have time to learn to live together. The Department of Justice is ill-advised in prematurely trying to tip the scales to one side's advantage.

Merian Cooper Is Loaned to Cinerama

A loan arrangement has been effected by Cinerama Productions Corp. with Argosy Pictures Corp. whereby Merian C. Cooper, president of Argosy, will be loaned to Cinerama to serve as general manager in charge of all production, it was disclosed at the weekend by Lowell Thomas, Cinerama Productions' board chairman.

The loan-out, which is non-exclusive, will begin following the completion of Argosy's next production for Republic Pictures, "The Sun Shines Bright," which John Ford, Cooper's partner in Argosy, will direct beginning Aug. 18.

Cinerama Productions' first picture, "This Is Cinerama," will be shown for the first time in New York late in September. The company will probably produce at least two pictures a year, Thomas said.

Thomas explains that Cinerama Productions Corp. is an entirely separate corporation from Cinerama, Inc. Cinerama Productions was formed to produce entertainment for the Cinerama medium, while Cinerama, Inc., is an organization headed by H. E. Reeves, which controls and supplies technical guidance and materials necessary to produce motion pictures in the new medium.

Theatre patrons who buy and eat popcorn are going to be given a chance to vote in a Gallup-and-Roper type poll to predict the outcome of the nation's up-coming presidential election. To be known as the "Presidential Popcorn Poll," this new plan to boost popcorn sales will be conducted by the Blevins Popcorn Co., Popcorn Village, Nashville, with the cooperation of selected dealers and theatre circuits. Bulletins covering results of the poll week-by-week will be released to news and wire services and radio stations, direct from Popcorn Village. Local releases will feature the results at the local theatre. The company will also furnish point-of-sale material to be used to promote the idea to theatre patrons and to post results as the poll progresses.

A popcorn test kit designed to provide an accurate analysis of a representative sample of raw popcorn shipments has been announced by the National Association of Popcorn Manufacturers. It was developed as part of an industry program to set up sanitary standards of acceptance. The kit contains chemicals and equipment with complete instructions for use.

Rains Swell Coffers of NY 1st-Runs

'Ivanhoe,' 'Jacks,' 'Fear,' 'Dreamboat' Lead Parade

Rains over the weekend swelled box-office grosses of New York first-run theatres, sending the summer business spiral climbing to sturdy heights.

Exceptionally good product along Broadway was also credited for the lively upswing, which saw thousands of New Yorkers, confined by the weather to the city, flock to theatres.

Outstanding business was done by such films as "Ivanhoe," "Dreamboat," "Sudden Fear," and "Jumping Jacks."

A smash opening week of $66,000 was forecast for "Sudden Fear" at Loew's State. At Radio City Music Hall, a terrific $175,000 was seen for the second week of "Ivanhoe," aided by the Hall's regular stage show. The Hall's second week forecast about equals the business done in the non-

Belittles TV As 'Movie' Competitor

The TV industry estimates that between 50 and 70 per cent of all TV shows will eventually be on film—perhaps by next spring, the current issue of Newsweek reports.

Commenting on the quality of summer TV fare, Newsweek says: "So far the season has not seen one filmed 'sleeper,' not one new show that can keep people out of movie houses."

Hollywood, the article points out, has the best chance of becoming the center of TV film production in the future.

See $4-Million House In 'Frisco for FWC

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.— Fox West Coast Theatres plans to build a $4,000,000 theatre on the site adjoining Loew's Warfield here, which is now occupied by the 325-seat Fox-operated Cinema Theatre it was disclosed by Edward D. Keil, the company's attorney.

The proposal came out during a discussion of a lease-purchase arrangement which FWC president Charles Skouras will broach to the city later this month for the Fox Theatre.

'U' Reveals Provisions of Rackmil, Blumberg Pacts

Milton R. Rackmil's contract as president of Universal is for seven years beginning last July 15 at a salary of $1,538.50 per week, the company has informed the Securities & Exchange Commission. The amended employment agreement of Nate J. Blumberg, who recently resigned as president to become board chairman, covers a period of eight-and-a-half-years at compensation of $1,500 per week from last July 15 to Dec. 31, 1955, and $1,000 per week from Jan. 1, 1956, to Dec. 31, 1960, when the contract will expire, the SEC also was informed.

Blumberg's agreement, which amends a long-term contract dated July 1, 1950, specifies that it is subject to approval by the stockholders of Universal not later than the next annual meeting, which is scheduled for March 11, 1953.

Both Rackmil and Blumberg are given virtual carte blanche with respect to traveling, entertainment and

The Motion Picture Association of America indicated here yesterday that it was making plans to win reinstatement of motion pictures on Brazil's list of "essential" imports. Joaquin Rickard, MPAA representative in Latin America, arrived here at the weekend from Rio de Janeiro for conferences with John G. McCarthy, MPAA international division chief.

Press dispatches from Rio de Janeiro disclosed that Brazil has dropped motion pictures from the list of "essential" imports for which import licenses will be granted. United States newsreels ceased coming in here seven months ago, and this new move, if unchanged, will mean the complete disappearance of United States films from Brazilian screens.

The dispatches stated further that United States motion-picture officials here are more worried about the stoppage than about the lack of newsreels, on which they did not expect to make much profit anyway, but from the general point of view of the United States the absence of newsreels is really more important.

The reason for the stoppage of import licenses was not given by the government, but it is believed to be part of its constantly intensified protectionist policy. A United States motion-picture executive said today it was not calculated to conserve Brazil's scanty supply of dollars because movie companies have never pressed for liquidation of their balances here when dollars were unavailable.

There is reason to believe it is the beginning of an effort to force them to have their prints made here to give work to Brazilian laboratories, but that has been tried in the past and dropped because the work of the local laboratories was unsatisfactory.

Import licenses already issued will cover the normal importation of films for the next couple of months, but unless some new agreement is reached before that the entry of United States pictures will halt.

Praise Murphy for Texas Legion Talk

DALLAS, Aug. 11.—George Murphy was credited with engendering a "greater affinity between the American Legion and the (motion picture) industry" by his message to the Legion's state convention here in which he denounced Communism.

Praise for Murphy's address at the weekend came from William C. McCraw, executive director of Variety International, chairman of the Texas Council of Motion Picture Organizations' speakers bureau and past department commander of the Legion. McCraw's commendation was seconded by G. Ward Moody who commented, "we are deeply indebted to Mr. Murphy for expressing his views against Communism . . . they parallel the attitude taken by the Legion."

Other favorable comments came from Robert J. O'Donnell and Col. H. A. Cole, co-chairmen of Texas COMPO.

Equipment Makers May Set Allotments

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The National Production Authority has acted to permit manufacturers of theatre and film equipment and other "B" products to calculate their own allotments and write priorities for them without applying to the government.

The change will take place beginning with the first quarter of 1953. Any manufacturer who got a third quarter allotment of steel, copper and aluminum from the NPA may automatically allot himself, starting with the first three months of next year, up to 100 per cent of his third quarter allotment of copper and aluminum, providing this does not exceed 40,000 pounds of copper and 60,000 pounds of aluminum, and up to 60 per cent of the third quarter steel allotment, providing this does not exceed 500 tons of carbon steel, 90 tons of alloy steel and 10,000 pounds of nickel-bearing stainless steel.

Firms without third quarter allotments may self-authorize purchase orders up to 25 tons of carbon steel, one ton of alloy steel, 500 pounds of nickel-bearing stainless, 10,000 pounds of copper and 20,000 pounds of aluminum. Other firms must apply to the NPA for allotments.

Meinhardt and Perse To Aid Joint Appeal

Ira Meinhardt, of Film Carriers, has accepted the chairmanship of the film delivery division of the industry's drive on behalf of the Joint Defense Appeal, and Benjamin Perse, of Capitol Motion Picture Supply Corp., will serve in a similar capacity in the equipment supply division, it was announced by Leon Goldberg, of Universal Pictures, and Edward L. Fabian, of Fabian Theatres Corp., co-chairmen of the industry-wide JDA campaign.

4 Stage Attractions Set for Reade Houses

Booking of the new Slavenska-Franklin Ballet Co. for its New Jersey and New York theatres in October was announced by Walter Reade Theatres, giving the circuit a lineup of for stage attractions for its motion picture theatres this fall and early winter.

The circuit will lead off with the Theatre Guild's production of "Oklahoma" in early September, follow it in late September with "Mr. Roberts," the ballet in October, and the Trapp Family Singers in December.

St. Paul Cooperative Is Successful

Minneapolis, Aug. 11.—Box-office receipts at five independently owned neighborhood houses in St. Paul skyrocketed when a new program policy was tried out for the first time and was so successful that it will continue on a permanent basis.

The five subsequents combined their resources and launched a program offering to the public a first-run double feature show, and used cooperative newspaper advertising to announce the policy, the features and the names of the theatres participating. The five are: Astor, Dale, Hollywood, Mounds and Royal.

Yorke to Preside at Little League Meet

Motion picture, radio and television executives and trade press representatives, along with sports writers, and others, will attend a luncheon-meeting at Toots Shor's here on Friday to launch plans for the forthcoming annual Little League baseball world series to be played at Williamsport, Pa.

Emerson Yorke, official league film, radio and TV co-ordinator, will preside at the luncheon.

Weinberg Titles 3

Herman G. Weinberg has completed the English titles for three new films, from Sweden, France and Italy, for release in the U.S. this autumn. They are: "One Summer of Happiness," a Times Film Corp., release, from Sweden, a prize-winner at the recent Cannes Film Festival; "The French Way," a Manor Films release, from France, starring Josephine Baker, and "Rome, 11 O'Clock," an AFE release from Italy.

RKO Theatres Gets Two Former Houses

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The Department of Justice has agreed to permit RKO Theatres to reacquire temporarily two divested theatres in Cincinnati.

The theatres—the Capitol and the Shubert—were sold under the RKO consent decree some time ago. However, the two principal purchasers have died and their estates have notified RKO Theatres that they cannot carry out the purchase contract nor pay rent, according to Justice officials. As a result, RKO Theatres is under "tremendous contingent liabilities," according to Justice, and so the government has agreed to let RKO take back the two theatres subject to a requirement that they must be divested again within six months.

The Justice Department also revealed it had notified RKO Theatres that the government has no objection to the company's selling its stock in a third Cincinnati theatre, the Times. The company has held an interest in the theatre with another firm, Gift, Inc., and had agreed to sell its interest providing the government agreed.

Services Today for Walter T. Freeman

BOSTON, Aug. 11.—Funeral services for Walter T. Freeman, 54, stage manager at the RKO Boston Theatre for the past five years and for 35 years associated with theatres, will be held with a Solemn High Mass of Requiem at St. Ann's Church in Manchester, New Hampshire, tomorrow.

Freeman, who died Friday, is survived by three brothers and two sisters, all of Manchester.

Cleve. Houses Hike Price

CLEVELAND, Aug. 11.—Theatres located on the west side are trying out a policy of a 5 cent advance in price for children and juniors. New scale is 15 cents for children and 35 cents for juniors. Adult admission is held to 50 cents. Theatres experimenting with the boost are the Fairview, Riverside, Beachcliffe, Hilliard Square, Homestead and Granada.

File Baltimore Suit

Warner Brothers Pictures Distributing Corp., Paramount Film Distributing Co., Universal and United Artists. Three other Warner Companies are named also—Warner Brothers Theatres, WB Pictures, and WB Circuit Management Corp.

The suit charges that from 1943 to 1948 the distributor defendants conspired with each other and affiliated exhibitors in favor of affiliated theatres, and that the effect of the conspiracy was to exclude from first-run competition in Baltimore any of the pictures distributed by the defendants. The best first-run Loew's films, the complaint said, went to the Century and the Valencia theatres, both owned 50 per cent by Loew's and 50 per cent by United Artists Theatre Circuit. The best Warner films went to the Stanley, a Warner theatre, the complaint charged. For a period of time half of the best Paramount films went to the Stanley and half of the best Universal films to the Century and Valencia, the complaint charged.

The complaint said that from 1947 to 1951 the Town and the Hippodrome were forced to exhibit inferior films, while "by far the larger number of leading box-office attractions each year were made available to theatres operated by Loew's and Warner Brothers. During this period, the complaint alleges, the Hippodrome's business was reduced about 57 per cent and it earned some $500,000 less than it would have earned if given a normal supply of product. Also during those years, the complaint continued, both theatres operated at a loss of more than $240,000.

The Hippodrome was forced to close for two months in the summer of 1950 and for three months in the summer of 1951, the complaint went on, due to lack of product. In April, 1952, the theatre was damaged by fire, and since there was not sufficient capital to pay for repairs it is still closed, the complaint alleged.

The complaint also declared that the Town Theatre was not permitted to compete with all first-run theatres for some of the distributors' films. It added, however, that the defendants will not disclose the terms of winning bids and that therefore, the Town does not know which, if any theatres are bidding against it. Unless it is given an opportunity to inspect the bids made by the Valencia, Century and the Stanley, the complaint says, the Town is "threatened with irreparable inury from continued secret discrimination."

Truman to Decide On Arnall Shortly

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The resignation of Ellis Arnall as Price Administrator is reported to be on President Truman's desk, with a Presidential decision as to whether or not to accept it due later this week.

Arnall reportedly made his resignation effective Sept. 1, to give the President time to find a replacement. If his resignation is accepted, as is likely, he might take a brief vacation before returning to his duties as head of the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers, according to friends here.

Albany in Tax Meet

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 11.—"Talk the the COMPO amusement tax repeal drive to every account you visit this week; get him to make a donation of not less than $10 or to sign a pledge card and transfer it to the account's favorite salesman," Leo Greenfield, distributor chairman, urged today at a meeting in the 20th Century-Fox projection room.

The salesmen and branch managers voted, after a discussion, to accept $10 in installments, but not to take less, from very small and part-time theatre operations. MGM was reported to have collected the most pledges to date.

Bogeaus to Reorganize

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11.—Benedict Bogeaus Pictures, Inc., today filed a voluntary petition in Federal Court here for reorganization under Chapter 11, Bankruptcy Act. Petition showed liabilities $221,117; assets $529,000.

City Theatre to Mathews

BERGHOLZ, O., Aug. 11.—The City Theatre, closed all summer, has been taken over by Jerry Mathews who also has the Port Theatre at Freeport, and is operating it on a full-time basis.

Estimate $4-Million Gross for 'Fear'

On the basis of first grosses reported on Joseph Kaufman's "Sudden Fear," RKO Radio officials here are estimating a gross of between four and five million dollars on the Joan Crawford starrer.

First four days at Loew's State, New York, including the weekend, saw the picture take in over $45,000, to give the theatre its best business in three years, it was said. Executives look for a gross of better than $66,000 for the first week. The picture is also doing top business in out-of-town engagements, they added. At the Palace, Cleveland, with a big weekend, it took in $12,400 in four days, and will do about $18,000 in its first week. The Apollo, Atlantic City, reports over $9,000 for the weekend, with the picture grossing 75 per cent of major "A" product in recent months. The Casino in Wildwood, N. J., reported a take of $6,000 from Thursday through Sunday, for the biggest gross in the history of the theatres, it was said.

Silver to Preside

Pennsylvania, all of West Virginia and Ohio, and Southwestern New York. The drive is described as the most ambitious business promotion planned by the circuit on anything but a national level.

Guest speakers will include Jerry Pickman, Paramount advertising-publicity vice-president; Sterling Silliphant, Eastern publicity manager for 20th Century-Fox, and Mike Simons, M-G-M industry relations executive. Harry Kalmine, Ben Wirth and Harry Goldberg will attend from the home office.

The drive will run from Sept. 1 to Nov. 29 and will feature $3,500 in prizes for managers and tieups, special promotions and giveaways to the public ranging all the way from automobiles to a house and lot with a car in a garage and furniture.

At the Roxy, which also features a stage show, the third week of "Dreamboat" is expected to top the healthy grosses experienced in the first two weeks. Over the weekend, the film did a big $62,000, topping the weekend take of the initial stanza. For the third week, a robust $106,000 is estimated. "Dreamboat" will be held for another week, pushing back the opening day of "What Price Glory" to Aug. 22.

Another high grosser which will be held over is "Jumping Jacks" at the Paramount, which headlines Don Cornell on stage. For the third week, a brisk $95,000 is forecast.

At the Victoria, a fine $35,000 is due for the second round of "Affairs of State," while at the Mayfair a sturdy $39,000 is seen for 'High Noon.'

Also doing fine is "Story of Robin Hood" at the Criterion, where $21,000 is estimated for the seventh week. The final round of "Don't Bother to Knock" at the Globe is expected to hit a nice $14,500 for the fourth week. "Francis Goes to West Point" bows there on Friday.

"Carrie" at the Capitol is doing well, with $28,000 seen for the fourth stanza. The gross of "The Story of Will Rogers" at the Astor is expected to climb in the current fourth week, with a solid $17,000 estimated.

"King Kong," reissue, returned to the RKO Palace, giving that house the best business since May of 1949, with the exception of a two-a-day interlude. On the basis of a terrific $22,300 over the weekend, a big $37,000 for the initial and only week is forecast. "Son of Ali Baba" will have its premiere there Friday.

Rivoli Reopening

The Rivoli, shuttered at the advent of summer, will reopen Thursday with "Les Miserables."

Among off-Broadway houses, a fine $7,200 is indicated for the 19th week of "The Man in the White Suit" at the Sutton. Another hold-over doing good business is "Encore" at the Normandie, where $6,200 is seen for the 19th stanza.

"Ivory Hunter" will open Monday at the Trans-Lux 52nd Street, replacing "High Treason." For the week which ended Sunday, the 12th session, a fairly good $3,500 was registered by "High Treason." The seventh and final week of "Island Rescue" at the Park Avenue is expected to hit a nice $4,200. "Brandy for the Parson" will have its premiere there on Saturday.

'Paleface' to N. Y. Paramount

"Son of Paleface," musical Western comedy starring Bob Hope, Jane Russell and Roy Rogers and his horse, Trigger, has been booked by the Paramount Theatre here for early fall, it was jointly announced yesterday by the management of the theatre and Paramount Pictures. The picture also marks the debut of Rogers in a non-formula Western. It is his 89th film, and his first with color by Technicolor.

'Jacks' in $28,000 Week

BOSTON, August 11.—Paramount's "Jumping Jacks," starring Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, ended its second week at the Metropolitan Theatre here with a gross of $28,000. First week's gross was $48,000.

Bregstein Sets 7 for Release

Seven features, including several of foreign origin, will be released nationally during 1952-1953 by Herbert Bregstein, West Coast film distributor, he disclosed.

Bregstein, who recently joined with Peter Horner to organize Union Film Distributors, which will handle the releases in New York, will shuttle between California and New York to supervise distribution.

Include Richardson Film

The pictures include a Ralph Richardson starrer, "Secret Flight," and "Affairs of A Model," Swedish production, now at the Rialto. The remaining five are Alexander Brothers productions: "Seven Ravens," a feature-length puppet film based on a Grimm fairy tale; "The Villain Still Pursued Her," starring Hugh Herbert, Anita Louise, Alan Mowbray and Buster Keaton; "Amazon Quest," starring Tom Neal; "Pimpernel Smith," the last production in which the late Leslie Howard starred, and "One of Our Aircraft Is Missing," a Powell-Presburger war film.

While the Bregstein distribution units will supervise the California and New York releases, the films also will be released in Boston by Ruff and Farber; in Detroit and Milwaukee by Albert Dezell; in Indianapolis and Cincinnati by Edward Salzberg, in Washington by Equity Films and in Dallas by Tower Pictures. Bregstein's California unit is Beverly Pictures Corp.

Rackmil, Blumberg

other business expenses for the duration of their contracts.

The SEC was apprised also of a new one-year employment agreement signed with David Lipton, national director of Universal advertising-publicity. Dated Jan. 1, 1952, Lipton's contract stipulates a salary of $900 per week, and specifies that in addition to his services under it the company "shall own and you hereby sell, assign, grant, transfer and set over to us all rights of every kind in and to all of the results and proceeds of your services hereunder."

Rackmil, under his agreement, is to act as the chief executive officer of Universal and have general supervision of the business and affairs of the company and its subsidiaries. Rackmil continues as president of Decca Records. It has not yet been indicated officially whether any change has been made in the salary he receives from that company.

Rackmil's Universal pact states that he shall not directly or indirectly be interested in or be connected or concerned with any competitive business or pursuit during the term of his employment, except that he may serve as officer or consultant to Decca and its subsidiaries or for "not more than one-third of his business time."

Rackmil also "may continue to hold any directorship, trusteeship or executorship which he now has but he shall not, without first obtaining the consent of the Universal board, assume any new obligations in any such capacity, except such additional directorships of subsidiaries and affiliates of Decca as shall be appropriate to his continuing relationship with that company."

Blumberg agreed that only until Dec. 31, 1955, would he not become an officer, director or employee of any person, firm or corporation engaged in any competitive business. The same limitation is put on his having financial interest in competitive enterprises, but all restrictions listed would automatically terminate in the event of the failure of the stockholders to continue Blumberg as a director or in the event of the failure of the board to continue him in office as its chairman. Blumberg may, however, acquire and own interests in the securities of any companies listed or traded on any public stock exchanges. Should Blumberg elect not to continue as a director or board chairman, however, he would not be relieved of the restrictions under the agreement.

Blumberg, who will headquarter in California, is entitled under the pact to offices on both coasts, and may use his discretion as to how, when and where he shall spend his time in behalf of the company. He also is entitled to warrants or options to purchase company securities comparable to those granted "the most favored officer."

Both Rackmil and Blumberg were granted 31-day vacations annually, and the vacation of either may be cumulative from year to year.

Provision for reduced salary payments is made for both executives in the event of prolonged illnesses. The services of both are described in the contracts as "special, unique, unusual, extraordinary and intellectual character, which give them peculiar value." Breach of contract by Rackmil would entitle Universal to injunctive and other equitable relief, and breach by Blumberg would have to be taken to arbitration in accordance with American Arbitration Association rules.

Until the stockholders' approval of his new contract is given, Blumberg's July 1, 1950, pact "shall continue in full force and effect."

Provision is made under the new agreements for salary payments to survivors of Rackmil and Blumberg in event of death. The latter's agreement stipulates that he "shall act in a consultative and advisory capacity to the directors and officers of Universal and its subsidiaries on a non-exclusive basis."

MPA-Legion

Reds which led to the picketing of individual pictures by Legion members in several sections of the country.

Wilson and O'Neill also were the two Legion officials who met with the MPAA executive committee in Washington last March 31 to discuss the Legion's charges against Hollywood. The meeting led to approximately 200 studio people being apprised by their employers of the Legion's suspicions regarding their personal records and activities, and their being given an opportunity to answer them. As a result, all but a relatively few are reported to have offered explanations adequate to clear them of suspicion of Communist membership or sympathies.

The Legion had accused Hollywood studios of failing to take a determined stand in eliminating suspected Communists from studio payrolls. The actual facts and the action taken in recent months to discredit the Legion's charges would appear to leave no basis for any justified report critical of the industry to the Legion convention, observers believe.

Last week, the 53rd National Encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Los Angeles adopted a resolution which warmly commended the industry for its fight against Communism.

'Holders Sue to Void Mayer Settlement

A second stockholder action was filed in U. S. District Court here yesterday to secure the negation of Loew's $2,750,000 settlement with Louis B. Mayer, upon his resignation as M-G-M production vice-president, for the residual rights in his contract with the company. Instituted by Daisy Dietsch, who owns 25 shares of Loew's stock, and Frank and Margaret McMullin, who own 150 shares, the new derivative action in behalf of Loew's names Mayer, Nicholas M. Schenck, president, and top directors of the company.

Like another action filed a few months ago by a holding corporation, the Dietsch-McMullin suit charges that the settlement was a violation of the Securities and Exchange Act of 1934.

bestowed upon individuals whose efforts and achievements constitute a milestone in the industry. Siegel, in his announcement, stated that the Screen Producers Guild was doubly fortunate in being able to honor Mayer for he has been the industry leader who more than any other person has been responsible for the establishment of the creative producer system as it exists today.

Mayer's selection, it was said, honors a pioneer whose background includes experience beginning in 1907 as an exchange man, a theatre operator, an independent producer, and his tenure for a quarter of a century as head of the M-G-M studios.

not be represented at the meeting since both Wilbur Snaper, president, and Abram F. Myers, general counsel, were scheduled to be in Chicago tomorrow for an Allied convention planning conference. Myers has his headquarters in the nation's capital.

On July 28, MOTION PICTURE DAILY reported that the belief was widespread in the industry here at that time that the defendants in the government's suit soon would attempt to persuade Congressmen and perhaps Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer, and other Federal officials, of the "injustice" of the action. TOA, while cited as a co-conspirator in the government's complaint, was not listed as a defendant. Whether any of the 12 defendats, including major producer-distributors, would be represented at the meeting tomorrow either in person or by proxy was not determinable yesterday.

The government's suit, filed July 22 in Los Angeles, is designed to force the sale of 16mm. films to TV and other outlets in competition to regular theatres.

The TOA delegates to the parley are expected to include Mitchell Wolfson, president; Gael Sullivan, executive director, and Herman M. Levy, general counsel. MMPTA is expected to be represented by S. H. Fabian and Emanuel Frisch.

SWG Strike Against ATFP Under Way

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11.—For the first time in its 16-year history, the Screen Writers Guild has gone on strike. Today the 6,000 members of the Guild struck the Alliance of Television Film Producers, a group that includes 13 of the largest TV film producers in Hollywood.

The strike was called after the breakdown of nine months of negotiations between the writers and the Alliance which refused to discuss the Guild's demands including: Minimum advance payments against a percentage of gross revenue to be paid after the producer has recouped his budgeted negative cost; leasing rather than an outright sale of material, with the leases being on a seven-year renewable basis; and reservation of the writer's rights, meaning that a writer working in television retains all but his television rights and that other rights must be acquired separately.

We've just finished reading a most interesting booklet (53 pages) titled, "Handbook of Motion Picture Technique for Business Men," written by Charles Curran, prexy of Times Square Productions. The first line which we quote reveals the purpose of the author. "If you're thinking of making films, the purpose of this handbook is to take some of the mystery and hocus-pocus out of motion picture production so that the businessman will have a better understanding of what can and what cannot be done and how best to do it in this ever expanding field."

The author utilizes graphs, charts and illustrations to fine advantage, defining technical terms in language understandable by the layman. To this observer, everyone interested in film making, theatrical, non-theatrical, TV, commercial or industrial, should obtain a copy of this handbook.

Showmen Figure in TV Applications

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. — Three Denver television station applications involving industry interests have been set for hearings on Oct. 1, the Federal Communications Commission has announced.

They are the Denver Television Co., Aladdin Radio and Television Co. and Metropolitan Television Co. Denver Television Co. is controlled by Harris and John Wolfberg, Denver exhibitors. Aladdin is controlled by Frank H. Ricketson, Jr., president of Fox Intermountain Theatres, and Harry Huffman, retired city manager of Fox Intermountain. Bob Hope is the principal stockholder in Metropolitan.

The FCC also set for hearing on the same date television applications in Portland, Ore., Canton, O. and Waterbury, Conn.

Kallet May Bid for Buffalo TV Station

BUFFALO, Aug. 11.—Myron J. Kallet of Oneida, N. Y., president of Kallet Theatres, Inc., a circuit of about 40 theatres, and head of Copper City Broadcasting Corp., which owns and operates station WKTV on channel No. 13 in Utica, heads a group "investigating" the possibility of competing for one of the additional television channels assigned to Buffalo.

In addition to Kallet, the group includes W. T. McNeilly of Oneida, associated with Kallet. McNeilly declares that the group is "strongly considering" Buffalo as "a likely location" for which to apply for a TV channel. He said the group is conducting engineering and other surveys for the station. Three other cities also are being considered, he said.

68 Features Sold to Television by PSI

Sale of a package of 68 features to seven new TV markets by PSI-TV, Inc., producers and distributors of television film programming, was revealed by Andrew Jaeger, vice-president. Total new business from these markets is in excess of $150,000, he said.

Jaeger left here yesterday for a sales swing through the Mid West where he will visit all TV stations in the area.

* Pictures featured in M. P. Daily advertised during past 6 weeks

The Vital Spark that ignites the interest of exhibitors for specific pictures, so that it can flame into that enthusiasm which inspires real showmanship, is a soundly planned program of trade advertising. Without that, no exhibitor can be blamed for lacking in excitement over pictures which are offered to him virtually "cold".

It is obvious that the extent of a distributor's confidence in product he has available is generally indicated by either the telling—or lack of telling about it—in trade paper messages.

There never was a greater need for good product. There never was a greater interest among exhibitors to know about the product they should plan to obtain and exploit. There never was a keener readership of trade paper messages.

Requisites for successful motion picture trade paper advertising of good product are: (1) Start it soon enough; (2) Make it effectively proclaim the box-office values of the picture; (3) Publish a sufficient continuity of sales messages to impress and remind.

Soundly planned trade advertising is the basic telling that leads to successful selling. Its cost is dimes that bring dollars. It is the vital spark for the power that produces greatest results!

Mr. Exhibitor:

IF YOU are performing copyrighted music in your theatre by means of recordings, you will want to obtain the license necessary for your protection. ASCAP music on the films exhibited in theatres is cleared through the motion picture producer or distributor. This, of course, does not give you the right to perform ASCAP music by any other means.

An ASCAP license gives you the right to perform the finest music available for the entertainment of your patrons—the works of over 2,500 composers and authors and 350 publishing firms—in a single package.

ASCAP is making its license for non-film uses available to the theatre industry, both for four-wall theatres and drive-ins, at a very low fee.

An ASCAP representative will visit you in the near future to give you complete information concerning an ASCAP license and the rate for your theatre.

Rains Swell Coffers of NY 1st-Runs

'Ivanhoe,' 'Jacks,' 'Fear,' 'Dreamboat' Lead Parade

Rains over the weekend swelled box-office grosses of New York first-run theatres, sending the summer business spiral climbing to sturdy heights.

Exceptionally good product along Broadway was also credited for the lively upswing, which saw thousands of New Yorkers, confined by the weather to the city, flock to theatres.

Outstanding business was done by such films as "Ivanhoe," "Dreamboat," "Sudden Fear," and "Jumping Jacks."

A smash opening week of $66,000 was forecast for "Sudden Fear" at Loew's State. At Radio City Music Hall, a terrific $175,000 was seen for the second week of "Ivanhoe," aided by the Hall's regular stage show. The Hall's second week forecast about equals the business done in the non-

NEWS FLASHES

Commenting on the quality of summer TV fare, the current issue of Newsweek comments: "So far the season has not seen one filmed 'sleeper,' not one new show that can keep people out of the movie houses." The magazine also reports that the TV industry estimates that 50 to 75 per cent of all TV shows will eventually be on film, perhaps by next spring.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.--Edward D. Keil, attorney for Fox West Coast Theatres, has disclosed plans for the circuit to build a $4,000,000 theatre on the site adjoining Loew's Warfield here, which is now occupied by the 325-seat Fox-operated Cinema Theatre.

'U' Reveals Provisions of Rackmil, Blumberg Pacts

Milton R. Rackmil's contract as president of Universal is for seven years beginning last July 15 at a salary of $1,538.50 per week, the company has informed the Securities & Exchange Commission. The amended employment agreement of Nate J. Blumberg, who recently resigned as president to become board chairman, covers a period of eight-and-a-half-years at compensation of $1,500 per week from last July 15 to Dec. 31, 1955, and $1,000 per week from Jan. 1, 1956, to Dec. 31, 1960, when the contract will expire, the SEC also was informed.

Blumberg's agreement, which amends a long-term contract dated July 1, 1950, specifies that it is subject to approval by the stockholders of Universal not later than the next annual meeting, which is scheduled for March 11, 1953.

Both Rackmil and Blumberg are given virtual carte blanche with respect to traveling, entertainment and

BALTIMORE, Aug. 11.—The Hippodrome and the Town theatres here have filed an anti-trust suit against five distributors, asking trebled damages of $2,700,000 and charging that for many years the defendants conspired to shut off first-run competition in Baltimore.

The suit also asks for an injunction against the distributor defendants to force them to disclose to the plaintiffs the terms upon which a first-run picture was awarded, when the plaintiff's bid for the picture had been rejected.

Named in the complaint are Loew's,

Exhibitors to Meet in D.C. On Gov't Suit

TOA, MMPTA, Federal Aides to Talk Tomorrow

Leaders of at least two major exhibitor associations will meet in Washington tomorrow with government officials in what was described as an attempt to win sympathy for the industry's fight against the Department of Justice's 16mm. anti-trust suit.

Organizations named here yesterday as scheduled to send representatives to the parley are the Theatre Owners of America and the Metropolitan Motion Picture Theatres Association. There was said to be a possibility that the Independent Theatre Owners Association of New York also would be represented, but confirmation of this could not be secured at a late hour yesterday.

It was regarded as certain, however, that Allied States Association would

TOA Unit Asks U.S. To Abandon Suit

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. — The MPTO of the District of Columbia has asked the Department of Justice to "abandon" its 16mm. anti-trust suit against producers and distributors. The organization is affiliated with the Theatre Owners of America.

A resolution unanimously adopted by the organization said that if the suit should succeed, it "would inevitably spell the death knell of motion picture theatres." It emphasized the "billions of dollars" investment of exhibitors and declared that since "you cannot sell to people that which they can get free," the release of the films

MPAA to Seek Return of Brazilian Import Rights

The Motion Picture Association of America indicated here yesterday that it was making plans to win reinstatement of motion pictures on Brazil's list of "essential" imports. Joaquin Rickard, MPAA representative in Latin America, arrived here at the weekend from Rio de Janeiro for conferences with John G. McCarthy, MPAA international division chief.

Press dispatches from Rio de Janeiro disclosed that Brazil has dropped motion pictures from the list of "essential" imports for which import licenses will be granted. United States newsreels ceased coming in here seven months ago, and this new move, if unchanged, will mean the complete disappearance of United States films from Brazilian screens.

The dispatches stated further that United States motion-pieture officials here are more worried about the stoppage than about the lack of newsreels, on which they did not expect to make much profit anyway, but from the general point of view of the United States the absence of newsreels is really more important.

The reason for the stoppage of import licenses was not given by the government, but it is believed to be part of its constantly intensified protectionist policy. A United States motion-picture executive said today it was not calculated to conserve Brazil's scanty supply of dollars because movie companies have never pressed for liquidation of their balances here when dollars were unavailable.

There is reason to believe it is the beginning of an effort to force them to have their prints made here to give work to Brazilian laboratories, but that has been tried in the past and dropped because the work of the local laboratories was unsatisfactory.

Import licenses already issued will cover the normal importation of films for the next couple of months, but unless some new agreement is reached before that the entry of United States pietures will halt.

Praise Murphy for Texas Legion Talk

DALLAS, Aug. 11.—George Murphy was credited with engendering a "greater affinity between the American Legion and the (motion picture) industry" by his message to the Legion's state convention here in which he denounced Communism.

Praise for Murphy's address at the weekend came from William C. McCraw, executive director of Variety International, chairman of the Texas Council of Motion Picture Organizations' speakers bureau and past department commander of the Legion. McCraw's commendation was seconded by G. Ward Moody who commented, "we are deeply indebted to Mr. Murphy for expressing his views against Communism . . . they parallel the attitude taken by the Legion."

Other favorable comments came from Robert J. O'Donnell and Col. H. A. Cole, co-chairmen of Texas COMPO.

Equipment Makers May Set Allotments

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The National Production Authority has acted to permit manufacturers of theatre and film equipment and other "B" products to calculate their own allotments and write priorities for them without applying to the government.

The change will take place beginning with the first quarter of 1953. Any manufacturer who got a third quarter allotment of steel, copper and aluminum from the NPA may automatically allot himself, starting with the first three months of next year, up to 100 per cent of his third quarter allotment of copper and aluminum, providing this does not exceed 40,000 pounds of copper and 60,000 pounds of aluminum, and up to 60 per cent of the third quarter steel allotment, providing this does not exceed 500 tons of carbon steel, 90 tons of alloy steel and 10,000 pounds of nickel-bearing stainless steel.

Firms without third quarter allotments may self-authorize purchase orders up to 25 tons of carbon steel, one ton of alloy steel, 500 pounds of nickel-bearing stainless, 10,000 pounds of copper and 20,000 pounds of aluminum. Other firms must apply to the NPA for allotments.

Meinhardt and Perse To Aid Joint Appeal

Ira Meinhardt, of Film Carriers, has accepted the chairmanship of the film delivery division of the industry's drive on behalf of the Joint Defense Appeal, and Benjamin Perse, of Capitol Motion Picture Supply Corp., will serve in a similar capacity in the equipment supply division, it was announced by Leon Goldberg, of Universal Pictures, and Edward L. Fabian, of Fabian Theatres Corp., eochairmen of the industry-wide JDA campaign.

Booking of the new Slavenska-Franklin Ballet Co. for its New Jersey and New York theatres in October was announced by Walter Reade Theatres, giving the eircuit a lineup of for stage attractions for its motion picture theatres this fall and early winter.

The circuit will lead off with the Theatre Guild's production of "Oklahoma" in early September, follow it in late September with "Mr. Roberts," the ballet in October, and the Trapp Family Singers in December.

St. Paul Cooperative Is Successful

Minneapolis, Aug. 11.—Box-office receipts at five independently owned neighborhood houses in St. Paul skyrocketed when a new program policy was tried out for the first time and was so successful that it will continue on a permanent basis.

The five subsequents combined their resources and launched a program offering to the public a first-run double feature show, and used cooperative newspaper advertising to announce the policy, the features and the names of the theatres participating. The five are: Astor, Dale, Hollywood, Mounds and Royal.

RKO Theatres Gets Two Former Houses

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The Department of Justice has agreed to permit RKO Theatres to reacquire temporarily two divested theatres in Cincinnati.

The theatres—the Capitol and the Shubert—were sold under the RKO consent decree some time ago. However, the two principal purchasers have died and their estates have notified RKO Theatres that they cannot carry out the purchase contract nor pay rent, according to Justice officials. As a result, RKO Theatres is under "tremendous contingent liabilities," according to Justice, and so the government has agreed to let RKO take back the two theatres subject to a requirement that they must be divested again within six months.

The Justice Department also revealed it had notified RKO Theatres that the government has no objection to the company's selling its stock in a third Cincinnati theatre, the Times. The company has held an interest in the theatre with another firm, Gift, Inc., and had agreed to sell its interest providing the government agreed.

Services Today for Walter T. Freeman

BOSTON, Aug. 11.—Funeral services for Walter T. Freeman, 54, stage manager at the RKO Boston Theatre for the past five years and for 35 years associated with theatres, will be held with a Solemn High Mass of Requiem at St. Ann's Church in Manchester, New Hampshire, tomorrow.

Freeman, who died Friday, is survived by three brothers and two sisters, all of Manchester.

Cleve. Houses Hike Price

CLEVELAND, Aug. 11.—Theatres located on the west side are trying out a policy of a 5 cent advance in price for children and juniors. New scale is 15 cents for children and 35 cents for juniors. Adult admission is held to 50 cents. Theatres experimenting with the boost are the Fairview, Riverside, Beachcliffe, Hilliard Square, Homestead and Granada.

Warner Brothers Pictures Distributing Corp., Paramount Film Distributing Co., Universal and United Artists. Three other Warner Companies are named also—Warner Brothers Theatres, WB Pictures, and WB Circuit Management Corp.

The suit charges that from 1943 to 1948 the distributor defendants conspired with each other and affiliated exhibitors in favor of affiliated theatres, and that the effect of the conspiracy was to exclude from first-run competition in Baltimore any of the pictures distributed by the defendants. The best first-run Loew's films, the complaint said, went to the Century and the Valencia theatres, both owned 50 per cent by Loew's and 50 per cent by United Artists Theatre Circuit. The best Warner films went to the Stanley, a Warner theatre, the complaint charged. For a period of time half of the best Paramount films went to the Stanley and half of the best Universal films to the Century and Valencia, the complaint charged.

The complaint said that from 1947 to 1951 the Town and the Hippodrome were forced to exhibit inferior films, while "by far the larger number of leading box-office attractions each year were made available to theatres operated by Loew's and Warner Brothers. During this period, the complaint alleges, the Hippodrome's business was reduced about 57 per cent and it earned some $500,000 less than it would have earned if given a normal supply of product. Also during those years, the complaint continued, both theatres operated at a loss of more than $240,000.

The Hippodrome was forced to close for two months in the summer of 1950 and for three months in the summer of 1951, the complaint went on, due to lack of product. In April, 1952, the theatre was damaged by fire, and since there was not sufficient capital to pay for repairs it is still closed, the complaint alleged.

The complaint also declared that the Town Theatre was not permitted to compete with all first-run theatres for some of the distributors' films. It added, however, that the defendants will not disclose the terms of winning bids and that therefore, the Town does not know which, if any theatres are bidding against it. Unless it is given an opportunity to inspect the bids made by the Valencia, Century and the Stanley, the complaint says, the Town is "threatened with irreparable inury from continued secret discrimination."

Truman to Decide On Arnall Shortly

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The resignation of Ellis Arnall as Price Administrator is reported to be on President Truman's desk, with a Presidential decision as to whether or not to accept it due later this week.

Arnall reportedly made his resignation effective Sept. 1, to give the President time to find a replacement. If his resignation is accepted, as is likely, he might take a brief vacation before returning to his duties as head of the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers, according to friends here.

Albany in Tax Meet

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 11.—"Talk the the COMPO amusement tax repeal drive to every account you visit this week; get him to make a donation of not less than $10 or to sign a pledge card and transfer it to the account's favorite salesman," Leo Greenfield, distributor chairman, urged today at a meeting in the 20th Century-Fox projection room.

The salesmen and branch managers voted, after a discussion, to accept $10 in installments, but not to take less, from very small and part-time theatre operations. MGM was reported to have collected the most pledges to date.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11.—Benedict Bogeaus Pictures, Inc., today filed a voluntary petition in Federal Court here for reorganization under Chapter 11, Bankruptcy Act. Petition showed liabilities $221,117; assets $529,000.

BERGHOLZ, O., Aug. 11.—The City Theatre, closed all summer, has been taken over by Jerry Mathews who also has the Port Theatre at Freeport, and is operating it on a full-time basis.

Estimate $4-Million Gross for 'Fear'

On the basis of first grosses reported on Joseph Kaufman's "Sudden Fear," RKO Radio officials here are estimating a gross of between four and five million dollars on the Joan Crawford starrer.

First four days at Loew's State, New York, including the weekend, saw the picture take in over $45,000, to give the theatre its best business in three years, it was said. Executives look for a gross of better than $66,000 for the first week. The picture is also doing top business in out-of-town engagements, they added. At the Palace, Cleveland, with a big weekend, it took in $12,400 in four days, and will do about $18,000 in its first week. The Apollo, Atlantic City, reports over $9,000 for the weekend, with the picture grossing 75 per cent of major "A" product in recent months. The Casino in Wildwood, N. J., reported a take of $6,000 from Thursday through Sunday, for the biggest gross in the history of the theatres, it was said.

Pennsylvania, all of West Virginia and Ohio, and Southwestern New York. The drive is described as the most ambitious business promotion planned by the circuit on anything but a national level.

Guest speakers will include Jerry Pickman, Paramount advertising-publicity vice-president; Sterling Silliphant, Eastern publicity manager for 20th Century-Fox, and Mike Simons, M-G-M industry relations executive. Harry Kalmine, Ben Wirth and Harry Goldberg will attend from the home office.

The drive will run from Sept. 1 to Nov. 29 and will feature $3,500 in prizes for managers and tieups, special promotions and giveaways to the public ranging all the way from automobiles to a house and lot with a car in a garage and furniture.

At the Roxy, which also features a stage show, the third week of "Dreamboat" is expected to top the healthy grosses experienced in the first two weeks. Over the weekend, the film did a big $62,000, topping the weekend take of the initial stanza. For the third week, a robust $106,000 is estimated. "Dreamboat" will be held for another week, pushing back the opening day of "What Price Glory" to Aug. 22.

Another high grosser which will be held over is "Jumping Jacks" at the Paramount, which headlines Don Cornell on stage. For the third week, a brisk $95,000 is forecast.

At the Victoria, a fine $35,000 is due for the second round of "Affairs of State," while at the Mayfair a sturdy $39,000 is seen for 'High Noon.'

Also doing fine is "Story of Robin Hood" at the Criterion, where $21,000 is estimated for the seventh week. The final round of "Don't Bother to Knock" at the Globe is expected to hit a nice $14,500 for the fourth week. "Francis Goes to West Point" bows there on Friday.

"Carrie" at the Capitol is doing well, with $28,000 seen for the fourth stanza. The gross of "The Story of Will Rogers" at the Astor is expected to climb in the current fourth week, with a solid $17,000 estimated.

"King Kong," reissue, returned to the RKO Palace, giving that house the best business since May of 1949, with the exception of a two-a-day interlude. On the basis of a terrific $22,300 over the weekend, a big $37,000 for the initial and only week is forecast. "Son of Ali Baba" will have its premiere there Friday.

Rivoli Reopening

The Rivoli, shuttered at the advent of summer, will reopen Thursday with "Les Miserables."

Among off-Broadway houses, a fine $7,200 is indicated for the 19th week of "The Man in the White Suit" at the Sutton. Another hold-over doing good business is "Encore" at the Normandie, where $6,200 is seen for the 19th stanza.

"Ivory Hunter" will open Monday at the Trans-Lux 52nd Street, replacing "High Treason." For the week which ended Sunday, the 12th session, a fairly good $3,500 was registered by "High Treason." The seventh and final week of "Island Rescue" at the Park Avenue is expected to hit a nice $4,200. "Brandy for the Parson" will have its premiere there on Saturday.

'Paleface' to N. Y. Paramount

"Son of Paleface," musical Western comedy starring Bob Hope, Jane Russell and Roy Rogers and his horse, Trigger, has been booked by the Paramount Theatre here for early fall, it was jointly announced yesterday by the management of the theatre and Paramount Pictures. The picture also marks the debut of Rogers in a non-formula Western. It is his 89th film, and his first with color by Technicolor.

'Jacks' in $28,000 Week

BOSTON, August 11. — Paramount's "Jumping Jacks," starring Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, ended its second week at the Metropolitan Theatre here with a gross of $28,000. First week's gross was $48,000.

Bregstein Sets 7 for Release

Seven features, including several of foreign origin, will be released nationally during 1952-1953 by Herbert Bregstein, West Coast film distributor, he disclosed.

Bregstein, who recently joined with Peter Horner to organize Union Film Distributors, which will handle the releases in New York, will shuttle between California and New York to supervise distribution.

Include Richardson Fi'm

The pictures include a Ralph Richardson starrer, "Secret Flight," and "Affairs of A Model," Swedish production, now at the Rialto. The remaining five are Alexander Brothers productions: "Seven Ravens," a feature-length puppet film based on a Grimm fairy tale; "The Villain Still Pursued Her," starring Hugh Herbert, Anita Louise, Alan Mowbray and Buster Keaton; "Amazon Quest," starring Tom Neal; "Pimpernel Smith," the last production in which the late Leslie Howard starred, and "One of Our Aircraft Is Missing," a Powell-Presburger war film.

While the Bregstein distribution units will supervise the California and New York releases, the films also will be released in Boston by Ruff and Farber; in Detroit and Milwaukee by Albert Dezell; in Indianapolis and Cincinnati by Edward Salzberg, in Washington by Equity Films and in Dallas by Tower Pictures. Bregstein's California unit is Beverly Pictures Corp.

The SEC was apprised also of a new one-year employment agreement signed with David Lipton, national director of Universal advertising-publicity. Dated Jan. 1, 1952, Lipton's contract stipulates a salary of $900 per week, and specifies that in addition to his services under it the company "shall own and you hereby sell, assign, grant, transfer and set over to us all rights of every kind in and to all of the results and proceeds of your services hereunder."

Rackmil, under his agreement, is to act as the chief executive officer of Universal and have general supervision of the business and affairs of the company and its subsidiaries. Rackmil continues as president of Decca Records. It has not yet been indicated officially whether any change has been made in the salary he receives from that company.

Rackmil's Universal pact states that he shall not directly or indirectly be interested in or be connected or concerned with any competitive business or pursuit during the term of his employment, except that he may serve as officer of or consultant to Decca and its subsidiaries or for "not more than one-third of his business time."

Rackmil also "may continue to hold any directorship, trusteeship or executorship which he now has but he shall not, without first obtaining the consent of the Universal board, assume any new obligations in any such capacity, except such additional directorships of subsidiaries and affiliates of Decca as shall be appropriate to his continuing relationship with that company."

Blumberg agreed that only until Dec. 31, 1955, would he not become an officer, director or employee of any person, firm or corporation engaged in any competitive business. The same limitation is put on his having financial interest in competitive enterprises, but all restrictions listed would automatically terminate in the event of the failure of the stockholders to continue Blumberg as a director or in the event of the failure of the board to continue him in office as its chairman. Blumberg may, however, acquire and own interests in the securities of any companies listed or traded on any public stock exchanges. Should Blumberg elect not to continue as a director or board chairman, however, he would not be relieved of the restrictions under the agreement.

Blumberg, who will headquarter in California, is entitled under the pact to offices on both coasts, and may use his discretion as to how, when and where he shall spend his time in behalf of the company. He also is entitled to warrants or options to purchase company securities comparable to those granted "the most favored officer."

Both Rackmil and Blumberg were granted 31-day vacations annually, and the vacation of either may be cumulative from year to year.

Provision for reduced salary payments is made for both executives in the event of prolonged illnesses. The services of both are described in the contracts as "special, unique, unusual, extraordinary and intellectual character, which give them peculiar value." Breach of contract by Rackmil would entitle Universal to injunctive and other equitable relief, and breach by Blumberg would have to be taken to arbitration in accordance with American Arbitration Association rules.

Until the stockholders' approval of his new contract is given, Blumberg's July 1, 1950, pact "shall continue in full force and effect."

Provision is made under the new agreements for salary payments to survivors of Rackmil and Blumberg in event of death. The latter's agreement stipulates that he "shall act in a consultative and advisory capacity to the directors and officers of Universal and its subsidiaries on a non-exclusive basis."

Reds which led to the picketing of individual pictures by Legion members in several sections of the country.

Wilson and O'Neill also were the two Legion officials who met with the MPAA executive committee in Washington last March 31 to discuss the Legion's charges against Hollywood. The meeting led to approximately 200 studio people being apprised by their employers of the Legion's suspicions regarding their personal records and activities, and their being given an opportunity to answer them. As a result, all but a relatively few are reported to have offered explanations adequate to clear them of suspicion of Communist membership or sympathies.

The Legion had accused Hollywood studios of failing to take a determined stand in eliminating suspected Communists from studio payrolls. The actual facts and the action taken in recent months to discredit the Legion's charges would appear to leave no basis for any justified report critical of the industry to the Legion convention, observers believe.

Last week, the 53rd National Encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Los Angeles adopted a resolution which warmly commended the industry for its fight against Communism.

'Holders Sue to Void Mayer Settlement

A second stockholder action was filed in U. S. District Court here yesterday to secure the negation of Loew's $2,750,000 settlement with Louis B. Mayer, upon his resignation as M-G-M production vice-president, for the residual rights in his contract with the company. Instituted by Daisy Dietsch, who owns 25 shares of Loew's stock, and Frank and Margaret McMullin, who own 150 shares, the new derivative action in behalf of Loew's names Mayer, Nicholas M. Schenck, president, and top directors of the company.

Like another action filed a few months ago by a holding corporation, the Dietsch-McMullin suit charges that the settlement was a violation of the Securities and Exchange Act of 1934.

bestowed upon individuals whose efforts and achievements constitute a milestone in the industry. Siegel, in his announcement, stated that the Screen Producers Guild was doubly fortunate in being able to honor Mayer for he has been the industry leader who more than any other person has been responsible for the establishment of the creative producer system as it exists today.

Mayer's selection, it was said, honors a pioneer whose background includes experience beginning in 1907 as an exchange man, a theatre operator, an independent producer, and his tenure for a quarter of a century as head of the M-G-M studios.

Jesse L. Lasky received the initial "Milestone Award" last year.

not be represented at the meeting since both Wilbur Snaper, president, and Abram F. Myers, general counsel, were scheduled to be in Chicago tomorrow for an Allied convention planning conference. Myers has his headquarters in the nation's capital.

On July 28, MOTION PICTURE DAILY reported that the belief was widespread in the industry here at that time that the defendants in the government's suit soon would attempt to persuade Congressmen and perhaps Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer, and other Federal officials, of the "injustice" of the action. TOA, while cited as a co-conspirator in the government's complaint, was not listed as a defendant. Whether any of the 12 defendats, including major producer-distributors, would be represented at the meeting tomorrow either in person or by proxy was not determinable yesterday.

The government's suit, filed July 22 in Los Angeles, is designed to force the sale of 16mm. films to TV and other outlets in competition to regular theatres.

The TOA delegates to the parley are expected to include Mitchell Wolfson, president; Gael Sullivan, executive director, and Herman M. Levy, general counsel. MMPTA is expected to be represented by S. H. Fabian and Emanuel Frisch.

SWG Strike Against ATFP Under Way

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11.—For the first time in its 16-year history, the Screen Writers Guild has gone on strike. Today the 6,000 members of the Guild struck the Alliance of Television Film Producers, a group that includes 13 of the largest TV film producers in Hollywood.

The strike was called after the breakdown of nine months of negotiations between the writers and the Allianee which refused to discuss the Guild's demands including: Minimum advance payments against a percentage of gross revenue to be paid after the producer has recouped his budgeted negative cost; leasing rather than an outright sale of material, with the leases being on a seven-year renewable basis; and reservation of the writer's rights, meaning that a writer working in television retains all but his television rights and that other rights must be acquired separately.

We've just finished reading a most interesting booklet (53 pages) titled, "Handbook of Motion Picture Technique for Business Men," written by Charles Curran, prexy of Times Square Productions. The first line which we quote reveals the purpose of the author. "If you're thinking of making films, the purpose of this handbook is to take some of the mystery and hocus-pocus out of motion picture production so that the businessman will have a better understanding of what can and what cannot be done and how best to do it in this ever expanding field."

The author utilizes graphs, charts and illustrations to fine advantage, defining technical terms in language understandable by the layman. To this observer, everyone interested in film making, theatrical, non-theatrical, TV, commercial or industrial, should obtain a copy of this handbook.

Showmen Figure in TV Applications

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. — Three Denver television station applications involving industry interests have been set for hearings on Oct. 1, the Federal Communications Commission has announced.

They are the Denver Television Co., Aladdin Radio and Television Co. and Metropolitan Television Co. Denver Television Co. is controlled by Harris and John Wolfberg, Denver exhibitors. Aladdin is controlled by Frank H. Ricketson, Jr., president of Fox Intermountain Theatres, and Harry Huffman, retired city manager of Fox Intermountain. Bob Hope is the principal stockholder in Metropolitan.

The FCC also set for hearing on the same date television applications in Portland, Ore., Canton, O. and Waterbury, Conn.

Kallet May Bid for Buffalo TV Station

BUFFALO, Aug. 11.—Myron J. Kallet of Oneida, N. Y., president of Kallet Theatres, Inc., a circuit of about 40 theatres, and head of Copper City Broadcasting Corp., which owns and operates station WKTV on channel No. 13 in Utica, heads a group "investigating" the possibility of competing for one of the additional television channels assigned to Buffalo.

In addition to Kallet, the group includes W. T. McNeilly of Oneida, associated with Kallet. McNeilly declares that the group is "strongly considering" Buffalo as "a likely location" for which to apply for a TV channel. He said the group is conducting engineering and other surveys for the station. Three other cities also are being considered, he said.

Mr. Exhibitor:

IF YOU are performing copyrighted music in your theatre by means of recordings, you will want to obtain the license necessary for your protection. ASCAP music on the films exhibited in theatres is cleared through the motion picture producer or distributor. This, of course, does not give you the right to perform ASCAP music by any other means.

An ASCAP license gives you the right to perform the finest music available for the entertainment of your patrons—the works of over 2,500 composers and authors and 350 publishing firms—in a single package.

ASCAP is making its license for non-film uses available to the theatre industry, both for four-wall theatres and drive-ins, at a very low fee.

An ASCAP representative will visit you in the near future to give you complete information concerning an ASCAP license and the rate for your theatre.

Credit Films' Quality for Peak Business

N.Y. Summer High Point Reported by the MMPTA

Grosses are at their highest peak of the summer for Metropolitan New York theatres and the credit for this is due to the quality product that has emanated from Hollywood, the Metropolitan Motion Picture Theatres Association asserted yesterday.

An earlier report by the Independent Theatre Owners Association of New York indicated that July average attendance figures at independent houses here were 11 per cent above those for the same month last year. The MMPTA disclosure points to the likelihood that this month's average will greatly exceed that for Aug., 1951.

Plans Theatre TV Of G. & S. Operettas

S. M. Chertok, producer of Gilbert and Sullivan operettas in America, has opened negotiations with Actors Equity for the possible theatre telecast of productions which he plans to open on Broadway late this fall.

It was also learned that Chertok has contacted theatre television interests and outlined his plans. Efforts to reach Chertok yesterday for comment were unavailing.

Columbia Cuts Bank Debt to $7-Million

Washington, Aug. 12.—Columbia Pictures last month repaid an additional $700,000 to four banks under a $12,000,000 loan agreement dated Aug. 1, 1950, the company has informed the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The July repayment cuts to $7,000,000 the amount outstanding on the debt. All loans under the agreement mature on July 31, 1956.

Upward Trend Moves On in Cincinnati

Cincinnati, Aug. 12.—"Dog days" and the traditional slump in theatre attendance often characteristic of this period, appears to be working in reverse here, as elsewhere, with grosses continuing to show sustained improvement, particularly at first-runs.

Currently, "Jumping Jacks" gave the RKO Albee a terrific $28,000 on its first week. Average at this house is $11,000. Other grosses are registering considerably above average.

Oboler Forms Own Distribution Firm

20-30 Days to Submit Para. Case Findings

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Federal Communications Commission hearing examiner Leo Resnick, presiding over the Paramount hearings, today moved to speed a final decision on the complicated case.

At a meeting of the various parties, Resnick ruled that all parties must submit proposed findings on the issues within 20 to 30 days of the time the record is finally closed. This is an unprecedentedly short time for a hearing of the scope and importance of the Paramount case. Previously it had been assumed that the parties would get 60 or 90 days to submit their findings. Resnick said findings on the issue of Paramount's control of Dumont must be submitted within 20 days of the close of the hearings, and proposed findings on the American Broadcasting Co.-United Para-

First Defendant to Speak Out, Says Suit Would Destroy Industry

Spyros P. Skouras, president of 20th Century-Fox, yesterday released a spirited attack on the anti-trust suit filed by the Department of Justice to compel the industry to sell feature films to television.

Spyros Skouras

His four-page statement attacking the government action, which is printed in full in adjoining columns, is the first public reaction from the defendant production-distribution companies pledging an all-out fight against the suit since it was filed in Los Angeles Federal District court on July 22.

Skouras Statement

THE FOLLOWING STATEMENT by Spyros P. Skouras, president of 20th Century-Fox Film Corp., was made here yesterday morning to the company's entire executive personnel. Immediately following the statement, Skouras left for Hollywood where he will confer with studio management and studio executives.

With all the emphasis that I am capable of, I wish to condemn the action of the Department of Justice to force our company to sell feature motion pictures to television companies and advertisers.

This is a threat to the very existence of the motion picture industry of America.

We must understand the crisis that we and the public face and meet with it with deadly earnestness.

The Department of Justice must be persuaded as must every member of the Senate and every member of the House of Representatives, and even the President of the United States himself, that this suit is not in the interest of the American public.

Indeed, it is not in the public interest to endanger the economy of the United States by destroying the theatres which are the heartbeat of every American Community and deprive the public of the continuation of the production of American motion pictures as it now knows them. Our government can spend billions and yet never repair the injury that this will bring to the American economy.

In the public interest and in the interest of common justice,

No Video—N. Y. Yankees' Game Draws Record Crowd

Contributions of free telecasts of home games of major league ball clubs to attendance declines at ball parks was pinpointed Monday night when the game between the Yankees and Boston Red Sox, blacked out for TV, drew 51,005 paid customers to the Yankee Stadium, highest attendance of the year for a single game there.

It was the first Yankee home game not televised since TV entered the Stadium in 1948. Attendance has been on the decline since then, as it has at the Polo Grounds and Ebbetts Field also. Monday's TV black-out was made possible because it was not a regularly scheduled game but a play-off of last Friday night's postponed game. TV, therefore, had no claim to the Monday night encounter.

The Yankees' management declined to classify the TV blackout as a "test" and would not comment on the significance of the record attendance. However, reports have been that some of the major league clubs, alarmed at the continuing drop in attendance, have been considering the elimination of telecasts of home games and restricting them to road games.

Most of the big league clubs have been reluctant to curb their telecasts despite the drop in attendance inasmuch as they receive approximately $500,000 per season for the TV rights. They are in the position of having to weigh the cash-in-hand against the possibility of drawing the equivalent in added paid attendance at their parks.

Lesser Emphasizes Role of Drive-ins

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 12.—Drive-in theatres this year will account for 20 per cent of total domestic film rentals, producer-exhibitor Sol Lesser told Screen Producers Guild members at a meeting held here last night. He reiterated earlier estimates made by Eric Johnston, Motion Picture Association of America, president.

Appearing as a guest speaker, Lesser, who recently acquired a half-interest in 17 Pacific drive-in theatres, said that "in 1946 there were only 155 drive-ins in the United States, and today there are 4,830." Weather permits them to operate on an average of eight months per year.

Mexican Officials Clear 20th's 'Zapata'

Twentieth Century-Fox's "Viva Zapata" will be released in Mexico on Nov. 20, it was announced here yesterday following news from Mexico City that government film censors had approved the film as a "dignified and historically accurate picture."

The approval of the picture was announced by Jesus Castillo Lopez, head of the government censorship office, following "premature" reports, that the film had been banned, 20th-Fox's home office reported.

Walcott-Marciano Deal in Offing

Hope was expressed by an International Boxing Club spokesman here yesterday that the principals in the projected Jersey Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano heavyweight title bout will be signed this week.

The fight, considered a plum by both theatre television and home video broadcasting interests, is tentatively slated for September 23 at an East Coast site other than New York City. Currently under consideration are Boston, Jersey City, Philadelphia and Washington.

The strength of theatre television, represented in these negotiations by Nate Halpern, president of Theatre Network Television, would be considerably broadened if the site finally agreed upon is not Jersey City, it is believed. This would allow nearly a dozen large New York City theatre TV equipped houses to enter the picture, bolstering the bidding of theatre television interests, it is argued.

In the past, all except one fight theatre telecast was blacked out for New York theatres because most of them were staged in the city. The selection of Jersey City, it is believed, would also bar a fight telecast in theatres here.

N. L. Manheim, 62 Industry Veteran

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12.—N. L. Manheim, industry veteran, who has been in retirement, died here yesterday morning. He was 62 years old.

Manheim was with the Shubert theatrical interests for years, until World War I. After the war he joined Universal as a film salesman, later becoming assistant general sales manager, short subject sales manager, general service manager in the distribution division, and then general sales manager of the foreign department, a post which he held for some 15 years. He retired 10 years ago to live in Los Angeles.

A son, Henry Lee, and two grandchildren survive.

Events Mark Opening Here of 'Miserables'

French dignitaries and stars of stage, screen and TV will join at the Rivoli Theatre here tomorrow evening in a special ceremony marking the opening of "Les Miserables," and the reopening of the theatre.

Participating in the salute to the 150th anniversary of Victor Hugo's birth will be Jean F. Charvet, acting French Consul General in New York, and French United Nations representatives with guests from other international delegations.

20th's 'Kilimanjaro' Premiere on Sept. 18

The world premiere of "The Snows of Kilimanjaro," 20th Century-Fox, has been set for Thursday evening Sept. 18 at New York's Rivoli Theatre.

The American debut will start a series of world wide premieres to be held in principal cities of Europe, Asia, Australia and North and South America.

The Technicolor picture, Darryl F. Zanuck's sole personally-produced feature of 1952, will be unveiled before an audience comprised of stars of stage, screen, radio and television, as well as celebrities from the fields of politics, sports, society and international affairs. The opening will be covered by newsreels, television and radio.

Dickinson Heads KC Compo Committee

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 12.—A committee to carry on Council of Motion Picture Organizations activities in the area, particularly and immediately participation in the campaign for admission tax repeal, was set up at a meeting of exhibitors here on Monday.

Glen Dickinson, Sr. was named general chairman for COMPO in this area, and with him Elmer Rhoden, Sr., Jay Wooten, president of the Kansas-Missouri Allied unit, Beverly Miller, R. R. Biechele and Jack Braunagle. Other organizational steps will be taken, including appointment of committees when Congressional candidates are certified. Another meeting will be held before long.

Reviews

"The Devil Makes Three"

(Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer)

A FILM of the break-up of a ring of German nationalists out to prepare for another German Reich, this is a very exciting, romantic drama pegged on a very topical theme. The semi-documentary direction of Andrew Marton gives the film added impact. The picture, which was produced by Richard Goldstone, was filmed in Germany.

"The Devil Makes Three" is acted by an impressive cast headed by Gene Kelly, who here deserts his dancing shoes to take a straight dramatic part, and Pier Angeli who is lovely and quite convincing as the German girl who helps the neo-Nazis smuggle gold across the border so as to be able to make a living in the difficult days in the Munich of 1947.

Jerry Davis wrote a very fine screenplay which pulls no punches on either side. It's all there—the bombed out homes, the bitterness, the German self-pity, the fight for survival. The picture is slow in starting but during its second half the pace accelerates until there is the smashing, thrilling chase climax which finally finds the Nazi leader trapped in the ruined desolation of Hitler's Berchtesgaden Eagle's Nest.

Much of the picture's effects, including the shots at Salzburg and the little local touches such as the scene in the Mozarteum, are heightened by the fact that the film was photographed on location. There is an air of realism and complete believability as Kelly's car speeds down the Autobahn, and in the unique, tense and exciting end.

The supporting cast, headed by Richard Rober, Richard Egan and a number of very good German actors including Wilfried Seyferth and Claus Clausen, gives the picture an even more authentic atmosphere. Almost all characters speak English and if they do not, the screen does the translating for them.

Kelly as Capt. Jeff Eliot, who returns to Germany for a visit to see a family which once saved his life, finds only Pier alive and working in a cabaret. When he discovers that she is involved in smuggling activities, he helps Military Intelligence nab the Nazi leader by playing along with her. A romantic fadeout follows on the climactic finale.

Others in the cast include: Margot Hielscher, Annie Rosar, Harold Benedict, Otto Gebuehr, Gertrud Wolle, Heinrich Gretler, Charlotte Flemming and Charles Gordon.

Running time, 96 minutes. General audience classification. For September release.

"Son of Ali Baba"

(Universal-International)

BEREFT OF LOGIC AND SENSE, this Leonard Goldstein production is nonetheless the kind of lighthearted entertainment that will fully satisfy seekers after vicarious adventure in the form of sprightly derring do.

Tony Curtis and Piper Laurie have the leads and they make an attractive couple in their exotic costumes. If neither excels in acting, the "unreal" screenplay by Gerald Drayson Adams may be responsible. Many of the lines, however, carry good laughs.

Kurt Neumann directed with an awareness of the impact of color and spectacle, intrigue and action in old Bagdad. The Ali Baba label on the film is likely to bring in a lot of customers who know precisely what to expect.

Susan Cabot is pretty as Curtis' bow-and-arrow girl; Victor Jory makes a fine heavy, and so does Hugh O'Brian, his son, who engages in glittering sword-play with Curtis. Morris Ankrum has dignity as the aged Ali Baba and Gerald Mohr impresses as Capt. Youssef. Curtis plays a Persian Military Academy cadet, and Miss Laurie is a runaway slave-girl who encourages his heroics.

Running time, 75 minutes. General audience classification. For September release.

"Untamed Women"

(Jewell Enterprises-United Artists)

THE accent of this film, which concerns itself with the fate of five men on a prehistoric island occupied only by women, is on action. The situation of a group of downed airmen held captive by Amazon women, lends itself to many absurd incidents and double entendres, some of which are in dubious taste.

The story line borders on the incredible and is not aided by the cast, most members of which perform their roles perfunctorily.

The film takes its audience back to the age of the Druids, when the earth was populated by fierce, gargantuan animals and plants, now extinct. It is the shots of the U. S. airmen battling dinosaurs and other weird pre-historic mammals which are the most exciting.

Richard Kay produced, while W. Merle Connell directed, from a screenplay by George W. Sayre. Associate producer was Harry L. Rybnick. Cast includes Mikel Conrad, Doris Merrick, Richard Monahan, Mark Lowell, Morgan Jones and Midge Ware.

Running time, 70 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, not set.

Studio Craft Wages Rise

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 12.—Studio craft workers averaged $113.68 per week during June, according to the California Department of Industrial Relations monthly report. The figure compares with $112.61 averaged in May, and $104.79 in June of last year.

The Wichita Beacon is reprinting Will Rogers' newspaper columns of two decades ago and the comment is regarded as timely today as when it was written. In particular, former columns of the philosopher-humorist are as appropriate and newsworthy as comments on the recent political conventions, which haven't changed much since his day. In fact, the New York Times syndicate might reissue much of Will Rogers' truth and wit, and find it as much appreciated by a new generation as by those who were around when he was a national figure. It makes marvelous pre-selling for "The Will Rogers Story."

Terry Turner, exploitation chief for RKO Radio, says that television is a powerful ally, not an enemy of motion pictures, and he points to his TV advertising campaign on the rerelease of "King Kong." He brought the 18-year-old spine tingler out of the mothballs, gave it a saturation treatment and shook the film industry to its foundations, with an expected gross of $3,000,000 in domestic release alone.

Montague Salmon, managing director of the Rivoli Theatre here, will be breaking bread with representatives of the French government and other distinguished guests at the opening of "Les Miserables" on Broadway today, and such a loaf of bread! It took 10 of Hanscom's bakers 14 hours to ferment and mix the gigantic loaf of French bread, which measures eight feet long, weighs 30 pounds and required three hours baking time. Experts estimate it would require an average American four months to consume the loaf, but an average Frenchman, such as Jean Valjean, who was condemned to the galleys for the theft of a loaf of bread, might eat this enormous loaf in a single month. The pre-selling forces at 20th Century-Fox have launched a radio drive on four upcoming pictures, with huge magazine publicity arranged for "The Snows of Kilimanjaro," "O. Henry's Full House," "Ruby Gentry" and "The Farmer Takes a Wife"—all scheduled for fall release.

Skouras Blasts

Skouras recognizes that the suit is not the concern of exhibition alone but rather of the entire industry.

"Without product," he said, "the theatres would close and without the revenue the theatres can afford to pay, the producers no longer would be able to turn out fine attractions. The preeminence of American motion pictures would be destroyed."

Skouras also bid for the aid of business men and their employes in opposing the government suit, pointing out its confiscatory nature and its catering to special interests which, he contended, "is a threat to every one of them, as well as to us." Moreover, he asserted, merchants of every community and their employes and all those concerned with real estate values should join with the industry in opposing an action which, if successful, would close theatres and thereby deprive neighboring merchants and their shops of the benefits they derive from theatre-drawn shoppers.

Skouras's statement indicated that he believes the government action to have been inspired by television set manufacturers and the big advertisers using television as a sales medium.

"With all the emphasis that I am capable of," he said, "I wish to condemn action of the Department of Justice to force our company to sell feature motion pictures to television companies and advertisers."

Later on in his statement, Skouras says: "If the government can force us to sell our finest pictures to television companies and advertisers at a ridiculously small price, this would be practically confiscatory and ruinous."

In mentioning those who would benefit from a successful prosecution of the suit, observers believe Skouras was indicating where he thinks the pressure was exerted which resulted in its filing.

The Skouras statement also hinted that the 20th-Fox president is displeased with the absence of adverse reaction to the government suit by Hollywood guilds and unions.

"The guilds and unions of Hollywood," Skouras said, "representing the actors, writers and directors and other crafts, in their own interest and in the public interest should have a full appreciation of the danger this action has brought upon us.

"They, too, by their thorough understanding of this crisis should demonstrate that they have the vision to cooperate for their own ultimate benefit just as they did in the infancy of the motion picture and radio industries.

"If the motion picture theatres are destroyed, the guilds will suffer more than any other group in the industry, because the principal income of their members comes from the theatres, which are the life stream of the motion picture industry. The present level of income cannot be maintained by the advertising medium."

The Skouras statement points out several of the respects in which he believes the government suit is not in the public interest.

Skouras Statement

American business men and their employes in every community should join in a rising tide of protest on the ground that this effort to force us to turn over our product to special interests for their selfish purposes, is a threat to everyone of them as well as to us.

If the government can force us to sell our finest pictures to television companies and advertisers at a ridiculously small price, this would be practically confiscatory and ruinous.

Without product the theatres would close and without the revenue the theatres can afford to pay, the producers no longer would be able to turn out fine attractions. The pre-eminence of American motion pictures would be destroyed.

As the New York "Times" points out editorially:—

"By the Justice Department's line of reasoning, in short, the publisher of a best-selling novel would be obligated to make his property available to a free "throw-away" pamphlet financed by advertisements of local merchants and accept whatever remuneration the pamphlet's owner could pay. Application of the anti-trust laws must be tempered with a little more horse sense."

The merchants of every community and their employes recognize the importance to them of the community theatre which brings direct benefit to every transportation agency, every tire and gasoline station, every restaurant, every grocery, every drugstore, every novelty shop, every newsstand, every shoe shop, department store, dry goods store and garment shop, and particularly real estate values. Every business organization and every civic institute in every community, as well as the press, the pulpit and the professional men, ought to cry out against this attempt to deaden the core of American life by closing the doors of the American motion picture theatres.

Especially should the women of America and their organizations help to preserve their time tried right to choose the kind of entertainment their children should see.

It is certainly not in the public interest to destroy the theatres and thereby wreck a business which, throughout the years, has responded instantly to every call of our government for help, without recompense, in the emergencies of war and peace.

It is not in the public interest for our government, which represents the world's hope of freedom, to close a channel of communication historically noted for promoting the democratic way of life throughout the world and acquainting the world with American progress.

It is not in the public interest to harass and threaten an industry, which has signally promoted the public welfare, instead of encouraging and cherishing it as an instrument of freedom.

We must point out to our government that this medium of communication is so valuable to democracy throughout the world that Hitler, Mussolini, and Stalin banned American motion pictures because they feared them. Yet our own government would risk the destruction of this instrument.

The guilds and unions of Hollywood, representing the actors, writers and directors and other crafts, in their own interest and in the public interest should have a full appreciation of the danger this action has brought upon us.

They, too, by their thorough understanding of this crisis should demonstrate that they have the vision to cooperate for their own ultimate benefit just as they did in the infancy of the motion picture and radio industries.

If the motion picture theatres are destroyed, the guilds will suffer more than any other group in the industry, because the principal income of their members comes from the theatres, which are the life stream of the motion picture industry. The present level of income cannot be maintained by the advertising medium of television.

It is economically impossible for the advertisers to meet the huge grosses the motion pictures attain in the theatres in America. The government's action would be ruinous to the exhibitors and in turn would be destructive to an industry which must and does employ the greatest creative and artistic talent in the world in order to satisfy the public's demand for this superior theatre entertainment.

Hollywood manner, has begun to bear fruit against competition of outdoor entertainment and the other usual attractions available to the public in the summer," according to the MMPTA.

The MMPTA continued: "Good dramatic material presented in such features as, 'Carrie,' 'The Story of Will Rogers,' 'Sudden Fear,' 'Clash by Night,' 'Encore,' and 'High Noon,' as well as comedies and musicals, such as 'Pat and Mike,' 'Jumping Jacks,' 'Dreamboat,' 'We're Not Married,' and 'Lovely to Look At,' and such spectacles as 'Ivonhoe,' 'King Kong,' 'The Greatest Show on Earth,' and 'Robin Hood,' though each appealing to different segments of the public have with equal compulsion drawn the public out of their homes to neighborhood and Broadway movie houses.

"The weather this summer has been varied too, with hot spells, dry spells and wet spells, but the old theory of the weather influencing the movie-going public has been thrown out this summer and producers and theatre owners are convinced that a concentration of their efforts to give the public interesting, stimulating and amusing quality movies is all the invitation necessary to the people to come to view their films. This has become the keynote in the selection and production of motion pictures for the movie-going public.

"The balance of the summer promises continued favorable movie fare with features such as 'The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima,' 'The Quiet Man,' 'Where's Charlie?,' 'What Price Glory,' and 'Crimson Pirate,' and with films such as 'The Merry Widow,' 'Son of Paleface,' 'Les Miserables,' 'Just for You,' 'Park Row,' and 'Way of a Gaucho,' opening the fall season, movie-goers can continue to look forward to exciting entertainment and producers and exhibitors to a continued strengthening and vitality in the movie business."

Complete 26 Italian Films, 30 in Work

WASHINGTON, August 12.—In the first five months of 1952, 26 Italian films were completed and 30 more were in production or being edited, according to Commerce Department film head Nathan D. Golden.

Seven of the films were Italian-French co-productions and one was a Spanish-Italian co-production, Golden said.

Golden also reported that Unitalia, a semi-official organization concerned with the worldwide promotion of Italian films, is scheduling Italian film weeks for New York, Montreal and Madrid in October and November. The first "Italian Film Week" was held in London June 16-22, with eight productions exhibited.

O'Donnell on Coast Lining Up Premier

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 12.—Robert O'Donnell of Interstate Theatres of Texas, is in Hollywood this week, for conferences at the RKO Radio studio with Jerry Wald and other executives pertaining to the world premiere in Dallas of "The Lusty Men," a rodeo drama starring Susan Hayward, Robert Mitchum and Arthur Kennedy.

Plans for the opening include an entertainment unit from Hollywood of 20 Texas-born screen and rodeo stars, as well as an advance promotion tour throughout the state by Wald, director Nicholas Ray, Mitchum, Arthur Hunnicutt, Eleanor Todd and screenwriter Horace McCoy. "The Lusty Men" is slated for a saturation release in Texas following its Dallas premiere in October.

the first two bookings for "Bwana Devil," which utilizes the Natural Vision three-dimensional process and is done in Ansco color. It will open at both the Paramount in Downtown Los Angeles and the Paramount in Hollywood on October 16, he stated.

Pink, who is here to set openings in New York, Boston and Washington, said Oboler plans to produce three films per year. Currently, Oboler's "Twonkey" is planned for release in November. Filming of another Oboler three-dimensional production, "Spear in the Sand," is expected to be started in November on location in Bermuda.

The new company, Pink explained, will have distribution points in New York, New Orleans, Charlotte, Dallas, Chicago and San Francisco. Although currently only Oboler films are expected to be distributed by the new firm, Pink said other producers would be welcomed to use its facilities. Tied in with the new company will be the physical facilities of the National Film Carriers Association, it was added.

Road-show engagements with raised admission prices are planned for the first 250 showings of "Bwana Devil," which Pink said cost in excess of $400,000. Oboler's sales terms, it was explained, call for a guarantee and the handling of all promotion and exploitation of the film by an Oboler advertising department, yet to be set up. He said the theatre will pay for the special polarized lenses necessary to obtain the three-dimensional effect. The cost of the lenses was placed at about eight cents each now, but the price is expected to decline to about four cents when greater quantities are ordered, Pink explained.

to this cause and to unceasing vigilance to resist this ruinous plan which the Department of Justice insists upon.

This company already has demonstrated its interest in preserving and perpetuating the theatres of America by a large investment of energy, time and money in pioneering the development of large screen theatre television with color as a means of telecasting live shows of the finest obtainable quality to many theatres simultaneously to supplement motion pictures.

We believe this undertaking to be in the public interest because this superior entertainment will enable them to continue to serve their communities and because their continuation is vital to the American economy and American culture.

Therefore, in a new crisis of this kind threatening the existence of the theatres we cannot bow or surrender or hesitate for a moment if we are to continue to serve America and mankind.

We are willing to rest our faith in the fairmindedness of the American public and its institutions.

mount Theatres merger and other issues within 30 days of the close of the hearings.

Just when the hearings will be officially closed, however, is still undetermined. Resnick has asked the commission to guide him on whether to exclude testimony on two key points: Paramount's activities on Scophony, and anti-trust activities of the companies since August, 1948. If the Commission shoudl say that such testimony is okay, further hearings must be held. Even if the Commission says the testimony is out, there would have to be another meeting of the parties to declare the record officially closed.

$500,000 Deal for House

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 12.—The J. J. Parker interests, joint operators of the Mayfair Theatre here, have sold their share in the theatre for $500,000 to Evergreen Theatres, now the sole operator of the house.

Evans, formerly manager of radio advertising and promotion has been appointed director of advertising and promotion; Hugh M. Neville, formerly director of economic studies, is now director of research and planning, and Robert W. McFayden, formerly manager of TV sales planning and research was named director of development. All will report directly to Lawrence.

Reporting to Jacob A. Evans will be James Nelson, formerly manager of TV advertising and promotion, who is now advertising manager; John G. Fuller, formerly supervisor of TV program sales development, now is sales promotion manager; Fred Veit, formerly TV art director, is now manager of art, production and graphics, and Gerald Pat Steele and Frank McMahon are promoted to advertising and copy coordinators.

Reporting to Nelson will be Clyde Clem, supervisor of radio audience promotion; John F. Hurlbut, supervisor of TV audience promotion, and Richard Blake, supervisor of on-the-air promotion. Clem and Hurlbut will supervise the staff of audience promotion writers, and Blake will supervise the on-the-air promotion writers.

John Porter, new supervisor of TV sales promotion; Robert Hitchens, supervisor of radio sales promotion; Edward Vane, supervisor of program promotion, and Enid Beaupre, sales librarian all will report to Fuller.

Italy May Dub Here At $250,000 Studio

WASHINGTON, August 12.—Italian Films Export is considering setting up a dubbing studio in New York City, according to Commerce Department film chief Nathan D. Golden.

Estimated cost of such a venture would be about $250,000, Golden said. Although Italian films have been dubbed into English in Italy, IFE feels that increased earning capacity and audience appeal would result from dubbing in New York. To date IFE has spent $360,000 on promotion here.

Grosses are at their highest peak of the summer for Metropolitan New York theatres and the credit for this is due to the quality product that has emanated from Hollywood, the Metropolitan Motion Picture Theatres Association asserted yesterday.

An earlier report by the Independent Theatre Owners Association of New York indicated that July average attendance figures at independent houses here were 11 per cent above those for the same month last year. The MMPTA disclosure points to the likelihood that this month's average will greatly exceed that for Aug., 1951.

Upward Trend Moves On in Cincinnati

Cincinnati, Aug. 12.—"Dog days" and the traditional slump in theatre attendance often characteristic of this period, appears to be working in reverse here, as elsewhere, with grosses continuing to show sustained improvement, particularly at first-runs.

Currently, "Jumping Jacks" gave the RKO Albee a terrific $28,000 on its first week. Average at this house is $11,000. Other grosses are registering considerably above average.

Oboler Forms Own Distribution Firm

SKOURAS BLASTS U. S. TRUST SUIT

20-30 Days to Submit Para. Case Findings

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Federal Communications Commission hearing examiner Leo Resnick, presiding over the Paramount hearings, today moved to speed a final decision on the complicated case.

At a meeting of the various parties, Resnick ruled that all parties must submit proposed findings on the issues within 20 to 30 days of the time the record is finally closed. This is an unprecedentedly short time for a hearing of the scope and importance of the Paramount case. Previously it had been assumed that the parties would get 60 or 90 days to submit their findings. Resnick said findings on the issue of Paramount's control of Dumont must be submitted within 20 days of the close of the hearings, and proposed findings on the American Broadcasting Co.-United Para-

First Defendant to Speak Out, Says Suit Would Destroy Industry

Spyros P. Skouras, president of 20th Century-Fox, yesterday released a spirited attack on the anti-trust suit filed by the Department of Justice to compel the industry to sell feature films to television.

Spyros Skouras

His four-page statement attacking the government action, which is printed in full in adjoining columns, is the first public reaction from the defendant production-distribution companies pledging an all-out fight against the suit since it was filed in Los Angeles Federal District court on July 22.

Skouras Statement

THE FOLLOWING STATEMENT by Spyros P. Skouras, president of 20th Century-Fox Film Corp., was made here yesterday morning to the company's entire executive personnel. Immediately following the statement, Skouras left for Hollywood where he will confer with studio management and studio executives.

With all the emphasis that I am capable of, I wish to condemn the action of the Department of Justice to force our company to sell feature motion pictures to television companies and advertisers.

This is a threat to the very existence of the motion picture industry of America.

We must understand the crisis that we and the public face and meet with it with deadly earnestness.

The Department of Justice must be persuaded as must every member of the Senate and every member of the House of Representatives, and even the President of the United States himself, that this suit is not in the interest of the American public.

Indeed, it is not in the public interest to endanger the economy of the United States by destroying the theatres which are the heartbeat of every American Community and deprive the public of the continuation of the production of American motion pictures as it now knows them. Our government can spend billions and yet never repair the injury that this will bring to the American economy.

In the public interest and in the interest of common justice,

No Video—N. Y. Yankees' Game Draws Record Crowd

Contributions of free telecasts of home games of major league ball clubs to attendance declines at ball parks was pinpointed Monday night when the game between the Yankees and Boston Red Sox, blacked out for TV, drew 51,005 paid customers to the Yankee Stadium, highest attendance of the year for a single game there.

It was the first Yankee home game not televised since TV entered the Stadium in 1948. Attendance has been on the decline since then, as it has at the Polo Grounds and Ebbetts Field also. Monday's TV black-out was made possible because it was not a regularly scheduled game but a playoff of last Friday night's postponed game. TV, therefore, had no claim to the Monday night encounter.

The Yankees' management declined to classify the TV blackout as a "test" and would not comment on the significance of the record attendance. However, reports have been that some of the major league clubs, alarmed at the continuing drop in attendance, have been considering the elimination of telecasts of home games and restricting them to road games.

Most of the big league clubs have been reluctant to curb their telecasts despite the drop in attendance inasmuch as they receive approximately $500,000 per season for the TV rights. They are in the position of having to weigh the cash-in-hand against the possibility of drawing the equivalent in added paid attendance at their parks.

Lesser Emphasizes Role of Drive-ins

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 12.—Drive-in theatres this year will account for 20 per cent of total domestic film rentals, producer-exhibitor Sol Lesser told Screen Producers Guild members at a meeting held here last night. He reiterated earlier estimates made by Eric Johnston, Motion Picture Association of America, president.

Appearing as a guest speaker, Lesser, who recently acquired a half-interest in 17 Pacific drive-in theatres, said that "in 1946 there were only 155 drive-ins in the United States, and today there are 4,830." Weather permits them to operate on an average of eight months per year.

Twentieth Century-Fox's "Viva Zapata" will be released in Mexico on Nov. 20, it was announced here yesterday following news from Mexico City that government film censors had approved the film as a "dignified and historically accurate picture."

The approval of the picture was announced by Jesus Castillo Lopez, head of the government censorship office, following "premature" reports, that the film had been banned, 20th-Fox's home office reported.

Walcott-Marciano Deal in Offing

Hope was expressed by an International Boxing Club spokesman here yesterday that the principals in the projected Jersey Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano heavyweight title bout will be signed this week.

The fight, considered a plum by both theatre television and home video broadcasting interests, is tentatively slated for September 23 at an East Coast site other than New York City. Currently under consideration are Boston, Jersey City, Philadelphia and Washington.

The strength of theatre television, represented in these negotiations by Nate Halpern, president of Theatre Network Television, would be considerably broadened if the site finally agreed upon is not Jersey City, it is believed. This would allow nearly a dozen large New York City theatre TV eqiupped houses to enter the picture, bolstering the bidding of theatre television interests, it is argued.

In the past, all except one fight theatre telecast was blacked out for New York theatres because most of them were staged in the city. The selection of Jersey City, it is believed, would also bar a fight telecast in theatres here.

N. L. Manheim, 62 Industry Veteran

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12.—N. L. Manheim, industry veteran, who has been in retirement, died here yesterday morning. He was 62 years old.

Manheim was with the Shubert theatrical interests for years, until World War I. Reviews

"The Devil Makes Three"

A FILM of the break-up of a ring of German nationalists out to prepare for another German Reich, this is a very exciting, romantic drama pegged on a very topical theme. The semi-documentary direction of Andrew Marton gives the film added impact. The picture, which was produced by Richard Goldstone, was filmed in Germany.

"The Devil Makes Three" is acted by an impressive cast headed by Gene Kelly, who here deserts his dancing shoes to take a straight dramatic part, and Pier Angeli who is lovely and quite convincing as the German girl who helps the neo-Nazis smuggle gold across the border so as to be able to make a living in the difficult days in the Munich of 1947.

Jerry Davis wrote a very fine screenplay which pulls no punches on either side. It's all there—the bombed out homes, the bitterness, the German self-pity, the fight for survival. The picture is slow in starting but during its second half the pace accelerates until there is the smashing, thrilling chase climax which finally finds the Nazi leader trapped in the ruined desolation of Hitler's Berchtesgaden Eagle's Nest.

Much of the picture's effects, including the shots at Salzburg and the little local touches such as the scene in the Mozarteum, are heightened by the fact that the film was photographed on location. There is an air of realism and complete believability as Kelly's car speeds down the Autobahn, and in the unique, tense and exciting end.

The supporting cast, headed by Richard Rober, Richard Egan and a number of very good German actors including Wilfried Seyferth and Claus Clausen, gives the picture an even more authentic atmosphere. Almost all characters speak English and if they do not, the screen does the translating for them.

Kelly as Capt. Jeff Eliot, who returns to Germany for a visit to see a family which once saved his life, finds only Pier alive and working in a cabaret. When he discovers that she is involved in smuggling activities, he helps Military Intelligence nab the Nazi leader by playing along with her. A romantic fadeout follows on the climactic finale.

Others in the cast include: Margot Hielscher, Annie Rosar, Harold Benedict, Otto Gebuehr, Gertrud Wolle, Heinrich Gretler, Charlotte Flemming and Charles Gordon.

Running time, 96 minutes. General audience classification. For September release.

"Son of Ali Baba"

(Universal-International)

BEREFT OF LOGIC AND SENSE, this Leonard Goldstein production is nonetheless the kind of lighthearted entertainment that will fully satisfy seekers after vicarious adventure in the form of sprightly derring do.

Tony Curtis and Piper Laurie have the leads and they make an attractive couple in their exotic costumes. If neither excels in acting, the "unreal" screenplay by Gerald Drayson Adams may be responsible. Many of the lines, however, carry good laughs.

Kurt Neumann directed with an awareness of the impact of color and spectacle, intrigue and action in old Bagdad. The Ali Baba label on the film is likely to bring in a lot of customers who know precisely what to expect.

Susan Cabot is pretty as Curtis' bow-and-arrow girl; Victor Jory makes a fine heavy, and so does Hugh O'Brian, his son, who engages in glittering sword-play with Curtis. Morris Ankrum has dignity as the aged Ali Baba and Gerald Mohr impresses as Capt. Youssef. Curtis plays a Persian Military Academy cadet, and Miss Laurie is a runaway slave-girl who encourages his heroics.

Running time, 75 minutes. General audience classification. For September release.

"Untamed Women"

(Jewell Enterprises-United Artists)

THE accent of this film, which concerns itself with the fate of five men on a prehistoric island occupied only by women, is on action. The situation of a group of downed airmen held captive by Amazon women, lends itself to many absurd incidents and double entendres, some of which are in dubious taste.

The story line borders on the incredible and is not aided by the cast, most members of which perform their roles perfunctorily.

The film takes its audience back to the age of the Druids, when the earth was populated by fierce, gargantuan animals and plants, now extinct. It is the shots of the U. S. airmen battling dinosaurs and other weird pre-historic mammals which are the most exciting.

Running time, 70 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, not set.

The Wichita Beacon is reprinting Will Rogers' newspaper columns of two decades ago and the comment is regarded as timely today as when it was written. In particular, former columns of the philosopher-humorist are as appropriate and newsworthy as comments on the recent political conventions, which haven't changed much since his day. In fact, the New York Times syndicate might reissue much of Will Rogers' truth and wit, and find it as much appreciated by a new generation as by those who were around when he was a national figure. It makes marvelous pre-selling for "The Will Rogers Story."

Terry Turner, exploitation chief for RKO Radio, says that television is a powerful ally, not an enemy of motion pictures, and he points to his TV advertising campaign on the rerelease of "King Kong." He brought the 18-year-old spine tingler out of the mothballs, gave it a saturation treatment and shook the film industry to its foundations, with an expected gross of $3,000,000 in domestic release alone.

Montague Salmon, managing director of the Rivoli Theatre here, will be breaking bread with representatives of the French government and other distinguished guests at the opening of "Les Miserables" on Broadway today, and such a loaf of bread! It took 10 of Hanscom's bakers 14 hours to ferment and mix the gigantic loaf of French bread, which measures eight feet long, weighs 30 pounds and required three hours baking time. Experts estimate it would require an average American four months to consume the loaf, but an average Frenchman, such as Jean Valjean, who was condemned to the galleys for the theft of a loaf of bread, might eat this enormous loaf in a single month. The pre-selling forces at 20th Century-Fox have launched a radio drive on four upcoming pictures, with huge magazine publicity arranged for "The Snows of Kilimanjaro," "O. Henry's Full House," "Ruby Gentry" and "The Farmer Takes a Wife"—all scheduled for fall release.

—WALTER BROOKS

Skouras recognizes that the suit is not the concern of exhibition alone but rather of the entire industry.

"Without product," he said, "the theatres would close and without the revenue the theatres can afford to pay, the producers no longer would be able to turn out fine attractions. The preeminence of American motion pictures would be destroyed."

Skouras also bid for the aid of business men and their employes in opposing the government suit, pointing out its confiscatory nature and its catering to special interests which, he contended, "is a threat to every one of them, as well as to us." Moreover, he asserted, merchants of every community and their employes and all those concerned with real estate values should join with the industry in opposing an action which, if successful, would close theatres and thereby deprive neighboring merchants and their shops of the benefits they derive from theatre-drawn shoppers.

Skouras's statement indicated that he believes the government action to have been inspired by television set manufacturers and the big advertisers using television as a sales medium.

"With all the emphasis that I am capable of," he said, "I wish to condemn action of the Department of Justice to force our company to sell feature motion pictures to television companies and advertisers."

Later on in his statement, Skouras says: "If the government can force us to sell our finest pictures to television companies and advertisers at a ridiculously small price, this would be practically confiscatory and ruinous."

In mentioning those who would benefit from a successful prosecution of the suit, observers believe Skouras was indicating where he thinks the pressure was exerted which resulted in its filing.

The Skouras statement also hinted that the 20th-Fox president is displeased with the absence of adverse reaction to the government suit by Hollywood guilds and unions.

"The guilds and unions of Hollywood," Skouras said, "representing the actors, writers and directors and other crafts, in their own interest and in the public interest should have a full appreciation of the danger this action has brought upon us.

"They, too, by their thorough understanding of this crisis should demonstrate that they have the vision to cooperate for their own ultimate benefit just as they did in the infancy of the motion picture and radio industries.

"If the motion picture theatres are destroyed, the guilds will suffer more than any other group in the industry, because the principal income of their members comes from the theatres, which are the life stream of the motion picture industry. The present level of income cannot be maintained by the advertising medium."

The Skouras statement points out several of the respects in which he believes the government suit is not in the public interest.

Skouras Statement

American business men and their employes in every community should join in a rising tide of protest on the ground that this effort to force us to turn over our product to special interests for their selfish purposes, is a threat to everyone of them as well as to us.

If the government can force us to sell our finest pictures to television companies and advertisers at a ridiculously small price, this would be practically confiscatory and ruinous.

Without product the theatres would close and without the revenue the theatres can afford to pay, the producers no longer would be able to turn out fine attractions. The pre-eminence of American motion pictures would be destroyed.

As the New York "Times" points out editorially:—

"By the Justice Department's line of reasoning, in short, the publisher of a best-selling novel would be obligated to make his property available to a free "throw-away" pamphlet financed by advertisements of local merchants and accept whatever remuneration the pamphlet's owner could pay. Application of the anti-trust laws must be tempered with a little more horse sense."

The merchants of every community and their employes recognize the importance to them of the community theatre which brings direct benefit to every transportation agency, every tire and gasoline station, every restaurant, every grocery, every drugstore, every novelty shop, every newsstand, every shoe shop, department store, dry goods store and garment shop, and particularly real estate values. Every business organization and every civic institute in every community, as well as the press, the pulpit and the professional men, ought to cry out against this attempt to deaden the core of American life by closing the doors of the American motion picture theatres.

Especially should the women of America and their organizations help to preserve their time tried right to choose the kind of entertainment their children should see.

It is certainly not in the public interest to destroy the theatres and thereby wreck a business which, throughout the years, has responded instantly to every call of our government for help, without recompense, in the emergencies of war and peace.

It is not in the public interest for our government, which represents the world's hope of freedom, to close a channel of communication historically noted for promoting the democratic way of life throughout the world and acquainting the world with American progress.

It is not in the public interest to harass and threaten an industry, which has signally promoted the public welfare, instead of encouraging and cherishing it as an instrument of freedom.

We must point out to our government that this medium of communication is so valuable to democracy throughout the world that Hitler, Mussolini, and Stalin banned American motion pictures because they feared them. Yet our own government would risk the destruction of this instrument.

The guilds and unions of Hollywood, representing the actors, writers and directors and other crafts, in their own interest and in the public interest should have a full appreciation of the danger this action has brought upon us.

They, too, by their thorough understanding of this crisis should demonstrate that they have the vision to cooperate for their own ultimate benefit just as they did in the infancy of the motion picture and radio industries.

If the motion picture theatres are destroyed, the guilds will suffer more than any other group in the industry, because the principal income of their members comes from the theatres, which are the life stream of the motion picture industry. The present level of income cannot be maintained by the advertising medium of television.

It is economically impossible for the advertisers to meet the huge grosses the motion pictures attain in the theatres in America. The government's action would be ruinous to the exhibitors and in turn would be destructive to an industry which must and does employ the greatest creative and artistic talent in the world in order to satisfy the public's demand for this superior theatre entertainment.

For Twentieth Century-Fox and my associates, I pledge myself

Hollywood manner, has begun to bear fruit against competition of outdoor entertainment and the other usual attractions available to the public in the summer," according to the MMPTA.

The MMPTA continued: "Good dramatic material presented in such features as, 'Carrie,' 'The Story of Will Rogers,' 'Sudden Fear,' 'Clash by Night,' 'Encore,' and 'High Noon,' as well as comedies and musicals, such as 'Pat and Mike,' 'Jumping Jacks,' 'Dreamboat,' 'We're Not Married,' and 'Lovely to Look At,' and such spectacles as 'Ivonhoe,' 'King Kong,' 'The Greatest Show on Earth,' and 'Robin Hood,' though each appealing to different segments of the public have with equal compulsion drawn the public out of their homes to neighborhood and Broadway movie houses.

"The weather this summer has been varied too, with hot spells, dry spells and wet spells, but the old theory of the weather influencing the movie-going public has been thrown out this summer and producers and theatre owners are convinced that a concentration of their efforts to give the public interesting, stimulating and amusing quality movies is all the invitation necessary to the people to come to view their films. This has become the keynote in the selection and production of motion pictures for the movie-going public.

"The balance of the summer promises continued favorable movie fare with features such as 'The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima,' 'The Quiet Man,' 'Where's Charlie?,' 'What Price Glory,' and 'Crimson Pirate,' and with films such as 'The Merry Widow,' 'Son of Paleface,' 'Les Miserables,' 'Just for You,' 'Park Row,' and 'Way of a Gaucho,' opening the fall season, movie-goers can continue to look forward to exciting entertainment and producers and exhibitors to a continued strengthening and vitality in the movie business."

Complete 26 Italian Films, 30 in Work

WASHINGTON, August 12.—In the first five months of 1952, 26 Italian films were completed and 30 more were in production or being edited, according to Commerce Department film head Nathan D. Golden.

Seven of the films were Italian-French co-productions and one was a Spanish-Italian co-production, Golden said.

Golden also reported that Unitalia, a semi-official organization concerned with the worldwide promotion of Italian films, is scheduling Italian film weeks for New York, Montreal and Madrid in October and November. The first "Italian Film Week" was held in London June 16-22, with eight productions exhibited.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 12.—Robert O'Donnell of Interstate Theatres of Texas, is in Hollywood this week, for conferences at the RKO Radio studio with Jerry Wald and other executives pertaining to the world premiere in Dallas of "The Lusty Men," a rodeo drama starring Susan Hayward, Robert Mitchum and Arthur Kennedy.

Plans for the opening include an entertainment unit from Hollywood of 20 Texas-born screen and rodeo stars, as well as an advance promotion tour throughout the state by Wald, director Nicholas Ray, Mitchum, Arthur Hunnicutt, Eleanor Todd and screenwriter Horace McCoy. "The Lusty Men" is slated for a saturation release in Texas following its Dallas premiere in October.

the first two bookings for "Bwana Devil," which utilizes the Natural Vision three-dimensional process and is done in Ansco color. It will open at both the Paramount in Downtown Los Angeles and the Paramount in Hollywood on October 16, he stated.

Pink, who is here to set openings in New York, Boston and Washington, said Oboler plans to produce three films per year. Currently, Oboler's "Twonkey" is planned for release in November. Filming of another Oboler three-dimensional production, "Spear in the Sand," is expected to be started in November on location in Bermuda.

The new company, Pink explained, will have distribution points in New York, New Orleans, Charlotte, Dallas, Chicago and San Francisco. Although currently only Oboler films are expected to be distributed by the new firm, Pink said other producers would be welcomed to use its facilities. Tied in with the new company will be the physical facilities of the National Film Carriers Association, it was added.

Road-show engagements with raised admission prices are planned for the first 250 showings of "Bwana Devil," which Pink said cost in excess of $400,000. Oboler's sales terms, it was explained, call for a guarantee and the handling of all promotion and exploitation of the film by an Oboler advertising department, yet to be set up. He said the theatre will pay for the special polarized lenses necessary to obtain the three-dimensional effect. The cost of the lenses was placed at about eight cents each now, but the price is expected to decline to about four cents when greater quantities are ordered, Pink explained.

to this cause and to unceasing vigilance to resist this ruinous plan which the Department of Justice insists upon.

This company already has demonstrated its interest in preserving and perpetuating the theatres of America by a large investment of energy, time and money in pioneering the development of large screen theatre television with color as a means of telecasting live shows of the finest obtainable quality to many theatres simultaneously to supplement motion pictures.

We believe this undertaking to be in the public interest because this superior entertainment will enable them to continue to serve their communities and because their continuation is vital to the American economy and American culture.

Therefore, in a new crisis of this kind threatening the existence of the theatres we cannot bow or surrender or hesitate for a moment if we are to continue to serve America and mankind.

We are willing to rest our faith in the fairmindedness of the American public and its institutions.

mount Theatres merger and other issues within 30 days of the close of the hearings.

Just when the hearings will be officially closed, however, is still undetermined. Resnick has asked the commission to guide him on whether to exclude testimony on two key points: Paramount's activities on Scophony, and anti-trust activities of the companies since August, 1948. If the Commission shoudl say that such testimony is okay, further hearings must be held. Even if the Commission says the testimony is out, there would have to be another meeting of the parties to declare the record officially closed.

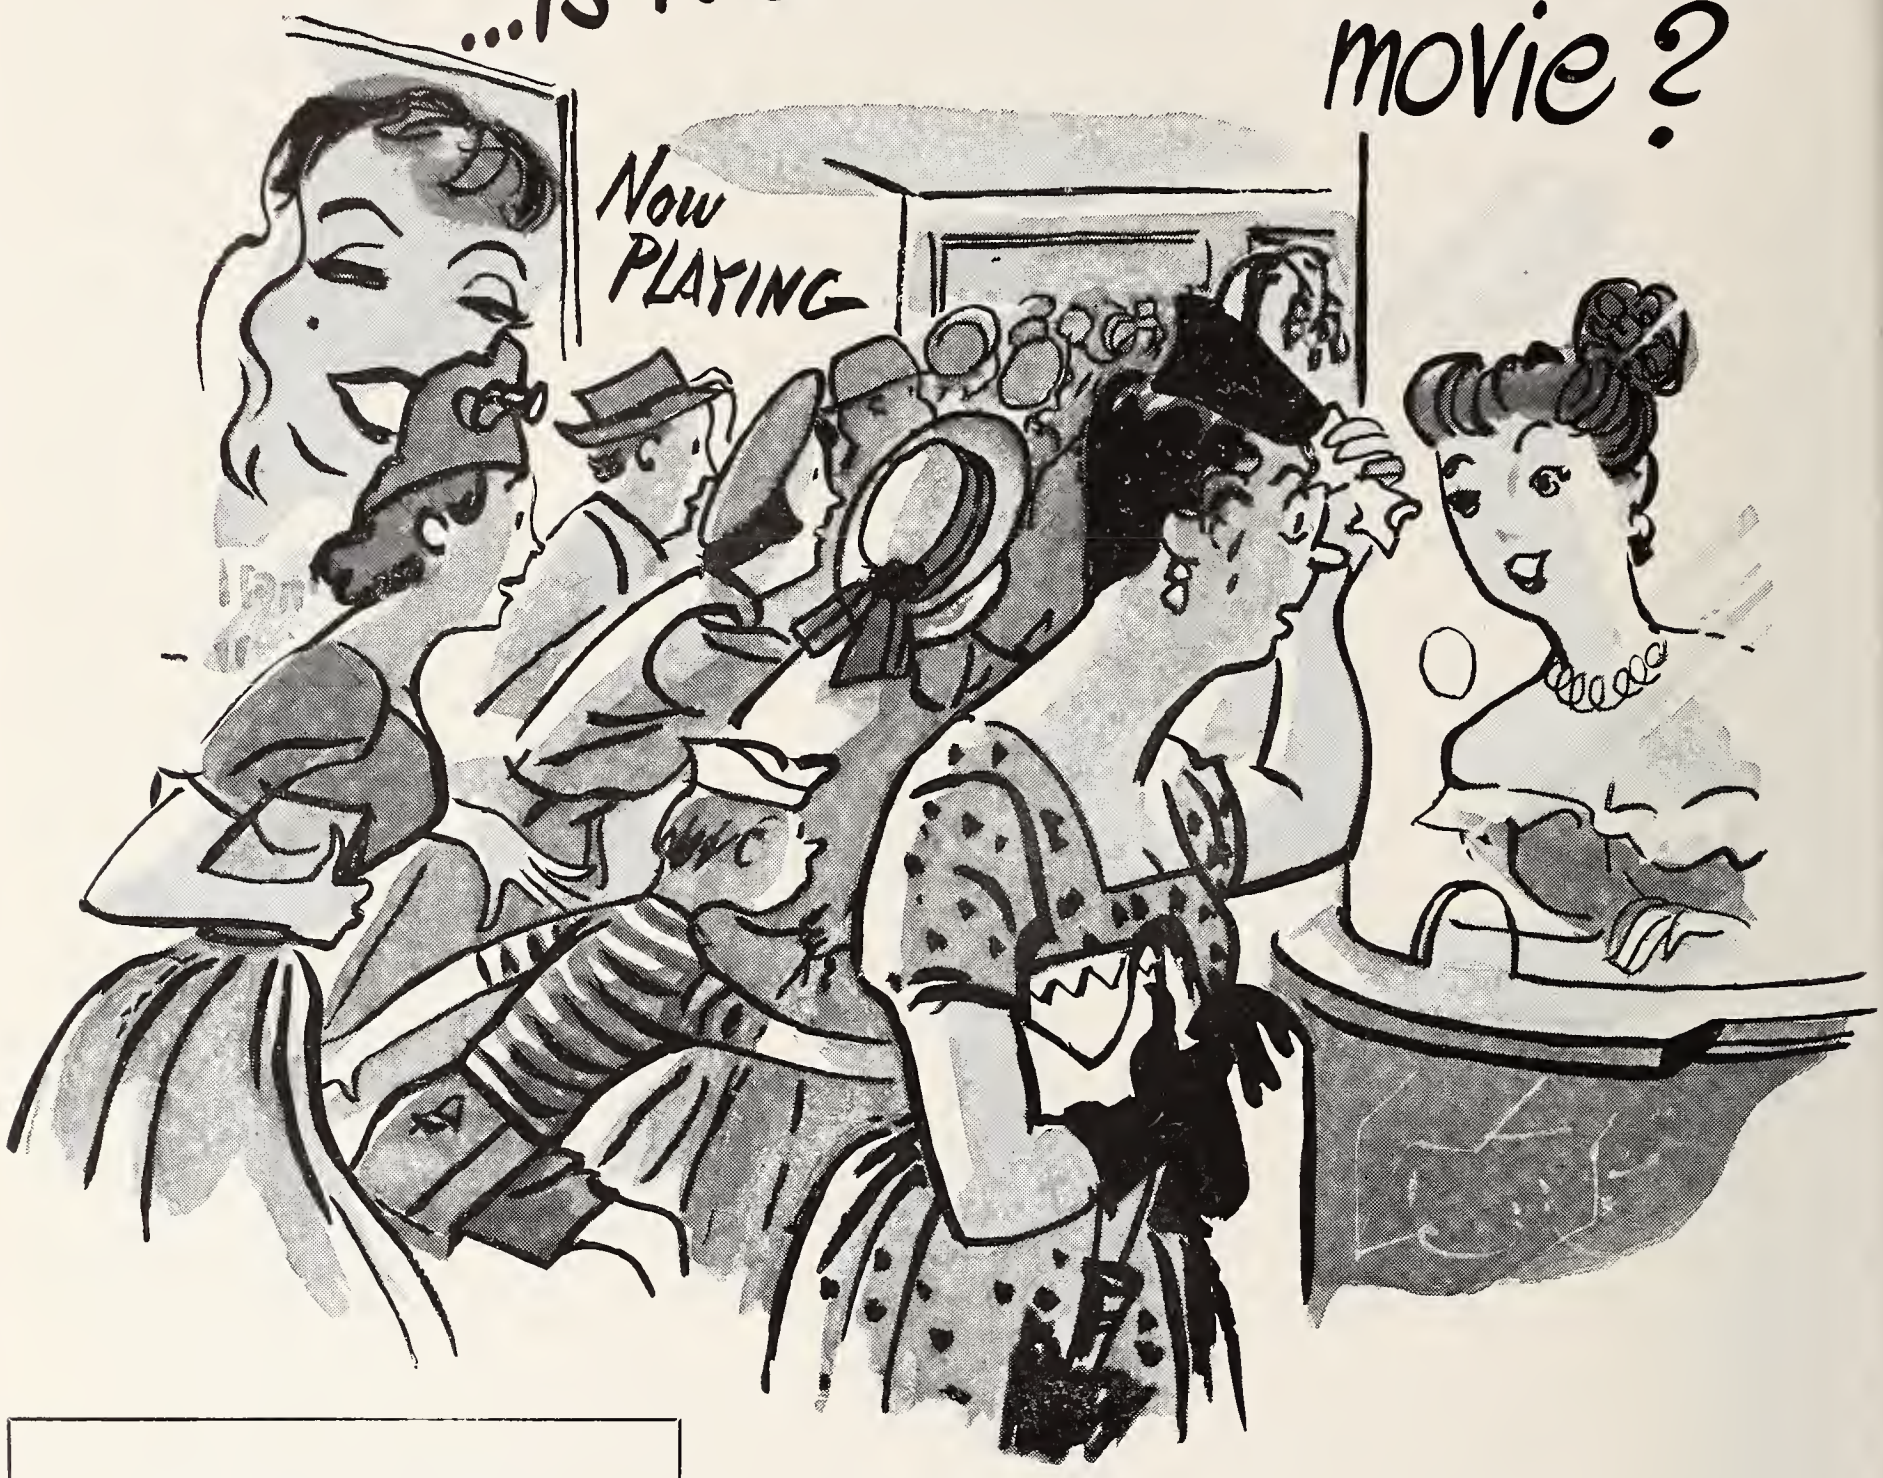
WASHINGTON, August 12.—Italian Films Export is considering setting up a dubbing studio in New York City, according to Commerce Department film chief Nathan D. Golden.



Estimated cost of such a venture would be about $250,000, Golden said. Although Italian films have been dubbed into English in Italy, IFE feels that increased earning capacity and audience appeal would result from dubbing in New York. To date IFE has spent $360,000 on promotion here.

Adult Ticket Prices Hit An All-Time High

Second Quarter Period Is Usually Off, Says US

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Adult admission prices in large cities rose to an all-time high during the second quarter of this year, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today.

Admission prices for children dropped during the April-June period, but this was more than offset by the adult admission price rise, and as a result, the combined adult-children price index also hit an all-time peak.

The adult price trend was surprising in that the second quarter of the year usually sees a seasonal drop in the index.

The Bureau each three months collects price figures in 18 large cities and weights them to represent price trends in the 34 largest cities.

Exhibitors Get Promise in Meet with J. D.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Justice Department officials today promised to consider carefully exhibitor views as to what might constitute "reasonable" clearance between showing of films in theatres and 16mm. showings on television.

The promise was given as four top officials of the anti-trust division met with spokesmen for three theatre owner associations to discuss the government's anti-trust suit aimed at forcing producers to make 16-mm. films more readily available to television. The suit has stirred up a storm of exhibitor protest, but this was the first time that exhibitor spokesmen met face to face with Depart-

U. S. Acts In Brazil Film Import Crisis

Ambassador Off for Rio; Companies to Meet Today

Equipped with the rank of Ambassador, the State Department's Merwin Bohan has left Washington for Rio de Janeiro to investigate the recent removal of motion pictures from Brazil's list of "essential" imports for which import licenses will be granted, film export sources reported here yesterday.

The report was accompanied by the suggestion that Bohan, who will examine as well Brazilian-American trade problems in general, may be prepared to discuss with the Vargas government the possibility of a dollar loan which, if effected, could be instrumental in bringing about reinstatement of films and certain commodities on the "essential" imports list.

Meanwhile, the American distributors' foreign managers, fearful that

Plan Extensive Radio, TV, Theatre Tie-up in N. Y. C.

Plans for one of the most extensive mutual promotion campaigns between motion picture theatres and the radio and television industry were outlined here yesterday by WNBC-WNBT, which is in the process of signing a pact with the Organization of the Motion Picture Industry of New York City.

The campaign, which will involve no exchange of money, is slated to get underway Sept. 8, featuring TV and radio programs partially or wholly devoted to boosting films, and trailers in theatres and lobby displays boosting radio and TV programs and stars.

Cooperating in the campaign are 500 independent and circuit theatres which are members of the New York theatre group, a spokesman for WNBC-WNBT stated. The spokesman called the projected tie-up the first of its kind in the country and

Losers May Examine UA Bid After One Week Wait

Losing bidders for United Artists pictures may examine the winning offers by making a request to do so in writing or in person at local branches seven days after the deadlines for bids, according to a new policy adopted by the sales department.

William J. Heineman, distribution vice-president, said that in instances where the producer of a UA-distributed picture has rejected all bids and competitive negotiation is instituted the losers in the negotiation and bidding are entitled to examine the winning terms under the new policy.

In no case, however, he emphasized, can bid or award winners examine losing offers.

In the current negotiations looking to the establishment of an industry system of arbitration, all distributors have agreed to show winning bids to losing bidders. If the plan is incorporated in any system agreed upon, disclosure of winning bids will become common practice in the industry.

Heineman said UA decided to adopt its new policy after a number of complaints had been received from exhibitors against the practice of not disclosing bids.

Delibridge Leaves Loew's for Own Firm

NASHVILLE, August 13.—Thomas E. Minimize Dialogue For Europe: Holden

HOLLYWOOD, August 13.—American pictures that stress visual action rather than lengthy dialogue, thus minimizing the need for sub-titles, are in heavy demand on the European film market, according to William Holden, who has returned from an extended trip abroad.

The Paramount star, a former vice-president of the Screen Actors Guild, will include this observation in a detailed report he is preparing for use by studio executives and officials of motion picture guilds and unions.

Holden spent much of his time on the Continent visiting with American exchange managers, heads of Hollywood's foreign production units and European producers and directors. He also interviewed foreign moviegoers in countries showing American films. He visited Cannes, Florence, Rome, Naples, London, Paris, Frankfurt and Berlin.

Washington, Aug. 13.—The Defense Production Administration said its goal for expansion of the photographic film and paper industry had been set at $22,000,000 capital investment in added production capacity above Jan. 1, 1951 levels. This goal is to be reached by June 1, 1953, the DPA said, adding that projects have already been approved accounting for almost all of the expansion.

Calls Roxy Notices 'Precautionary'

Notices of possible dismissal received by the personnel of the New York Roxy were described yesterday as "purely precautionary" by David T. Katz, the theatre's managing director.

Katz, pointing to the projected take-over of the Broadway show case by Westco, the new corporate name of National Theatres, said it was the usual thing for new owners to send out dismissal notices. Katz said, however, to his knowledge the same personnel is expected to be retained when Westco assumes operation of the theatre in accordance with 20th Century-Fox consent decree. The target date for the take-over is Sept. 27, the date of the planned divorcement of the company.

Tidwell Is Named 20th-Fox Manager

T. P. Tidwell, salesman in the Dallas branch of 20th Century-Fox, has been promoted to branch manager of the company's Jacksonville exchange, by Al Lichtman, director of distribution. He will replace Marvin Doris, who has resigned, effective in September.

Tidwell, who started with the company in 1931, has served in many capacities in various of the company's offices, having been salesman, office manager, sales manager and head booker.

New 'Coronet' Film Plan

Starting with the September issue, Coronet magazine will inaugurate a new method of recommending motion pictures to its readers. Instead of relying upon the selections of its own board of review, it will have a member of the film industry give his choice. A short profile of the guest reviewer will be included in each issue. The first guest will be Stanley Kramer, and the two films he has selected are "Charley's Aunt" and "The Story of Robin Hood."

McCarthy, MPAA international division chief, and Joaquin Rickard, Association representative in Latin America, to devise a course of action for the latter to follow when he returns shortly to Rio de Janeiro.

It was indicated that the State Department has taken the view that films have been removed from the list of items which can get exchange at the official rate. This means that film companies could still get some exchange, but only in the free market at a substantial discount. State reportedly is seriously worried and has said that if this is true, it would be "quite a serious development."

The present official rate of exchange is 19 pesos to the dollar. The Brazilian parliament, it was said, has before it bills which would legalize the establishment of two rates of exchange: the present one and one for tourists and special capital transactions at the rate of 35 pesos to a dollar. Enactment of such legislation, it is believed, would hasten the return of films to the list which can get exchange at the 19-to-1 rate.

U. S. companies several months ago stopped shipping newsreels to Brazil because of the Brazilian government decree requiring them to buy and export Brazilian newsreels and documentary films equivalent to 10 per cent of the footage imported into Brazil. The rule had the double purpose of aiding Brazilian producers and of creating propaganda abroad for Brazil. U. S. Ambassador Herschel Johnson in Rio has been unsuccessful in his attempts to get the Vargas government to withdraw the decree.

organized finance and fund raising committee of the Variety Clubs-Will Rogers Memorial Hospital, held at Fabian Theatres' board room. Also attending were Fred Schwartz, chairman; Abe Montague, Herman Robbins, Sam Rosen, Charles Feldman, William German, Si Fabian, Eugene Picker, Sam Switow and Ned Shugrue.

Feldman, national distributor chairman, and Sam Switow, national exhibitor chairman, reported to the committee that plans are advanced to the stage where all drive materials, including Christmas scrolls, will be in the hands of volunteers before Nov. 1, the starting date of the 1952 "Christmas Salute" campaign.

ment officials since the suit was filed.

Anticipating the inevitable request, Justice officials opened the conference by stating flatly that the suit could not and would not be dropped and that the conference should proceed on that assumption.

The Justice position, boiled down, was that the Government still feels there is an illegal conspiracy to keep films from television and that it must go through with the suit, but that it realizes the serious consequences for the theatre business and wants the advice and help of exhibitors in determining what relief can be obtained to solve the problem and help television get films without hurting theatre owners too much.

The Government officials at the meeting were Newell Clapp, acting chief of the anti-trust division; Victor Kramer, head of the division's litigation section; Perry Epes, Kramer's assistant; and George Schueler, one of the attorneys who prepared the suit. From exhibitor ranks were Mitchell Wolfson, president of the Theatre Owners of America; Si Fabian, chairman of TOA's executive committee; TOA general counsel, Herman Levy; Harry Brandt, head of the Independent Theatre Owners Association; and Emanuel Frisch of the Metropolitan Motion Picture Theatres Association.

The importance the government attached to the conference was evidenced by two facts: it lasted over one and one-half hours, unusually long, and Kramer interrupted his vacation to attend. Both Justice and exhibitor officials seemed well pleased with the results of the exploratory meeting and indicated other meetings would take place later to discuss the suit further. The exhibitor leaders placed heavy emphasis on the serious consequences the suit could have on theatre owners and on the impracticality of the relief sought by the Government. They stressed again and again the difficulty of determining what constituted "reasonable" clearance between theatre and TV showing, citing past experience in trying to fix reasonable clearance between different theatres.

Justice officials said they admitted that they saw the difficulties in such a determination, and that they were happy to have any help exhibitors might give them on this score. They said they wanted this information not only now, but if and when they win the case, before any final decree is entered by the court.

However, the Justice officials said, even while they realized the difficulties of solving the problem, they could not condone what they feel is an illegal conspiracy creating the problem.

The official TOA statement dwelt on this question of "reasonable" clearance, and then went on to say:

"The spokesmen for the Department stated that they realize and appreciate the competitive status of the motion picture industry and television, and that it will take considerable constructive effort on the part of both interests and the government to establish the ultimate status of both."

TOA officials said they felt they had done a good job in bringing the exhibitor viewpoint to the attention of the Department—a job that could be done far better in person than in letters and wires.

It was learned that there had been some discussion of the possibility of the exhibitors asking for the right to appear, in the case as "friends of the court." At present, TOA is named as a co-conspirator, which gives it no right at all to present its views to the court. There had originally been consideration of asking the right to be named as a defendant, which would confer rights to call witnesses, cross-examine and otherwise take full part in fighting the suit. Apparently, however, this has been toned down to the point where only an "amicus curiae" role is under discussion.

Prominent Place on TOA Agenda Set for U. S. Anti-Trust Suit

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Discussion of what the Theatre Owners of America should do about the Government's 16mm. anti-trust suit will have a prominent place on the Agenda of TOA's convention here next month, president Mitchell Wolfson said today.

TV Tie-up

said it was designed to bring about a "new understanding among the three medias of entertainment."

A spokesman for the Organization of the Motion Picture Industry of New York City, when asked whether the pact had been sealed, commented that it had "not been finalized" but that negotiations were proceeding. However, the radio and television interests stated that a verbal agreement existed between the parties and within two weeks the understanding would be formalized.

Highlights Listed

Under the terms of the understanding, these are the highlights of WNBC-WNBT's promotional role:

Skitch Henderson will kick off the campaign on Sept. 8 with a listing of current and popular films at theatres on his morning show over WNBC.

A "Hollywood, U. S. A." weekly variety show will be inaugurated over WNBC.

The radio station will also feature a documentary series of six or seven programs dramatizing film industry personalities such as producers and directors.

WNBC will also initiate a "Youth Discovers Hollywood" contest.

Over the New York television outlet, WNBT, time will be devoted to a daily listing of current films at New York theatres, in addition to spot announcements. In addition, according to a station spokesman, beginning Sept. 15, there will be a five-minute TV program five days per week featuring interviews with stars and clips from forthcoming pictures.

New York motion picture theatres in turn, according to a WNBC-WNBT spokesman, will show trailers at the end of their coming attractions boosting radio and television stars of the stations, in addition to station programs. Lobby displays and advertisements enclosed in the mail to theatre patrons, boosting the stations' programs and personalities, will be another obligation of the theatres.

Boost 'Off-Hour' Shows

It is understood that the New York theatres in their trailers and promotion are seeking to boost TV programs and TV stars appearing during "off" theatre hours.

Another feature of the experimental mutual promotion program, initiated by Ted Cott, vice-president and general manager of WNBC and WNBT, is a tie-in with super-markets. Selected representatives of such stores will be invited to special previews and will be asked to vote for "the super movie of the month."

The tie-up is expected to continue until late fall, a station spokesman stated.

World Series Over WOR and WOR-TV

For the fourth successive year, New Yorkers will see all World Series contests over WOR-TV, channel No. 9, according to an announcement by R. C. Maddux, vice-president in charge of sales for the station. WOR-TV's telecasts will begin during the first week in October.

WOR will be the only New York station providing coverage of the series on both television and radio, since WOR-Mutual will have exclusive radio broadcasts of the series for the 14th season.

In today's letter, MPAA and NETTC termed the phone company's reasons "wholly unsatisfactory." They took up each of A. T. and T.'s reasons for not supplying the information, and answered it. Then they concluded by saying that the only valid reason they could see for not having the information earlier was that the hearings were not slated to start until January. Now that the hearings have been moved up to October, the two organizations said that the A. DuMont Attacks FCC Decision In Para. Hearings

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Allen B. DuMont Laboratories today bitterly attacked the recent Federal Communications Commission decision in the Paramount hearings, charging that the Commission had "unduly and arbitrarily" interfered with the actions of its hearing examiner and had otherwise violated the Administrative Procedures Act.

The FCC, in an order issued Aug. 1, said anti-trust violations more than three years old should not be considered in passing on the qualifications of existing licensees. DuMont argued that this ruling by the Commission, which laid down rules quite different from those being followed by the parties to the hearing, was aimed at expediting approval of the proposed merger between American Broadcasting Co. and United Paramount Theatres. It said it was highly unfair if ABC and UPT were the only ones to benefit from this "extraordinary procedural action" and urged the Commission to rule that the question of whether Paramount controls DuMont also be determined under the same three-year time limit.

'Dangerous Precedent'

It also claimed that the merged ABC-UPT company was not an existing licensee, and that applying the three-year limit to it was extending the policy to "new applicants, a dangerous precedent." It asked that this be clarified. DuMont also urged the Commission to reconsider its refusal to sever the DuMont-Paramount control issue from the other proceedings.

Finally, DuMont said, if the Commission will not grant any of these requests, it should find that its Aug. 1 order is "vague, indefinite and contradictory, an unreasonable and late modification of essential issues, an undue and arbitrary interference with the rules of evidence and the proceedings governing the determination of the assigned examiner," and otherwise in violation of the Administrative Procedure Act. This means, DuMont said, the Aug. 1 order should be rescinded.

Film Boom Through TV, Says Magazine

Hollywood sees visions of a new heyday for the industry in the light of television, Business Week reports.

"More and more studios are seeing their bread buttered with TV and are quietly going into the business of producing films for television," the magazine says.

"It's predicted that by fall all majors will have a TV tieup of one sort or another.

"Television has obviously given Hollywood a vast new market for its feature pictures. But video people are even more anxious to get films specially tailored for the new medium —27-minute films to fill half-hour spots, allowing time for commercials.

"Already, half of all TV shows are on film; the industry expects that ultimately maybe as much as 80 per cent will be canned, or filmed. For one thing, the quality of the show going out on film is better than 'live' fare," it was said.

Adult Ticket Prices Hit An All-Time High

Second Quarter Period Is Usually Off, Says US

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Adult admission prices in large cities rose to an all-time high during the second quarter of this year, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today.

Admission prices for children dropped during the April-June period, but this was more than offset by the adult admission price rise, and as a result, the combined adult-children price index also hit an all-time peak.

The adult price trend was surprising in that the second quarter of the year usually sees a seasonal drop in the index.

The Bureau each three months collects price figures in 18 large cities and weights them to represent price trends in the 34 largest cities.

Ambassador Off for Rio; Companies to Meet Today

Equipped with the rank of Ambassador, the State Department's Merwin Bohan has left Washington for Rio de Janeiro to investigate the recent removal of motion pictures from Brazil's list of "essential" imports for which import licenses will be granted, film export sources reported here yesterday.

The report was accompanied by the suggestion that Bohan, who will examine as well Brazilian-American trade problems in general, may be prepared to discuss with the Vargas government the possibility of a dollar loan which, if effected, could be instrumental in bringing about reinstatement of films and certain commodities on the "essential" imports list.

Plan Extensive Radio, TV, Theatre Tie-up in N. Y. C.

Plans for one of the most extensive mutual promotion campaigns between motion picture theatres and the radio and television industry were outlined here yesterday by WNBC-WNBT, which is in the process of signing a pact with the Organization of the Motion Picture Industry of New York City.

The campaign, which will involve no exchange of money, is slated to get underway Sept. 8, featuring TV and radio programs partially or wholly devoted to boosting films, and trailers in theatres and lobby displays boosting radio and TV programs and stars.

Cooperating in the campaign are 500 independent and circuit theatres which are members of the New York theatre group, a spokesman for WNBC-WNBT stated. The spokesman called the projected tie-up the first of its kind in the country and

Losing bidders for United Artists pictures may examine the winning offers by making a request to do so in writing or in person at local branches seven days after the deadlines for bids, according to a new policy adopted by the sales department.

William J. Heineman, distribution vice-president, said that in instances where the producer of a UA-distributed picture has rejected all bids and competitive negotiation is instituted the losers in the negotiation and bidding are entitled to examine the winning terms under the new policy.

In no case, however, he emphasized, can bid or award winners examine losing offers.

In the current negotiations looking to the establishment of an industry system of arbitration, all distributors have agreed to show winning bids to losing bidders. If the plan is incorporated in any system agreed upon, disclosure of winning bids will become common practice in the industry.

Heineman said UA decided to adopt its new policy after a number of complaints had been received from exhibitors against the practice of not disclosing bids.

Calls Roxy Notices 'Precautionary'

Notices of possible dismissal received by the personnel of the New York Roxy were described yesterday as "purely precautionary" by David T. Katz, the theatre's managing director.

Katz, pointing to the projected take-over of the Broadway show case by Westco, the new corporate name of National Theatres, said it was the usual thing for new owners to send out dismissal notices. Katz said, however, to his knowledge the same personnel is expected to be retained when Westco assumes operation of the theatre in accordance with 20th Century-Fox consent decree. The target date for the take-over is Sept. 27, the date of the planned divorcement of the company.

Tidwell Is Named 20th-Fox Manager

T. P. Tidwell, salesman in the Dallas branch of 20th Century-Fox, has been promoted to branch manager of the company's Jacksonville exchange, by Al Lichtman, director of distribution. He will replace Marvin Doris, who has resigned, effective in September.

Tidwell, who started with the company in 1931, has served in many capacities in various of the company's offices, having been salesman, office manager, sales manager and head booker.

New 'Coronet' Film Plan

Starting with the September issue, Coronet magazine will inaugurate a new method of recommending motion pictures to its readers. Instead of relying upon the selections of its own board of review, it will have a member of the film industry give his choice. A short profile of the guest reviewer will be included in each issue. The first guest will be Stanley Kramer, and the two films he has selected are "Charley's Aunt" and "The Story of Robin Hood."

AMPA Meeting Today

The Associated Motion Picture Advertisers' board of directors and board of trustees will hold their first meeting of the season today at the Abbey Hotel here, it was reported yesterday by AMPA president Harry K. McWilliams.

Brazil's action may destroy an $11,000,000 market, will meet at the Motion Picture Association of America here today with John G. McCarthy, MPAA international division chief, and Joaquin Rickard, Association representative in Latin America, to devise a course of action for the latter to follow when he returns shortly to Rio de Janeiro.

It was indicated that the State Department has taken the view that films have been removed from the list of items which can get exchange at the official rate. This means that film companies could still get some exchange, but only in the free market at a substantial discount. State reportedly is seriously worried and has said that if this is true, it would be "quite a serious development."

The present official rate of exchange is 19 pesos to the dollar. The Brazilian parliament, it was said, has before it bills which would legalize the establishment of two rates of exchange: the present one and one for tourists and special capital transactions at the rate of 35 pesos to a dollar. Enactment of such legislation, it is believed, would hasten the return of films to the list which can get exchange at the 19-to-1 rate.

U. S. companies several months ago stopped shipping newsreels to Brazil because of the Brazilian government decree requiring them to buy and export Brazilian newsreels and documentary films equivalent to 10 per cent of the footage imported into Brazil. The rule had the double purpose of aiding Brazilian producers and of creating propaganda abroad for Brazil. U. S. Ambassador Herschel Johnson in Rio has been unsuccessful in his attempts to get the Vargas government to withdraw the decree.

Also attending were Fred Schwartz, chairman; Abe Montague, Herman Robbins, Sam Rosen, Charles Feldman, William German, Si Fabian, Eugene Picker, Sam Switow and Ned Shugrue.

Feldman, national distributor chairman, and Sam Switow, national exhibitor chairman, reported to the committee that plans are advanced to the stage where all drive materials, including Christmas scrolls, will be in the hands of volunteers before Nov. 1, the starting date of the 1952 "Christmas Salute" campaign.

ment officials since the suit was filed.

Anticipating the inevitable request, Justice officials opened the conference by stating flatly that the suit could not and would not be dropped and that the conference should proceed on that assumption.

The Justice position, boiled down, was that the Government still feels there is an illegal conspiracy to keep films from television and that it must go through with the suit, but that it realizes the serious consequences for the theatre business and wants the advice and help of exhibitors in determining what relief can be obtained to solve the problem and help television get films without hurting theatre owners too much.

The Government officials at the meeting were Newell Clapp, acting chief of the anti-trust division; Victor Kramer, head of the division's litigation section; Perry Epes, Kramer's assistant; and George Schueler, one of the attorneys who prepared the suit. From exhibitor ranks were Mitchell Wolfson, president of the Theatre Owners of America; Si Fabian, chairman of TOA's executive committee; TOA general counsel, Herman Levy; Harry Brandt, head of the Independent Theatre Owners Association; and Emanuel Frisch of the Metropolitan Motion Picture Theatres Association.

The importance the government attached to the conference was evidenced by two facts: it lasted over one and one-half hours, unusually long, and Kramer interrupted his vacation to attend. Both Justice and exhibitor officials seemed well pleased with the results of the exploratory meeting and indicated other meetings would take place later to discuss the suit further. The exhibitor leaders placed heavy emphasis on the serious consequences the suit could have on theatre owners and on the impracticality of the relief sought by the Government. They stressed again and again the difficulty of determining what constituted "reasonable" clearance between theatre and TV showing, citing past experience in trying to fix reasonable clearance between different theatres.

Justice officials said they admitted that they saw the difficulties in such a determination, and that they were happy to have any help exhibitors might give them on this score. They said they wanted this information not only now, but if and when they win the case, before any final decree is entered by the court.

However, the Justice officials said, even while they realized the difficulties of solving the problem, they could not condone what they feel is an illegal conspiracy creating the problem.

The official TOA statement dwelt on this question of "reasonable" clearance, and then went on to say:

"The spokesmen for the Department stated that they realize and appreciate the competitive status of the motion picture industry and television, and that it will take considerable constructive effort on the part of both interests and the government to establish the ultimate status of both."

TOA officials said they felt they had done a good job in bringing the exhibitor viewpoint to the attention of the Department—a job that could be done far better in person than in letters and wires.

It was learned that there had been some discussion of the possibility of the exhibitors asking for the right to appear, in the case as "friends of the court." At present, TOA is named as a co-conspirator, which gives it no right at all to present its views to the court. There had originally been consideration of asking the right to be named as a defendant, which would confer rights to call witnesses, cross-examine and otherwise take full part in fighting the suit. Apparently, however, this has been toned down to the point where only an "amicus curiae" role is under discussion.

Prominent Place on TOA Agenda Set for U. S. Anti-Trust Suit

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Discussion of what the Theatre Owners of America should do about the Government's 16mm. anti-trust suit will have a prominent place on the Agenda of TOA's convention here next month, president Mitchell Wolfson said today.

TV Tie-up

said it was designed to bring about a "new understanding among the three medias of entertainment."

A spokesman for the Organization of the Motion Picture Industry of New York City, when asked whether the pact had been sealed, commented that it had "not been finalized" but that negotiations were proceeding. However, the radio and television interests stated that a verbal agreement existed between the parties and within two weeks the understanding would be formalized.

Highlights Listed

Under the terms of the understanding, these are the highlights of WNBC-WNBT's promotional role:

Skitch Henderson will kick off the campaign on Sept. 8 with a listing of current and popular films at theatres on his morning show over WNBC.

A "Hollywood, U. S. A." weekly variety show will be inaugurated over WNBC.

The radio station will also feature a documentary series of six or seven programs dramatizing film industry personalities such as producers and directors.

WNBC will also initiate a "Youth Discovers Hollywood" contest.

Over the New York television outlet, WNBT, time will be devoted to a daily listing of current films at New York theatres, in addition to spot announcements. In addition, according to a station spokesman, beginning Sept. 15, there will be a five-minute TV program five days per week featuring interviews with stars and clips from forthcoming pictures.

New York motion picture theatres in turn, according to a WNBC-WNBT spokesman, will show trailers at the end of their coming attractions boosting radio and television stars of the stations, in addition to station programs. Lobby displays and advertisements enclosed in the mail to theatre patrons, boosting the stations' programs and personalities, will be another obligation of the theatres.

Boost 'Off-Hour' Shows

It is understood that the New York theatres in their trailers and promotion are seeking to boost TV programs and TV stars appearing during "off" theatre hours.

Another feature of the experimental mutual promotion program, initiated by Ted Cott, vice-president and general manager of WNBC and WNBT, is a tie-in with super-markets. Selected representatives of such stores will be invited to special previews and will be asked to vote for "the super movie of the month."

The tie-up is expected to continue until late fall, a station spokesman stated.

World Series Over WOR and WOR-TV

For the fourth successive year, New Yorkers will see all World Series contests over WOR-TV, channel No. 9, according to an announcement by R. C. Maddux, vice-president in charge of sales for the station. WOR-TV's telecasts will begin during the first week in October.

WOR will be the only New York station providing coverage of the series on both television and radio, since WOR-Mutual will have exclusive radio broadcasts of the series for the 14th season.

In today's letter, MPAA and NETTC termed the phone company's reasons "wholly unsatisfactory." They took up each of A. T. and T.'s reasons for not supplying the information, and answered it. Then they concluded by saying that the only valid reason they could see for not having the information earlier was that the hearings were not slated to start until January. Now that the hearings have been moved up to October, the two organizations said that the A. T. and T. excuse is gone, and "in view of the imminence of the Oct. 20 hearings, we renew our request for a speedy response to our questions."

Herbert O. Phillips, former art director for M-G-M and Universal, has been appointed executive art director of the scenic division of the CBS television network operations department, it was disclosed here by Frank B. Falknor, CBS-TV vice-president.

DuMont Attacks FCC Decision In Para. Hearings

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Allen B. DuMont Laboratories today bitterly attacked the recent Federal Communications Commission decision in the Paramount hearings, charging that the Commission had "unduly and arbitrarily" interfered with the actions of its hearing examiner and had otherwise violated the Administrative Procedures Act.

The FCC, in an order issued Aug. 1, said anti-trust violations more than three years old should not be considered in passing on the qualifications of existing licensees. DuMont argued that this ruling by the Commission, which laid down rules quite different from those being followed by the parties to the hearing, was aimed at expediting approval of the proposed merger between American Broadcasting Co. and United Paramount Theatres. It said it was highly unfair if ABC and UPT were the only ones to benefit from this "extraordinary procedural action" and urged the Commission to rule that the question of whether Paramount controls DuMont also be determined under the same three-year time limit.

'Dangerous Precedent'

It also claimed that the merged ABC-UPT company was not an existing licensee, and that applying the three-year limit to it was extending the policy to "new applicants, a dangerous precedent." It asked that this be clarified. DuMont also urged the Commission to reconsider its refusal to sever the DuMont-Paramount control issue from the other proceedings.

Finally, DuMont said, if the Commission will not grant any of these requests, it should find that its Aug. 1 order is "vague, indefinite and contradictory, an unreasonable and late modification of essential issues, an undue and arbitrary interference with the rules of evidence and the proceedings governing the determination of the assigned examiner," and otherwise in violation of the Administrative Procedure Act. This means, DuMont said, the Aug. 1 order should be rescinded.

Film Boom Through TV, Says Magazine

Hollywood sees visions of a new heyday for the industry in the light of television, Business Week reports.

"More and more studios are seeing their bread buttered with TV and are quietly going into the business of producing films for television," the magazine says.

"It's predicted that by fall all majors will have a TV tieup of one sort or another.

"Television has obviously given Hollywood a vast new market for its feature pictures. But video people are even more anxious to get films specially tailored for the new medium —27-minute films to fill half-hour spots, allowing time for commercials.

"Already, half of all TV shows are on film; the industry expects that ultimately maybe as much as 80 per cent will be canned, or filmed. For one thing, the quality of the show going out on film is better than 'live' fare," it was said.

AMPA Industry School to Initiate Courses Sept. 24

The Associated Motion Picture Advertisers' board yesterday set Sept. 24 for the opening of an AMPA school to train future industry advertising, publicity and exploitation specialists and to provide others in the industry with an opportunity to increase their knowledge of promotional work, Harry K. McWilliams, AMPA president, reported.

Meanwhile, McWilliams said, a "faculty" consisting of top executives in motion picture advertising will be established to deliver the first course.

Courses will run for 12 weeks and tuition of $15 per course will be charged, McWilliams said. Lectures will be delivered and lessons will be given in film company home office screening rooms. The AMPA president said Columbia, United Artists and RKO Radio already have offered to make their screening rooms available to the school. Such commitment is needed from only one more company, he said, explaining that then it will be necessary to use each screening room only three times during a course. Wednesday evenings were selected for classes.

Special Orchestra For Cinerama Film

A special symphonic orchestra, drawn from the NBC Symphony Orchestra, the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra and the New York Philharmonic, has been assembled to complete the orchestral score for "This Is Cinerama," first production in the new multi-dimensional, curved-screen motion picture medium, which will have its first public demonstration in New York late next month.

Under the supervision of Louis Forbes, music director for Cinerama Productions, the score will be recorded by the new "stereophonic" sound technique, which utilizes seven different sound-tracks and as many separate speakers to provide an audial three-dimensional illusion to match the visual effect on the screen.

Over Half of Films Shown In Austria Made in U. S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—More than half of the 95 pictures released in Austria during the first quarter of 1952 were U. S. films, according to Nathan D. Golden, head of the Commerce Department's film section. Of the 49 U. S. films released, 11 were in color.

Golden also reported that in the same period 13 U. S. pictures played in the Russian zone of Austria for 43 days.

In the first quarter of 1952, Golden said, theatre attendance in Austria rose from 4,142,535, the figure for the final 1951 quarter, to 4,567,961, in spite of increased admission prices and generally stagnant business conditions.

During the first 1952 quarter the Austrian film industry completed three feature films. Three others were in production and four others were scheduled for the second quarter.

3-Week Boston Gross For 'Jacks,' $93,000

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—"Jumping Jacks" ended a three-week engagement at the Metropolitan Theatre here tonight with a total gross of $93,000. The first week's gross was $48,000, second week's, $28,000, third week's, $17,000.

Judge Is Tough on Theatre Rowdies

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 14.—Adhering to a policy of not tolerating rowdyism by juveniles in theatres, Judge Francis Reardon of Family Court committed a 15-year-old youth to the Ferris School for juvenile delinquents following an attack on a Queen Theatre usher, who is crippled from polio and received a broken arm in the attack.

Judge Reardon said he committed the youth as a delinquent because he has a record of juvenile offenses.

"It is also a continuation of the policy of this court, which will not tolerate rowdyism by juveniles in theatres," Judge Reardon added.

Sees A. T. & T. Reply Before FCC Hearing

Assurances that the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. will respond to the industry's request for detailed information regarding TV transmission costs in time for the Federal Communications Commission hearings in October came from an A. T. & T. spokesman here yesterday.

The spokesman said that A. T. & T. engineers and technicians have been working on the information requested by the Motion Picture Association of America and the National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee, regarding the cost of setting up a theatre TV network.

He said A. T. & T.'s reply would be forwarded to the MPAA and NETTC "in the near future." Asked to define what he meant by the "near future," the A. T. & T. spokesman said he presumed "within a month," or before the opening of the FCC's theatre TV hearings Oct. 20. The spokesman said that he did not know what will be contained in the A. T. & T.'s response, or whether it will answer all of the questions about costs propounded by the industry. He did express assurance, however, that the industry's cost structure bid would not go unanswered.

The action was instituted, according to the complaint, in consequence of an attempt by the defendant companies to terminate leases covering the Cambria, Garden, Main Street and St. Albans theatres. These houses and the State were named in the complaint as being covered by the leases in question.

The plaintiffs have asked the court to restrain the defendants from ejecting them from the theatres. They ask also that allegedly illegal clauses be removed from the leases and that the documents otherwise be continued in force for their 20-year terms.

FCC Limits

tion" filed by hearing examiner Leo Resnick, the Commission ruled that testimony relating to Paramount's activities in Scophony Corp. should not be considered further. It also said that the FCC staff and other parties should not be given too much additional time to dig up and present evidence as to the anti-trust activities of the companies since 1948. But it tossed back to Resnick the responsibility of deciding just how much more evidence should be allowed on this all-important point.

See Another Hearing

Resnick indicated he would have another hearing next Tuesday or Wednesday to get the views of the various parties on this point and would probably rule then on the matter.

In its August 1 order, the Commission had said that evidence relating to anti-trust activities not directly involving radio communications should be limited to activities since 1948. Resnick had asked whether activities in the field of manufacturing radio apparatus "directly involved" radio communications. If they did, then testimony on Paramount's activities in Scophony would be in order.

The commission said it meant the three-year limit to apply to any activities not directly involving radio communication services—the flow of advertising or programs to broadcast stations. It said the three-year limit should apply to activities in the radio manufacturing field, since this affected radio communications only indirectly. This means that no testimony can be considered on the Scophony situation for periods prior to August, 1948. All the testimony so far in the record or contemplated dealt with earlier years, and so is excluded.

Resnick also had told the Commission that the FCC's broadcast bureau wanted to start an investigation into the companies' activities since August, 1948, including the Milgram anti-trust suit, the Government suit against National Screen Service and other defendants, and the government suit against Madison Square Garden Corp., whose directors include three Paramount officials.

He said such an investigation would involve a delay in resuming hearings and then another lengthy hearing period.

The Commission said the question of granting a delay in hearings or holding the record open was primarily one for the examiner to decide and that "we do not wish to hamper that discretion, even at the request of the examiner." However, it said, the August 1 commission order did urge the proceedings "be expedited." Concluded the commission today, tossing the ball right back to Resnick:

"A further extensive investigation and the prolonged continuance which that would entail would scarcely be consistent with the objective of a speedy determination of the proceeding. Consistent with such speedy determination, however, we believe that if any participant desires to present any evidence which has thus far not been presented, but which is now believed to be important in light of our August 1 order, such participant should have reasonable opportunity to present that evidence and other participants should have appropriate opportunity to rebut it."

FCC officials have indicated that they doubt they can put together in a hurry any great amount of information about the post-1948 activities of the companies.

Herald-Tribune Editorial Hits U. S. TV Films Suit

UNDER THE HEADING "Another Administration Mistake," the New York Herald-Tribune yesterday editorially scored the government anti-trust suit seeking to force producer-distributors to sell their feature films to television. The Independent Theatre Owners Association of New York contributed information to the newspaper concerning the suit. The editorial herewith is reprinted in full with the permission of the Herald-Tribune.

The politically tinged Department of Justice has shown time and time again in its interpretation and administration of the anti-trust law that it simply does not understand the basic economics of the business world today. In some actions the Department has been able to justify its complaint but in many others it seemed that the Department was seeking to penalize efficiency or "bigness."

Its most recent foray into the field of profits and losses (an unfamiliar place for too many government agents), provides a striking illustration of the inability or unwillingness of this arm of the national administration to understand the free enterprise system and the daily problems that must be overcome if red ink or bankruptcy is to be avoided. The motion-picture industry, the experts in Washington seem to have decided, must be compelled to commit economic suicide. This industry, which represents an investment of more than two and a half billion dollars, should not be permitted to protect the investment against its closest and yet most demanding relative, the television industry. It should make available to this competitor, according to Mr. McGranery and his helpers in the Justice Department, the motion pictures that it now releases only to theatres around the country. Examined from any point of view, this is a most unrealistic attitude. A film can bring in $25,000, perhaps $50,000, from the 109 TV stations across the country. Yet it costs many times $50,000 to produce an ordinary Hollywood film and only by showing these films in motion-picture houses can the producer recover the investment.

One of the worrying aspects of this case is the calm assurance given by Mr. McGranery's department that they recognize the desirability of a "reasonable" clearance period between the showing of a film in a theatre and over TV. This suggests that the Justice Department is prepared to exercise maximum control over an industry which demands the highest order of business acumen and skill. We believe the problem is one to be worked out between the two industries with only a minimum of government interference. The interests of neither the motion-picture industry nor the television industry will be served if the government insists on destroying property rights. By the same token, even the innocent bystander, the television viewer, will suffer if the government persists. The Justice Department should study more carefully and more patiently every point of view before proceeding precipitately.

made very good progress in tying up loose ends on the mechanics of the convention, such as registration, transportation, women's activities and other topics, and had also done well in laying out a tentative agenda. They explained that a final agenda could not be announced because speaking dates and other arrangements still had to be confirmed.

On Monday night, it was announced, the delegates will see the world premiere of a top new feature. The name was not revealed.

The convention committee is headed by A. Julian Brylawski, president of the Washington Theatre Owners Association. Meeting with him and with practically his entire committee were these top TOA officials: President Mitchell Wolfson, executive committee chairman Si Fabian, executive director Gael Sullivan, general counsel Herman Levy, service co-ordinator, Howard Bryant, and Sullivan's assistant, Dick Pitts.

French Pact

with respect to motion pictures in this connection, the reason being that in international trade films are in a "special category."

No action was taken at yesterday's MPEA meeting on the French question. Another meeting on it will be held early next week. Meanwhile, negotiations in Paris between the U. S. and French governments were said to be "progressing."

The MPEA, while reportedly disinclined to encourage the inclusion of a subsidy provision in the new Franco-American pact, would nevertheless "go along," it was said, with such an agreement in the face of French insistence. The Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers, on the other hand, has stated flatly that it would not, under any circumstances, accept a subsidy agreement, which would mean that the burden of subsidization would fall entirely on the MPEA.

Other countries discussed at the MPEA parley were Brazil and Mexico. The former has removed motion pictures from its list of "essential" imports and the State Department's Merwin Bohan has left Washington for Rio de Janeiro to investigate. Bohan, the MPEA meeting learned, has been thoroughly briefed on the motion picture problem.

on the drive for admission tax repeal, stated that the Council of Motion Picture Organizations' machinery now going into operation at the local level across the land, indicates the constructive power the industry can wield when properly coordinated.

Rembusch told the meeting that the $300,000,000 being siphoned off annually by the tax represents the difference between failure and survival for 6,000 smaller theatres, and that the failure of these would be reflected tenfold on the fortunes of the industry as a whole.

At the suggestion of studio heads, COMPO representatives will take steps to insure more frequent exhibitor-producer meetings in Hollywood, with three to four annually deemed appropriate. Studio executives present were Dore Schary of M-G-M, Harry Cohn of Columbia, Y. Frank Freeman of Paramount, C. J. Tevlin of RKO Radio, Darryl Zanuck of 20th Century-Fox, Jack Warner of Warner Brothers, William Goetz of Universal, and Jack Baker, representing Republic's Herbert Yates.

the meeting. Eric A. Johnston, MPAA president, will be present.

Today's "streamlining" discussion may be a climactic one, in that definite arrangements for taking the necessary steps toward improving distribution facilities may be announced.

During the past few months MPAA statisticians have been compiling comparative figures that are said to emphasize the disadvantages of duplication by the various companies in their distribution of product. Film carrier firms, meanwhile, are understood to be prepared to cooperate in every way possible toward advancing "streamlined" operations.

AMPA Industry School to Initiate Courses Sept. 24

The Associated Motion Picture Advertisers' board yesterday set Sept. 24 for the opening of an AMPA school to train future industry advertising, publicity and exploitation specialists and to provide others in the industry with an opportunity to increase their knowledge of promotional work, Harry K. McWilliams, AMPA president, reported.

Meanwhile, McWilliams said, a "faculty" consisting of top executives in motion picture advertising will be established to deliver the first course.

Courses will run for 12 weeks and tuition of $15 per course will be charged, McWilliams said. Lectures will be delivered and lessons will be given in film company home office screening rooms. The AMPA president said Columbia, United Artists and RKO Radio already have offered to make their screening rooms available to the school. Such commitment is needed from only one more company, he said, explaining that then it will be necessary to use each screening room only three times during a course. Wednesday evenings were selected for classes.

William Howard, RKO Theatres vice-president, has informed the AMPA that he will pay the tuition

Special Orchestra For Cinerama Film

A special symphonic orchestra, drawn from the NBC Symphony Orchestra, the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra and the New York Philharmonic, has been assembled to complete the orchestral score for "This Is Cinerama," first production in the new multi-dimensional, curved-screen motion picture medium, which will have its first public demonstration in New York late next month.

Under the supervision of Louis Forbes, music director for Cinerama Productions, the score will be recorded by the new "stereophonic" sound technique, which utilizes seven different sound-tracks and as many separate speakers to provide an audial three-dimensional illusion to match the visual effect on the screen.

Over Half of Films Shown In Austria Made in U. S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—More than half of the 95 pictures released in Austria during the first quarter of 1952 were U. S. films, according to Nathan D. Golden, head of the Commerce Department's film section. Of the 49 U. S. films released, 11 were in color.

Golden also reported that in the same period 13 U. S. pictures played in the Russian zone of Austria for 43 days.

In the first quarter of 1952, Golden said, theatre attendance in Austria rose from 4,142,535, the figure for the final 1951 quarter, to 4,567,961, in spite of increased admission prices and generally stagnant business conditions.

During the first 1952 quarter the Austrian film industry completed three feature films. Three others were in production and four others were scheduled for the second quarter.

Sees A. T. & T. Reply Before FCC Hearing

Assurances that the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. will respond to the industry's request for detailed information regarding TV transmission costs in time for the Federal Communications Commission hearings in October came from an A. T. & T. spokesman here yesterday.

The spokesman said that A. T. & T. engineers and technicians have been working on the information requested by the Motion Picture Association of America and the National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee, regarding the cost of setting up a theatre TV network.

He said A. T. & T.'s reply would be forwarded to the MPAA and NETTC "in the near future." Asked to define what he meant by the "near future," the A. T. & T. spokesman said he presumed "within a month," or before the opening of the FCC's theatre TV hearings Oct. 20. The spokesman said that he did not know what will be contained in the A. T. & T.'s response, or whether it will answer all of the questions about costs propounded by the industry. He did express assurance, however, that the industry's cost structure bid would not go unanswered.

The action was instituted, according to the complaint, in consequence of an attempt by the defendant companies to terminate leases covering the Cambria, Garden, Main Street and St. Albans theatres. These houses and the State were named in the complaint as being covered by the leases in question.

The plaintiffs have asked the court to restrain the defendants from ejecting them from the theatres. They ask also that allegedly illegal clauses be removed from the leases and that the documents otherwise be continued in force for their 20-year terms.

tion" filed by hearing examiner Leo Resnick, the Commission ruled that testimony relating to Paramount's activities in Scophony Corp. should not be considered further. It also said that the FCC staff and other parties should not be given too much additional time to dig up and present evidence as to the anti-trust activities of the companies since 1948. But it tossed back to Resnick the responsibility of deciding just how much more evidence should be allowed on this all-important point.

See Another Hearing

Resnick indicated he would have another hearing next Tuesday or Wednesday to get the views of the various parties on this point and would probably rule then on the matter.

In its August 1 order, the Commission had said that evidence relating to anti-trust activities not directly involving radio communications should be limited to activities since 1948. Resnick had asked whether activities in the field of manufacturing radio apparatus "directly involved" radio communications. If they did, then testimony on Paramount's activities in Scophony would be in order.

The commission said it meant the three-year limit to apply to any activities not directly involving radio communication services—the flow of advertising or programs to broadcast stations. It said the three-year limit should apply to activities in the radio manufacturing field, since this affected radio communications only indirectly. This means that no testimony can be considered on the Scophony situation for periods prior to August, 1948. All the testimony so far in the record or contemplated dealt with earlier years, and so is excluded.

Resnick also had told the Commission that the FCC's broadcast bureau wanted to start an investigation into the companies' activities since August, 1948, including the Milgram anti-trust suit, the Government suit against National Screen Service and other defendants, and the government suit against Madison Square Garden Corp., whose directors include three Paramount officials.

He said such an investigation would involve a delay in resuming hearings and then another lengthy hearing period.

The Commission said the question of granting a delay in hearings or holding the record open was primarily one for the examiner to decide and that "we do not wish to hamper that discretion, even at the request of the examiner." However, it said, the August 1 commission order did urge the proceedings "be expedited." Concluded the commission today, tossing the ball right back to Resnick:

"A further extensive investigation and the prolonged continuance which that would entail would scarcely be consistent with the objective of a speedy determination of the proceeding. Consistent with such speedy determination, however, we believe that if any participant desires to present any evidence which has thus far not been presented, but which is now believed to be important in light of our August 1 order, such participant should have reasonable opportunity to present that evidence and other participants should have appropriate opportunity to rebut it."

FCC officials have indicated that they doubt they can put together in a hurry any great amount of information about the post-1948 activities of the companies.

Herald-Tribune Editorial Hits U. S. TV Films Suit

UNDER THE HEADING "Another Administration Mistake," the New York Herald-Tribune yesterday editorially scored the government anti-trust suit seeking to force producer-distributors to sell their feature films to television. The Independent Theatre Owners Association of New York contributed information to the newspaper concerning the suit. The editorial herewith is reprinted in full with the permission of the Herald-Tribune.

The politically tinged Department of Justice has shown time and time again in its interpretation and administration of the anti-trust law that it simply does not understand the basic economics of the business world today. In some actions the Department has been able to justify its complaint but in many others it seemed that the Department was seeking to penalize efficiency or "bigness."

Its most recent foray into the field of profits and losses (an unfamiliar place for too many government agents), provides a striking illustration of the inability or unwillingness of this arm of the national administration to understand the free enterprise system and the daily problems that must be overcome if red ink or bankruptcy is to be avoided. The motion-picture industry, the experts in Washington seem to have decided, must be compelled to commit economic suicide. This industry, which represents an investment of more than two and a half billion dollars, should not be permitted to protect the investment against its closest and yet most demanding relative, the television industry. It should make available to this competitor, according to Mr. McGranery and his helpers in the Justice Department, the motion pictures that it now releases only to theatres around the country. Examined from any point of view, this is a most unrealistic attitude. A film can bring in $25,000, perhaps $50,000, from the 109 TV stations across the country. Yet it costs many times $50,000 to produce an ordinary Hollywood film and only by showing these films in motion-picture houses can the producer recover the investment.

One of the worrying aspects of this case is the calm assurance given by Mr. McGranery's department that they recognize the desirability of a "reasonable" clearance period between the showing of a film in a theatre and over TV. This suggests that the Justice Department is prepared to exercise maximum control over an industry which demands the highest order of business acumen and skill. We believe the problem is one to be worked out between the two industries with only a minimum of government interference. The interests of neither the motion-picture industry nor the television industry will be served if the government insists on destroying property rights. By the same token, even the innocent bystander, the television viewer, will suffer if the government persists. The Justice Department should study more carefully and more patiently every point of view before proceeding precipitately.

made very good progress in tying up loose ends on the mechanics of the convention, such as registration, transportation, women's activities and other topics, and had also done well in laying out a tentative agenda. They explained that a final agenda could not be announced because speaking dates and other arrangements still had to be confirmed.

On Monday night, it was announced, the delegates will see the world premiere of a top new feature. The name was not revealed.

The convention committee is headed by A. Julian Brylawski, president of the Washington Theatre Owners Association. Meeting with him and with practically his entire committee were these top TOA officials: President Mitchell Wolfson, executive committee chairman Si Fabian, executive director Gael Sullivan, general counsel Herman Levy, service co-ordinator, Howard Bryant, and Sullivan's assistant, Dick Pitts.

with respect to motion pictures in this connection, the reason being that in international trade films are in a "special category."

No action was taken at yesterday's MPEA meeting on the French question. Another meeting on it will be held early next week. Meanwhile, negotiations in Paris between the U. S. and French governments were said to be "progressing."

The MPEA, while reportedly disinclined to encourage the inclusion of a subsidy provision in the new Franco-American pact, would nevertheless "go along," it was said, with such an agreement in the face of French insistence. The Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers, on the other hand, has stated flatly that it would not, under any circumstances, accept a subsidy agreement, which would mean that the burden of subsidization would fall entirely on the MPEA.

Other countries discussed at the MPEA parley were Brazil and Mexico. The former has removed motion pictures from its list of "essential" imports and the State Department's Merwin Bohan has left Washington for Rio de Janeiro to investigate. Bohan, the MPEA meeting learned, has been thoroughly briefed on the motion picture problem.

on the drive for admission tax repeal, stated that the Council of Motion Picture Organizations' machinery now going into operation at the local level across the land, indicates the constructive power the industry can wield when properly coordinated.

Rembusch told the meeting that the $300,000,000 being siphoned off annually by the tax represents the difference between failure and survival for 6,000 smaller theatres, and that the failure of these would be reflected tenfold on the fortunes of the industry as a whole.

At the suggestion of studio heads, COMPO representatives will take steps to insure more frequent exhibitor-producer meetings in Hollywood, with three to four annually deemed appropriate. Studio executives present were Dore Schary of M-G-M, Harry Cohn of Columbia, Y. Frank Freeman of Paramount, C. J. Tevlin of RKO Radio, Darryl Zanuck of 20th Century-Fox, Jack Warner of Warner Brothers, William Goetz of Universal, and Jack Baker, representing Republic's Herbert Yates.

the meeting. Eric A. Johnston, MPAA president, will be present.

Today's "streamlining" discussion may be a climactic one, in that definite arrangements for taking the necessary steps toward improving distribution facilities may be announced.

During the past few months MPAA statisticians have been compiling comparative figures that are said to emphasize the disadvantages of duplication by the various companies in their distribution of product. Film carrier firms, meanwhile, are understood to be prepared to cooperate in every way possible toward advancing "streamlined" operations.

VOL. 72. NO. 34 NEW YORK, U.S.A., MONDAY, AUGUST 18, 1952 TEN CENTS

By SHERWIN KANE

THE ENTIRE industry has welcomed the numerous editorial and columnar expressions which have appeared in newspapers and other publications throughout the country citing some of the dangers of the government's suit to force the sale of films to television.

Those numerous published expressions have been uniformly on the industry's side and critical of the Department of Justice's action. They are of great value to the industry in counter-acting the impression left with the public by the filing of the suit that a benevolent and paternalistic government is about to obtain the finest motion pictures for their living rooms.

Even those timid, shallow-thinking individuals among us who shrink from the suggestion of using the theatre screens to bring the industry's side of the case before the public are agreed with the rest of us that the published editorials and signed columns exposing some of the folly of the government suit are of great value to the industry in its opposition to the action.

Why, then, should not those expressions favorable to the industry and its case be made known to the vastly greater audience of the screen? If their circulation among the limited, local readership of individual publications is important to the industry, then how much more important could they become if presented to the theatres' national audience.

The material is at hand, supplied by many fair-minded, clear-thinking writers and their publications. Much more of it is on the way. The industry needs only to make use of it to have its story known widely. Excerpts from those valuable published expressions can be reproduced in a series of 60- to 90-second trailers and, shown regularly in every theatre in the land, can do much to overcome the fallacious public thinking that the finest motion pictures are about to be added to the endless list of Federal handouts.

Meet Today to Record Compo Dues Progress

With only a short additional clean-up drive for Council of Motion Picture Organizations dues expected to be needed following the major campaign conducted last week throughout the country, the industry agency's treasury is said to be well stocked with "ammunition" for coming battles in behalf of the industry and its rights.

Results of last week's drive will be tabulated today when distribution and exhibitor area committees meet with film salesmen in each of the 33 exchange cities.

COMPO officials here reported that spot checks over the weekend indicated "excellent progress" was being made and that widespread enthusiasm existed among field personnel conduct-

'Streamlining' Of Distribution Still In 'Talking' Stage

Several more meetings on the subject of distribution "streamlining" will be necessary before plans for improvements could be put in force, it was indicated on Friday following discussion of the subject by the Motion Picture Association of America distribution committee at the MPAA office here.

Friday's meeting, a spokesman said, delved into some of the data compiled by MPAA statisticians concerning the merits of more "streamlined" operations. It was pointed out that some MPAA member companies are not yet entirely convinced that "streamlining" is the solution to many distribution problems.

Presided over by Alfred W. Schwalberg, Paramount Distributing Corp. president, and chairman of the MPAA distribution committee, the Friday

Repeats It Recognizes Needs of Theatremen

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17. — The Justice Department today answered the critics of its 16 mm. anti-trust suit, declaring that its case rests entirely on an alleged illegal conspiracy among the producers.

In an official statement aimed at producers, exhibitors, newspapers and others criticizing the Department's action, acting anti-trust chief Newell Clapp said the Department feels producers must be required to sell their films to all purchasers, including television, until the "pattern established by the conspiracy has been dispelled." Minneapolis Sets Family Night Plan

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 17.—A family night promotion designed to stimulate business for the loop theatres, retail stores and the local transit company, will be launched here Thursday evening, Robert Karatz, co-owner of the Gopher Theatre, first run loop house, and a member of the downtown theatre committee, disclosed at the weekend.

The Minneapolis Street Railway Co. will offer free rides one way on buses and street cars to all adults and children going into the loop between the hours of seven and nine P. M. All adults and children leaving the buses and street cars in the loop, will receive a numbered coupon similar looking to a transfer and if the coupon corresponds with one of the approximately one-thousand numbers to be posted in theatre lobbies, they will be admitted free of charge.

The promotional program will be sponsored jointly by the loop theatres, retail stores and the transit company and will be all inclusive. This will include screen trailers, lobby displays, newspaper, radio and television advertising, window cards and displays in downtown stores, and display cards in all street cars and buses. The family night promotion is expected to return business to the loop which is now going in greater strength to the shopping centers in the suburbs.

NCA's Berger Sets Regional Tax Meets

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 17.—Plans for an all-out industry fight to eliminate the 20 per cent Federal admission tax will be highlighted at a series of regional meetings set by North Central Allied president Ben Berger, and executive counsel Stan Kane, for Duluth, Sioux Falls, Bismarck and Fargo. They will be luncheon meetings, timed for the state primaries.

The NCA strategy on the tax fight will be concentrated on a "buttonhole" campaign on the local level with successful candidates in the primaries, based on the theory the tax elimination strength will have to come from the grass roots.

First of the Berger-Kane meetings will be held at the Duluth Hotel, Duluth, Aug. 26, with all exhibitors in the Duluth-Superior area invited to attend. Roy Prytz and Clarence Kaake are local chairmen. South Dakota and Southwestern Minnesota exhibitors will meet with the NCA executives at the Carpenter Hotel, Sioux Falls, on Aug. 27. North Dakota meetings have been set for the Patterson Hotel at Bismarck, Sept. 3, and at Fargo, Sept. 4, at a hotel yet to be selected.

Last week I saw the motion picture screen achieve new heights of greatness . . . I saw

"The Snows of Kilimanjaro"

Rarely does a motion picture comprise, simultaneously, such a wealth of elements that insure stirring, unforgettable entertainment with such unlimited boxoffice potential, among young and old. It has . . .

A Great Title: Widely known in every land . . . conjuring up a vastness of scope, an aura of mystery, the tingle of anticipation.

A Great Author: It is based on one of Ernest Hemingway's most celebrated, most compelling masterpieces.

Great Stars: Gregory Peck, Susan Hayward and Ava Gardner—supported by Hildegarde Neff, Leo G. Carroll, Torin Thatcher, Ava Norring, Helene Stanley and Vicente Gomez.

A Great Producer: It has been personally produced by Darryl F. Zanuck, who gave you such outstanding entertainments as "David and Bathsheba," "All About Eve," "12 O'Clock High," "Gentleman's Agreement" and "Pinky."

A Great Director: It has been directed by Henry King, who brought you "David and Bathsheba," "Song of Bernadette" and "12 O'Clock High."

A Great Photographer: Filmed in heretofore unenvisioned splendors of Technicolor by three-time Academy Award winner Leon Shamroy, who photographed "David and Bathsheba," "Cheaper By The Dozen," "Wilson" and "Leave Her To Heaven."

A Great Campaign: The most extensive, most penetrating advertising, publicity and exploitation campaign in our company's history.

It moves across the world on the broadest of canvases from Africa to France and Spain and to the Wisconsin of America's Middle West—from the heady wine and tender hours of Parisian nights to hippopotami-teeming waters of the throbbing jungle. It has unrivalled scenery and the spectacular excitement of the bull-ring in Madrid. It has a hyena that produces the greatest animal thrill ever filmed. It excites with the menace of the lion and the vulture —and the furious charge of the rhinoceros.

"The Snows of Kilimanjaro" is the greatest love story I have ever seen — and in my opinion the finest motion picture our company has ever produced.

It will be available for pre-release engagements in a number of selected theatres in a limited number of large cities beginning early in October, following its World Premiere Presentation at the Rivoli Theatre, New York, on September 18th. The tremendous exploitation penetration accruing from these pre-release engagements will give "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" word-of-mouth publicity seldom before attained by any motion picture.

Very soon, we will announce trade showings. I urge every exhibitor to be sure to attend.

James Frank Leaves NPA Deputy Post

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—James Frank, Jr., has resigned as deputy director of the National Production Authority's film branch, director Nathan D. Golden announced.

The resignation is effective Friday. Frank has accepted a sales executive position with a firm distributing consumer durable goods in New Orleans, Golden said.

Frank joined the NPA in Nov., 1950. Prior to that he had been associated for over 20 years with the motion picture and photographic equipment industries as president of United Photo Supply Corp. of Atlanta, New York branch manager of National Theatre Supply, and assistant to the Photophone sales manager of RCA.

RCA Synchro-Screen For 'Fatima' Opening

A new RCA "synchro-screen" has been installed in the Bijou Theatre here for the showing of Warner Brothers' "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima." The picture, which will have a special invitation premiere at the Astor Theatre on Wednesday evening, will be shown at the Bijou on a reserved seat basis and at the Astor on a continuous performance basis beginning Thursday.

The synchro-screen features panels on all four sides which pick up and reflect diffused light from the picture. "This imparts to the patron a new and dramatic sense of realism by making the action on the screen appear to occupy a larger portion of his field of vision," according to Warner.

MMPTA Takes Space In Compo Suite Here

The Metropolitan Motion Picture Theatres Association, made up of circuits and independent theatres in the New York area, has turned over to the Theatre Owners of America the office space it occupied on the fourth floor of the Paramount Building here, and has rented space in the 21st floor suite occupied by the Council of Motion Picture Organizations. MMPTA and TOA were co-tenants of a fourth floor suite for the past four years.

Edward Rugoff is MMPTA's president, and D. John Phillips is its executive director.

N. Brunswick Paper Gives Ad Rate Cut

Through the efforts of Edward Sniderman, division manager; Thomas Wright, city manager, and Ward Farrar, publicist, RKO theatres in New Brunswick, N. J., have been able to obtain a reduction in advertising rates from the New Brunswick Home News.

The newspaper dropped its local theatre rate from $1.65 per column inch to $1.55. The new rate applies to local motion picture advertising and does not change the rate for other types of amusements.

Universal 'Props' To Ohio's Fair

COLUMBUS, Aug. 17.—"Props" from a score of past and present Universal pictures have been added to the "Hollywood at the Fair" exhibit for the Ohio State Fair here Aug. 22-29, announced Robert Wile, secretary of the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio, sponsors of the exhibit.

Reviews

"The Happy Time"

(Stanley Kramer Productions-Columbia)

A VERY ENTERTAINING, well-made film is Stanley Kramer's version of the Richard Rodgers-Oscar Hammerstein stage play, "The Happy Time." A fine cast, uniformly giving excellent performances, is headed by Charles Boyer and Louis Jourdan and includes Marsha Hunt, Kurt Kasznar, Linda Christian, Bobby Driscoll, Marcel Dalio and others.

The story of the joys, troubles and eccentricities of an unconventional family of French Canadians in the 1920's is smoothly told under the direction of Richard Fleischer and all of the story ingredients that made it a long run stage hit are deftly emphasized herein to produce strong box-office entertainment.

Boyer brings an engaging sincerity to his role of the father of Bobby Driscoll, whose emergence from adolescence is accompanied by familiar problems of confused emotions. Jourdan, as the traveling salesman with a weakness for pretty faces, the wine-bibing Kasznar with the problem of an unmarried and unattractive daughter, both brothers of Boyer's, and their father, Dalio, cheerfully romancing himself toward an elusive grave, are the chief eccentrics of the family and a prolific source of amusement.

Miss Hunt, as Boyer's wife, a down-to-earth Scotch woman who inexplicably has become a part of the turbulent Gallic environment, and Miss Christian, as the out-of-work vaudevillian for whom they make a place in their home, complete the domestic scene.

The story, for the most part in humorous vein, shows how the problems of Bobby's growing-up and his fancied infatuation for Miss Christian are met. Also resolved along the way is the solid romance between Jourdan and Miss Christian following a succession of setbacks and the finding in Richard Erdman of a suitor for Kasznar's daughter, Ann Faber. No solution is found for Kasznar's wine drinking from a water cooler nor for Grandpere Dalio's unquenchable yearning after the female of the species. Some of the dialogue concerning the latter runs to the risque but manages to avoid being offensive.

Excellent in lesser parts are Marlene Cameron as Bobby's girl friend; Jack Raine as a stern school principal; Kathryn Sheldon as a teacher; Will Wright as the family doctor; Jeanette Nolan as Kasznar's wife and Gene Collins as Bobby's schoolroom nemesis.

Earl Felton did the screen play, based on Samuel Taylor's stage play and the book by Robert Fontaine. Dimitri Tiomkin and Ned Washington contributed a song, "The Happy Time."

Running time, 94 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, not set.

"O. Henry's Full House"

(20th Century-Fox)

SOME OF AMERICA'S favorite short stories are contained in this omnibus production, highlighted by a galaxy of stars, including Charles Laughton, Fred Allen, Anne Baxter, Marilyn Monroe and Dale Robertson.

For the first time, audiences throughout the country will be able to see a multi-storied presentation of O. Henry's works come to life on the screen. The ready-made receptive audience, plus the factor of a star-studded cast, should make this film a good box-office grosser.

Of the five stories offered, two are warm-hearted sentimental gems—"The Gift of the Magi" and "The Last Leaf." The entertainment quality of the remaining stories are uneven, yet the poorest in comparison contains a chuckle or a tear. There is enough in this film to please most any taste and individuals will differ and argue which vignette is the best.

The stories are tied together by the narration of novelist John Steinbeck. Andre Hakim produced.

Anne Baxter, Jean Peters and Gregory Ratoff play the leads in "The Last Leaf," under the direction of Jean Negulesco, from a screenplay by Ivan Goff and Ben Roberts. The plot situation concerns two sisters, one heartbroken and sick, both of whom are befriended in their Greenwich Village apartment by a warm-hearted artist, Gregory Ratoff.

"The Gift of the Magi" is part of America's folklore. The story of a young married couple and their self-sacrifice, in a Christmas holiday setting, stars Jean Crain and Farley Granger. Henry King directed from a screenplay by Walter Bullock.

The most disappointing story to this reviewer was "The Ransom of Red Chief," which stars Fred Allen and Oscar Levant. Although it does contain a few laughs, the story never becomes alive, nor does it overcome plot contrivances to show the truly humorous situation of kidnapers being conquered by their 10-year-old prey. Howard Hawks directed.

Charles Laughton "struts and frets his hour upon the stage" in "The Cop and the Anthem," directed by Henry Koster from a screenplay by Lamar Trotti. His is an effective, if somewhat flamboyant, portrayal of the skid row character who tries his best to land in jail in order to escape the winter cold. Marilyn Monroe has her brief appearance in this sequence.

The other story is "The Clarion Call," directed by Henry Hathaway from a screenplay by Richard Breen, featuring Dale Robertson and Richard Widmark. This should find its audience among the action fans.

Others in the cast include David Wayne, Joyce MacKenzie and Lee Aaker.

Running time, 117 minutes. General audience classification. For September release.

Justice Hits

Department recognizes the exhibitor's problem and that the court would set "reasonable clearance" to protect theatre owners.

Clapp said he was issuing the statement to clear up misunderstanding as to the objectives of the case and the applicable anti-trust laws, and that while he was going to discuss the objectives and nature of the suit, he was not going to discuss the evidence, which would be presented to the court in due time.

Specifies Offense

The anti-trust laws, Clapp said, make it perfectly legal for any individual producer, acting alone, to refuse to have his product exhibited on television. "It is not lawful, however," he stated, "for him to agree with his competitors that neither he nor they will let their product get on the television screen. This is the offense charged here."

Clapp said it had been claimed that it was perfectly natural for producers to restrict TV showings of their films in order not to undermine their business with theatres. "The government suit does not attack this practice," he said, returning to the illegal conspiracy theme. "The suit attacks the alleged combination or agreement among the defendants that none of them will allow its product to be shown on TV."

If the Department is successful in establishing a conspiracy, Clapp said, it believes that in order to effectively terminate the conspiracy "producers must not only be prohibited from continuing the combination but each producer should also be prevented from conducting itself in the manner agreed on in the course of the conspiracy. In order to accomplish this, the Department believes producers should be required to sell their products to all producers, including television stations, until such time as the pattern established by the combination has been dispelled."

The complaint recognizes, Clapp declared, that theatres must have reasonable clearance over TV showings, and that the courts will set just what constitutes "reasonable" clearance.

It has been charged, the statement continued, that Hollywood would ruin itself by selling to its chief competitor. This is incorrect, Clapp said. He declared this charge overlooks the fact that the complaint specifically says there should be reasonable clearance between theatres and television.

"This language makes it clear that the Department recognizes the problem confronting the motion picture industry in this period of adjustment to new technological development," Clapp stated. "But if we are to continue to preserve a climate of economic freedom, which is in large measure responsible for our technological progress, we must ever be alert against agreements among competitors seeking to stifle the new order. Men of good will may differ as to the methods by which the entertainment industry is to accommodate itself to television. But they will unite in condemning agreements among competitors restricting competition among themselves and with the television industry. The 16mm. case charges that such an agreement exists. The objectives of the suit are in accord with the basic philosophy upon which our economic institutions rest."

World-Telegram Calls U. S. TV Film Suit 'Outrageous'

THE FOLLOWING hard-hitting, outspoken editorial characterizing the government action to force the sale of films to television and other non-theatricol users as an "outrageous" action was published in the New York World-Telegram and Sun on Friday, Aug. 15, under the title "A Phony Anti-trust Suit." Some of the information concerning the government action wos furnished the W. T. & S. by the Independent Theatre Owners Association of New York. The editoriol is reprinted in full here by permission of the World-Telegram & Sun.

Under the laudable pretext of doing something for shut-ins, hospital patients, church and club groups and members of the Armed Forces, the Department of Justice has filed an antitrust suit against a number of film companies. It wants the courts to compel them to sell 16mm. film to all comers virtually without strings attached.

Actually this suit strikes us as being as phony as a $3 bill. The film companies already are well looking after the interests of those with a legitimate stake in the 16mm films. They are not, and for perfectly obvious reasons, looking after the interests of the television industry and the fly-by-night film peddlers. On the contrary, they are trying to keep these from killing the movie theatres which furnish film makers with the big bulk of their income.

True, theatres use 35mm, not 16mm films. But most movie makers shoot both sizes simultaneously. If they have to throw the narrower print onto the open market, what's to prevent TV from snapping it up and showing it in competition with the theatre offering?

The Department of Justice says it would not object to providing "reasonable clearance periods between runs of a particular feature motion picture in a theatre and exhibitions (including telecasts) of the same motion picture on 16mm film."

But who's to determine what constitutes a "reasonable period"? Some films—too few, we'll admit—attain immortality. Brought back they can fill theatres years after their first showing. Is it for some bureaucrat rather than the makers themselves to say how long such pictures should not be allowed to compete with theatres?

Few people are going to pay to see a picture in a theatre when they can see the same thing, or one of equal entertainment value, for free at home or over a couple of beers in some neighboring tavern. Theatre owners are sufficiently hit by present TV competition, even with those outrageous Westerns without having involuntarily to provide it with topflight material for its shows.

More than a year ago when the Federal Communications Commission threatened reprisals against the film industry in this controversy, we said, "It certainly is not in the public interest to have a bunch of bureaucrats threatening one industry for refusing to lay down its life for a rival."

This is just as true today of the Department of Justice's suit. It is perfectly proper for TV and the movies to be battling for the public's attention. It is outrageous, however, for the government, theoretically the referee in any conflict between rival interests, to sneak across a kidney punch on one of the contestants. For such an action the government should be hooted out of the ring.

ing the drive. A short clean-up drive will probably be launched in each exchange territory to collect COMPO dues from theatres or circuits that might have been missed in last week's canvass.

Reports of the drive results will be wired to COMPO headquarters here by the exchange area committees following their meetings today.

Topping COMPO's agenda for fall activities is the industry drive to win repeal of the 20 per cent tax.

the new economic period. He is less sure about both exhibition and distribution.

Production is commended on the basis of what Harvey says he "has seen and heard" of new product which, he believes will include a "great number of well-made, entertaining pictures which the public will want to buy." He adds that the public is demanding all pictures in color and he congratulates the progress studios are making in meeting that demand.

Of distribution, Harvey says, maintenance of a set national sales policy on pictures is "stupid and criminal" and part of an era that no longer obtains. That policy, he says, deprives many fine pictures of their maximum sales and imposes, in turn, a burden on production by depriving it of revenue that could be obtained by more modern sales policies.

He scores exhibition for slip-shod operating and housekeeping policies, for double featuring, for bidding between non-competitive theatres, for ads which "lie" to the public and for tolerating the Federal admission tax.

Michigan Exhibitors Protest 16mm. Suit

DETROIT, Aug. 17.—Protests against the U. S. suit to force the sale of 16mm. films to television and pledges of full support to the Council of Motion Picture Organizations' drive to repeal the Federal 20 per cent admission tax were voiced at a meeting held in Traverse City attended by 40 independent exhibitors. L. G. Griffin of Manta City, Mich., directed the meeting.

Plans for regular monthly meetings were discussed. So far meetings of the group are set for Aug. 28 and Sept. 11.

AIR MAIL EDITION

VOL. 72. NO. 34 NEW YORK, U. S. A., MONDAY, AUGUST 18, 1952 TEN CENTS

Tradewise . . .

By SHERWIN KANE

THE ENTIRE industry has welcomed the numerous editorial and columnar expressions which have appeared in newspapers and other publications throughout the country citing some of the dangers of the government's suit to force the sale of films to television.

Those numerous published expressions have been uniformly on the industry's side and critical of the Department of Justice's action. They are of great value to the industry in counter-acting the impression left with the public by the filing of the suit that a benevolent and paternalistic government is about to obtain the finest motion pictures for their living rooms.

Even those timid, shallow-thinking individuals among us who shrink from the suggestion of using the theatre screens to bring the industry's side of the case before the public are agreed with the rest of us that the published editorials and signed columns exposing some of the folly of the government suit are of great value to the industry in its opposition to the action.

Why, then, should not those expressions favorable to the industry and its case be made known to the vastly greater audience of the screen? If their circulation among the limited, local readership of individual publications is important to the industry, then how much more important could they become if presented to the theatres' national audience.

The material is at hand, supplied by many fair-minded, clear-thinking writers and their publications. Much more of it is on the way. The industry needs only to make use of it to have its story known widely. Excerpts from those valuable published expressions can be reproduced in a series of 60- to 90-second trailers and, shown regularly in every theatre in the land, can do much to overcome the fallacious public thinking that the finest motion pictures are about to be added to the endless list of Federal handouts.

Meet Today to Record Compo Dues Progress

With only a short additional clean-up drive for Council of Motion Picture Organizations dues expected to be needed following the major campaign conducted last week throughout the country, the industry agency's treasury is said to be well stocked with "ammunition" for coming battles in behalf of the industry and its rights.

Results of last week's drive will be tabulated today when distribution and exhibitor area committees meet with film salesmen in each of the 33 exchange cities.

COMPO officials here reported that spot checks over the weekend indicated "excellent progress" was being made and that widespread enthusiasm existed among field personnel conduct-

'Streamlining' Of Distribution Still In 'Talking' Stage

Several more meetings on the subject of distribution "streamlining" will be necessary before plans for improvements could be put in force, it was indicated on Friday following discussion of the subject by the Motion Picture Association of America distribution committee at the MPAA office here.

Friday's meeting, a spokesman said, delved into some of the data compiled by MPAA statisticians concerning the merits of more "streamlined" operations. It was pointed out that some MPAA member companies are not yet entirely convinced that "streamlining" is the solution to many distribution problems.

Repeats It Recognizes Needs of Theatremen

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17. — The Justice Department today answered the critics of its 16 mm. anti-trust suit, declaring that its case rests entirely on an alleged illegal conspiracy among the producers.

In an official statement aimed at producers, exhibitors, newspapers and others criticizing the Department's action, acting anti-trust chief Newell Clapp said the Department feels producers must be required to sell their films to all purchasers, including television, until the "pattern established by the conspiracy has been dispelled." He reiterated, however, that the

Minneapolis Sets Family Night Plan

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 17.—A family night promotion designed to stimulate business for the loop theatres, retail stores and the local transit company, will be launched here Thursday evening, Robert Karatz, co-owner of the Gopher Theatre, first run loop house, and a member of the downtown theatre committee, disclosed at the weekend.

The Minneapolis Street Railway Co. will offer free rides one way on buses and street cars to all adults and children going into the loop between the hours of seven and nine P. M. All adults and children leaving the buses and street cars in the loop, will receive a numbered coupon similar looking to a transfer and if the coupon corresponds with one of the approximately one-thousand numbers to be posted in theatre lobbies, they will be admitted free of charge.

The promotional program will be sponsored jointly by the loop theatres, retail stores and the transit company and will be all inclusive. This will include screen trailers, lobby displays, newspaper, radio and television advertising, window cards and displays in downtown stores, and display cards in all street cars and buses. The family night promotion is expected to return business to the loop which is now going in greater strength to the shopping centers in the suburbs.

Besides Karatz, other members of the downtown theatre committee are: Harry Weiss, division manager, RKO Theatres, Robert Whalen, manager, RKO Orpheum, E. Seibel and Don Alexander of the advertising department of the Minnesota Amusement Co.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 17.—Plans for an all-out industry fight to eliminate the 20 per cent Federal admission tax will be highlighted at a series of regional meetings set by North Central Allied president Ben Berger, and executive counsel Stan Kane, for Duluth, Sioux Falls, Bismarck and Fargo. They will be luncheon meetings, timed for the state primaries.

The NCA strategy on the tax fight will be concentrated on a "buttonhole" campaign on the local level with successful candidates in the primaries, based on the theory the tax elimination strength will have to come from the grass roots.

First of the Berger-Kane meetings will be held at the Duluth Hotel, Duluth, Aug. 26, with all exhibitors in the Duluth-Superior area invited to attend. Roy Prytz and Clarence Kaake are local chairmen. South Dakota and Southwestern Minnesota exhibitors will meet with the NCA executives at the Carpenter Hotel, Sioux Falls, on Aug. 27. North Dakota meetings have been set for the Patterson Hotel at Bismarck, Sept. 3, and at Fargo, Sept. 4, at a hotel yet to be selected.

PROBABLY THE MOST SIGNIFICANT STATEMENT YOU WILL READ THIS YEAR!

Last week I saw the motion picture screen achieve new heights of greatness . . . I saw

"The Snows of Kilimanjaro"

Rarely does a motion picture comprise, simultaneously, such a wealth of elements that insure stirring, unforgettable entertainment with such unlimited boxoffice potential, among young and old. It has . . .

A Great Title: Widely known in every land . . . conjuring up a vastness of scope, an aura of mystery, the tingle of anticipation.

A Great Author: It is based on one of Ernest Hemingway's most celebrated, most compelling masterpieces.

Great Stars: Gregory Peck, Susan Hayward and Ava Gardner—supported by Hildegarde Neff, Leo G. Carroll, Torin Thatcher, Ava Norring, Helene Stanley and Vicente Gomez.

A Great Producer: It has been personally produced by Darryl F. Zanuck, who gave you such outstanding entertainments as "David and Bathsheba," "All About Eve," "12 O'Clock High," "Gentleman's Agreement" and "Pinky."

A Great Director: It has been directed by Henry King, who brought you "David and Bathsheba," "Song of Bernadette" and "12 O'Clock High."

A Great Photographer: Filmed in heretofore unenvisioned splendors of Technicolor by three-time Academy Award winner Leon Shamroy, who photographed "David and Bathsheba," "Cheaper By The Dozen," "Wilson" and "Leave Her To Heaven."

A Great Campaign: The most extensive, most penetrating advertising, publicity and exploitation campaign in our company's history.

It moves across the world on the broadest of canvases from Africa to France and Spain and to the Wisconsin of America's Middle West—from the heady wine and tender hours of Parisian nights to hippopotami-teeming waters of the throbbing jungle. It has unrivalled scenery and the spectacular excitement of the bull-ring in Madrid. It has a hyena that produces the greatest animal thrill ever filmed. It excites with the menace of the lion and the vulture —and the furious charge of the rhinoceros.

"The Snows of Kilimanjaro" is the greatest love story I have ever seen — and in my opinion the finest motion picture our company has ever produced.

It will be available for pre-release engagements in a number of selected theatres in a limited number of large cities beginning early in October, following its World Premiere Presentation at the Rivoli Theatre, New York, on September 18th. The tremendous exploitation penetration accruing from these pre-release engagements will give "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" word-of-mouth publicity seldom before attained by any motion picture.

Very soon, we will announce trade showings. I urge every exhibitor to be sure to attend.

James Frank Leaves NPA Deputy Post

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17. — James Frank, Jr., has resigned as deputy director of the National Production Authority's film branch, director Nathan D. Golden announced.

The resignation is effective Friday. Frank has accepted a sales executive position with a firm distributing consumer durable goods in New Orleans, Golden said.

Frank joined the NPA in Nov., 1950. Prior to that he had been associated for over 20 years with the motion picture and photographic equipment industries as president of United Photo Supply Corp. of Atlanta, New York branch manager of National Theatre Supply, and assistant to the Photophone sales manager of RCA.

RCA Synchro-Screen For 'Fatima' Opening

A new RCA "synchro-screen" has been installed in the Bijou Theatre here for the showing of Warner Brothers' "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima." The picture, which will have a special invitation premiere at the Astor Theatre on Wednesday evening, will be shown at the Bijou on a reserved seat basis and at the Astor on a continuous performance basis beginning Thursday.

The synchro-screen features panels on all four sides which pick up and reflect diffused light from the picture. "This imparts to the patron a new and dramatic sense of realism by making the action on the screen appear to occupy a larger portion of his field of vision," according to Warner.

MMPTA Takes Space In Compo Suite Here

The Metropolitan Motion Picture Theatres Association, made up of circuits and independent theatres in the New York area, has turned over to the Theatre Owners of America the office space it occupied on the fourth floor of the Paramount Building here, and has rented space in the 21st floor suite occupied by the Council of Motion Picture Organizations. MMPTA and TOA were co-tenants of a fourth floor suite for the past four years.

Edward Rugoff is MMPTA's president, and D. John Phillips is its executive director.

N. Brunswick Paper Gives Ad Rate Cut

Through the efforts of Edward Sniderman, division manager; Thomas Wright, city manager, and Ward Farrar, publicist, RKO theatres in New Brunswick, N. J., have been able to obtain a reduction in advertising rates from the New Brunswick Home News.

The newspaper dropped its local theatre rate from $1.65 per column inch to $1.55. The new rate applies to local motion picture advertising and does not change the rate for other types of amusements.

Universal 'Props' To Ohio's Fair

COLUMBUS, Aug. 17.—"Props" from a score of past and present Universal pictures have been added to the "Hollywood at the Fair" exhibit for the Ohio State Fair here Aug. 22-29, announced Robert Wile, secretary of the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio, sponsors of the exhibit.

Reviews

"The Happy Time"

(Stanley Kramer Productions-Columbia)

A VERY ENTERTAINING, well-made film is Stanley Kramer's version of the Richard Rodgers-Oscar Hammerstein stage play, "The Happy Time." A fine cast, uniformly giving excellent performances, is headed by Charles Boyer and Louis Jourdan and includes Marsha Hunt, Kurt Kasznar, Linda Christian, Bobby Driscoll, Marcel Dalio and others.

The story of the joys, troubles and eccentricities of an unconventional family of French Canadians in the 1920's is smoothly told under the direction of Richard Fleischer and all of the story ingredients that made it a long run stage hit are deftly emphasized herein to produce strong box-office entertainment.

Boyer brings an engaging sincerity to his role of the father of Bobby Driscoll, whose emergence from adolescence is accompanied by familiar problems of confused emotions. Jourdan, as the traveling salesman with a weakness for pretty faces, the wine-bibing Kasznar with the problem of an unmarried and unattractive daughter, both brothers of Boyer's, and their father, Dalio, cheerfully romancing himself toward an elusive grave, are the chief eccentrics of the family and a prolific source of amusement.

Miss Hunt, as Boyer's wife, a down-to-earth Scotch woman who inexplicably has become a part of the turbulent Gallic environment, and Miss Christian, as the out-of-work vaudevillian for whom they make a place in their home, complete the domestic scene.

The story, for the most part in humorous vein, shows how the problems of Bobby's growing-up and his fancied infatuation for Miss Christian are met. Also resolved along the way is the solid romance between Jourdan and Miss Christian following a succession of setbacks and the finding in Richard Erdman of a suitor for Kasznar's daughter, Ann Faber. No solution is found for Kasznar's wine drinking from a water cooler nor for Grandpere Dalio's unquenchable yearning after the female of the species. Some of the dialogue concerning the latter runs to the risque but manages to avoid being offensive.

Excellent in lesser parts are Marlene Cameron as Bobby's girl friend; Jack Raine as a stern school principal; Kathryn Sheldon as a teacher; Will Wright as the family doctor; Jeanette Nolan as Kasznar's wife and Gene Collins as Bobby's schoolroom nemesis.

Earl Felton did the screen play, based on Samuel Taylor's stage play and the book by Robert Fontaine. Dimitri Tiomkin and Ned Washington contributed a song, "The Happy Time."

Running time, 94 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, not set.

"O. Henry's Full House"

(20th Century-Fox)

SOME OF AMERICA'S favorite short stories are contained in this omnibus production, highlighted by a galaxy of stars, including Charles Laughton, Fred Allen, Anne Baxter, Marilyn Monroe and Dale Robertson.

For the first time, audiences throughout the country will be able to see a multi-storied presentation of O. Henry's works come to life on the screen. The ready-made receptive audience, plus the factor of a star-studded cast, should make this film a good box-office grosser.

Of the five stories offered, two are warm-hearted sentimental gems—"The Gift of the Magi" and "The Last Leaf." The entertainment quality of the remaining stories are uneven, yet the poorest in comparison contains a chuckle or a tear. There is enough in this film to please most any taste and individuals will differ and argue which vignette is the best.

The stories are tied together by the narration of novelist John Steinbeck. Andre Hakim produced.

Anne Baxter, Jean Peters and Gregory Ratoff play the leads in "The Last Leaf," under the direction of Jean Negulesco, from a screenplay by Ivan Goff and Ben Roberts. The plot situation concerns two sisters, one heartbroken and sick, both of whom are befriended in their Greenwich Village apartment by a warm-hearted artist, Gregory Ratoff.

"The Gift of the Magi" is part of America's folklore. The story of a young married couple and their self-sacrifice, in a Christmas holiday setting, stars Jean Crain and Farley Granger. Henry King directed from a screenplay by Walter Bullock.

The most disappointing story to this reviewer was "The Ransom of Red Chief," which stars Fred Allen and Oscar Levant. Although it does contain a few laughs, the story never becomes alive, nor does it overcome plot contrivances to show the truly humorous situation of kidnapers being conquered by their 10-year-old prey. Howard Hawks directed.

Charles Laughton "struts and frets his hour upon the stage" in "The Cop and the Anthem," directed by Henry Koster from a screenplay by Lamar Trotti. His is an effective, if somewhat flamboyant, portrayal of the skid row character who tries his best to land in jail in order to escape the winter cold. Marilyn Monroe has her brief appearance in this sequence.

The other story is "The Clarion Call," directed by Henry Hathaway from a screenplay by Richard Breen, featuring Dale Robertson and Richard Widmark. This should find its audience among the action fans.

Others in the cast include David Wayne, Joyce MacKenzie and Lee Aaker.

Running time, 117 minutes. General audience classification. For September release.

Department recognizes the exhibitor's problem and that the court would set "reasonable clearance" to protect theatre owners.

Clapp said he was issuing the statement to clear up misunderstanding as to the objectives of the case and the applicable anti-trust laws, and that while he was going to discuss the objectives and nature of the suit, he was not going to discuss the evidence, which would be presented to the court in due time.

Specifies Offense

The anti-trust laws, Clapp said, make it perfectly legal for any individual producer, acting alone, to refuse to have his product exhibited on television. "It is not lawful, however," he stated, "for him to agree with his competitors that neither he nor they will let their product get on the television screen. This is the offense charged here."

Clapp said it had been claimed that it was perfectly natural for producers to restrict TV showings of their films in order not to undermine their business with theatres. "The government suit does not attack this practice," he said, returning to the illegal conspiracy theme. "The suit attacks the alleged combination or agreement among the defendants that none of them will allow its product to be shown on TV."

If the Department is successful in establishing a conspiracy, Clapp said, it believes that in order to effectively terminate the conspiracy "producers must not only be prohibited from continuing the combination but each producer should also be prevented from conducting itself in the manner agreed on in the course of the conspiracy. In order to accomplish this, the Department believes producers should be required to sell their products to all producers, including television stations, until such time as the pattern established by the combination has been dispelled."

The complaint recognizes, Clapp declared, that theatres must have reasonable clearance over TV showings, and that the courts will set just what constitutes "reasonable" clearance.

It has been charged, the statement continued, that Hollywood would ruin itself by selling to its chief competitor. This is incorrect, Clapp said. He declared this charge overlooks the fact that the complaint specifically says there should be reasonable clearance between theatres and television.

"This language makes it clear that the Department recognizes the problem confronting the motion picture industry in this period of adjustment to new technological development," Clapp stated. "But if we are to continue to preserve a climate of economic freedom, which is in large measure responsible for our technological progress, we must ever be alert against agreements among competitors seeking to stifle the new order. Men of good will may differ as to the methods by which the entertainment industry is to accommodate itself to television. But they will unite in condemning agreements among competitors restricting competition among themselves and with the television industry. The 16mm. case charges that such an agreement exists. The objectives of the suit are in accord with the basic philosophy upon which our economic institutions rest."

World-Telegram Calls U. S. TV Film Suit 'Outrageous'

THE FOLLOWING hard-hitting, outspoken editorial characterizing the government action to force the sale of films to television and other non-theatrical users as an "outrageous" action was published in the New York World-Telegram and Sun on Friday, Aug. 15, under the title "A Phony Anti-trust Suit." Some of the information concerning the government action was furnished the W. T. & S. by the Independent Theatre Owners Association of New York. The editorial is reprinted in full here by permission of the World-Telegram & Sun.

Under the laudable pretext of doing something for shut-ins, hospital patients, church and club groups and members of the Armed Forces, the Department of Justice has filed an antitrust suit against a number of film companies. It wants the courts to compel them to sell 16mm. film to all comers virtually without strings attached.

Actually this suit strikes us as being as phony as a $3 bill. The film companies already are well looking after the interests of those with a legitimate stake in the 16mm films. They are not, and for perfectly obvious reasons, looking after the interests of the television industry and the fly-by-night film peddlers. On the contrary, they are trying to keep these from killing the movie theatres which furnish film makers with the big bulk of their income.

True, theatres use 35mm, not 16mm films. But most movie makers shoot both sizes simultaneously. If they have to throw the narrower print onto the open market, what's to prevent TV from snapping it up and showing it in competition with the theatre offering?

The Department of Justice says it would not object to providing "reasonable clearance periods between runs of a particular feature motion picture in a theatre and exhibitions (including telecasts) of the same motion picture on 16mm film."

But who's to determine what constitutes a "reasonable period"? Some films—too few, we'll admit—attain immortality. Brought back they can fill theatres years after their first showing. Is it for some bureaucrat rather than the makers themselves to say how long such pictures should not be allowed to compete with theatres?

Few people are going to pay to see a picture in a theatre when they can see the same thing, or one of equal entertainment value, for free at home or over a couple of beers in some neighboring tavern. Theatre owners are sufficiently hit by present TV competition, even with those outrageous Westerns without having involuntarily to provide it with topflight material for its shows.

More than a year ago when the Federal Communications Commission threatened reprisals against the film industry in this controversy, we said, "It certainly is not in the public interest to have a bunch of bureaucrats threatening one industry for refusing to lay down its life for a rival."

This is just as true today of the Department of Justice's suit. It is perfectly proper for TV and the movies to be battling for the public's attention. It is outrageous, however, for the government, theoretically the referee in any conflict between rival interests, to sneak across a kidney punch on one of the contestants. For such an action the government should be hooted out of the ring.

Harvey Calls

the new economic period. He is less sure about both exhibition and distribution.

Production is commended on the basis of what Harvey says he "has seen and heard" of new product which, he believes will include a "great number of well-made, entertaining pictures which the public will want to buy." He adds that the public is demanding all pictures in color and he congratulates the progress studios are making in meeting that demand.

Of distribution, Harvey says, maintenance of a set national sales policy on pictures is "stupid and criminal" and part of an era that no longer obtains. That policy, he says, deprives many fine pictures of their maximum sales and imposes, in turn, a burden on production by depriving it of revenue that could be obtained by more modern sales policies.

He scores exhibition for slip-shod operating and housekeeping policies, for double featuring, for bidding between non-competitive theatres, for ads which "lie" to the public and for tolerating the Federal admission tax.

Michigan Exhibitors Protest 16mm. Suit

DETROIT, Aug. 17.—Protests against the U. S. suit to force the sale of 16mm. films to television and pledges of full support to the Council of Motion Picture Organizations' drive to repeal the Federal 20 per cent admission tax were voiced at a meeting held in Traverse City attended by 40 independent exhibitors. L. G. Griffin of Manta City, Mich., directed the meeting.

Plans for regular monthly meetings were discussed. So far meetings of the group are set for Aug. 28 and Sept. 11.

Solid Business Continues At New York's First-Runs

Smiles still are creasing the faces of New York's first-run theatre managers as prosperity continues its welcome siege of Times Square area houses. The weather, be it rainy or sunny and hot, appears to be less a factor determining the extent of business than the likelihood that television is losing its grip on entertainment seekers, many managers believe. Top quality product from Hollywood has done the job, in the opinion of virtually all.

Leading the prosperity parade is "Ivanhoe" and a stage bill at Radio City Music Hall where $101,000 grossed Thursday through Sunday indicates a huge $170,000 for a third week.

Another virile holdover is "Sudden Fear", accompanied by sporadic personal appearances by its star, Joan Crawford, at Loew's State where the second week looks like a big $48,000.

Equal box-office vigor is being recorded at the Paramount where the combination of "Jumping Jacks" and

HARTFORD, Aug. 18.--The film industry's continual need of developing new producing, directing, writing and acting talent to cope with competitive entertainment was stressed here today by Henderson M. would support such action.

Every Congressional district in the state was represented by the large turnout of 250 exhibitors. The three Congressmen volunteered before the meeting was opened that they would be for the complete elimination of the tax.

Butler is fourth ranking member on the Senate Finance Committee and Curtis is fifth on the House Ways and Means Committee.

Robert Livingston, Lincoln; and William Miskell, Omaha, were co-chairmen, Joe Scott, of 20th Century-Fox, represented distribution firms. Livingston, association president, contacted the Congressmen, who came to the meeting at their own expense. Heavy applause greeted the Nebraska delegation's stand.

To Aid Tax Fight

CLEVELAND, Aug. 18.—In line with the stand taken by the National IATSE, local 160 here has stated that it will do whatever it can to assist the industry in the campaign aimed at the elimination of the 20 per cent Federal admission tax.

New Pact Proposals Will Come from French Thurs.

The French Government on Thursday will submit to American negotiators in Paris new proposals for a Franco-American film agreement, Fayette W. Allport, Motion Picture Association of America European representative, yesterday informed Eric A. Johnston, MPAA president, and the distribution companies' foreign managers.

"Nobody knows what the proposals will be," Allport was quoted as saying, but acknowledgement was made that the action by the French could mark the beginning of concrete progress in the negotiations.

Allport was prepared yesterday to fly back to Paris "within the next couple of days." He arrived here at the weekend from the French capital to report to the Motion Picture Export Association on the twists and turns the negotiations between the two governments had taken up to last week.

Explains Talks

He pointed out to the meeting yesterday that tentative agreement on a pact appeared within reach more than once but each time the French negotiators "backed away."

Absence of advance information on the forthcoming French proposals has left the American companies' foreign managers wondering if the French will make a new request for American subsidization of French production.

French Film Premiere

The American premiere of "Casque d'Or," new French film, took place at the Paris Theatre here yesterday. Produced and directed by Jacques Becker from the screenplay on which he collaborated with Jacques Companeez, this Discina International release has a cast headed by Simone Signoret, Serge Reggiani and Claude Dauphin.

UK Second Feature Quota Defaults Up

LONDON, Aug. 18.—The annual report of the British Film Producers Association reveals that defaults of supporting program quotas among exhibitors here increased from 1,381 for the 1949-50 year to 2,340 for the year 1950-51.

The figures are regarded as strengthening exhibitor contentions that the 25 per cent supporting quota is unworkable.

Schine Convention Opens in Albany

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 18.—Schine executives and managers checked in here today for the Circuit's convention.

President J. Myer Schine will make the opening address, in the Ten Eyck Hotel at 10:00 A.M. tomorrow. Si Seadler of M-G-M will speak at two.

A number of industry people from New York, as well as branch managers here, are scheduled to attend a party and reception Wednesday evening. Press headquarters have been opened and displays are being arranged.

Form New Mexican Firm

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 18.—A production company, Producciones Tepeyac, S. A., capitalized for $590,000, has been organized here by such trade leaders as Gen. Abelardo L. Rodriguez, ex-President of Mexico, Theodore Gildred, Oscar Dancingers, Jaime Menasce and Miguel Bujazan. Dancingers is general manager. The company reportedly will take over "Robinson Crusoe," which Luis Buñul is producing here in English, it was disclosed.

"If this thing should go through it is not wild-eyed alarm to say that it could mean the end of the movies as we know them today. . . . In effect, the movie producers and exhibitors would be forced into a suicidal relationship with their chief competitor.

"The suit, of course, will be fought and probably will drag out for a long time. But that does not alter the pretentious and dangerous folly inherent in the Government's assumption of the right to throw its weight around to the advantage of one great industry and the disadvantage of another."

"The motion picture theatre industry . . . has found it would be committing hari-kari by releasing its costly films for cheap televised showing and destroying their value for theatre exhibition. This would appear to be a sound decision made by men who don't want to see the essential product of their industry confiscated by government fiat.

"What kind of 'conspiracy' do the busy-body government lawyers see in that sane business policy?"

Miss Main at Ohio Fair

Complaints Widen Against Gov't Suit

The vigorous complaints from all over the industry, and outside, too, against the government suit to force the sale of films to TV and other media have grown further with the filing of protests with the Department of Justice by the Independent Theatre Owners of Northern California, and Allied Theatres of Michigan.

Fight TV

said that while the fight will be on theatre television, Philadelphia and New England theatres will not be permitted to receive it.

Blacking-out of Philadelphia theatres is in line with the practice of protecting the gate which has prevailed in previous fight telecasts. Extension of the black-out to New England is more unusual but for the same purpose. Marciano's home town is Brockton, Mass., and the promoters feel that many ring fans from New England will make the trip to Philadelphia to see the fight if they cannot see it on TV in New England theatres.

The International Boxing Club, which is putting on the bout with Taylor, called the latter's announcement that the fight would be on theatre TV "premature." No deal has been closed yet with T. N. T., it was stated, but a decision may be reached in the next few days.

Transfer of the fight from New York to Philadelphia is understood to have been required because Felix Boccicchio, Walcott's manager, does not have a New York Boxing Commission license and declined to apply for one. The transfer would give large screen TV-equipped theatres in New York one of their rare fight attractions because, most previous bouts having been staged in New York, the local theatres were in the TV-blacked out area.

The fight is expected to be one of the top fistic attractions in years with a $1,000,000 gate forecast by the promoters. If it is obtained for theatre TV it is expected to command a premium price per seat, both for the rights and from the public, trade estimates ranging around $5 for the latter. However, keeping the fight from home TV is expected to save millions for theatre box-offices that otherwise would be lost the night of the fight.

Believed to be holding up the theatre TV deal is the undoubtedly high price being asked by the promoters, to which would have to be added T. N. T.'s fee.

Britain Nearing TV Saturation

Cardiff, Wales, Aug. 18.—The last of five high-powered television stations to be completed by British Broadcasting Co. was opened at Wenvoe near here at the weekend.

Lord De La Warr, Postmaster General, who presided at the opening ceremonies, said the new station meant around 80 per cent of the British people, or about 40,000,000 are now within TV reception areas, compared with about 50 per cent in the United States.

Fairbanks-NBC Set TV Film Deal

LONDON, Aug. 18.—Douglas Fairbanks has signed a £309,000 ($840,000) contract with National Broadcasting Co. for the prduction here of 39 half-hour television films for syndication on American stations.

The contract, claimed to be the first major program secured in Europe for TV film production, follows 18 months of experimental production and negotiation by Fairbanks with NBC. The films will have European backgrounds but the present series is concerned mainly with the Foreign Legion and is regarded as the pilot effort, with a further series planned as soon as American audience reaction has been ascertained.

Both Fairbanks and Romney Wheeler, NBC representative here, expressed the hope the project would become a valuable "dollar-earning" enterprise for Britain.

TV Producers Here Name Negotiators

Producers of TV films in New York, representatives of advertising agencies and station representatives have appointed the following committee to negotiate with the Screen Actors Guild on a proposed contract for the production of television films:

Pete Mooney, Dave Pincus, Ed Lamm, Walter Lowendahl, Leslie Rousch, Mel Gold, Ralph Cohn.

Deal for 'Hans' TV Series

vocalist Don Cornell on stage is bringing $71,000 for the fourth stanza.

At the Victoria, "Affair in Trinidad" continues to draw heavy attendance, with the third week set for a handsome $29,000.

Still solid, with $30,000 indicated for the fourth inning is "High Noon" at the Mayfair, while at the Rivoli 20th-Fox's "Les Miserables" chalked up $18,000 Thursday through Sunday for a certain first week's gross of $27,000.

A gratifying fourth week's take of $78,000 was signified for "Dreamboat" and a stage bill at the Roxy which is scheduled to take on "What Price Glory" on Friday following a couple of postponements. The Roxy recorded $47,000 Friday through Sunday.

'Fatima' Bow

Tomorrow will mark the opening of "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" at the Astor, with the Bijou around the corner to reopen with the same picture on Thursday for a dual run. "The Story of Will Rogers" will end its fifth and final week at the Astor today with a nice $11,500.

The off-Broadway Park Avenue Theatre is having a first-rate first week with "Brandy for the Parson," with $8,300 signified.

"Carrie" will wind up its fifth and final week at the Capitol tomorrow with a good $21,000, and "The Quiet Man" will take over on Thursday.

"Francis Goes to West Point" will bow at the Globe on Friday following a five-week run of "Don't Bother to Knock" which betokens a nice $10,000 for the final stanza. Another newcomer is "Ivory Hunter," which took over at the Trans-Lux 52nd Street yesterday.

The enduring "Man in the White Suit" at the Sutton and "Encore" at the Normandie are doing well. With both in their 20th week, $7,000 is seen for "Man in the White Suit," and $5,000 for "Encore."

Arbitration Draft

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 18.—The Scotia, in Scotia, the Schenectady suburb, is now being booked and directed by Aled Weisz, of the Crane, that city. He assumed operation from Val Richey who had conducted the theatre since 1948. Richey is currently working for General Electric Co. Weisz also had the Lincoln, Schenectady, until its recent sale for conversion into a store.

Review

"My Man and I"

(Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer)

ENGROSSING ENTERTAINMENT along a somewhat different tract with a mighty competent cast, consisting of the marketable names of Shelley Winters, Ricardo Montalban, Wendell Corey and Claire Trevor, is offered in this M-G-M vehicle.

The theme spotlights Montalban as a Mexican working in the Southern California farm area and his fond feeling for his newly-acquired American citizenship, a warm and touching tale. The respectful Montalban is aided impressively by Miss Winters, who appears as a jaded, wine-guzzling dance hall girl whose face does not yet reflect her barroom type of conversation. Responsible for the film's most brutal and realistic moments are Corey and Miss Trevor, a pair of bitter and loveless ranchers who frame Montalban on an assault charge leading to the loss of his citizenship.

There is material enough for two films in the Mexican's rehabilitation of Miss Winters and the story of how Corey and Miss Trevor ever reached their state of complete degredation. The thread of continuity tying up the two elements—Montalban's rehabilitation of the pair and his eventual reinstatement as a citizen—seems somewhat arbitrary in view of the characters of the people involved. However, it is always interesting and occasionally extremely affecting. It has wry, tough humor in Miss Winters and some raucous though non-patronizing laughs in the scenes involving the Mexican farm laborers.

The script, by John Fante and Jack Leonard, shows Montalban taking a job on Corey's ranch where he is accosted by the slovenly ranch wife and generally alienates both by his impossible optimism. When Corey refuses to pay him his wages, Montalban gets a court judgment against the rancher who, in turn, accuses the Mexican of assault when he is accidently shot in a periodic scuffle with his wife. The jury decides against Montalban and only reverses its decision when Corey and Miss Trevor suffer belated pangs of conscience.

Paralleling these events is Montalban's pursuit of the dance hall girl, who first scoffs at him and then comes to love him. A warmly patriotic note is struck throughout in the Mexican's respect for a letter he has received from the President of the U.S., congratulating him on his citizenship.

Director William A. Wellman has obtained fine performances from his stars and character people and at the same time kept the story elements moving smoothly. Stephen Ames produced. Others in the cast are Robert Burton, Jose Torvay, Jack Elam, Pascual Gracia Pena, George Chandler, Juan Torena and Carlos Conde.

Running time, 99 minutes. General audience classification. For September release.

in disguise. The manner in which all branches of the industry are rallying to its defense under the leadership of COMPO indicates a fighting spirit not shown by us in many years."

Rembusch said "We will win the tax fight, the response of exhibitors and the support of Hollywood studio heads being overwhelmingly gratifying. Elimination of the 20 per cent tax will mean between $100,000,000 and $150,000,000 to production alone, which in turn means more and bigger pictures, more jobs and more security for everyone concerned."

File Percentage Suits vs. W. H. Hall

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 18.—Seven percentage actions were filed in Federal Court here against William Harold Hall for damages based on alleged under-reporting of receipts at Hall's Drive-in Theatre and the Dixie Theatre in West Columbia, S. C. The actions were by Paramount, Loew's, 20th Century-Fox, Warner Brothers, United Artists, Universal and Columbia.

new theatre company's common. Twentieth-Fox stockholders number 25,000.

Twentieth-Fox has had a retirement plan since 1946 covering all of its employes and all of the employes of its subsidiaries. Included are officers and directors and those directors who are also employes, excepting Spyros P. Skouras, president who is not eligible.

The entire cost of the plan is borne by 20th-Fox and its subsidiaries, the SEC was informed. No contribution is made and no benefits paid on the part of employe's compensation in excess of $50,000 per year as to past service or $30,000 as to current service.

Employes reaching the age of 65 are eligible for benefits. Total contributions to the plan last year amounted to $832,713. At the end of last year the remaining payments for past service benefits as recalculated by the actuaries were estimated at $5,210,000, plus interest payable over the next 34 years. Payments for past service benefits for the six years up to the end of 1951 amounted to $3,018,000, of which $46,000 was made in 1951 and $327,000 in 1950. Payments for past service benefits are in excess of the amount required under the plan, the SEC was told.

The exact form in which the plan can be continued and the steps necessary to continue it after reorganization have not been fully determined, it was pointed out. Other companies reorganized in consequence of the industry anti-trust suit have evolved new retirement and pension plans.

As the reorganization date approaches, 20th-Fox and its subsidiaries, including Wesco Theatres (as the new theatre company will be known) are involved or may have a liability in approximately 190 anti-trust proceedings brought by private persons, with damages, when trebled, specified at $405,000,000, according to the report to the SEC. Other distributors and exhibitors generally are co-defendants in the actions.

The new picture company will assume the liabilities, if any, of 20th-Fox in these civil anti-trust actions, and it is expected that any liabilities involving Wesco or its theatres will be allocated between the new picture company and Wesco in substantially the same manner as in the past.

Solid Business Continues At New York's First-Runs

Smiles still are creasing the faces of New York's first-run theatre managers as prosperity continues its welcome siege of Times Square area houses. The weather, be it rainy or sunny and hot, appears to be less a factor determining the extent of business than the likelihood that television is losing its grip on entertainment seekers, many managers believe. Top quality product from Hollywood has done the job, in the opinion of virtually all.

Leading the prosperity parade is "Ivanhoe" and a stage bill at Radio City Music Hall where $101,000 grossed Thursday through Sunday indicates a huge $170,000 for a third week.

Another virile holdover is "Sudden Fear", accompanied by sporadic personal appearances by its star, Joan Crawford, at Loew's State where the second week looks like a big $48,000.

Equal box-office vigor is being recorded at the Paramount where the combination of "Jumping Jacks" and

$3,194,000 Dividend Payments in July

Washington, Aug. 18.—The Commerce Department reported today that motion picture companies paid cash dividend payments of $3,194,000 in July of 1952, compared with $3,506,000 reported in July, 1951.

TV Rights to Phila. Heavyweight Title Bout Still Open

Despite the announcement by Herman Taylor, co-promoter of the Jersey Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano heavyweight title fight, that there would absolutely be no home television of the bout and that it will be on theatre television, no deal has been made yet by Theatre Network Television.

Taylor said arrangements for the title bout to be held in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium, Sept. 23, will be completed today or tomorrow. He

Hearst Newspapers Score U.S. 16mm. Suit Editorially

HEARST NEWSPAPERS around the country are adding their strong editorial voices to the growing newspaper criticism of the Department of Justice action to force the sale of feature films to television and other non-theatrical users. In New York, separate editorials appeared in the Journal-American of Aug. 16 and the Daily Mirror of yesterday. The Journal-American editorial is being reprinted in Hearst papers elsewhere. The ITOA of New York supplied some of the information on which the editorials are based. Excerpts from both editorials are reprinted herewith.

N. Y. JOURNAL AMERICAN (Movies and TV): "A statement a few days ago by Spyros Skouras, president of 20th Century-Fox Film Corp., points up as flagrant and absurd an example of governmental bureaucratic interference as we have come across in quite a while. . . . The government is demanding that TV have access to Hollywood's

N. Y. DAILY MIRROR (Blundering Bureaucrats): "The anti-trust laws were created to curb business pirates who got together in the dark to eliminate competition by criminal means. They were not devised to arbitrarily coerce one industry to turn over its basic property rights to a competitive industry at a gigantic, possibly a ruinous, loss.

4 Legislators Pledge Ticket Tax Battle

Neb. Sen. Butler, Others, Line-up in Compo Drive

OMAHA, Aug. 18.—U. S. Senator Hugh Butler and three Congressmen, all of Nebraska, have pledged to vote for the elimination of the 20 per cent Federal admissions tax, thus becoming one of the first group of Federal legislators to publicly line themselves up with the current industry-wide anti-tax campaign conducted under the auspices of the Council of Motion Picture Organizations.

Notification of their stand against the 20 per cent excise tax, including the one on admissions, was received by the Nebraska Theatre Association today.

The Congressmen were: A. L. Miller, Kimball; Robert Harrison, Norfolk; and Carl Curtis; Minden. In addition, two Republican candidates, Dwight Griswold of Scottsbluff, for the Senate and Roman Hruska of Omaha for Congressman, said they

Kogod, Burka Sell Their K-B Circuit

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18—Fred Kogod and Max Burka have announced the sale of their controlling interest in K-B Theatres, one of this city's most progressive circuits.

The two men have been in exhibition since the early 1920's. They said they had sold their interests to Marvin Goldman and Fred Burka. The latter is Max Burka's son, while Goldman is Kogod's son-in-law.

The six-theatre neighborhood group will continue under its present name and with the same headquarters at the Apex Theatre.

Says Films Set to Meet Competition

HARTFORD, Aug. 18.—Henderson M. Richey, public relations director of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, here from New York, declared in an interview that "Hollywood is not so blind as not to realize that it must continually develop new producing, directing, writing and acting talent to cope with competitive entertainment."

Personal Mention

LOUIS WOLF, Brandt Theatres buyer-booker and president of the Motion Picture Bookers Club of New York, has announced his engagement to BETTY BOVERMAN, general manager of Kaybern Theatres.

Every Congressional district in the state was represented by the large turnout of 250 exhibitors. The three Congressmen volunteered before the meeting was opened that they would be for the complete elimination of the tax.

Butler is fourth ranking member on the Senate Finance Committee and Curtis is fifth on the House Ways and Means Committee.

Robert Livingston, Lincoln; and William Miskell, Omaha, were co-chairmen, Joe Scott, of 20th Century-Fox, represented distribution firms. Livingston, association president, contacted the Congressmen, who came to the meeting at their own expense. Heavy applause greeted the Nebraska delegation's stand.

To Aid Tax Fight

CLEVELAND, Aug. 18.—In line with the stand taken by the National IATSE, local 160 here has stated that it will do whatever it can to assist the industry in the campaign aimed at the elimination of the 20 per cent Federal admission tax.

New Pact Proposals Will Come from French Thurs.

The French Government on Thursday will submit to American negotiators in Paris new proposals for a Franco-American film agreement, Fayette W. Allport, Motion Picture Association of America European representative, yesterday informed Eric A. Johnston, MPAA president, and the distribution companies' foreign managers.

"Nobody knows what the proposals will be," Allport was quoted as saying, but acknowledgement was made that the action by the French could mark the beginning of concrete progress in the negotiations.

Allport was prepared yesterday to fly back to Paris "within the next couple of days." He arrived here at the weekend from the French capital to report to the Motion Picture Export Association on the twists and turns the negotiations between the two governments had taken up to last week.

Explains Talks

He pointed out to the meeting yesterday that tentative agreement on a pact appeared within reach more than once but each time the French negotiators "backed away."

Absence of advance information on the forthcoming French proposals has left the American companies' foreign managers wondering if the French will make a new request for American subsidization of French production.

French Film Premiere

The American premiere of "Casque d'Or," new French film, took place at the Paris Theatre here yesterday. Produced and directed by Jacques Becker from the screenplay on which he collaborated with Jacques Companeez, this Discina International release has a cast headed by Simone Signoret, Serge Reggiani and Claude Dauphin.

UK Second Feature Quota Defaults Up

LONDON, Aug. 18.—The annual report of the British Film Producers Association reveals that defaults of supporting program quotas among exhibitors here increased from 1,381 for the 1949-50 year to 2,340 for the year 1950-51.

The figures are regarded as strengthening exhibitor contentions that the 25 per cent supporting quota is unworkable.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 18.—Schine executives and managers checked in here today for the Circuit's convention.

President J. Myer Schine will make the opening address, in the Ten Eyck Hotel at 10:00 A.M. tomorrow. Si Seadler of M-G-M will speak at two.

A number of industry people from New York, as well as branch managers here, are scheduled to attend a party and reception Wednesday evening. Press headquarters have been opened and displays are being arranged.

Form New Mexican Firm

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 18.—A production company, Producciones Tepeyac, S. A., capitalized for $590,000, has been organized here by such trade leaders as Gen. Abelardo L. Rodriguez, ex-President of Mexico, Theodore Gildred, Oscar Dancingers, Jaime Menasce and Miguel Bujazan. Dancingers is general manager. The company reportedly will take over "Robinson Crusoe," which Luis Buñul is producing here in English, it was disclosed.

"If this thing should go through it is not wild-eyed alarm to say that it could mean the end of the movies as we know them today. . . . In effect, the movie producers and exhibitors would be forced into a suicidal relationship with their chief competitor.

"The suit, of course, will be fought and probably will drag out for a long time. But that does not alter the pretentious and dangerous folly inherent in the Government's assumption of the right to throw its weight around to the advantage of one great industry and the disadvantage of another."

"The motion picture theatre industry . . . has found it would be committing hari-kari by releasing its costly films for cheap televised showing and destroying their value for theatre exhibition. This would appear to be a sound decision made by men who don't want to see the essential product of their industry confiscated by government fiat.

"What kind of 'conspiracy' do the busy-body government lawyers see in that sane business policy?"

Miss Main at Ohio Fair

Complaints Widen Against Gov't Suit

The vigorous complaints from all over the industry, and outside, too, against the government suit to force the sale of films to TV and other media have grown further with the filing of protests with the Department of Justice by the Independent Theatre Owners of Northern California, and Allied Theatres of Michigan.

Henry P. Reston

Funeral services for Henry P. Reston, co-owner of City Engraving Co., New York, which numbers many motion picture companies among its clients, will be held tomorrow at the Fliedner Funeral Home, Great Neck, Long Island. Reston, who died Sunday, had been a member of the Motion Picture Pioneers.

Jacob Estey, 57

BOSTON, Aug. 18.—Funeral services for Jacob Poor Estey, 57, president and treasurer of the Estey Organ Corp. of Brattleboro, Vt., who died Friday, were held today in that city. Surviving are his widow, the former Edith Tyler.

Earl Boles, 46

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—Earl Boles, owner of the Mecca, Crescent City, Cal., and the newly-opened Pic Theatre here, died at the age of 46. Death came last Wednesday.

Capitol to Reopen

L. A. Council Joins Fight Vs. U.S. Suit

Warns Against Threat Of 'Socialized' Radio-TV

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—The Los Angeles City Council yesterday unanimously adopted a resolution, proposed by Councilman Ed J. Davenport, branding the government's 16 mm. suit a threat to "our American way of life and individual freedom, which we are confident no good American wants to trade for a free pass to a movie over his television set at the expense of destroying a great industry."

This was the first legislative body to so act since the suit was filed here on July 22. The anti-trust action was designed to force the sale of 16mm. films to TV and other outlets competing with regular theatres.

The resolution, copies of which were sent to Eric Johnston and presidents of all producing companies, suggested that the industry confer with the

'Ivanhoe' Tops Hall Three-week Record

"Ivanhoe," now completing its third week at Radio City Music Hall, has racked up the top three-week gross in the history of the Hall. With at least $170,000 forecast for the third week, which ends tonight, the gross tally for the three weeks will total a terrific $520,300.

A Record $100,000,000 Box-Office Year Indicated for Canadian Houses

Washington, Aug. 19.—Gross box-office receipts of Canadian motion picture theatres are expected to hit a record $100,000,000 (Canadian dollars) this year, according to Nathan D. Golden, U.S. Commerce Department film chief.

Golden said receipts, which have been increasing steadily since 1945, were reported at $86,700,000 for 1950, and that the upward trend has continued since.

It is estimated, Golden said, that about 90 per cent of Canadian screen time is devoted to U.S. films, and that about 90 per cent of the box-office receipts are derived from U.S. films.

Eighteen standard theatres and 11 drive-ins were opened during the first half of this year, bringing the total number of theatres in operation to 1,867 standard theatres and 89 drive-ins. It was also reported that 41 theatres, including 18 drive-ins, are now under construction, Golden stated.

Harper Leaves MGM For New Shea Post

Richard A. Harper has resigned his sales executive duties at M-G-M to become executive assistant to Gerald Shea, president of Shea Enterprises, it was announced here yesterday.

Richard A. Harper

For the past several years Harper has been circuit sales representative for M-G-M and an assistant to W. F. Rodgers and Charles M. Reagan. He joined M-G-M here in 1946 after World War II service with the Navy. After serving in several M-G-M exchanges he was made a special sales representative, later becoming circuit sales representative.

Success Seen for COMPO Dues Drive

Incomplete reports thus far received at the Council of Motion Picture Organizations' headquarters here indicate that the campaign for collection of COMPO dues from exhibitors, which was conducted throughout the country last week by film salesmen, will prove successful.

In many areas salesmen making the collections, which will be matched by distributors when complete, have not yet handed in their reports. Final results will not be available for several days. In addition to meeting normal costs of COMPO operations, the collections also will help finance the industry effort for repeal of the Federal admission tax.

Confidence Keynote Of Schine Meeting

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 19.—History proves that the industry always has weathered its crises, J. Meyer Schine, keynote speaker at the first Schine showmanship meeting to be convened in 11 years, told 150 of the circuit's executives, managers and department heads at the first business session at the Ten Eyck Hotel here today.

Schine said that "those of little faith" had long ago sold out their interest in our business. He was introduced by Louis W. Schine, who presided at the session.

Seymour Morris described future product available to the circuit and presented a six-point merchandising program based on attractions that can be merchandised; campaigns that "tell and sell"; service and comfort that

MPAA Rejects French Pact Subsidy Setup

Adopts View of SIMPP On Eve of French Offer

Motion Pictures Association of America member companies have decided against accepting a Franco-American film deal that would call for subsidization of French production by the U. S. companies, it was learned yesterday from film export sources here.

This finally puts the MPAA companies, which have vacillated on the subsidy question during the negotiations which have been going on in Paris, squarely alongside the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers in opposition to such assistance for French production.

It was indicated that the MPAA now feels that a Franco-American film pact providing for reduced exports to France and no subsidy is preferable to a pact with no reduction in exports and a subsidy, or "discount" as the French have termed it.

Thus, in line with the recent French

2 Became 'Reds' on Roosevelt's Death

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Hollywood screen writer Bernard C. Schoenfeld today told the House Un-American Activities committee that the "shock" of President Roosevelt's death impelled him into joining the Communist Party in 1945.

Testifying at his own request, he added that another screen writer, Stanley Roberts, joined along with him for the same reason. Schoenfeld said that he and Roberts became disillusioned and quit the party in 1947.

Committee counsel Frank Tavenner told reporters that he expected no other Hollywood witnesses to appear before the committee until it opened hearings in Hollywood on Sept. 29.

O'Hara and McLaglen Promote 'Quiet Man'

Maureen O'Hara and Victor McLaglen, starring in Republic's "The Quiet Man," will each make two personal appearances at the Capitol Theatre here tomorrow, the opening day. Miss O'Hara will be in the theatre at 9:00 A.M. and at 6:00 P.M. McLaglen will appear at 1:00 P.M. and at 8:30 P.M. Both stars will present autographed photographs.

New 'Red' Unit to Control East German Industry

Sweeping supervision of every facet of motion picture industry activity in Eastern Germany will be vested in a central film committee to be set up under the Soviet-controlled political administration, it was announced this week in East German newspapers, according to the Motion Picture Association of America.

Primary reason for the creation of the committee, it was stated, is "to increase the utilization of films for propaganda purposes."

Specific functions of the committee, the announcement said, will be to "guide the production, sale and distribution of films, issue film licenses, draft film laws and control the administration of motion picture theatres."

The committee will also "provide for the production of films which mobilize the mass of population in the fight for national liberalization, and for the construction and defense of the German Democratic Republic."

To insure compliance with the new regulations, artists in Eastern Germany will be required to belong to councils organized under DEFA, the Soviet-supervised film company.

The rigid controls over the motion picture industry in Eastern Germany, following the pattern of the film monopolies in all of the Soviet satellite countries, will also extend apparently to the content of film reviews, the MPAA reported. Newspapers were "instructed" to overcome the tendency to write reviews "in the style of bourgeois journalism."

Youngstein Touring For Sales Drive

Max E. Youngstein, vice-president of United Artists, is on a week's tour of the company's Omaha, Minneapolis and Milwaukee exchanges to meet with branch personnel in connection with the "Bill Heineman Sales Drive," of which Youngstein is captain. He is accompanied by James Velde, UA Western division manager.

The drive, named for William J. Heineman, vice-president in charge of distribution, will wind up its ninth week tonight.

Tribute Dinner to Mayer Is Set Back

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—Plans for the annual Screen Producers Guild "Milestone Dinner," which this year will honor Louis B. Mayer, has been switched to Nov. 12 and will be held at the Biltmore Bowl, it was announced by Buddy Adler, chairman of the committee.

Originally set for Oct. 22 at the new Statler Hotel, the SPG board felt that due to the Presidential campaign, November would be a more desirable time for the function. George Jessel will be master-of-ceremonies.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—Sol Lesser has announced the formation of Jungle Adventure Pictures, Inc., to produce one "Sheena, Queen of the Jungle" feature annually for RKO Pictures.

F. Hugh Herbert's Tax Claim Upheld

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—The Internal Revenue Department's failure to oppose a motion for dismissal of the government's appeal from Judge Leon Yankwich's decision upholding the legality of one-picture corporations is being interpreted here as an indication that collapsible corporations are to have smooth sailing hereafter.

The government's appeal from the Yankwich decision, which held F. Hugh Herbert and his wife were entitled to recover $198,515 paid as personal income tax after the government had denied the right to file proceeds from their production, "Kiss and Tell" on a capital gains basis, came up for trial in the Ninth U. S. Court of Appeals in San Francisco, yesterday, and was dismissed when the government failed to oppose the dismissal motion.

16mm. Suit on MPIC Meeting Agenda

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—The Government's 16mm. suit will be a topmost matter on the agenda of the Motion Picture Industry Council which meets tomorrow night. Also on the agenda is a discussion of the possibility of using $40,000 left over from the exhibition of the "Movies and You" short subjects as starting capital for the production of a new series of the same type.

Johnston Sees Truman

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, visited President Truman today, but they did not discuss motion pictures. As chairman of the International Development Advisory Board, Johnston went over the Point 4 program with the President.

SPG Sets College Film-Making Award

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—Establishment of an annual intercollegiate film award to be presented to the best student-produced film turned out by 69 colleges and universities which include film and drama classes in their curricula, was announced here by Sol C. Siegel, Screen Producers Guild president.

Each school will be asked to select its own best film, and a viewing committee composed of SPG members will sift these selections to a final number which will be screened for the entire SPG membership for a vote on the winner.

The student considered most instrumental in the production of the winning film will be an SPG guest here for a week.

Siegel said the purpose is both to recognize student interest in film study and to encourage a broader participation in the picture industry's future.

Zanuck to Europe On 'Tightrope'

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—Darryl F. Zanuck, 20th Century-Fox production head, will leave Friday night by plane for New York and Europe. After a week-end of conferences with home office executives, he will leave by plane on Monday for Munich to go over final plans with Elia Kazan for the filming of "Man on a Tightrope."

'American Weekly' Critics Select 'Greatest Show'

Cecil B. DeMille's "The Greatest Show on Earth," has been voted the most enjoyable motion picture of the 1951-1952 season in the American Weekly's first annual motion picture awards.

The poll, conducted among the film critics of the twenty-three metropolitan newspapers distributing the American Weekly was to determine the ten most enjoyable pictures, and the five most enjoyable performances turned in by actresses and actors during the period from September, 1951 to August 1952.

Other award winning films in the American Weekly poll are "An American In Paris," "A Place in the Sun," "A Streetcar Named Desire," "African Queen," "Detective Story," "Death of a Salesman," "The River," "Singing in the Rain," and "Five Fingers."

Vivien Leigh for her performance in "A Streetcar Named Desire," was accorded top honors among the actresses. Frederick March for his performance in "Death of a Salesman" was the critics' first choice for male acting honors.

Ernest V. Heyn, editor of the American Weekly is now in Hollywood where he will make several award presentations. The awards are part of an all-film issue the American Weekly is releasing Aug. 31.

5 Weeks for Para's 'Jumping Jacks'

Hal Wallis' "Jumping Jacks," Paramount release, today became the first film in more than three years to play five weeks at the Paramount Theatre here. Paramount's "Sorrowful Jones," in June, 1949, was the last picture to play five weeks.

"Jumping Jacks" finished its four weeks at the Paramount with a total gross of $379,000, the top gross for a four week period since "Samson and Delilah" in 1949.

$22,000 for 'Trinidad'; Cincinnati Grosses Up

CINCINNATI, Aug. 19.—Theatre patrons here are fully conscious of the fact that "Rita is back," and are welcoming Miss Hayworth to the tune of an estimated $22,000 for "Affair in Trinidad," at the 2,700-seat RKO Palace, exactly double the average and the best week's gross at this house in many months. It will hold for a second week.

Other grosses are registering considerably above average for the current week, reflecting the general improvement in theatre business which became manifest here some time ago.

High Grosses Are Reported For Kaufman's 'Sudden Fear'

The second week's grosses for Joseph Kaufman's "Sudden Fear" are proving excellent, RKO Radio executives report, disclosing that the picture is heading for $10,000 at the Palace, Cleveland, following a $4,200 weekend at the theatre. At the Apollo, Atlantic City, the picture closed with over $9,000 for the last five days of a 12-day run which saw a new record for the first week. A move-over to the Strand takes place there today. In Toronto, at the Tivoli and University theatres, "Sudden Fear" grossed $6,200 in its first two days, to what is considered the best business for both houses, it was said.

The premiere run in New York goes into its third week at Loew's State tomorrow, with the second week's estimate at $48,000, the best gross in three years at the State.

"Somebody Loves Me"

(Paramount) Hollywood, Aug. 19

GIVE BETTY HUTTON 15 of Blossom Seeley's grand old songs, stand her in front of a Technicolor camera with leave to give 'em the full treatment, and what can you come up with but a good picture. That's what's been done here. It figures to do all right.

As produced by William Perlberg and George Seaton, with Irving Brecher doing the writing and directing for them, the story of the life and times of Blossom Seeley and Benny Fields stacks up as something less than their contemporaries might wish it to have been, and yet as a tunefilm the young folk who buy most of today's admission tickets may consider it a money's worth. Certainly Betty gives it her best, which is plenty good, but she gets no help from an actor named Ralph Meeker, in the Fields role, and little from anyone else, on screen or off. Even Jack Benny, who's pitched into the thing late in the proceedings and for an indecisive sequence, isn't equal to salvaging the project in the time at his disposal. Robert Keith, Adele Jergens, Billie Bird, Henry Slate and Sid Tomack are members of the principal cast.

The script picks up Blossom as a cafe singer in 'Frisco when the quake of 1906 strikes (quite convincingly, too) and follows her up the ladder of vaudeville fame, picking up Fields on the way, to the point where, it says, Fields confesses he married her for her money and is determined to cut loose from her and make good on his own. Along about here the picture stops being a musical and turns dramatic, which is quite a trial for all hands, including the star whose bubbling personality and wise way with a song are what the picture's got to carry it. In the finale Meeker, as Fields, tries to make it a musical again, but only Fields himself could have done it by then. In addition to the 15 old songs from the Seeley past there are three new ones by Jay Livingston and Ray Evans.

Running time, 95 minutes. General audience classification. For October release.

"The Jungle"

(Lippert) Hollywood, Aug. 19

EXPLOITATION ACCESSORIES furnished with this feature detail such items as fights between tiger and bear, leopard and wart hog, mongoose and cobra, et al. These fights the picture provides in ample measure. And India, the film's setting, is an eyeful for almost any theatregoer any time.

Rod Cameron, Cesar Romero and Marie Windsor supply substantial marquee material with which to focus attention on this exploitation attraction produced and directed in India by William Berke (with the facilities of Modern Theatres, Ltd., Salem, India). But the star of the picture is India, brilliantly photographed by Clyde DeVinna and processed in dramatic sepia-tone. The story, played out by the three name-players is strictly coincidental to the presentation of Indian scenes, customs, ceremonies, animals and people. Whether an exhibitor should exploit the attraction on the strength of the Cameron-Romero-Windsor trio or the roar of the tiger, the hiss of the serpent and the trumpeting of the elephant—or both—the job of entertaining the customers is India's first, last and always. Audiences made acquainted with that fact in advance are likely to like the picture best.

The original screenplay by Carroll Young concerns an American big-game hunter, in bad with the population of an Indian community for having gotten 10 of the local hunters killed by elephants which he maintains are mammoths, and his undertaking to prove to the princess regent and her chief aide that his story about the mammoths is true. This sets up the reason for the three and some hundreds of natives to set off across the country toward the jungle, and this journey enables the cameraman to pick up fine shots of the countryside, exciting incidents of combat between wild animals, and finally the elephants in question. It's not much of a story, but it needn't be, for the purpose it serves.

Running time, 74 minutes. General audience classification. August release.

L.A. Council

Select 'River' for Edinburgh Festival

Kenneth McEldowney's, "The River" has been selected as one of five nominees for the 1952 "Silver Laurel Award," which will be presented to the producer of the winning film by the Earl of Rosebery during the Sixth International Edinburgh Film Festival on Aug. 24 at the Caley Picture House, Edinburgh, United Artists, distributor of the film, disclosed.

The other four pictures are "Cry, the Beloved Country," "I Believe in You," "The Lavender Hill Mob" and "The Man in the White Suit." Only British productions shown publicly between May 31, 1951 and May 31, 1952 are eligible for the award. "The River" qualifies as a British quota picture because it was filmed entirely in India.

keep them coming; reviving the children's film-going habit; community activities for every manager, and sensible economical operations.

Most speakers at the Schine circuit convention expressed confidence that strong product, vigorous showmanship, hard work and unflinching faith will enable motion picture theatres to withstand the competition from television, installment buying, technological changes, high living costs and soaring taxes.

Industry Unity

Si Seadler, M-G-M advertising manager, said that not only are "all companies" releasing better pictures but also that industry "unity" is improving. Seadler declared the industry has no place for the prophets of doom.

G. David Schine stated that he talked recently with David Sarnoff, RCA board chairman. The discussion, held in Europe, Schine said, convinced him that the television industry is not trying to put motion picture theatres out of business. He pointed to RCA's large stake in film houses, via the development, manufacture and sale of theatre equipment.

Theatres can "harness" television to their operation, declared Schine, as he discussed large screen TV. He likewise spoke of third dimension processes and Arch Oboler's coming production. Schine hit at the 20 per cent admission tax, calling it the theatres' main operational problem.

Circuit publicity director Morris in a survey of releases said they seemed to be "unsurpassed." Commenting on Universal-International releases, Morris remarked that "we owe that company a debt of gratitude for the consistant flow of bread-and-butter pictures."

Opening the meeting, Louis W. Schine expressed the belief that "people are becoming tired of television," although he warned they "are not going to stop looking at it." He called for alerter showmanship and harder work.

Myer Schine observed that Hollywood had awakened last year, after business hit a very low in 1950, to the fact that the lush days were over, that waste had to be eliminated and that hard work was essential. Hollywood promised better pictures and it has "made good the promise," he continued. Theatres have the responsibility of selling these fine pictures, he added.

Schine underlined that "bad as business was in 1951, people of the nation spent on films one billion, three hundred million dollars, which constituted several times more than the total for all other types of entertainment.

decree, some 90 film import permits would be granted to U. S. companies, both majors and independents, against the 121 of last year. Additionally, the U. S. companies are intent on getting remittances of over $1,000,000 a year at the legal rate of exchange while the remainder of their earnings would come through at a somewhat less favorable rate, according to reports.

The French are due to put forth new pact proposals when negotiations resume in Paris tomorrow. It is unknown whether these new proposals contain subsidy provisions.

National Pre-Selling

McCALL'S for September features M-G-M's strong, colorful, actionable, "Movie-of-the-Month" calendar well up front in preferred position, with want-to-see copy for "The Merry Widow," "Because You're Mine" and "Plymouth Adventure" for the Fall. McCall's front-of-the-book selection, "McCall's Goes to the Movies" names M-G-M's "Ivanhoe" as the top choice of the month, with reference to "Son of Paleface," "Sudden Fear" and "Affair in Trinidad" as runners-up. A feature article is "Gordon McCrea Gives a Party." And isn't it obvious that just any model (anonymous)) is less interesting on an advertising page than a Hollywood star whom millions of people will recognize and feel they know because they've seen her in pictures? . . . Ray Bolger dances off with new honors as "Where's Charley" is named picture-of-the-month in the September Redbook.

Look* magazine and Parade plan to use major picture layouts based on material which their correspondents obtained on a 12,000-mile junket to attend the world premiere of "The World in His Arms" at the Fourth Avenue Theatre, Anchorage, Alaska, a month ago. In addition to these pulicity payoffs, Collier's and Family Circle are planning features, and Seventeen, Cosmopolitan, Woman's Home Companion, American magazine, Quick and Redbook are among those who have named the picture as their choice of the month's film product. The fan magazines are generally devoting large blocks of editorial and picture space to Ann Blyth and Gregory Peck, including covers in August and September issues.

The September Cosmopolitan, under Ruth Herbert's "Assignment in Hollywood," recommends "Sudden Fear" and "We're Not Married" for adults, in the departments of drama and comedy, while "High Noon," "Lure of the Wilderness," "Son of Paleface," "Washington Story" and "The Big Sky" are recommended for the whole family. Walt Disney's "Water Birds" is cited for children. This monthly list is coming in for some special handling in advertising to the trade and directly to the public in the immediate future. The issue also contains "Cosmopolitan Movie Citations," by Louella O. Parsons, under the topline, "New Young Blood in Hollywood," and "Mister Box-Office"—a special story on Henry Fonda, by Evan M. Wylie.

Ernie Emerling and Carl Fishman, of Loew's Theatres, put their promotional efforts to good advantage in the production of a full-page New Movie Season story which Frank Quinn by-lined in Sunday's New York Mirror, under the title "Films Very Much Alive Despite Its Mourners." Piece will go through Hearst syndicate outlets, elsewhere. . . . Starting with the September issue, Coronet inaugurates a new and novel method of recommending the best films. Instead of relying on the makazine's own critics, a guest editor selected from motion picture industry will give his choice for the month.

"The Stranger in Between"

(J. Arthur Rank—Universal-International)

A FIRST-RATE suspense drama done in the British "tradition," this J. Arthur Rank production is equally admirable for its imaginative use of authentic locales and brilliant character acting by a large cast. The story is direct, believable and always compelling, although a little long in its unfolding.

Its star is Dirk Bogarde, a young man who should be building quite a following here in the 'teen-age set. Sharing top honors is newcomer Jon Whiteley, a six-year-old who gives one of the finest performances by a child to be seen hereabouts in many months. The former, an escaping murderer, and the latter, his more than willing hostage, carry the entire film which is simply the account of their flight overland from London to Scotland.

Things get underway when the little boy, running away from the wrath of his foster father, inadvertently stumbles upon Bogarde, a merchant sailor, in a ruined warehouse where a murder has just taken place. Further along in the film it is learned that the victim was the lover of the sailor's faithless wife. Although no blanket justification of the deed is attempted, one's sympathies are with Bogarde almost from the outset.

Fearing the little boy will tell on him, the hunted man takes him along on his escape to Scotland. The adventures that befall them make up the bulk of the story and reach their climax in a small fishing village after Bogarde's brother has refused them shelter. Bogarde steals a herring boat for the final dash to freedom but has to turn back to shore—and the police—when the little boy falls ill.

The variety of views of English and Scottish countrysides, beautifully photographed by Eric Cross, do much to sustain the mood of the piece. Whiteley's performance—natural, wistful and occasionally hilarious—gives the film real distinction, without being either "arty" or sentimentally pathetic. Julian Wintle produced and Charles Crichton directed the screenplay by Jack Whittingham.

Among a host of supporting players are Elizabeth Sellers, Kay Walsh, Frederick Piper, Julian Somers, Jane Aird, Jack Stewart, Geoffrey Keen and Leonard White.

Running time, 84 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Aug. 19.

Mono.-AA to Hit Production Peak

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—Monogram-Allied Artists will hit an all-time production peak for a four-month period beginning Sept. 2, executive producer Walter Mirisch announced today.

Fifteen pictures will go before cameras during that time, the production chief said, with five starting in September, five in October, three in November and two in December. In line with recently instituted company policies, Mirisch said emphasis will be on name-player power, color and sepia tone throughout the list. With "Royal Mounted Police" now in its shooting stage and 23 features completed heretofore, the companies will wind up with a total of 39 productions during 1952.

Arbitration Draft

only what had been taken up by the Continuations Committee of 10 which met recently. It is understood that film rentals was not a subject on which agreement was reached by the Continuations Committee.

Committeemen who did the drafting yesterday at the Hotel Astor and will convene there again this morning are Herman M. Levy, of TOA; Abram F. Myers, Allied; Robert Perkins, Warner, and Adolph Schimel, Universal. Present also were Ralph Hetzel, Jr., Motion Picture Association of America vice-president; Henderson M. Richey, Arbitration Conference secretary, and William F. Rodgers, Loew's.

It was regarded as possible that the drafting would be completed today. If not, it is likely that no more than one more day will be needed for the work, it was said.

Grant Permits for 2 New TV Stations

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The Federal Communications Commission has granted construction permits for two new television stations and advised six other applicants that their applications would be designated for hearing.

The two grants were to Pursely Broadcasting Service, Mobile, Ala., and Hawaiian Broadcasting System, Ltd., Honolulu. Those designated for hearing were the Mount Hood Radio and Television Broadcasting Corp., Portland, Ore.; Smith Radio Co., Port Arthur, Tex.; Tom Potter, Chattanooga; Television Broadcasters, Beaumont, Tex., and KTBS, Inc., and the Southland Television Co., both of Shreveport, La.

Mindlin to Manage Theatre for Lopert

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Fred Mindlin, veteran member of the Chicago motion picture industry, and for many years associated with National Screen Service here, has been appointed manager of Lopert's Ziegfeld Theatre, succeeding Art Steagall who resigned to manage a guest ranch for Beatrice Kay. The Ziegfeld, which has been closed for the summer, will reopen on Friday, Aug. 29 with its third showing of "Tales of Hoffman," this time at popular prices.

Sunday Films Ban Stays

CEDARTOWN, Ga., Aug. 19.—By a unanimous vote the Cedartown City Commission rejected the Lam Amusement Co. petition to show Sunday films here. Under the law Sunday films are legal in Georgia, but the operator must secure a permit from the city governing body. The petitioner can by getting at least 25 per cent of the registered voters to sign a petition, bring this case up again, it was explained by officials.

Advance Sale for 'Fatima' Sets Record

To date, 67 theatre parties have been subscribed for at the Bijou Theatre here where Warner's "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" will begin a reserved seat long-run engagement tomorrow. The picture also will open at the Astor on a continuous performance policy tomorrow, following its invitational premiere there tonight.

In addition to the theatre party subscriptions, some 800 individual requests for reserved seats for performances at the Bijou have been received through coupons carried in opening advertising, Warner reported. The advance sale, the company said, represents a record for a motion picture.

Kalmine Reports Progress on Drive

With three major companies—Universal, United Artists and RKO Pictures—in the home office division of the industry's Joint Defense Appeal drive already having held meetings, and others reporting extensive activity, the industry's 1952 JDA-campaign is meeting with increasing success, it was disclosed here by Harry Kalmine of Warner Brothers, chairman of the division. Kalmine is being assisted by Harry Goldberg, also of Warner Brothers. Co-chairmen of the industry effort are Leon Goldberg, of Universal Pictures, and Edward L. Fabian of Fabian Theatres.

Gang Sues Hughes

Geneva Meet Gets Started

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Another international copyright conference has opened in Geneva, with hopes of reaching final agreement on a new universal copyright convention. Film industry officials have long been watching the progress toward such a convention, hoping that it might solve many of their present copyright difficulties overseas.

The State Department, in announcing the conference, said it represents "the culmination of five years of work on an international copyright arrangement," under the guidance of UNESCO. It pointed out that UNESCO copyright experts met in Paris in June 1951 and worked out a proposed convention, and that this was subsequently gone over by the individual governments. This draft, with proposed revisions submitted by the individual governments, will serve as the basis for the work of the conference in Geneva.

Chairman of the U. S. delegation is Luther Evans, Librarian of Congress. Congressional advisers are Reps. Bryson of South Carolina and Crumpacker of Indiana. Other members of the U.S. delegation are Herman Finkelstein, general counsel of ASCAP; Sydney Kaye, general counsel of Broadcast Music, Inc.; John Schulman, attorney for the Author's League; Arthur Fisher, registrar of copyrights at the Library of Congress; Arthur Farmer, general counsel of the American Book Publishers' Council, and Roger C. Dixon of the State Department.

New RCA Screen for Third RKO House

The RKO Trent Theatre, Trenton, N. J., will be the third theatre in the RKO circuit to install one of the new third dimensional RCA Synchro Screens, it was announced.

Installation will be completed by next Wednesday when the Trent will begin the premiere Trenton showing of the "Son of Paleface." The screen is now being used at the RKO 81st Street Theatre, Manhattan, and the RKO Albee Theatre, Brooklyn.

Reopen Old Howard

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—The Howard Theatre here will be reopened Saturday with a film and burlesque policy by Frank Bryant and Frank Ingalls, who acquired it recently from Al Somerby.

Drive-in for Walk-ins

OMAHA, Aug. 19.—Omaha area's fifth drive-in, tentatively named the Lake, also will accommodate walk-in patrons, owner Oscar Johnson of Falls City, Neb., reports. Capacity of the drive-in will be 550 automobiles. The Ballantyne Co. of Omaha designed the theatre.

Christmas Seal Trailer

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—Abbott and Costello and Charles Laughton star in the 1952 "Christmas Seal" trailer, which has been completed at Warner Brothers. All three are soon to be seen in "Abbott and Costello Meet Captain Kidd," a Woodley production for Warner.

'Featherbedding' Case Goes To U.S. Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The National Labor Relations Board has asked the U. S. Supreme Court to uphold its finding that the American Federation of Musicians did not engage in illegal "featherbedding" against a Gamble Enterprises theatre in Akron.

The Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals overruled the Board and upheld unfair labor practice charges brought against the AFM by the Gamble circuit.

The high court is expected to rule on the appeal soon after it starts its new session in October.

For several years before the passage of the Taft-Hartley Law in 1947, the Palace Theatre in Akron paid minimum fees to local musicians each time an out-of-town name band appeared on the stage, even though the local men did not actually work. The Taft-Hartley law made such featherbedding illegal, and after its passage, the union tried to negotiate an agreement with the circuit to have local bands actually play before and after out-of-town name bands. The chain, however, said it did not want the extra music and refused to agree to any such practice.

Some time later, when Gamble made arrangements for a name band to play the Palace, AFM boss James C. Petrillo ordered the band not to go there unless the circuit used local musicians before and after. Gamble then brought the unfair labor practice charges, claiming the union violated the featherbedding ban of the Taft-Hartley law.

The NLRB threw out the complaint, saying that featherbedding meant being paid without working, and that the local musicians were perfectly willing to work for their money. The Appeals Court, however, disagreed with the Board.

Set 'Loves' Premiere

1 Reopens, 2 Close

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—The Prospect Theatre, Mt. Prospect, Ill., will be reopened soon. The Lux, East Peoria, Ill., and the Skokie Hi-Way Drive-in near here have been closed. The latter was operated by Smith & Glenn, who acquired it last spring.

Archibald Has Own Firm

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—George Archibald, recently resigned from Ed Rowden Theatre Service, San Francisco, has opened his own booking and buying service here.

Panaria Names Salemson

Harold J. Salemson has been named public relations representative in the United States by Panaria Film of Rome, the company reports. Panaria is currently completing "The Golden Coach," said to be the first color film to be made in Italy.

Exhibition Changes In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—The picture of theatres changing hands or policies during the last few days in Northern California shows the 450-seat Peralta, Oakland, closed by William Garren on June 21, reopened by Robert Wells. A. W. Southwick sold his 270-seat Ione in that town to V. A. Sebastion. The 2,135-seat State (United Paramount), San Francisco, will revert to a first-run policy on Thursday with the first picture under the new setup to be "Miss Julie."

N. P. (Red) Jacobs, president of Favorite Films of California, closed a deal for a precedental run in this city in that it marks the first time manager Jack Allen's swank Stage Door Theatre has day-and-dated with two other houses. It will show Joseph Burstyn's "Tomorrow Is Too Late," together with the Clay and the Larkin around Sept. 1. Henry Pincus will handle publicity on the film for the three theatres.

The Golden State circuit has put the 1,179-seat Gateway, at Oakland, and the 1,402-seat Rivoli at Berkeley on a weekend only policy and has closed the 956-seat Capital, Oakland and the 850-seat Rio at San Leandro.

Many New Drive-ins In Minnesota Area

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 19.—The continued growth of drive-ins in this area is evidenced by the numerous outdoor theatres now being planned or under construction.

Sites for new outdoor theatres include the following: Paul Perrizo, Twin-City four-walled operator, plans a drive-in between Winnebago and Blue Earth, Minn.; the Welworth circuit plans one at Montevideo and at New Ulm, Minn., and Devils Lake and Langdon, N. D., to mention a few.

Among situations reportedly lined up for new outdoor theatres are the Shakopee-Chaska area, Annandale-Lake district, Northfield-Faribault zone, Litchfield-Hutchinson-Winsted area, all in Minnesota, and the Hudson district in Wisconsin.

Forms 'A Men' Firm

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19. — Richard Carlson, Ivan Tours and Curt Siodmak have announced the formation of "A Men Productions" to produce films primarily for theatres, dealing with science-adventure subjects. The announcement said that United Artists will release and is participating in the financing.

Ohio Censor Fight Brews

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 19.—Dr. Clyde Hissong, chief state film censor, was given until Sept. 13 by Judge Edward S. Matthias of the Ohio Supreme Court to file an answer to the mandamus action brought in the court by Superior Films, Inc., Hollywood, which would force the Ohio censor board to view the film, "M" again. The board originally rejected the film for showing in Ohio on April 23, 1951 when it was submitted by Columbia Pictures.

Hissong said he had advised Superior Films that the board did not plan to see the film again because it had been rejected and that "merely because another firm had acquired distribution rights" was no reason for a second viewing. Superior's counsel said that the request was based on the fact that the film has been cut to conform with censorship requirements wherever it had been submitted. These "material changes" warrant a second viewing in Ohio, the distributor claims.

Hissong said "M" was banned because "it is permeated with crime, evinced lack of confidence in law enforcement agencies and portrayed a child killer in complete perversion."

Miss May F. Quirk, manager of the Victoria Theatre at Mt. Carmel, Pa., has been declared winner of the first prize of $500 in M-G-M's second "Promotion Prize of the Month" contest picture, "Just This Once."

Curtis H. Miller, general manager of the Claughton Theatres operating the State Theatre at Tampa, Fla., has been selected winner of the second prize amounting to $250.

Five other awards of $50 each were given to Ralph L. Puckhaber, Jr., manager, Palms Theatre, W. Palm Beach, Fla.; H. F. Borresen, manager of the State Theatre, Winona, Minn.; Ike Hoig, city manager of the Stuart Theatre, Lincoln, Nebr.; Lou Cohen and Norn Levinson, Poli Theatre, Hartford, Conn.; and John M. Langford, Strand Theatre, Ogdensburg, N. Y.

N.E. Theatre Books 'Finian's Rainbow'

HARTFORD, Aug. 19.—The 2,000-seat first-run Allyn Theatre, part of the New England Theatres Circuit, has booked the stage musical, "Finian's Rainbow," as first of a proposed series of one-day stage engagements, for Thursday, Sept. 18.

Ray McNamara, theatre manager, announced: "If successful, the September boking will be followed by an unlimited number of one-night performances featuring top Broadway productions. We will interrupt our film policy occasionally for only the better shows. On Sept. 18, we plan to show our regular film attraction during the day, ending the performances at about 6 P.M. and present 'Finian's Rainbow' at one show about 8:30."

L. A. Council Joins Fight Vs. U.S. Suit

Warns Against Threat Of 'Socialized' Radio-TV

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—The Los Angeles City Council yesterday unanimously adopted a resolution, proposed by Councilman Ed J. Davenport, branding the government's 16 mm. suit a threat to "our American way of life and individual freedom, which we are confident no good American wants to trade for a free pass to a movie over his television set at the expense of destroying a great industry."

This was the first legislative body to so act since the suit was filed here on July 22. The anti-trust action was designed to force the sale of 16mm. films to TV and other outlets competing with regular theatres.

The resolution, copies of which were sent to Eric Johnston and presidents of all producing companies, suggested that the industry confer with the

Arbitration Draft Work Resumes

The Industry Arbitration Conference's drafting committee of four attorneys from distribution and exhibition today will put in its second successive day of work here on drawing up the document containing the provisions for a projected industry system of arbitration-conciliation.

Asked if provision was being made in the draft for handling film rental disputes under an arbitration plan, a spokesman for the committee replied that the group yesterday put on paper

'Ivanhoe' Tops Hall Three-week Record

"Ivanhoe," now completing its third week at Radio City Music Hall, has racked up the top three-week gross in the history of the Hall. With at least $170,000 forecast for the third week, which ends tonight, the gross tally for the three weeks will total a terrific $520,300.

A Record $100,000,000 Box-Office Year Indicated for Canadian Houses

Washington, Aug. 19.—Gross box-office receipts of Canadian motion picture theatres are expected to hit a record $100,000,000 (Canadian dollars) this year, according to Nathan D. Golden, U.S. Commerce Department film chief.

Golden said receipts, which have been increasing steadily since 1945, were reported at $86,700,000 for 1950, and that the upward trend has continued since.

It is estimated, Golden said, that about 90 per cent of Canadian screen time is devoted to U.S. films, and that about 90 per cent of the box-office receipts are derived from U.S. films.

Eighteen standard theatres and 11 drive-ins were opened during the first half of this year, bringing the total number of theatres in operation to 1,867 standard theatres and 89 drive-ins. It was also reported that 41 theatres, including 18 drive-ins, are now under construction, Golden stated.

Harper Leaves MGM For New Shea Post

Richard A. Harper has resigned his sales executive duties at M-G-M to become executive assistant to Gerald Shea, president of Shea Enterprises, it was announced here yesterday.

Richard A. Harper

For the past several years Harper has been circuit sales representative for M-G-M and an assistant to W. F. Rodgers and Charles M. Reagan. He joined M-G-M here in 1946 after World War II service with the Navy. After serving in several M-G-M exchanges he was made a special sales representative, later becoming circuit sales representative.

Success Seen for COMPO Dues Drive

Incomplete reports thus far received at the Council of Motion Picture Organizations' headquarters here indicate that the campaign for collection of COMPO dues from exhibitors, which was conducted throughout the country last week by film salesmen, will prove successful.

In many areas salesmen making the collections, which will be matched by distributors when complete, have not yet handed in their reports. Final results will not be available for several days. In addition to meeting normal costs of COMPO operations, the collections also will help finance the industry effort for repeal of the Federal admission tax.

Confidence Keynote Of Schine Meeting

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 19.—History proves that the industry always has weathered its crises, J. Meyer Schine, keynote speaker at the first Schine showmanship meeting to be convened in 11 years, told 150 of the circuit's executives, managers and department heads at the first business session at the Ten Eyck Hotel here today.

Schine said that "those of little faith" had long ago sold out their interest in our business. He was introduced by Louis W. Schine, who presided at the session.

Seymour Morris described future product available to the circuit and presented a six-point merchandising program based on attractions that can be merchandised; campaigns that "tell and sell"; service and comfort that

MPAA Rejects French Pact Subsidy Setup

Adopts View of SIMPP On Eve of French Offer

Motion Pictures Association of America member companies have decided against accepting a Franco-American film deal that would call for subsidization of French production by the U. S. companies, it was learned yesterday from film export sources here.

This finally puts the MPAA companies, which have vacillated on the subsidy question during the negotiations which have been going on in Paris, squarely alongside the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers in opposition to such assistance for French production.

It was indicated that the MPAA now feels that a Franco-American film pact providing for reduced exports to France and no subsidy is preferable to a pact with no reduction in exports and a subsidy, or "discount" as the French have termed it.

Leff Meyers Files $2,250,000 Suit

A $2,250,000 anti-trust suit was filed in Federal Court here yesterday against eight distributors, Skouras Theatres Corp., Metropolitan Playhouses, Inc., and their subsidiaries, by the Leff Meyers Corp., which operates the De Luxe Theatre, in the Bronx.

The complaint charges that the defendants conspired and discriminated against the plaintiff's theatre. Since Nov., 1951, the complaint alleged, the defendants have forced the plaintiff to bid against the Loew's Elsmere.

Eastman Six Months Net, $18,178,388

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Eastman Kodak today reported gross sales of $249,924,131 during the first half of the year, about two per cent less than the $254,623,707 for the same time last year. Net earnings of $18,178,388 were off 21 per cent from the $23,111,078 net for the first half of last year.

2 Became 'Reds' on Roosevelt's Death

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Hollywood screen writer Bernard C. Schoenfeld today told the House Un-American Activities committee that the "shock" of President Roosevelt's death impelled him into joining the Communist Party in 1945.

Testifying at his own request, he added that another screen writer, Stanley Roberts, joined along with him for the same reason. Schoenfeld said that he and Roberts became disillusioned and quit the party in 1947.

Committee counsel Frank Tavenner told reporters that he expected no other Hollywood witnesses to appear before the committee until it opened hearings in Hollywood on Sept. 29.

O'Hara and McLaglen Promote 'Quiet Man'

Maureen O'Hara and Victor McLaglen, starring in Republic's "The Quiet Man," will each make two personal appearances at the Capitol Theatre here tomorrow, the opening day. Miss O'Hara will be in the theatre at 9:00 A.M. and at 6:00 P.M. McLaglen will appear at 1:00 P.M. and at 8:30 P.M. Both stars will present autographed photographs.

New 'Red' Unit to Control East German Industry

Sweeping supervision of every facet of motion picture industry activity in Eastern Germany will be vested in a central film committee to be set up under the Soviet-controlled political administration, it was announced this week in East German newspapers, according to the Motion Picture Association of America.

Primary reason for the creation of the committee, it was stated, is "to increase the utilization of films for propaganda purposes."

Specific functions of the committee, the announcement said, will be to "guide the production, sale and distribution of films, issue film licenses, draft film laws and control the administration of motion picture theatres."

The committee will also "provide for the production of films which mobilize the mass of population in the fight for national liberalization, and for the construction and defense of the German Democratic Republic."

To insure compliance with the new regulations, artists in Eastern Germany will be required to belong to councils organized under DEFA, the Soviet-supervised film company.

The rigid controls over the motion picture industry in Eastern Germany, following the pattern of the film monopolies in all of the Soviet satellite countries, will also extend apparently to the content of film reviews, the MPAA reported. Newspapers were "instructed" to overcome the tendency to write reviews "in the style of bourgeois journalism."

Youngstein Touring For Sales Drive

Max E. Youngstein, vice-president of United Artists, is on a week's tour of the company's Omaha, Minneapolis and Milwaukee exchanges to meet with branch personnel in connection with the "Bill Heineman Sales Drive," of which Youngstein is captain. He is accompanied by James Velde, UA Western division manager.

The drive, named for William J. Heineman, vice-president in charge of distribution, will wind up its ninth week tonight.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—Plans for the annual Screen Producers Guild "Milestone Dinner," which this year will honor Louis B. Mayer, has been switched to Nov. 12 and will be held at the Biltmore Bowl, it was announced by Buddy Adler, chairman of the committee.

Originally set for Oct. 22 at the new Statler Hotel, the SPG board felt that due to the Presidential campaign, November would be a more desirable time for the function. George Jessel will be master-of-ceremonies.

F. Hugh Herbert's Tax Claim Upheld

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—The Internal Revenue Department's failure to oppose a motion for dismissal of the government's appeal from Judge Leon Yankwich's decision upholding the legality of one-picture corporations is being interpreted here as an indication that collapsible corporations are to have smooth sailing hereafter.

The government's appeal from the Yankwich decision, which held F. Hugh Herbert and his wife were entitled to recover $198,515 paid as personal income tax after the government had denied the right to file proceeds from their production, "Kiss and Tell" on a capital gains basis, came up for trial in the Ninth U. S. Court of Appeals in San Francisco, yesterday, and was dismissed when the government failed to oppose the dismissal motion.

16mm. Suit on MPIC Meeting Agenda

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—The Government's 16mm. suit will be a topmost matter on the agenda of the Motion Picture Industry Council which meets tomorrow night. Also on the agenda is a discussion of the possibility of using $40,000 left over from the exhibition of the "Movies and You" short subjects as starting capital for the production of a new series of the same type.

SPG Sets College Film-Making Award

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—Establishment of an annual intercollegiate film award to be presented to the best student-produced film turned out by 69 colleges and universities which include film and drama classes in their curricula, was announced here by Sol C. Siegel, Screen Producers Guild president.

Each school will be asked to select its own best film, and a viewing committee composed of SPG members will sift these selections to a final number which will be screened for the entire SPG membership for a vote on the winner.

The student considered most instrumental in the production of the winning film will be an SPG guest here for a week.

Siegel said the purpose is both to recognize student interest in film study and to encourage a broader participation in the picture industry's future.

'American Weekly' Critics Select 'Greatest Show'

Cecil B. DeMille's "The Greatest Show on Earth," has been voted the most enjoyable motion picture of the 1951-1952 season in the American Weekly's first annual motion picture awards.

The poll, conducted among the film critics of the twenty-three metropolitan newspapers distributing the American Weekly was to determine the ten most enjoyable pictures, and the five most enjoyable performances turned in by actresses and actors during the period from September, 1951 to August 1952.

Other award winning films in the American Weekly poll are "An American In Paris," "A Place in the Sun," "A Streetcar Named Desire," "African Queen," "Detective Story," "Death of a Salesman," "The River," "Singing in the Rain," and "Five Fingers."

Vivien Leigh for her performance in "A Streetcar Named Desire," was accorded top honors among the actresses. Frederick March for his performance in "Death of a Salesman" was the critics' first choice for male acting honors.

Ernest V. Heyn, editor of the American Weekly is now in Hollywood where he will make several award presentations. The awards are part of an all-film issue the American Weekly is releasing Aug. 31.

5 Weeks for Para's 'Jumping Jacks'

Hal Wallis' "Jumping Jacks," Paramount release, today became the first film in more than three years to play five weeks at the Paramount Theatre here. Paramount's "Sorrowful Jones," in June, 1949, was the last picture to play five weeks.

"Jumping Jacks" finished its four weeks at the Paramount with a total gross of $379,000, the top gross for a four week period since "Samson and Delilah" in 1949.

$22,000 for 'Trinidad'; Cincinnati Grosses Up

CINCINNATI, Aug. 19.—Theatre patrons here are fully conscious of the fact that "Rita is back," and are welcoming Miss Hayworth to the tune of an estimated $22,000 for "Affair in Trinidad," at the 2,700-seat RKO Palace, exactly double the average and the best week's gross at this house in many months. It will hold for a second week.

Other grosses are registering considerably above average for the current week, reflecting the general improvement in theatre business which became manifest here some time ago.

High Grosses Are Reported For Kaufman's 'Sudden Fear'

The second week's grosses for Joseph Kaufman's "Sudden Fear" are proving excellent, RKO Radio executives report, disclosing that the picture is heading for $10,000 at the Palace, Cleveland, following a $4,200 weekend at the theatre. At the Apollo, Atlantic City, the picture closed with over $9,000 for the last five days of a 12-day run which saw a new record for the first week. A move-over to the Strand takes place there today. In Toronto, at the Tivoli and University theatres, "Sudden Fear" grossed $6,200 in its first two days, to what is considered the best business for both houses, it was said.

The premiere run in New York goes into its third week at Loew's State tomorrow, with the second week's estimate at $48,000, the best gross in three years at the State.

Reviews

"Somebody Loves Me"

GIVE BETTY HUTTON 15 of Blossom Seeley's grand old songs, stand her in front of a Technicolor camera with leave to give 'em the full treatment, and what can you come up with but a good picture. That's what's been done here. It figures to do all right.

As produced by William Perlberg and George Seaton, with Irving Brecher doing the writing and directing for them, the story of the life and times of Blossom Seeley and Benny Fields stacks up as something less than their contemporaries might wish it to have been, and yet as a tunefilm the young folk who buy most of today's admission tickets may consider it a money's worth. Certainly Betty gives it her best, which is plenty good, but she gets no help from an actor named Ralph Meeker, in the Fields role, and little from anyone else, on screen or off. Even Jack Benny, who's pitched into the thing late in the proceedings and for an indecisive sequence, isn't equal to salvaging the project in the time at his disposal. Robert Keith, Adele Jergens, Billie Bird, Henry Slate and Sid Tomack are members of the principal cast.

The script picks up Blossom as a cafe singer in 'Frisco when the quake of 1906 strikes (quite convincingly, too) and follows her up the ladder of vaudeville fame, picking up Fields on the way, to the point where, it says, Fields confesses he married her for her money and is determined to cut loose from her and make good on his own. Along about here the picture stops being a musical and turns dramatic, which is quite a trial for all hands, including the star whose bubbling personality and wise way with a song are what the picture's got to carry it. In the finale Meeker, as Fields, tries to make it a musical again, but only Fields himself could have done it by then. In addition to the 15 old songs from the Seeley past there are three new ones by Jay Livingston and Ray Evans.

Running time, 95 minutes. General audience classification. For October release.

WILLIAM R. WEAVER

(Lippert) Hollywood, Aug. 19

EXPLOITATION ACCESSORIES furnished with this feature detail such items as fights between tiger and bear, leopard and wart hog, mongoose and cobra, et al. These fights the picture provides in ample measure. And India, the film's setting, is an eyeful for almost any theatregoer any time.

Rod Cameron, Cesar Romero and Marie Windsor supply substantial marquee material with which to focus attention on this exploitation attraction produced and directed in India by William Berke (with the facilities of Modern Theatres, Ltd., Salem, India). But the star of the picture is India, brilliantly photographed by Clyde DeVinna and processed in dramatic sepia-tone. The story, played out by the three name-players is strictly coincidental to the presentation of Indian scenes, customs, ceremonies, animals and people. Whether an exhibitor should exploit the attraction on the strength of the Cameron-Romero-Windsor trio or the roar of the tiger, the hiss of the serpent and the trumpeting of the elephant—or both—the job of entertaining the customers is India's first, last and always. Audiences made acquainted with that fact in advance are likely to like the picture best.

The original screenplay by Carroll Young concerns an American big-game hunter, in bad with the population of an Indian community for having gotten 10 of the local hunters killed by elephants which he maintains are mammoths, and his undertaking to prove to the princess regent and her chief aide that his story about the mammoths is true. This sets up the reason for the three and some hundreds of natives to set off across the country toward the jungle, and this journey enables the cameraman to pick up fine shots of the countryside, exciting incidents of combat between wild animals, and finally the elephants in question. It's not much of a story, but it needn't be, for the purpose it serves.

Running time, 74 minutes. General audience classification. August release.

Kenneth McEldowney's, "The River" has been selected as one of five nominees for the 1952 "Silver Laurel Award," which will be presented to the producer of the winning film by the Earl of Rosebery during the Sixth International Edinburgh Film Festival on Aug. 24 at the Caley Picture House, Edinburgh, United Artists, distributor of the film, disclosed.

The other four pictures are "Cry, the Beloved Country," "I Believe in You," "The Lavender Hill Mob" and "The Man in the White Suit." Only British productions shown publicly between May 31, 1951 and May 31, 1952 are eligible for the award. "The River" qualifies as a British quota picture because it was filmed entirely in India.

keep them coming; reviving the children's film-going habit; community activities for every manager, and sensible economical operations.

Most speakers at the Schine circuit convention expressed confidence that strong product, vigorous showmanship, hard work and unflinching faith will enable motion picture theatres to withstand the competition from television, installment buying, technological changes, high living costs and soaring taxes.

Industry Unity

Si Seadler, M-G-M advertising manager, said that not only are "all companies" releasing better pictures but also that industry "unity" is improving. Seadler declared the industry has no place for the prophets of doom.

G. David Schine stated that he talked recently with David Sarnoff, RCA board chairman. The discussion, held in Europe, Schine said, convinced him that the television industry is not trying to put motion picture theatres out of business. He pointed to RCA's large stake in film houses, via the development, manufacture and sale of theatre equipment.

Theatres can "harness" television to their operation, declared Schine, as he discussed large screen TV. He likewise spoke of third dimension processes and Arch Oboler's coming production. Schine hit at the 20 per cent admission tax, calling it the theatres' main operational problem.

Circuit publicity director Morris in a survey of releases said they seemed to be "unsurpassed." Commenting on Universal-International releases, Morris remarked that "we owe that company a debt of gratitude for the consistant flow of bread-and-butter pictures."

Opening the meeting, Louis W. Schine expressed the belief that "people are becoming tired of television," although he warned they "are not going to stop looking at it." He called for alerter showmanship and harder work.

Myer Schine observed that Hollywood had awakened last year, after business hit a very low in 1950, to the fact that the lush days were over, that waste had to be eliminated and that hard work was essential. Hollywood promised better pictures and it has "made good the promise," he continued. Theatres have the responsibility of selling these fine pictures, he added.

Schine underlined that "bad as business was in 1951, people of the nation spent on films one billion, three hundred million dollars, which constituted several times more than the total for all other types of entertainment.

decree, some 90 film import permits would be granted to U. S. companies, both majors and independents, against the 121 of last year. Additionally, the U. S. companies are intent on getting remittances of over $1,000,000 a year at the legal rate of exchange while the remainder of their earnings would come through at a somewhat less favorable rate, according to reports.

The French are due to put forth new pact proposals when negotiations resume in Paris tomorrow. It is unknown whether these new proposals contain subsidy provisions.

National Pre-Selling

McCALL'S for September features M-G-M's strong, colorful, actionable, "Movie-of-the-Month" calendar well up front in preferred position, with want-to-see copy for "The Merry Widow," "Because You're Mine" and "Plymouth Adventure" for the Fall. McCall's front-of-the-book selection, "McCall's Goes to the Movies" names M-G-M's "Ivanhoe" as the top choice of the month, with reference to "Son of Paleface," "Sudden Fear" and "Affair in Trinidad" as runners-up. A feature article is "Gordon McCrea Gives a Party." And isn't it obvious that just any model (anonymous)) is less interesting on an advertising page than a Hollywood star whom millions of people will recognize and feel they know because they've seen her in pictures? . . . Ray Bolger dances off with new honors as "Where's Charley" is named picture-of-the-month in the September Redbook.

"The Stranger in Between"

(J. Arthur Rank—Universal-Internotional)

A FIRST-RATE suspense drama done in the British "tradition," this J. Arthur Rank production is equally admirable for its imaginative use of authentic locales and brilliant character acting by a large cast. The story is direct, believable and always compelling, although a little long in its unfolding.

Its star is Dirk Bogarde, a young man who should be building quite a following here in the 'teen-age set. Sharing top honors is newcomer Jon Whiteley, a six-year-old who gives one of the finest performances by a child to be seen hereabouts in many months. The former, an escaping murderer, and the latter, his more than willing hostage, carry the entire film which is simply the account of their flight overland from London to Scotland.

Things get underway when the little boy, running away from the wrath of his foster father, inadvertently stumbles upon Bogarde, a merchant sailor, in a ruined warehouse where a murder has just taken place. Further along in the film it is learned that the victim was the lover of the sailor's faithless wife. Although no blanket justification of the deed is attempted, one's sympathies are with Bogarde almost from the outset.

Fearing the little boy will tell on him, the hunted man takes him along on his escape to Scotland. The adventures that befall them make up the bulk of the story and reach their climax in a small fishing village after Bogarde's brother has refused them shelter. Bogarde steals a herring boat for the final dash to freedom but has to turn back to shore—and the police—when the little boy falls ill.

The variety of views of English and Scottish countrysides, beautifully photographed by Eric Cross, do much to sustain the mood of the piece. Whiteley's performance—natural, wistful and occasionally hilarious—gives the film real distinction, without being either "arty" or sentimentally pathetic. Julian Wintle produced and Charles Crichton directed the screenplay by Jack Whittingham.

Running time, 84 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Aug. 19.

Mono.-AA to Hit Production Peak

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—Monogram-Allied Artists will hit an all-time production peak for a four-month period beginning Sept. 2, executive producer Walter Mirisch announced today.

Fifteen pictures will go before cameras during that time, the production chief said, with five starting in September, five in October, three in November and two in December. In line with recently instituted company policies, Mirisch said emphasis will be on name-player power, color and sepia tone throughout the list. With "Royal Mounted Police" now in its shooting stage and 23 features completed heretofore, the companies will wind up with a total of 39 productions during 1952.

Arbitration Draft

only what had been taken up by the Continuations Committee of 10 which met recently. It is understood that film rentals was not a subject on which agreement was reached by the Continuations Committee.

Committeemen who did the drafting yesterday at the Hotel Astor and will convene there again this morning are Herman M. Levy, of TOA; Abram F. Myers, Allied; Robert Perkins, Warner, and Adolph Schimel, Universal. Present also were Ralph Hetzel, Jr., Motion Picture Association of America vice-president; Henderson M. Richey, Arbitration Conference secretary, and William F. Rodgers, Loew's.

It was regarded as possible that the drafting would be completed today. If not, it is likely that no more than one more day will be needed for the work, it was said.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The Federal Communications Commission has granted construction permits for two new television stations and advised six other applicants that their applications would be designated for hearing.

The two grants were to Pursely Broadcasting Service, Mobile, Ala., and Hawaiian Broadcasting System, Ltd., Honolulu. Those designated for hearing were the Mount Hood Radio and Television Broadcasting Corp., Portland, Ore.; Smith Radio Co., Port Arthur, Tex.; Tom Potter, Chattanooga; Television Broadcasters, Beaumont, Tex., and KTBS, Inc., and the Southland Television Co., both of Shreveport, La.

Mindlin to Manage Theatre for Lopert

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Fred Mindlin, veteran member of the Chicago motion picture industry, and for many years associated with National Screen Service here, has been appointed manager of Lopert's Ziegfeld Theatre, succeeding Art Steagall who resigned to manage a guest ranch for Beatrice Kay. The Ziegfeld, which has been closed for the summer, will reopen on Friday, Aug. 29 with its third showing of "Tales of Hoffman," this time at popular prices.

Sunday Films Ban Stays

CEDARTOWN, Ga., Aug. 19.—By a unanimous vote the Cedartown City Commission rejected the Lam Amusement Co. petition to show Sunday films here. Under the law Sunday films are legal in Georgia, but the operator must secure a permit from the city governing body. The petitioner can by getting at least 25 per cent of the registered voters to sign a petition, bring this case up again, it was explained by officials.

Advance Sale for 'Fatima' Sets Record

To date, 67 theatre parties have been subscribed for at the Bijou Theatre here where Warner's "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" will begin a reserved seat long-run engagement tomorrow. The picture also will open at the Astor on a continuous performance policy tomorrow, following its invitational premiere there tonight.

In addition to the theatre party subscriptions, some 800 individual requests for reserved seats for performances at the Bijou have been received through coupons carried in opening advertising, Warner reported. The advance sale, the company said, represents a record for a motion picture.

Kalmine Reports Progress on Drive

With three major companies—Universal, United Artists and RKO Pictures—in the home office division of the industry's Joint Defense Appeal drive already having held meetings, and others reporting extensive activity, the industry's 1952 JDA-campaign is meeting with increasing success, it was disclosed here by Harry Kalmine of Warner Brothers, chairman of the division. Kalmine is being assisted by Harry Goldberg, also of Warner Brothers. Co-chairmen of the industry effort are Leon Goldberg, of Universal Pictures, and Edward L. Fabian of Fabian Theatres.

Gang Sues Hughes

Geneva Meet Gets Started

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Another international copyright conference has opened in Geneva, with hopes of reaching final agreement on a new universal copyright convention. Film industry officials have long been watching the progress toward such a convention, hoping that it might solve many of their present copyright difficulties overseas.

The State Department, in announcing the conference, said it represents "the culmination of five years of work on an international copyright arrangement," under the guidance of UNESCO. It pointed out that UNESCO copyright experts met in Paris in June 1951 and worked out a proposed convention, and that this was subsequently gone over by the individual governments. This draft, with proposed revisions submitted by the individual governments, will serve as the basis for the work of the conference in Geneva.

Chairman of the U. S. delegation is Luther Evans, Librarian of Congress. Congressional advisers are Reps. Bryson of South Carolina and Crumpacker of Indiana. Other members of the U.S. delegation are Herman Finkelstein, general counsel of ASCAP; Sydney Kaye, general counsel of Broadcast Music, Inc.; John Schulman, attorney for the Author's League; Arthur Fisher, registrar of copyrights at the Library of Congress; Arthur Farmer, general counsel of the American Book Publishers' Council, and Roger C. Dixon of the State Department.

New RCA Screen for Third RKO House

The RKO Trent Theatre, Trenton, N. J., will be the third theatre in the RKO circuit to install one of the new third dimensional RCA Synchro Screens, it was announced.

Installation will be completed by next Wednesday when the Trent will begin the premiere Trenton showing of the "Son of Paleface." The screen is now being used at the RKO 81st Street Theatre, Manhattan, and the RKO Albee Theatre, Brooklyn.

Reopen Old Howard

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—The Howard Theatre here will be reopened Saturday with a film and burlesque policy by Frank Bryant and Frank Ingalls, who acquired it recently from Al Somerby.

Drive-in for Walk-ins

OMAHA, Aug. 19. — Omaha area's fifth drive-in, tentatively named the Lake, also will accommodate walk-in patrons, owner Oscar Johnson of Falls City, Neb., reports. Capacity of the drive-in will be 550 automobiles. The Ballantyne Co. of Omaha designed the theatre.

Christmas Seal Trailer

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—Abbott and Costello and Charles Laughton star in the 1952 "Christmas Seal" trailer, which has been completed at Warner Brothers. All three are soon to be seen in "Abbott and Costello Meet Captain Kidd," a Woodley production for Warner.

'Featherbedding' Case Goes To U.S. Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The National Labor Relations Board has asked the U. S. Supreme Court to uphold its finding that the American Federation of Musicians did not engage in illegal "featherbedding" against a Gamble Enterprises theatre in Akron.

The Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals overruled the Board and upheld unfair labor practice charges brought against the AFM by the Gamble circuit.

The high court is expected to rule on the appeal soon after it starts its new session in October.

For several years before the passage of the Taft-Hartley Law in 1947, the Palace Theatre in Akron paid minimum fees to local musicians each time an out-of-town name band appeared on the stage, even though the local men did not actually work. The Taft-Hartley law made such featherbedding illegal, and after its passage, the union tried to negotiate an agreement with the circuit to have local bands actually play before and after out-of-town name bands. The chain, however, said it did not want the extra music and refused to agree to any such practice.

Some time later, when Gamble made arrangements for a name band to play the Palace, AFM boss James C. Petrillo ordered the band not to go there unless the circuit used local musicians before and after. Gamble then brought the unfair labor practice charges, claiming the union violated the featherbedding ban of the Taft-Hartley law.

The NLRB threw out the complaint, saying that featherbedding meant being paid without working, and that the local musicians were perfectly willing to work for their money. The Appeals Court, however, disagreed with the Board.

Set 'Loves' Premiere

1 Reopens, 2 Close

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—The Prospect Theatre, Mt. Prospect, Ill., will be reopened soon. The Lux, East Peoria, Ill., and the Skokie Hi-Way Drive-in near here have been closed. The latter was operated by Smith & Glenn, who acquired it last spring.

Archibald Has Own Firm

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—George Archibald, recently resigned from Ed Rowden Theatre Service, San Francisco, has opened his own booking and buying service here.

Panaria Names Salemson

Harold J. Salemson has been named public relations representative in the United States by Panaria Film of Rome, the company reports. Panaria is currently completing "The Golden Coach," said to be the first color film to be made in Italy.

Exhibition Changes In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—The picture of theatres changing hands or policies during the last few days in Northern California shows the 450-seat Peralta, Oakland, closed by William Garren on June 21, reopened by Robert Wells. A. W. Southwick sold his 270-seat Ione in that town to V. A. Sebastion. The 2,135-seat State (United Paramount), San Francisco, will revert to a first-run policy on Thursday with the first picture under the new setup to be "Miss Julie."

N. P. (Red) Jacobs, president of Favorite Films of California, closed a deal for a precedental run in this city in that it marks the first time manager Jack Allen's swank Stage Door Theatre has day-and-dated with two other houses. It will show Joseph Burstyn's "Tomorrow Is Too Late," together with the Clay and the Larkin around Sept. 1. Henry Pincus will handle publicity on the film for the three theatres.

The Golden State circuit has put the 1,179-seat Gateway, at Oakland, and the 1,402-seat Rivoli at Berkeley on a weekend only policy and has closed the 956-seat Capital, Oakland and the 850-seat Rio at San Leandro.

Many New Drive-ins In Minnesota Area

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 19.—The continued growth of drive-ins in this area is evidenced by the numerous outdoor theatres now being planned or under construction.

Sites for new outdoor theatres include the following: Paul Perrizo, Twin-City four-walled operator, plans a drive-in between Winnebago and Blue Earth, Minn.; the Welworth circuit plans one at Montevideo and at New Ulm, Minn., and Devils Lake and Langdon, N. D., to mention a few.

Among situations reportedly lined up for new outdoor theatres are the Shakopee-Chaska area, Annandale-Lake district, Northfield-Faribault zone, Litchfield-Hutchinson-Winsted area, all in Minnesota, and the Hudson district in Wisconsin.

Forms 'A Men' Firm

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19. — Richard Carlson, Ivan Tours and Curt Siodmak have announced the formation of "A Men Productions" to produce films primarily for theatres, dealing with science-adventure subjects. The announcement said that United Artists will release and is participating in the financing.

Ohio Censor Fight Brews

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 19.—Dr. Clyde Hissong, chief state film censor, was given until Sept. 13 by Judge Edward S. Matthias of the Ohio Supreme Court to file an answer to the mandamus action brought in the court by Superior Films, Inc., Hollywood, which would force the Ohio censor board to view the film, "M" again. The board originally rejected the film for showing in Ohio on April 23, 1951 when it was submitted by Columbia Pictures.

Hissong said he had advised Superior Films that the board did not plan to see the film again because it had been rejected and that "merely because another firm had acquired distribution rights" was no reason for a second viewing. Superior's counsel said that the request was based on the fact that the film has been cut to conform with censorship requirements wherever it had been submitted. These "material changes" warrant a second viewing in Ohio, the distributor claims.

Hissong said "M" was banned because "it is permeated with crime, evinced lack of confidence in law enforcement agencies and portrayed a child killer in complete perversion."

Miss Quirk, Miller, Win MGM Prizes

Miss May F. Quirk, manager of the Victoria Theatre at Mt. Carmel, Pa., has been declared winner of the first prize of $500 in M-G-M's second "Promotion Prize of the Month" contest picture, "Just This Once."

Curtis H. Miller, general manager of the Claughton Theatres operating the State Theatre at Tampa, Fla., has been selected winner of the second prize amounting to $250.

Five other awards of $50 each were given to Ralph L. Puckhaber, Jr., manager, Palms Theatre, W. Palm Beach, Fla.; H. F. Borresen, manager of the State Theatre, Winona, Minn.; Ike Hoig, city manager of the Stuart Theatre, Lincoln, Nebr.; Lou Cohen and Norn Levinson, Poli Theatre, Hartford, Conn.; and John M. Langford, Strand Theatre, Ogdensburg, N. Y.

HARTFORD, Aug. 19.—The 2,000-seat first-run Allyn Theatre, part of the New England Theatres Circuit, has booked the stage musical, "Finian's Rainbow," as first of a proposed series of one-day stage engagements, for Thursday, Sept. 18.

Ray McNamara, theatre manager, announced: "If successful, the September boking will be followed by an unlimited number of one-night performances featuring top Broadway productions. We will interrupt our film policy occasionally for only the better shows. On Sept. 18, we plan to show our regular film attraction during the day, ending the performances at about 6 P.M. and present 'Finian's Rainbow' at one show about 8:30."

FCC Hearings On ABC-UPT Merger Ended

Makes Decision Possible Some Time in November

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. — The American Broadcasting Co.-United Paramount Theatres merger hearing before the Federal Communications Commission closed finally today after seven months of almost continuous hearing.

The way was thus paved for a speedy commission decision, which attorneys in the case expect will come sometime in November.

At the final meeting this morning hearing examiner Leo Resnick ruled against introducing as evidence alleged anti-trust activity on the part of UPT or Paramount Pictures Corp. Since Aug. 7, 1948. This was the only question remaining as to the close of the hearing, since the commission, in an Aug. 1 order and a subsequent clarification outlawed from the hearing pre-1948 anti-trust evi-

Two 'Streamlined' Distribution Years Pay Off for U. A.

United Artists' two-year experience with centralized or "streamlined" physical distribution has demonstrated that "appreciable savings" are possible, William J. Heineman, vice-president in charge of distribution, said yesterday.

While the rest of the industry has been mulling the pros and cons of distribution "streamlining," U. A. has been observing its workings day by day—and, Heineman reported, is thoroughly satisfied with the results. U. A.'s physical distribution is handled by Clark Film Service of Philadelphia, which provides all of the "back room" functions, such as inspection, shipping, storage, etc.

Preparations for a test of the centralized system for the rest of the industry are being advanced by the distribution committee of the Motion Picture Association of America, under

"The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima"

[Warner Brothers]

AN HISTORICAL religious event that took place on the outskirts of the little Portuguese village of Fatima in the year of 1917 has been transferred to the screen with great warmth and appeal. The film will have a simultaneous world premiere here today at the Astor and the Bijou, running on a continuous performance policy at the former house and a reserved seat policy at the latter.

As the story of a child, who with two of her playmates beholds a vision of "The Lady" on a little country hilltop, and then goes through an ordeal of travail and scorn, "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" is suffused with a luminous spiritual quality that will send many patrons out of the theatre with a glow of inspiration and emotion.

The picture, which follows in the footsteps of the commercially successful predecessor, "Song of Bernadette," has been put together with technical proficiency. Color by WarnerColor is on a high order and frames some of the scenic effects beautifully.

Underlying the story of a little girl fired with religious dedication is a lesson of burning contemporary application. In symbols for all to behold

Finish Draft Of Rules for Arbitration

Conciliation Set Also at Day-and-Night Meet

The drafters of a document setting forth the principles of a projected industry arbitration system met at the Hotel Astor here all day yesterday and until a late hour last night to complete their work.

It was the second successive day of drafting and admittedly a grueling one. Had the committee of four exhibition and distribution attorneys not encountered a stumbling block in the form of a disagreement over phrasing during mid-afternoon the draft would have been completed around 5:00 P.M. As it turned out it was long after nightfall when the group adjourned.

By late afternoon the final task, drafting of a plan of conciliation, had not been commenced. However, the committee expressed determination to which RKO Radio handled the films of the Sadler-Pep and Robinson-Turpin fights last year, both of which aided materially in keeping the fights from home TV and clearing them for theatre television. Should an RKO Radio deal for the Walcott-Marciano fight film materialize, observers feel it would clinch the deal for theatre TV of the fight, now being contested by Gillette Safety Razor for free home telecast.

Contracts for the bout were signed in Philadelphia yesterday by the champion and the challenger. Whether the telecast rights will go to home TV or Theatre Network Television is expected to be determined here today or tomorrow. TNT's bid for the telecast reportedly ranges from $1.15 to $1.35 per seat, sold or unsold, for houses of 1,000 to 2,000 seats and over. To this theatres must add telephone line charges, TNT's fee, taxes and other costs, indicating minimum ticket prices of around $5, tax included.

Report $149,040,000 Candy Sales in Theatres in '51

Theatres and amusement places constitute the fifth largest dispenser of candy and confectionery products in the country, selling $149,040,000 of the sweet stuff last year, it is disclosed in a new survey charting the candy and confectionery buying habits of the American consumer, made by the National Association of Tobacco (and candy) Distributors.

Harden E. Goldstein, director of market research of the association reported that theatres and amusement places accounted for 9.2 per cent of candy and confectionery sales last year, running fifth to independent food stores, ($335,340,000 gross sales, representing 20.7 per cent); drug stores, including chains, ($262,440,000 16.2 per cent); chain supermarket food stores, ($231,660,000, 14.3 per cent); cigar stores, stands, stationery stores, ($157,140,000, 9.7 per cent).

The selling groups below theatres are: Vending machines, ($77,760,000, 4.8 per cent); military installations, ($55,080,000, 3.4 per cent); department and variety stores, ($53,460,000, 3.3 per cent); restaurants, eating places, ($43,740,000, 2.7 per cent); gasoline service stations, including roadstands, ($19,440,000, 1.2 per cent); all other outlets, including manufacturers selling through their own retail outlets, ($234,900,000, 14.5 per cent).

The dollar candy and confection sales volume last year totaled $1,620,000,000. Per capita consumption of candy during the year touched a high of $10.72.

In nearly all instances, the report continued, motion picture theatres throughout the country dispensed candy in one form or another. Not included in the figure cited for this group, however, was candy dispensed through automatic vending machines.

Crosby, Hope Film to Compete on B'way

For the first time in their long film careers, Bing Crosby and Bob Hope shortly will be starring in pictures on Broadway in direct competition to each other, Paramount, the distributor of both pictures, pointed out yesterday.

Crosby's "Just for You" has been booked by the Capitol, and Hope's "Son of Paleface" is scheduled for the Paramount Theatre, in October.

Stars Aid Premiere Of 'Caribbean' Today

A contingent of stars will be on hand for today's two-theatre premiere in Kingston, N. Y. of Paramount's "Caribbean." The premiere is being held in conjunction with that city's 300th anniversary celebration.

Flying in from the Coast to attend the openings at the Kingston and Broadway theatres will be William Bendix, Wanda Hendrix, Lon McAllister, Lydia Clarke and William Thomas, co-producer of the film.

11 from M-G-M in Next Four Months

Of 11 productions set for release during the last four months of the year, M-G-M has included six Technicolor productions. These are "The Merry Widow", (Sept. 5); "Because You're Mine", (Oct. 3); "Everything I Have Is Yours", (Oct. 31); "The Prisoner of Zenda", (Nov. 14); "Plymouth Adventure", (Nov. 28), and "Million Dollar Mermaid", (Dec. 26).

The balance of the scheduled releases include the following: "The Devil Makes Three", (Sept. 12); "My Man and I", (Sept. 26); "Apache War Smoke", (Oct. 17); "The Hour of 13", (Nov. 21), and "Sky Full of Moon", (Dec. 12).

Heavy Grosses for 'Sky' and 'Zero'

Howard Hawks' Winchester Production, "The Big Sky," an RKO Radio release, brought business back to a 1949 peak level at the Criterion here Tuesday when it grossed $7,874 on its opening day. Theatre executives reporting this to be the biggest mid-week opening in the last three years. RKO Radio said the opening gross was the biggest mid-week figure reached by any RKO release at the house.

"One Minute to Zero," produced by Edmund Grainger, grossed $21,000 in its first week at the Orpheum, Denver, for the best business any RKO Radio picture has done there in over two years, officials report.

'Dreamboat' Sets 3-Year Roxy Record

A three-year record of $380,000 for a four-week engagement can be set today with the close of the run of 20th Century-Fox's "Dreamboat" at the Roxy here, David T. Katz, executive director, said yesterday. It scored $102,000, $102,000 and $98,000, respectively, in the first three weeks of its run, with $78,000 expected for its fourth.

'Hunter' Grosses High

"Ivory Hunter," Universal-International's American release of the J. Arthur Rank Organization Royal Command Performance picture, is said to have set a new opening day house record at the Trans-Lux 52nd Street Theatre here, grossing $1,970 on Monday, and bettering that figure on Tuesday with a gross of $2,270.

Zanuck at 'Snows' Bow

Darryl F. Zanuck, vice-president in charge of production for 20th Century-Fox, will attend the world premiere of his only personal production of the year, Ernest Hemingway's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" on the night of Sept. 17 at the Rivoli.

Importance of Candy Sales Is Cited

A survey of candy sales conducted by the National Association of Tobacco (and candy) Distributors stated, "as a fixture in the modern movie theatre, has in some instances provided sufficient revenue to offset a portion of the operating losses incurred by the primary business interest. The boost given candy sales by this particular type of retail outlet is as important as it is unique to the previous retail sales pattern enjoyed by the industry."

11 from 20th-Fox In Final Quarter

Eleven productions, five of which will have color by Technicolor, will be released by 20th Century-Fox during the final quarter of 1952, it was reported here yesterday by director of distribution Al Lichtman, following a revision of the schedule for October, November and December.

Included in the line-up is Darryl F. Zanuck's Technicolor production, "The Snows of Kilimanjaro," starring Gregory Peck, Susan Hayward and Ava Gardner, which will have pre-release showings starting in October.

The October line-up continues with "My Wife's Best Friend," starring Anne Baxter and Macdonald Carey, produced by Robert Bassler and directed by Richard Sale; "Way of A Gaucho," Technicolor, starring Rory Calhoun and Gene Tierney, produced by Philip Dunne and directed by Jacques Tourneur, and "Something for the Birds," starring Victor Mature, Patricia Neal and Edmund Gwenn, produced by Samuel G. Engel and directed by Robert Wise.

November Releases

November releases are "Night Without Sleep," starring Linda Darnell, Gary Merrill and Hildegarde Neff, produced by Robert Bassler and directed by Roy Baker; "Steel Trap," a Bert Friedlob production starring Joseph Cotten and Teresa Wright, directed by Andrew Stone; Damon Runyon's "Bloodhounds of Broadway," Technicolor, starring Mitzi Gaynor and Scott Brady, produced by George Jessel and directed by Harmon Jones, and "Pony Soldier," Technicolor, starring Tyrone Power, produced by Samuel G. Engel and directed by Joseph M. Newman.

December releases are "Thief of Venice," a R. Haggiag production starring Maria Montez, Paul Christian and Faye Marlowe, directed by J. Brahm; "Top Man," starring Richard Widmark, Joanne Dru, and Audrey Totter, produced by Stanley Rubin and directed by Robert Parrish, and John Philip Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever," Technicolor, starring Clifton Webb and co-starring Debra Paget, Robert Wagner and Ruth Hussey, produced by Lamar Trotti and directed by Henry Koster.

J. M. Schine Cites Circuit's Employees At Albany Meeting

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Veteran employes of the circuit were cited by J. Meyer Schine, president of Schine Chain Theatres, for their "unsurpassed loyalty and untiring efforts", at a dinner honoring them in the Ten Eyck Hotel here tonight. Eighty-seven, including 21 with 25 or more years of service were presented with pins by Donald Schine, son of Louis W. Schine. Home office executives John May, George Lynch, William Kraemer, Seymour Morris and Bernard Diamond were in the group.

Meyer Schine emphasized that group insurance, hospitalization service and pensions had been a part of the Schine circuit operation for years.

Promotion of children's patronage, motion picture advertising in newspapers, radio, TV and other media, merchandising candy and popcorn, and screen advertising were among the subjects discussed in the morning and afternoon meetings at the Schine circuit convention.

A. W. Schwalberg, president of Paramount Film Distributing Corp., spoke at the evening dinner session.

A suggestion that theatres approach newspapers for a reduction in the amusement rate—held to be too high—was favorably received. President Schine said that a survey of motion picture advertising is needed to make it more effective and economical.

Circuit publicity director Morris commented that "perhaps our advertising has become too routinized". One thing, he thought, should be considered was a reappraisal of Saturday newspaper advertising. Several speakers, including general manager Gus Lampe, strongly urged "spot saturation" in radio advertising. Lampe also recommended the selection of choice "adjacencies" for such announcements, pointing out that time near the Arthur Godfrey morning show had proved one of the best. Si Seadler, M-G-M advertising manager, advanced the same point yesterday.

Meyer Schine stressed that "strong interest" should be attached to the concession phase of the chain's operations. Candy and popcorn executives discussed merchandising, location display and sales techniques.

majority of proxies already received in favor of the issue.

The Skiatron president acknowledged that the majority of film companies are still adverse to giving Skiatron product for the test, now postponed until January.

Since his last canvass of major companies, which indicated that only RKO Radio Pictures and Paramount would consider lending product for the test, one other company has informed Levey that it may offer its product, it was disclosed. The Skiatron president refused to name the company and added that the additional offer was hedged with a request for film rental payments and with a stipulation that the films be about three years old.

Levey, who described his efforts to procure films for programming as "delicate," said his Washington attorney was keeping the Department of Justice informed of Skiatron's negotiations with the film companies.

the picture projects the timeless struggle between Christ and Caesar. It also effects a current-event timeliness in background references to the Communist infiltration that was plaguing Portugal at the time.

Eleven-year-old Susan Whitney gives unassailable authenticity to her characterization of the little girl who moves from trial and anguish to vindication and is aided ably by her mates Sherry Jackson and Sammy Ogg.

Gilbert Roland turns in a portrait of rare quality in a role that is filled with sly humor and probably was designed to give the picture an added measure of popular appeal. He plays a roving, genial village vagabond who gleefully boasts his cynicism and lack of faith till the final sight of the miracle changes his ways.

THE picture's background concerns itself with the grinding tactics of self-consolidation of an anti-religious group of Red revolutionists who have put the province in the grip of dictatorship.

When the three children announce they have seen the vision, fear spreads that the news will give the authorities further excuse to throttle the church. It does. In the meantime the news of the vision reaches out and people descend upon the town in locust hordes, causing complications and exigencies. Frank Silvera, as the cruelty-loving Communist administrator, resorts to a thousand devices to extirpate religious feeling in the people, including the closing of the church, arresting of Fatima's priest, Richard Hale, and the jailing of the children in an effort to wrench a false confession from them.

Little Miss Whitney surmounts a thousand obstacles till finally the miracle promised by the "vision" takes place in the form of a plunging spin of the sun earthward, and its last-minute recession. All doubters are now convinced.

The film closes with scenes of the gathering of a million people at Fatima on Oct. 13, 1951, the 35th anniversary of the miracle.

The screenplay by Crane Wilbur and James O'Hanlon follows closely the known and recorded facts of the extraordinary incident.

John Brahm has directed reliably for producer Bryan Foy. Running time, 102 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Oct. 11.

dence and testimony relating to Scophony Corp. of America. All other testimony had been finished by the end of June.

Resnick made his ruling over the arguments of commission attorneys, who estimated they would need another two months of hearings to develop several anti-trust cases involving the Paramount companies brought after the cut-off date.

In addition, Resnick ordered the record closed over the objections of attorneys for Allen B. Du Mont, who claimed that closing the record now would nullify a Du Mont petition filed last week and on which the commission has not yet acted. Du Mont had asked the FCC to rescind the Aug. 1 order or to apply the three-year cut-off date to the question of Du Mont's control by Paramount.

Resnick set at 20 days from today the final date for filing proposed findings on the Du Mont control issue and at 30 days the time for filing proposed findings on the merger and other issues involved in the case.

Resnick himself will probably take about a month after that to write his initial decision. Following this the parties then have 20 days to file exceptions to the examiner's decision, but it is expected that in this case the commission will shorten the period. Next step is the commission's final decision, and although there's no telling how long the commission will take to get out of its final order, its recent actions in the case indicate strongly that it will whip out a decision in record time.

Besides the decision on the merger and on the Paramount-Du Mont control question, there are several other issues involved in the case, it was pointed out.

Atlanta Exchange Damaged By Fire

ATLANTA, Aug. 20.—A three-alarm fire following an explosion caused extensive damage to the Kay Exchange on Film Row here today. Other film offices in the same building suffered considerable water damage. Katz Brothers, owners of the Kay Exchange, said that many records were destroyed and that the loss would be heavy, although an accurate estimate could not be made in advance of inspection of the premises.

to make a survey of theatre realty conditions in the Metropolitan area. The ITOA indicated it was confident the survey would result in data supporting claims that assessments on New York theatre properties are considerably higher than they should be.

Two factors, namely, prevailing industry economic conditions and the motion picture theatre's value to community business in general, were viewed as likely to bring about sharp reductions in New York theatre tax assessments.

Heading the realty committee is J. J. Goldberg, Raybond Theatres' executive. Other members are Ben Knobel, Sam Freedman, Julius Sanders, Martin Levine, Murray Schoen and Edith Marshall.

Weinstock and Morton Sunshine, ITOA executive director, will attend the meeting today of the Combined Public Utilities Committee at the Biltmore Hotel. They will be "observers."

The provisional public utilities committee was formed by real estate and commercial interests to oppose increased electric rates granted to the Consolidated Edison Co. The meeting will present a picture of the situation and the effect of the rate increase on substantial users of electricity.

To Film 'Life and Times' of Edison

Milton J. Salzburg, president of Pictorial Films, has signed a contract with the Thomas Alva Edison Foundation, Inc., for the production of a motion picture based on the life and times of Edison. The picture will be the first in a series by Pictorial Films, Inc., on "Men of Science" and will be available for general release before the end of 1952.

Special permission is being given Pictorial to photograph the replica of the original Black Maria that Edison used in the production of his first motion pictures.

jam-packed the sidewalk in front of the Astor a full hour before the announced 8:30 P.M. premiere time, to secure vantage points to glimpse the arrival of notables. Special application was made for bleachers in nearby Duffy Square but they could not be erected in time. The event was one of the plushiest seen on Broadway in years, with a huge turnout of guests, including leading members of international diplomatic corps, society, civic and entertainment notables and leaders in the world of fashion.

"Fatima" will begin its regular engagement today with a continuous run policy at the Astor and reserved seat performances evenings daily and matinees on Wednesday, Saturady and Sunday at the Bijou.

The advance ticket sale at the Bijou is said to have established a record for a motion picture with 73 theatre parties already subscribed to, in addition to over 800 requests for individual seats. Requests for reservations have been pouring in by way of clipped coupons carried in initial newspaper advertising on the engagement.

Warner's Television Promotion Of 'Fatima' in N. Y. Is Underway

Warner Brothers' campaign for "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima," opening at the Astor and Bijou theatres here today, include, in addition to extensive normal expenditures, inaugural plans to promote the film through the medium of television, in a full saturation promotion on station WNBT, which is now under way. These promotional efforts on TV, the first in New York for Warner, are said to be in the nature of a test of the medium and supplement the large expenditure allocated to other advertising media. Warner has concentrated its TV advertising efforts on Channel 4, allowing to this station approximately 75 per cent of the total airtime allotment planned for the campaign. The remainder of the budget will be spread around to other television stations in the New York area in an all-out endeavor to prove the success of television promotion for motion pictures.

Bash to Italy to Produce

John M. Bash of Constellation Pictures will leave here for Italy Sept. 3, where he will produce "The Ninth Man", starring Errol Flynn. The picture, in Eastman-Color, is slated to go into production about Oct. 18 and will be written by Milton Krims.

Unique Theatre Aid From Capital 'Star'

Washington, Aug. 20.—The Washington Star has started the practice of carrying at the top of the columns of paid neighborhood theatre advertisements a box listing films of note.

Running it as a public service, the Star calls the list "Films of More Than Routine Merit." Some six or seven pictures are generally listed each day, with a one-line description of each. The Star, an evening paper, selects and describes the films.

L. M. Giannini Dies On Coast At 57

San Francisco, Aug. 20.—Lawrence Mario Giannini, 57, president of the Bank of America, died of a heart attack following a lengthy illness at Franklin Hospital here last night.

Giannini, well known to leaders of the motion picture industry in Hollywood and New York, had been president of the world's largest private banking concern, founded by his father, the late Amadeo P. Giannini, since 1936. Prior to that he had been chairman of the board of the Bank of America and president of Transamerica Corp. The Giannini bank for years was one of the chief sources of film production financing.

Industry Payrolls Were Up in 1951, U.S. Reports

Washington, Aug. 20.—Motion picture industry payrolls in 1951 for employes covered by unemployment insurance rose about $25,000,000 over the 1950 figure, the Department of Labor reported today.

The 1951 figure for total payrolls in all branches of the industry was $651,792,000. The figure for 1950 was $635,721,000.

Service Payroll

The 1951 figure for service was $35,681,000, with the 1950 figure at $33,676,000. For theatres, including vaudeville, the figure was $316,349,000 in 1951 and $320,912,000 in 1950. Total figures in these fields have been up and down since 1946.

The figures include all employes covered by state unemployment insurance. Labor defines the service category as including such miscellaneous items as processing, renting and repair of equipment and casting bureau expenses. The theatres category covers all motion picture houses, including their expenses for vaudeville. It does not include legitimate theatres or those with vaudeville only, the Department of Labor explained.

the chairmanship of A. W. Schwalberg of Paramount Pictures. The committee is scheduled to meet again today and reportedly may consider setting a place and date for the start of a test of the centralized handling of film for all distributors. It would also designate an agency to conduct the test. National Screen Service, as well as Clark Film Service, is understood to have expressed interest in providing facilities.

Front office functions, such as sales, booking and billing will not be affected, it is understood. Also, the bulk of "back room" employes would be absorbed in the new system, it was said. Principal economies to be realized would be in shipping costs, vault maintenance and ultimately in rents and overhead on exchange buildings as the single-purpose units are replaced by ordinary office space.

Darnell to Work Abroad

Latest to join the growing list of American film stars making pictures in Italy is Linda Darnell, it was announced here by Italian Films Export. Flying from Hollywood, Miss Darnell will arrive in New York today for a week's stay before flying to Rome for pre-production discussions. The star is under contract for a picture to be produced later this year by Giuseppe Amato.

continue at work until the conciliation plan was entirely put on paper rather than meet again today for only a few hours for that purpose.

Conciliation Plan

The conciliation plan is being set up to accommodate disputes over film rentals and other non-arbitrable subjects. Disputes in connection with other trade practices, such as competitive bidding and clearances and runs, will go directly to arbitration under the plan which must be approved by (1) constituent members of the Industry Arbitration Conference (2) the conference as a whole, (3) the Department of Justice, and (4) the New York Statutory Court. Upon completing these four hurdles, the arbitration-conciliation plan would be incorporated in the consent decrees in the industry anti-trust suit for a minimum 18 months period.

Drafting Group

The drafting committee included Herman M. Levy and Abram F. Myers, for exhibition, and Robert W. Perkins and Adolph Schimel, for distribution. Others attending the drafting sessions were Ralph D. Hetzel, Jr., Motion Picture Association of America vice-president; William F. Rodgers, chairman of the distributors' negotiating committee, and Henderson M. Richey, secretary of the arbitration Conference.

If the group meets again today it will be only for the purpose of gathering together a "few loose ends" to finish the arbitration-conciliation draft.

FCC Hearings On ABC-UPT Merger Ended

Makes Decision Possible Some Time in November

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. — The American Broadcasting Co.-United Paramount Theatres merger hearing before the Federal Communications Commission closed finally today after seven months of almost continuous hearing.

The way was thus paved for a speedy commission decision, which attorneys in the case expect will come sometime in November.

At the final meeting this morning hearing examiner Leo Resnick ruled against introducing as evidence alleged anti-trust activity on the part of UPT or Paramount Pictures Corp. Since Aug. 7, 1948. This was the only question remaining as to the close of the hearing, since the commission, in an Aug. 1 order and a subsequent clarification outlawed from the hearing pre-1948 anti-trust evi-

Chicago, Aug. 20. — Rep. Margaret Stitt Church (R., Ill.) has informed Sam Meyers, owner of Teatro del Lago in suburban Wilmette, part of her district, that she will support efforts to repeal the 20 per cent Federal admission tax, Jack Kirsch, co-chairman with David Wallerstein of the local COMPO tax repeal campaign committee, has been advised.

Two 'Streamlined' Distribution Years Pay Off for U. A.

United Artists' two-year experience with centralized or "streamlined" physical distribution has demonstrated that "appreciable savings" are possible, William J. Heineman, vice-president in charge of distribution, said yesterday.

While the rest of the industry has been mulling the pros and cons of distribution "streamlining," U. A. has been observing its workings day by day—and, Heineman reported, is thoroughly satisfied with the results. U. A.'s physical distribution is handled by Clark Film Service of Philadelphia, which provides all of the "back room" functions, such as inspection, shipping, storage, etc.

Preparations for a test of the centralized system for the rest of the industry are being advanced by the distribution committee of the Motion Picture Association of America, under

"The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima"

[Warner Brothers]

AN HISTORICAL religious event that took place on the outskirts of the little Portuguese village of Fatima in the year of 1917 has been transferred to the screen with great warmth and appeal. The film will have a simultaneous world premiere here today at the Astor and the Bijou, running on a continuous performance policy at the former house and a reserved seat policy at the latter.

As the story of a child, who with two of her playmates beholds a vision of "The Lady" on a little country hilltop, and then goes through an ordeal of travail and scorn, "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" is suffused with a luminous spiritual quality that will send many patrons out of the theatre with a glow of inspiration and emotion.

The picture, which follows in the footsteps of the commercially successful predecessor, "Song of Bernadette," has been put together with technical proficiency. Color by WarnerColor is on a high order and frames some of the scenic effects beautifully.

Underlying the story of a little girl fired with religious dedication is a lesson of burning contemporary application. In symbols for all to behold

It was the second successive day of drafting and admittedly a grueling one. Had the committee of four exhibition and distribution attorneys not encountered a stumbling block in the form of a disagreement over phrasing during mid-afternoon the draft would have been completed around 5:00 P.M. As it turned out it was long after nightfall when the group adjourned.

which RKO Radio handled the films of the Sadler-Pep and Robinson-Turpin fights last year, both of which aided materially in keeping the fights from home TV and clearing them for theatre television. Should an RKO Radio deal for the Walcott-Marciano fight film materialize, observers feel it would clinch the deal for theatre TV of the fight, now being contested by Gillette Safety Razor for free home telecast.

Contracts for the bout were signed in Philadelphia yesterday by the champion and the challenger. Whether the telecast rights will go to home TV or Theatre Network Television is expected to be determined here today or tomorrow. TNT's bid for the telecast reportedly ranges from $1.15 to $1.35 per seat, sold or unsold, for houses of 1,000 to 2,000 seats and over. To this theatres must add telephone line charges, TNT's fee, taxes and other costs, indicating minimum ticket prices of around $5, tax included.

Theatres and amusement places constitute the fifth largest dispenser of candy and confectionery products in the country, selling $149,040,000 of the sweet stuff last year, it is disclosed in a new survey charting the candy and confectionery buying habits of the American consumer, made by the National Association of Tobacco (and candy) Distributors.

Harden E. Goldstein, director of market research of the association reported that theatres and amusement places accounted for 9.2 per cent of candy and confectionery sales last year, running fifth to independent food stores, ($335,340,000 gross sales, representing 20.7 per cent); drug stores, including chains, ($262,440,000 16.2 per cent); chain supermarket food stores, ($231,660,000, 14.3 per cent); cigar stores, stands, stationery stores, ($157,140,000, 9.7 per cent).

The selling groups below theatres are: Vending machines, ($77,760,000, 4.8 per cent); military installations, ($55,080,000, 3.4 per cent); department and variety stores, ($53,460,000, 3.3 per cent); restaurants, eating places, ($43,740,000, 2.7 per cent); gasoline service stations, including roadstands, ($19,440,000, 1.2 per cent); all other outlets, including manufacturers selling through their own retail outlets, ($234,900,000, 14.5 per cent).

The dollar candy and confection sales volume last year totaled $1,620,000,000. Per capita consumption of candy during the year touched a high of $10.72.

In nearly all instances, the report continued, motion picture theatres throughout the country dispensed candy in one form or another. Not included in the figure cited for this group, however, was candy dispensed through automatic vending machines.

Crosby, Hope Film to Compete on B'way

For the first time in their long film careers, Bing Crosby and Bob Hope shortly will be starring in pictures on Broadway in direct competition to each other, Paramount, the distributor of both pictures, pointed out yesterday.

Crosby's "Just for You" has been booked by the Capitol, and Hope's "Son of Paleface" is scheduled for the Paramount Theatre, in October.

Stars Aid Premiere Of 'Caribbean' Today

A contingent of stars will be on hand for today's two-theatre premiere in Kingston, N. Y. of Paramount's "Caribbean." The premiere is being held in conjunction with that city's 300th anniversary celebration.

Flying in from the Coast to attend the openings at the Kingston and Broadway theatres will be William Bendix, Wanda Hendrix, Lon McAllister, Lydia Clarke and William Thomas, co-producer of the film.

11 from M-G-M in Next Four Months

Of 11 productions set for release during the last four months of the year, M-G-M has included six Technicolor productions. These are "The Merry Widow", (Sept. 5); "Because You're Mine", (Oct. 3); "Everything I Have Is Yours", (Oct. 31); "The Prisoner of Zenda", (Nov. 14); "Plymouth Adventure", (Nov. 28), and "Million Dollar Mermaid", (Dec. 26).

The balance of the scheduled releases include the following: "The Devil Makes Three", (Sept. 12); "My Man and I", (Sept. 26); "Apache War Smoke", (Oct. 17); "The Hour of 13", (Nov. 21), and "Sky Full of Moon", (Dec. 12).

Heavy Grosses for 'Sky' and 'Zero'

Howard Hawks' Winchester Production, "The Big Sky," an RKO Radio release, brought business back to a 1949 peak level at the Criterion here Tuesday when it grossed $7,874 on its opening day. Theatre executives reporting this to be the biggest mid-week opening in the last three years. RKO Radio said the opening gross was the biggest mid-week figure reached by any RKO release at the house.

"One Minute to Zero," produced by Edmund Grainger, grossed $21,000 in its first week at the Orpheum, Denver, for the best business any RKO Radio picture has done there in over two years, officials report.

'Dreamboat' Sets 3-Year Roxy Record

A three-year record of $380,000 for a four-week engagement can be set today with the close of the run of 20th Century-Fox's "Dreamboat" at the Roxy here, David T. Katz, executive director, said yesterday. It scored $102,000, $102,000 and $98,000, respectively, in the first three weeks of its run, with $78,000 expected for its fourth.

'Hunter' Grosses High

"Ivory Hunter," Universal-International's American release of the J. Arthur Rank Organization Royal Command Performance picture, is said to have set a new opening day house record at the Trans-Lux 52nd Street Theatre here, grossing $1,970 on Monday, and bettering that figure on Tuesday with a gross of $2,270.

Zanuck at 'Snows' Bow

Darryl F. Zanuck, vice-president in charge of production for 20th Century-Fox, will attend the world premiere of his only personal production of the year, Ernest Hemingway's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" on the night of Sept. 17 at the Rivoli.

Importance of Candy Sales Is Cited

A survey of candy sales conducted by the National Association of Tobacco (and candy) Distributors stated, "as a fixture in the modern movie theatre, has in some instances provided sufficient revenue to offset a portion of the operating losses incurred by the primary business interest. The boost given candy sales by this particular type of retail outlet is as important as it is unique to the previous retail sales pattern enjoyed by the industry."

11 from 20th-Fox In Final Quarter

Eleven productions, five of which will have color by Technicolor, will be released by 20th Century-Fox during the final quarter of 1952, it was reported here yesterday by director of distribution Al Lichtman, following a revision of the schedule for October, November and December.

Included in the line-up is Darryl F. Zanuck's Technicolor production, "The Snows of Kilimanjaro," starring Gregory Peck, Susan Hayward and Ava Gardner, which will have pre-release showings starting in October.

The October line-up continues with "My Wife's Best Friend," starring Anne Baxter and Macdonald Carey, produced by Robert Bassler and directed by Richard Sale; "Way of A Gaucho," Technicolor, starring Rory Calhoun and Gene Tierney, produced by Philip Dunne and directed by Jacques Tourneur, and "Something for the Birds," starring Victor Mature, Patricia Neal and Edmund Gwenn, produced by Samuel G. Engel and directed by Robert Wise.

November Releases

November releases are "Night Without Sleep," starring Linda Darnell, Gary Merrill and Hildegarde Neff, produced by Robert Bassler and directed by Roy Baker; "Steel Trap," a Bert Friedlob production starring Joseph Cotten and Teresa Wright, directed by Andrew Stone; Damon Runyon's "Bloodhounds of Broadway," Technicolor, starring Mitzi Gaynor and Scott Brady, produced by George Jessel and directed by Harmon Jones, and "Pony Soldier," Technicolor, starring Tyrone Power, produced by Samuel G. Engel and directed by Joseph M. Newman.

December releases are "Thief of Venice," a R. Haggiag production starring Maria Montez, Paul Christian and Faye Marlowe, directed by J. Brahm; "Top Man," starring Richard Widmark, Joanne Dru, and Audrey Totter, produced by Stanley Rubin and directed by Robert Parrish, and John Philip Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever," Technicolor, starring Clifton Webb and co-starring Debra Paget, Robert Wagner and Ruth Hussey, produced by Lamar Trotti and directed by Henry Koster.

J. M. Schine Cites Circuit's Employees At Albany Meeting

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Veteran employes of the circuit were cited by J. Meyer Schine, president of Schine Chain Theatres, for their "unsurpassed loyalty and untiring efforts", at a dinner honoring them in the Ten Eyck Hotel here tonight. Eighty-seven, including 21 with 25 or more years of service were presented with pins by Donald Schine, son of Louis W. Schine. Home office executives John May, George Lynch, William Kraemer, Seymour Morris and Bernard Diamond were in the group.

Meyer Schine emphasized that group insurance, hospitalization service and pensions had been a part of the Schine circuit operation for years.

Promotion of children's patronage, motion picture advertising in newspapers, radio, TV and other media, merchandising candy and popcorn, and screen advertising were among the subjects discussed in the morning and afternoon meetings at the Schine circuit convention.

A. W. Schwalberg, president of Paramount Film Distributing Corp., spoke at the evening dinner session.

A suggestion that theatres approach newspapers for a reduction in the amusement rate—held to be too high—was favorably received. President Schine said that a survey of motion picture advertising is needed to make it more effective and economical.

Circuit publicity director Morris commented that "perhaps our advertising has become too routinized". One thing, he thought, should be considered was a reappraisal of Saturday newspaper advertising. Several speakers, including general manager Gus Lampe, strongly urged "spot saturation" in radio advertising. Lampe also recommended the selection of choice "adjacencies" for such announcements, pointing out that time near the Arthur Godfrey morning show had proved one of the best. Si Seadler, M-G-M advertising manager, advanced the same point yesterday.

Meyer Schine stressed that "strong interest" should be attached to the concession phase of the chain's operations. Candy and popcorn executives discussed merchandising, location display and sales techniques.

majority of proxies already received in favor of the issue.

The Skiatron president acknowledged that the majority of film companies are still adverse to giving Skiatron product for the test, now postponed until January.

Since his last canvass of major companies, which indicated that only RKO Radio Pictures and Paramount would consider lending product for the test, one other company has informed Levey that it may offer its product, it was disclosed. The Skiatron president refused to name the company and added that the additional offer was hedged with a request for film rental payments and with a stipulation that the films be about three years old.

Levey, who described his efforts to procure films for programming as "delicate," said his Washington attorney was keeping the Department of Justice informed of Skiatron's negotiations with the film companies.

the picture projects the timeless struggle between Christ and Caesar. It also effects a current-event timeliness in background references to the Communist infiltration that was plaguing Portugal at the time.

Eleven-year-old Susan Whitney gives unassailable authenticity to her characterization of the little girl who moves from trial and anguish to vindication and is aided ably by her mates Sherry Jackson and Sammy Ogg.

Gilbert Roland turns in a portrait of rare quality in a role that is filled with sly humor and probably was designed to give the picture an added measure of popular appeal. He plays a roving, genial village vagabond who gleefully boasts his cynicism and lack of faith till the final sight of the miracle changes his ways.

THE picture's background concerns itself with the grinding tactics of self-consolidation of an anti-religious group of Red revolutionists who have put the province in the grip of dictatorship.

When the three children announce they have seen the vision, fear spreads that the news will give the authorities further excuse to throttle the church. It does. In the meantime the news of the vision reaches out and people descend upon the town in locust hordes, causing complications and exigencies. Frank Silvera, as the cruelty-loving Communist administrator, resorts to a thousand devices to extirpate religious feeling in the people, including the closing of the church, arresting of Fatima's priest, Richard Hale, and the jailing of the children in an effort to wrench a false confession from them.

Little Miss Whitney surmounts a thousand obstacles till finally the miracle promised by the "vision" takes place in the form of a plunging spin of the sun earthward, and its last-minute recession. All doubters are now convinced.

The film closes with scenes of the gathering of a million people at Fatima on Oct. 13, 1951, the 35th anniversary of the miracle.

The screenplay by Crane Wilbur and James O'Hanlon follows closely the known and recorded facts of the extraordinary incident.

John Brahm has directed reliably for producer Bryan Foy. Running time, 102 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Oct. 11.

dence and testimony relating to Scophony Corp. of America. All other testimony had been finished by the end of June.

Resnick made his ruling over the arguments of commission attorneys, who estimated they would need another two months of hearings to develop several anti-trust cases involving the Paramount companies brought after the cut-off date.

In addition, Resnick ordered the record closed over the objections of attorneys for Allen B. Du Mont, who claimed that closing the record now would nullify a Du Mont petition filed last week and on which the commission has not yet acted. Du Mont had asked the FCC to rescind the Aug. 1 order or to apply the three-year cut-off date to the question of Du Mont's control by Paramount.

Resnick set at 20 days from today the final date for filing proposed findings on the Du Mont control issue and at 30 days the time for filing proposed findings on the merger and other issues involved in the case.

Resnick himself will probably take about a month after that to write his initial decision. Following this the parties then have 20 days to file exceptions to the examiner's decision, but it is expected that in this case the commission will shorten the period. Next step is the commission's final decision, and although there's no telling how long the commission will take to get out of its final order, its recent actions in the case indicate strongly that it will whip out a decision in record time.

Besides the decision on the merger and on the Paramount-Du Mont control question, there are several other issues involved in the case, it was pointed out.

Atlanta Exchange Damaged By Fire

ATLANTA, Aug. 20.—A three-alarm fire following an explosion caused extensive damage to the Kay Exchange on Film Row here today. Other film offices in the same building suffered considerable water damage. Katz Brothers, owners of the Kay Exchange, said that many records were destroyed and that the loss would be heavy, although an accurate estimate could not be made in advance of inspection of the premises.

to make a survey of theatre realty conditions in the Metropolitan area. The ITOA indicated it was confident the survey would result in data supporting claims that assessments on New York theatre properties are considerably higher than they should be.

Two factors, namely, prevailing industry economic conditions and the motion picture theatre's value to community business in general, were viewed as likely to bring about sharp reductions in New York theatre tax assessments.

Heading the realty committee is J. J. Goldberg, Raybond Theatres' executive. Other members are Ben Knobel, Sam Freedman, Julius Sanders, Martin Levine, Murray Schoen and Edith Marshall.

Weinstock and Morton Sunshine, ITOA executive director, will attend the meeting today of the Combined Public Utilities Committee at the Biltmore Hotel. They will be "observers."

The provisional public utilities committee was formed by real estate and commercial interests to oppose increased electric rates granted to the Consolidated Edison Co. The meeting will present a picture of the situation and the effect of the rate increase on substantial users of electrictity.

To Film 'Life and Times' of Edison

Milton J. Salzburg, president of Pictorial Films, has signed a contract with the Thomas Alva Edison Foundation, Inc., for the production of a motion picture based on the life and times of Edison. The picture will be the first in a series by Pictorial Films, Inc., on "Men of Science" and will be available for general release before the end of 1952.

Special permission is being given Pictorial to photograph the replica of the original Black Maria that Edison used in the production of his first motion pictures.

jam-packed the sidewalk in front of the Astor a full hour before the announced 8:30 P.M. premiere time, to secure vantage points to glimpse the arrival of notables. Special application was made for bleachers in nearby Duffy Square but they could not be erected in time. The event was one of the plushiest seen on Broadway in years, with a huge turnout of guests, including leading members of international diplomatic corps, society, civic and entertainment notables and leaders in the world of fashion.

"Fatima" will begin its regular engagement today with a continuous run policy at the Astor and reserved seat performances evenings daily and matinees on Wednesday, Saturady and Sunday at the Bijou.

The advance ticket sale at the Bijou is said to have established a record for a motion picture with 73 theatre parties already subscribed to, in addition to over 800 requests for individual seats. Requests for reservations have been pouring in by way of clipped coupons carried in initial newspaper advertising on the engagement.

Warner's Television Promotion Of 'Fatima' in N. Y. Is Underway

Warner Brothers' campaign for "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima," opening at the Astor and Bijou theatres here today, include, in addition to extensive normal expenditures, inaugural plans to promote the film through the medium of television, in a full saturation promotion on station WNBT, which is now under way. These promotional efforts on TV, the first in New York for Warner, are said to be in the nature of a test of the medium and supplement the large expenditure allocated to other advertising media. Warner has concentrated its TV advertising efforts on Channel 4, allowing to this station approximately 75 per cent of the total air-time allotment planned for the campaign. The remainder of the budget will be spread around to other television stations in the New York area in an all-out endeavor to prove the success of television promotion for motion pictures.

Bash to Italy to Produce

John M. Bash of Constellation Pictures will leave here for Italy Sept. 3, where he will produce "The Ninth Man", starring Errol Flynn. The picture, in Eastman-Color, is slated to go into production about Oct. 18 and will be written by Milton Krims.

Unique Theatre Aid From Capital 'Star'

Washington, Aug. 20.—The Washington Star has started the practice of carrying at the top of the columns of paid neighborhood theatre advertisements a box listing films of note.

Running it as a public service, the Star calls the list "Films of More Than Routine Merit." Some six or seven pictures are generally listed each day, with a one-line description of each. The Star, an evening paper, selects and describes the films.

L. M. Giannini Dies On Coast At 57

San Francisco, Aug. 20.—Lawrence Mario Giannini, 57, president of the Bank of America, died of a heart attack following a lengthy illness at Franklin Hospital here last night.

Giannini, well known to leaders of the motion picture industry in Hollywood and New York, had been president of the world's largest private banking concern, founded by his father, the late Amadeo P. Giannini, since 1936. Prior to that he had been chairman of the board of the Bank of America and president of Transamerica Corp. The Giannini bank for years was one of the chief sources of film production financing.

Washington, Aug. 20.—Motion picture industry payrolls in 1951 for employes covered by unemployment insurance rose about $25,000,000 over the 1950 figure, the Department of Labor reported today.

The 1951 figure for total payrolls in all branches of the industry was $651,792,000. The figure for 1950 was $635,721,000.

The 1951 figure for service was $35,681,000, with the 1950 figure at $33,676,000. For theatres, including vaudeville, the figure was $316,349,000 in 1951 and $320,912,000 in 1950. Total figures in these fields have been up and down since 1946.

The figures include all employes covered by state unemployment insurance. Labor defines the service category as including such miscellaneous items as processing, renting and repair of equipment and casting bureau expenses. The theatres category covers all motion picture houses, including their expenses for vaudeville. It does not include legitimate theatres or those with vaudeville only, the Department of Labor explained.

the chairmanship of A. W. Schwalberg of Paramount Pictures. The committee is scheduled to meet again today and reportedly may consider setting a place and date for the start of a test of the centralized handling of film for all distributors. It would also designate an agency to conduct the test. National Screen Service, as well as Clark Film Service, is understood to have expressed interest in providing facilities.

Front office functions, such as sales, booking and billing will not be affected, it is understood. Also, the bulk of "back room" employes would be absorbed in the new system, it was said. Principal economies to be realized would be in shipping costs, vault maintenance and ultimately in rents and overhead on exchange buildings as the single-purpose units are replaced by ordinary office space.

Darnell to Work Abroad

Latest to join the growing list of American film stars making pictures in Italy is Linda Darnell, it was announced here by Italian Films Export. Flying from Hollywood, Miss Darnell will arrive in New York today for a week's stay before flying to Rome for pre-production discussions. The star is under contract for a picture to be produced later this year by Giuseppe Amato.

continue at work until the conciliation plan was entirely put on paper rather than meet again today for only a few hours for that purpose.

Conciliation Plan

The conciliation plan is being set up to accommodate disputes over film rentals and other non-arbitrable subjects. Disputes in connection with other trade practices, such as competitive bidding and clearances and runs, will go directly to arbitration under the plan which must be approved by (1) constituent members of the Industry Arbitration Conference (2) the conference as a whole, (3) the Department of Justice, and (4) the New York Statutory Court. Upon completing these four hurdles, the arbitration-conciliation plan would be incorporated in the consent decrees in the industry anti-trust suit for a minimum 18 months period.

Drafting Group

The drafting committee included Herman M. Levy and Abram F. Myers, for exhibition, and Robert W. Perkins and Adolph Schimel, for distribution. Others attending the drafting sessions were Ralph D. Hetzel, Jr., Motion Picture Association of America vice-president; William F. Rodgers, chairman of the distributors' negotiating committee, and Henderson M. Richey, secretary of the arbitration Conference.

If the group meets again today it will be only for the purpose of gathering together a "few loose ends" to finish the arbitration-conciliation draft.

Labor Viewed As Advocating 'Streamlining'

Distribution Cost-Saving Seen Benefiting Workers

Management and labor apparently see eye to eye on the need for and desirability of "streamlined" physical distribution throughout the industry, according to the comments yesterday of both distribution and union representatives.

An IATSE executive who is familiar with labor-management relations regarding front-office and back-room exchange workers said he foresaw greater advantages, in terms of both wages and working conditions, for such workers under a "streamlined" setup.

Distributors acknowledge and union representatives say it is their understanding that savings are envisaged in terms of real estate and shipping costs. This means that while the distributors would share storage and shipping fa-

Forecasts Industry Boom in Europe

A definite boom in motion picture production and exhibition aboard was forecast yesterday by I. E. Lopert, president of Lopert Films Distributing Corp., who returned this week from a European business tour.

Lopert said that producers in France, Italy and Germany are organizing for future distribution of their films in Europe. He expressed the belief that the film business in Europe would be good for another couple of years, until television makes its inroads. Germany, he added, is becoming a big market for films.

MPAA Waiting Word From Paris on Talks

Contrary to expectations, the Motion Picture Association of America did not receive from Paris yesterday word as to the nature of the new proposals for a Franco-American film agreement which French government negotiators were scheduled to present to U. S. State Department representatives.

MPAA executives said they hoped they would have cabled information today.

'Will Films Sell Tickets?' Now Hollywood Yardstick

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Hollywood today, thanks to the "influence of exhibitors of the country and their box-offices, recognizes only one yardstick by which pictures should be measured: will they 'sell tickets?'" So declared A. W. Schwalberg, president of Paramount Film Distributing Corp., at a banquet of Schine Chain Theatres last night in the Ten Eyck Hotel. Closed division managers meetings with managers today ended a three-day Schine convention.

"The day of making pictures to gratify personal likes, personal ambitions, is gone," said Schwalberg.

"So are the premieres that I attended in California years ago when the great god genius who made a picture received all the applause and the backslapping of his assistants and associates. I think that today Hollywood knows a picture has to be viewed in the light of whether a patron does or does not buy a ticket. Hollywood today is listening and thirsting for knowledge.

"Never in the history of motion pictures, in my opinion," continued Schwalberg, "have East and West been closer together than they are today. Speaking for Paramount, I can tell you that no project will be under-

20th-Fox Net for First Six Months Put at $962,493

Consolidated net earnings after all charges for the six months ended June 28 were reported by 20th Century-Fox yesterday at $962,493. The result compares with a consolidated net of $1,071,113 for the corresponding period a year ago.

Second quarter earnings this year amounted to $928,492, compared with $34,001 for the first quarter of the year and $196,337 for the second quarter of 1951.

11 Coast Groups, Largest Block to Date, Enlist in Drive to Fight Suit

Hollywood, Aug. 21.—All 11 organizations comprising the membership of the Motion Picture Industry Council will oppose with their full membership and full resources the government's attempt to force the industry to sell 16mm. prints of its features to television and other competitors, it was voted at last night's regular monthly MPIC meeting.

Enlistment of the 11 organizations in the battle against the government suit is the largest block to act in that direction.

The membership agreed that a more incisive effect can be achieved by allowing each constituent organization to adopt the means most appropriate to it in campaigning against the suit.

Under MPIC's semi-annual rotating presidency system, Steve Broidy last night succeeded Gunther Lessing in that office.

Amis in Capitol Tells Of Exhibitor Visit

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—William D. Amis, investigator for the Senate Small Business Committee, will return to the West Coast shortly to continue his investigation of independent exhibitor complaints.

Amis, who just returned from Los Angeles, said today he would leave as soon as possible for San Francisco. His return was sparked, he explained, by a visit today from Palo Alto exhibitor Guy W. Meek, who brought with him "considerable evidence of possible violations of the consent decree and the anti-trust laws" on the part of some of the major companies. Among the majors Amis mentioned were Fox West Coast, Paramount and RKO.

Arbitration Copies Ready Next Week

Following the completion Wednesday night at the Hotel Astor here of the draft of rules for an industry system of arbitration, Ralph D. Hetzel, Jr., Motion Picture Association of America vice president, assumed responsibility for having the draft mimeographed so that each delegate to the Industry Arbitration Conference could be supplied with a copy.

Indications yesterday were that the mimeographing work would be completed early next week. A decision will be made at that time whether to mail copies to the delegates forthwith or distribute the document to them when the Conference reconvenes, perhaps in a month.

Senate Group Plans 16mm. Suit Probe

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—The Senate Small Business Committee expects to check into exhibitor complaints on the 16mm. anti-trust suit, a committee investigator said today.

The committee is currently investigating complaints about possible discrimination against small independent exhibitors.

Richey, who is also secretary of the Industry Arbitration Conference, will discuss business problems in general with the theatremen and inform them of late developments in the industry's efforts to establish a system of arbitration.

The M-G-M executive will spend two days in each city. He will be accompanied on the trip by Sam Gardner, assistant sales manager for the Los Angeles territory. Richey is scheduled to return here Sept. 4.

Skiatron 'Holders Okay Stock Issue

Approximately 80 per cent of Skiatron stockholders voted in favor of the new stock issue to raise $270,000 for the company's projected subscription television test, Skiatron president Arthur Levey disclosed here yesterday.

Fox production-distribution from exhibition operations, scheduled for Sept. 27, the company's board of directors yesterday announced that dividend action will be taken by the new 20th-Fox corporation at a special meeting to be held Sept. 29. Management will recommend to the board a dividend payment of 25 cents per share for the third quarter, with payment to be made in the latter part of October. The dividend will be half that formerly payable prior to the divorcement of the exhibition operations.

New NT Board

It was stated that the new board of directors of National Theatres also is expected to meet Sept. 29 to consider dividend action. Funded debt agreements restrict dividend payments to a maximum of 50 per cent of the consolidated net earnings of the previous year when such earnings are below $3,000,000. Accordingly, the new theatre company is restricted during this year to maximum dividend payments of approximately $1,150,000, of which $500,000 has already been declared and paid during the year to the parent company, 20th-Fox.

During the first half of 1952, consolidated income amounted to $78,044,664, of which $43,988,793 was in film rentals, and $27,614,580 was in theatre receipts. For the corresponding period last year, film rentals aggregated $42,566,350, and theatre receipts $28,741,913. All consolidated income for the first half of last year amounted to $77,466,470.

Net for the six months this year is equivalent to 35 cents per share on the 2,769,485 shares of common outstanding, compared with 30 cents per share on the 2,769,320 shares outstanding at the end of the first half last year.

20th-Fox Short Wins Venice Award

"Light in the Window," Art Films Production dealing with the life and paintings of Vermeer, was awarded first prize in the art shorts division of the current Venice Film Festival, it was announced here yesterday. It was photographed in Technicolor in Holland, and is a 20th Century-Fox release. It is one of a series of seven shorts in color dealing with the lives of renowned artists, photographed abroad under supervision of associate producer Marilyn Silverstone, who also did the research for the scripts, written by Mildred Barish Vermont. The series was produced by Boris Vermont and directed by Jean Oser.

O'Hara, McLaglen Aid 'Quiet' Bow

The Donegal Pipers' Band was on hand yesterday at the Capitol here to greet the personal appearance of Maureen O'Hara, who flew in from the Coast for the opening of "The Quiet Man." Miss O'Hara made another appearance at 6:00 P.M. Victor McLaglen, also starred in the John Ford production, appeared at 1:00 P.M. and also at 8:30 P.M.

Requests Opening of 'Fatima' in Fatima

Officials of Portugal have requested Warner Brothers to set a foreign premiere of "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" on Oct. 13 at Fatima, Portugal, a village about 100 miles from Lisbon, WB disclosed here yesterday.

The date specified is Fatima's annual festival and draws hundreds of thousands of spectators from all over Europe. Last year's, which attracted 1,300,000 persons, was photographed by Warner's for the picture, thus giving it the largest cast ever seen on the screen, said WB.

Capacity Business

Meanwhile, the film opened here yesterday to capacity business at the Astor and Bijou theatres, according to WB officials. Crowds began lining up at the Astor at 9:00 A. M., with the doors opening at 9:45 A. M. Over 800 admissions were sold during the first hour after the box-office opened. Initial reserved seat performance last night at the Bijou Theatre was also completely sold out, said Warner.

cilities they would continue to maintain their own private billing, booking and sales structures.

The IATSE executive described exchange wages as "unfavorable" and blamed this for what he described as the "huge turnover" each year in exchange labor across the country. Once savings are effected in real estate and shipping costs, he reasoned, the companies might be in a position to increase wages to the extent that turnovers can be eliminated and work can be performed more efficiently as a result.

MPAA Committee

The Motion Picture Association of America's distribution committee, under the chairmanship of Alfred W. Schwalberg, met again yesterday to discuss plans for "streamlining" distribution. It was reported following the meeting that a city for testing the workability of "streamlining" has not yet been selected. The companies are not unanimous in advocating "streamlining", some being described as desirous of weighing the proposal further before committing themselves to the project.

Lopert Says

Lopert also disclosed that he has closed deals with the Alexander Korda Organization for releasing rights in the U. S. to "Sound Barrier," a David Lean production, and "Gilbert and Sullivan," a Launder-Gilliat production in color by Technicolor. He also said that negotiations were completed for distribution rights of a new Carol Reed film, as yet untitled, which is expected to be ready for release next fall.

McCall Flies Here On TV Strike Plans

Hollywood, Aug. 21.—Screen Writers Guild president Mary C. McCall, Jr., flies tomorrow to New York to confer with Authors League of America president Rex Stout on means of coordinating efforts in connection with the SWG strike against the Alliance of Television Film Producers, now two weeks old.

Louis Fight Tour Timed with Film

"The Joe Louis Story," Federated Films projected "biopic" of the ex-champion's life-story and boxing career, will be ready for release in July, 1953, and will move into the foreign market directly after its domestic premiere, it was stated here yesterday following a press interview with Louis.

The "Brown Bomber" told of a contemplated foreign boxing exhibition tour, timing his appearances with the release of the picture for exploitation impetus in Europe and South America.

Louis is planning to go into training at a California ranch before the end of 1952 to prepare for the fight sequences in the film.

Stirling Silliphant, who will produce "The Louis Story", told the press conference of his plans to devote full time in the fall of 1953 to traveling with the picture in foreign markets. Production is scheduled to get underway soon after Jan. 1, with an extended ad campaign building toward the July premiere.

Silliphant, Eastern publicity manager for 20th Century-Fox, will leave that position for the Louis assignment next January.

theatres, consisting of drive-ins and subsequent-run indoor theatres.

Amis said Meek claimed that the majors were practicing "discrimination" against him and that unless he could obtain product he would be forced out of business.

To Visit Chicago

Amis will stop at Chicago either on his way out to California or on his way back, he said, to investigate complaints from the Chicago area. While out on the West Coast, he said, he intended to look into other situations where exhibitors have made complaints similar to Meek's.

Amis said he would probably take Meek over to talk to Justice Department attorneys about his complaints.

Amis added that complaints from independent exhibitors have come in to the committee from Alabama, New York, Michigan, Louisiana, Baltimore, Omaha and Washington, D. C. He said he would check these complaints but didn't know if he would do it in person.

Arbitration Copies

It was expected that the copies would be mailed to the delegates at once since "further steps must await the reaction of (participating) organizations," according to a formal statement issued yesterday by the drafting committee.

Reactions Needed

The drafting committee emphasized that until the reactions of the individual organizations are ascertained and their suggestions carried into a final draft, "there is and can be no agreement on an arbitration system."

Final touches will be put on a conciliation plan next week. The committee expects that it will be a short, concise document of about three paragraphs.

Members of the drafting committee were Herman M. Levy, Abram F. Myers, Robert W. Perkins and Adolph Schimel. Also attending the drafting sessions were William F. Rodgers, Henderson M. Richey and Ralph D. Hetzel, Jr.

Review

"Hellgate"

(Commander Films—Lippert) Hollywood, Aug. 21

THE box-office possibilities of "Hellgate" are splendid, and so is the drama which it unfolds, in a starkly realistic, brutish fashion, powerfully depicting the turmoil of life in a prison hellhole—the Hellgate of Civil War days, where army incorrigibles were incarcerated and frequently tortured. There is no fun in this production, but there is plenty to hold high interest.

The story is based on fact, concerning the famous Gil Hanley case of circumstantial evidence, drawing from that circumstance the unmistakable vigor of veracity. Yet, the picture is handled with the freedom of fictional narrative and with the outcome of the forceful plot unrevealed until the final moments.

Sterling Hayden, Joan Leslie and Ward Bond, a trim trio of marquee names, top a strong cast effectively directed by Charles Marquis Warren in their enactment of his own script.

Produced for Commander Films by John C. Champion, the film tells the story of an innocent man's imprisonment in Hellgate, the old desert installation maintained by the U. S. Army. Hayden plays the wrongfully convicted prisoner with becoming restraint, and Ward Bond, the commandant who believes him a guerilla and tries to break him physically, mentally and spiritually, turns in a portrayal of villainy such as hasn't been seen in a long time.

Brutishly persecuted by Bond, Hayden is instrumental, ultimately, in obtaining a supply of water for the prison when typhus threatens its total destruction, and achieves an ending which is not telegraphed by the script and needn't be here.

Running time, 87 minutes. General audience classification. For September release.

N. Gumbiner, Chicago Theatreman, Is Dead

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—Nate Gumbiner, 54, industry veteran who operated the Commodore Theatre here for 25 years, died suddenly at his home yesterday of a heart attack. Gumbiner, who sold his interest in the Commodore last year, is survived by his widow and one son. Interment will be at Rosemont Cemetery.

animal acts and will show both the training and the work of the animals. It will be produced and directed by Harry Foster, who makes his headquarters in New York.

Comic Shorts

Comedy, as displayed in Columbia's two-reel series, will furnish the same number of subjects as in the 1951-52 program. There will be eight shorts featuring the "Three Stooges," six "All-Star" comedies starring Andy Clyde, Joe Besser, Wally Vernon and Eddie Quillan and 12 reprints issued under the "Assorted Comedies" and "Comedy Favorites" banners.

Cartoons will show an increase of five for a total of 27 on the new program. There will be six each in the "Mr. Magoo" and "Jolly Frolics" series, produced by United Productions of America, an increase of one in each group. Among the highlights in the latter series will be "Madeline," based on the Ludwig Bemelmans children's classic, and "Gerald's Symphony," the sequel to "Gerald McBoing Boing" of two seasons ago. "Color Favorites," reprints of old animated subjects, will be increased by three to a total of 15 on the upcoming schedule.

'Candid Microphone'

Allen Funt will again be represented by six "Candid Microphone" entries and Ralph Staub will be back with the 32nd edition of "Screen Snapshots," said to be the oldest shorts series being produced. "Snapshots" will open its 12-subject season with Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis in "Hollywood Fun Festival."

"World of Sports," with Bill Stern returning as commentator, will be represented 12 times on the program, an increase of three over last year. There will be eight miscellaneous one-reelers grouped under the "Topnotcher" banner, and a like number of musical re-releases issued as "Thrills of Music."

taken unless East and West see eye to eye on its possibilities—possibilities to sell tickets. I don't profess to predict that every motion picture made under these auspices will turn out to be a bonanza. But I believe that we are closer to the public pulse than anybody else.

"David (Schine who introduced Schwalberg) expressed confidence in the future of this industry," stated the speaker. "I liked that spirit because I, too, am not afraid. In fact, with five children, I can't afford to be afraid. Sure, we have competition. We had competition from radio. We have it from television, from baseball and football, from the highways and the beaches. Your competitor is sunshine, too. There is, however, only one thing that I recognize: people like to gather around other people. I dont care what you give them in any other way; the little lady of the house will want to get out after she has been in it day after day, week after week. The motion picture theatre is the place she will go to."

Referring to "dire predictions" that were made when radio blossomed forth, and again when night baseball came on the scene, Schwalberg said "we have had competition before. However, when I see the confident faces in this room I know that no matter what the problem is, it will be solved, as it has been in the past. You cant limit the brains, ingenuity and know-how, the type that is represented in this room. I have never been more optimistic than I am today."

The Paramount official stressed the great contributions that motion pictures have made to education and to a higher standard of living. "The screen," he commented, "has sold more goods than any other instrumentality, more than all of them put together."

The united front that the industry instantly developed in the face of the government's television anti-trust suit was cited by Schwalberg as evidenee of its inherent cohesiveness.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY

AIR MAIL EDITION

VOL. 72. NO. 39 NEW YORK, U. S. A., MONDAY, AUGUST 25, 1952 TEN CENTS

By SHERWIN KANE

IT MAY BE assumed that it has escaped the notice of no one in the industry that the continuing improvement at the nation's box-offices is being accompanied by the presence there of a greater number of fine pictures than have been available to the public at one time in many months.

It may be assumed also that the trade is well aware that equally fine pictures and in substantial volume have been completed and are awaiting release. Their number is sufficient to sustain the box-offices well into the fall and, there is good reason to believe, the same type of product in comparable numbers will continue to issue from Hollywood.

Today there must be many willing to go along with the recent statement of H. V. Harvey of San Francisco crediting production with having made the greatest strides of the three branches of industry toward meeting the new economic and competitive orders. Not that all of production's problems have been met and solved, but simply because there is so much evidence of improvement at hand, Hollywood is deserving of industry commendation.

Few of us hesitated to let Hollywood have it, no punches pulled, when the ticket-choppers were light. And perhaps to some purpose, judging by the evidence now current. Today, it would seem, she is beginning to show the rest of the industry the way.

Let's give the little girl a big hand. And listen attentively when she tells us what's wrong with the rest of us.

PRESS material quotes Stanley Kramer as saying of his new production, "The Happy Time",: "It is the coming of age of a teen age boy, his first reaching for maturity on everything from the intellectual plane to the first sex manifestations. Further, we strive to illustrate the frank, above-board viewpoint on things basic, such as sex by the continental mind as contrasted to the hush-hush and guilt school of thought."

Don't let Stanley discourage you. There's nothing clinical about "The Happy Time." It's good, solid entertainment when not being too broad, and impishly amusing even then.

Newsreels, Newspapers Are Different, Ohio Contends

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 24.—Without backing up its contention with "evidence," the City of Toledo, acting in behalf of the Ohio attorney-general, at the weekend asserted in a brief filed in the Ohio newsreel censorship case that newsreels are different from magazines, newspapers and other periodicals and therefore can be made subject to censorship.

The brief was intended to defend the State's censorship laws, labeled "unconstitutional" by exhibitor Martin G. Smith's counsel at a hearing earlier this month in the newsreel test case, brought about with the cooperation of the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio and the Motion Picture Association of America.

Signed by John J. McCarthy, director of law of the City of Toledo, and Louis R. Young, assistant director, but known to contain the views of the State's attorney-general, the brief also held that the U. S. Supreme Court's decision in the "Miracle" case did not apply in any way to the newsreel case since there is no question as to whether newsreels are "sacriligious."

The defendant now has a week in which to reply to the City's assertions. It is expected that another brief will

FIGHT AGAINST 'REDS' WILL NEVER CEASE, SAYS FREEMAN

"The fight to rid the industry of known Communists or fellow travelers will never cease," declares Y. Frank Freeman, Paramount studio head in Hollywood, in an article by John Gunther which will be featured in an all-film industry issue of The American Weekly to be sent next Sunday to 30,000,000 readers through a circulation of 9,500,000.

The article, which deals with various economic, production and policy aspects of the studios, quotes Freeman as observing, "There are some people in our industry who have been labeled fellow travelers because of their membership in certain organizations which, after they joined were subsequently declared subversive by the Attorney General. Where these people are innocent of having any Communist sympathies, we are receiving excellent support from public opinion groups in clearing them completely of any taint because they belonged to such organizations. We will continue this program."

All in all, the industry will get a big boost in the first annual "movie

See Agreement Imminent On A French Pact

U. S. Submits New Offer; Accepts Export Decrease

The Motion Picture Export Association at the weekend expected that a Franco-American film agreement would be signed in Paris "before the end of this month." It based this view on developments which transpired since last Thursday in the Paris negotiations between the French and U. S. governments.

The principal development was this: contrary to expectations, the French did not submit new proposals on Thursday; rather, the U. S. negotiators "beat them to the punch" by submitting their own new proposals.

Subsidy references were conspicuously absent from the American proposals. In brief, the U. S. companies accepted a French decree cutting film exports to France to 92 features from last year's 121, and suggested setting by negotiation the steps to be followed

Mexican Production Costs Increase 25 Per Cent

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 24.—Production costs have increased 25 per cent since 1950 "without any logical reason as the studios' tariffs continue about the same", according to the National Cinematographic Board, which functions under the Interior Ministry.

Picture-making cost some $6,930,000 in 1950, but this year indications are that the costs will be close to $8,760,000, the Board said.

In 1949, it cost $5,250,000 to make 109 pictures, of which eight are still unreleased. In 1950, the record-high of 125 films were produced, of which 21 are still unreleased. The cost last year for 106 pictures was $6,112,000, of which all were released.

The 55 pictures made this year up to July 31 cost $3,810,000. The board, more hopeful than the trade, estimates 110 pictures will be produced in 1952, and it reckons this year's costs at the new high of $8,760,000. The trade doesn't expect production this year to exceed 100.

'Finian's Rainbow' to 13 N.E. Film Stands

BOSTON, Aug. 24.—The musical comedy, "Finian's Rainbow," will be presented in 13 theatres of the New England Theatres circuit next month in an experimental policy, largest of its kind for so elaborate a stage production, to be undertaken in New England film houses. If the policy is successful other stage shows will be presented subsequently.

Theatres which will present the production are: Olympia, New Bedford, Sept. 8; Brockton, Brockton, Sept. 9; Capital, Worcester, Sept. 10; Strand, Lowell, Sept. 11; Haines, Waterville, Me., Sept. 12; Opera House, Bangor, Sept. 13; Colonial, Haverhill, Sept. 15; Paramount, Lynn, Sept. 16; Paramount, Springfield, Sept. 17; Allyn, Hartford, Sept. 18; Paramount, Rutland, Vt., Sept. 19; Empress, South Norwalk, Conn., Sept. 20, and Paramount, New Haven, Sept. 22.

Warner Launches Patriotic Series

Hollywood, Aug. 24.—Cedric Francis, new head of Warner Brothers' short subjects department, is preparing a two-reel color by Technicolor film, "Land of the Free," as the first in the Warner series of patriotic shorts conceived by Harry M. Warner and the late Gordon Hollingshead in 1936.

"Land of the Free" will depict the importance of American freedoms, particularly that of freedom of enterprise and will show the development of individual prosperity under this system. The second short in this series, soon to go into production, will be "The Flag Speaks," a historical film of the American heritage.

Chicago Court to Hear Film Cases

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—In a flurry of activity marking the end of the summer hiatus the Federal courts here have scheduled hearings on a number of industry cases.

Warners' request for extended playing time, beyond the two-week limit imposed on "affiliated" theatres by the Jackson Park decree for "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" has been scheduled for hearing on Sept. 8 by Federal Judge Michael Igoe. The Winston Theatre case, in which the RKO Grand is asking exemption from the limitations of the Jackson Park decree on grounds that RKO Pictures and RKO Theatres have been divorced, will be heard by Judge Igoe Sept. 9. The request for a change of venue to Milwaukee by defendants in the Viking Theatre case will be heard on Sept. 22.

for the unfreezing of $6,000,000 in blocked American earnings.

It was said to be likely that the French would refrain from submitting their own new proposals and accept the American's as a starting point in the resumption of negotiations. The American offer is similar, practically identical, to a previous French offer. If the French do decide to submit their proposals, it is expected the Americans would receive them this week.

Two of the 92 features for which licenses would be granted are required to be films shown at the current film festival in Venice.

in an effort to determine whether or not stage spectacles in black and white constitute adequate large screen theatre TV attractions, or whether they need to be in color, had been scheduled for Aug. 7 and had to be cancelled because of Equity's salary stand, which would have involved a cost of around $30,000 for what might prove to be an inconclusive test.

Asked to reconsider, Equity has placed the matter on the council's agenda and it may be reached tomorrow. An Equity official said the Fabian request is only one of several now before it and that the Council must not only decide whether it should cooperate in theatre TV tests of the kind, but if so, which one it should approve. The identity of the other petitioners for approval of a theatre telecast of a stage attraction was not disclosed.

The Equity official said the proposed tests also will be informative to Equity since it has no regulations at present governing telecasts from stage to screen and ultimately will have to formulate some. Currently, it feels it must devise special terms, fair to performers and experimenters, for such theatre TV tests as those being proposed.

Films Lead Others In Argentine Income

Expenditures for motion pictures led all other revenues for public amusements in Argentina in 1951, according to dispatches from Buenos Aires.

More than 65,000,000 persons paid a total of 140,000,000 pesos ($10,150,000) to see motion pictures during the year, according to Argentine figures.

Review

"Old Oklahoma Plains"

(Republic)

YEARS AGO the theme of many a Western action production dealt with the debate over the speed of a fast horse versus the automobile. In "old Oklahoma Plains," screenwriter Milton Raison (working from Albert DeMond's story), director William Whitney, associate producer Edward White, and star Rex Allen capably pool their efforts and come up with a new slant: the speed of a fast horse versus an army tank. The new twist adds immeasurably to the otherwise standard Western.

Those claiming superior speed for the tank claim it could easily replace cavalry and set out to prove their theory, shortly after World War I, in an area where ranchers are raising horses and cattle.

One rancher, who is making a fortune selling horses to the army, is interested in seeing the tank discredited and he talks the other ranchers into trying to force the army away from the testing ground. Allen, an ex-army man, is called in.

The story develops at a good pace and is climaxed by a race between the cavalry and a tank. Before this there are plenty of gun fights and fist battles and Allen, and his friend, Slim Pickens, do their best to see that the experiment is a success. Also, Pickens and Allen sing a few numbers.

"Old Oklahoma Plains" is a nicely made Western with an easy-to-follow story. Allen and the rest of the cast do competent jobs. Elaine Edwards is the feminine lead. Others in the cast are Roy Barcroft, John Crawford, Joel Barston, Russell Hicks, Fred Graham, Stephen Chase and the Republic Rythm Riders.

Running time, 60 minutes. General audience classification.

be forthcoming from Smith's counsel by Friday. Under Ohio law, the city wherein censorship violations occur is empowered to prosecute in behalf of the State's attorney-general.

There will be no further hearings in the action in Municipal Court. After Smith's additional reply is filed Judge Frank W. Wiley will weigh the evidence presented in the "battle of the briefs" and give his decision.

Refers to Ament

Referring to testimony given earlier by Walton C. Ament, vice-president and general manager of Warner Pathe News, that he knew of only one instance where the State felt compelled to censor newsreels, the City's brief contended that this was proof that "little restraint" is exercised under the Ohio law.

The brief held that the $3 fee for censoring reels could not be termed "confiscatory" because no court has so ruled.

Because the State Legislature did not exempt newsreels from censorship in 1935 when a movement for removal of bans of this kind existed the Legislature thereby gave tacit approval of film censorship, the brief reasoned.

Set Mono.-AA Sales Drive for November

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 24.—Monogram-Allied Artist president Steve Broidy has announced a "Morey (Razz) Goldstein Drive" to be conducted during November in tribute to the vice-president and general manager.

The drive was suggested by the sales force in the field to honor the 32-year-old veteran executive who joined the company in 1945, Broidy said.

30,000,000 Readers

Through the special issue the 30,000,000 readers will also obtain a preview of the film fare Hollywood is preparing for them for the coming season. Also, critics' choices for the top pictures and best performances of the year are listed, as reported in MOTION PICTURE DAILY on Aug. 20.

Each article in the issue deals in some way with the business itself. The food feature is titled "Five Favorite Hollywood Dishes," and the regular Emily Post feature asks, "How Are Your Movie Manners?"

In addition to the multi-million circulation the issue will receive through its newspapers, several theatre circuits are distributing some half a million copies directly to their patrons.

Ascap Publishes 4th Copyright Law Book

Publication of the "Fourth Copyright Law Symposium," containing four papers submitted in the Nathan Burkan Memorial Competition, was announced here by Herman Finkelstein, ASCAP general attorney.

Inaugurated in 1938 in honor of the late Nathan Burkan, former ASCAP general counsel, the symposium was not published during World War II, but publication is resumed with the current volume.

* Pictures featured in M. P. Daily advertised during past 6 weeks.

The Vital Spark that ignites the interest of exhibitors for specific pictures, so that it can flame into that enthusiasm which inspires real showmanship, is a soundly planned program of trade advertising. Without that, no exhibitor can be blamed for lacking in excitement over pictures which are offered to him virtually "cold".

It is obvious that the extent of a distributor's confidence in product he has available is generally indicated by either the telling—or lack of telling about it—in trade paper messages.

There never was a greater need for good product. There never was a greater interest among exhibitors to know about the product they should plan to obtain and exploit. There never was a keener readership of trade paper messages.

Requisites for successful motion picture trade paper advertising of good product are: (1) Start it soon enough; (2) Make it effectively proclaim the box-office values of the picture; (3) Publish a sufficient continuity of sales messages to impress and remind.

Soundly planned trade advertising is the basic telling that leads to successful selling. Its cost is dimes that bring dollars. It is the vital spark for the power that produces greatest results!

Accurate Concise and Impartial

VOL. 72. NO. 39 NEW YORK, U. S. A., MONDAY, AUGUST 25, 1952 TEN CENTS

By SHERWIN KANE

IT MAY BE assumed that it has escaped the notice of no one in the industry that the continuing improvement at the nation's box-offices is being accompanied by the presence there of a greater number of fine pictures than have been available to the public at one time in many months.

It may be assumed also that the trade is well aware that equally fine pictures and in substantial volume have been completed and are awaiting release. Their number is sufficient to sustain the box-offices well into the fall and, there is good reason to believe, the same type of product in comparable numbers will continue to issue from Hollywood.

Today there must be many willing to go along with the recent statement of H. V. Harvey of San Francisco crediting production with having made the greatest strides of the three branches of industry toward meeting the new economic and competitive orders. Not that all of production's problems have been met and solved, but simply because there is so much evidence of improvement at hand, Hollywood is deserving of industry commendation.

Few of us hesitated to let Hollywood have it, no punches pulled, when the ticket-choppers were light. And perhaps to some purpose, judging by the evidence now current. Today, it would seem, she is beginning to show the rest of the industry the way.

Let's give the little girl a big hand. And listen attentively when she tells us what's wrong with the rest of us.

PRESS material quotes Stanley Kramer as saying of his new production, "The Happy Time",: "It is the coming of age of a teen age boy, his first reaching for maturity on everything from the intellectual plane to the first sex manifestations. Further, we strive to illustrate the frank, above-board viewpoint on things basic, such as sex by the continental mind as contrasted to the hush-hush and guilt school of thought."

Don't let Stanley discourage you. There's nothing clinical about "The Happy Time." It's good, solid entertainment when not being too broad, and impishly amusing even then.

Newsreels, Newspapers Are Different, Ohio Contends

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 24.—Without backing up its contention with "evidence," the City of Toledo, acting in behalf of the Ohio attorney-general, at the weekend asserted in a brief filed in the Ohio newsreel censorship case that newsreels are different from magazines, newspapers and other periodicals and therefore can be made subject to censorship.

The brief was intended to defend the State's censorship laws, labeled "unconstitutional" by exhibitor Martin G. Smith's counsel at a hearing earlier this month in the newsreel test case, brought about with the cooperation of the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio and the Motion Picture Association of America.

Signed by John J. McCarthy, director of law of the City of Toledo, and Louis R. Young, assistant director, but known to contain the views of the State's attorney-general, the brief also held that the U. S. Supreme Court's decision in the "Miracle" case did not apply in any way to the newsreel case since there is no question as to whether newsreels are "sacrilegious."

The defendant now has a week in which to reply to the City's assertions. It is expected that another brief will

See Agreement Imminent On A French Pact

U. S. Submits New Offer; Accepts Export Decrease

The Motion Picture Export Association at the weekend expected that a Franco-American film agreement would be signed in Paris "before the end of this month." It based this view on developments which transpired since last Thursday in the Paris negotiations between the French and U. S. governments.

The principal development was this: contrary to expectations, the French did not submit new proposals on Thursday; rather, the U. S. negotiators "beat them to the punch" by submitting their own new proposals.

Subsidy references were conspicuously absent from the American proposals. In brief, the U. S. companies accepted a French decree cutting film exports to France to 92 features from last year's 121, and suggested setting by negotiation the steps to be followed

SAG Sets Oct. 23 Pact Deadline Here

The Screen Actors Guid here at the weekend notified some 50 producers of motion pictures in the New York area that it will cancel existing contracts as of Oct. 23 if by that date these producers have not signed the Guild's new "Codified Basic Agreement of 1952" and the television supplement thereto.

FIGHT AGAINST 'REDS' WILL NEVER CEASE, SAYS FREEMAN

"The fight to rid the industry of known Communists or fellow travelers will never cease," declares Y. Frank Freeman, Paramount studio head in Hollywood, in an article by John Gunther which will be featured in an all-film industry issue of The American Weekly to be sent next Sunday to 30,000,000 readers through a circulation of 9,500,000.

The article, which deals with various economic, production and policy aspects of the studios, quotes Freeman as observing, "There are some people in our industry who have been labeled fellow travelers because of their membership in certain organizations which, after they joined were subsequently declared subversive by the Attorney General. Where these people are innocent of having any Communist sympathies, we are receiving excellent support from public opinion groups in clearing them completely of any taint because they belonged to such organizations. We will continue this program."

All in all, the industry will get a big boost in the first annual "movie

Mexican Production Costs Increase 25 Per Cent

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 24.—Production costs have increased 25 per cent since 1950 "without any logical reason as the studios' tariffs continue about the same", according to the National Cinematographic Board, which functions under the Interior Ministry.

Picture-making cost some $6,930,000 in 1950, but this year indications are that the costs will be close to $8,760,000, the Board said.

In 1949, it cost $5,250,000 to make 109 pictures, of which eight are still unreleased. In 1950, the record-high of 125 films were produced, of which 21 are still unreleased. The cost last year for 106 pictures was $6,112,000, of which all were released.

The 55 pictures made this year up to July 31 cost $3,810,000. The board, more hopeful than the trade, estimates 110 pictures will be produced in 1952, and it reckons this year's costs at the new high of $8,760,000. The trade doesn't expect production this year to exceed 100.

BOSTON, Aug. 24.—The musical comedy, "Finian's Rainbow," will be presented in 13 theatres of the New England Theatres circuit next month in an experimental policy, largest of its kind for so elaborate a stage production, to be undertaken in New England film houses. If the policy is successful other stage shows will be presented subsequently.

Theatres which will present the production are: Olympia, New Bedford, Sept. 8; Brockton, Brockton, Sept. 9; Capital, Worcester, Sept. 10; Strand, Lowell, Sept. 11; Haines, Waterville, Me., Sept. 12; Opera House, Bangor, Sept. 13; Colonial, Haverhill, Sept. 15; Paramount, Lynn, Sept. 16; Paramount, Springfield, Sept. 17; Allyn, Hartford, Sept. 18; Paramount, Rutland, Vt., Sept. 19; Empress, South Norwalk, Conn., Sept. 20, and Paramount, New Haven, Sept. 22.

"Park Row," Samuel Fuller's production of the birth and growth of American journalism, will have its world premiere on Sept. 1 in Los Angeles at the Chinese, Loyola and Globe theatres of Fox West Coast, and the independent Paradise Theatre, it was announced by William J. Heineman, vice-president of United Artists.

Warner Launches Patriotic Series

Hollywood, Aug. 24.—Cedric Francis, new head of Warner Brothers' short subjects department, is preparing a two-reel color by Technicolor film, "Land of the Free," as the first in the Warner series of patriotic shorts conceived by Harry M. Warner and the late Gordon Hollingshead in 1936.

"Land of the Free" will depict the importance of American freedoms, particularly that of freedom of enterprise and will show the development of individual prosperity under this system. The second short in this series, soon to go into production, will be "The Flag Speaks," a historical film of the American heritage.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—In a flurry of activity marking the end of the summer hiatus the Federal courts here have scheduled hearings on a number of industry cases.

Warners' request for extended playing time, beyond the two-week limit imposed on "affiliated" theatres by the Jackson Park decree for "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" has been scheduled for hearing on Sept. 8 by Federal Judge Michael Igoe. The Winston Theatre case, in which the RKO Grand is asking exemption from the limitations of the Jackson Park decree on grounds that RKO Pictures and RKO Theatres have been divorced, will be heard by Judge Igoe Sept. 9. The request for a change of venue to Milwaukee by defendants in the Viking Theatre case will be heard on Sept. 22.

for the unfreezing of $6,000,000 in blocked American earnings.

It was said to be likely that the French would refrain from submitting their own new proposals and accept the American's as a starting point in the resumption of negotiations. The American offer is similar, practically identical, to a previous French offer. If the French do decide to submit their proposals, it is expected the Americans would receive them this week.

Two of the 92 features for which licenses would be granted are required to be films shown at the current film festival in Venice.

in an effort to determine whether or not stage spectacles in black and white constitute adequate large screen theatre TV attractions, or whether they need to be in color, had been scheduled for Aug. 7 and had to be cancelled because of Equity's salary stand, which would have involved a cost of around $30,000 for what might prove to be an inconclusive test.

Asked to reconsider, Equity has placed the matter on the council's agenda and it may be reached tomorrow. An Equity official said the Fabian request is only one of several now before it and that the Council must not only decide whether it should cooperate in theatre TV tests of the kind, but if so, which one it should approve. The identity of the other petitioners for approval of a theatre telecast of a stage attraction was not disclosed.

The Equity official said the proposed tests also will be informative to Equity since it has no regulations at present governing telecasts from stage to screen and ultimately will have to formulate some. Currently, it feels it must devise special terms, fair to performers and experimenters, for such theatre TV tests as those being proposed.

Films Lead Others In Argentine Income

Expenditures for motion pictures led all other revenues for public amusements in Argentina in 1951, according to dispatches from Buenos Aires.

More than 65,000,000 persons paid a total of 140,000,000 pesos ($10,150,000) to see motion pictures during the year, according to Argentine figures.

Review

"Old Oklahoma Plains"

(Republic)

YEARS AGO the theme of many a Western action production dealt with the debate over the speed of a fast horse versus the automobile. In "old Oklahoma Plains," screenwriter Milton Raison (working from Albert DeMond's story), director William Whitney, associate producer Edward White, and star Rex Allen capably pool their efforts and come up with a new slant: the speed of a fast horse versus an army tank. The new twist adds immeasurably to the otherwise standard Western.

Those claiming superior speed for the tank claim it could easily replace cavalry and set out to prove their theory, shortly after World War I, in an area where ranchers are raising horses and cattle.

One rancher, who is making a fortune selling horses to the army, is interested in seeing the tank discredited and he talks the other ranchers into trying to force the army away from the testing ground. Allen, an ex-army man, is called in.

The story develops at a good pace and is climaxed by a race between the cavalry and a tank. Before this there are plenty of gun fights and fist battles and Allen, and his friend, Slim Pickens, do their best to see that the experiment is a success. Also, Pickens and Allen sing a few numbers.

"Old Oklahoma Plains" is a nicely made Western with an easy-to-follow story. Allen and the rest of the cast do competent jobs. Elaine Edwards is the feminine lead. Others in the cast are Roy Barcroft, John Crawford, Joel Barston, Russell Hicks, Fred Graham, Stephen Chase and the Republic Rythm Riders.

Running time, 60 minutes. General audience classification.

Ohio Contends

be forthcoming from Smith's counsel by Friday. Under Ohio law, the city wherein censorship violations occur is empowered to prosecute in behalf of the State's attorney-general.

There will be no further hearings in the action in Municipal Court. After Smith's additional reply is filed Judge Frank W. Wiley will weigh the evidence presented in the "battle of the briefs" and give his decision.

Refers to Ament

Referring to testimony given earlier by Walton C. Ament, vice-president and general manager of Warner Pathe News, that he knew of only one instance where the State felt compelled to censor newsreels, the City's brief contended that this was proof that "little restraint" is exercised under the Ohio law.

The brief held that the $3 fee for censoring reels could not be termed "confiscatory" because no court has so ruled.

Because the State Legislature did not exempt newsreels from censorship in 1935 when a movement for removal of bans of this kind existed the Legislature thereby gave tacit approval of film censorship, the brief reasoned.

Set Mono.-AA Sales Drive for November

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 24.—Monogram-Allied Artist president Steve Broidy has announced a "Morey (Razz) Goldstein Drive" to be conducted during November in tribute to the vice-president and general manager.

The drive was suggested by the sales force in the field to honor the 32-year-old veteran executive who joined the company in 1945, Broidy said.

30,000,000 Readers

Through the special issue the 30,000,000 readers will also obtain a preview of the film fare Hollywood is preparing for them for the coming season. Also, critics' choices for the top pictures and best performances of the year are listed, as reported in MOTION PICTURE DAILY on Aug. 20.

Each article in the issue deals in some way with the business itself. The food feature is titled "Five Favorite Hollywood Dishes," and the regular Emily Post feature asks, "How Are Your Movie Manners?"

In addition to the multi-million circulation the issue will receive through its newspapers, several theatre circuits are distributing some half a million copies directly to their patrons.

Ascap Publishes 4th Copyright Law Book

Publication of the "Fourth Copyright Law Symposium," containing four papers submitted in the Nathan Burkan Memorial Competition, was announced here by Herman Finkelstein, ASCAP general attorney.

Inaugurated in 1938 in honor of the late Nathan Burkan, former ASCAP general counsel, the symposium was not published during World War II, but publication is resumed with the current volume.

* Pictures featured in M. P. Daily advertised during past 6 weeks.

The Vital Spark that ignites the interest of exhibitors for specific pictures, so that it can flame into that enthusiasm which inspires real showmanship, is a soundly planned program of trade advertising. Without that, no exhibitor can be blamed for lacking in excitement over pictures which are offered to him virtually "cold".

It is obvious that the extent of a distributor's confidence in product he has available is generally indicated by either the telling—or lack of telling about it—in trade paper messages.

There never was a greater need for good product. There never was a greater interest among exhibitors to know about the product they should plan to obtain and exploit. There never was a keener readership of trade paper messages.

Requisites for successful motion picture trade paper advertising of good product are: (1) Start it soon enough; (2) Make it effectively proclaim the box-office values of the picture; (3) Publish a sufficient continuity of sales messages to impress and remind.

Soundly planned trade advertising is the basic telling that leads to successful selling. Its cost is dimes that bring dollars. It is the vital spark for the power that produces greatest results!

'Family Night' Promotion a Hit in Mpls.

Theatres, Shops, Transit Join to Draw Throngs

By ARTHUR G. PATTERSON

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 25.—Operators of Loop theatres and retail stores here and the local transit company are united in proclaiming the first family night promotion held here last Thursday a solid success, one they hope not only to continue and to be joined in by St. Paul, but also one they recommend to exhibitors and merchants in central business districts in other cities around the country.

Exhibitors report that paid admissions to Loop theatres on the night of the family promotion skyrocketed to new all-time highs with an estimated 10,000 additional persons drawn to the area by the promotion.

According to Don Alexander of the advertising department of Minnesota Amusement Co. and a member of the

Mass. Congressman Against Ticket Tax

Boston, Aug. 25.—Representative Angier L. Goodwin (R., Mass.) stated here that if he is reelected to Congress he will support legislation for repeal of the 20 per cent Federal admissions tax as he has done in the past.

Goodwin said that as a member of the House Ways and Means committee two years ago he favored repeal of the tax.

British Gross and Attendance Up in First '52 Quarter

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Both estimated theatre gross and attendance figures for the first quarter of 1952 showed an increase over the last quarter of 1951, according to the Board of Trade's latest statistical survey.

Box office gross for the first 1952 quarter is estimated at £28,953,000 ($81,068,400), compared with £27,115,000 ($75,922,000) for the final 1951 quarter. Attendance for the 1952 quarter is placed at 345,596,000, compared with 324,301,000 for the final 1951 quarter. The survey says the aver-

New Films Along B'way Add to Sturdy Grossers

Most new films bowed strong this week at New York first-runs, with excellent grosses being piled up by such pictures as "The Quiet Man," "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima," and "What Price Glory."

Such outstanding hold-overs, as "Ivanhoe," "Sudden Fear," and "Jumping Jacks" also racked up robust grosses. Credit for the maintenance of the business upswing along Broadway was attributed by most theatremen to the good product available. Some theatre managers also felt that the current American Legion convention, which brought an estimated 125,000 visitors to New York, aided business.

"The Quiet Man" opened to a fine first week's business of $66,000 at the Capitol. The initial seven days of "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" at the Astor is expected to hit a healthy $41,000, while the same film at the two-a-day Bijou is forecast to do a capacity $9,300.

At the Roxy, now featuring its ice revue, "What Price Glory," is due to hit a solid $90,000 for its first stanza.

Studios' 'Red' Stand Wins Legion Praise

Resolutions on Films Tabled for Added Study

The progress the motion picture industry has made in ridding itself of alleged Communists and the co-operation of the industry with the American Legion won the commendation yesterday of a top Legion official at the opening day of the Legion's four-day national convention here at Madison Square Garden.

The Legion official, who asked that his name be withheld, has been intimately concerned with alleged Communist activities in Hollywood. He said that it is recognized that studios have been putting their shoulder to the wheel in order to eliminate any "Red" taint, adding that they have made remarkable progress.

The sentiment of the Legion official was reflected in yesterday's report of the Legion's Committee on American-

Col. Stockholders Hearing Sept. 22

Justice Morris Eder has set a hearing in New York Supreme Court for Sept. 22 to consider approval of a settlement of a Columbia Pictures' stockholders action alleging waste by various officers and directors of the corporation. The settlement proposed by Harry Cohn, Columbia president, already has been recommended as fair and in the best interests of the company by Arthur G. Klein, referee.

The suit charged directors were dominated by Cohn when they approved an employment contract for him in 1949 and that the company had paid legal fees of $40,000 which should have been paid by Cohn. All of the allegations were denied by the defendants.

US Films Hold Lead Among Mex. Imports

MEXICO CITY, Aug 25.—Hollywood continues to lead in Mexico. Of the 120 foreign pictures released during the first quarter of this year, 81 were American. France was the runnerup with 12. Italy was next with eight. Britain and Austria contributed five each and Switzerland two.

Chamberlain Estate Valued at $210,000

The bulk of the estate goes to a niece, Mrs. Mabel Chamberlain Walker of St. Paul.

Daily News, TV Station Owner, Blasts U.S. Suit

The New York Daily News, with the largest circulation of any daily newspaper in the country and itself the owner of television station WPIX, editorially scored the government's suit to force the sale of 16mm. films to television yesterday. It was the sixth New York newspaper to take an editorial stand against the Department of Justice action and, in doing so, urged that the suit be "killed."

The News said in part: "The U. S. Department of Justice has done some strange things in recent years, but offhand we can't think of anything queerer than its latest attack on the movie industry."

After detailing some of the aims and probable results of the suit, the editorial states: "The McGranery scheme, therefore, boils down to a plan to destroy the movies, though the Attorney General himself may not realize it. Obviously, when a new picture can be seen on TV for nothing, very few people will pay money to see it in theatres. If the new films become available to TV immediately on release, the movie industry will go bust in a hurry, and so will the thousands of movie theatres around the country."

After citing the government's contention that the industry would be "protected" if the suit is won by establishment of reasonable clearance between theatre and TV showings of films, the News editorial points to the current box office experience of the 19-year old RKO Radio film, "King Kong." It concludes:

"The whole business strikes us as an ill-considered, probably political attempt to interfere with economic principles as they operate in the movie industry. It can mean literally the death of that industry.

"We hope that McGranery will think better of it and withdraw the suit, or that it will lose out in the courts, or that Congress will kill it off if the courts don't."

The News illustrated its editorial with a still of a huge gorilla. The picture caption read: "This is King Kong, not the Attorney General."

As in the case of earlier New York newspaper editorials on the suit, some of the information for the News editorial was supplied by the Independent Theatre Owners Association of New York.

SEG Gets $750,000 In Retroactive Pay

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.—Extra players will receive $750,000 in retroactive pay under terms of the new contract between the majors and Screen Extras Guild, the latter revealed today following receipt of Wage Stabilization Board approval of the pact. Increases were retroactive to Oct. 25 last year.

Albany's $1,050 Is 1st Compo Report

The first public report by an exchange area on the results of the drive for dues which is being conducted by the Council of Motion Picture Organizations has been made by the Albany exchange.

A total of $1,050, which is exclusive of donations by larger circuits, has been forwarded from the Albany exchange district as exhibitors' contribution to the drive.

This was revealed at a meeting in Albany yesterday, when branch managers and salesmen analyzed accounts outstanding. In Albany it is hoped to collect from $500 to $1,000 additional by the end of this week when the extended campaign will officially end.

Several major companies obtained donations from 75 per cent of the accounts assigned them, while others had less success. It is estimated that about 40 per cent of the Albany exchange exhibitors solicited have contributed to date. Larger circuit collections are being handled from New York.

COMPO reported here yesterday that indications are that the drive will be a complete success when this week's "clean-up" drive is completed, according to reports received thus far from the 33 exchanges.

Sudmin to Manage 20th's L.A. Branch

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 25.—Morris Sudmin has been promoted to manage the Los Angeles branch of 20th Century-Fox, Herman Wobber, Western 20th-Fox division manager, disclosed here.

Sudmin, with 20th-Fox the past 20 years, replaced Alex Harrison, who has been called to the home office. He is expected in New York sometime in September when he will assume an executive position, the title of which has yet to be announced. It was also announced that Rev Kniffin, former assistant branch manager in San Francisco, will become Sudmin's assistant in Los Angeles.

Salesman Paul Schmuck was promoted to the post of assistant to San Francisco manager Jack Erickson, while Joseph Flannigan, will return to the San Francisco territory as a salesman.

Bellman to Resign

Jack Bellman will resign as branch manager of Realart Film Exchange of New York, effective Saturday, it was disclosed here yesterday. Al Broder will take over as manager of the exchange.

Urges Ban on Films Made in Europe By American 'Reds'

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.—Hollywood AFL Film Council chairman Roy M. Brewer tonight dispatched a letter to Congressman John W. Wood, chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, urging that the committee immediately initiate legislation banning the import of features made abroad by members of the American film industry "with membership in or loyalties to the Communist Party."

Specific reference was made to "Encounter," made in Rome, which Brewer said United Artists is contemplating releasing here, and which, the letter stated, represents the work of four Americans who either are or were Communists or are refugees from House committee subpoena. Persons named in this connection are John Weber, Bernhard Vorhaus, Joseph Losey and Ben Barzman.

The letter calls on the committee to set up legislation which will protect the country against the import of films made by persons excluded from the American industry for subversive connections or affiliations. Also, it stated that the AFL Film Council will ask United Artists to forego releasing the film, will ask all exhibitor organizations to refuse to book if offered, and, if these measures fall short, will ask all projectionists to refuse to show it.

ism. All State resolutions dealing with the issue of alleged Communism in motion pictures were referred to the Standing Commission on Americanism. The referral was a proposal by the convention committee and it was considered unlikely that any state delegation would seek to override the committee and take up a fight on the convention floor seeking approval of its resolution dealing with the industry.

In effect, the action of the Committee on Americanism tables the resolutions bearing on the industry as far as convention action goes. Five resolutions which were thus referred to the Standing Commission on Americanism came under the following headings: Motion Pictures in which any known Communist has participated (South Carolina); Urge entire entertainment industry not to employ supporters of Communist causes (Illinois); American Legion Magazine list motion pictures tainted with subversive influences (Ohio); American Legion Magazine keep constant supervision over subversive trends in motion picture industry (Kentucky); American Legion Magazine renew fight on Communism in entertainment field (Washington).

The contents of the resolutions were not made available to the press.

The Standing Commission on Americanism, which probably will be charged with studying and acting upon the above resolutions as recommended by the Legion's Americanism Committee, is slated to meet in Indianapolis sometime in October.

"The Ring"

(United Artists—King Brothers)

AGAINST the background of Mexican life in Los Angeles, a believable, effective off-beat boxing story has been fashioned by King Brothers Productions. "The Ring," despite a number of "unprofessional" performances and its low budget, has a fine authenticity.

The chief protagonist is a young Mexican, Lalo Rios, the son of a poor but proud family who takes to the ring to earn money and respect for himself and his people. The difference here, however, is that Rios is not a particularly able or intelligent fighter. After a promising start, he soon reaches a stage where, even when he follows his manager's advice to the letter, he cannot hope to better himself. After taking some terrific lickings, he learns to accept his lot and the fact that he doesn't have to beat the ears off the world to win its respect.

The screenplay, by Irving Shulman, based on his own novel, tells the simple story in a good, straightforward manner. The plight of the Mexicans in the big California city is sympathetically portrayed, although, oddly enough, some of the Mexicans seen are the shiftless, lazy kind, the stereotype of which is responsible for much anti-Mexican feeling.

The boxing sequences are excitingly photographed. Director Kurt Neumann has paced the whole production so that it packs a single neat dramatic punch. Besides Rios, Gerald Mohr and Robert Osterloh do well in the roles of fight manager and trainer, respectively. Rita Moreno is the fighter's pretty girl friend and young Robert Altuna is his admiring little brother. Maurice and Frank King are the producers.

Others in the cast include Martin Garralaga, Jack Elam and Peter Brocco.

Running time, 79 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Sept. 26.

Sets 'Dine Out, See A Movie' Campaign

Cleveland, Aug. 25.—A "Dine Out and See a Movie" advertising campaign has been instituted here by the Meyers Meat Co., wholesale meat suppliers to restaurants, with the cooperation of the Motion Picture Exhibitors League of Cleveland.

Window streamers and transportation advertising proclaim the thinking behind the message: that people will welcome the opportunity to exchange an ordinary evening of kitchen chores and television for a delicious dinner and an enjoyable motion picture.

Selznick Award to 'Cry'

"Cry, the Beloved Country" won the 1952 David O. Selznick Silver Laurel award for English films at the International Film Festival held in Edinburgh in conjunciton with the Edinburgh Festival of Drama and Music, according to news reports from Scotland. The picture was made by London Films and is distributed here by United Artists. The Silver Laurel award enables the film to compete for the Selznick Golden Laurel award in New York in October.

NT's $11,000,000 Candy-Popcorn Bill

In the three years 1949-1951, National Theatres and its subsidiaries spent close to $11,000,000 for candy, popcorn, soft drinks and other confections for sale in their theatres, the company stated in a report to the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The yearly expenditures for confections are broken down as follows: 1949, $3,920,000, 1950, $3,619,000, 1951, $3,388,000.

and Roxy Theatre, will issue to 20th-Fox as the new picture company 2,769,486 shares of its common stock and Fox will then distribute to its shareholders the common of National on the basis of one share of the new picture company's common and one share of the new theatre company's common for each share of the present picture company.

The consideration for the issuance to Fox of the shares of the common of National registered will be the transfer by Fox to the theatre company of all the capital stock of Wesco consisting of 1,000 shares of common without par value and all of the common stock of Roxy consisting of 10,000 shares without par value.

The report states that while it is the intention of National to continue the retirement plan and to continue to make contributions thereto, there is no contractual obligation to do so and the right is retained to change, amend or discontinue the plan. No change or discontinuance, however, will affect the retirement income already purchased by employes' contributions and contributions made by the company prior to any change or discontinuance.

Roxy participates in Fox's retirement plan, and such participation will be discontinued after Sept. 27.

The report states that Wesco, its subsidiaries and affiliates as of July 1 had an interest in 510 U. S. theatres, certain of which must be divested under the consent decree.

Theatres in which National will be interested through Wesco and Roxy range in type and size from small houses with as few as 250 seats to large, deluxe theatres of from 2,000 to more than 5,000 seats, the majority having between 750 and 1,500 seats. Most exhibit double feature programs, the report said.

At the end of last year, Wesco and its subsidiaries had 8,200 employes, including executives and 2,300 part-time employes, the report stated. At the beginning of last May Roxy employed about 236.

In 1950 and 1951, Wesco and subsidiaries paid $4,800,000 in film rentals to Fox, and in 1949 the payments totaled $5,750,000, according to the report. Of the total film rental payments of Wesco and subsidiaries, the foregoing averaged 26 per cent.

"Big Jim McLain"

(Warner Brothers—Wayne-Fellows)

STRONG topical interest, suspense and sharp action are the principal ingredients of this Wayne-Fellows Production about an investigator for the House Un-American Activities Committee. John Wayne, who repeatedly registers high in the Motion Picture Herald-Fame exhibitors' poll of money-making stars, has the title role. The picture was shot in Hawaii. Co-starring is Nancy Olson.

The story opens on a familiar note: The scene is Washington at a hearing of the Un-American Activities Committee. A suspected Communist, tracked down by Wayne and his partner James Arness, is challenged with a pertinent question about his alleged Red affiliations and—as have many others on similar occasions—balks at answering on grounds of the Fifth Amendment.

This infuriates the two investigators but they accept another assignment to probe a Red cell in Hawaii—a vital link to the Orient—where Communist sabotage and trouble making in labor unions can prove very harmful to the nation's defense efforts. Wayne's first lead comes from a visit to a doctor's office where Miss Olson is secretary.

From that point on, Wayne and Arness track down other tips and leads; becomes involved in fights; trace a Hawaiian who was once an official of the party but is now sick and discarded by his colleagues; and finally round up the group with the help of the Hawaiian police after Wayne's partner has been murdered.

While generally interesting, "Big Jim McLain" seems overlong and awkwardly edited in certain spots. However, the action and theme offer considerable compensation. Robert Fellows produced, Edward Ludwig directed and James Edward Grant wrote the original screenplay. Others in the cast are Alan Napier, Veda Ann Borg, Gayne Whitman and Hal Baylor.

Running time, 90 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Aug. 30.

'Family Night' a Mpls. Hit

Downtown Theatres Committee, the greatest stimulant to assure success of the promotion was a free ride given one way to all adults and children going into the Loop on the buses and street cars of the Minneapolis Street Railway Co. between the hours of seven and nine P.M.

Adults and children leaving the buses and street cars in the Loop were offered numbered coupons and if a number corresponded with one of the approximately 1,000 numbers posted in their lobbies they were admitted free of charge. However, bus and street car operators ran out of coupons. Because of the huge demand it was estimated that eight persons out of every 100 holding coupons were admitted free to the theatres. A vast majority of the others paid their way. Many Loop stores which had remained closed during previous Thursday Evenings stayed open and all stores cooperated by offering bargains for the family night promotion.

The crowds brought into the Loop were an increase of 6,500 persons over the previous all-time high of 3,500 persons for a Thursday night. The promotion will be held every week from now on.

Fred A. Ossanna, president of the transit firm, said: "We hope this experiment will show other cities that by sitting and talking across the table they can cooperate to solve their own Loop problems. The promotion idea has resulted in editors of eight national magazines inquiring for details about the promotion."

Tomorrow, Alexander, Harry Weiss, division manager of RKO Theatres, Ted Mann, Co-operator of the World, first run Loop house, St. Paul, and Ray Wroble, manager of the RKO Orpheum; St. Paul Transit officials and representatives of St. Paul Loop stores will meet with Matt Thompson, secretary of the St. Paul Association of Commerce to discuss a similar promotion for St. Paul with the view to making Thursday evenings a joint Twin City affair.

The Minneapolis Loop promotion was launched in an effort to recapture business that heretofore has been going in greater strength to the shopping centers in the suburbs. The promotion included an extensive publicity campaign.

not ruled out film censorship as such and that carefully worded ordinances can be drawn to prevent the showing of films on grounds that they are "obscene, indecent, immoral or profane."

McCabe offered to prepare such an ordinance and expressed the opinion that films cannot be censored on other grounds. He revealed that his proposed ordinance would merely give the licensing bureau legislation specifically authorizing it to censor motion pictures in the four fields he prescribed.

McCabe explained that his report and recommendations were based on the belief that the high court rulings, while they make films a means of communication rather than entertainment, still did not leave the way open for absolute freedom on all subjects. Other court decisions used in the motion picture cases support that view, he said.

The record-breaking business of "Ivanhoe" at the Radio City Music Hall continues. For its fourth week, a terrific $165,000 is seen, topping off a three week gross of $520,000, the largest in the Hall's history. The Hall, to accommodate Labor Day audiences, will open its doors at 7:45 A.M. Monday, allowing the house an extra performance.

The fifth and final week of "Jumping Jacks" at the Paramount is estimated to gross a robust $67,000. "The Crimson Pirate" opens there tomorrow.

A good $38,000 is seen for the third inning of "Sudden Fear" at Loew's State, while a fine $25,000 is estimated for the fifth week of "High Noon" at the Mayfair.

"The Big Sky" opened to a very nice $40,000 for its first week at the Criterion. The initial seven days of "Francis Goes to West Point" was a bit disappointing at $9,500. It will be replaced at the Globe on Friday with "Devil Makes Three."

"Affairs of Trinidad" is holding up at the Victoria with a sturdy $27,500 estimated for its fourth week. A moderately good $19,000 is forecast for the second inning of "Les Miserables" at the Rivoli.

Among off-Broadway houses, a sturdy $6,600 is indicated for the 21st stanza of the "Man in the White Suit" at the Sutton, while a fine $5,000 is seen for the 21st week of "Encore" at the Normandie.

At the Park Avenue, a good $5,600 is forecast for the second week of "Brandy for the Parson."

During the first quarter of 1952, theatres paid £10,139,000 in entertainment tax and £772,000 in Eady levy. Net takings amounted to £18,042,000, compared with £16,880,000 in the previous quarter. Film rentals were £6,380,000, leaving as the exhibitors' share £11,662,000, compared with £11,078,000 in the previous quarter.

Included in the survey for the first time are the costs and revenues of British films 6,500 feet or over during 1950. There were 61 films in this category, of which only eight were produced without distributors' financial assistance or guarantee. In the case of seven films, distributors provided or guaranteed the whole cost.

In 1950, British producers received £228,000 for their films from abroad. From the home market in the same year British producers got £4,540,000, with an additional £104,000 from outright sales. There was no Eady distribution in 1950, so the aggregate amount taken by British producers that year was around £7,000,000.

Seek Receivership For Scophony Corp.

Three stockholders of the old Scophony Corp. of America yesterday filed in New York Supreme Court a suit asking that a temporary receiver be set up for the company. The request was accompanied by the allegation that Arthur Levey, president of Skiatron Electronics and Television Corp., unauthorizedly received returns from settlements with General Precision, Television Productions and British Scophony preparatory to the formation of Skiatron.

The suing stockholders are John A. Stephen, Otto Augstein and Hans L. Kraft who, according to the complaint held a total of 250 Scophony shares and invested $90,000 in the processing of old patents by the now defunct company.

On Friday approximately 80 per cent of Skiatron stockholders voted in favor of a new stock issue to raise $270,000 for the company's projected subscription television test.

To Film Eleven Games for Video

An agreement between leading collegiate organizations and Sportsvision, Inc. and Consolidated Television Sales to film a leading college football game each week of the season for home TV distribution was disclosed here yesterday by Peter M. Robeck, general manager of Consolidated Television Sales.

The program, titled "The All American Game of the Week," will be shown on days subsequent to the event. The announcement, which stated that the program would be sold to individual stations rather than networks, said it would be a partial answer to the TV curtailment program of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Somervell Leaving U.K. Board of Trade

LONDON, Aug. 25. — Rupert Somervell will retire as under-secretary of the Board of Trade Sept. 30 and will be succeeded by Sidney Golt, present head of the Board's films division.

Somervell has participated in most of the previous British government negotiations with the American film industry on remittance of earnings and restrictions on blocked funds. Because of his impending retirement, he will not accompany Sir Frank Lee and Golt to Washington next month, where discussions on the new Anglo-American remittance agreement will be inaugurated.

TexasShowmenBack Hospital Fund Drive

DALLAS, Aug. 25.—Robert J. O'Donnell and H. A. Cole, co-chairmen of Texas COMPO Showmen, have been selected to head the 1952 Texas Theatres Crippled Children's Fund Drive for the benefit of the Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation to be held Aug. 31 through Sept. 6. Practically all the exhibitors in the state have pledged to exhibit a special trailer and take up theatre collections.

Texas COMPO will present a special award for distinguished service to the showman who makes the outstanding showing in the drive in relation to the size of his community.

The trailer which features Joan Crawford, a native Texan, and Beverly Mills of Smiley, Texas, a young girl who has been successfully treated at the Foundation, was directed by David Miller and produced in the studios of RKO. O'Donnell made special arrangements with Herman Robbins who in turn made National Screen Service production facilities available at cost. NSS in Dallas under Paul Short, divisional manager, will make distribution at no cost to the Foundation.

'Family Night' Promotion a Hit in Mpls.

Theatres, Shops, Transit Join to Draw Throngs

By ARTHUR G. PATTERSON

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 25.—Operators of Loop theatres and retail stores here and the local transit company are united in proclaiming the first family night promotion held here last Thursday a solid success, one they hope not only to continue and to be joined in by St. Paul, but also one they recommend to exhibitors and merchants in central business districts in other cities around the country.

Exhibitors report that paid admissions to Loop theatres on the night of the family promotion skyrocketed to new all-time highs with an estimated 10,000 additional persons drawn to the area by the promotion.

According to Don Alexander of the advertising department of Minnesota Amusement Co. and a member of the

British Gross and Attendance Up in First '52 Quarter

LONDON, Aug. 25. — Both estimated theatre gross and attendance figures for the first quarter of 1952 showed an increase over the last quarter of 1951, according to the Board of Trade's latest statistical survey.

Box office gross for the first 1952 quarter is estimated at £28,953,000 ($81,068,400), compared with £27,115,000 ($75,922,000) for the final 1951 quarter. Attendance for the 1952 quarter is placed at 345,596,000, compared with 324,301,000 for the final 1951 quarter. The survey says the aver-

New Films Along B'way Add to Sturdy Grossers

Most new films bowed strong this week at New York first-runs, with excellent grosses being piled up by such pictures as "The Quiet Man," "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima," and "What Price Glory."

Such outstanding hold-overs, as "Ivanhoe," "Sudden Fear," and "Jumping Jacks" also racked up robust grosses. Credit for the maintenance of the business upswing along Broadway was attributed by most theatremen to the good product available. Some theatre managers also felt that the current American Legion convention, which brought an estimated 125,000 visitors to New York, aided business.

"The Quiet Man" opened to a fine first week's business of $66,000 at the Capitol. The initial seven days of "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" at the Astor is expected to hit a healthy $41,000, while the same film at the two-a-day Bijou is forecast to do a capacity $9,300.

At the Roxy, now featuring its ice revue, "What Price Glory," is due to hit a solid $90,000 for its first stanza.

Studios' 'Red' Stand Wins Legion Praise

Resolutions on Films Tabled for Added Study

The progress the motion picture industry has made in ridding itself of alleged Communists and the co-operation of the industry with the American Legion won the commendation yesterday of a top Legion official at the opening day of the Legion's four-day national convention here at Madison Square Garden.

The Legion official, who asked that his name be withheld, has been intimately concerned with alleged Communist activities in Hollywood. He said that it is recognized that studios have been putting their shoulder to the wheel in order to eliminate any "Red" taint, adding that they have made remarkable progress.

The sentiment of the Legion official was reflected in yesterday's report of the Legion's Committee on American-

Daily News, TV Station Owner, Blasts U.S. Suit

The New York Daily News, with the largest circulation of any daily newspaper in the country and itself the owner of television station WPIX, editorially scored the government's suit to force the sale of 16mm. films to television yesterday. It was the sixth New York newspaper to take an editorial stand against the Department of Justice action and, in doing so, urged that the suit be "killed."

The News said in part: "The U. S. Department of Justice has done some strange things in recent years, but offhand we can't think of anything queerer than its latest attack on the movie industry."

After detailing some of the aims and probable results of the suit, the editorial states: "The McGranery scheme, therefore, boils down to a plan to destroy the movies, though the Attorney General himself may not realize it. Obviously, when a new picture can be seen on TV for nothing, very few people will pay money to see it in theatres. If the new films become available to TV immediately on release, the movie industry will go bust in a hurry, and so will the thousands of movie theatres around the country."

After citing the government's contention that the industry would be "protected" if the suit is won by establishment of reasonable clearance between theatre and TV showings of films, the News editorial points to the current box office experience of the 19-year old RKO Radio film, "King Kong." It concludes:

"The whole business strikes us as an ill-considered, probably political attempt to interfere with economic principles as they operate in the movie industry. It can mean literally the death of that industry.

"We hope that McGranery will think better of it and withdraw the suit, or that it will lose out in the courts, or that Congress will kill it off if the courts don't."

The News illustrated its editorial with a still of a huge gorilla. The picture caption read: "This is King Kong, not the Attorney General."

As in the case of earlier New York newspaper editorials on the suit, some of the information for the News editorial was supplied by the Independent Theatre Owners Association of New York.

Albany's $1,050 Is 1st Compo Report

The first public report by an exchange area on the results of the drive for dues which is being conducted by the Council of Motion Picture Organizations has been made by the Albany exchange.

A total of $1,050, which is exclusive of donations by larger circuits, has been forwarded from the Albany exchange district as exhibitors' contribution to the drive.

This was revealed at a meeting in Albany yesterday, when branch managers and salesmen analyzed accounts outstanding. In Albany it is hoped to collect from $500 to $1,000 additional by the end of this week when the extended campaign will officially end.

Several major companies obtained donations from 75 per cent of the accounts assigned them, while others had less success. It is estimated that about 40 per cent of the Albany exchange exhibitors solicited have contributed to date. Larger circuit collections are being handled from New York.

COMPO reported here yesterday that indications are that the drive will be a complete success when this week's "clean-up" drive is completed, according to reports received thus far from the 33 exchanges.

Sudmin to Manage 20th's L.A. Branch

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 25.—Morris Sudmin has been promoted to manage the Los Angeles branch of 20th Century-Fox, Herman Wobber, Western 20th-Fox division manager, disclosed here.

Sudmin, with 20th-Fox the past 20 years, replaced Alex Harrison, who has been called to the home office. He is expected in New York sometime in September when he will assume an executive position, the title of which has yet to be announced. It was also announced that Rev Kniffin, former assistant branch manager in San Francisco, will become Sudmin's assistant in Los Angeles.

Salesman Paul Schmuck was promoted to the post of assistant to San Francisco manager Jack Erickson, while Joseph Flannigan, will return to the San Francisco territory as a salesman.

Jack Bellman will resign as branch manager of Realart Film Exchange of New York, effective Saturday, it was disclosed here yesterday. Al Broder will take over as manager of the exchange.

Urges Ban on Films Made in Europe By American 'Reds'

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.—Hollywood AFL Film Council chairman Roy M. Brewer tonight dispatched a letter to Congressman John W. Wood, chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, urging that the committee immediately initiate legislation banning the import of features made abroad by members of the American film industry "with membership in or loyalties to the Communist Party."

Specific reference was made to "Encounter," made in Rome, which Brewer said United Artists is contemplating releasing here, and which, the letter stated, represents the work of four Americans who either are or were Communists or are refugees from House committee subpoena. Persons named in this connection are John Weber, Bernhard Vorhaus, Joseph Losey and Ben Barzman.

The letter calls on the committee to set up legislation which will protect the country against the import of films made by persons excluded from the American industry for subversive connections or affiliations. Also, it stated that the AFL Film Council will ask United Artists to forego releasing the film, will ask all exhibitor organizations to refuse to book if offered, and, if these measures fall short, will ask all projectionists to refuse to show it.

ism. All State resolutions dealing with the issue of alleged Communism in motion pictures were referred to the Standing Commission on Americanism. The referral was a proposal by the convention committee and it was considered unlikely that any state delegation would seek to override the committee and take up a fight on the convention floor seeking approval of its resolution dealing with the industry.

In effect, the action of the Committee on Americanism tables the resolutions bearing on the industry as far as convention action goes. Five resolutions which were thus referred to the Standing Commission on Americanism came under the following headings: Motion Pictures in which any known Communist has participated (South Carolina); Urge entire entertainment industry not to employ supporters of Communist causes (Illinois); American Legion Magazine list motion pictures tainted with subversive influences (Ohio); American Legion Magazine keep constant supervision over subversive trends in motion picture industry (Kentucky); American Legion Magazine renew fight on Communism in entertainment field (Washington).

The contents of the resolutions were not made available to the press.

The Standing Commission on Americanism, which probably will be charged with studying and acting upon the above resolutions as recommended by the Legion's Americanism Committee, is slated to meet in Indianapolis sometime in October.

"The Ring"

(United Artists—King Brothers)

AGAINST the background of Mexican life in Los Angeles, a believable, effective off-beat boxing story has been fashioned by King Brothers Productions. "The Ring," despite a number of "unprofessional" performances and its low budget, has a fine authenticity.

The chief protagonist is a young Mexican, Lalo Rios, the son of a poor but proud family who takes to the ring to earn money and respect for himself and his people. The difference here, however, is that Rios is not a particularly able or intelligent fighter. After a promising start, he soon reaches a stage where, even when he follows his manager's advice to the letter, he cannot hope to better himself. After taking some terrific lickings, he learns to accept his lot and the fact that he doesn't have to beat the ears off the world to win its respect.

The screenplay, by Irving Shulman, based on his own novel, tells the simple story in a good, straightforward manner. The plight of the Mexicans in the big California city is sympathetically portrayed, although, oddly enough, some of the Mexicans seen are the shiftless, lazy kind, the stereotype of which is responsible for much anti-Mexican feeling.

The boxing sequences are excitingly photographed. Director Kurt Neumann has paced the whole production so that it packs a single neat dramatic punch. Besides Rios, Gerald Mohr and Robert Osterloh do well in the roles of fight manager and trainer, respectively. Rita Moreno is the fighter's pretty girl friend and young Robert Altuna is his admiring little brother. Maurice and Frank King are the producers.

Others in the cast include Martin Garralaga, Jack Elam and Peter Brocco.

Running time, 79 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Sept. 26.

Sets 'Dine Out, See A Movie' Campaign

Cleveland, Aug. 25.—A "Dine Out and See a Movie" advertising campaign has been instituted here by the Meyers Meat Co., wholesale meat suppliers to restaurants, with the cooperation of the Motion Picture Exhibitors League of Cleveland.

Window streamers and transportation advertising proclaim the thinking behind the message: that people will welcome the opportunity to exchange an ordinary evening of kitchen chores and television for a delicious dinner and an enjoyable motion picture.

Selznick Award to 'Cry'

"Cry, the Beloved Country" won the 1952 David O. Selznick Silver Laurel award for English films at the International Film Festival held in Edinburgh in conjunciton with the Edinburgh Festival of Drama and Music, according to news reports from Scotland. The picture was made by London Films and is distributed here by United Artists. The Silver Laurel award enables the film to compete for the Selznick Golden Laurel award in New York in October.

NT's $11,000,000 Candy-Popcorn Bill

In the three years 1949-1951, National Theatres and its subsidiaries spent close to $11,000,000 for candy, popcorn, soft drinks and other confections for sale in their theatres, the company stated in a report to the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The yearly expenditures for confections are broken down as follows: 1949, $3,920,000, 1950, $3,619,000, 1951, $3,388,000.

and Roxy Theatre, will issue to 20th-Fox as the new picture company 2,769,486 shares of its common stock and Fox will then distribute to its shareholders the common of National on the basis of one share of the new picture company's common and one share of the new theatre company's common for each share of the present picture company.

The consideration for the issuance to Fox of the shares of the common of National registered will be the transfer by Fox to the theatre company of all the capital stock of Wesco consisting of 1,000 shares of common without par value and all of the common stock of Roxy consisting of 10,000 shares without par value.

The report states that while it is the intention of National to continue the retirement plan and to continue to make contributions thereto, there is no contractual obligation to do so and the right is retained to change, amend or discontinue the plan. No change or discontinuance, however, will affect the retirement income already purchased by employes' contributions and contributions made by the company prior to any change or discontinuance.

Roxy participates in Fox's retirement plan, and such participation will be discontinued after Sept. 27.

The report states that Wesco, its subsidiaries and affiliates as of July 1 had an interest in 510 U. S. theatres, certain of which must be divested under the consent decree.

Theatres in which National will be interested through Wesco and Roxy range in type and size from small houses with as few as 250 seats to large, deluxe theatres of from 2,000 to more than 5,000 seats, the majority having between 750 and 1,500 seats. Most exhibit double feature programs, the report said.

At the end of last year, Wesco and its subsidiaries had 8,200 employes, including executives and 2,300 part-time employes, the report stated. At the beginning of last May Roxy employed about 236.

In 1950 and 1951, Wesco and subsidiaries paid $4,800,000 in film rentals to Fox, and in 1949 the payments totaled $5,750,000, according to the report. Of the total film rental payments of Wesco and subsidiaries, the foregoing averaged 26 per cent.

"Big Jim McLain"

(Warner Brothers—Wayne-Fellows)

STRONG topical interest, suspense and sharp action are the principal ingredients of this Wayne-Fellows Production about an investigator for the House Un-American Activities Committee. John Wayne, who repeatedly registers high in the Motion Picture Herald-Fame exhibitors' poll of money-making stars, has the title role. The picture was shot in Hawaii. Co-starring is Nancy Olson.

The story opens on a familiar note: The scene is Washington at a hearing of the Un-American Activities Committee. A suspected Communist, tracked down by Wayne and his partner James Arness, is challenged with a pertinent question about his alleged Red affiliations and—as have many others on similar occasions—balks at answering on grounds of the Fifth Amendment.

This infuriates the two investigators but they accept another assignment to probe a Red cell in Hawaii—a vital link to the Orient—where Communist sabotage and trouble making in labor unions can prove very harmful to the nation's defense efforts. Wayne's first lead comes from a visit to a doctor's office where Miss Olson is secretary.

From that point on, Wayne and Arness track down other tips and leads; becomes involved in fights; trace a Hawaiian who was once an official of the party but is now sick and discarded by his colleagues; and finally round up the gronp with the help of the Hawaiian police after Wayne's partner has been murdered.

While generally interesting, "Big Jim McLain" seems overlong and awkwardly edited in certain spots. However, the action and theme offer considerable compensation. Robert Fellows produced, Edward Ludwig directed and James Edward Grant wrote the original screenplay. Others in the cast are Alan Napier, Veda Ann Borg, Gayne Whitman and Hal Baylor.

Running time, 90 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Aug. 30.

Downtown Theatres Committee, the greatest stimulant to assure success of the promotion was a free ride given one way to all adults and children going into the Loop on the buses and street cars of the Minneapolis Street Railway Co. between the hours of seven and nine P.M.

Adults and children leaving the buses and street cars in the Loop were offered numbered coupons and if a number corresponded with one of the approximately 1,000 numbers posted in their lobbies they were admitted free of charge. However, bus and street car operators ran out of coupons. Because of the huge demand it was estimated that eight persons out of every 100 holding coupons were admitted free to the theatres. A vast majority of the others paid their way. Many Loop stores which had remained closed during previous Thursday Evenings stayed open and all stores cooperated by offering bargains for the family night promotion.

The crowds brought into the Loop were an increase of 6,500 persons over the previous all-time high of 3,500 persons for a Thursday night. The promotion will be held every week from now on.

Fred A. Ossanna, president of the transit firm, said: "We hope this experiment will show other cities that by sitting and talking across the table they can cooperate to solve their own Loop problems. The promotion idea has resulted in editors of eight national magazines inquiring for details about the promotion."

Tomorrow, Alexander, Harry Weiss, division manager of RKO Theatres, Ted Mann, Co-operator of the World, first run Loop house, St. Paul, and Ray Wroble, manager of the RKO Orpheum; St. Paul Transit officials and representatives of St. Paul Loop stores will meet with Matt Thompson, secretary of the St. Paul Association of Commerce to discuss a similar promotion for St. Paul with the view to making Thursday evenings a joint Twin City affair.

The Minneapolis Loop promotion was launched in an effort to recapture business that heretofore has been going in greater strength to the shopping centers in the suburbs. The promotion included an extensive publicity campaign.

not ruled out film censorship as such and that carefully worded ordinances can be drawn to prevent the showing of films on grounds that they are "obscene, indecent, immoral or profane."

McCabe offered to prepare such an ordinance and expressed the opinion that films cannot be censored on other grounds. He revealed that his proposed ordinance would merely give the licensing bureau legislation specifically authorizing it to censor motion pictures in the four fields he prescribed.

McCabe explained that his report and recommendations were based on the belief that the high court rulings, while they make films a means of communication rather than entertainment, still did not leave the way open for absolute freedom on all subjects. Other court decisions used in the motion picture cases support that view, he said.

The record-breaking business of "Ivanhoe" at the Radio City Music Hall continues. For its fourth week, a terrific $165,000 is seen, topping off a three week gross of $520,000, the largest in the Hall's history. The Hall, to accommodate Labor Day audiences, will open its doors at 7:45 A.M. Monday, allowing the house an extra performance.

The fifth and final week of "Jumping Jacks" at the Paramount is estimated to gross a robust $67,000. "The Crimson Pirate" opens there tomorrow.

A good $38,000 is seen for the third inning of "Sudden Fear" at Loew's State, while a fine $25,000 is estimated for the fifth week of "High Noon" at the Mayfair.

"The Big Sky" opened to a very nice $40,000 for its first week at the Criterion. The initial seven days of "Francis Goes to West Point" was a bit disappointing at $9,500. It will be replaced at the Globe on Friday with "Devil Makes Three."

"Affairs of Trinidad" is holding up at the Victoria with a sturdy $27,500 estimated for its fourth week. A moderately good $19,000 is forecast for the second inning of "Les Miserables" at the Rivoli.

Among off-Broadway houses, a sturdy $6,600 is indicated for the 21st stanza of the "Man in the White Suit" at the Sutton, while a fine $5,000 is seen for the 21st week of "Encore" at the Normandie.

During the first quarter of 1952, theatres paid £10,139,000 in entertainment tax and £772,000 in Eady levy. Net takings amounted to £18,042,000, compared with £16,880,000 in the previous quarter. Film rentals were £6,380,000, leaving as the exhibitors' share £11,662,000, compared with £11,078,000 in the previous quarter.

Included in the survey for the first time are the costs and revenues of British films 6,500 feet or over during 1950. There were 61 films in this category, of which only eight were produced without distributors' financial assistance or guarantee. In the case of seven films, distributors provided or guaranteed the whole cost.

In 1950, British producers received £228,000 for their films from abroad. From the home market in the same year British producers got £4,540,000, with an additional £104,000 from outright sales. There was no Eady distribution in 1950, so the aggregate amount taken by British producers that year was around £7,000,000.

Seek Receivership For Scophony Corp.

Three stockholders of the old Scophony Corp. of America yesterday filed in New York Supreme Court a suit asking that a temporary receiver be set up for the company. The request was accompanied by the allegation that Arthur Levey, president of Skiatron Electronics and Television Corp., unauthorizedly received returns from settlements with General Precision, Television Productions and British Scophony preparatory to the formation of Skiatron.

The suing stockholders are John A. Stephen, Otto Augstein and Hans L. Kraft who, according to the complaint held a total of 250 Scophony shares and invested $90,000 in the processing of old patents by the now defunct company.

On Friday approximately 80 per cent of Skiatron stockholders voted in favor of a new stock issue to raise $270,000 for the company's projected subscription television test.

To Film Eleven Games for Video

An agreement between leading collegiate organizations and Sportsvision, Inc. and Consolidated Television Sales to film a leading college football game each week of the season for home TV distribution was disclosed here yesterday by Peter M. Robeck, general manager of Consolidated Television Sales.

The program, titled "The All American Game of the Week," will be shown on days subsequent to the event. The announcement, which stated that the program would be sold to individual stations rather than networks, said it would be a partial answer to the TV curtailment program of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

LONDON, Aug. 25. — Rupert Somervell will retire as under-secretary of the Board of Trade Sept. 30 and will be succeeded by Sidney Golt, present head of the Board's films division.

Somervell has participated in most of the previous British government negotiations with the American film industry on remittance of earnings and restrictions on blocked funds. Because of his impending retirement, he will not accompany Sir Frank Lee and Golt to Washington next month, where discussions on the new Anglo-American remittance agreement will be inaugurated.

TexasShowmenBack Hospital Fund Drive

DALLAS, Aug. 25.—Robert J. O'Donnell and H. A. Cole, co-chairmen of Texas COMPO Showmen, have been selected to head the 1952 Texas Theatres Crippled Children's Fund Drive for the benefit of the Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation to be held Aug. 31 through Sept. 6. Practically all the exhibitors in the state have pledged to exhibit a special trailer and take up theatre collections.

Texas COMPO will present a special award for distinguished service to the showman who makes the outstanding showing in the drive in relation to the size of his community.

The trailer which features Joan Crawford, a native Texan, and Beverly Mills of Smiley, Texas, a young girl who has been successfully treated at the Foundation, was directed by David Miller and produced in the studios of RKO. O'Donnell made special arrangements with Herman Robbins who in turn made National Screen Service production facilities available at cost. NSS in Dallas under Paul Short, divisional manager, will make distribution at no cost to the Foundation.

Distributors' Arbitration Action Pends

TOA Convention Agenda Waits Decision on Draft

Following an all afternoon meeting here yesterday of a Motion Picture Association of America sales managers sub-committee on the new draft of a projected industry arbitration system, it was reported that the draft soon will be presented to all the companies for approval, amendment or rejection.

The companies are expected to act on the document within the next two weeks. Actually, the distributors have three weeks in which to signify acceptance of an arbitration draft if Theatre Owners of America is to have a chance to vote on it at the organization's annual convention in Washington Sept. 14-18.

The sub-committee that met yesterday included William F. Rodgers of Loew's, chairman of the distributors'

Rachmil Says Showmen Owe Better Films Better Houses

By CHARLES FRANKE

Theatre owners throughout the U. S. who have not redecorated their houses in the past 10 to 20 years owe it to themselves to visit New York's Radio City Music Hall to determine the extent to which they have been lax in offering their customers necessary comforts and service, Lewis Rachmil, Hollywood producer, declared here yesterday.

Rachmil said that while Hollywood has been doing its part during the past year to put the industry again on the trail to prosperity by producing larger numbers of top-quality films, exhibitors in general have not taken the trouble to win increased patronage by adding to theatre comforts and improving service. Architectural improvements, in particular, are needed in many of the theatres he has visited, Rachmil said.

The Screen Producers Guild is fearful that before long there will be a shortage of producers in Hollywood for the making of product for theatres, considering the rate at which many film-makers are turning to producing for television, according to Rachmil.

Johnston to Speak At President's Banquet of TOA

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. — Motion Picture Association of America president Eric Johnston will address the president's banquet at the Theatre Owners of America convention to be held here at the Shoreham Hotel, Sept. 14-18.

In addition to the estimated 700 TOA members and guests who are expected to be present at the banquet, many company presidents and other industry leaders have been invited to attend.

At the same time, TOA president Mitchell Wolfson disclosed a letter he has sent out to all TOA members, pointing out the significance of the convention, which he called "the most important ever held."

Company presidents who have been invited to attend are: Harry M. Warner, Warner Brothers; Milton R. Racknil, Universal; Arthur B. Krim, United Artists; Nicholas M. Schenck, Loew's; Spyros P. Skouras, 20th Century-Fox; Herbert J. Yates, Republic Pictures; Ned E. Depinet,

Senate Group Calls RWG Red Controlled

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—A Senate Judiciary sub-committee declared today that the Radio Writers Guild is controlled by a pro-Communist faction. At the same time Judiciary Committee Chairman Pat McCarran (D., Nev.) declared in a statement that since the Radio Writers Guild may "obtain jurisdiction" over the television writers, "Television must keep its house clean."

Named by both McCarran and the sub-committee as a leader in the pro-Communist group was Millard Lampell, who was, briefly, a Hollywood screen-writer.

The information was contained in a report issued by the Judiciary sub-committee which held intermittent hearings over the past year and a half on subversive infiltration.

Technicolor Half Year Profit Steady

Consolidated net profit of Technicolor, Inc., for the six months ended June 30 was estimated by the company yesterday at $1,025,420, after taxes. The result compares with net profit for the first half of 1951 of $1,061,395, with taxes for the 1951 period adjusted to the effective rate paid for the entire year.

Technicolor's consolidated net for the second quarter of the current year is estimated to be $506,472, compared with $571,624 for the corresponding quarter last year.

Profit for the first half of this year is equivalent to $1.10 per share compared with earnings of $1.14 per share for the corresponding period last year.

NPA to Lift Building Ban After April 1

Golden Sees Prod to Drive-in Building

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. — The National Production Authority today announced it would remove the ban on theatre building after April 1 and would permit limited amounts of controlled materials to be self-authorized after that date.

Under the current NPA set-up there is no self-authorization for theatre building and theatre construction may be authorized only after hardship is proven. The new order would permit theatre builders to apply for NPA authorization in the same manner as any other builder.

In the opinion of Nathan D. Golden, NPA film chief, the amount of controlled materials which may be self-authorized will assure substantial building of drive-in theatres. He declared, however, that the self-authorized amounts would not be sufficient

Film Personalities To Aid Ind. Fair

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 26. — Marjorie Main, Rex Allen, Forrest Tucker, Tony Romano and Bill Shirley are expected here late this week as Hollywood's goodwill ambassadors to the film exhibit, sponsored by the Allied Theatre Owners of Indiana, which will be displayed in conjunction with the State Fair. While the Fair opens Thursday, the motion picture exhibit will not get underway until Saturday.

The Hollywood delegation, according to ATOI secretary William A. Carroll, will greet visitors in the film tenthouse museum, which will feature displays furnished by the studios. They also are in demand already for guest appearances on radio broadcasts.

The fair and the film exhibit will continue through Sept. 6, to be followed the next week by another statewide "Movietime, U.S.A." drive.

Factor of N.Y. Telecast Enters IBC-TNT Talks

Whether television equipped theatres in New York will be allowed to telecast the Jersey Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano heavyweight championship bout, slated for Sept. 23 in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium, is a factor in the negotiations being conducted by Theatre Network Television and the International Boxing Club, it was learned here yesterday.

The proximity of New York to the site of the bout leads the IBC to feel that if the title match is telecast in nearly a dozen theatres here, the gate at Philadelphia would suffer. It was explained, however, that the IBC has not called for a "blackout" in New York theatres, but is seeking a higher price for theatre TV rights in New York theatres than elsewhere, if they are included in the deal.

Herman Taylor, co-promoter of the bout, already has called for a theatre television "blackout" in Philadelphia and the area around Marciano's home town in Brockton, Mass.

Meanwhile, Robert Mochrie, RKO Radio distribution vice-president, said he expects to have an announcement regarding film rights to the bout later in the week. The entrance of RKO Radio into the negotiations would considerably strengthen the hand of Theatre Network Television in keeping the bout off home television, it is believed.

The possibility that the bout, considered one of the top fistic attractions in years with a $1,000,000 gate forecast, will go to home television was not discounted by an IBC spokesman, who said the networks still are actively negotiating for the event.

Co-promoter Taylor's proposed Brockton, Mass., area "blackout" would affect four TV-equipped theatres in Eastern New England, with a seating capacity of 9,225. The theatres are: Pilgrim, Boston; Loew's State and Paramount, Lynn, Mass.; and Carleton, Providence. There is a possibility, however, that the latter would be exempt from the New England "blackout."

Censorship Ruling A Boon: Preminger

The Supreme Court rulings restricting motion picture censorship will prove the biggest boon to the film business in many years, producer-director Otto Preminger predicted here yesterday. Preminger, who recently completed "The Murder," at RKO Radio, is currently in New York to find a play to be produced here.

"In time," he said, "there will be as little censorship in the movies as in the theatre. That will be healthy for the picture business. It will give us an opportunity to get away from the hackneyed plots and stilted endings that are required now.

"Freedom from censorship doesn't mean we have a right to make pictures in bad taste. I don't mean pictures should be dirty—or that books should be, either, for that matter—but we've got to get away from the standardized plots, and this will give us the incentive."

Preminger said that the industry's Production Code was not as strict as its interpretation; but that on the other hand there was a definite swing toward more freedom. "For instance, 'Detective Story' could not have been made several years ago. But it was handled well, and no one found it objectionable."

Boxoffice receipts during the past few months are proof that Hollywood is making pictures more to the public's liking, the producer said. "That crisis we underwent last year was a good thing for our business," he said. "When 'anything went', business got out of hand. Now we're taking a more realistic attitude."

Twentieth Century-Fox will release a total of 40 short subjects in 1953, it was announced here yesterday by Peter G. Levathes, short subjects sales manager.

The line-up will consist of 26 new Terrytoons and four reissues, all in color by Technicolor; six Movietone sport reels; two Movietone specials (single reels); and two Lew Lehr reissues.

Rachmil Says

That is why, he explained, the Guild has established an annual intercollegiate film award to be presented to the best student-produced film turned out by 69 colleges and universities. The winning student-producers could be recruited by Hollywood, he intimated.

Rachmil, who himself received his early film producing education at Yale, is confident the awards plan will succeed in bringing new talent to Hollywood. His latest picture is G. B. Shaw's "Androcles and the Lion," produced in conjunction with Gabriel Pascal for RKO Radio. He termed it a picture that has "popular appeal" but which, nevertheless, qualifies for pre-pre-release and pre-release engagements before its general run.

Rachmil will fly back to Hollywood next Tuesday.

"The Crimson Pirate"

(Warner Bros.—Norman Prod.)

SHOWMEN have a solid, well-done adventure picture with plenty of exploitation angles on which to exercise their talents for promotion in "The Crimson Pirate." Burt Lancaster and his foil, Nick Cravat, keep the film, in color by Technicolor, spinning along at a fast and merry pace from beginning to end.

As Lancaster himself announces at the start, the film is the story of the last cruise of the Crimson Pirate, wherein Lancaster in the title role gets involved in a war of rebellion on the part of a Caribbean people against their European king. It begins innocently when the pirate captures a king's ship whose only cargo is guns. Lancaster plans to sell these to the rebels and then make a double haul by selling the rebels to the king. Eva Bartok, lovely daughter of the rebel chief, however, appears to complicate his mercenary motives. The climax finds Lancaster and Cravat, sold out by their pirate crew, rescuing Miss Bartok from a fate worse than death and then winning back their pirate ship.

The climax is a masterpiece of colorful action and special effects. Under the directon of a not-so-crack-pot scientist, James Hayter, the rebels build and use to good effect: repeating cannons, TNT, a balloon for high-level bombing and one of the world's first submarines.

The film is perhaps a bit too long, but director Robert Siodmak has done an admirable job in keeping the action of the Roland Kibbee screenplay in hand. Lending good support to the star are Torin Thatcher as a mutinous but ethical pirate and Leslie Bradley as the chief enforcement officer of the king. Harold Hecht produced for Norman Productions.

Running time, 104 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, September 27.

"The Rose Bowl Story"

(Monogram) Hollywood, August 26

GOOD in any season but ideal for the rapidly approaching football season is this solid, entertaining story in which the annual Pasadena Rose Bowl classic figures, but not to the exclusion of the story line and the personalities involved in it. It's sensible, human and humorous—a bright, ticket selling attraction for exhibitors everywhere.

Filmed in Cinecolor, it has Marshall Thompson in the role of an ambitious big-time grid star for a Midwestern college who comes to Pasadena for the New Year's Day classic. He dates a mink-coated girl who turns out to have borrowed the garb and to be the plain daughter of some working folks. Small, unsensational incidents much more like life than fiction lead to his realization that his money-ridden ideas about football and love were both wrong. To this mainline of story are appended subordinate threads that round out a completely satisfying whole.

Thompson handles the top acting job with effective restraint, and Vera Miles, Natalie Wood, Keith Larsen and James Dobson supply convincing support. The gridiron teams are composed of some of the best professional and collegiate football players in the country, although they go unbilled, as do the teams they represent. That happy arrangement makes the attraction as appropriate for one part of the country as another.

Richard Heerman produced for Walter Mirisch, executive producer, and William Beaudine gave it one of his finest directorial handlings. Charles R. Martin did the writing.

Running time, 73 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, August 28.

"Secret People"

(Lippert-Ealing) Hollywood, Aug. 26

WATCHING this British-made melodrama is a little like working a crossword puzzle to which no one tells you until you're finished there's no answer. When the British go in for deep-dyed villainy and deeply-hidden motivation they go deep indeed, often, as in this instance, so deep that the bottom arrived at seems hardly to have warranted the digging. Specifically, the handicap the audience carries in its contemplation of the intricate and dastardly goings-on here is its lack of knowledge as to the identity of the sinister organization—referred to steadily and always as "the organization"—which goes to fantastic lengths to involve a couple of orphanned sisters in assassinations (assignations, too) and other illegal activities. The picture's prospects in the States aren't bright.

In the screenplay by Thorold Dickinson and Wolfgang Wilhelm, Valentina Cortesa and Audrey Hepburn portray sisters, possibly Italian, maybe not, who come to London when an unidentified tyrant kills their father, evidently a liberalist leader, and in seven years (by 1937, that is) become naturalized citizens. About then a former sweetheart of the elder shows up, whereupon they renew what seems to have been a completely informal romance, which goes well until he ropes her into taking a bomb to a party which a confederate uses for an assassination attempt that kills the wrong victim. She confesses her complicity to Scotland Yard, her former pals try to kill her but fail, and the Yard fixes her up with a new identity which she wears until, finding her former lover trying again with her sister, she reveals her identity and gets killed by his pal, who happens to be standing by with a convenient knife. (If this sounds complicated—it should).

The name of the producer is Sidney Cole, and the direction is by the Thorold Dickinson who collaborated on the script.

Running time, 88 minutes. Adult audience classification. Release date not set.

Arnall Returns to SIMPP Sept. 1

Ellis G. Arnall, who has been on leave from the presidency of the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers during the past several months while serving as U. S. Price Stabilizer, is scheduled to return to his SIMPP post on Sept. 1, it was learned here yesterday.

Arnall, a former governor of Georgia who also has a law practice in Atlanta, is expected to serve SIMPP in the future out of that city, with visits to New York and Hollywood as required.

bership in or loyalties to the Communist Party."

Benjamin and William J. Heineman, UA distribution vice-president, said the distribution deal for the picture was made over a year ago. They were at a loss to state whether or not it would be possible for UA to withdraw from the contract in light of the hostility the film has aroused.

Sent Letter to Wood

In a letter to Congressman John W. Wood, chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, Roy M. Brewer, chairman of the Hollywood Council, urged that the committee immediately initiate legislation banning the import of motion pictures such as "Encounter" is alleged to be.

"Encounter" was described by Brewer in his letter as the work of four Americans who either are or were Communists or are refugees from House committee subpoena. Named in this connection are John Weber, Bernhard Vorhaus, Joseph Losey and Ben Barzman.

Benjamin said UA executives have not yet viewed "Encounter."

Arbitration

arbitration negotiating committee; Abe Montague of Columbia, and attorneys of these and other companies. It is understood that some changes in the draft of a relatively minor character were made at their meeting. A lawyers' drafting committee consisting of Herman M. Levy of TOA, Abram F. Myers of Allied, Adolph Schimel of Universal and Robert W. Perkins of Warners, prepared the draft here last week.

The drafting committee members may be asked meanwhile to initial whatever changes were made in the document, but clarification on this point is expected to be made today.

TOA indicated yesterday that it is anxiously awaiting word of the distributors' action on the draft in order to know whether or not arbitration can be put on the organization's convention agenda. The TOA membership, like the memberships of the other organizations and groups which participated in the Industry Arbitration Conference, must ratify the draft. But the distributors must do so first, according to an arrangement previously made. Allied's convention and board meeting, Nov. 15-19, also is scheduled to act on the draft.

Moreover, the Industry Arbitration Conference, according to the original plan, will have to reconvene to discuss and pass on a draft. When this would be was not clear in the minds of arbitration conferees yesterday. Finally, of course, the Department of Justice and the U. S. Statutory Court would have to approve the draft for it to be included in the industry anti-trust suit decree.

The draft stipulates that following approval by all participating groups, a three-month period will be used to set up arbitration machinery on national and exchange area bases. It states also that a test period of 18 months will follow to determine the workability of the system agreed upon.

Bidding, it was pointed out yesterday, would be arbitrated under the draft on virtually an "all-inclusive" basis. Excluded, in this connection, are any controversies arising out of pricing of films.

Put Pidgeon in Line To Succeed Reagan

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 26.—The Screen Actors Guild nominating committee tonight placed Walter Pidgeon in line for election to the presidency, to succeed Ronald Reagan, who has decided to retire from that office after a five year occupancy. Reagan will continue as a member of the board and the executive committee.

In the THEATRE
Equipment World . . .
. . with RAY GALLO

AN expansion of activity in the theatre equipment business is reported by Motiograph, manufacturers of motion picture proecjtors and sound systems. The company reveals its production of 16mm sound projection equipment is at a peak. Orders also reflect much activity in drive-in construction.

A new catalogue describing its line of drive-in theatre equipment has just been released by the Ballantyne Co. of Omaha. This is the first catalogue to describe the new "Ez-Erect" Boyer pre-fabricated screen tower, which Ballantyne distributes exclusively. The tower has a picture size with two-foot masking of 35 by 48 feet; withous masking, 39 by 52 feet. Overall dimension of the tower is 52 feet wide and 56 feet high. A picture size of 43 by 56 feet is also available. All timbers are Douglas Fir, and hardware and Transite screen facing are included. Complete plans are furnished for erection.

A new outdoor lamp holder making use of a high temperature, silicon rubber cushion-seal designed to withstand both heat and adverse weather conditions has been announced by the Stonco Electric Products Co. of Kenilworth, N. J. Known as the "Stonco Cushion-Seal Holder," the unit seals the lamp low at its neck and exposes its hot spot area to open air cooling. It adapts itself to fit all R-40 and PAR-38 lamps, whether long, short oroff-center. By cradling the lamp in a rubber cushion grip, the Cushion-Seal helps protect the lamp against traffic vibration, pole sway, and shock. The manufacturer points out that light weight holders of this type provide brilliant floodlighting for large areas while single lamp units make supplementary highlighting for outdoor display.

Poblocki and Sons, Milwaukee, has installed new Permascreens in two drive-ins in Johnson City, Tenn. They are Bernie Wylie's Tri-City Drive-in and his new King Spring Drive-in. Permascreen consists of steel plates with a surface of vitreous enamel fused on for mounting on existing or new drive-in towers. It was developed to eliminate paint as the light reflecting material.

A new circular describing its line of floor machines for floors, rugs and carpets has been issued by the Hild Floor Machine Co., Chicago. Specifications for six different models are described, including attachments and special parts available.

NPA to Lift

to build indoor theatres.

The NPA order also declared that builders may apply to NPA for controlled materials in excess of the amounts they are permitted to self-authorize.

Under the order theatre builders will be able to self-authorize in each quarter up to five tons of carbon steel, not to include more than two tons of all types of structural steel shapes; 500 pounds of copper and copper base alloys and 300 pounds of aluminum.

Until now, Golden pointed out, no aluminum was permitted in theatre construction.

In addition, the NPA order said that self-authorizing builders may use in each project up to $15,000 worth of building equipment and materials which need a rating authority. Such materials do not include controlled items. Builders may also use up to $5,000 for production equipment and machinery per project without authorization.

It will be possible, Golden said, for theatre builders wishing to use more than the self-authorized amounts of controlled materials permitted in each quarter to do so by slowing down the construction process. Thus, he pointed out, a theatre owner wishing to construct a small drive-in may do so with the amounts of materials he can authorize in one quarter. An exhibitor wishing to build a larger drive-in may start his construction with his self-authorized amount for one quarter, keep down the pace of construction and then add to the structure the amounts of materials he can authorize for the following quarter. It would be possible, Golden said, to use in this fashion for one theatre the amount of materials the exhibitor may authorize for four quarters.

With the April effective date, Golden declared, theatre builders have plenty of time to buy, plan and grade their sites, before beginning construction. The NPA order stated that self-authorizing builders may place their purchase orders up to the amount specified at any time between now and April 1, but they may not have delivery before then.

NPA said it would review the construction situation again at the end of October with an eye to fixing an effective date earlier than April 1.

The NPA order grew out of a meeting today between the construction industry advisory committee and NPA officials.

ferential bookings to Century theatres in surrounding areas which are not in competition with the plaintiff. Under the RKO product split, the plaintiff contends, the Criterion should get seven days clearance, but instead has been pushed over to 14 days.

Last year Lavellon filed a similar suit charging it was discriminated against in terms of clearance under the Loew's split. The action was discontinued on the condition that seven-day clearance would be accorded the Criterion.

National Pre-Selling

THE first annual movie edition of American Weekly, released next Sunday through Hearst newspapers to 30,000,000 readers, has met with great enthusiasm on the part of both large and small theatre circuits and operators, throughout the country. The entire press overrun of 600,000 copies will be distributed in non-Hearst areas, with Fox Midwest leading the field, with a purchase of 200,000 copies. Others who have bought are Interstate Theatres, 95,000 copies; Florida State Theatres, 50,000 copies; Wilby and Kincey Theatres (via Rebel Poster Exchange) 40,000 copies; Cooper Foundations Theatres, 20,000; with other amounts for Loew's, Walter Reade, Minneapolis Amusement, Penn Paramount, Intermountain and Tri-State Theatres.

The Fox Midwest house organ, Contact, says "when the advance copy of this brilliant issue reached our division office, it received a more enthusiastic response from district managers and bookers than any piece of printed matter ever before put out; it is a potent boost for pictures." The issue contains the first listing of winners in the new American Weekly Motion Picture Awards, with "The Greatest Show On Earth" leading 10 top pictures and performances. There are full-page, full-color ads for Mario Lanza in "Because You're Mine" and the new Technicolor production of "What Price Glory."

Roy Rogers appears in a string of full-page, full-color ads across the country, notably in the 4,000,000-circulation Sunday News in New York, to offer kids who read the comics a chance to "win your own palomino pony" with the sponsorship of General Foods Corp. There's no mention of Roy Rogers Riders Clubs, or the movies, in this advertising. It's a costly outlay, but the theatres are not even catching a ride. Roy is coming to Madison Square Garden with his own in-person Rodeo show, Sept. 24 through Oct. 19, and tickets are already on sale, priced at $1.75 to $6.00, with children half-price at Wednesday and Friday matinees.

Look, dated Sept. 9, and out today, features a double-truck, center-fold advertisement for Republic's wild, romantic comedy, "The Quiet Man" which dominates the book. There's a two-page story "Hollywood On Its Toes" describing the ballet in six new films, from "American In Paris" to "Hans Christian Andersen" with pictures of Leslie Caron, Jeanmarie and Moira Shearer, who is starred in MGM's "Story of Three Loves." . . . Those Woman's Home Companion approved movies for September, and no error in judgement on the part of Phillip Hartung, are "The Quiet Man" — "Ivanhoe" — "The World In His Arms" and "Sudden Fear" with a round dozen of runners-up, and MGM's "Movie Calendar of the Month" on a near-by color page. . . . Redbook nominates "Where's Charley" as its September candidate for the Silver Cup, with "Ivanhoe"—"The Happy Time"—"Son of Paleface" and "The Big Sky" as runners-up. It's not too difficult to pick a handful of pictures in these months.

Distributors' Arbitration Action Pends

Following an all afternoon meeting here yesterday of a Motion Picture Association of America sales managers sub-committee on the new draft of a projected industry arbitration system, it was reported that the draft soon will be presented to all the companies for approval, amendment or rejection.

The companies are expected to act on the document within the next two weeks. Actually, the distributors have three weeks in which to signify acceptance of an arbitration draft if Theatre Owners of America is to have a chance to vote on it at the organization's annual convention in Washington Sept. 14-18.

The sub-committee that met yesterday included William F. Rodgers of Loew's, chairman of the distributors'

$1,050,000 Trust Action Names Five

A $1,050,000 triple-damage anti-trust action naming RKO Pictures, Warner Brothers, 20th Century-Fox, Universal and Century Theatres yesterday was filed in U. S. District Court here by Lavellon Amusement Corp., operator of the Criterion, East Rockaway, L. I.

The complaint charges that the defendants-distributors discriminated against the Criterion by giving pre-

Rachmil Says Showmen Owe Better Films Better Houses

By CHARLES FRANKE

Theatre owners throughout the U. S. who have not redecorated their houses in the past 10 to 20 years owe it to themselves to visit New York's Radio City Music Hall to determine the extent to which they have been lax in offering their customers necessary comforts and service, Lewis Rachmil, Hollywood producer, declared here yesterday.

Rachmil said that while Hollywood has been doing its part during the past year to put the industry again on the trail to prosperity by producing larger numbers of top-quality films, exhibitors in general have not taken the trouble to win increased patronage by adding to theatre comforts and improving service. Architectural improvements, in particular, are needed in many of the theatres he has visited, Rachmil said.

The Screen Producers Guild is fearful that before long there will be a shortage of producers in Hollywood for the making of product for theatres, considering the rate at which many film-makers are turning to producing for television, according to Rachmil.

Johnston to Speak At President's Banquet of TOA

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. — Motion Picture Association of America president Eric Johnston will address the president's banquet at the Theatre Owners of America convention to be held here at the Shoreham Hotel, Sept. 14-18.

In addition to the estimated 700 TOA members and guests who are expected to be present at the banquet, many company presidents and other industry leaders have been invited to attend.

At the same time, TOA president Mitchell Wolfson disclosed a letter he has sent out to all TOA members, pointing out the significance of the convention, which he called "the most important ever held."

Company presidents who have been invited to attend are: Harry M. Warner, Warner Brothers; Milton R. Racknil, Universal; Arthur B. Krim, United Artists; Nicholas M. Schenck, Loew's; Spyros P. Skouras, 20th Century-Fox; Herbert J. Yates, Republic Pictures; Ned E. Depinet,

Senate Group Calls RWG Red Controlled

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—A Senate Judiciary sub-committee declared today that the Radio Writers Guild is controlled by a pro-Communist faction. At the same time Judiciary Committee Chairman Pat McCarran (D., Nev.) declared in a statement that since the Radio Writers Guild may "obtain jurisdiction" over the television writers, "Television must keep its house clean."

Named by both McCarran and the sub-committee as a leader in the pro-Communist group was Millard Lampell, who was, briefly, a Hollywood screen-writer.

The information was contained in a report issued by the Judiciary sub-committee which held intermittent hearings over the past year and a half on subversive infiltration.

Technicolor Half Year Profit Steady

Consolidated net profit of Technicolor, Inc., for the six months ended June 30 was estimated by the company yesterday at $1,025,420, after taxes. The result compares with net profit for the first half of 1951 of $1,061,395, with taxes for the 1951 period adjusted to the effective rate paid for the entire year.

Technicolor's consolidated net for the second quarter of the current year is estimated to be $506,472, compared with $571,624 for the corresponding quarter last year.

Profit for the first half of this year is equivalent to $1.10 per share compared with earnings of $1.14 per share for the corresponding period last year.

Monogram Buys 2 Mandel Exchanges

Hollywood, Aug. 26.—Monogram has purchased Monogram franchise-operated exchanges in Chicago and Indianapolis from Irving Mandel, with the operation effective Tuesday. Acquisition gives Monogram a total of 15 company-owned exchanges in the U. S., with 16 others franchise-owned.

NPA to Lift Building Ban After April 1

Golden Sees Prod to Drive-in Building

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. — The National Production Authority today announced it would remove the ban on theatre building after April 1 and would permit limited amounts of controlled materials to be self-authorized after that date.

Under the current NPA set-up there is no self-authorization for theatre building and theatre construction may be authorized only after hardship is proven. The new order would permit theatre builders to apply for NPA authorization in the same manner as any other builder.

In the opinion of Nathan D. Golden, NPA film chief, the amount of controlled materials which may be self-authorized will assure substantial building of drive-in theatres. He declared, however, that the self-authorized amounts would not be sufficient

File $927,000 Trust Suit in New Mexico

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26.—An anti-trust action seeking $927,000 in treble damages has been filed against major distributors and the Griffith circuit in Federal court at Albuquerque, N. M., on behalf of Mary E. Traub and the El Capitan Theatre, Roswell, N. M., it was revealed here today by Weller & Corinblit and Kenny & Morris, counsel for the plaintiffs.

In addition to damages, the suit seeks to require Griffith to dispose of six theatres in Roswell which, it is alleged, the circuit acquired through monopoly and illegal use of its circuit buying power.

Film Personalities To Aid Ind. Fair

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 26. — Marjorie Main, Rex Allen, Forrest Tucker, Tony Romano and Bill Shirley are expected here late this week as Hollywood's goodwill ambassadors to the film exhibit, sponsored by the Allied Theatre Owners of Indiana, which will be displayed in conjunction with the State Fair. While the Fair opens Thursday, the motion picture exhibit will not get underway until Saturday.

The Hollywood delegation, according to ATOI secretary William A. Carroll, will greet visitors in the film tenthouse museum, which will feature displays furnished by the studios. They also are in demand already for guest appearances on radio broadcasts.

The fair and the film exhibit will continue through Sept. 6, to be followed the next week by another statewide "Movietime, U.S.A." drive.

Factor of N.Y. Telecast Enters IBC-TNT Talks

Whether television equipped theatres in New York will be allowed to telecast the Jersey Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano heavyweight championship bout, slated for Sept. 23 in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium, is a factor in the negotiations being conducted by Theatre Network Television and the International Boxing Club, it was learned here yesterday.

The proximity of New York to the site of the bout leads the IBC to feel that if the title match is telecast in nearly a dozen theatres here, the gate at Philadelphia would suffer. It was explained, however, that the IBC has not called for a "blackout" in New York theatres, but is seeking a higher price for theatre TV rights in New York theatres than elsewhere, if they are included in the deal.

Herman Taylor, co-promoter of the bout, already has called for a theatre television "blackout" in Philadelphia and the area around Marciano's home town in Brockton, Mass.

Meanwhile, Robert Mochrie, RKO Radio distribution vice-president, said he expects to have an announcement regarding film rights to the bout later in the week. The entrance of RKO Radio into the negotiations would considerably strengthen the hand of Theatre Network Television in keeping the bout off home television, it is believed.

The possibility that the bout, considered one of the top fistic attractions in years with a $1,000,000 gate forecast, will go to home television was not discounted by an IBC spokesman, who said the networks still are actively negotiating for the event.

Co-promoter Taylor's proposed Brockton, Mass., area "blackout" would affect four TV-equipped theatres in Eastern New England, with a seating capacity of 9,225. The theatres are: Pilgrim, Boston; Loew's State and Paramount, Lynn, Mass.; and Carleton, Providence. There is a possibility, however, that the latter would be exempt from the New England "blackout."

Northwest Exhibitors Seek to Join COMPO

Application for membership in the Council of Motion Picture Organizations has been made by the Theatre Owners of Washington, Northern Idaho and Alaska, it was announced yesterday by COMPO headquarters.

The application was made in a letter from J. M. Hone, executive secretary of the exhibitor group, to Robert W. Coyne, COMPO special counsel.

2nd Hartford Paper Holds Ad Rate Line

Hartford, Aug. 26.—Following the precedent set by the Hartford Times which raised its advertising rates generally, but did not touch the amusement ad charge, the Hartford Courant, which will have a general rate raise Monday, will leave its amusement ad rate the same as it has been since December, 1950. In a letter to theatre advertisers, John L. Coughlin, advertising director, said: "I want you to know that we are trying to help you out of your difficulties."

See $2-Million Profit For B & K's WBKB

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. — WBKB, Balaban and Katz's Chicago television station, is expected to show a profit of more than $2,000,000 in 1952, informed sources revealed today.

This places the station as one of the nation's top television outlets, outranked only by the key network stations in New York City.

The station's 1952 gross is expected to be about $4,000,000.

WBKB will be sold to the Columbia Broadcasting System if the proposed merger between the American Broadcasting Co. and United Paramount Theatres is approved by the Federal Communications Commission.

Censorship Ruling A Boon: Preminger

The Supreme Court rulings restricting motion picture censorship will prove the biggest boon to the film business in many years, producer-director Otto Preminger predicted here yesterday. Preminger, who recently completed "The Murder," at RKO Radio, is currently in New York to find a play to be produced here.

"In time," he said, "there will be as little censorship in the movies as in the theatre. That will be healthy for the picture business. It will give us an opportunity to get away from the hackneyed plots and stilted endings that are required now.

"Freedom from censorship doesn't mean we have a right to make pictures in bad taste. I don't mean pictures should be dirty—or that books should be, either, for that matter—but we've got to get away from the standardized plots, and this will give us the incentive."

Preminger said that the industry's Production Code was not as strict as its interpretation; but that on the other hand there was a definite swing toward more freedom. "For instance, 'Detective Story' could not have been made several years ago. But it was handled well, and no one found it objectionable."

Boxoffice receipts during the past few months are proof that Hollywood is making pictures more to the public's liking, the producer said. "That crisis we underwent last year was a good thing for our business," he said. "When 'anything went', business got out of hand. Now we're taking a more realistic attitude."

That is why, he explained, the Guild has established an annual intercollegiate film award to be presented to the best student-produced film turned out by 69 colleges and universities. The winning student-producers could be recruited by Hollywood, he intimated.

Rachmil, who himself received his early film producing education at Yale, is confident the awards plan will succeed in bringing new talent to Hollywood. His latest picture is G. B. Shaw's "Androcles and the Lion," produced in conjunction with Gabriel Pascal for RKO Radio. He termed it a picture that has "popular appeal" but which, nevertheless, qualifies for pre-pre-release and pre-release engagements before its general run.

Rachmil will fly back to Hollywood next Tuesday.

Reviews

"The Crimson Pirate"

(Warner Bros.—Norman Prod.)

SHOWMEN have a solid, well-done adventure picture with plenty of exploitation angles on which to exercise their talents for promotion in "The Crimson Pirate." Burt Lancaster and his foil, Nick Cravat, keep the film, in color by Technicolor, spinning along at a fast and merry pace from beginning to end.

As Lancaster himself announces at the start, the film is the story of the last cruise of the Crimson Pirate, wherein Lancaster in the title role gets involved in a war of rebellion on the part of a Caribbean people against their European king. It begins innocently when the pirate captures a king's ship whose only cargo is guns. Lancaster plans to sell these to the rebels and then make a double haul by selling the rebels to the king. Eva Bartok, lovely daughter of the rebel chief, however, appears to complicate his mercenary motives. The climax finds Lancaster and Cravat, sold out by their pirate crew, rescuing Miss Bartok from a fate worse than death and then winning back their pirate ship.

The climax is a masterpiece of colorful action and special effects. Under the directon of a not-so-crack-pot scientist, James Hayter, the rebels build and use to good effect: repeating cannons, TNT, a balloon for high-level bombing and one of the world's first submarines.

The film is perhaps a bit too long, but director Robert Siodmak has done an admirable job in keeping the action of the Roland Kibbee screenplay in hand. Lending good support to the star are Torin Thatcher as a mutinous but ethical pirate and Leslie Bradley as the chief enforcement officer of the king. Harold Hecht produced for Norman Productions.

Running time, 104 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, September 27.

"The Rose Bowl Story"

(Monogram) Hollywood, August 26

GOOD in any season but ideal for the rapidly approaching football season is this solid, entertaining story in which the annual Pasadena Rose Bowl classic figures, but not to the exclusion of the story line and the personalities involved in it. It's sensible, human and humorous—a bright, ticket selling attraction for exhibitors everywhere.

Filmed in Cinecolor, it has Marshall Thompson in the role of an ambitious big-time grid star for a Midwestern college who comes to Pasadena for the New Year's Day classic. He dates a mink-coated girl who turns out to have borrowed the garb and to be the plain daughter of some working folks. Small, unsensational incidents much more like life than fiction lead to his realization that his money-ridden ideas about football and love were both wrong. To this mainline of story are appended subordinate threads that round out a completely satisfying whole.

Thompson handles the top acting job with effective restraint, and Vera Miles, Natalie Wood, Keith Larsen and James Dobson supply convincing support. The gridiron teams are composed of some of the best professional and collegiate football players in the country, although they go unbilled, as do the teams they represent. That happy arrangement makes the attraction as appropriate for one part of the country as another.

Richard Heerman produced for Walter Mirisch, executive producer, and William Beaudine gave it one of his finest directorial handlings. Charles R. Martin did the writing.

Running time, 73 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, August 28.

"Secret People"

WATCHING this British-made melodrama is a little like working a cross-word puzzle to which no one tells you until you're finished there's no answer. When the British go in for deep-dyed villainy and deeply-hidden motivation they go deep indeed, often, as in this instance, so deep that the bottom arrived at seems hardly to have warranted the digging. Specifically, the handicap the audience carries in its contemplation of the intricate and dastardly goings-on here is its lack of knowledge as to the identity of the sinister organization—referred to steadily and always as "the organization"—which goes to fantastic lengths to involve a couple of orphanned sisters in assassinations (assignations, too) and other illegal activities. The picture's prospects in the States aren't bright.

In the screenplay by Thorold Dickinson and Wolfgang Wilhelm, Valentina Cortesa and Audrey Hepburn portray sisters, possibly Italian, maybe not, who come to London when an unidentified tyrant kills their father, evidently a liberalist leader, and in seven years (by 1937, that is) become naturalized citizens. About then a former sweetheart of the elder shows up, whereupon they renew what seems to have been a completely informal romance, which goes well until he ropes her into taking a bomb to a party which a confederate uses for an assassination attempt that kills the wrong victim. She confesses her complicity to Scotland Yard, her former pals try to kill her but fail, and the Yard fixes her up with a new identity which she wears until, finding her former lover trying again with her sister, she reveals her identity and gets killed by his pal, who happens to be standing by with a convenient knife. (If this sounds complicated—it should).

The name of the producer is Sidney Cole, and the direction is by the Thorold Dickinson who collaborated on the script.

Running time, 88 minutes. Adult audience classification. Release date not set.

Arnall Returns to SIMPP Sept. 1

Ellis G. Arnall, who has been on leave from the presidency of the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers during the past several months while serving as U. S. Price Stabilizer, is scheduled to return to his SIMPP post on Sept. 1, it was learned here yesterday.

Arnall, a former governor of Georgia who also has a law practice in Atlanta, is expected to serve SIMPP in the future out of that city, with visits to New York and Hollywood as required.

bership in or loyalties to the Communist Party."

Benjamin and William J. Heineman, UA distribution vice-president, said the distribution deal for the picture was made over a year ago. They were at a loss to state whether or not it would be possible for UA to withdraw from the contract in light of the hostility the film has aroused.

Sent Letter to Wood

In a letter to Congressman John W. Wood, chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, Roy M. Brewer, chairman of the Hollywood Council, urged that the committee immediately initiate legislation banning the import of motion pictures such as "Encounter" is alleged to be.

"Encounter" was described by Brewer in his letter as the work of four Americans who either are or were Communists or are refugees from House committee subpoena. Named in this connection are John Weber, Bernhard Vorhaus, Joseph Losey and Ben Barzman.

Benjamin said UA executives have not yet viewed "Encounter."

arbitration negotiating committee; Abe Montague of Columbia, and attorneys of these and other companies. It is understood that some changes in the draft of a relatively minor character were made at their meeting. A lawyers' drafting committee consisting of Herman M. Levy of TOA, Abram F. Myers of Allied, Adolph Schimel of Universal and Robert W. Perkins of Warners, prepared the draft here last week.

The drafting committee members may be asked meanwhile to initial whatever changes were made in the document, but clarification on this point is expected to be made today.

TOA indicated yesterday that it is anxiously awaiting word of the distributors' action on the draft in order to know whether or not arbitration can be put on the organization's convention agenda. The TOA membership, like the memberships of the other organizations and groups which participated in the Industry Arbitration Conference, must ratify the draft. But the distributors must do so first, according to an arrangement previously made. Allied's convention and board meeting, Nov. 15-19, also is scheduled to act on the draft.

Moreover, the Industry Arbitration Conference, according to the original plan, will have to reconvene to discuss and pass on a draft. When this would be was not clear in the minds of arbitration conferees yesterday. Finally, of course, the Department of Justice and the U. S. Statutory Court would have to approve the draft for it to be included in the industry anti-trust suit decree.

The draft stipulates that following approval by all participating groups, a three-month period will be used to set up arbitration machinery on national and exchange area bases. It states also that a test period of 18 months will follow to determine the workability of the system agreed upon.

Bidding, it was pointed out yesterday, would be arbitrated under the draft on virtually an "all-inclusive" basis. Excluded, in this connection, are any controversies arising out of pricing of films.

In the THEATRE Equipment World . . . . . with RAY GALLO

AN expansion of activity in the theatre equipment business is reported by Motiograph, manufacturers of motion picture proecjtors and sound systems. The company reveals its production of 16mm sound projection cquipment is at a peak. Orders also reflect much activity in drive-in construction.

A new catalogue describing its line of drive-in theatre equipment has just been released by the Ballantyne Co. of Omaha. This is the first catalogue to describe the new "Ez-Erect" Boyer pre-fabricated screen tower, which Ballantyne distributes exclusively. The tower has a picture size with two-foot masking of 35 by 48 feet; withous masking, 39 by 52 feet. Overall dimension of the tower is 52 feet wide and 56 feet high. A picture size of 43 by 56 feet is also available. All timbers are Douglas Fir, and hardware and Transite screen facing are included. Complete plans are furnished for erection.

A new outdoor lamp holder making use of a high temperature, silicon rubber cushion-seal designed to withstand both heat and adverse weather conditions has been announced by the Stonco Electric Products Co. of Kenilworth, N. J. Known as the "Stonco Cushion-Seal Holder," the unit seals the lamp low at its neck and exposes its hot spot area to open air cooling. It adapts itself to fit all R-40 and PAR-38 lamps, whether long, short oroff-center. By cradling the lamp in a rubber cushion grip, the Cushion-Seal helps protect the lamp against traffic vibration, pole sway, and shock. The manufacturer points out that light weight holders of this type provide brilliant floodlighting for large areas while single lamp units make supplementary highlighting for outdoor display.

Poblocki and Sons, Milwaukee, has installed new Permascreens in two drive-ins in Johnson City, Tenn. They are Bernie Wylie's Tri-City Drive-in and his new King Spring Drive-in. Permascreen consists of steel plates with a surface of vitreous enamel fused on for mounting on existing or new drive-in towers. It was developed to eliminate paint as the light reflecting material.

to build indoor theatres.

The NPA order also declared that builders may apply to NPA for controlled materials in excess of the amounts they are permitted to self-authorize.

Under the order theatre builders will be able to self-authorize in each quarter up to five tons of carbon steel, not to include more than two tons of all types of structural steel shapes; 500 pounds of copper and copper base alloys and 300 pounds of aluminum.

Until now, Golden pointed out, no aluminum was permitted in theatre construction.

In addition, the NPA order said that self-authorizing builders may use in each project up to $15,000 worth of building equipment and materials which need a rating authority. Such materials do not include controlled items. Builders may also use up to $5,000 for production equipment and machinery per project without authorization.

It will be possible, Golden said, for theatre builders wishing to use more than the self-authorized amounts of controlled materials permitted in each quarter to do so by slowing down the construction process. Thus, he pointed out, a theatre owner wishing to construct a small drive-in may do so with the amounts of materials he can authorize in one quarter. An exhibitor wishing to build a larger drive-in may start his construction with his self-authorized amount for one quarter, keep down the pace of construction and then add to the structure the amounts of materials he can authorize for the following quarter. It would be possible, Golden said, to use in this fashion for one theatre the amount of materials the exhibitor may authorize for four quarters.

With the April effective date, Golden declared, theatre builders have plenty of time to buy, plan and grade their sites, before beginning construction. The NPA order stated that self-authorizing builders may place their purchase orders up to the amount specified at any time between now and April 1, but they may not have delivery before then.

NPA said it would review the construction situation again at the end of October with an eye to fixing an effective date earlier than April 1.

The NPA order grew out of a meeting today between the construction industry advisory committee and NPA officials.

National Pre-Selling

THE first annual movie edition of American Weekly, released next Sunday through Hearst newspapers to 30,000,000 readers, has met with great enthusiasm on the part of both large and small theatre circuits and operators, throughout the country. The entire press overrun of 600,000 copies will be distributed in non-Hearst areas, with Fox Midwest leading the field, with a purchase of 200,000 copies. Others who have bought are Interstate Theatres, 95,000 copies; Florida State Theatres, 50,000 copies; Wilby and Kinccy Theatres (via Rebel Poster Exchange) 40,000 copies; Cooper Foundations Theatres, 20,000; with other amounts for Loew's, Walter Reade, Minneapolis Amusement, Penn Paramount, Intermountain and Tri-State Theatres.

The Fox Midwest house organ, Contact, says "when the advance copy of this brilliant issue reached our division office, it received a more enthusiastic response from district managers and bookers than any piece of printed matter ever before put out; it is a potent boost for pictures." The issue contains the first listing of winners in the new American Weekly Motion Picture Awards, with "The Greatest Show On Earth" leading 10 top pictures and performances. There are full-page, full-color ads for Mario Lanza in "Because You're Mine" and the new Technicolor production of "What Price Glory."

Roy Rogers appears in a string of full-page, full-color ads across the country, notably in the 4,000,000-circulation Sunday News in New York, to offer kids who read the comics a chance to "win your own palomino pony" with the sponsorship of General Foods Corp. There's no mention of Roy Rogers Riders Clubs, or the movies, in this advertising. It's a costly outlay, but the theatres are not even catching a ride. Roy is coming to Madison Square Garden with his own in-person Rodeo show, Sept. 24 through Oct. 19, and tickets are already on sale, priced at $1.75 to $6.00, with children half-price at Wednesday and Friday matinees.

COMPO Faces 3 Months of Tax Research

'Congress Wants Facts About Admissions Levy'

The Council of Motion Picture Organizations estimates that three months of intensive research work lie ahead if it is to be properly equipped with evidence designed to convince Congress that repeal of the 20 per cent Federal admissions tax is imperative. That work stands as the principal job facing COMPO's headquarters office here.

Officials of the industry agency emphasize that while it is equally important for exhibitors and distribution representatives in every section to enlist the support of Congressmen and Senators for the showdown battle, the House Ways and Means and Senate Finance committees are going to call for facts and figures at hearings on the question.

COMPO headquarters has assembled some 30 or 40 questions that it

Tent Puts Off Golf Tourney to Sept. 25

The date of the annual golf tournament and party of the Variety Club of New York, Tent No. 35 at the Vernon Hills Country Club has been changed from Sept. 11 to Sept. 25. The committee declares it felt "this advisable in view of the conflict with the Warner Club outing of Sept. 12, to which many of our barkers are invited."

Mono.-Allied Artists Sets National Sales Meet for September

Monogram-Allied Artists will hold a three-day national sales convention at the Blackstone Hotel, Chicago, Sept. 24-26, Morey Goldstein, vice-president and general sales manager, announced yesterday.

The meeting, first of its kind to be convened by the company since 1946, will be attended by all of the company's bookers, salesmen, branch managers, franchise holders and company executives.

Goldstein said: "It will give our sales staff an opportunity to learn fully about our program which offers the greatest box office potential ever presented by Monogram-Allied Artists."

Among those attending the convention will be: Steve Broidy, Harold Mirisch, G. Ralph Branton, Edward Morey, George D. Burrows, Walter Mirisch, Norton V. Ritchey, Harold Wirthwein, James Pritchard, L. E. Goldhammer and John C. Flinn.

Para. to Release 9 In Next 4 Months

Paramount has set nine productions, seven of them in color by Technicolor, for release during the remaining four months of 1952.

"Son of Paleface," is scheduled to open early in October at the Paramount Theatre here, and "Just for You," is slated for the Capitol here, also in early October. Both are in

May Finish Goldwyn Deposition in Month

San Francisco, Aug. 27.—The deposition of Samuel Goldwyn in his anti-trust suit against Fox West Coast Theatres and 11 other companies, which was not completed when taken here shortly after the suit was filed, will be finished within the next month or two in this city, it is reported.

Starr, Rhoden Due For Top TOA Posts

Theatre Owners of America's top echelon quartet for 1952-53 is virtually certain to consist of Alfred Starr as president; Elmer C. Rhoden, board chairman; Si H. Fabian, executive committee chairman, and Gael Sullivan, executive director.

This was indicated yesterday as word was received here that Mitchell Wolfson, incumbent president, would be unable to serve another term because of the pressure of his personal business. He is a Florida theatre circuit owner and has a Miami television station. Starr was said to be wholly receptive to the suggestion that he succeed Wolfson and is understood to be favored for the post in practically every TOA quarter. Starr is a Tennessee theatre operator.

Charles P. Skouras, incumbent board chairman, is president of National Theatres which is being reorganized into Wesco Theatres in connection with the divorcement from 20th Cen-

Tele-SessionsBroadensScope Of Theatre Video Medium

Broadening the scope of sponsored theatre television programming, through a tie-up with NBC-TV, was revealed here yesterday by Victor M. Ratner, director of theatre Tele-Sessions, a division of Theatre Network Television.

Ratner, in a brochure currently being distributed among advertising agencies, outlined the plan by which a commercial organization can have outlets in "all cities on the coaxial cable," which would add 28 cities to the 40 key communities throughout the country which now have television-equipped theatres.

The newly-appointed head of Tele-Sessions described the response of advertising agencies to the medium as very encouraging. He also pointed out that the projected use of hotels or TV

TNT Acquires Rights to Walcott Bout

Cancellation Possible Under Guarantee Clause

Theatre television rights to the Jersey Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano heavyweight title bout, slated for Sept. 23 in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium, have been acquired by Theatre Network Television, it was disclosed here yesterday jointly by James D. Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, and Nathan Halpern, TNT president.

Acquisition of the exclusive theatre TV rights, it was learned, is subject to a contract provision for an option exercisable by the IBC to cancel theatre TV if the number of theatres taking the bout does not reach a certain level. In that event, IBC could elect to use home television and radio broadcasting.

The contract, it was further learned, calls for a theatre TV "blackout" in

Report Col. Seeks Mex. Studio Share

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 27.—It is reported here that Columbia Pictures is negotiating for the purchase of RKO Pictures' interest in the Churubusco-Azteca studio, Mexico's leading production lot. Local officials of neither company would comment.

It was reported some time ago that RKO Pictures had sold its interest to Mexican partners in the studio but more recently it was understood that RKO had retained part of its interest in the studio.

$2.40 for Walcott Bout in Baltimore

Baltimore, Aug. 27.—Frank Durkee's State Theatre has contracted for the telecast of the Walcott-Marciano bout, to be fought in Philadelphia, Sept. 23.

According to C. Elmer Nolte, general manager, the entire house will be sold at $2.40 admission with no reserved seats.

Set 'U' Shorts Sales Drive Starting Oct. 1

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27.—A Universal short subject sales drive, to be known as the "National Short Drive," is set to start Oct. 1, it is reported here. The drive, open to Universal bookers only, will be headed by Irving Sochin, chief of the company's short subject department. The set-up so far calls for three winning branches (one from each district), with the bookers in the winning branch, each receiving a 14-karat gold wrist watch, it is said.

Frank Bonoma Dead

ALBANY, Aug. 27.—Frank Bonoma, commercial artist who for many years did work for local theatres, died yesterday in Albany Hospital at the age of 51, following a brief illness. Services will be conducted in New Rochelle.

Expect Allport to Report on French Pact Next Week

The Motion Picture Export Association reported yesterday that it was expecting to receive information not earlier than Monday or Tuesday from Fayette W. Allport in Paris on the status of Franco-American film pact negotiations which are going on there.

The Association conceded the possibility that, with the U. S. negotiators having accepted France's cut in imports from 121 to 90, the talks until early next week will center on the procedure whereby remittances of American earnings, past and present, will be made, and also whether deals separate and apart from the official agreement could be made for subsidization of French production by American distributors who chose to do so.

Allport is one of the Association's observers at the negotiations, which are being conducted on the intergovernmental level. The Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers and the U. S. State Department have indicated they would not agree to an official pact that stipulated subsidization of French production. However, it was expected that if individual MPEA member companies chose to go for subsidization on their own they could thereby acquire additional French import permits.

Set 11 New Dates For 'Ivanhoe'

Eleven additional dates for "Ivanhoe" have been scheduled by M-G-M for September in Loew's theatres. The picture is currently playing at four Loew's houses and the Radio City Music Hall here.

The 11 additional dates are: Palace Theatre, Washington, D. C., Sept. 17; State and Orpheum, Boston, Buffalo, Buffalo; Loew's, Indianapolis; Midland, Kansas City; Palace, Memphis; Poli, New Haven; State, New Orleans; Penn, Pittsburgh; and State, St. Louis, Sept. 25.

Wyman Schedules Vacation for Press

Jane Wyman, co-star with Bing Crosby in Paramount's "Just for You," has sent a letter to trade press and other newspapermen all across the country inviting them to register for a name drawing which will provide the winner with an all expenses paid vacation next summer at Lake Arrowhead.

The drawing will take place Sept. 6 at Lake Arrowhead, date and place of the premiere of "Just for You."

W. B. Charlotte Changes

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Aug. 27.—R. T. Belcher has resigned as booker at Republic Pictures exchange here and joined Warners in the same capacity. "Mac" McAfree was moved up from head booker to sales representative at Warner's, succeeding Marsh Funderburke, who died recently. Bob Heffner was shifted to the head booker's spot and Belcher was made booker.

Nick Tronolone in Business for Self

Nick Tronolone, who resigned recently from Pathe Laboratories after 15 years as director and vice-president in charge of laboratory operations and sales, has opened his own offices here and will act as special sales representative for DeLuxe Laboratories and consultant to producers and distributors to the theatrical, non-theatrical and television film fields.

Nick Tronolone

Tronolone, an industry veteran, started with Biograph in 1904. For 14 years he was in charge of laboratory operations for Consolidated Film Industries. He supervised construction of the RKO Pictures laboratory at Churubusco, Mexico, and was consultant for CBS.

Part-Time SIMPP Basis for Arnall

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Ellis Arnall, who will resume the presidency of the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers next month, plans to return to his Atlanta law practice immediately after Monday. He said he would come back to Washington to represent SIMPP in the British talks, scheduled to begin Sept. 8, since SIMPP had requested him to do so.

The retiring Price Stabilizer added, however, that he would probably hold the SIMPP job "part time for a while," and that a definite arrangement for the future would be worked out after he met with the SIMPP board. of directors on the Coast, probably sometime in October.

Miss Blumenstock Weds

Haidee "Bebe," daughter of Mrs. Haidee Fried and Mort Blumenstock, Warner Bros. vice-president in charge of advertising and publicity, was married yesterday to Major Marvin Daniel Perskie, U.S.M.C., at the Sherry-Netherlands Hotel here. Major Perskie had five years of service in the Marine Corps, beginning at Guadalcanal, and subsequently served for one year with the Israeli Army.

After a wedding trip, the couple will make their home in San Diego, California. The bridegroom will be stationed at Fort Joseph Pendleton, California.

Ferrer for 'Matador'

LONDON, Aug. 27.—Jose Ferrer has been signed to star in Barnsby Conrad's "Matador," which John Huston will film in Spain following completion of "Moulin Rouge," now shooting.

How to Fill 3,500 Seats at 85 Cents

Cleveland, Aug. 27.—Again demonstrating the old ones will still pay off, Jack Silverthorne booked "Ghost of Frankenstein" and "Bride of Frankenstein" for a midnight horror show at the Hippodrome here after last Saturday's regular performance. His ads did not mention the films' titles but suggested the "spook" angle.

The 3,500 seat house was sold out at 85 cents per seat, and police had to help handle the crowds at the two box offices.

$60,000 to Toronto Tent's Charity

TORONTO, Aug. 27.—From Toronto Variety Tent No. 28 has come the delayed information that the club benefitted to the extent of approximately $60,000 from the recent annual baseball exhibition at the local ball park in aid of Variety Village Vocation School for Crippled Children.

The formal announcement will be made at a tent business meeting here Friday night along with the news that Chief Barker R. W. Bolstad and his executive committee will now proceed with expansion plans for the project. More than half of the game proceeds came from the souvenir program and special donations in connection with the benefit game.

FPC Wins Canadian Pioneers' Tourney

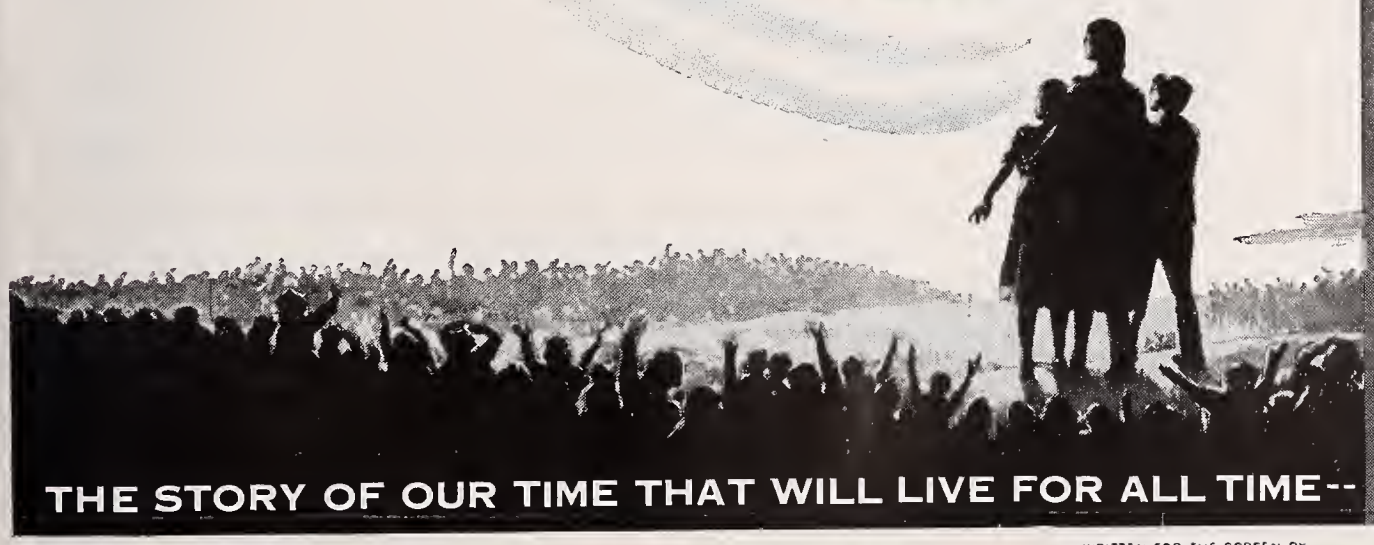
TORONTO, Aug. 27.—The first annual Canadian Picture Pioneers film industry golf tournament at the Uplands course Tuesday was captured by Famous Players Canadian in team play for the Nat Taylor trophy. The J. Arthur Rank foursome was runner-up.

The Famous Players' foursome consisted of L. 1. Bearg, Bob Eaves and the brothers Jim and George Georgas. Winner of the Famous Players' trophy for individual low gross was Fred Cross of the Studio Theatre. W. C. Tyers of Canadian Odeon took the projectionists' trophy for low gross in "B" flight.

Canadian Theatres May Get More Steel

OTTAWA, ONT., Aug. 27.—Though presently prohibited, Canadian theatres may get the necessary steel for construction purposes early in 1953, Canadian government officials hint.

CPP Banquet Nov. 4



TORONTO, Aug. 27.—Canadian Picture Pioneers, headed by N. A. Taylor, is preparing to hold a banquet Nov. 4 at which the "Pioneer of the Year" will be named. An office of the unit has been opened here, where secretary Archie Laurie is now established.

New Color Method Uses TV Cameras

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—The use of television cameras and receivers in the making of both color and black and white theatrical films is envisaged in a patent acquired by Lauriston E. Clark, director of research and engineering of the Technicolor Motion Picture Corp.

In his patent, the three benefits forecast by Clark for his system are: the noises made by the video camera are off in another room and do not get into the microphone picking up the actors' voices; the lights need not be so bright; and through the use of a monitor television screen, the director has before him a picture of exactly what will appear on the film later.

Tele-Sessions

studios in non-theatre TV-equipped cities was a stop-gap measure until theatres in those localities are equipped with large-screen television. In addition, it was pointed out that the Tele-Sessions' approach increases the choice of cities to a sponsor.

The Tele-Sessions program augments its outlets in "theatre" and "cable" cities with a classification called "kinescope" cities, according to Ratner. He explained that theatre Tele-Sessions for company field personnel, dealers, professional groups, or any other organization can also be held in all other U. S. cities, off the cable, within a day or two of the "live" meeting, by use of Kinescopes taken of the original meetings.

Among the facilities and services offered in the brochure with every theatre Tele-Session contract were:

It is well known that racial discrimination and religious intolerance is non-existent in Show Business, a fact that we are justifiably proud of and glory in. We've just learned of the following which involves two well-known and admired men, Morris Steinman, formerly district manager for Republic Pictures with headquarters in Minneapolis, and Jack NBCostello, announcer and newscaster in New York. Recently when Jack visited his native Minnesota, he spent a great deal of time with his old pal Morris and when ready to leave asked him how he could reciprocate for the wonderful time Steinman showed him. Steinman replied, "Please don't think it strange, but I drive a car quite extensively and I'd appreciate it if you'd send me a St. Christopher's medallion." On his arrival home, Jack purchased a St. Christopher's medallion and also a St. Genesius medallion (patron saint of actors) and sent them to his friend. In return Morris sent Jack a Mezuzeh (ancient Hebrew Mosaic Law charm) which he carries with him at all times.

Walcott Bout

Philadelphia, Camden, Chester and the Boston-Providence New England area. New York City would not be "blacked-out," allowing nearly a dozen large New York theatres to participate in the projected network for one of the rare occasions involving a popular bout.

Halpern, queried as to the number of theatres required to assure keeping the event off home TV or the sum of money needed as a guarantee, declined comment. The tab to theatres was also not immediately divulged, but it is believed that theatres will be asked to pay more than the 75 cents to $1.05 per seat paid for the Robinson-Maxim fight.

It was learned, however, that the pricing formula for the Walcott bout will most probably allow TV-equipped theatres to charge patrons between $3 and $3.60, including admissions tax.

Expect $1,000,000 Gate

The fight, considered the greatest in a decade with an expected $1,000,000 gate, is likely to attract the largest theatre television net. TNT said its network will extend to all theatres with TV installations which can be reached by the long line facilities of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., with the exception of "blacked out" areas.

The guarantee to the IBC and the principal fighters for theatre TV rights was said to be the largest for any event to date.

Halpern is expected to leave here tomorrow for the Coast on a combination business and pleasure trip, returning after the Labor Day weekend.

As to the film rights to the bout, an IBC spokesman said that no deal has been set as yet. William J. Heineman, United Artists distribution vice-president, confirmed that UA has made an offer to the IBC to film the bout for theatrical distribution. It is understood that RKO Radio Pictures is also negotiating with the IBC for film rights.

The offer made by Harry Brandt, of Brandt Theatres, and Joe Roberts for theatre TV and film rights has apparently been scotched by the TNT-IBC contract.

ITO Protests U.S. 16mm. TV Film Suit

COLUMBUS, Aug. 27.—"Emphatic protest" against the Government's 16 mm. suit was voiced in a resolution passed at a meeting here of the board of directors of Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio.

"No 'reasonable' amount of clearance as asked by the government between theatrical showings of these pictures and their free showings on television or by other competitive enterprises would protect the theatres' investments," said the resolution.

"This suit is an unjust and unreasonable attempt by the Government to give one industry an advantage over another," added the statement.

ITO offered its aid to producers and distributors who are defendants in the anti-trust action. The board pointed out that Ohio theatremen are especially concerned because there are now 13 TV stations operating in Ohio, more than in any other state.

picture industry throughout the nation."

The statement, which declares that the action "jeopardizes the livelihood of 250,000 workers in the film industry," asserts that the "guild board has been informed that lobbyists for competing interests persuaded the Department of Justice to file this most unfair suit" and that the "guild will make sure that all factors in the bringing of the suit eventually are brought to light."

The board's statement says, "If this suit should succeed, a great many of 22,000 motion picture theatres would be forced to close, and film producers then would not have enough monetary returns to finance the making of quality theatrical pictures in which hundreds and sometimes thousands of American workmen are employed."

In the way of structural changes to the theatre, two boxes have been eliminated to make way for the curved screen. It is six times the conventional size, 64 feet wide and 23 feet high. Three projection booths are being installed back of the orchestra to center, right and left, with the three images combined into one on the Cinerama screen.

The stereophonic sound that is said to give such a high degree of reality to Cinerama performances will be projected from 10 amplifiers, five of them from behind the screen, four in the orchestra and one back of the theatre.

"Montana Incident"

(Monogram)

RUNNING to formula lines, "Montana Incident" shapes up as a standard Western which puts Whip Wilson and his partner, Rand Brooks through routine exercises as railroad surveyors in freeing a small Montana town from economic domination by a family ruled principally by Peggy Stewart, comely but icy elder daughter. She tries to bribe Whip and Rand to reroute the railroad, in order to keep the unhappy homesteaders dependent on her various enterprises. When they refuse her offer, she resorts to force which, in turn, unifies the opposition. The latter includes Miss Stewart's pretty younger sister, Noel Neill, and eventually the girl's father, Hugh Prosser.

After several minor skirmishes, the fight between the opposing parties leads to an attempted ambush of the surveyors by Miss Stewart and hired thugs. Her plans thwarted by the intervention of her father, she ultimately is murdered by her fiance. The story on the whole is short on action and suspense. Lewis Collins directed and Vincent M. Fennelly produced from the screen play by Dan Ullman.

Running time, 54 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, August 17.

believes must be answered if industry representatives are to be properly equipped to testify at the Congressional hearings. These relate to the exact number of theatres now operating, their grosses, their picture policies, the impact they have on other businesses in their areas, production and distribution costs, etc.

Highly important in this research will be the determination of the extent to which the Government itself could gain from repeal of the tax. Factors such as personal and corporate taxes that would be sustained if theatres themselves are not taxed out of business are regarded as having the makings of rich evidence in the anti-tax battle.

Robert W. Coyne, COMPO special counsel, urged at the last COMPO board meeting that the statistical research facilities of one or more colleges or universities be employed for the purpose of gathering such information. The idea received only a lukewarm reception at the time, but that was before the decision was made by COMPO to initiate an all-out fight for tax repeal.

It has yet to be determined whether COMPO itself could accomplish the research in the time it has allotted itself. If not, the COMPO board may be called upon to decide whether professional researchers should be employed.

Favor Taking Films' Side Of U.S. Suit to Public

A majority in production and distribution polled by Motion Picture Herald's Institute of Industry Opinion favors presentation to the public of the industry's views of the government's anti-trust suit to force the sale of 16mm. films to television and other non-theatrical users, the current issue of the Herald reports. Exhibition, by a small majority, disapproves that course.

If the fight is taken to the public, an overwhelming majority of all three branches of the industry favors the use of both the theatre screens and newspapers to tell the industry's story.

The poll also revealed that the industry is virtually unanimous in feeling that "determined, industry-wide opposition" to the suit is called for. However, even on that point, 7.5 per cent of production and 1.1 per cent of exhibition voted in the negative. Distribution is 100 per cent for it.

On the question of carrying the industry's side to the public, the vote for was: production, 79.1 per cent;

New 'N. Y. Post' Survey Finds Industry Going Forward in Healthy Condition

In what the trade regards as a move to repair injustice done the industry in a New York Post article last July by economics writer Sylvia Porter, that newspaper yesterday published an enthusiastic survey of present industry conditions and future prospects.

Written by Post film critic Irene Thirer, yesterday's article, entitled "The Movies Carry On—and Nobly," said "TV never will replace the motion picture—even though, it is admitted, there was a dip in film business after the war years, and up to July 1 of this year."

Continued the long Thirer article: "We find television great in its place; newsreels, forums, quizzes, coverage of important events. However, if ever it offered a threat to the movie theatre, it must have been because film producers were curtailing. They were too worried to know what to do. Then they caught on."

Published in consequence of efforts of the Organization of the Motion Picture Industry of New York City, the article lists current and forthcoming pictures and names many of the stars who will be seen in them.

Film rights to the Jersey Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano heavyweight title bout, to be fought in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium on Sept. 23, will go to RKO Pictures, the International Boxing Club, co-promoters of the event, disclosed here yesterday.

An IBC spokesman said terms of the agreement for theatrical distribution of the film have been reached and the only remaining "formality" was the drawing up and signing of a contract.

The spokesman, who declined to divulge how much will be paid for the film rights, did stress that there were no guarantee contingencies in the projected contract which could possibly result in no fight film being made.

Film Rights to Walcott Bout

work Television announcement that it has acquired the theatre TV rights to the bout, considered one of the most popular title matches in a decade. Clarification was obtained yesterday on the contingency provision of the TNT contract. It was authoritatively learned that the bout will not appear on home television or be radio broadcast in the event that a sufficient number of theatres is not obtained for the event.

The contingency provision of the TNT contract, as disclosed Wednesday, allows the IBC to cancel the sale of theatre TV rights to TNT if an undisclosed sufficient number of television-equipped theatres fail to book the fight. In that event, an authoritative source said that no medium, neither home television or radio, will be utilized by the IBC.

The pricing formula under which the bout will be sold to theatres was learned from trade quarters. Theatres booking the bout, according to informed sources, will be required to pay a minimum guarantee of 90 cents per seat. The pricing formula is graduated according to the number of seats of a theatre, from $1.15 to $1.35 per seat sold, whichever is the highest in comparison to the 90 cents minimum.

For theatres with fewer than 1,500 seats, the plan calls for a payment of $1.15 per seat sold, or 90 cents per seat for every seat in the theatre, whichever is the highest.

For 1,500-2,000 seaters, the per seat sold figure is $1.25, while for a theatre which has a capacity of over 2,000 seats, the per seat sold figure is $1.35.

The current 90 cents to $1.50 formula is higher than the 75 cents to $1.05 formula paid for the Robinson-Maxim bout, but less, as far as the guarantee for the Robinson-Turpin bout, which was $1.05.

They love it! This is IT with music! The screen has not radiated in years such sheer excitement as sparks from the kisses of exquisite Lana Turner and the screen's new hot-blooded Latin lover, Fernando Lamas. In every theatre where it plays, packed audiences sit tense at the love scenes, thrill to the glorious Lehar music, enjoy the hilarious situations and the beauty of the Technicolor spectacle. This is why movies were born!

by Ruth Brooks Flippen and Sy Gomberg • Directed by Alexander Hall • Produced by Joe Pasternak

Lanza sings again! The star who thrilled America as it's never been thrilled before goes on to even greater triumphs. More than a year in the making, "BECAUSE YOU'RE MINE" is unquestionably the most eagerly awaited attraction of the New Movie Season. But M-G-M has not taken for granted this ready-made audience. The New Lanza Musical, destined to be a bigger hit than even "The Great Caruso", is preceded by a long-range campaign reaching hundreds of millions throughout the nation.

which he reviewed the court's opinion and commented on its implications.

The TOA attorney held that the governments should either analyze their laws and repeal them if they offend the principles, or, jointly with "exhibitor and/or distributor groups, seek the advice of courts as to constitutionality through suits in the nature of declaratory judgment, or other appropriate procedure."

Levy advised local exhibitor leaders to "bring this to the attention of their governments in the hope that favorable action will be taken, and that, thereby, expensive and debilitating litigation may be avoided." Further Levy stated, in instances where censors are operating under statutes or ordinances "that are clearly offensive to the principles" and those censors are being paid out of public funds or otherwise, refusal or neglet to repeal "is inexusable and unjustifiable."

He reminded, however, that in extending the privileges of the free press Constitutional protection to films, the Supreme Court had not invalidated all censorship, per se, nor had it found that all films are entitled to exhibition without prior scrutiny.

Ohio Censor Case

cooperation of the Motion Picture Association of America, is intended to destroy each of the arguments in defense of censorship which city attorneys set forth in a brief filed a week ago.

The city's contention that newsreels cannot be equated with newspapers and periodicals in general and therefore do not qualify for the constitutional guarantees against censorship is said to be the target of heavily documented counter arguments in the Smith reply. So also are the city's assertion that "little restraint" is exercised under the Ohio newsreel censorship law, and its contention that fees for censoring reels are not "confiscatory."

"Because You're Mine"

(Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer)

A STRONG follow-up on "The Great Caruso" awaits showmen in this new Mario Lanza starring vehicle. It is a showcase for the popular star from beginning to end but its appeal and strength are fortified significantly by the fresh talents and comeliness of Doretta Morrow, who came to popular attention only recently in the stage hit, "The King and I." Her voice and beguiling mannerisms are certain to win her a large motion picture following, despite the fact that the screenplay by Karl Tunberg and Leonard Spigelgass affords no opportunity for the full exercise of her obvious talents.

Exhibitors, particularly those with happy "Great Caruso" experience, will fully appreciate the strong box office possibilities being offered them in this first Lanza release in more than a year, which is in color by Technicolor.

The story, from an original by Ruth Brooks Flippen and Sy Gomberg, follows a popular opera star into the Army after he receives his "greetings." James Whitmore plays the top-sergeant who is also an enthusiastic fan of the opera star. Miss Morrow is the sergeant's sister, whom Lanza uses as a convenient means of obtaining weekend passes, at first, and later comes to love. Complications invade the romance momentarily near the end but are resolved to the satisfaction of audiences eventually.

Lanza is in excellent voice for this one and audiences are offered generous servings of his vocal talent. He is provided with more than 15 selections, including arias from the operas "Norma," "Il Trovatore" and "Cavalleria Rusticana." There are also the title song, "Granada," "Lee-ah-Loo" and several satirized singing commercials.

Decorative Paula Corday as an impish opera diva, and with voice provided by Peggy Bonini, does several operatic duets with Lanza. Miss Morrow offers "Be My Love" and "You Do Something to Me" in fashion calculated to make audiences remember her. Whitmore's comedy relief is engaging and his contributions to story progress are substantial.

The Joe Pasternak production is in the traditional lavish MGM style. Alexander Hall directed for the most effective display of the talents being put on view.

Running time, 103 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Oct. 3.

"Bonzo Goes to College"

(Universal-International)

"BONZO GOES TO COLLEGE" is box-office by virtue of highly exploitable qualities of cast, the timely approaching opening of schools and football kick-offs and a promise to the paying customers of an hour-and-a-half of solid entertainment—almost always funwise—for which a really educated chimpanzee with a pronounced personality is to a large degree responsible.

Universal "sneaked" this one recently before a typical New York neighborhood cross-section audience, at the end of a hot day when the theatre's cooling system was the looked-for relief of many a jaded Jim and Jane. The "cooler inside" atmosphere was enjoyable. Director Frederick de Cordova's production was even more enjoyable.

Bonzo runs away from a carnival, wanders into the small-town residence of the Malcolm Drews (Charles Drake and Maureen O'Sullivan) and daughter Betsy (Gigi Perreau), and Malcolm's father (Edmund Gwenn). The complications leading up to the adoption of Bonzo as Gigi's "baby brother" are hilarious, and lead to a visit by Betsy's very wealthy grandfather (Gene Lockhart), who, answering Gigi's letter announcing the arrival of a "baby brother," expects to find just that. His reactions to the discovery of being the "grandfather" of a chimp are exactly what one would expect to tickle the risibilities no end.

Gwenn is the coach of the local Pawlton College football team, which is dated to play the rival Owens College. Pawlton is on the losing side when Bonzo, a full-accredited student and team member, makes several miraculous plays and carries the team to victory. How Bonzo enters college and his antics in school must be seen to be appreciated. Guidance of the chimp is really remarkable.

Production credit goes to Ted Richmond, with merit. Leo Lieberman and Jack Henley wrote the screenplay, quite satisfactorily suited to, and for Bonzo. 'Twas Lieberman's story, based upon the character "Bonzo," created by Raphael David Blau and Ted Berkman. Others in the cast are Irene Ryan, Guy Williams, John Miljan, David Janssen, Jerry Paris and Frank Nelson.

Running time, 79½ minutes. General audience classification. Release in September.

one-half of the 60 to date, the Justice Department spokesman said, and has therefore requested an extension of time.

A court order granting the extension will be necessary, but the Department will make no objection to it, he added. The deadline now set for the divestiture of the second third of the 180 theatres is March 3, 1953.

2 Reopen in Hartford

HARTFORD, Aug. 28.—Changes in the status of two Hartford theatres are reported. The Hartford Theatre Circuit will resume a first-run, foreign film policy at its 750-seat Art Theatre on Sunday. Closed since mid-June, the house will be managed by Joseph Dolgin, succeeding Henry L. Needles, resigned. This territory's only theatre with vaudeville, the 4,200-seat State, closed during the summer months as usual, will resume operations with its regular policy on Sept. 6.

and David A. Lipton, advertising-publicity vice-president.

Rackmil, who will return to New York on Tuesday, said he was "highly gratified by the efficient and effective operation of the studio. The best evidence of it is the number of successful pictures the studio is producing. The studio is operating under a realistic policy in which I wholly concur," he said.

The new U-I president expressed confidence in the future of the industry. He emphasized that there will be no change in the production policies of the studio, in effect for the past few years. As an indication of the company's confidence in the future, Rackmil pointed out that the U-I Technicolor commitments for the coming fiscal year will be the highest in its history.

The new schedule stipulates eight more features in color by Technicolor than were produced by the company during the current year. The company said this will make it the leading producer of Technicolor films for the third year in succession.

On the 1952-53 schedule are such Technicolor films as "Against All Flags," "City Beneath the Sea," "Meet Me at the Fair," "Mississippi Gambler," "Desert Legion," "Lone Hand," "Man From the Alamo," "Thunder Bay," "Vermilion O'Toole" and "Law and Order."

Black and white films will include "It Grows on Trees," "Because of You" and "Back at the Front."

Legion Reviews 9; All in Class A

Nine films were reviewed this week by the National Legion of Decency, all of which were put in Class A. Under Section 1, Class A were: "Because You're Mine," M-G-M; "Bonzo Goes to College," Universal-International; "Old Oklahoma Plains," Republic; and "Wagon Team," Columbia.

The following were under Section 11, Class A: "Captain Black Jack" (British), Classic Pictures; "Caribbean," Paramount; "The Devil Makes Three," M-G-M; "Eight Iron Men," Columbia; and "The Stranger in Between," (British), Universal-International.

"IVANHOE" IS QUOLOSSAL!

Within just a year, hitting the BIG JACKPOT twice is an achievement that's good not only for M-G-M customers but for the entire industry.

M-G-M's "IVANHOE" continues its phenomenal course. IMAGINE! One out of every seven persons in Cleveland, Houston, Frisco and Atlanta saw it in its first 25 days, and it's rolling merrily along. In New York City, 533,182 persons saw the picture in its first 25 days. Many of these are visitors who will carry back to their home towns, word-of-mouth praise of "IVANHOE", which sets a new all-time gross for any picture at the Music Hall in a similiar period. You'll soon be able to answer for yourself:

HOW BIG IS "IVANHOE"?

GET HOLD OF THOSE SENSATIONAL FIGURES FOR YOURSELVES, BOYS!

Results are in on the first fifty dates of Bob's biggest ever!

Check with showmen who've already grabbed it. They have the proof that it "leaves the cash register with that full, satisfied feeling" and "registers a clean sweep at the nation's boxoffices' —just as M. P. Herald and Showmen's Trade Review predicted it would!

NEWS WHILE IT IS NEWS

VOL. 72. NO. 44 NEW YORK, U. S. A., TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 2, 1952 TEN CENTS

Tradewise . . .

By SHERWIN KANE

HOW WELL the New York Times' editorial writers know Ellis Arnall, president of the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers, is immaterial in view of the observations they had to make of him last week in commenting upon his retirement as Federal Price Stabilizer.

The Times' editorial indicated the writer had been reviewing Arnall's activities and pronouncements only since last February when he accepted the Federal post. Yet many in the industry who have known Arnall well for the four years in which he has been president of SIMPP marvelled out loud at what they regarded as the accuracy of the Times' portrayal of the Arnall personality.

"Mr. Arnall's formula for keeping in the public eye," said the Times, "by issuing dire and quite unsupportable prophecies of ruinous inflation in the offing, was unique and highly successful in his case. . . . He reinforced the already widely held conviction that the job of price controller has some kind of magnetic attraction for 'colorful' personalities.

"Mr. Arnall had the faculty of making statements with which few agreed and which outraged many. But it was also completely in the tradition of his predecessors, and a tribute to his evident good intentions, that no matter how mad his critics may have got at Mr. Arnall's statistics, they rarely if ever thought of getting mad at the author himself."

That seems to be the same impression of Arnall which prevails in a large part of the industry. The Times' editorial served to remind many of the latter that much of Arnall's particular value to SIMPP lies in his ability to make those quite unsupported statements which outrage many, leaving them madder at the statements than at Arnall.

UNIVERSAL'S domestic billings week before last reached the magnificent total of $950,000, compared with a fine recent average of around $750,000.

There was no sales drive in progress; nothing special to account for it. Just a lot of "corny" pictures in release which some other studios say they will produce no more of because the market for them has "disappeared."

Seek Biggest Theatre TV Net for Bout

ATT Replies To MPA's TV Cost Request

Response Leaves Many Questions Begging

By MURRAY HOROWITZ

The American Telephone and Telegraph Co. has mailed its answer to the Motion Picture Association of America's request for theatre television transmission cost information.

The six-page response, while it does give copious cost data, leaves many questions begging, it was learned, and it is an open question whether the industry will feel the response is adequate. The request for the data also was made by the National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee.

The contents of the letter, sought by MPAA and NETTC before the opening of the Federal Communications Commission theatre TV hearings in October, were not disclosed. A spokesman for A.T.&T. said, however, that a diligent attempt was made to answer everything which the company felt could be worked out with the specifications forwarded to it. He

Reels Censorship Is Worst Kind, Ohio Court Is Told

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 1.—Several hard-hitting anti-censorship arguments, topped with the assertion that censorship of newsreels is "censorship in its most objectionable form," were contained in the final reply brief filed at the weekend by attorneys for exhibitor Martin G. Smith in the industry's campaign to wipe out newsreel censorship in Ohio.

Received in Toledo Municipal Court by Judge Frank W. Wiley, who will rule on the test case around Oct. 1, the Smith brief stated:

"The import of the decisions of the U. S. Supreme Court (in the "Pinky" and "Miracle" cases) is to impose upon the state responsibility for justifying the restraint in the censorship of newsreels, for the state has such responsibility when rights protected by the First and 14th Amendments to the Constitution are affected."

The final reply brief, prepared with the cooperation of the Motion Picture Association of America which joined with the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio in initiating the court test, holds also that the brief filed by the city attorneys "overlooks the real meaning of the Burstyn ("Miracle")

1st N. Y. Theatre TV Fight Sale at $4.20

The 50th Street Guild Theatre in Rockefeller Center here was the first in New York to put reserved seats for the theatre telecast of the Walcott-Marciano heavyweight title fight in Philadelphia, Sept. 23, on sale. A dozen other TV-equipped metropolitan houses still are dickering on terms.

All seats in the 450-seat house are priced at $4.20, including tax. Seat sale was opened last Friday and demand was reported good from the start.

NEWS FLASHES

For the three months ended June 28 the operations of RKO Pictures Corp. and subsidiary companies resulted in a net loss (unaudited), after all charges, of $1,756,181. This compares with a profit of $351,645 for the corresponding quarter last year.

Plan Rodner Unit At Rogers Hospital

A campaign to establish a Harold Rodner Research Section in the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital at Saranac Lake, N. Y., is being organized under the sponsorship of four Warner Brothers executives. Members of the committee are Samuel Schneider, chairman; Ben Kalmenson, Harry M. Kalmine and Herman Starr. Max B. Blackman of Warner's real estate department is secretary-treasurer.

Harold Rodner, Warner executive who died recently, had devoted a large part of his life to the maintenance and development of the institution at Saranac Lake.

Galaxy of Fox Stars To 'Snows' Premiere

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 1.—Twentieth Century-Fox will rearrange shooting plans to enable a large number of its stars to fly en masse to the world premiere of Darryl F. Zanuck's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" at New York's Rivoli Theatre, Sept. 17. Zanuck, now in Europe, will fly back for the premiere.

The stars' contingent will make the Coast-to-Coast trip by special plane, which will permit them only a few hours in New York for the opening. However, Ava Gardner, one of the picture's leading players, will arrive in New York from Hollywood Sept. 10, one week before the invitational premiere.

'Research' Is Ignored In Outline of TOA Meeting

Contrary to earlier publicity that top priority would be given at the forthcoming Theatre Owners of America annual convention to a program of scientific research for the industry, an outline by Mitchell Wolfson, president, to members of the top subjects to be discussed and acted upon makes no mention whatever of scientific research.

The outline, contained in a letter sent at the weekend, lists these major convention topics: (1) 16mm., (2) arbitration, (3) elimination of the 20 per cent Federal tax, and (4) theatre television.

The letter indicated that Wolfson expected the final arbitration draft, which the distributors have not officially approved as yet, would "be ready for discussion and approval." It was agreed during the drafting that exhibition would not act on the document until the distributors had approved it.

Wolfson's letter stated also that "there must be a thorough investigation of the problems and latest developments in all phases of exhibition, including concessions, drive-ins, etc." by the convention, which will be held Sept. 14-18 in Washington. "You must help us solve our mutual problems by attending all business sessions and by giving your voice and counsel" on the topics listed, Wolfson admonished.

The convention will be asked by Herman M. Levy, TOA counsel, to decide whether or not it wishes to take the necessary steps to have TOA made a party defendant in the government's 16mm. anti-trust suit to force the sale of such films to TV and other outlets competing with theatres. While it was named co-conspirator in the government's complaint, TOA was not included among the defendants. The latter included only producer-distributors.

The Pierre Balmain American collection will be shown in a world premiere to the wives of TOA members attending the convention. The collection will be presented by Julius Garfinckel and Co., on Sept. 16, at the ladies luncheon. Also on the TOA calendar will be a "Southern hospitality" brunch to all members and their wives on Sept. 15. Other social events will include a reception by President Truman, card parties, swimming, a Coca-Cola Showboat Party to Mount Vernon, a dinner sponsored by Pepsi-Cola and a cocktail party sponsored by Schenley's. The final evening will feature the president's banquet.

A. Julian Brylawski is convention chairman.

TOA Conciliation Panel for Memphis

MEMPHIS, Sept. 1.—Establishment of a Theatre Owners of America conciliation panel for the Memphis exchange area was announced at the weekend by M. A. Lightman, Jr., president of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Arkansas, Mississippi and Tennessee.

The panel, which will hear exhibitor trade practice complaints, includes: Herbert Kohn (chairman), Nathan Flexer, Jack Bomar, Terry Axley, R. B. Cox, T. E. Williams and R. X. Williams (alternate). After hearings the panel will take up the complaints with distributors.

Appeal to Mayor on Chi. 'Miracle' Ban

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—The American Civil Liberties Union today appealed to Mayor Kennelly to reverse the Chicago police censor board's ban on "The Miracle." An earlier appeal to Police Commissioner O'Connor had been turned down, and according to city ordinance, the final decision rests with the mayor.

The Civil Liberties Union has intimated that should the mayor refuse their request, legal action, based on the Supreme Court decision forbidding censorship on religious grounds, will be taken to assure exhibition of the picture.

The appeal was signed by Leon M. Despres, counsel for the ACLU, and Charles Liebman, attorney.

The A. Teitel Film Co. holds distribution rights to the picture in this exchange area.

'U,' Robert Goldstein Abrogate Contract

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 1.—Universal-International studios and Robert Goldstein, executive in charge of talent, mutually agreed to abrogate their contract, effective immediately.

Goldstein joined U-I in 1946, serving as studio representative in the New York office. He came to the studio in an executive capacity in 1950.

RKO Radio Detroit Manager Resigns

Murray Devaney has resigned his post as RKO Radio branch manager for Detroit, Robert Mochrie, vice-president and general sales manager, announced here at the weekend.

Devaney was succeeded by Otto N. Ebert, Jr., salesman from the Indianapolis exchange.

French capital. Before the State Department can accept the deal as a final agreement, the American companies must ratify it.

Having accepted the French decree slashing imports of American pictures from 121 to 90, the American negotiators in recent days have been aiming at an arrangement that would most favorably serve the U. S. companies in the remittance of earnings, said to total some $6,000,000.

The French issued their decree by making use of an escape clause in the international General Agreement on Trades and Tariffs. The French government, in other words, escaped the obligation to refrain from cutting imports by citing its present unfavorable fiscal position. This compelled the Motion Picture Export Association to accept what to it is an anathema, namely an out-and-out quota restriction. Hence, the U. S. negotiators took the position that they were entitled to be compensated for this with a remittance deal that the American companies could look upon as "favorable," it was said.

Allport will remain here to participate with Eric A. Johnston, MPAA president, other Association officials and Ellis G. Arnall, president of the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers, in the negotiations with Sir Frank Lee, Undersecretary of the British Board of Trade. Johnston will be present at the Thursday meeting.

Mpls. Neighborhood Houses Fight Loop's Trade Bid

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 1.—Neighborhood Minneapolis independent theatre owners are calling on outskirt business associations to lead an attack in opposition to the plan launched recently by the Street Railway company and downtown theatres to carry passengers free into the loop on Thursday evenings between 7 and 9 P.M. as part of a plan to bolster business there.

One protest meeting was held last Monday at the instigation of Martin Lebedoff, northside exhibitor, but action was postponed. Lebedoff contends the free rides into the loop are unlawful and he proposed counsel should be hired by the neighborhood business groups, including theatremen, to take action to halt the practice on legal grounds.

Ups Transit Patronage

Meantime, the street car company reports the initial tryouts of the free rides resulted in an overall increase of three and a half times in patronage for the 7-9 hour into and out of the Loop. Some Loop theatres, however, reported they could see "no appreciable" increase in ticket sales for the free ride period. Nevertheless, the neighborhood theatres are fighting the plan as being injurious to their business.

The streetcar company, which also operates in St. Paul, will extend the free ride plan into the loop there between 7 and 9 P.M., starting Sept. 4.

Minneapolis' COMPO Fund Drive Succeeds

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 1. — Almost unanimous exhibitor support was given in this zone to the Council of Motion Picture Organizations dues collections drive, which terminated Friday.

According to W. H. Workman, acting distributor committee chairman here, a number of small town exhibitors as well as some in larger situations have voluntarily made larger contributions than the committee had recommended to the salesmen-solicitors. When donations were made they were made wholeheartedly, he said. He termed the donations evidence of the seriousness with which exhibitors view COMPO's No. 1 project: repeal of the 20 per cent Federal admissions tax.

Berger Expanding Mpls. Operations

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 1.—The Jeub estate, owners of the Paradise Theatre here, has taken under consideration an offer for the house by Ben Berger, Minneapolis circuit operator. No price has been revealed, but reports estimate it at just below $60,000. It is understood Berger will completely remodel and re-equip the Paradise if his bid is accepted. The house has recently been operated by Clyde Cutter on a week-to-week basis. The Paradise was operated by Berger in partnership with the late Al Steffes a number of years ago. Berger also recently acquired the Aster Theatre property, closed, which is under lease to Minnesota Amusement Co. until Oct. 31, 1953.

O'Donnell to Address So. Dakota Showmen

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 1. — R. J. O'Donnell is expected to reveal plans for a new "Movietime, U.S.A." campaign at the South Dakota Exhibitors meeting in Huron on Thursday. In addition to a speech on the Compo fight to repeal the 20 per cent admission tax, O'Donnell may report on details of the progress made at the recent Compo conferences in Hollywood with production executives, in which he participated.

reportedly go into effect shortly, the playing time of a group of Skouras theatres, said to number between six and nine, has been moved up, allowing them the same day and dates for product as an equal number of Loew's Metropolitan theatres.

The pact, apparently the culmination of months of negotiations, came on the heels of a threatened multi-million dollar suit by Skouras Theatres. Also involved in the Skouras complaint was RKO Theatres here, with which no settlement has been reached yet.

The move-up affects product of major distributors played by Loew's here, such as M-G-M, Paramount, United Artists and Columbia.

Loew's and Skouras executives declined to comment on the settlement details.

250,000 See Film Exhibit

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 1.—Biggest "boxoffice" attraction here last week was the "Hollywood At The Fair" exhibit at Ohio State Fair, sponsored by the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio, according to Robert Wile, ITO executive secretary, who estimated that total attendance for the week was over 250,000.

Marjorie Main, was the stellar attraction at the exhibit. She also appeared in several fair parades and was presented to grandstand crowds.

Columbus theatremen manned the fair during the week, aided by salesmen from the Cincinnati exchanges. The list of workers included: Arthur Miller, Miles circuit; Lee Hofheimer and Charles Sugarman, H. and S. theatres; Charles Fisher, Neth Theatres; Milton Yassenoff, Academy circuit; C. Harry Schreiber, RKO theatres; William Queen, Bernard Ginley and Lou Holleb, independents, and Walter Kessler and Fred Oestreicher, Loew's.

Cincinnati salesmen included Dave Little, RKO Radio; Arthur Adams, M-G-M; Sam Weiss, 20th Century-Fox; James Gentile, Paramount; Robert Burns, Warner Brothers; Dave Stenger, Columbia and James Grady, Universal.

The whole exhibit was moved to the Indiana State Fair, Indianapolis, Saturday. William A. Carroll, secretary of Indiana Allied and William Green, exploitation representative, visited the exhibit here.

case, which is the overruling of the Mutual case in holding that motion pictures are within the protection of the First Amendment to the Constitution and are within the guarantees provided in that Amendment for freedom of speech and the press."

The basic premise of the city's brief, which reflected the views of the Ohio attorney-general, was that there is "little restraint" on the showing of newsreels in Ohio. In that particular quote, the Smith reply asserted, is testimony that "restraint exists in every case whether or not a deletion is made." This restraint, continued the reply, has "two aspects: the requirement of prior submission of every film to the censors, and exaction of a tax on every newsreel print shown in Ohio. The prior restraint is apparent. The number of deletions has no relevance in determining the existing of a prior restraint."

The defense stated also that "The state has made no move to demonstrate that the censorship of newsreels under the standards imposed by the Ohio statute is justified for any purpose."

The Smith brief also charged that the censorship fee in Ohio is a "flat license tax imposed on the exercise of a Constitutional right." Even if the Constitutional immunity from censorship provided by the First Amendment was not involved in this case, it continued, "the state would have the burden of showing that the license fee was suffjcient only to defray the expense of licensing. This the state could not do because the Ohio statutes and the evidence in this case show conclusively that the censorship charges are many times in excess of the cost."

The final brief derided the claim that the defense would have to show that the tax was "confiscatory."

On the question whether newsreels could be equated with newspapers, Smith replied: "The court will recall that the evidence showed that newsreels are prepared in much the same way as the news is gathered by newspapers and that newsreel cameramen have the same privileges as newspaper reporters. It is apparent that newsreels disseminate news through pictures and sound just as newspapers disseminate news in print and pictorial form and that in a functional sense newsreels are as much the press as newspapers themselves. To impose prior restraint and a performance tax on only one form of news dissemination is obviously discriminatory and unlawful."

"Monkey Business"

YOUTH APPEARS TO BE a particularly unattractive time of life, if the zany goings-on in Howard Hawks' "Monkey Business" are any criterion. Cary Grant, Ginger Rogers and Charles Coburn turn back the clock and revert from well-adjusted maturity to irresponsible, scatterbrained youth while Marilyn Monroe looks on wide-eyed, with all her assets visible, in this hilarious tale of a chemist in search of a youth serum. Sol C. Siegel produced and Howard Hawks directed the lively series of incredible events.

Grant, absent-minded but charming research chemist, is blessed with an understanding wife, Miss Rogers, who patiently puts up with her husband's peculiarities while he is absorbed in the problem of discovering a formula that will cancel the infirmities of age and which his boss, Coburn, is impatiently waiting to sample as well as to market. Grant decides to try the mixture on himself. Unknowingly, he washes it down with water into which an imitative chimpanzee has poured a less-scientific but more effective concoction, whereupon he experiences a temporary rejuvenation during which he gets a crew haircut, buys a loud sports jacket and an equally loud car, and rollerskates with Miss Monroe, the boss' beautiful-but-dumb secretary. Successively, the same water source is tapped by Miss Rogers, by Grant and Miss Rogers together and by Coburn and his entire board of directors with equally ludicrous results. Coburn, while under the influence of the mixture, makes Grant chief researcher of the company for life, so that when everyone returns to his original age one bit of permanent good has resulted even though only the chimp knows what the highly-effective formula contained.

The screen play by Ben Hecht, Charles Lederer and I. A. L. Diamond, from a story by Harry Segall, is sprinkled with much very adult double entendre and an equal amount of extremely juvenile slapstick, a most unusual combination. Grant, Coburn and Miss Rogers enter into the proceedings wholeheartedly but seem a trifle wasted in such obvious roles. Miss Monroe performs adequately in a rather slim part. Supporting roles are well cast, most noteworthy being Hugh Marlowe as a former beau of Miss Rogers; the bass-voiced child, George Winslow, and Peggy, the chimp.

Running time, 97 minutes. General audience classification. September release.

"Casque d'Or"

(Discina)

GOOD performances by a cast headed by Simone Signoret and Claude Dauphin fail to overcome the near-depressing sordidness of much of this film of lust and murder in the Paris of a half-century ago. It is strictly adult fare for the houses specializing in imported film fare. The English subtitles are adequate for the French production of the Frenchman's preoccupation.

As the "moll" of a small-time Parisian mobster, Mlle. Signoret first attracts the attention of Serge Reggiani, a carpenter who is goaded into murdering her boy friend for her affections. Once done, the couple are able to spend several days in a tryst outside Paris, but return when one of Reggiani's pals is picked up on the murder charge. He gives himself up, only to escape to seek revenge on the informer who, like all the other men in the cast, also has designs on Mlle. Signoret. The carpenter pays for his deeds on the guillotine and Mlle. Signoret goes on, presumably, sadder and wiser.

Jacques Becker directed the screenplay which he wrote in collaboration with Jacques Companeez. Production was supervised by Henri Baum.

Running time, 96 minutes. Adult audience classification. Release date, Aug. 18.

earlier. The June 1952 figure was only $23,039,083 and the previous highest 1952 month was April, with $25,787,461.

Total admission tax collections, including general admission taxes, roof garden and cabaret taxes and various overcharges, were up over last July. They amounted to $32,692,511, compared with $32,454,427.

Meanwhile, the Census Bureau reported over the weekend that amusement taxes collected by states during fiscal 1952 reached a total of $13,940,000, topping the 1951 figures by a little more than a million dollars.

Collections for licenses in the amusement field were $5,044,000 in 1952, the bureau said, a small drop from the 1951 total of $5,066,000. Amusement tax figures for both years included 32 states. The license figures for the two years covered 37 states.

Bureau spokesmen said that although they had no figure on how much theatre admissions taxes or motion picture theatre licenses represented in the total tax collections, they thought other taxes accounted for the bulk of the totals in most states. For example, they said, gambling taxes accounted for by far the largest part of the Nevada totals, and horse racing taxes bulked largest in the Kentucky totals. The figures cover the 1952 fiscal year, ending last June.

Cinerama Promotes Latady and Fling

William R. Latady, who has been in charge of technical development for Cinerama, Inc., owners of the new multi-dimensional motion picture process, has been made vice-president and general manager of the firm. Latady will handle installation of Cinerama equipment in theatres showing the new medium.

In another organizational change, Wentworth Fling, formerly director of sound development for Cinerama, has been made vice-president in charge of engineering. Fling just finished directing the sound recording of "This Is Cinerama," its first production, which will be shown at the Broadway Theatre here this month.

the fight, slated for Sept. 23 in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium, commitments by theatres will have to be made shortly.

The availability of the bout to television equipped theatres in New York just about offsets the number of theatres lost due to the "black-out" in Philadelphia, Chester, Camden and the Boston-Providence area. There are about a dozen theatres in the New York area equipped with theatre TV.

The Robinson-Maxim bout last June 23, which attracted 38 theatres in 24 cities, is expected to be surpassed by the upcoming Walcott bout, considered one of the greatest in the last decade and which is expected to draw a $1,000,000 gate.

Like the Robinson-Maxim bout little possibility was seen that the Walcott bout could be made available to West Coast TV-equipped theatres due to the lack of American Telephone and Telegraph long line facilities.

Meanwhile, RKO Radio has confirmed that it acquired the motion picture rights to the bout but declined to disclose terms or the basis on which the fight film will be sold to theatres. For the Robinson-Turpin fight film last year, RKO Radio posted a substantial guaranty and asked exhibitors to close contracts for the film in advance.

The A.T.&T. response was mailed late Thursday and should have been received in Washington headquarters of NETTC and MPAA over the weekend.

Todd Show's Closing Balks Video Test

Mike Todd's "A Night in Venice" show, staged at Jones Beach's Marine Stadium, N. Y., will close Saturday, thus killing the possibility of it being utilized as an experimental theatre television program as envisioned by Si Fabian of Fabian Theatres.

According to a Todd spokesman the closing forestalls any possible success of negotiations with Actors Equity. It was Equity's demand for a full week's wage for every member of the cast which blocked the original plan to theatre telecast a part of the show at the Warner Theatre here.

Greshler In 3-Way Activity Expansion

Hollywood producer Abner J. Greshler who is visiting here, disclosed expansion of his activities on three separate planes.

He has (1) acquired world rights to "Emergency Call" from Butchers Films of England and has purchased rights for all world markets for several other Butchers' productions; (2) purchased a collection of short subjects produced as far back as 1895 and will edit these into a 40-minute subject; (3) arranged to produce 14 features in Great Britain with casts of American stars.

Here from the Coast to arrange a distribution deal for "Emergency Call," Greshler reminded that he is committed also to produce the next Martin and Lewis picture for Paramount. It is scheduled to be finished before February, 1953. He is credited with having "discovered" the comedy team for pictures.

The first three of the 14 he will make in England are titled "Paul Temple Returns," "Love Is a Luxury," and "Madam Louise." Robert Parish and Lewis Gilbert have been engaged to direct them.

Included in the collection of short subjects Greshler has purchased for welding into a single subject are some starring John Bunny, Roland Young and Walter Huston. Many of them were made in Italy, Spain, France, Portugal and Great Britain. Merian Cooper will collaborate on the editing.

Accurate Concise and Impartial

VOL. 72. NO. 44 NEW YORK, U.S.A., TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 2, 1952 TEN CENTS

Tradewise...

By SHERWIN KANE

HOW WELL the New York Times' editorial writers know Ellis Arnall, president of the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers, is immaterial in view of the observations they had to make of him last week in commenting upon his retirement as Federal Price Stabilizer.

The Times' editorial indicated the writer had been reviewing Arnall's activities and pronouncements only since last February when he accepted the Federal post. Yet many in the industry who have known Arnall well for the four years in which he has been president of SIMPP marvelled out loud at what they regarded as the accuracy of the Times' portrayal of the Arnall personality.

"Mr. Arnall's formula for keeping in the public eye," said the Times, "by issuing dire and quite unsupportable prophecies of ruinous inflation in the offing, was unique and highly successful in his case. . . . He reinforced the already widely held conviction that the job of price controller has some kind of magnetic attraction for 'colorful' personalities.

"Mr. Arnall had the faculty of making statements with which few agreed and which outraged many. But it was also completely in the tradition of his predecessors, and a tribute to his evident good intentions, that no matter how mad his critics may have got at Mr. Arnall's statistics, they rarely if ever thought of getting mad at the author himself."

That seems to be the same impression of Arnall which prevails in a large part of the industry. The Times' editorial served to remind many of the latter that much of Arnall's particular value to SIMPP lies in his ability to make those quite unsupported statements which outrage many, leaving them madder at the statements than at Arnall.

ATT Replies To MPA's TV Cost Request

Response Leaves Many Questions Begging

By MURRAY HOROWITZ

The American Telephone and Telegraph Co. has mailed its answer to the Motion Picture Association of America's request for theatre television transmission cost information.

The six-page response, while it does give copious cost data, leaves many questions begging, it was learned, and it is an open question whether the industry will feel the response is adequate. The request for the data also was made by the National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee.

The contents of the letter, sought by MPAA and NETTC before the opening of the Federal Communications Commission theatre TV hearings in October, were not disclosed. A spokesman for A.T.&T. said, however, that a diligent attempt was made to answer everything which the company felt could be worked out with the specifications forwarded to it. He

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 1.—Several hard-hitting anti-censorship arguments, topped with the assertion that censorship of newsreels is "censorship in its most objectionable form," were contained in the final reply brief filed at the weekend by attorneys for exhibitor Martin G. Smith in the industry's campaign to wipe out newsreel censorship in Ohio.

Received in Toledo Municipal Court by Judge Frank W. Wiley, who will rule on the test case around Oct. 1, the Smith brief stated:

"The import of the decisions of the U. S. Supreme Court (in the "Pinky" and "Miracle" cases) is to impose upon the state responsibility for justifying the restraint in the censorship of newsreels, for the state has such responsibility when rights protected by the First and 14th Amendments to the Constitution are affected."

The final reply brief, prepared with the cooperation of the Motion Picture Association of America which joined with the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio in initiating the court test, holds also that the brief filed by the city attorneys "overlooks the real meaning of the Burstyn ("Miracle")

1st N. Y. Theatre TV Fight Sale at $4.20

The 50th Street Guild Theatre in Rockefeller Center here was the first in New York to put reserved seats for the theatre telecast of the Walcott-Marciano heavyweight title fight in Philadelphia, Sept. 23, on sale. A dozen other TV-equipped metropolitan houses still are dickering on terms.

All seats in the 450-seat house are priced at $4.20, including tax. Seat sale was opened last Friday and demand was reported good from the start.

RKO Pictures 6 Mos. Loss Is $3,712,834

Operations of RKO Pictures Corp. and subsidiary companies for the three months ended June 28 resulted in a net loss (unaudited), after all charges, of $1,756,181. The result compares with profit of $351,645 for the corresponding quarter last year.

For the six months ended June 28, RKO Pictures' operations resulted in a net loss (unaudited), after all charges, of $3,712,834, which compares with a loss of $734,720 for the same period of 1951.

Loew's, UATC Get More Split-up Time

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The Justice Department has given Loew's and United Artists Theatre Circuit another brief extension of the deadlines for terminating joint interests in a few remaining theatres.

The companies now have until Sept. 6 to submit a dissolution plan or until Sept. 13 to actually start court action to dissolve the interests.

Galaxy of Fox Stars To 'Snows' Premiere

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 1.—Twentieth Century-Fox will rearrange shooting plans to enable a large number of its stars to fly en masse to the world premiere of Darryl F. Zanuck's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" at New York's Rivoli Theatre, Sept. 17. Zanuck, now in Europe, will fly back for the premiere.

The stars' contingent will make the Coast-to-Coast trip by special plane, which will permit them only a few hours in New York for the opening. However, Ava Gardner, one of the picture's leading players, will arrive in New York from Hollywood Sept. 10, one week before the invitational premiere.

'Research' Is Ignored In Outline of TOA Meeting

TOA Conciliation Panel for Memphis

MEMPHIS, Sept. 1.—Establishment of a Theatre Owners of America conciliation panel for the Memphis exchange area was announced at the weekend by M. A. Lightman, Jr., president of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Arkansas, Mississippi and Tennessee.

The panel, which will hear exhibitor trade practice complaints, includes: Herbert Kohn (chairman), Nathan Flexer, Jack Bomar, Terry Axley, R. B. Cox, T. E. Williams and R. X. Williams (alternate). After hearings the panel will take up the complaints with distributors.

Contrary to earlier publicity that top priority would be given at the forthcoming Theatre Owners of America annual convention to a program of scientific research for the industry, an outline by Mitchell Wolfson, president, to members of the top subjects to be discussed and acted upon makes no mention whatever of scientific research.

The outline, contained in a letter sent at the weekend, lists these major convention topics: (1) 16mm., (2) arbitration, (3) elimination of the 20 per cent Federal tax, and (4) theatre television.

The letter indicated that Wolfson expected the final arbitration draft, which the distributors have not officially approved as yet, would "be ready for discussion and approval." It was agreed during the drafting that exhibition would not act on the document until the distributors had approved it.

Wolfson's letter stated also that "there must be a thorough investigation of the problems and latest developments in all phases of exhibition, including concessions, drive-ins, etc." by the convention, which will be held Sept. 14-18 in Washington. "You must help us solve our mutual problems by attending all business sessions and by giving your voice and counsel" on the topics listed, Wolfson admonished.

The convention will be asked by Herman M. Levy, TOA counsel, to decide whether or not it wishes to take the necessary steps to have TOA made a party defendant in the government's 16mm. anti-trust suit to force the sale of such films to TV and other outlets competing with theatres. While it was named co-conspirator in the government's complaint, TOA was not included among the defendants. The latter included only producer-distributors.

The Pierre Balmain American collection will be shown in a world premiere to the wives of TOA members attending the convention. The collection will be presented by Julius Garfinckel and Co., on Sept. 16, at the ladies luncheon. Also on the TOA calendar will be a "Southern hospitality" brunch to all members and their wives on Sept. 15. Other social events will include a reception by President Truman, card parties, swimming, a Coca-Cola Showboat Party to Mount Vernon, a dinner sponsored by Pepsi-Cola and a cocktail party sponsored by Schenley's. The final evening will feature the president's banquet.

A. Julian Brylawski is convention chairman.

Appeal to Mayor on Chi. 'Miracle' Ban

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—The American Civil Liberties Union today appealed to Mayor Kennelly to reverse the Chicago police censor board's ban on "The Miracle." An earlier appeal to Police Commissioner O'Connor had been turned down, and according to city ordinance, the final decision rests with the mayor.

The Civil Liberties Union has intimated that should the mayor refuse their request, legal action, based on the Supreme Court decision forbidding censorship on religious grounds, will be taken to assure exhibition of the picture.

The appeal was signed by Leon M. Despres, counsel for the ACLU, and Charles Liebman, attorney.

The A. Teitel Film Co. holds distribution rights to the picture in this exchange area.

'U,' Robert Goldstein Abrogate Contract

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 1.—Universal-International studios and Robert Goldstein, executive in charge of talent, mutually agreed to abrogate their contract, effective immediately.

Goldstein joined U-I in 1946, serving as studio representative in the New York office. He came to the studio in an executive capacity in 1950.

RKO Radio Detroit Manager Resigns

Murray Devaney has resigned his post as RKO Radio branch manager for Detroit, Robert Mochrie, vice-president and general sales manager, announced here at the weekend.

Devaney was succeeded by Otto N. Ebert, Jr., salesman from the Indianapolis exchange.

French, UK Deals

French capital. Before the State Department can accept the deal as a final agreement, the American companies must ratify it.

Having accepted the French decree slashing imports of American pictures from 121 to 90, the American negotiators in recent days have been aiming at an arrangement that would most favorably serve the U. S. companies in the remittance of earnings, said to total some $6,000,000.

The French issued their decree by making use of an escape clause in the international General Agreement on Trades and Tariffs. The French government, in other words, escaped the obligation to refrain from cutting imports by citing its present unfavorable fiscal position. This compelled the Motion Picture Export Association to accept what to it is an anathema, namely an out-and-out quota restriction. Hence, the U. S. negotiators took the position that they were entitled to be compensated for this with a remittance deal that the American companies could look upon as "favorable," it was said.

Allport will remain here to participate with Eric A. Johnston, MPAA president, other Association officials and Ellis G. Arnall, president of the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers, in the negotiations with Sir Frank Lee, Undersecretary of the British Board of Trade. Johnston will be present at the Thursday meeting.

Mpls. Neighborhood Houses Fight Loop's Trade Bid

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 1.—Neighborhood Minneapolis independent theatre owners are calling on outskirt business associations to lead an attack in opposition to the plan launched recently by the Street Railway company and downtown theatres to carry passengers free into the loop on Thursday evenings between 7 and 9 P.M. as part of a plan to bolster business there.

One protest meeting was held last Monday at the instigation of Martin Lebedoff, northside exhibitor, but action was postponed. Lebedoff contends the free rides into the loop are unlawful and he proposed counsel should be hired by the neighborhood business groups, including theatremen, to take action to halt the practice on legal grounds.

Ups Transit Patronage

Meantime, the street car company reports the initial tryouts of the free rides resulted in an overall increase of three and a half times in patronage for the 7-9 hour into and out of the Loop. Some Loop theatres, however, reported they could see "no appreciable" increase in ticket sales for the free ride period. Nevertheless, the neighborhood theatres are fighting the plan as being injurious to their business.

The streetcar company, which also operates in St. Paul, will extend the free ride plan into the loop there between 7 and 9 P.M., starting Sept. 4.

Minneapolis' COMPO Fund Drive Succeeds

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 1. — Almost unanimous exhibitor support was given in this zone to the Council of Motion Picture Organizations dues collections drive, which terminated Friday.

According to W. H. Workman, acting distributor committee chairman here, a number of small town exhibitors as well as some in larger situations have voluntarily made larger contributions than the committee had recommended to the salesmen-solicitors. When donations were made they were made wholeheartedly, he said. He termed the donations evidence of the seriousness with which exhibitors view COMPO's No. 1 project: repeal of the 20 per cent Federal admissions tax.

Berger Expanding Mpls. Operations

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 1.—The Jeub estate, owners of the Paradise Theatre here, has taken under consideration an offer for the house by Ben Berger, Minneapolis circuit operator. No price has been revealed, but reports estimate it at just below $60,000. It is understood Berger will completely remodel and re-equip the Paradise if his bid is accepted. The house has recently been operated by Clyde Cutter on a week-to-week basis. The Paradise was operated by Berger in partnership with the late Al Steffes a number of years ago. Berger also recently acquired the Aster Theatre property, closed, which is under lease to Minnesota Amusement Co. until Oct. 31, 1953.

O'Donnell to Address So. Dakota Showmen

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 1. — R. J. O'Donnell is expected to reveal plans for a new "Movietime, U.S.A." campaign at the South Dakota Exhibitors meeting in Huron on Thursday. In addition to a speech on the Compo fight to repeal the 20 per cent admission tax, O'Donnell may report on details of the progress made at the recent Compo conferences in Hollywood with production executives, in which he participated.

reportedly go into effect shortly, the playing time of a group of Skouras theatres, said to number between six and nine, has been moved up, allowing them the same day and dates for product as an equal number of Loew's Metropolitan theatres.

The pact, apparently the culmination of months of negotiations, came on the heels of a threatened multi-million dollar suit by Skouras Theatres. Also involved in the Skouras complaint was RKO Theatres here, with which no settlement has been reached yet.

The move-up affects product of major distributors played by Loew's here, such as M-G-M, Paramount, United Artists and Columbia.

Loew's and Skouras executives declined to comment on the settlement details.

250,000 See Film Exhibit

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 1.—Biggest "boxoffice" attraction here last week was the "Hollywood At The Fair" exhibit at Ohio State Fair, sponsored by the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio, according to Robert Wile, ITO executive secretary, who estimated that total attendance for the week was over 250,000.

Marjorie Main, was the stellar attraction at the exhibit. She also appeared in several fair parades and was presented to grandstand crowds.

Columbus theatremen manned the fair during the week, aided by salesmen from the Cincinnati exchanges. The list of workers included: Arthur Miller, Miles circuit; Lee Hofheimer and Charles Sugarman, H. and S. theatres; Charles Fisher, Neth Theatres; Milton Yassenoff, Academy circuit; C. Harry Schreiber, RKO theatres; William Queen, Bernard Ginley and Lou Holleb, independents, and Walter Kessler and Fred Oestreicher, Loew's.

Cincinnati salesmen included Dave Little, RKO Radio; Arthur Adams, M-G-M; Sam Weiss, 20th Century-Fox; James Gentile, Paramount; Robert Burns, Warner Brothers; Dave Stenger, Columbia and James Grady, Universal.

The whole exhibit was moved to the Indiana State Fair, Indianapolis, Saturday. William A. Carroll, secretary of Indiana Allied and William Green, exploitation representative, visited the exhibit here.

case, which is the overruling of the Mutual case in holding that motion pictures are within the protection of the First Amendment to the Constitution and are within the guarantees provided in that Amendment for freedom of speech and the press."

The basic premise of the city's brief, which reflected the views of the Ohio attorney-general, was that there is "little restraint" on the showing of newsreels in Ohio. In that particular quote, the Smith reply asserted, is testimony that "restraint exists in every case whether or not a deletion is made." This restraint, continued the reply, has "two aspects: the requirement of prior submission of every film to the censors, and exaction of a tax on every newsreel print shown in Ohio. The prior restraint is apparent. The number of deletions has no relevance in determining the existing of a prior restraint."

The defense stated also that "The state has made no move to demonstrate that the censorship of newsreels under the standards imposed by the Ohio statute is justified for any purpose."

The Smith brief also charged that the censorship fee in Ohio is a "flat license tax imposed on the exercise of a Constitutional right." Even if the Constitutional immunity from censorship provided by the First Amendment was not involved in this case, it continued, "the state would have the burden of showing that the license fee was suffjcient only to defray the expense of licensing. This the state could not do because the Ohio statutes and the evidence in this case show conclusively that the censorship charges are many times in excess of the cost."

The final brief derided the claim that the defense would have to show that the tax was "confiscatory."

On the question whether newsreels could be equated with newspapers, Smith replied: "The court will recall that the evidence showed that newsreels are prepared in much the same way as the news is gathered by newspapers and that newsreel cameramen have the same privileges as newspaper reporters. It is apparent that newsreels disseminate news through pictures and sound just as newspapers disseminate news in print and pictorial form and that in a functional sense newsreels are as much the press as newspapers themselves. To impose prior restraint and a performance tax on only one form of news dissemination is obviously discriminatory and unlawful."

"Monkey Business"

YOUTH APPEARS TO BE a particularly unattractive time of life, if the zany goings-on in Howard Hawks' "Monkey Business" are any criterion. Cary Grant, Ginger Rogers and Charles Coburn turn back the clock and revert from well-adjusted maturity to irresponsible, scatterbrained youth while Marilyn Monroe looks on wide-eyed, with all her assets visible, in this hilarious tale of a chemist in search of a youth serum. Sol C. Siegel produced and Howard Hawks directed the lively series of incredible events.

Grant, absent-minded but charming research chemist, is blessed with an understanding wife, Miss Rogers, who patiently puts up with her husband's peculiarities while he is absorbed in the problem of discovering a formula that will cancel the infirmities of age and which his boss, Coburn, is impatiently waiting to sample as well as to market. Grant decides to try the mixture on himself. Unknowingly, he washes it down with water into which an imitative chimpanzee has poured a less-scientific but more effective concoction, whereupon he experiences a temporary rejuvenation during which he gets a crew haircut, buys a loud sports jacket and an equally loud car, and rollerskates with Miss Monroe, the boss' beautiful-but-dumb secretary. Successively, the same water source is tapped by Miss Rogers, by Grant and Miss Rogers together and by Coburn and his entire board of directors with equally ludicrous results. Coburn, while under the influence of the mixture, makes Grant chief researcher of the company for life, so that when everyone returns to his original age one bit of permanent good has resulted even though only the chimp knows what the highly-effective formula contained.

The screen play by Ben Hecht, Charles Lederer and I. A. L. Diamond, from a story by Harry Segall, is sprinkled with much very adult double entendre and an equal amount of extremely juvenile slapstick, a most unusual combination. Grant, Coburn and Miss Rogers enter into the proceedings wholeheartedly but seem a trifle wasted in such obvious roles. Miss Monroe performs adequately in a rather slim part. Supporting roles are well cast, most noteworthy being Hugh Marlowe as a former beau of Miss Rogers; the bass-voiced child, George Winslow, and Peggy, the chimp.

Running time, 97 minutes. General audience classification. September release.

"Casque d'Or"

(Discina)

GOOD performances by a cast headed by Simone Signoret and Claude Dauphin fail to overcome the near-depressing sordidness of much of this film of lust and murder in the Paris of a half-century ago. It is strictly adult fare for the houses specializing in imported film fare. The English subtitles are adequate for the French production of the Frenchman's preoccupation.

As the "moll" of a small-time Parisian mobster, Mlle. Signoret first attracts the attention of Serge Reggiani, a carpenter who is goaded into murdering her boy friend for her affections. Once done, the couple are able to spend several days in a tryst outside Paris, but return when one of Reggiani's pals is picked up on the murder charge. He gives himself up, only to escape to seek revenge on the informer who, like all the other men in the cast, also has designs on Mlle. Signoret. The carpenter pays for his deeds on the guillotine and Mlle. Signoret goes on, presumably, sadder and wiser.

Jacques Becker directed the screenplay which he wrote in collaboration with Jacques Companeez. Production was supervised by Henri Baum.

Running time, 96 minutes. Adult audience classification. Release date, Aug. 18.

Total admission tax collections, including general admission taxes, roof garden and cabaret taxes and various overcharges, were up over last July. They amounted to $32,692,511, compared with $32,454,427.

Meanwhile, the Census Bureau reported over the weekend that amusement taxes collected by states during fiscal 1952 reached a total of $13,940,000, topping the 1951 figures by a little more than a million dollars.

Collections for licenses in the amusement field were $5,044,000 in 1952, the bureau said, a small drop from the 1951 total of $5,066,000. Amusement tax figures for both years included 32 states. The license figures for the two years covered 37 states.

Bureau spokesmen said that although they had no figure on how much theatre admissions taxes or motion picture theatre licenses represented in the total tax collections, they thought other taxes accounted for the bulk of the totals in most states. For example, they said, gambling taxes accounted for by far the largest part of the Nevada totals, and horse racing taxes bulked largest in the Kentucky totals. The figures cover the 1952 fiscal year, ending last June.

Cinerama Promotes Latady and Fling

William R. Latady, who has been in charge of technical development for Cinerama, Inc., owners of the new multi-dimensional motion picture process, has been made vice-president and general manager of the firm. Latady will handle installation of Cinerama equipment in theatres showing the new medium.

In another organizational change, Wentworth Fling, formerly director of sound development for Cinerama, has been made vice-president in charge of engineering. Fling just finished directing the sound recording of "This Is Cinerama," its first production, which will be shown at the Broadway Theatre here this month.

Plastic upholstery material with a backing of nylon and virgin wool designed to produce uniform stretchability in all directions has been placed on the market by Bolta Products Sales, Inc., Lawrence, Mass. Trade-named "Nylonized Boltaflex," the material has been developed to avoid stiffness, strike-through and directional tearing. Because of its pliancy, the manufacturer states, it fits easily around the corners of furniture and provides a cushioned appearance even when the material goes over a sharp, wooden corner. The face sheet of the material is standard 20-gauge Boltaflex plastic while the back has ten component parts, primarily nylon and virgin wool.

the fight, slated for Sept. 23 in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium, commitments by theatres will have to be made shortly.

The availability of the bout to television equipped theatres in New York just about offsets the number of theatres lost due to the "black-out" in Philadelphia, Chester, Camden and the Boston-Providence area. There are about a dozen theatres in the New York area equipped with theatre TV.

The Robinson-Maxim bout last June 23, which attracted 38 theatres in 24 cities, is expected to be surpassed by the upcoming Walcott bout, considered one of the greatest in the last decade and which is expected to draw a $1,000,000 gate.

Like the Robinson-Maxim bout little possibility was seen that the Walcott bout could be made available to West Coast TV-equipped theatres due to the lack of American Telephone and Telegraph long line facilities.

Meanwhile, RKO Radio has confirmed that it acquired the motion picture rights to the bout but declined to disclose terms or the basis on which the fight film will be sold to theatres. For the Robinson-Turpin fight film last year, RKO Radio posted a substantial guaranty and asked exhibitors to close contracts for the film in advance.

Todd Show's Closing Balks Video Test

Mike Todd's "A Night in Venice" show, staged at Jones Beach's Marine Stadium, N. Y., will close Saturday, thus killing the possibility of it being utilized as an experimental theatre television program as envisioned by Si Fabian of Fabian Theatres.

According to a Todd spokesman the closing forestalls any possible success of negotiations with Actors Equity. It was Equity's demand for a full week's wage for every member of the cast which blocked the original plan to theatre telecast a part of the show at the Warner Theatre here.

Several years ago we toured the South and spent some time in Nashville doing a couple of columns on "Grand Ole Opry" and its colorful artists. A young cowboy singer named Pee Wee King took us in hand and helped us considerably in getting to see the right people and right places. Since then the good-looking and talented lad has branched out as a top Victor Recording Artist and composer of "Tennessee Waltz" and "Slow Poke." He went to the Coast to appear in Gene Autry's "Goldmine In The Sky" flicker and returned to Louisville to head "The Pee Wee King Show," a new NBCountry-style radio series starting Sat. Sept. 6, 9:00-9:30 P.M. Pee Wee in name but Big Time in talent, personality and character. . . .

Hollywood producer Abner J. Greshler who is visiting here, disclosed expansion of his activities on three separate planes.

He has (1) acquired world rights to "Emergency Call" from Butchers Films of England and has purchased rights for all world markets for several other Butchers' productions; (2) purchased a collection of short subjects produced as far back as 1895 and will edit these into a 40-minute subject; (3) arranged to produce 14 features in Great Britain with casts of American stars.

Here from the Coast to arrange a distribution deal for "Emergency Call," Greshler reminded that he is committed also to produce the next Martin and Lewis picture for Paramount. It is scheduled to be finished before February, 1953. He is credited with having "discovered" the comedy team for pictures.

The first three of the 14 he will make in England are titled "Paul Temple Returns," "Love Is a Luxury," and "Madam Louise." Robert Parish and Lewis Gilbert have been engaged to direct them.

Included in the collection of short subjects Greshler has purchased for welding into a single subject are some starring John Bunny, Roland Young and Walter Huston. Many of them were made in Italy, Spain, France, Portugal and Great Britain. Merian Cooper will collaborate on the editing.

Denied TV License, FPC Gets Telemeter

TORONTO, Sept. 1.—Famous Players Canadan Corp. will compete with the government television monopoly, about to be operated by Canadian Broadcasting Corp., with the use of Paramount's Telemeter device for which wired programs would be sent out.

Famous Players has signed a 25-year contract for all Canadian rights, including manufacture of equipment.

The Federal Department of Transport, which has jurisdiction over all broadcasting in Canada, has ignored the application of Famous Players for a television license and the theatre chain has now gone ahead with the Telemeter circuit system for the Dominion, which will not require a TV broadcasting license as the programs will not go over the air.

'Androcles' Ads Set For 40 Magazines

About 40 national magazines with a combined circulation of over 70 million, are being used by RKO Radio to promote Gabriel Pascal's "Androcles and the Lion," S. Barret McCormick, director of advertising, has announced.

The campaign gets under way in the first of the magazines Sept. 4 and will run through September, October and into November.

Holiday Sends NY Grosses to Summer High

Weekend Records Scored At Para., Astor, Capitol

The combination of strong product along Broadway and a rainy Labor Day weekend sent first-run grosses to a summer high.

One showman's description of the weekend business was: "an exhibitor's dream come true." It was backed up by record-breaking weekend reports from the Capitol, Astor and Paramount. Other outstanding grosses were reported by Radio City Music Hall, Criterion, Loew's State, Mayfair and Roxy.

The opening week of "The Crimson Pirate," coupled with Louis Armstrong and Gordon Jenkins' orchestra on stage at the Paramount is expected to hit a sturdy $102,000. The $23,800 grossed at the Paramount on Sunday was described as a new record for Sunday business.

The second week of "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" at the Astor is due to rack up a healthy $42,000, following a weekend which saw the

French Remittance Offer Is Less Than Original Proposal

The meeting here tomorrow of the presidents and foreign managers of Motion Picture Association of America member companies will wrestle with the problem of whether to accept or reject remittance proposals from France that fall considerably short of the kind of deal the companies had sought.

Not only is the French offer said to be below what the companies and the State Department aimed at in the Paris negotiations; it is described also as representing less than the remittance proposal made by France in the early stages of the talks. In the interim, moreover, France by decree slashed American film imports from 121 to 90 annually.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Industry spokesmen here today termed "completely unsatisfactory" the reply from the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. to the industry's request for financial data on various proposed theatre television systems.

They said they had not decided what their next move would be but that they would probably write again to the company or to the Federal Communications Commission or to both. Their attitude is that while A. T. and T. did give some information in its letter, received over the weekend, it did not give very much of the information sought by the industry, and that "they have no business telling us what information we ought to have."

Significantly, the A.T. and T. reply was dated Aug. 28, the very day that

N. J. Blumberg Is Named Film 'Pioneer of the Year'

N. J. Blumberg, chairman of the board of directors of Universal Pictures, who is currently observing his 40th anniversary in the motion picture business, has been unanimously selected as the "Motion Picture Pioneer of the Year 1952" by the board of directors of the Motion Picture Pioneers, Jack Cohn, president, announced.

N. J. Blumberg

Blumberg's selection will be formally observed at the annual dinner-meeting of the Pioneers to be held at New York's Hotel Astor on Tuesday evening, Nov. 25. This year's event has been designated as the "Jubilee Dinner."

On behalf of the board of the Pioneers, Cohn issued the following statement:

"In honoring Nate Blumberg as the Pioneer of the Year, we recognize one of the true leaders of our industry.

"Nate Blumberg is a true Pioneer, having entered this business in 1912 when all the attributes of a real pioneer meant so much to the advancement of our industry.

"His devotion and adherence to the principles of the motion picture business, together with his significant contributions and constructive participation in all its branches, exemplify all that we mean by a pioneer.

"His rise from poster clerk to the chairmanship of the board of Universal Pictures Company, is really a thrilling American success story.

"His career may well serve as evidence that America is a land of opportunity."

U. K. Fiscal Status Better As Film Pact Talks Near

By PETER BURNUP

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The United Kingdom's balance of overseas payments, key to the pattern of the talks to be held in Washington next week on a new monetary agreement between Britain and the American film industry, is undergoing an unexpected but marked improvement; greater even than suggested by the Chancellor of the Exchequer's preliminary estimates to the House of Commons last month.

To some extent, the improvement, it is said, is due to non-recurring factors, like the speeding up in foreign payments for British exports. However, there are other factors which have not yet made their full impact on the U. K. accounts; notably the import cuts and the improvement in the terms of trade which have been greater than was forecast in the Budget speech.

F. W. Allport, Motion Picture Association of America representative here, is scheduled to leave for the States by plane today and will be on hand for the monetary talks next week. Sir Frank Lee and Sidney Golt, who will represent Britain in the talks, will leave here by plane on Friday.

Both parties persist in their refusal to afford information on the talks but Allport permitted himself the comment: "The talks have always been tough but on each previous occasion we have broken up better friends than ever. I don't see why that shouldn't happen this time."

Commenting on the talks the politically well-informed News of the World—newspaper with the largest circulation in the world—says that the likely outcome of the parley is that, following tough talks with Sir Frank, the American industry will agree to a reduction in the basic permitted remittances with an increase in the amount devoted to British production. The only alternative would be an import quota which neither the Americans nor British exhibitors want, the newspaper adds.

O'Brien Slated to Head Trades Union

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Tom O'Brien, general secretary of the National Association of Theatrical and Kine Employees, is slated for the presidency of the Trades Union Congress, whose 84th annual meeting opened at Margate yesterday.

Richard Walsh, IATSE president, is attending the Congress as a delegate and will address it on behalf of American trade-unions.

Sturdy $8,000 for 'Monkey Business'

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 2.—A sturdy $8,000 was registered by "Monkey Business" at the Stanley Theatre for the Labor Day weekend.

The picture, which had its world premiere here on Friday, was aided by the personal appearance of Marilyn Monroe on the opening day.

Film, Equipment Exports Drop 7%

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—U. S. exports of motion picture films and equipment during the first six months of 1952 were about seven per cent below the shipments in the first half of last year, in terms of dollar value, the Commerce Department reported today.

Nathan D. Golden, department film chief, said shipments in the first half of this year were valued at $13,229,329, compared with 1951 first half exports of $14,207,967. Nearly all categories of films and equipment shared in the drop, although a few groups increased.

Shipments of exposed feature film rose in terms of linear feet but fell in dollar value. In the first half of 1951, shipments were 153,972,897 feet, valued at $4,980,456, while this year the six months total was 157,514,536 feet, valued at $4,830,212.

Increases were in the 16mm. negative and positive groups, while 35mm. negative and positive exposed film shipments fell considerably in terms of dollar value.

Raw stock shipments were put at 146,184,313 feet, valued at $3,453,737 in the first half of last year, and were 142,444,688 feet, valued at $3,166,601 in the January-June period this year. Shipments of 35mm. positive raw stock rose sharply and those of 8mm. negative raw stock rose slightly, but all other groups fell off.

There were 8,782 cameras, valued at $731,801, shipped in the first six months of this year, compared to 8,886 cameras, valued at $801,659 last year. Projector exports dropped from 11,594 units, valued at $2,301,915, to 9,473, valued at $2,121,154. Other equipment dropped from $2,670,200 worth in the first half of last year to $2,379,561 in the first half of 1952.

Isley Will Handle Texas Star Tours

DALLAS, Sept. 2.—Phil Isley has been appointed chairman of the Texas Star Tours Committee, it was disclosed here by Robert J. O'Donnell and Col. H. A. Cole, co-chairman of the Texas Council of Motion Picture Organizations.

The tours, which are scheduled for the latter part of October, are being arranged by Isley, who is now on the West Coast.

Isley, who operates theatres in Texas and California, was selected for this post "in view of the fact that he did such an excellent job as chairman of the Star Tours in Texas last year and the War Bond Drives held in previous years," it was stated.

Showmen Find 18% Of Films Are Hits

DETROIT, Sept. 2.—Of 339 features released since last September, 63 or better than 18 per cent were outstanding hits and more than 50 per cent achieved substantial success, according to a survey made by a local exhibitors' fact-finding committee.

The result, according to the survey, compares with 6.1 per cent of novels published which made the best-seller class, and 13.1 per cent of stage plays produced which were in the hit category.

The film record for the year was the best in a decade, the committee said. Members of the committee are: Earl J. Hudson, president of United Detroit Theatres; Lou Wisper of W. & W. Theatres; David M. Idzal, managing director of the Fox; Irving Goldberg of Community Theatres; Carl L. Buermele of General Theatre Service Corp.; Allan Dowzer of Mutual Theatres; Samuel Barrett and David Newman of Cooperative Theatres; Richard Sloan of the Mercury Theatre; Fred De Lodder of De Lodder Theatres, and Oscar Gorelich of the Carmen.

Dear Sam,

Having attended a preview of "Hans Christian Andersen", I want to see this glorious picture again and again. It is surely one of the greatest entertainments of all time. It is beautiful and tender, romantic and colorful and gay, and it is wonderfully different from anything I have ever seen. Children will absolutely love it and so will grown-up people who want to forget their troubles and feel like children again.

You never devoted your time, your energy, your courage and your imagination (not to mention your money) to better effect. "Hans Christian Andersen" will make millions of people happy for many, many years to come -- and these are the years when people need it most.

Congratulations and thanks to Danny Kaye, Farley Granger, Jeanmaire, Charles Vidor, Roland Petit, Moss Hart, Frank Loesser and everyone else responsible for this marvelous entertainment, including yourself.

Yours,

Bob

sitting in on the Paris negotiations for the MPAA, will arrive here today by plane with the report the companies will weigh tomorrow. If the companies accept the report the State Department negotiators would proceed at once to sign the agreement; if they reject it in whole or in part the negotiations are expected to continue.

France's earlier proposal was for remittance of $1,200,000 at the official rate of exchange, and the remainder of some $6,000,000 at the capital account rate, which is somewhat less favorable.

Proposal Rejected

A French subsidy proposal, which has been rejected by both the MPAA and the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers, provided for a 12½ per cent discount on earnings already frozen in France. There has been conjecture, meanwhile, that while subsidy provisions will not be embodied in the official Franco-American pact; some of the MPAA companies may "go for" such an arrangement on their own as a means of securing additional import licenses.

Rank Report

had been reduced from £16,300,000 to £9,200,000. It is anticipated that an even greater reduction will be recorded this year, due partly to non-recurring factors like the sale of the Universal Pictures common stock to Decca Records and the sale of other assets, and also the economy measures adhered to throughout the Organization.

John Davis, managing director, recently stated that current operations show a profit. Arrears on Odeon's preferred stock are in process of being met. In the market over the last month, Odeon's ordinary shares have appreciated steadily.

were "treated" before release, 28 were classified "adult," seven were classified and "treated," and two were rejected. The last two were characterized in the report as third-rate productions based on chorus girls and burlesque.

According to Golden, the board said the films reviewed during the year "attained a high level in good taste and skillful handling of adult themes. Less material of an objectionable character was observed than ever before. It reflects an impressive development in the maturity of consideration given to production in the U. S. and the United Kingdom."

'Movie Memory Club' Formed by Franklin

A "Movie Memory Club" for the purpose of screening old-time silent films Saturday evenings at the President Theatre here starting this Saturday has been formed by Joe Franklin, radio-TV "disc jockey." The first two- hour, two-feature program will include "Peck's Bad Boy," made in 1920, and "Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde," produced in the same year.

Ten per cent of the net proceeds will be donated to the Freda Whitaker Foundation, a charitable group set up to help underprivileged youngsters, it was said.

Washington Critic Hits U.S. 16mm. Suit

Washington, Sept. 2.—Harry MacArthur, film critic for the Washington Star, has added his voice to the chorus of newspaper criticism against the Justice Department's 16mm. anti-trust suit.

In a piece in Sunday's Star, MacArthur said it seemed to him that the Department was "on shaky ground."

Receptive to Bout

Park, following an announcement Saturday that the theatre will carry the bout, slated for Sept. 23. Tickets are being scaled from $4.80, which includes the admission tax, for loge seats, and $3.60 for orchestra seats. Reade said that he expects all tickets to be sold within two weeks.

Meanwhile, the 50th Street Guild Theatre in Rockefeller Center has jumped its prices for the event from $4.20 to $4.80, including tax. Norman Elson, head of the circuit, said the theatre received over 200 phone calls and inquiries with only a sign outside the theatre heralding the telecast. So far, he added, about 40 tickets have been sold, with 410 to go to fill all seats. Elson said the increased price was warranted by the smallness of the theatre, which, said he, offers a ringside seat to the patrons watching the large-screen telecast.

It was learned, in the meantime, that Nathan Halpern, president of Theatre Network Television, which acquired the TV rights for the bout, has delayed his departure from the Coast until tonight. He is expected to return to his New York office tomorrow. Many circuit executives are awaiting his arrival to complete negotiations for the bout.

G. M. to Sponsor NCAA Eleven Games

DETROIT, Sept. 2.—General Motors has concluded a deal with NBC-TV and the National Collegiate Athletic Association for the sponsorship of 11 football games this fall, to run each consecutive Saturday over the entire NBC-TV network.

Among the games for which television arrangements have been completed are: Texas Christian vs. Kansas at Lawrence, Kan., Sept. 20; Columbia vs. Princeton at New York, Sept. 27; Stanford vs. Michigan at Stanford, Oct. 4; Michigan State vs. Texas A. & M. at East Lansing, Mich., Oct. 11; Army vs. Navy at Philadelphia, Nov. 29.

Unlike last year's schedule, which was on an experimental basis, there will be no "blackouts" this year and all contests will be televised nationally on the full NBC network. No team will be televised more than once during the season.

At the Capitol, "The Quiet Man" is expected to hit a very big $72,000 for its third week, highlighted by a record Labor Day weekend attendance.

"Terrific" still describes the grosses of "Ivanhoe" at Radio City Music Hall, which sees $173,000 for the fifth inning of the picture. The pace of business at the Hall, which also features its regular stage show, is record-breaking.

'Glory' Solid

The second week of "What Price Glory," coupled with a stage show featuring an ice revue, at the Roxy, is due to chalk up a solid $95,000. This sum, like most of the figures for outstanding product on Broadway, is higher than the sturdy grosses of the previous week.

A very good $30,000 is seen for the second stanza of "The Big Sky" at the Criterion. Also doing fine is "Sudden Fear" at Loew's State, where $38,000 is due for its fourth week.

A non-holiday second week house record of $12,300 was set by "Ivory Hunter" at the Trans-Lux 52nd Street. Still drawing strong is "Affair in Trinidad" at the Victoria, with $21,000 forecast for its fifth week, and "High Noon" at the Mayfair, where $26,000 is indicated for the sixth stanza.

$22,000 for 'Devil'

A nice $22,000 is seen for the opening week of "Devil Makes Three" at the Globe, while a fair $14,000 is forecast for the third inning of "Les Miserables" at the Rivoli.

Among off-Broadway houses, the long-standing "Man in the White Suit" is expected to hit a solid $7,500 for its 22nd week. "Encore," also in its 22nd week, is due to rack up a fine $6,500.

"The Stranger in Between" at the Fine Arts is predicted to do an excellent $7,200 for its second week. At the Park Avenue, a very good $4,100 is indicated for the third inning of "Brandy for the Parson," while a good $3,000 is seen for the third week of "The Strange Ones" at the Baronet.

Roxy 'Streamlining,' Economies Indicated

David P. Katz, executive director of New York's Roxy Theatre, has returned here following conferences in Los Angeles with Charles P. Skouras, National Theatres president, and Ed Zabel, Fox West Coast executive, on National's take-over of the house on Sept. 27 from 20th Century-Fox under the divorcement and reorganization plans of the companies. Katz reported that under NT the immediate aim will be to "streamline" the organization of the Roxy and effect changes in personnel in order to effect economies in operation.

The future policy of the Roxy is not yet determined, Katz indicated. The present stage policy will be continued for at least three or four months to provide an opportunity to formulate new stage show ideas. Also under consideration is the refurbishing and "glamorizing" of the theatre. Zabel will come to New York shortly for discussions with Katz on future picture policies for the theatre.

11 of 14 O. Solons Favor Tax Repeal

Columbus, O., Sept. 2.—Of the first 14 Ohio Congressmen and candidates for election to reply to queries concerning their stand on repeal of the 20 per cent Federal admission tax, put by the ITO of Ohio, 11 said they would support repeal, Robert Wile, ITO secretary, reported. The other three were noncommittal but promised to keep open minds on the subject.

Wile said replies from additional incumbents and candidates are expected soon.

Albert Dezel Buys Lippert Exchange

DETROIT, Sept. 2.—Albert Dezel of Dezel Productions, which has offices in several cities, has purchased the Lippert exchange here from Robert Lippert.

The transaction was made in Kansas City with Dezel, Lippert and Lippert executives Arthur Greenblatt and Harris Dudelson present. Dezel said the office staff in Detroit will remain the same.

Advance Italian Films Week Plans

Plans for the visit here of a large number of Italian stars, producers, directors and government dignitaries, for Salute to Italian Films Week, Oct. 6-12, were discussed in Rome by E. R. Zorgniotti, U. S. representative of Italian Films Export, in a series of meetings with IFE board members. Zorgniotti has returned to New York, following a six weeks' visit in Rome.

RKO Pictures. Lee Loevinger was attorney for the Lebedoffs, Mandt Torrison represented Maco and Paramount, and David Shearer represented the other five distributors.

Suit was filed over four years ago asking $500,000 in triple damages with trial starting last Oct. 31 and hearings ending Dec. 29. Nordbye has had the case under advisement about 90 days. Decision was handed down late today and text of judgment could not be obtained. Defense attorneys were not available for comment.

TV Net Cost

inter-city channel service and would not apply to the 10 megacycle band cost structure requested by the industry. A. T. & T. spokesmen described their regular inter-city band as a three megacycle one, while industry spokesmen place it in the four megacycle band classification.

The monthly charge of an estimated $48,000 was submitted by A. T. & T. for a New York-Washington transmission system which would have one Southbound channel and one Northbound channel, serving New York, Trenton, Philadelphia, Atlantic City, Wilmington, Baltimore and Washington. The system would also have one channel to Reading and Allentown, Pa., from Philadelphia.

For the same network of cities with three Southbound channels and one Northbound channel, the monthly charge would be about $102,000. This hypothetical transmission network also features three channels each to Reading and Allentown from Philadelphia.

9-City Net $207,000

The monthly charge goes up to about $207,000 for the nine-city network when the system contains six Southbound channels and two Northbound ones. In this system, the number of trunk outlets to Reading and Allentown from Philadelphia are also increased.

The A. T. & T. response also gave cost data for local theatre television networks in Washington. The monthly charge for the inter-city network varied from $6,900 to $9,800, with the number of theatres in the projected Washington net varying from 15 to 17.

The reply pointed out that charges for video inter-exchange channels and station connections cover service for eight consecutive hours daily and were based under present Bell System service for video and audio channels. It was also pointed out that the cost schedules were based upon the specifications drawn up by the Toeppen Co. for MPAA and NETTC. However, the reply stated, "substantial reductions in these charges could be effected through rearrangements which might be entirely practicable in meeting actual service requirements."

The number of transmitting and receiving outlets for each of the nine cities in the projected nets varied. Under the $48,000 system, for instance, there were seven transmitting and 13 receiving station connections, while under the $207,000 classification there were 27 transmitting and 58 receiving connections.

Howard Meets with Division Heads

William W. Howard, RKO Theatres' vice-president in charge of operations, has been conducting a series of home office meetings with out-of-town division managers. Discussions covered bookings, advertising, maintenance, labor relations and concessions, with heads of the various home office departments taking part.

Among those who have been in town for the meetings are Jerry Shinbach, Midwest division; Harry Weiss, Minnesota-Iowa division; Jay Golden, New England-Upper New York; Russ Emde, Newark-Washington, and Edward Sniderman, Trenton-New Brunswick.

A. T. & T. on Theatre TV Cost

the Motion Picture Association of America and National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee had written a letter to the FCC complaining about the phone company's failure to reply to the MPAA-NETTC requests for information. Obviously, the phone company letter had been without any knowledge of the industry complaint to the FCC, but the industry complaint did show that it wants information badly and means to get it.

The basic industry dissatisfaction with the A.T. and T. response, according to industry spokesmen, is that the film industry's theatre TV plans are built around a 10 megacycle channel width and it had asked for financial estimates based on such a channel. The phone company's reply gave various figures for a 4 mc channel, but said it could not give figures for a 10 mc channel, as requested.

The MPAA and NETTC originally requested the information from the phone company on April 10. The company, on June 12, replied that since the theatre TV hearings would not start until Jan., 1953, it felt it should wait before supplying the information. On Aug. 12, MPAA and NETTC said they would like the information right away, since the start of the hearings had been advanced to Oct. 20. Then on Aug. 28, the two orginizations wrote the Commission asking it "to advise and urge the Telephone Company, as a common carrier holding itself out for public service, to promptly furnish the specific answers to the questions propounded to it in our letter of April 10, 1952."

The letter to the Commission said that if the industry does not get the information it needs from A.T. and T., it would not be able to give the FCC "a careful comparative analysis of cost data," and that this would also result in a "substantial delay" in the hearings since considerable cost data which should be given in the hearings starting Oct. 20 might have to be repeated or elaborated in the hearings starting Jan. 12, whereas this phase should be completed in October.

The A.T. and T. reply, also dated Aug. 28, said it had been giving "careful consideration" to the industry's request for cost data based upon the specification prepared by the Toeppen Co. (Industry officials said this specification revolved around a 10 mc band.)

"Our consideration has led to the conclusion," the phone company continued, "that prices for the transmission service specified in the Toeppen study cannot be quoted at this time for the reasons outlined below. As you will appreciate, the pricing of such service requires consideration of many factors, including the cost of designing, developing, manufacturing, installing and maintaining the required equipment. Without considering the question of whether the transmission characteristics and requirements specified are in all respects necessary or practical for satisfactory theatre TV transmission, our technical people, after careful study of the specification, point out that certain basic features of the proposed system require equipment which is not at present available from any source and for which cost information is therefore not attainable."

The company said the specification is based on a 10-megacycle transmission system, but declared that "as a practical matter," the bandwidth would have to be even wider to get the results the specification envisages.

Need More Experience

"Just how much wider the most practical frequency band would need to be to give this response," the company declared, "and how costly the required equipment might be, are questions to which the answers cannot be obtained without further experience in this field."

The company then gave "an estimate of the charges under our present offering applicable for several arrangements of network service connecting the points you have designated." These estimates covered transmission between New York and Washington and various side-points, with varying numbers of channels. However, according to film industry spokesmen, they are based on a 4 mc bandwidth.

"That's like telling us the price of oranges when we're trying to buy bananas," said one company lawyer. "It's no use at all."

The A.T. and T. letter concluded by pointing out that Bell System experts are working closely with theatre industry technicians to develop new transmission methods. It declared that both the TD-2 radio system and the new L-3 coaxial system can be adapted to provide broader bands, and said the company was "confident that, as experience with theatre television increases and the requirements, both intercity and local, become progressively clearer, we will be able to meet those requirements."

The letter was signed by Ernest D. North, general attorney for the company's Long Lines Department.

TOA Leaders Confer Here on Convention

Mitchell Wolfson, Theatre Owners of America president, is in New York from Miami for discussions with other TOA officials concerning organization affairs, particularly plans for the annual TOA convention in Washington, Sept. 14-18. He will return to Miami tomorrow.

Wolfson met here yesterday with Gael Sullivan, executive director; S. H. Fabian, executive committee chairman; Herman M. Levy, general counsel, and Dick Pitts and Howard Bryant, administrative assistants.

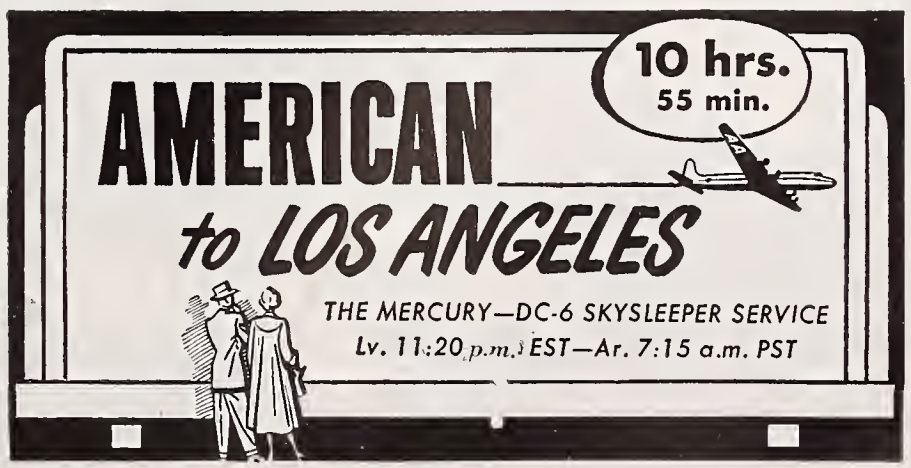
Set Heads of Minn. Tax Repeal Fight

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 2.—Council of Motion Picture Organizations' Minnesota tax repeal committee last week made public through North Central Allied executive counsel Stan Kane the first list of political action committee chairmen and members on the state's congressional district level. The committee comprises Ben Berger, Harry B. French, E. R. Ruben, Ted Mann and Charles Perrine, all of Minneapolis.

The senatorial committee consists of the state tax repeal committee as a whole, plus E. O. Olson, Northfield.

Congressional district committeemen are:

First: Ben Friedman, Minneapolis; Will Glaser (chairman), Faribault; E. O. Olson, Northfield; Al Smith, Winona; Ed Swanson, Red Wing. Second: George Gould (chairman), Glencoe; Robert Pfau, Mankato. Third: Berger, Kane, Mann, Ruben, Perrine. Fourth: George Granstrom and Mandt Torreson, both of St. Paul. Fifth: Ruben, Perrine. Sixth: Cal Nygaard, Brainerd; Bert Parsons, Springfield; Lowell Smoots, Little Falls. Seventh: John Cliplef, Montevideo; M. R. Debbaut, Minnesota; Guy Hower, Worthington. Eighth: Al Auson and George Brown, Duluth; Bob Berquist, Chisholm; Lewis Deutsch, Virginia; Bill Holisky (chairman), Two Harbors. Ninth district: Ray Hanson, Fertile; Ernotte Hiller, Crookston; Charles Vondra, Mahnomen; Kane.



District Operations Realigned by Maco

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 2.—Minnesota Amusement Co. will discontinue outstate division headquarters at Rochester, Minn., and Sioux Falls, S. D. and the district office at Duluth and a district branch at the State Theatre here, Harry B. French, Maco president, has announced.

In a major shift of manpower, the result of an attempt to streamline the company's operations and bring all division and district management under the more direct coordination of the home office in Minneapolis, Al Anson has been retired from his post as manager of the Northern division at his own request, and Frank Steffy, currently managing director of the Radio City here, will be given a new assignment.

Maco Tests Hike in Children's Prices

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 2.—An experiment in higher admission prices for children—confined only to Loop theatres for the present, pending a study of results—has been launched here by Minnesota Amusement Co. The rate for children at the Maco Loop houses has been increased to 20 cents, a hike of eight cents.

Holiday Sends NY Grosses to Summer High

Weekend Records Scored At Para., Astor, Capitol

The combination of strong product along Broadway and a rainy Labor Day weekend sent first-run grosses to a summer high.

One showman's description of the weekend business was: "an exhibitor's dream come true." It was backed up by record-breaking weekend reports from the Capitol, Astor and Paramount. Other outstanding grosses were reported by Radio City Music Hall, Criterion, Loew's State, Mayfair and Roxy.

The opening week of "The Crimson Pirate," coupled with Louis Armstrong and Gordon Jenkins' orchestra on stage at the Paramount is expected to hit a sturdy $102,000. The $23,800 grossed at the Paramount on Sunday was described as a new record for Sunday business.

The second week of "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" at the Astor is due to rack up a healthy $42,000, following a weekend which saw the

French Remittance Offer Is Less Than Original Proposal

The meeting here tomorrow of the presidents and foreign managers of Motion Picture Association of America member companies will wrestle with the problem of whether to accept or reject remittance proposals from France that fall considerably short of the kind of deal the companies had sought.

Not only is the French offer said to be below what the companies and the State Department aimed at in the Paris negotiations; it is described also as representing less than the remittance proposal made by France in the early stages of the talks. In the interim, moreover, France by decree slashed American film imports from 121 to 90 annually.

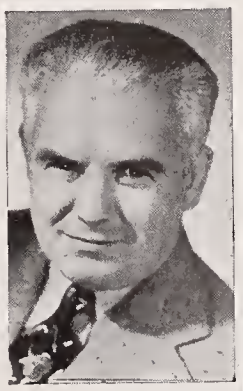
Industry May Press Company, FCC for Information on Costs

By J. A. OTTEN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Industry spokesmen here today termed "completely unsatisfactory" the reply from the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. to the industry's request for financial data on various proposed theatre television systems.



They said they had not decided what their next move would be but that they would probably write again to the company or to the Federal Communications Commission or to both. Their attitude is that while A. T. and T. did give some information in its letter, received over the weekend, it did not give very much of the information sought by the industry, and that "they have no business telling us what information we ought to have."

Significantly, the A.T. and T. reply was dated Aug. 28, the very day that

N. J. Blumberg Is Named Film 'Pioneer of the Year'

N. J. Blumberg, chairman of the board of directors of Universal Pictures, who is currently observing his 40th anniversary in the motion picture business, has been unanimously selected as the "Motion Picture Pioneer of the Year 1952" by the board of directors of the Motion Picture Pioneers, Jack Cohn, president, announced.

N. J. Blumberg

Blumberg's selection will be formally observed at the annual dinner-meeting of the Pioneers to be held at New York's Hotel Astor on Tuesday evening, Nov. 25. This year's event has been designated as the "Jubilee Dinner."

On behalf of the board of the Pioneers, Cohn issued the following statement:

"In honoring Nate Blumberg as the Pioneer of the Year, we recognize one of the true leaders of our industry.

"Nate Blumberg is a true Pioneer, having entered this business in 1912 when all the attributes of a real pioneer meant so much to the advancement of our industry.

"His devotion and adherence to the principles of the motion picture business, together with his significant contributions and constructive participation in all its branches, exemplify all that we mean by a pioneer.

"His rise from poster clerk to the chairmanship of the board of Universal Pictures Company, is really a thrilling American success story.

"His career may well serve as evidence that America is a land of opportunity."

Business Probers, MPA to Meet Today

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Officials of the Motion Picture Association of America are scheduled to meet tomorrow with investigators of the Senate Small Business Committee to discuss the committee's investigation of film industry trade practices.

Kenneth Clark, MPAA information chief, will head a delegation of "three or four" MPAA officials to talk over the committee's work with committee investigators Gillis W. Long and William D. Amis. The MPAA visit is taken as indication of growing industry interest in the group's work.

Cut Rate at TOA Meet for Workers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Theatre and film exchange employes can register for the coming convention of the Theatre Owners of America at a reduced rate, convention chairman A. Julian Brylawski has announced.

This offer is open to theatre managers, film salesmen, bookers, office managers and other theatre and exchange workers. These employes can register for $20, instead of the usual $40.

U. K. Fiscal Status Better As Film Pact Talks Near

By PETER BURNUP

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The United Kingdom's balance of overseas payments, key to the pattern of the talks to be held in Washington next week on a new monetary agreement between Britain and the American film industry, is undergoing an unexpected but marked improvement; greater even than suggested by the Chancellor of the Exchequer's preliminary estimates to the House of Commons last month.

To some extent, the improvement, it is said, is due to non-recurring factors, like the speeding up in foreign payments for British exports. However, there are other factors which have not yet made their full impact on the U. K. accounts; notably the import cuts and the improvement in the terms of trade which have been greater than was forecast in the Budget speech.

F. W. Allport, Motion Picture Association of America representative here, is scheduled to leave for the States by plane today and will be on hand for the monetary talks next week. Sir Frank Lee and Sidney Golt, who will represent Britain in the talks, will leave here by plane on Friday.

Both parties persist in their refusal to afford information on the talks but Allport permitted himself the comment: "The talks have always been tough but on each previous occasion we have broken up better friends than ever. I don't see why that shouldn't happen this time."

Commenting on the talks the politically well-informed News of the World—newspaper with the largest circulation in the world—says that the likely outcome of the parley is that, following tough talks with Sir Frank, the American industry will agree to a reduction in the basic permitted remittances with an increase in the amount devoted to British production. The only alternative would be an import quota which neither the Americans nor British exhibitors want, the newspaper adds.

Film, Equipment Exports Drop 7%

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—U. S. exports of motion picture films and equipment during the first six months of 1952 were about seven per cent below the shipments in the first half of last year, in terms of dollar value, the Commerce Department reported today.

Nathan D. Golden, department film chief, said shipments in the first half of this year were valued at $13,229,329, compared with 1951 first half exports of $14,207,967. Nearly all categories of films and equipment shared in the drop, although a few groups increased.

Shipments of exposed feature film rose in terms of linear feet but fell in dollar value. In the first half of 1951, shipments were 153,972,897 feet, valued at $4,980,456, while this year the six months total was 157,514,536 feet, valued at $4,830,212.

Increases were in the 16mm. negative and positive groups, while 35mm. negative and positive exposed film shipments fell considerably in terms of dollar value.

Raw stock shipments were put at 146,184,313 feet, valued at $3,453,737 in the first half of last year, and were 142,444,688 feet, valued at $3,166,601 in the January-June period this year. Shipments of 35mm. positive raw stock rose sharply and those of 8mm. negative raw stock rose slightly, but all other groups fell off.

There were 8,782 cameras, valued at $731,801, shipped in the first six months of this year, compared to 8,886 cameras, valued at $801,659 last year. Projector exports dropped from 11,594 units, valued at $2,301,915, to 9,473, valued at $2,121,154. Other equipment dropped from $2,670,200 worth in the first half of last year to $2,379,561 in the first half of 1952.

Isley Will Handle Texas Star Tours

DALLAS, Sept. 2.—Phil Isley has been appointed chairman of the Texas Star Tours Committee, it was disclosed here by Robert J. O'Donnell and Col. H. A. Cole, co-chairman of the Texas Council of Motion Picture Organizations.

The tours, which are scheduled for the latter part of October, are being arranged by Isley, who is now on the West Coast.

Isley, who operates theatres in Texas and California, was selected for this post "in view of the fact that he did such an excellent job as chairman of the Star Tours in Texas last year and the War Bond Drives held in previous years," it was stated.

Showmen Find 18% Of Films Are Hits

DETROIT, Sept. 2.—Of 339 features released since last September, 63 or better than 18 per cent were outstanding hits and more than 50 per cent achieved substantial success, according to a survey made by a local exhibitors' fact-finding committee.

The result, according to the survey, compares with 6.1 per cent of novels published which made the best-seller class, and 13.1 per cent of stage plays produced which were in the hit category.

The film record for the year was the best in a decade, the committee said. Members of the committee are: Earl J. Hudson, president of United Detroit Theatres; Lou Wisper of W. & W. Theatres; David M. Idzal, managing director of the Fox; Irving Goldberg of Community Theatres; Carl L. Buermele of General Theatre Service Corp.; Allan Dowzer of Mutual Theatres; Samuel Barrett and David Newman of Cooperative Theatres; Richard Sloan of the Mercury Theatre; Fred De Lodder of De Lodder Theatres, and Oscar Gorelich of the Carmen.

Dear Sam,

Having attended a preview of "Hans Christian Andersen", I want to see this glorious picture again and again. It is surely one of the greatest entertainments of all time. It is beautiful and tender, romantic and colorful and gay, and it is wonderfully different from anything I have ever seen. Children will absolutely love it and so will grown-up people who want to forget their troubles and feel like children again.

You never devoted your time, your energy, your courage and your imagination (not to mention your money) to better effect. "Hans Christian Andersen" will make millions of people happy for many, many years to come -- and these are the years when people need it most.

Congratulations and thanks to Danny Kaye, Farley Granger, Jeanmaire, Charles Vidor, Roland Petit, Moss Hart, Frank Loesser and everyone else responsible for this marvelous entertainment, including yourself.

Yours,

Bob

sitting in on the Paris negotiations for the MPAA, will arrive here today by plane with the report the companies will weigh tomorrow. If the companies accept the report the State Department negotiators would proceed at once to sign the agreement; if they reject it in whole or in part the negotiations are expected to continue.

France's earlier proposal was for remittance of $1,200,000 at the official rate of exchange, and the remainder of some $6,000,000 at the capital account rate, which is somewhat less favorable.

Proposal Rejected

A French subsidy proposal, which has been rejected by both the MPAA and the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers, provided for a 12½ per cent discount on earnings already frozen in France. There has been conjecture, meanwhile, that while subsidy provisions will not be embodied in the official Franco-American pact; some of the MPAA companies may "go for" such an arrangement on their own as a means of securing additional import licenses.

Rank Report

had been reduced from £16,300,000 to £9,200,000. It is anticipated that an even greater reduction will be recorded this year, due partly to non-recurring factors like the sale of the Universal Pictures common stock to Decca Records and the sale of other assets, and also the economy measures adhered to throughout the Organization.

John Davis, managing director, recently stated that current operations show a profit. Arrears on Odeon's preferred stock are in process of being met. In the market over the last month, Odeon's ordinary shares have appreciated steadily.

were "treated" before release, 28 were classified "adult," seven were classified and "treated," and two were rejected. The last two were characterized in the report as third-rate productions based on chorus girls and burlesque.

According to Golden, the board said the films reviewed during the year "attained a high level in good taste and skillful handling of adult themes. Less material of an objectionable character was observed than ever before. It reflects an impressive development in the maturity of consideration given to production in the U. S. and the United Kingdom."

'Movie Memory Club' Formed by Franklin

A "Movie Memory Club" for the purpose of screening old-time silent films Saturday evenings at the President Theatre here starting this Saturday has been formed by Joe Franklin, radio-TV "disc jockey." The first two- hour, two-feature program will include "Peck's Bad Boy," made in 1920, and "Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde," produced in the same year.

Ten per cent of the net proceeds will be donated to the Freda Whitaker Foundation, a charitable group set up to help underprivileged youngsters, it was said.

Washington Critic Hits U.S. 16mm. Suit

Washington, Sept. 2.—Harry MacArthur, film critic for the Washington Star, has added his voice to the chorus of newspaper criticism against the Justice Department's 16mm. anti-trust suit.

In a piece in Sunday's Star, MacArthur said it seemed to him that the Department was "on shaky ground."

Park, following an announcement Saturday that the theatre will carry the bout, slated for Sept. 23. Tickets are being scaled from $4.80, which includes the admission tax, for loge seats, and $3.60 for orchestra seats. Reade said that he expects all tickets to be sold within two weeks.

Meanwhile, the 50th Street Guild Theatre in Rockefeller Center has jumped its prices for the event from $4.20 to $4.80, including tax. Norman Elson, head of the circuit, said the theatre received over 200 phone calls and inquiries with only a sign outside the theatre heralding the telecast. So far, he added, about 40 tickets have been sold, with 410 to go to fill all seats. Elson said the increased price was warranted by the smallness of the theatre, which, said he, offers a ringside seat to the patrons watching the large-screen telecast.

It was learned, in the meantime, that Nathan Halpern, president of Theatre Network Television, which acquired the TV rights for the bout, has delayed his departure from the Coast until tonight. He is expected to return to his New York office tomorrow. Many circuit executives are awaiting his arrival to complete negotiations for the bout.

G. M. to Sponsor NCAA Eleven Games

DETROIT, Sept. 2.—General Motors has concluded a deal with NBC-TV and the National Collegiate Athletic Association for the sponsorship of 11 football games this fall, to run each consecutive Saturday over the entire NBC-TV network.

Among the games for which television arrangements have been completed are: Texas Christian vs. Kansas at Lawrence, Kan., Sept. 20; Columbia vs. Princeton at New York, Sept. 27; Stanford vs. Michigan at Stanford, Oct. 4; Michigan State vs. Texas A. & M. at East Lansing, Mich., Oct. 11; Army vs. Navy at Philadelphia, Nov. 29.

Unlike last year's schedule, which was on an experimental basis, there will be no "blackouts" this year and all contests will be televised nationally on the full NBC network. No team will be televised more than once during the season.

Joseph Now Sole Owner of Essanjay

CHICAGO, Sept. 2—Leo B. Salkin, formerly joint owner with Irwin S. Joseph of Essanjay Films here, has sold his interest in the company in order to devote himself to his theatrical agency. Joseph is now the sole owner.

largest attendance at the theatre in three years. The picture is also doing fine at the two-a-day Bijou, with $7,500 forecast there.

At the Capitol, "The Quiet Man" is expected to hit a very big $72,000 for its third week, highlighted by a record Labor Day weekend attendance.

"Terrific" still describes the grosses of "Ivanhoe" at Radio City Music Hall, which sees $173,000 for the fifth inning of the picture. The pace of business at the Hall, which also features its regular stage show, is record-breaking.

'Glory' Solid

The second week of "What Price Glory," coupled with a stage show featuring an ice revue, at the Roxy, is due to chalk up a solid $95,000. This sum, like most of the figures for outstanding product on Broadway, is higher than the sturdy grosses of the previous week.

A very good $30,000 is seen for the second stanza of "The Big Sky" at the Criterion. Also doing fine is "Sudden Fear" at Loew's State, where $38,000 is due for its fourth week.

A non-holiday second week house record of $12,300 was set by "Ivory Hunter" at the Trans-Lux 52nd Street. Still drawing strong is "Affair in Trinidad" at the Victoria, with $21,000 forecast for its fifth week, and "High Noon" at the Mayfair, where $26,000 is indicated for the sixth stanza.

$22 000 for 'Devil'

A nice $22,000 is seen for the opening week of "Devil Makes Three" at the Globe, while a fair $14,000 is forecast for the third inning of "Les Miserables" at the Rivoli.

Among off-Broadway houses, the long-standing "Man in the White Suit" is expected to hit a solid $7,500 for its 22nd week. "Encore," also in its 22nd week, is due to rack up a fine $6,500.

"The Stranger in Between" at the Fine Arts is predicted to do an excellent $7,200 for its second week. At the Park Avenue, a very good $4,100 is indicated for the third inning of "Brandy for the Parson," while a good $3,000 is seen for the third week of "The Strange Ones" at the Baronet.

Roxy 'Streamlining,' Economies Indicated

David P. Katz, executive director of New York's Roxy Theatre, has returned here following conferences in Los Angeles with Charles P. Skouras, National Theatres president, and Ed Zabel, Fox West Coast executive, on National's take-over of the house on Sept. 27 from 20th Century-Fox under the divorcement and reorganization plans of the companies. Katz reported that under NT the immediate aim will be to "streamline" the organization of the Roxy and effect changes in personnel in order to effect economies in operation.

The future policy of the Roxy is not yet determined, Katz indicated. The present stage policy will be continued for at least three or four months to provide an opportunity to formulate new stage show ideas. Also under consideration is the refurbishing and "glamorizing" of the theatre. Zabel will come to New York shortly for discussions with Katz on future picture policies for the theatre.

Columbus, O., Sept. 2.—Of the first 14 Ohio Congressmen and candidates for election to reply to queries concerning their stand on repeal of the 20 per cent Federal admission tax, put by the ITO of Ohio, 11 said they would support repeal, Robert Wile, ITO secretary, reported. The other three were noncommittal but promised to keep open minds on the subject.

Wile said replies from additional incumbents and candidates are expected soon.

Albert Dezel Buys Lippert Exchange

DETROIT, Sept. 2.—Albert Dezel of Dezel Productions, which has offices in several cities, has purchased the Lippert exchange here from Robert Lippert.

The transaction was made in Kansas City with Dezel, Lippert and Lippert executives Arthur Greenblatt and Harris Dudelson present. Dezel said the office staff in Detroit will remain the same.

Advance Italian Films Week Plans

Plans for the visit here of a large number of Italian stars, producers, directors and government dignitaries, for Salute to Italian Films Week, Oct. 6-12, were discussed in Rome by E. R. Zorgniotti, U. S. representative of Italian Films Export, in a series of meetings with IFE board members. Zorgniotti has returned to New York, following a six weeks' visit in Rome.

Mother of P.T. Dana

Mrs. Frances Dana, mother of P. T. Dana, Universal Pictures' Eastern sales manager, died in Newark over the weekend. Funeral services will be held today in Newark.

Louis Edelman's Father

Simon Edelman, father of Warner producer Louis F. Edelman, died here late Thursday following a long illness. Louis Edelman is in New York for the funeral.

Vetluguin to CBS-TV

Voldemar Vetluguin, writer-editor and former special story asisstant to Louis B. Mayer, has been appointed script consultant on CBS-TV's dramatic series, "Studio One," Hubbell Robinson, Jr., vice-president in charge of CBS-TV programming, disclosed.

RKO Pictures. Lee Loevinger was attorney for the Lebedoffs, Mandt Torrison represented Maco and Paramount, and David Shearer represented the other five distributors.

Suit was filed over four years ago asking $500,000 in triple damages with trial starting last Oct. 31 and hearings ending Dec. 29. Nordbye has had the case under advisement about 90 days. Decision was handed down late today and text of judgment could not be obtained. Defense attorneys were not available for comment.

inter-city channel service and would not apply to the 10 megacycle band cost structure requested by the industry. A. T. & T. spokesmen described their regular inter-city band as a three megacycle one, while industry spokesmen place it in the four megacycle band classification.

The monthly charge of an estimated $48,000 was submitted by A. T. & T. for a New York-Washington transmission system which would have one Southbound channel and one Northbound channel, serving New York, Trenton, Philadelphia, Atlantic City, Wilmington, Baltimore and Washington. The system would also have one channel to Reading and Allentown, Pa., from Philadelphia.

For the same network of cities with three Southbound channels and one Northbound channel, the monthly charge would be about $102,000. This hypothetical transmission network also features three channels each to Reading and Allentown from Philadelphia.

The monthly charge goes up to about $207,000 for the nine-city network when the system contains six Southbound channels and two Northbound ones. In this system, the number of trunk outlets to Reading and Allentown from Philadelphia are also increased.

The A. T. & T. response also gave cost data for local theatre television networks in Washington. The monthly charge for the inter-city network varied from $6,900 to $9,800, with the number of theatres in the projected Washington net varying from 15 to 17.

The reply pointed out that charges for video inter-exchange channels and station connections cover service for eight consecutive hours daily and were based under present Bell System service for video and audio channels. It was also pointed out that the cost schedules were based upon the specifications drawn up by the Toeppen Co. for MPAA and NETTC. However, the reply stated, "substantial reductions in these charges could be effected through rearrangements which might be entirely practicable in meeting actual service requirements."

The number of transmitting and receiving outlets for each of the nine cities in the projected nets varied. Under the $48,000 system, for instance, there were seven transmitting and 13 receiving station connections, while under the $207,000 classification there were 27 transmitting and 58 receiving connections.

Howard Meets with Division Heads

William W. Howard, RKO Theatres' vice-president in charge of operations, has been conducting a series of home office meetings with out-of-town division managers. Discussions covered bookings, advertising, maintenance, labor relations and concessions, with heads of the various home office departments taking part.

Among those who have been in town for the meetings are Jerry Shinbach, Midwest division; Harry Weiss, Minnesota-Iowa division; Jay Golden, New England-Upper New York; Russ Emde, Newark-Washington, and Edward Sniderman, Trenton-New Brunswick.

the Motion Picture Association of America and National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee had written a letter to the FCC complaining about the phone company's failure to reply to the MPAA-NETTC requests for information. Obviously, the phone company letter had been without any knowledge of the industry complaint to the FCC, but the industry complaint did show that it wants information badly and means to get it.

The basic industry dissatisfaction with the A.T. and T. response, according to industry spokesmen, is that the film industry's theatre TV plans are built around a 10 megacycle channel width and it had asked for financial estimates based on such a channel. The phone company's reply gave various figures for a 4 mc channel, but said it could not give figures for a 10 mc channel, as requested.

The MPAA and NETTC originally requested the information from the phone company on April 10. The company, on June 12, replied that since the theatre TV hearings would not start until Jan., 1953, it felt it should wait before supplying the information. On Aug. 12, MPAA and NETTC said they would like the information right away, since the start of the hearings had been advanced to Oct. 20. Then on Aug. 28, the two orginizations wrote the Commission asking it "to advise and urge the Telephone Company, as a common carrier holding itself out for public service, to promptly furnish the specific answers to the questions propounded to it in our letter of April 10, 1952."

The letter to the Commission said that if the industry does not get the information it needs from A.T. and T., it would not be able to give the FCC "a careful comparative analysis of cost data," and that this would also result in a "substantial delay" in the hearings since considerable cost data which should be given in the hearings starting Oct. 20 might have to be repeated or elaborated in the hearings starting Jan. 12, whereas this phase should be completed in October.

The A.T. and T. reply, also dated Aug. 28, said it had been giving "careful consideration" to the industry's request for cost data based upon the specification prepared by the Toeppen Co. (Industry officials said this specification revolved around a 10 mc band.)

"Our consideration has led to the conclusion," the phone company continued, "that prices for the transmission service specified in the Toeppen study cannot be quoted at this time for the reasons outlined below. As you will appreciate, the pricing of such service requires consideration of many factors, including the cost of designing, developing, manufacturing, installing and maintaining the required equipment. Without considering the question of whether the transmission characteristics and requirements specified are in all respects necessary or practical for satisfactory theatre TV transmission, our technical people, after careful study of the specification, point out that certain basic features of the proposed system require equipment which is not at present available from any source and for which cost information is therefore not attainable."

The company said the specification is based on a 10-megacycle transmission system, but declared that "as a practical matter," the bandwidth would have to be even wider to get the results the specification envisages.

Need More Experience

"Just how much wider the most practical frequency band would need to be to give this response," the company declared, "and how costly the required equipment might be, are questions to which the answers cannot be obtained without further experience in this field."

The company then gave "an estimate of the charges under our present offering applicable for several arrangements of network service connecting the points you have designated." These estimates covered transmission between New York and Washington and various side-points, with varying numbers of channels. However, according to film industry spokesmen, they are based on a 4 mc bandwidth.

"That's like telling us the price of oranges when we're trying to buy bananas," said one company lawyer. "It's no use at all."

The A.T. and T. letter concluded by pointing out that Bell System experts are working closely with theatre industry technicians to develop new transmission methods. It declared that both the TD-2 radio system and the new L-3 coaxial system can be adapted to provide broader bands, and said the company was "confident that, as experience with theatre television increases and the requirements, both intercity and local, become progressively clearer, we will be able to meet those requirements."

The letter was signed by Ernest D. North, general attorney for the company's Long Lines Department.

TOA Leaders Confer Here on Convention

Mitchell Wolfson, Theatre Owners of America president, is in New York from Miami for discussions with other TOA officials concerning organization affairs, particularly plans for the annual TOA convention in Washington, Sept. 14-18. He will return to Miami tomorrow.

Wolfson met here yesterday with Gael Sullivan, executive director; S. H. Fabian, executive committee chairman; Herman M. Levy, general counsel, and Dick Pitts and Howard Bryant, administrative assistants.

Rackmil Buys Shares

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Milton R. Rackmil, Universal president, bought 1,000 shares of the company's common stock in July, the Securities and Exchange Commission has been informed.

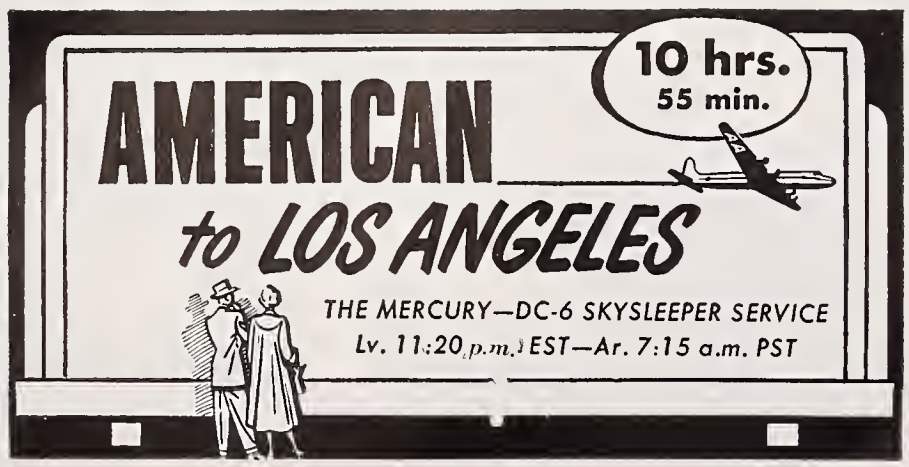
Set Heads of Minn. Tax Repeal Fight

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 2.—Council of Motion Picture Organizations' Minnesota tax repeal committee last week made public through North Central Allied executive counsel Stan Kane the first list of political action committee chairmen and members on the state's congressional district level. The committee comprises Ben Berger, Harry B. French, E. R. Ruben, Ted Mann and Charles Perrine, all of Minneapolis.

The senatorial committee consists of the state tax repeal committee as a whole, plus E. O. Olson, Northfield.

Congressional district committeemen are:

First: Ben Friedman, Minneapolis; Will Glaser (chairman), Faribault; E. O. Olson, Northfield; Al Smith, Winona; Ed Swanson, Red Wing. Second: George Gould (chairman), Glencoe; Robert Pfau, Mankato. Third: Berger, Kane, Mann, Ruben, Perrine. Fourth: George Granstrom and Mandt Torreson, both of St. Paul. Fifth: Ruben, Perrine. Sixth: Cal Nygaard, Brainerd; Bert Parsons, Springfield; Lowell Smoots, Little Falls. Seventh: John Cliplef, Montevideo; M. R. Debbaut, Minnesota; Guy Hower, Worthington. Eighth: Al Anson and George Brown, Duluth; Bob Berquist, Chisholm; Lewis Deutsch, Virginia; Bill Holisky (chairman), Two Harbors. Ninth district: Ray Hanson, Fertile; Ernotte Hiller, Crookston; Charles Vondra, Mahnomen; Kane.



District Operations Realigned by Maco

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 2.—Minnesota Amusement Co. will discontinue outstate division headquarters at Rochester, Minn., and Sioux Falls, S. D. and the district office at Duluth and a district branch at the State Theatre here, Harry B. French, Maco president, has announced.

In a major shift of manpower, the result of an attempt to streamline the company's operations and bring all division and district management under the more direct coordination of the home office in Minneapolis, Al Anson has been retired from his post as manager of the Northern division at his own request, and Frank Steffy, currently managing director of the Radio City here, will be given a new assignment.

Maco Tests Hike in Children's Prices

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 2.—An experiment in higher admission prices for children—confined only to Loop theatres for the present, pending a study of results—has been launched here by Minnesota Amusement Co. The rate for children at the Maco Loop houses has been increased to 20 cents, a hike of eight cents.

TOA Aims to Raise Fire Vs. Gov't Suit

See Defendant Status Bid Evoking Company Blasts

Theatre Owners of America leaders anticipate that the organization's forthcoming convention will advocate TOA's becoming a voluntary defendant in the government's 16mm. anti-trust action in the belief that the boldness of such a move will inspire other presidents of major distributor-defendants to speak out against the suit as did Spyros P. Skouras, 20th Century-Fox president.

This, of course, is only one reason it is expected the Sept. 14-18 convention in Washington will favor the move. Another is that a bid for defendant status will underscore the indignation expressed by exhibitors in gen-

TOA Has a White House Problem, Too

Washington, Sept. 3—Arranging for the visit to the White House Sept. 17 by the wives of Theatre Owners of America convention delegates has not been without problems for the convention planners.

Now that the First Lady has indicated she would be pleased to receive the TOA wives, the TOA planners must arrange to supply White House guards and attendants with 15 copies of a list of names of the visitors. This must be done for "security reasons." As many as 100 TOA wives are expected to make the visit. The big problem is to get the names in advance.

MPAA Engineers to Propose Next A. T. & T. Tilt Move

The next move to obtain theatre television transmission costs from the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. will depend on the recommendations of the engineers hired by the Motion Picture Association of America, James T. Fly, special TV counsel of the MPAA, said here yesterday.

Without further study of A. T. & T.'s response, it would be very difficult to say what course of action will be adopted by the MPAA, Fly explained. He added, however, that an analysis of A. T. & T.'s six-page answer would probably be made by MPAA and submitted to the Federal Communications Commission.

Si Fabian, chairman of the National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee, could not be reached yesterday for comment on A. T. & T.'s response, called "completely unsatisfactory" by industry spokesmen in Washington. It

Rank's Odeon Has Year's Profit of $3,438,722

LONDON, Sept. 3.—J. Arthur Rank's Odeon Theatres today reported a net profit of £1,228,115 ($3,438,722) for the 53 weeks ended June 28. The result is after all taxes and other adjustments and includes special profits arising from the disposal of fixed assets. In the previous fiscal year Odeon reported a net profit of £277,980 ($778,344).

Despite the current working profit, Odeon directors again decided not to pay a dividend on the ordinary shares, 50 per cent of which are owned by United Artists. However, Rank stated that subject to unforeseen circumstances, Odeon hopes to meet all arrears on its preferred stock dividends during the current year.

Odeon's consolidated balance sheet shows a reduction of bank indebtedness of £2,437,008 ($6,823,622), leaving a net overdraft of £6,776,738 ($18,974,866). Other loan capital re-

Review

"Assignment-Paris"

(Columbia)

A NEAT, topical tale of intrigue dealing with the arrest of an American newspaperman in Hungary has been adapted from a Saturday Evening Post serial by Paul and Pauline Gallico. The film, although it depends to some extent on coincidence in its plot motivation, is not overly complicated and has strong exploitation angles.

Starring are Dana Andrews, Marta Toren and Audrey Totter, lead reporters on the Paris edition of the New York Herald Tribune, under the astute editorial guidance of George Sanders.

Andrews, a reporter from the New York office, arrives in Paris and quickly steals Miss Toren's affections from his editor. Sanders, in turn, sends him to replace an ailing correspondent in Budapest. Here Andrews shortly gets involved with the Communist government by trying to smuggle out a microfilm containing evidence damaging to the regime. For this he is arrested; a "phoney" confession is rigged and he is all set to be hanged until Miss Toren and Sanders come through with a diplomatic rescue.

The latter involves Sandro Giglio, file attendant in the Tribune's Paris office, who turns out to be an ex-Hungarian official and has the proof needed to substantiate charges of a plot against Stalin on the part of the Hungarians. The Communists thus are persuaded to trade the doomed Andrews for Giglio.

The film moves fairly swiftly with a minimum of rough and tumble action, relying mainly for its effects on dialogue, night photography and a suspenseful climax. Background footage made in Paris, including shots of the Tribune offices on the Rue de Berri, adds to the general authenticity of the drama. The screenplay is by William Bowers, from an adaptation by Walter Goetz and Jack Palmer White.

Samuel Marx and Jerry Bresler produced and Robert Parrish directed. Others in the cast include Donald Randolph, Herbert Beghof, Ben Astar, Willis Bouchey and Earl Lee.

Running time, 85 minutes. General audience classification. For October release.

City Dignitaries at 'Show' Premiere

New York's Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri has accepted the invitation of 20th Century-Fox to attend the world premiere of Darryl F. Zanuck's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro," and will head a party of city officials to the Rivoli Theatre here on Sept. 17.

Meanwhile, Lisa Ferraday, of the cast, has already made 25 radio and TV guest appearances in behalf of the film, with several more set during the next two weeks.

'Student Prince' Off, Says Lanza Defaults

M-G-M yesterday announced abandonment of "The Student Prince," due to the persistent failure of Mario Lanza, who was to be its star, to report for the start of the film." Studio executives said more than $700,000 has thus far been invested in the picture, and that "the company will pursue its legal rights caused by Lanza's default of his contract," a home office statement disclosed.

'Thief' Special Entry At Venice Festival

Harry M. Popkin's "The Thief," the "talkless talkie," will be a special entry at the Venice Film Festival, it was announced by Arnold M. Picker, United Artists chief of foreign distribution.

The film will not be in competition with the other American and foreign entries, Picker declared, because it will be in a special category due to the fact that it was not ready in time to make it eligible as a regular entry.

20-Cent Quarterly Loew's Dividend

Loew's directors yesterday declared a regular quarterly dividend of 20 cents on its common stock, payable Sept. 30 to stockholders of record on Sept. 16, it was announced here, following a meeting of the board.

This is the second quarterly dividend to be paid at the 20-cent rate, Loew's having reduced its dividend from 37½ cents for the previous payment.

Tunick Gets Lippert Franchise in Cincy.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 3.—Gene Tunick, formerly in charge of Lippert distribution here and subsequently an Eagle-Lion sales executive in New York, again has taken the local Lippert franchise. He will also handle other product.

The local Souvaine-Selective Pictures branch, which he headed recently, closed several weeks ago.

To Re-Open Chicago Suburban Theatre

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—A. Becker, former operator of the Vet Theatre here, will operate the Strand, Brookfield, Ill., for the new owner, Arnold Lund, who will reopen the suburban house on Sept. 14.

Nat Karson Here

Nat Karson, former producer of the stage show at M-G-M's Leicester Square Empire Theatre in London, has arrived here. He plans to produce a similar show for a New York film theatre.

Only 2 Films Begun on Coast

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 3.—Production took a small sag, with only two pictures being started in seven days, while six others were completed.

The new undertakings are "Julius Caesar," M-G-M, and "Come On Texas," Warner. Completed were "Serpent of the Nile" and "Story of a Bad Girl," Columbia; "Royal Mounted Police," Allied Artists; "Sweetheart Time," Republic; "Taxi," 20th-Fox and "Columbia South," Universal-International.

and distributor representatives on "the continual complaints between distributors and exhibitors," a committee spokesman said. MPAA and the distributors wanted to give their side of the story, he said, and the committee people "were glad to hear it."

The industry spokesmen declared they would be glad to put committee investigators in touch with anyone in the distribution field who might be able to give information to the committee and added that they would also be willing to suggest such people.

Committee investigators, who have only spoken to a handful of distributors to date, said they would certainly be speaking to more and that the the committee would hear distributor witnesses if and when hearings on the subject were begun.

William D. Amis, committee investigator, is scheduled to leave for the Coast shortly to go into exhibitor complaints in the San Francisco area. Amis recently finished an inquiry in the Los Angeles region.

MPAA representatives at today's meeting were Joyce O'Hara, Kenneth Clark, Ed Cooper, Sidney Schreiber and Cecil Dixon. From the distribution side there were William Rodgers, Loew's vice-president, and William Zimmerman, assistant to the RKO Radio sales manager, Robert Mochrie. Present for the committee were Gillis Long and Amis.

While the stock market evinced disappointment that no dividend is being paid on the Odeon ordinaries, it concedes that a £9,509,843 ($26,627,560) reduction in Odeon's bank overdrafts in the past three years has been a remarkable achievement.

Rank's Gaumont British and subsidiaries, including Cinematelevision, Ltd., and others, showed a net profit of £625,384 ($1,751,075) for the year, compared with net of £711,181 ($1,-991,306) for the previous year. Gaumont will pay a 7½ per cent dividend on its ordinaries, compared with 5 per cent last year.

Rank's production company, British & Dominions Film Corp., showed a net profit for the year of £157,073 ($439,804), compared with net of £151,468 ($424,110) for the previous year. The company's preference dividend was continued but nothing was paid on the ordinaries.

Full accounts of the Rank Organization are scheduled to be made public Sept. 17.

Portuguese Picture

be held at Paramount's home office for American distribution representatives. Producer de Solms, who is seeking to sell the world distribution rights to the picture, will be present.

De Solms, a Spaniard who specializes in the production of Portuguese language films, will leave here in about a week for Hollywood where he will confer with production executives with a view to co-producing Portuguese Africa features with American players. He said yesterday that during the past two years he has turned out 51 Portuguese short subjects and the feature, "Chikewembo" which, freely translated, means "Witchcraft."

Film-making in Portugal is a difficult business, de Solms said, explaining that native pictures seldom earn in that country more than $50,000 each. Hence only five or six features are made there annually. He said American pictures, on the other hand, are very popular in Portugal. Portuguese-speaking Brazil, he noted, pays only $10,000 for each Portuguese picture imported, which makes the South American country a distinctly undesirable market.

Observing that films on TV in America are generally of low quality, de Solms wondered if the fact that Americans accept them would not tend to lower film-producing standards in the U. S. He agreed, however, that in recent years Hollywood has been turning out pictures of unexampled excellence.

Settle Suit

atres, M. and P. Theatres, New England Theatres, RKO Theatres, Loew's Boston Theatres and George A. Giles Co., has been settled out of court.

Terms of the settlement were not disclosed by Arthur L. Whittemore of the law firm of Nutter, McClellen and Fish of Boston, who announced termination of the action.

The Garbose brothers' complaint charged that several Massachusetts theatre circuits conspired with defendant distributors to deprive their York and Athol theatres of product.

Reviews

"The Amazing Monsieur Fabre"

(Walter Futter)

A FASCINATING, inspirational film based on the life of France's great 19th Century entomologist, Jean Henri Fabre, "The Amazing Monsieur Fabre" is the product of French and American talent.

Bound to lend impetus to the merchandising of this picture is the endorsement given it by the Foreign Film Advisory Unit of the Motion Picture Association of America. Arthur DeBra, MPAA director of community relations, has emphasized the film's values in "thousands of letters" being sent to such "opinion makers" as educators and social leaders. "Monsieur Fabre" will have its American premiere Monday at the Park Avenue Theatre here.

The subject of entomology—the study of insects—may not seem suitable material for dramatic fare, but as viewed through the eyes of the great student-writer-observer, it makes for an exciting and thought-provoking film, due in no small part to the excellent scientific photography of Horace Woodward. Highlights of the production are those scenes showing the insects' constant battle for survival and some of their more perverse patterns of behavior.

Produced in France by Walter Futter, from a story and screenplay by American playwright Jack Kirkland, the film is in English dialogue spoken by an all-French cast. Actually it was made in both French and English versions to take the greatest advantage of the two markets.

In the title role, Pierre Fresnay is seen in the somewhat conventional conception of a "man ahead of his time." Living in the South of France in the middle of the last century, Fabre eked out a meagre existence for his huge family as a mathematics instructor, with time off for the study of insects. Recognition of Fabre's work—both in the field of entomology and as it related to man's behavior—came slowly over a 50-year period and as a triumph over a series of personal misfortunes. Scenes depicting his family life are played with humor and pathos and are neatly integrated with the nature studies.

The latter include revealing shots of ants, wasps, caterpillars, spiders and the like, in their various habitats engaged in their single-minded dedication to survival. Fabre's whole life was devoted to their study to find out whether they acted from instinct or intelligence. What he learned, aside from a million facts, was that man alone possesses soul and a free will.

Henri Diamant-Berger directed the film which should be a natural for discriminating audiences everywhere.

Also in the cast are Elina La Bourdette, Andre Randall, Georges Tabet, Oliver Hussenot, Espanita Cortez, and many others.

Running time, 90 minutes. General audience classification. August release.

"Fargo"

(Monogram) Hollywood, Sept. 3

"FARGO" will certainly entrench Wild Bill Elliott with his followers and should create many, many more. It is a compact piece of Prairie melodrama with a better than usual story, a picturesque sepia tint, loads of people, horses and cattle, and jampacked with ridin' and blazing guns.

The story and screenplay by Jack DeWitt and Joseph Poland concerns the introduction of barbed wire as a thorny implement of peacemaking in the struggle between cattlemen dedicated to the open range and farmers who believe in fences. It was produced by Vincent M. Fennelly and directed by Lewis D. Collins, who follow a straight-line account of the coming of the grain-farmers to the region around Fargo, of the natural resistance of the open-range cowmen to the fencing of the newcomers' claims, and of the resistance of some crooks, chief among them a perfidious foreman, which leads to violence, inclusive of multiple murder, finally quenched by treatment with law and counter-violence in about equal measure. Elliott gives his usual strong, sure performance, with Myron Healey providing an excellent plot opponent. The big cast is uniformly satisfactory, including Phyllis Coates, Fuzzy Knight, Jack Ingram, Arthur Space, Robert Wilke, Terry Frost, Robert Bray, Denver Pyle, Tim Ryan, Florence Lake, Stanley Andrews, Richard Reeves.

Running time, 69 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Sept. 7.

lowing a personal appearance by Marjorie Main. However, the storm interrupted a flow of visitors estimated at 1,500 an hour. ATO officials say approximately 70,000 persons had viewed the exhibit since it was set up Saturday afternoon.

Forrest Tucker, Tony Romano and Rex Allen entertained spectators in front of the tent after it collapsed while ATO representatives worked to get items on display under cover to protect them from the rain, which continued all night and delayed salvage work. Costumes were ironed out, mannikins repaired and signs repainted in time to make a fresh start quickly.

The film exhibit has proved the biggest draw on the fair grounds, ATO officials say. Fair officials also are reported to be enthusiastic.

The building includes the 1,400-seat Davis (operated by Essaness for a number of years, but closed recently), six stores, a studio, and 12 apartments.

National Pre-Selling

TIME's cover picture and inside story on Katharine Hepburn, now on newsstands, is obviously impressive to the trade as well as to the public, for its sincerity and human interest. The 42-year-old star, by her own estimate, has earned $3,000,000 on stage and screen, and says of herself, "I have an angular face, an angular body, and I suppose, an angular personality which jabs into people." . . . Newsweek's reviews are well balanced and without bias, a fact appreciated by trade sources, and the weekly issues carry sufficient material to cover current releases. "The Quiet Man" comes in for a sympathetic treatment of John Ford's rural shenanigans, and "The Crimson Pirate" is described as something nobody will believe, but "it's wonderful, really." . . . Marilyn Monroe was grand marshall at the annual American Beauty Parade at Atlantic City, and attracting quite some attention hereself, said she thought "they were looking at my grand marshall's badge."

At least 530 radio stations operating under Mutual Broadcasting System are participants with RKO in a six weeks contest to promote "Sudden Fear," starring Joan Crawford, now under way and continuing to Sept. 12. Listeners are urged to write in letters telling of their first sudden fear and how they overcame it. Top prize will be a trip to Hollywood, according to Don Prince, RKO Radio Eastern publicity head. A folder has been prepared by Mutual advising its stations how to conduct the contest, with local promotional tie-ins to conform to playdates.

About 40 national magazines with a combined circulation of more than 70,000,000, will be used to promote "Androcles and the Lion," according to S. Barret McCormick, director of advertising for RKO Radio Pictures. The campaign will get under way this week and will extend into November. Sunday supplements and men's magazines as well as the big national weeklies and monthlies will carry advertising on "Lusty Men" through September and October, to reach another 60,-000,000 readers. The latter picture is scheduled for an area premiere in Texas on Oct. 2.

Scoring with full-color, half-page ads in the Sunday sections of 70 key city newspapers, 20th Century-Fox heralded Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables" to a combined readership of over 100 millions. The ad combines the attraction of a comic strip layout with the force of a 24-sheet poster, obtaining both results in strong color. List of newspapers getting the allocated space is a summary of important Sunday issues from coast to coast. The half-page will command attention from the nation's younger fans and adults. alike. . . . Largest and most comprehensive exhibitor's campaign manual of the year is being prepared by 20th-Fox for "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" which has its premiere at the Rivoli theatre on Broadway Sept. 18. The company has also arranged three-way tieups across the country between exhibitors, school officials and booksellers to benefit "O. Henry's Full House."

include listings on WNBC and WNBT of current and popular motion pictures, as well as special programs highlighting various features of the film industry. OMPI will prepare, distribute and display trailers and posters boosting these programs in participating theatres, which will number more than 500 and include some 30 circuits.

In commenting on the new alliance, Schwartz said, "I have no doubt that this agreement, the first of its kind, will give ample evidence that radio, TV and motion pictures can work together and complement each other's activities with mutually beneficial results. It will also be of benefit to the public in keeping them informed of the best in entertainment."

Cott stated, "NBC is very proud of the opportunity to help prove to the entertainment industry that the so-called rival industries can augment each other by working together. We are very confident that our 'joining hands' campaign will work to the advantage of both industries."

The campaign, which will run for a trial period of 13 weeks subject to renewal, will be teed off on Sept. 15 on WNBC and WNBT with a daily listing of popular films currently playing in neighborhood houses. Skitch Henderson will handle the radio chores both morning and evening while the television time slot has not yet been designated.

On Sept. 22, WNBC will present a weekly Hollywood variety show, which will feature recorded interviews with stars, producers and other film personalities and film music on records. Simultaneously, a daily five-minute television program on WNBT will be inaugurated during the 6:15 to 6:30 P. M. period.

In preparation is a documentary series of six or seven radio programs, "realistically dramatizing the men who make the movies." NBC will provide top producers, script writers and actors for these programs, with OMPI providing the material. Many other promotions, including a supermarket tie-up to promote films by selection of a "Super Movie of the Month," are now in the planning stages.

US TV Ups Bookings Of Canadian Films

OTTAWA, Sept. 3.—Officials of the National Film Board of Canada report that there is a boom in the demand for the board's productions for television in the United States. In 1950-51 there were 1,523 bookings for television in the U. S., but in 1951-52 there were 2,401. These bookings are exclusive of commercial theatre showings and television showings of the Canadian-made films in various other foreign countries.

TOA Aims

eral over the government's attempt to force the sale of features in 16mm. to TV and other outlets competing with regular theatres.

On July 29, Herman M. Levy, TOA general counsel, following consulation with other organization officials announced that he will ask the convention to decide whether it wishes to take the necessary steps to have TOA made a party defendant in the suit. Although it was named a co-conspirator in the government's complaint, TOA was not included among the defendants.

While the TOA leadership is confident the membership will make an affirmative decision, it doubts if the Department of Justice would accede to a TOA request for defendant status. The Department might decline the request, it was said, out of reluctance to have to confront at the bar of justice what would in effect be a united industry. TOA, it was explained, could "swing more freely" in fighting the suit if it were a defendant.

These are the steps that will be taken in seeking TOA convention approval: the TOA board will first discuss and vote on whether to submit a resolution to the convention proper; officials of the organization will be selected to discuss the implications of the move before the convention; the convention itself will vote on it.

was both NETTC and MPAA which requested the information dealing with a projected New York-to-Washington theatre TV network capable of carrying a 10 megacycle imput. The only cost data supplied by A. T. & T. in its response dealt with its regular three to four megacycle channel.

A. T. & T.s failure to come through with the requested cost data was described by Fly as the only gap in the completion of the technical phase of the industry's TV presentation to the FCC, which will be made when theatre TV hearings open in October.

In the meantime, the MPAA TV counsel said he and his associate, Vincent Welch, and Marcus Cohn, counsel for the NETTC, are working on the January phase of the hearings when witnesses will be presented by the industry to testify before the FCC.

See Defendant Status Bid Evoking Company Blasts

Theatre Owners of America leaders anticipate that the organization's forthcoming convention will advocate TOA's becoming a voluntary defendant in the government's 16mm. anti-trust action in the belief that the boldness of such a move will inspire other presidents of major distributor-defendants to speak out against the suit as did Spyros P. Skouras, 20th Century-Fox president.

This, of course, is only one reason it is expected the Sept. 14-18 convention in Washington will favor the move. Another is that a bid for defendant status will underscore the indignation expressed by exhibitors in gen-

TOA Has a White House Problem, Too

Washington, Sept. 3—Arranging for the visit to the White House Sept. 17 by the wives of Theatre Owners of America convention delegates has not been without problems for the convention planners.

Now that the First Lady has indicated she would be pleased to receive the TOA wives, the TOA planners must arrange to supply White House guards and attendants with 15 copies of a list of names of the visitors. This must be done for "security reasons." As many as 100 TOA wives are expected to make the visit. The big problem is to get the names in advance.

MPAA Engineers to Propose Next A. T. & T. Tilt Move

The next move to obtain theatre television transmission costs from the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. will depend on the recommendations of the engineers hired by the Motion Picture Association of America, James T. Fly, special TV counsel of the MPAA, said here yesterday.

Without further study of A. T. & T.'s response, it would be very difficult to say what course of action will be adopted by the MPAA, Fly explained. He added, however, that an analysis of A. T. & T.'s six-page answer would probably be made by MPAA and submitted to the Federal Communications Commission.

Si Fabian, chairman of the National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee, could not be reached yesterday for comment on A. T. & T.'s response, called "completely unsatisfactory" by industry spokesmen in Washington. It

LONDON, Sept. 3.—J. Arthur Rank's Odeon Theatres today reported a net profit of £1,228,115 ($3,438,722) for the 53 weeks ended June 28. The result is after all taxes and other adjustments and includes special profits arising from the disposal of fixed assets. In the previous fiscal year Odeon reported a net profit of £277,980 ($778,344).

Despite the current working profit, Odeon directors again decided not to pay a dividend on the ordinary shares, 50 per cent of which are owned by United Artists. However, Rank stated that subject to unforeseen circumstances, Odeon hopes to meet all arrears on its preferred stock dividends during the current year.

Odeon's consolidated balance sheet shows a reduction of bank indebtedness of £2,437,008 ($6,823,622), leaving a net overdraft of £6,776,738 ($18,974,866). Other loan capital re-

"Assignment-Paris"

(Columbia)

A NEAT, topical tale of intrigue dealing with the arrest of an American newspaperman in Hungary has been adapted from a Saturday Evening Post serial by Paul and Pauline Gallico. The film, although it depends to some extent on coincidence in its plot motivation, is not overly complicated and has strong exploitation angles.

Starring are Dana Andrews, Marta Toren and Audrey Totter, lead reporters on the Paris edition of the New York Herald Tribune, under the astute editorial guidance of George Sanders.

Andrews, a reporter from the New York office, arrives in Paris and quickly steals Miss Toren's affections from his editor. Sanders, in turn, sends him to replace an ailing correspondent in Budapest. Here Andrews shortly gets involved with the Communist government by trying to smuggle out a microfilm containing evidence damaging to the regime. For this he is arrested; a "phoney" confession is rigged and he is all set to be hanged until Miss Toren and Sanders come through with a diplomatic rescue.

The latter involves Sandro Giglio, file attendant in the Tribune's Paris office, who turns out to be an ex-Hungarian official and has the proof needed to substantiate charges of a plot against Stalin on the part of the Hungarians. The Communists thus are persuaded to trade the doomed Andrews for Giglio.

The film moves fairly swiftly with a minimum of rough and tumble action, relying mainly for its effects on dialogue, night photography and a suspenseful climax. Background footage made in Paris, including shots of the Tribune offices on the Rue de Berri, adds to the general authenticity of the drama. The screenplay is by William Bowers, from an adaptation by Walter Goetz and Jack Palmer White.

Samuel Marx and Jerry Bresler produced and Robert Parrish directed. Others in the cast include Donald Randolph, Herbert Beghof, Ben Astar, Willis Bouchey and Earl Lee.

Running time, 85 minutes. General audience classification. For October release.

City Dignitaries at 'Show' Premiere

New York's Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri has accepted the invitation of 20th Century-Fox to attend the world premiere of Darryl F. Zanuck's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro," and will head a party of city officials to the Rivoli Theatre here on Sept. 17.

Meanwhile, Lisa Ferraday, of the cast, has already made 25 radio and TV guest appearances in behalf of the film, with several more set during the next two weeks.

'Student Prince' Off, Says Lanza Defaults

M-G-M yesterday announced abandonment of "The Student Prince," due to the persistent failure of Mario Lanza, who was to be its star, to report for the start of the film." Studio executives said more than $700,000 has thus far been invested in the picture, and that "the company will pursue its legal rights caused by Lanza's default of his contract," a home office statement disclosed.

'Thief' Special Entry At Venice Festival

Harry M. Popkin's "The Thief," the "talkless talkie," will be a special entry at the Venice Film Festival, it was announced by Arnold M. Picker, United Artists chief of foreign distribution.

The film will not be in competition with the other American and foreign entries, Picker declared, because it will be in a special category due to the fact that it was not ready in time to make it eligible as a regular entry.

20-Cent Quarterly Loew's Dividend

Loew's directors yesterday declared a regular quarterly dividend of 20 cents on its common stock, payable Sept. 30 to stockholders of record on Sept. 16, it was announced here, following a meeting of the board.

This is the second quarterly divident to be paid at the 20-cent rate, Loew's having reduced its dividend from 37½ cents for the previous payment.

Tunick Gets Lippert Franchise in Cincy.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 3.—Gene Tunick, formerly in charge of Lippert distribution here and subsequently an Eagle-Lion sales executive in New York, again has taken the local Lippert franchise. He will also handle other product.

The local Souvaine-Selective Pictures branch, which he headed recently, closed several weeks ago.

To Re-Open Chicago Suburban Theatre

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—A. Becker, former operator of the Vet Theatre here, will operate the Strand, Brookfield, Ill., for the new owner, Arnold Lund, who will reopen the suburban house on Sept. 14.

Nat Karson Here

Nat Karson, former producer of the stage show at M-G-M's Leicester Square Empire Theatre in London, has arrived here. He plans to produce a similar show for a New York film theatre.

Only 2 Films Begun on Coast

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 3.—Production took a small sag, with only two pictures being started in seven days, while six others were completed.

The new undertakings are "Julius Caesar," M-G-M, and "Come On Texas," Warner. Completed were "Serpent of the Nile" and "Story of a Bad Girl," Columbia; "Royal Mounted Police," Allied Artists; "Sweetheart Time," Republic; "Taxi," 20th-Fox and "Columbia South," Universal-International.

and distributor representatives on "the continual complaints between distributors and exhibitors," a committee spokesman said. MPAA and the distributors wanted to give their side of the story, he said, and the committee people "were glad to hear it."

The industry spokesmen declared they would be glad to put committee investigators in touch with anyone in the distribution field who might be able to give information to the committee and added that they would also be willing to suggest such people.

Committee investigators, who have only spoken to a handful of distributors to date, said they would certainly be speaking to more and that the the committee would hear distributor witnesses if and when hearings on the subject were begun.

William D. Amis, committee investigator, is scheduled to leave for the Coast shortly to go into exhibitor complaints in the San Francisco area. Amis recently finished an inquiry in the Los Angeles region.

MPAA representatives at today's meeting were Joyce O'Hara, Kenneth Clark, Ed Cooper, Sidney Schreiber and Cecil Dixon. From the distribution side there were William Rodgers, Loew's vice-president, and William Zimmerman, assistant to the RKO Radio sales manager, Robert Mochrie. Present for the committee were Gillis Long and Amis.

Parade to Spark 'Loves' Premiere

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—A parade, featuring many Hollywood personalities, will herald the premiere of Paramount's "Somebody Loves Me" at the Chicago Theatre on Friday.

The parade will be led by Betty Hutton who stars in the film. Others in the vanguard will include Blossom Seeley, Benny Fields, Charlton Heston, Rosemary Clooney, Billy Daniels, Johny Ray, Lydia Clarke and Charles O'Curran.

paid during the year totalled £1,911,-275 ($5,351,570).

While the stock market evinced disappointment that no dividend is being paid on the Odeon ordinaries, it concedes that a £9,509,843 ($26,627,560) reduction in Odeon's bank overdrafts in the past three years has been a remarkable achievement.

Rank's Gaumont British and subsidiaries, including Cinematelevision, Ltd., and others, showed a net profit of £625,384 ($1,751,075) for the year, compared with net of £711,181 ($1,-991,306) for the previous year. Gaumont will pay a 7½ per cent dividend on its ordinaries, compared with 5 per cent last year.

Rank's production company, British & Dominions Film Corp., showed a net profit for the year of £157,073 ($439,804), compared with net of £151,468 ($424,110) for the previous year. The company's preference dividend was continued but nothing was paid on the ordinaries.

Full accounts of the Rank Organization are scheduled to be made publie Sept. 17.

be held at Paramount's home office for American distribution representatives. Producer de Solms, who is seeking to sell the world distribution rights to the picture, will be present.

De Solms, a Spaniard who specializes in the production of Portuguese language films, will leave here in about a week for Hollywood where he will confer with production executives with a view to co-producing Portuguese Africa features with American players. He said yesterday that during the past two years he has turned out 51 Portuguese short subjects and the feature, "Chikewembo" which, freely translated, means "Witchcraft."

Film-making in Portugal is a difficult business, de Solms said, explaining that native pictures seldom earn in that country more than $50,000 each. Hence only five or six features are made there annually. He said American pictures, on the other hand, are very popular in Portugal. Portuguese-speaking Brazil, he noted, pays only $10,000 for each Portuguese picture imported, which makes the South American country a distinctly undesirable market.

Observing that films on TV in America are generally of low quality, de Solms wondered if the fact that Americans accept them would not tend to lower film-producing standards in the U. S. He agreed, however, that in recent years Hollywood has been turning out pictures of unexampled excellence.

Settle Suit

atres, M. and P. Theatres, New England Theatres, RKO Theatres, Loew's Boston Theatres and George A. Giles Co., has been settled out of court.

Terms of the settlement were not disclosed by Arthur L. Whittemore of the law firm of Nutter, McClellen and Fish of Boston, who announced termination of the action.

The Garbose brothers' complaint charged that several Massachusetts theatre circuits conspired with defendant distributors to deprive their York and Athol theatres of product.

"The Amazing Monsieur Fabre"

(Walter Futter)

A FASCINATING, inspirational film based on the life of France's great 19th Century entomologist, Jean Henri Fabre, "The Amazing Monsieur Fabre" is the product of French and American talent.

Bound to lend impetus to the merchandising of this picture is the endorsement given it by the Foreign Film Advisory Unit of the Motion Picture Association of America. Arthur DeBra, MPAA director of community relations, has emphasized the film's values in "thousands of letters" being sent to such "opinion makers" as educators and social leaders. "Monsieur Fabre" will have its American premiere Monday at the Park Avenue Theatre here.

The subject of entomology—the study of insects—may not seem suitable material for dramatic fare, but as viewed through the eyes of the great student-writer-observer, it makes for an exciting and thought-provoking film, due in no small part to the excellent scientific photography of Horace Woodward. Highlights of the production are those scenes showing the insects' constant battle for survival and some of their more perverse patterns of behavior.

Produced in France by Walter Futter, from a story and screenplay by American playwright Jack Kirkland, the film is in English dialogue spoken by an all-French cast. Actually it was made in both French and English versions to take the greatest advantage of the two markets.

In the title role, Pierre Fresnay is seen in the somewhat conventional conception of a "man ahead of his time." Living in the South of France in the middle of the last century, Fabre eked out a meagre existence for his huge family as a mathematics instructor, with time off for the study of insects. Recognition of Fabre's work—both in the field of entomology and as it related to man's behavior—came slowly over a 50-year period and as a triumph over a series of personal misfortunes. Scenes depicting his family life are played with humor and pathos and are neatly integrated with the nature studies.

The latter include revealing shots of ants, wasps, caterpillars, spiders and the like, in their various habitats engaged in their single-minded dedication to survival. Fabre's whole life was devoted to their study to find out whether they acted from instinct or intelligence. What he learned, aside from a million facts, was that man alone possesses soul and a free will.

Henri Diamant-Berger directed the film which should be a natural for discriminating audiences everywhere.

Also in the cast are Elina La Bourdette, Andre Randall, Georges Tabet, Oliver Hussenot, Espanita Cortez, and many others.

Running time, 90 minutes. General audience classification. August release.

"Fargo"

(Monogram) Hollywood, Sept. 3

"FARGO" will certainly entrench Wild Bill Elliott with his followers and should create many, many more. It is a compact piece of Prairie melodrama with a better than usual story, a picturesque sepia tint, loads of people, horses and cattle, and jampacked with ridin' and blazing guns.

The story and screenplay by Jack DeWitt and Joseph Poland concerns the introduction of barbed wire as a thorny implement of peacemaking in the struggle between cattlemen dedicated to the open range and farmers who believe in fences. It was produced by Vincent M. Fennelly and directed by Lewis D. Collins, who follow a straight-line account of the coming of the grain-farmers to the region around Fargo, of the natural resistance of the open-range cowmen to the fencing of the newcomers' claims, and of the resistance of some crooks, chief among them a perfidious foreman, which leads to violence, inclusive of multiple murder, finally quenched by treatment with law and counter-violence in about equal measure. Elliott gives his usual strong, sure performance, with Myron Healey providing an excellent plot opponent. The big cast is uniformly satisfactory, including Phyllis Coates, Fuzzy Knight, Jack Ingram, Arthur Space, Robert Wilke, Terry Frost, Robert Bray, Denver Pyle, Tim Ryan, Florence Lake, Stanley Andrews, Richard Reeves.

Running time, 69 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Sept. 7.

lowing a personal appearance by Marjorie Main. However, the storm interrupted a flow of visitors estimated at 1,500 an hour. ATO officials say approximately 70,000 persons had viewed the exhibit since it was set up Saturday afternoon.

Forrest Tucker, Tony Romano and Rex Allen entertained spectators in front of the tent after it collapsed while ATO representatives worked to get items on display under cover to protect them from the rain, which continued all night and delayed salvage work. Costumes were ironed out, mannikins repaired and signs repainted in time to make a fresh start quickly.

The film exhibit has proved the biggest draw on the fair grounds, ATO officials say. Fair officials also are reported to be enthusiastic.

TIME's cover picture and inside story on Katharine Hepburn, now on newsstands, is obviously impressive to the trade as well as to the public, for its sincerity and human interest. The 42-year-old star, by her own estimate, has earned $3,000,000 on stage and screen, and says of herself, "I have an angular face, an angular body, and I suppose, an angular personality which jabs into people." . . . Newsweek's reviews are well balanced and without bias, a fact appreciated by trade sources, and the weekly issues carry sufficient material to cover current releases. "The Quiet Man" comes in for a sympathetic treatment of John Ford's rural shenanigans, and "The Crimson Pirate" is described as something nobody will believe, but "it's wonderful, really." . . . Marilyn Monroe was grand marshall at the annual American Beauty Parade at Atlantic City, and attracting quite some attention hereself, said she thought "they were looking at my grand marshall's badge."

At least 530 radio stations operating under Mutual Broadcasting System are participants with RKO in a six weeks contest to promote "Sudden Fear," starring Joan Crawford, now under way and continuing to Sept. 12. Listeners are urged to write in letters telling of their first sudden fear and how they overcame it. Top prize will be a trip to Hollywood, according to Don Prince, RKO Radio Eastern publicity head. A folder has been prepared by Mutual advising its stations how to conduct the contest, with local promotional tie-ins to conform to playdates.

About 40 national magazines with a combined circulation of more than 70,000,000, will be used to promote "Androcles and the Lion," according to S. Barret McCormick, director of advertising for RKO Radio Pictures. The campaign will get under way this week and will extend into November. Sunday supplements and men's magazines as well as the big national weeklies and monthlies will carry advertising on "Lusty Men" through September and October, to reach another 60,-000,000 readers. The latter picture is scheduled for an area premiere in Texas on Oct. 2.

Scoring with full-color, half-page ads in the Sunday sections of 70 key city newspapers, 20th Century-Fox heralded Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables" to a combined readership of over 100 millions. The ad combines the attraction of a comic strip layout with the force of a 24-sheet poster, obtaining both results in strong color. List of newspapers getting the allocated space is a summary of important Sunday issues from coast to coast. The half-page will command attention from the nation's younger fans and adults. alike. . . . Largest and most comprehensive exhibitor's campaign manual of the year is being prepared by 20th-Fox for "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" which has its premiere at the Rivoli theatre on Broadway Sept. 18. The company has also arranged three-way tieups across the country between exhibitors, school officials and booksellers to benefit "O. Henry's Full House."

include listings on WNBC and WNBT of current and popular motion pictures, as well as special programs highlighting various features of the film industry. OMPI will prepare, distribute and display trailers and posters boosting these programs in participating theatres, which will number more than 500 and include some 30 circuits.

In commenting on the new alliance, Schwartz said, "I have no doubt that this agreement, the first of its kind, will give ample evidence that radio, TV and motion pictures can work together and complement each other's activities with mutually beneficial results. It will also be of benefit to the public in keeping them informed of the best in entertainment."

Cott stated, "NBC is very proud of the opportunity to help prove to the entertainment industry that the so-called rival industries can augment each other by working together. We are very confident that our 'joining hands' campaign will work to the advantage of both industries."

The campaign, which will run for a trial period of 13 weeks subject to renewal, will be teed off on Sept. 15 on WNBC and WNBT with a daily listing of popular films currently playing in neighborhood houses. Skitch Henderson will handle the radio chores both morning and evening while the television time slot has not yet been designated.

On Sept. 22, WNBC will present a weekly Hollywood variety show, which will feature recorded interviews with stars, producers and other film personalities and film music on records. Simultaneously, a daily five-minute television program on WNBT will be inaugurated during the 6:15 to 6:30 P. M. period.

In preparation is a documentary series of six or seven radio programs, "realistically dramatizing the men who make the movies." NBC will provide top producers, script writers and actors for these programs, with OMPI providing the material. Many other promotions, including a supermarket tie-up to promote films by selection of a "Super Movie of the Month," are now in the planning stages.

US TV Ups Bookings Of Canadian Films

OTTAWA, Sept. 3.—Officials of the National Film Board of Canada report that there is a boom in the demand for the board's productions for television in the United States. In 1950-51 there were 1,523 bookings for television in the U. S., but in 1951-52 there were 2,401. These bookings are exclusive of commercial theatre showings and television showings of the Canadian-made films in various other foreign countries.

Taylor, Bell Promoted

Frank Taylor has been promoted to the position of cashier in the RKO Theatres home office, replacing William Murray, who retired on Friday after 26 years with the company. It was also disclosed that Arthur E. Bell has been elected an assistant treasurer of the circuit and its subsidiary companies.

During World War 2, four sailors stationed at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station in Chicago combined their talents to produce and present shows for their buddies which were the talk of the service. The quartet has since returned to show business and are seen and heard in their own radio and TV programs. The artists are Bill Harrington, starred daily on ABC-TV and WNEW, Jack Kilty, NBChirper and former singing star of "Oklahoma," Red Benson, star of Mutual's "Take A Number," and Durward Kirby, emcee-announcer of the "Garry Moore Show." TOA Aims eral over the government's attempt to force the sale of features in 16mm. to TV and other outlets competing with regular theatres.

On July 29, Herman M. Levy, TOA general counsel, following consulation with other organization officials announced that he will ask the convention to decide whether it wishes to take the necessary steps to have TOA made a party defendant in the suit. Although it was named a co-conspirator in the government's complaint, TOA was not included among the defendants.

While the TOA leadership is confident the membership will make an affirmative decision, it doubts if the Department of Justice would accede to a TOA request for defendant status. The Department might decline the request, it was said, out of reluctance to have to confront at the bar of justice what would in effect be a united industry. TOA, it was explained, could "swing more freely" in fighting the suit if it were a defendant.

These are the steps that will be taken in seeking TOA convention approval: the TOA board will first discuss and vote on whether to submit a resolution to the convention proper; officials of the organization will be selected to discuss the implications of the move before the convention; the convention itself will vote on it.

was both NETTC and MPAA which requested the information dealing with a projected New York-to-Washington theatre TV network capable of carrying a 10 megacycle imput. The only cost data supplied by A. T. & T. in its response dealt with its regular three to four megacycle channel.

A. T. & T.s failure to come through with the requested cost data was described by Fly as the only gap in the completion of the technical phase of the industry's TV presentation to the FCC, which will be made when theatre TV hearings open in October.

In the meantime, the MPAA TV counsel said he and his associate, Vincent Welch, and Marcus Cohn, counsel for the NETTC, are working on the January phase of the hearings when witnesses will be presented by the industry to testify before the FCC.

Start Lutheran TV Film Series Sunday

The Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod, in co-operation with the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S., will initiate a series of 26 dramatic films on television on Sunday, it was disclosed here yesterday by Rev. Heads to Vote Next Week On Arbitration

Meeting Date, Place to Be Indicated on Monday

The distributors arbitration negotiating committee on Monday will announce a meeting with the presidents of the companies at which the completed draft of a projected industry system of arbitration will be voted upon.

The meeting of the committee and the presidents is expected to take place toward the end of next week.

Meanwhile, the Theatre Owners of America is holding open on the agenda for its Sept. 14-18 annual convention a place for the subect of arbitration. If the companies do not approve the draft which was set up by a committee of attorneys from exhibition and distribution the document will not be voted on by the TOA convention. An

7. Hidden taxes.	7. Special assessments.	14. Popcorn, candy stands.

O'Donnell Blasts the 20% Tax and U. S. 16mm. Suit

HURON, S. D., Sept. 4.—The government's suit to compel motion picture companies to make their product available for telecasts and other competitive channels, and the Federal 20 per cent admission tax continue to be the targets of barrages from both within and outside the industry, the latest coming today from Robert J. O'Donnell, co-chairman of the Texas Council of Motion Picture Organizations, who fired several strong salvos before delegates at the convention of the South Dakota Exhibitors' Association.

R. J. O'Donnell

O'Donnell outlined the effectiveness of Texas COMPO and then called for "a square deal" for the theatres on the tax question. "Theatres are not asking for any preferential treatment on taxation," he declared.

French Talks Fail; Johnston To Take Over

Will Go to Paris After U.K. Pact Negotiations

The Motion Picture Export Association board yesterday flatly rejected France's remittance proposals for a new Franco-American film pact and gave Eric A. Johnston, Motion Picture Association of America president, "blanket authority to deal with the situation as he sees fit." The MPEA conceded that the repeated efforts to negotiate with the French had failed.

Johnston is expected to go to Paris for conferences with French government officials after completion of pending negotiations with the British government and "other countries."

The MPEA board at a meeting held yesterday to receive a French negotiations report from Fayette W. Allport,

Sept. 15 Is TNT's Deadline for Bout

The deadline for lining up theatres for the Sept. 23 telecast of the Walcott-Marciano heavyweight title bout, to be held in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium, is Sept. 15.

By that date, it was disclosed, Theatre Network Television, which has acquired the TV rights to the bout, must inform the co-promoters, the International Boxing Club, of the number of theatres involved in the telecast. Informed sources said that TNT has guaranteed $105,000 to the IBC for the rights to the bout telecast.

Grainger, Republic sales vice-president. This picture will open on Oct. 2, with a policy of continuous performances at advanced admissions.

Anti-Trust Issue Enters Circuit's TV Application

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—For the first time the Federal Communications Commission today introduced the anti-trust issue in ordering a hearing on a theatre circuit's application for a television station.

Mention of the anti-trust issue came in the FCC's notification to W. S. Butterfield Theatres, applicants for a TV station in Flint, Mich., that Butterfield will be heard along with Booth Radio and Television Stations, Inc., since both of them are bidding for Channel 64.

Although it is routine for the Commission to order a hearing in cases where there is more than one applicant for a TV channel, for the first time, the FCC said it had "advised Butterfield that the Commission would inquire into the anti-trust matters mentioned in its application."

At the same time, the Commission announced grants for six new commercial television stations. They are: Eastern Radio Corp. and Hawley Broadcasting Co., Reading; Summit Radio Corp., Arkon; WKST, Inc., New Castle, Pa.; Midwest TV Co., Massillon, Ohio, and New England Television Co., Fall River, Mass.

Maryland Censors Charge 'Deviations'

BALTIMORE, Sept. 4.—Maryland's motion picture censor board, in its annual report, charges that, "Certain Hollywood companies, faced with intense competition within their own ranks, in addition to the scare of television, have recently been deviating from the (decency) code to which they long have been parties.

"Increasing numbers of Maryland citizens and organizations have been advising this board they oppose the 'free screen' sought by special interests in question."

Maryland's censorship law is expected to be the target of the motion picture industry's next censorship test, but on a legislative level, rather than in the courts, as in the case of the Ohio newsreel test.

Morgan to Meet on 'Trio' and 'Encore'

Oscar Morgan, general sales manager of Paramount short subjects and Paramount News, will hold a series of meetings with exhibitors and the company's field sales managers in Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Buffalo and Toronto in which he will not only review short subject and news-reel operations but sales of the two W. Somerset Maugham films of which he is in charge, "Trio" and "Encore." He will leave here today.

Morgan recently returned from a similar trip to Des Moines, Kansas City and St. Louis.

Flying Press to Hitchcock Location

Warner Brothers has scheduled a series of flights to transport key-city newspaper, syndicate and national magazine representatives to Quebec City, Canada to witness the location shooting of "I Confess," Alfred Hitchcock's Warner production. The stunt is aimed at nationwide advance key-city newspaper and magazine coverage.

Regular scheduled flights begin with the arrival in Quebec today of a group of writers from Chicago, and will continue through the next two weeks. The Chicago contingent includes Eleanor Keene, Sun Times; Sam Lessner, Daily News; Ann Marsters, Herald American, and Lucia Perrigo, Central Press Syndicate. Frank Casey, Warner field man in Chicago, will accompany the group.

Flying up today to spend Saturday with the Hitchcock company will be a contingent of Boston writers, including Peggy Doyle, American; Mariory Adams, Globe; Helen Eager, Traveler; Prunella Hall, Post; Eleanor Hughes, Herald; Hal Cail, Portland Press Herald. Art Moger, Warner field man in Boston, will accompany them.

'Ivanhoe' Is Set In 5 More Spots

Five additional openings have been set for "Ivanhoe" by M-G-M. These are the first theatres other than the Loew's circuit and Radio City Music Hall here to have scheduled showings, each of the bookings being for more than one week. Among the new openings will be three on Sept. 25, at the Des Moines, Des Moines; Melba, Dallas, and Texas, San Antonio. On the following day, the Ritz, Birmingham will begin showing it, and on Oct. 9 the Rogers, Chattanooga, will open with the film.

Attend Para. Premiere

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 4.—Paramount production chief Don Hartman and Pat Duggan, who produced "Just for You," will attend the two-day invitational premiere of that Bing Crosby-Jane Wyman picture at the Village Theatre, Lake Arrowhead, Saturday and Sunday. The entire facilities of the North Shore Tavern will be taken over for 80 press and radio representatives who will cover the event.

Discina Acquires 'Topaze'

Discina International Films has acquired American distribution rights to Marcel Pagnol's "Topaze." Produced, written and directed by Pagnol, the film will have its American premiere in New York, this season. The distributors of the film have been informed that Pagnol is planning his first visit to the United States in conjunction with the premiere of the film.

Biggest 'Movietime' Unit to Indianapolis

Hollywood, Sept. 4.—The biggest single "Movietime, U. S. A." group thus far assembled, comprising 12 personalities, will fly to Indianapolis Sunday, where they will be greeted by exhibitors Trueman Rembusch and Marc Wolf, and later welcomed by Governor Henry F. Schricker. The group will split into three units and tour the state, returning to Indianapolis and thence to Hollywood on the 13th.

Sue 'U' on Handling Of Hellinger Films

Charging failure to give proper gross accountings and failure to exercise best selling efforts on three Mark Hellinger productions, the executors of the Hellinger estate yesterday filed in U. S. District Court here a suit against Universal asking damages totaling $650,000.

The plaintiffs are the Bank of America, Martin Gang and Gladys Glad Gottlieb. Pictures cited in the action are "The Killers," "The Naked City" and "Brute Force." The damages break-down is as follows: $200,000 for alleged failure to account for earnings arising out of a Realart reissue deal; $350,000 for alleged failure to use best efforts on two of the films; $100,000 for claimed infringement of property rights by titling a picture "Abbott and Costello Meet the Killers." The court was asked to issue a declaration of the rights of the parties in the action.

'U' Shorts Drive for Bookers Starts Oct. 6

Universal's 13-week "Bookers Short Subjects Drive," the company's first sales drive expressly for bookers, has been scheduled to start Oct. 6. Asks TV Pre-selling By Distributors

Television as an advertising medium should be utilized by distributors to pre-sell films until the day arrives when exhibitors can afford to use the medium, according to Mitchell Wolfson, head of the Wometco Circuit and president of the Theatre Owners of America.

Wolfson, himself a TV station operator in Miami, said the cost is prohibitive today to exhibitors on the still-limited TV network, where they have to compete with big advertisers for choice time.

Cohn Maps NETTC Move in ATT Tilt

The decision on the steps to be taken in light of the American Telephone and Telegraph's "unsatisfactory" response to the industry's request for theatre television cost data will be made for the National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee by Marcus Cohn, NETTC counsel.

This was disclosed here yesterday by Si Fabian, chairman of NETTC, following the Motion Picture Association of America's announcement that its engineers would study A. T. & T.'s reply and make recommendations as to the course of action MPAA should follow. Both NETTC and MPAA had requested the cost data.

Approves WNBT For RCA Color Test

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The Federal Communications Commission disclosed today that it had granted the National Broadcasting Co. special temporary authority to use the facilities of WNBT, New York, to test the RCA color television system. Operation is to be limited to 15 minutes daily, Monday through Friday, from nine in the morning until noon, the FCC said.

New B&K Lease on Regal

O'Donnell Blasts 20% Tax

"The great majority of theatre owners are small business men, and it is these little fellows with low profits who are suffering most and who face disaster first if the tax is not eliminated.

"There are more than 5,000 marginal theatres that will be forced to close their doors during the next year if the admission tax is not eliminated. If this should come to pass, production, distribution and exhibition would be irreparably injured. This tax which has been discriminatory since the cessation of the last war, has now become confiscatory.

"All over the country theatre owners and managers are approaching their Congressmen and giving them a true picture of the disastrous plight the theatre faces. We have found that all of the Congressmen we have contacted did not know the seriousness of our problem and all of them have committed themselves to support our plea to eliminate this burdensome tax. In Texas where we have 22 Congressmen, all of these have expressed the fact that they are anxious for the opportunity to relieve this condition in order that the theatre may survive.

"We are seeking complete elimination of the 20 per cent admission tax. In view of the facts presented, not mentioning the newest medium of competition, television, which is making a great bid for prominence in the entertainment world, we are asking Congressmen to survey our situation and support our plea for repeal of this unjust and unfair tax," O'Donnell continued.

"The exhibitor has proved that the theatre is indispensible to the community in which it operates, and is as much a part of civic activity as a church or school. But, with the high rise in cost of operation and living expenses the theatre has been unable to raise admission prices since we have reached the point of diminishing returns. Food prices have risen 58 per cent, clothing 35 per cent, rent 25 per cent, while movie admissions have increased less than 11 per cent. Since ours is a business of volume—and the only way we can get volume is through popular prices—this 20 per cent tax has spelled the difference between a small profit or a complete loss in a large number of theatres."

O'Donnell expressed gratification over the editorial support given the industry in its fight against the government's suit to force release of films to television. He said the Justice Department had been "sold a bill of goods" and he observed that the simplest solution would be to let Hollywood make films for theatres and the TV people make films for television.

"For the government to dictate that the film companies must sell to all comers and for all uses, regardless of any resulting loss to the producers is a dangerous move. Dangerous to the welfare of not only production, but to distribution, and especially dangerous to exhibition, which would be the first to be seriously affected.

"It is incredible," he declared, "that the Justice Department would conspire with a certain group of television manufacturers in . . . one of the most astounding hoaxes ever perpertrated on the American people." O'Donnell praised the "movietime" medium as "one of the most effective instruments that we have used to counteract our problems." In Texas, he said "the spirit of showmanship was rekindled in practically every community" by the Movietime campaign.

TV Should

spend hundreds of thousands of dollars for motion pictures, and, regardless of 'reasonable clearance,' to have them shown on television screens with the possibility of only a modest return.

"I produce special short television features expressly for television, but these have to be made at a commensurate cost and the technique of presenting myself and my co-stars in these pictures is entirely foreign to that which we use for our pictures designed for theatre screens. Obviously it is impossible to compete with the magnitude of motion picture theatre screens within the limitations of television. Television's future lies in attractions specially produced for television only. I intent to continue my large budget for feature pictures for theatres."

Autry's views were made known in a statement to Robert J. O'Donnell, co-chairman of the Texas Council of Motion Picture Organizations.

Bahen Succeeds Dann

TORONTO, Sept. 4.—Gordon Dann, veteran supervisor of theatres in Montreal, has resigned from Odeon Theatres, Ltd. to live in Vancouver, and the Rank Organization has named Arthur Bahen, manager of the Montreal Champlain, as his successor.

TNT Deadline

Under the provisions of the IBC-TNT contract, it was further disclosed, the IBC can elect to cancel the theatre TV rights if a sufficient number of theatres are not lined up by Sept. 15. On the basis of the reported 90 cents per seat minimum asked from theatres for the bout by TNT, it appears that at least 40 theatres would be needed.

The only theatre in New York now selling tickets to the fight telecast, the 450-seat 50th Street Guild Theatre, has sold out for the event. Tickets, which first went on sale Friday at $4.20, were hiked to $4.80 on Monday. Both prices include admission tax. The theatre is currently selling standing room tickets also at $4.80.

Jensen Wins Sarnoff Gold Medal Award

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 4.—A. G. Jensen, director of television research for Bell Telephone Laboratories, has been selected as the recipient of the "David Sarnoff Gold Medal Award," to be presented by the Society of Motion Picture and Television Engineers.

SMPTE president Peter Mole said the official presentation will be made during the organization's semi-annual convention at the Statler Hotel, Washington, Oct. 6-10.

$10-Million Home Television Deal

Contracts for a $10,000,000 home television time and talent transaction were signed here yesterday, according to Herbert J. Siegel, secretary of Official Films, Inc.

The properties involved, according to Siegel, are "Terry and Pirates," made by Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. Productions, "Four Star Playhouse," which will rotate Hollywood stars, and the Robert Cummings starrer, "My Hero."

It was disclosed that the Milton Biow Agency has purchased the "My Hero" show for sponsorship by Dunhill Cigarettes, starting Nov. 8 over the NBC-TV network, while "Terry and the Pirates" will be sponsored by Canada Dry on a special TV network of more than 60 cities starting Nov. 26.

Singer Sewing Machine Co. will sponsor "Four Star Playhouse," which will rotate such stars as Charles Boyer, Dick Powell and Joel McCrea over the CBS-TV network starting later this month.

July Receipts in Chicago Show Drop

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—Chicago theatre receipts dropped again in July, according to figures released here today by the city tax collector's office. August collections (on July receipts), down roughly $4,000 from last month's (on June receipts) and over $21,000 from a year ago, were $75,496.85. Total city theatre tax collections for the year to date are $664,720.65, compared with $743,984.31 for the corresponding period last year.

Although theatres show declining receipts, other amusements are up slightly so far this year, paying in $444,858.30 against the $441,098.08 paid in during the first eight months last year. The late-summer upturn in theatre business here is not reflected in the figures released today, inasmuch as the 3 per cent tax on August receipts will be collected during the coming month and reported early in October.

Cahn Contract Extended

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 4.—Sammy Cahn, Warner producer and song writer, has had his contract extended by Jack L. Warner, executive producer. Cahn has two properties in preparation, "There's a Small Hotel" and "Three Sailors."

BLANKET APPROVAL!

Several months ago exhibitors representing 10,000 theatres at M-G-M's "Seeing Is Believing" Meeting in California predicted that the new Mario Lanza Technicolor musical "BECAUSE YOU'RE MINE" would be one of the year's top-grossing attractions.

This enthusiastic appraisal by exhibitors, richly confirmed by Theatre Previews in California, was additionally emphasized this week in its first New York neighborhood showing at Loew's 72nd Street Theatre. The audience poll by Film Research Surveys, Inc. forecasts a smash hit. The cheers, the applause, the rousing laughter, the thunderous handclapping is wonderful music for industry ears.

Independents Score Big in Compo Drive

The Council of Motion Picture Organizations yesterday indicated it was thoroughly gratified with the results of its recent dues collection drive among the nation's exhibitors. The financial support that has come from independent exhibitors in particular was described as remarkably strong.

The drive results are being tabulated by COMPO's headquarters staff and are expected to be released to the industry at an early date.

National Foundation Seeks Exhibitor Aid

Additional help from the Theatre Owners of America is being urged by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Pertinent points included in a letter from the Foundation, as released yesterday by Mitchell Wolfson, TOA president, follow:

"With eight months of the year already elapsed, and if the present trend continues, this will be the worst polio year in the history of America, exceeding even the record year of 1949.

"The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis believes that its research program, at this time, is on the very threshold of the discovery of a serum or vaccine which will eliminate polio—basing our hopeful conclusion on the gamma globulin tests in Houston and Sioux City, where more than 40,000 children were inoculated.

"Polio is the one epidemic disease which materially affects theatre attendances. I have reports from Portland, Oregon, various cities in West Virginia, Cleveland, etc. where epidemic conditions actually shut down a number of exhibition operations.

"The motion picture theatre business, from its very inception, has always been strong and enormously helpful to the March of Dimes. If we continue to have this support in 1953 and perhaps for another year or two, we sincerely believe that we may not have to ask your cooperation again—we think our fight will be won soon."

Wilder Sets 'Oedipus'

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 4.—Producer-director Billy Wilder announced "Oedipus," with script by Walter Beisch based on Sophocles' trilogy, as his independent production for next year.

Set 17 Film Courses

Registration for 17 evening session courses in film making at City College here will open on Sept. 16, it was announced by Professor Hans Richter, director of City College Film Institute.

Review

"Wagon Team"

(Gene Autry—Columbia)

THE LATEST GENE AUTRY STARRER to bear his production imprimatur was cast in the conventional horse opera mould. It comes up with standard heroics, villainy, horsemanship, gun-fighting, slugging, and such. The action—and there's plenty of it—revolves around the cross-purpose efforts of Gene and a couple of law officers to find the hiding place of some hold-up loot.

Gene's is the more subtle approach: he befriends the misguided young robber (Dick Jones) who hid it, in the expectation that the youth's inherent goodness will compel him to repent. U. S. Marshall Gordon Jones, on the other hand, allows the lad to escape from jail in the erroneous belief that he will head at once for the stolen stuff. Deputy Sheriff Pat Buttram pursues fumbling methods that produce nothing but rank slapstick. That Gene does the job should surprise no one.

The Cass County Boys supply cow poke music from time to time, blonde Gail Davis pretties up the screen as the young robber's sister, Harry Harvey plays the owner of an old-time medicine show who is the lad's father, and Gene's horse, Champion, performs as faithfully as ever. Armand Schaefer produced, George Archainbaud directed and Gerald Geraghty wrote the script. Print is sepia tinted.

Running time, 61 minutes. General audience classification. September release.

has started broadcasting to China in four languages.

"The Crusade for Freedom offers every member of TOA an opportunity to play a personal part in this great moral crusade and perform a public service to freedom-loving nations throughout the world." Gael Sullivan, TOA executive director, stated yesterday. "Exhibitors are asked to give their cooperation to state and local Crusade committees and to make available such personnel and facilities as may properly be used in bringing the Crusade message to the public which they serve," he added.

'Kilimanjaro'

Theatre opening on Sept. 17, for rebroadcast to the forces around the world and to international audiences listening in on the network.

For the national scene, Jinx Falkenburg is scheduled to interview personalities for her NBC radio show, while local audiences will be given a detailed on-the-spot picture by Martin Starr who will handle both the "P A" system heard by the crowds lining the street and listeners to station WINS.

CBS TV Coverage

Key television coverage will stem from CBS using a special mobile crew to highlight the activities before and after the premiere. Centered around a "feature story" of what it takes to put on a major premiere, CBS will cover both home office, theatre and opening night activities for a special broadcast through its news channels.

Mayer-Kingsley Get 'Box'

Distribution rights to the Robert Donat color in Technicolor film, "The Magic Box," have been sold to Arthur Mayer and Edward Kingsley by Sir Michael Balcon, chairman of Festival Film Productions.

will be held each Thursday evening thereafter for 12 weeks in the screening rooms of the various film companies here. Registration for the courses are being handled by Edgar Goth of Fabian Theatres.

Ettinger is the author of several books on public relations and related subjects and has served as editor of the "Public Relations Directory and Yearbook." The following AMPA members will cooperate with Ettinger in the setting up of courses: Gordon White, Lige Brien, David Bader, Chester Friedman, Goth, Albert Floersheimer, Jr., Blanche Livingston, Rutgers Neilson, Harry K. McWilliams, Miriam Brandon and Vivian Moses.

Lecturers for the classes will include heads of distribution advertising-publicity departments. They will be named shortly, McWilliams, AMPA president, said.

Many from Industry At Conn. Dedication

HARTFORD, Sept. 4.—Numerous representatives of film companies, both from New York and the Coast, are expected to attend the dedication and opening of the State of Connecticut's new $2,000,000 Terminal Building at Bradley Field on Sept. 15.

Harry F. Shaw, division manager of Loew's Poli-New England Theatres, and chairman of the personalities committee for the dedication, met yesterday with F. S. Murphy, Hartford Times editor and publisher and chairman of the State Aeronautics Commission, and Allen M. Widem, the paper's film editor, and others to plan for the program.

Legion Puts British Film in Class B

The National Legion of Decency report on films reviewed last week puts one film, "Dance Hall Girls," (British) Bell Pictures, in Class B and two films in Class A.

"Yankee Buccaneer," Universal, is in Section I and "O. Henry's Full House," 20th Century-Fox, is in Section II.

French Talks

who has been representing the MPEA in the Paris talks, voted unanimously to give Johnston the "blanket authority."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY reported on Wednesday that the MPEA meeting would be called upon to accept or reject a French remittance proposal that fell far short of that country's original offer. The earlier proposal, which was acceptable to the American companies, was for remittance of $1,200,000 at the official rate of exchange, and the remainder of some $6,000,000 at the less favorable capital account rate.

The new French remittance offer followed that country's reduction by decree of American film imports from 121 to 90 per year.

Allport's report was described as depicting "the complete breakdown" of negotiations between the French and American governments. The French had striven constantly during the negotiations to have included in the new pact provisions calling for subsidization of French production by the American companies. The U. S. State Department, the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers and the MPEA rejected such attempts.

Arnall to Attend

Negotiations with Sir Frank Lee, Under-secretary of the British Board of Trade, will commence in Washington on Monday. In addition to Johnston, the MPEA will be represented at the talks by Allport and John G. McCarthy, international division director. The SIMPP will be represented by Ellis G. Arnall, its president, and one or more attorneys.

It has been rumored in Washington that the British will ask to cut the annual remittances to half the current figure. The expiring Anglo-American pact provided for remittances of $17,000,000 annually, plus 33 per cent of the U. S. production investment in Britain, plus other "bonus" arrangements that are said to have amounted to an additional four or five million dollars.

The French impasse's demanding of Johnston's attention is expected to cause him to postpone tentatively set visits to the Coast and to South America.

Your audience wrote this ad

One of the finest productions I have ever seen, "O. Henry's Full House" is a beautiful picture; warm, sympathetic, funny and grand. I have always enjoyed reading O. Henry, but I found his works even more fascinating in the film. It was a new kind of a picture, suiting everyone's taste—young and old alike. Excellent in all departments: writing, acting, directing and photography, the picture is delightful to watch and a most excellent way to introduce people to the works of this wonderful author. Each story is more interesting than the other and sure to please the public. I consider "O. Henry's Full House" a masterpiece of a movie that does justice to five O. Henry classics. The audience at the performance I witnessed applauded each story individually and gave a rousing response at the picture's end. It was a thoroughly enjoyable evening at a motion picture theatre. Pictures like this will make everyone want to go to the movies. Not only I thought it was wonderful, the whole audience was very pleased. Each sequence touched the heart and I have every intention of seeing them again. "O. Henry's Full House" is honest, human, down-to-earth. Wholesome and entertaining, it is a wonderful screen surprise with superb performances. A four-star picture! To be seen by all.

THE Justice Department recites as the aim of its suit to force the sale of films to television and other non-theatrical users the breaking up of an alleged conspiracy in the 16mm. field.

Should it succeed in convincing a court that the conspiracy alleged exists, the Department contends that it will ask for a decree which will not be ruinous to the motion picture industry but which will provide for reasonable clearance between exhibition of the same films in theatres and on television.

If such a decree is not to be ruinous to the motion picture industry, it is a fact that the courts which administer it must have the clairvoyant ability to determine when a motion picture's theatrical value has been exhausted. Otherwise, there is no way of determining whether the price asked for its exhibition on television is fair and reasonable. If its theatrical value has not been exhausted, or nearly so—and industry experience demonstrates how impossible it is to say when, if ever, that occurs—then the elapsed time after its initial theatrical showing is of no practical use in measuring the commercial value of the picture.

For that reason, the owner of a copyrighted motion picture, should he ever be required to offer it for sale to television, would be wholly justified in setting whatever price for it his best business judgment dictated.

That, of course, is pretty much the situation with respect to the sale of films to television which exists now and has existed for some time.

Television knows, as of this moment, where and from whom it can buy films—good films, not too old, and lots of them. What television does not know is where it can get the money to pay for them.

Accordingly, should the government win its suit, there is a real possibility that all it will achieve is a court certification of the status quo ante—film producers offering their copyrighted properties to television, with television unable to afford them.

Thus, at considerable drain on the public treasury—which is of great concern to taxpayers always and has particular point at election

Walcott Bout Set to Go Coast-to-Coast

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 7.—Plans for the first trans-continental theatre telecast were disclosed here with the announcement that Sherrill Corwin's Orpheum Theatre will put seats on sale tomorrow for the Jersey Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano heavyweight title bout, to be telecast from Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium on September 23.

Sufficient theatres are now committed to take the Walcott-Marciano fight telecast to exceed the minimum required by the International Boxing Club. Theatre Network Television disclosed here. The

Licensing of U. S. Film Imports Are Halted by France

The complete breakdown in the Franco-American film negotiations has resulted in termination of the carried-over previous pact to the extent that not even a single dubbing license will be issued to American distributors by France, it was reported here at the weekend.

It was learned also that the French move which made American acceptance of a new pact impossible was the withdrawal of a previous offer to permit the bulk of some $6,000,000 in blocked earnings to be remitted at the capital account rate forthwith.

The French were willing to remit $1,200,000 at the official rate, as pre-

Report Britons to Ask Big Cut in Remittances

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7. — Sir Frank Lee, permanent secretary of the British Board of Trade, and Sidney Golt, head of the films division of the Board, arrived here by plane from London yesterday and will open talks with industry representatives tomorrow afternoon on the new British monetary agreement for American film distributors.

Joining them in the negotiations will be Victor George Baker of the Exchange Control department of the Bank of England.

The negotiations will take place at the Motion Picture Association of America headquarters here. Participating for the industry will be Eric Johnston, MPAA president; Ellis Arnall, president of the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers; James A. Mulvey, president of Samuel Goldwyn Prod., also for SIMPP; Joyce O'Hara, MPAA vice-president;

B'way Theatres Cooperate In Full-Page Ad Splurge

All New York newspapers yesterday carried a full-page promotional ad calling attention to current strong film attractions at 12 theatres in the Broadway area and blazoning the message that there are "More Great Movies on Broadway Than Ever Before!"

The ads, which reached an estimated 10,000,000 New York Sunday newspaper readers, resulted from the first cooperative effort of its kind by the Broadway first-runs. Prepared by the Donahue & Coe agency, the copy was designed not only to call attention to the strong product currently showing and the accompanying strong upbeat in box office business, but also to challenge the new season's television programs for public attention.

Illustrated with a panoramic, nighttime photo of the Broadway-Seventh Ave. triangle from the vantage point of Times Square, the ad asked the public to "Check the Hits You've Yet to See" and listed the attractions,

Texas Attendance At All-time Peak

DALLAS, Sept. 7.—More people went to theatres in Texas for a period of seven weeks, ending Aug. 18, than in any other comparable period in the history of the industry in the state, according to a survey conducted by the Texas Council of Motion Picture Organizations.

The survey revealed that the average weekly attendance of 3,500,000 was 220,000 over the weekly average

NEWS FLASHES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.--It was decided here at a weekend meeting of industry TV groups that theatre television lawyers and engineers will send a strong letter early this week to the A. T. and T. reiterating the industry's request for theatre TV transmission costs. Copies of the letter will also be sent to the FCC.

BIRMINGHAM, Sept. 7.--Theatre receipts are up 15 per cent over April, it was learned by the University of Alabama in an economic study. The university's report, based on sales tax returns, also disclosed that theatre receipts in May were 6.4 per cent higher than in May, 1951.

Personal Mention

ARTHUR C. BROMBERG, president of Monogram Southern Exchanges, Atlanta, has returned there from the Coast.

MIKE SIMONS, home office assistant to H. M. RICHEY at M-G-M, will attend the West Virginia Allied annual convention in Clarksburg, W. Va., Tuesday and Wednesday, and will also address a meeting of the managers of Gibralter Enterprises in Denver on Sept. 16.

EDWARD L. HYMAN, United Paramount Theatres vice-president, is visiting upstate New York theatres with GENE STREET. He is also accompanied by BERNARD LEVY and AL SICIGNANO. They will return here Wednesday.

DICK PITTS, Theatre Owners of American administrative assistant, left here yesterday for Washington, on preparations for the TOA convention there next week.

MICHAEL HAVAS, RKO Radio's Latin American supervisor, is in New York for two weeks of home office conferences.

EDGAR HIRSCHBERG, former Theatre Owners of America clerical aide, has joined the office staff of the Council of Motion Picture Organizations.

Wilder Promoted; To Assist Eve Siegel

Leo Wilder has been promoted from head of the Warner Brothers home office still department to the post of assistant to Eve Siegel, fan and national magazine contact, it was announced at the weekend by Mort Blumenstock, WB advertising-publicity vice-president. Nat Gartsman, assistant to Wilder, has been promoted to head the still department.

time—we find the Justice Department prosecuting an action which, even if it is won, promises no benefit to the public or to television, even while it threatens the motion picture industry through possible miscarriage of justice in the application or interpretation of the eventual decree.

This, too, is the industry's story with respect to the 16mm. suit.

This purposeless waste of public money by the Justice Department on a legal adventure almost certain to end in practical insignificance if, as the Justice Department contends, it does not ruin the motion picture industry, constitutes a story that should be of interest to the public.

Thousands of screens and tons of newsprint are available for its telling.

Canada Subjects Industry to New Combine Regulations

OTTAWA, Sept. 7.—In an all-out drive to tighten up efforts in cracking down on possible combines in industry or trade, the Canadian government has appointed a new three-man commission, with stiffer regulations coming into effect Nov. 1. The motion picture industry is subject to the regulations.

Under the new setup, the present Combines Commissioner, T. D. MacDonald, will be Director of Investigations and Research. The new commission will give alleged offenders an opportunity to defend themselves in private hearings before a report is made to the Minister of Justice who will have the final say whether prosecutions should be undertaken. In addition, under the new laws, ceilings on maximum fines have been lifted and the courts will be allowed to grant injunctions restraining a combine from continuing in operation.

E. V. Richards Heads Louisiana Fete

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 7.—E. V. Richards, Jr., New Orleans theatre executive and chairman of the Louisiana Navy League, has been appointed chairman of the Louisiana Purchase Sesquicentennial Commission by Gov. Robert F. Kennon.

E. V. Richards, Jr.

Richards has called a meeting of city and state businessmen and civic leaders for Tuesday to begin immediate planning for the event, which will be held here early next year.

Richards developed one of the largest circuits in the South, which in later years he operated in partnership with Paramount and which, following the divorcement of the latter's exhibition operations, was taken over by United Paramount Theatres, and is now the Paramount Gulf circuit. Richards retains an interest in theatre business here, largely in an advisory capacity to his sons and the Richards Estate, in the operation of the Tudor and Globe here; the De Luxe, Slidell, La.; the A & G, Bay St. Louis, Miss.; the Pix, Jackson, Miss., and the Avalon, Pass Christian, Miss., which are known as the Slidell Theatre Corp.

Richards said his plans for the 150th anniversary of the Louisiana Purchase would embrace the governments of the United States and France and the participation of all states which were a part of the original Louisiana Territory.

Northwest Is Eager To Hit Gov't Suit

Exhibitors of Northern California, Oregon and the State of Washington are eager to get into the fight against the Department of Justice's 16mm. anti-trust suit, but are willing to await the development of a "pattern" which will show how best to attack the litigation, Henderson M. Richey, Loew's exhibitor relations director, reported here at the weekend following two weeks of informal conferences with Western Theatre Owners members on a multitude of industry subjects.

Theatremen of the Northwest, Richey said, are of the opinion that the time has passed for appealing to the Justice Department to see its error in pursuing the action.

Richey found the exhibitors he spoke with to be highly optimistic about the future of the theatre business. He said that in cities where television has not yet been introduced, showmen are fully prepared for the competition and are confident they can beat it.

The prediction came from Richey that the California, Washington and Oregon will be high on the list of outstanding contributing areas in the Council of Motion Picture Organizations dues drive. Showmen in the three states are girded for the fight for repeal of the 20 per cent admissions tax, he said.

Md. Censor Charges Are Hit by Breen

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 7.—The charge in the annual report of the Maryland State Censor Board that there has been a relaxation in the motion picture industry's voluntary code of self-regulation was described as "completely without foundation" by Joseph I. Breen, vice-president of the Motion Picture Association of America and administrator of the Production Code.

Declared Breen: "The unwarranted charges sound like nothing more than an effort to defend political censorship in the face of recent decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States which said that motion pictures are entitled to the freedom of speech and press guarantees of the Constitution.

"Not only has there been no relaxation of the standards of good taste and decency represented by the Code but there will be none. Hollywood, as it has done in the past, will continue to provide clean and wholesome entertainment.

The views of the Maryland censors cretainly are not shared by responsible and public-spirited groups all over the country."

tend to revitalize itself with the election of a new president.

Since Harvey resigned, however, several prominent members have declined the presidency. The organization recently was obliged to cancel its planned annual convention.

Unless a president can be found soon, WTO will not be represented at future meetings of the Council of Motion Picture Organizations board or the Industry Arbitration Conference. However, it is expected that a sufficient number of WTO members could be gotten together for the purpose of acting on an industry plan of arbitration, should one be submitted.

One of the WTO constituent organizations, Independent Theatre Owners of Washington, Northern Idaho and Alaska, recently applied to COMPO for membership in the industry agency, notwithstanding the fact that WTO is a charter member of COMPO. Other units in WTO are ITO of Northern California and Nevada, ITO of Oregon, ITO of Montana and ITO of Utah and Southern Idaho. The units may continue as separate entities if WTO goes out of being, or they may seek affiliation with existing national exhibitor organizations.

Until about a year ago WTO was known as the Pacific Coast Conference of Independent Theatre Owners.

'Snows' Given Big Magazine Break

The Sept. 23 issue of Look magazine, on newsstands tomorrow, will give cover attention and seven inside pages to publicity on 20th Century-Fox's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro."

Ava Gardner and Susan Hayward get the cover position. Many of the inside pages display color art from the picture and running text on the production. The film will have its world premiere at the Rivoli here on Sept. 17. The company claims the publicity is the largest ever accorded a film by Look and compares well with attention given to the film by a score of other magazines.

Ten fashion models who will appear at the American Fashion Critics Awards at the Waldorf-Astoria here on Sept. 16, will act as guest hostesses at the premiere.

A special five-page radio and television newsletter devoted exclusively to "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" is being distributed to over 1,200 news and showbusiness commentators, "disk jockeys," and "chatter show" "M.C.'s", it was reported by 20th Century-Fox.

St. Louis 7th to Top Compo Dues Quota

The St. Louis exchange area is the seventh indicated by the Council of Motion Picture Organizations as having exceeded its quota in the recent COMPO dues collection drive.

executive committee chairman; Herman M. Levy, general counsel, and William F. Rodgers, Loew's vice-president who has headed the distributors' arbitration negotiating committee.

If the distributors this week approve the arbitration draft, the Sept. 16 TOA business meeting, over which Walter Reade, Jr., will preside, will vote on acceptance of the document.

The following morning will be devoted by the convention to discussion of the government's anti-trust suit to force the sale of 16mm. pictures to TV and other outlets competing with regular theatres. According to an agenda released here at the weekend by TOA, Walter Morris will preside at a meeting of the organization's 16mm. committee and Wolfson and Levy will speak on the suit at a convention session to follow.

Will Ask Decision

Levy is scheduled to ask the delegates to decide if TOA, branded a co-conspirator in the government's complaint but not named a defendant, should seek to become a defendant in the suit.

The convention, which will open Sept. 14 and continue for five days, will feature a trade show, a large number of social events for delegates and their wives, and a world premiere preview of 20th-Fox's "Snows of Kilimanjaro." The Shoreham Hotel will be the site of business sessions and the trade show.

Sept. 14 will be taken up with a meeting of the TOA legal advisory council headed by Levy, an executive committee meeting and a nominating committee session. The TOA board will meet the following day under the chairmanship of Wolfson who will be substituting for board chairman Charles P. Skouras. The latter, National Theatres president, has informed TOA that personal family matters will make it impossible for him to attend this year's convention.

However, Wolfson reported that National Theatres will send to the convention the largest group of representatives in its history. Heading the group will be Dick Dickson, Southern California division manager; Elmer C. Rhoden, Midwest division president; Frank H. Ricketson, Inter-Mountain division president; Harold J. Fitzgerald, Wisconsin division president; R. H. McCullough, head of Research and maintenance, and Rudy Krappman, merchandising division chief. Rhoden, who has been mentioned as a possible successor to Skouras as TOA board chairman, will deliver the convention keynote address on Sept. 16.

Wolfson and A. Julian Brylawski, convention chairman, announced jointly at the weekend that registrations for the annual conclave have exceeded 500, or 200 more than were registered at the corresponding pre-convention time last year. Wolfson said the convention this year would be "definitely operation work-shop." When he gave his address last year accepting the presidency, the theme was "aggressive unity," he said, "and we are seeing that borne out in the responses to the convention this year. At no time in our history has there been a greater need for militant co-ordination of our industry strength to stimulate the box-office, to keep pace with technical facilities and to develop a greater public acceptance and goodwill for industry progress."

The opening convention session will include an address of greeting by F. Joseph Donohue, chairman of the District of Columbia Board of Commissioners, and a speech by Wolfson. A convention showmanship luncheon will follow, with Myron Blank serving as chairman. Earl J. Hudson will speak on the "Detroit Campaign" and Abe Montague, Columbia distribution vice-president, will speak on the Will Rogers Memorial Christmas Salute at the luncheon.

At the Sept. 17 morning session Robert O'Brien of United Paramount Theatres, Fabian and television attorney Marcus Cohn will discuss theatre TV. In the afternoon, Harold J. Fitzgerald will preside at a concessions session, Jack Braunagel at a drive-ins session, and Alfred Starr at an admission tax session, which will feature comments by Pat McGee, co-chairman of the Council of Motion Picture Organizations tax committee. Sam Pinanski, member of the COMPO governing triumvirate, will follow with a discussion of the industry agency's achievements.

Kirby, Lightman to Preside

The fifth and sixth business sessions on Sept. 18 will be presided over by Sam Kirby and M. A. Lightman, Sr., respectively. The fifth will be a closed session for TOA members and the sixth will deal with a plan for stimulating the box-office on a national basis. That same day will be marked by a convention research luncheon at which C. E. Cook, McCullough, and Nathan D. Golden, Commerce Department film chief, will speak. The president's banquet will be held in the evening.

Sponsors of various cocktail parties, show boat trips and other entertainment events during the convention include the Coca-Cola Co., Pepsi-Cola Co., and other business firms.

Lesser Forms New So. American Unit

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 7.—Formation of the W. H. Distributing Corp. to handle South American production and distribution for the Sol Lesser organization was announced here by Lesser, with "Cave Girl" in color by Technicolor, to be the first picture produced.

The picture will be filmed in Brazil this winter, under the direction of Harry Horner, with American stars in the two top male roles. The title role will be portrayed by a Latin-American actress. Lesser is currently discussing with two South American producers a deal whereby one will take on actual production reins under a similar arrangement as that which was recently set up by Lesser in England for the production of his "Black Chiffon," which British producer Sydney Box will make.

Jake Rachman, Critic

OMAHA, Sept. 7.—Jake Rachman, 68, World-Herald columnist and drama critic since 1938, and before that with the Bee-News here many years in a similar capacity, died Thursday in his sleep. Survivors include his cousin, R. D. Goldberg, of R. D. Goldberg Theatres.

boxed, at the 12 participating show houses. They are: "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" at the Astor and Bijou theatres; "The Quiet Man" at the Capitol; "The Big Sky," Criterion; "The Devil Makes Three," Globe; "High Noon," Mayfair; "The Crimson Pirate," Paramount; "Ivanhoe," Radio City Music Hall; "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" (starting Sept. 19), Rivoli; "Monkey Business," Roxy; "Sudden Fear," Loew's State, and "Affair in Trinidad," Victoria.

Accompanying text read: "Broadway is booming! ! ! The motion picture industry greets the new season with its best foot forward. All first-run theatres in town are playing wonderful attractions—attractions offered by no other entertainment medium—and presented for your pleasure at luxurious theatres with every comfort and convenience.

"Whatever you're looking for in the way of enjoyment is here—Hollywood's top stars in gay musicals, exciting dramas, riotous comedies, magnificent spectacles. There have never been so many outstanding pictures offered on Broadway at the same time before—and more are on the way.

"Plan to see as many of these fine films as you can. You'll enjoy every one of them."

Trade circles hope the Broadway theatres' cooperative move will set a pattern for similar ads elsewhere around the country. Distributors participating were: Warner, Columbia, Republic, RKO Radio, M-G-M, United Artists and 20th Century-Fox.

Texas Attendance

in 1946, and that the increase during the seven-week period varied from five to 11 per cent. It also revealed that attendance was up 16.5 per cent over that same period in the majority of the theatres whose managers and executives had attended the COMPO Texas conference on June 9-11.

The survey further revealed that this increased patronage was spread over 225 additional drive-in and conventional theatres built since 1946. Despite the increased attendance, the survey found current profits to be less than in 1946 due to greater operating costs. It was also pointed out that the "confiscatory" 20 per cent Federal admission tax amounted to 7.2 times the profit earned during the seven-week period.

Favorable comment on the findings came from such leading Texas showmen as Ed Rowley, president of Rowley United Theatres, Inc., Robert J. O'Donnell, vice-president and general manager of Interstate Circuit, Inc., and Col. H. A. Cole, co-chairman of the COMPO tax committee.

Rowley praised the COMPO conference in June for stimulating merchandising, while O'Donnell credited the better understanding of individual community problems on the part of theatre managers as a major factor.

Ezell declared that "if the exhibitors of Texas can continue this stimulated program of selling the superb product that is coming out of Hollywood, our worries are over."

H. J. Griffith, president of Theatre Enterprises, Inc., stated that the results achieved by Theatre Enterprises' managers since the COMPO conference would seem to justify conducting similar sessions every six months.

20% Tax Hit at Meet Of Iowa Exhibitors

DES MOINES, Sept. 7.—Injustices of the 20 per cent Federal amusement tax were stressed by actor George Murphy at a meeting here at the weekend of 200 exhibitors and their guests, 150 Iowa newspaper publishers and editors.

Calling for immediate repeal of the tax law, Murphy said movies are the "poor man's entertainment" and as such should not be subject to hamstringing penalties. He said the tax was a direct threat to the national economy resulting as it has in the closing down of so many theatres.

Murphy told his audience there was no further Communist menace in the industry, that the "Reds" had been ferreted out. He added that Hollywood is continually alert to prevent any further infiltration. He sees no threat in TV, saying that the two can live and work together just as is true with radio, and feels Hollywood will be making films for TV as a sideline and still producing bigger and better films. Urging greater exploitation of potential film audiences, Murphy noted that only 30 per cent of the population are film goers. He thinks this figure can be doubled with proper publicity.

viously offered, but wanted to pay the rest of the $6,000,000 over a period of 13 months instead of at once at the capital account rate, it was reported.

Having reduced American film import licenses from 121 to 90 per year, the French will not have to meet their obligation to accept 90 pictures until after a new remittance agreement is signed.

Eric A. Johnston, Motion Picture Association of America president, will be in no rush to negotiate with the French under the blanket authority given him by the Motion Picture Export Association board, it was said. Johnston is expected to visit Brazil to straighten out U. S. film difficulties there before undertaking the trip to Paris.

France was demonstrating its "Anti-American" attitude when it caused the breakdown of negotiations in Paris, one film export official here observed at the weekend. Also, he conceded, the rupture was a result of France's poor fiscal position.

SAG, Makers of TV Ad Films Meet Today

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 5.—Screen Actors Guild representatives left here over the weekend for New York for meetings starting Monday with national advertising agencies and film producers to negotiate a contract covering actors employed to make TV shorts.

The guild is seeking to restrict repeat showing of such films or to establish the principle of additional payments to performers for extra screenings. Representing the guild will be Richard Carlson, third vice-president; George Chandler, treasurer; John Dales, Jr., executive secretary; Kenneth Thomson, TV administrator, and William Berger, legal counsel.

Set Quick Processing Of RKO Fight Film

Three relays of cars with two cars in each relay, will rush the films of the Jersey Joe Walcott - Rocky Marciano heavyweight championship fight from Philadelphia to New York for processing, Sidney Kramer, RKO Radio short subject sales manager, said at the weekend.

Processing and editing will be under the direction of Jay Bonafield, RKO Pathe executive producer. The fight will be filmed by seven camera crews.

RKO Pathe Acquires A-Bomb Color Film

The first color films of the recent Atomic Warfare Maneuvers by the U. S. Marine Corps at Yucca Flat, Nevada, have been acquired by RKO Pathe, it was announced by Jay Bonafield, executive vice-president. These films, now being readied for RKO Radio distribution, will be released as a special two-reel subect, under the title of "Operation A-Bomb" and will feature a narration by Bob Considine, columnist and commentator.

RKO Radio said that "for the first time motion picture theatre audiences will see in color an actual A-Bomb blast explode." The films were photographed by Marine Corps cameramen in the new 35mm Eastman color. Fifteen cameramen, employing seven cameras, covered the event, shooting 29,000 feet of film.

Saw A-Bomb Close-up

Twenty-one hundred Leathernecks, selected at random, from bases all over the United States and Hawaii participated in the desert moneuvers. The men witnessed the A-Bomb close-up, under combat conditions, and then returned to their respective units to relay their experiences. The occasion marked the 28th A-Bomb exploded by the United States, at Alamogordo, Hiroshima, Nagasaki, two at Bikini and the rest here or at Eniwetok in the Pacific.

"Operation A-Bomb" will be produced by Bonafield and supervised and written by Burton Benjamin.

minimum is believed to be between 30 to 40 theatres. Wires were sent out Friday afternoon to committed theatres authorizing them to put their fight tickets on sale, TNT added. It was also pointed out that the cancellation provision of the NBC contract is now no longer operative.

The Orpheum, a 2,200-seater, the only television-equipped theatre here, will charge $3.60 for all seats except 130 loge seats, which are priced at $4.80.

Corwin's deal with Theatre Network Television, which has acquired the television rights from the International Boxing Club, is on sliding scale with TNT guaranteed 90 cents per seat against a $1.35 high if the house sells out.

U. K. Talks

F. W. Allport, MPAA manager for Britain, and John McCarthy, MPAA international vice-president.

The British officials exercised their right under the existing two-year monetary agreement to reopen the pact at the end of its first year on Oct. 1, ostensibly to seek modifications of the sterling conversion and other provisions on the grounds that Britain's balance of overseas payments is less favorable now than when the agreement was made.

The pact permits the American film companies to withdraw $17,000,000 annually from Britain, plus a minimum guaranty of $4,000,000 from the Eady Plan fund in Britain, and 33⅓ per cent of the American investments in production in Britain. It has been estimated that withdrawals totaled about $25,000,000 for the first year of the agreement.

The British emissaries have been officially uncommunicative concerning the proposals for modification of the agreement which they will carry into the sessions here tomorrow. One report that preceded them here but lacks confirmation is that they will ask the American film industry to agree to a reduction of almost 50 per cent in the basic sterling conversion, or to perhaps $10,000,000, for the second year of the agreement.

The further unconfirmed report is that the British officials also will ask for increased production commitments in Britain by the American industry with, as a possible inducement, a higher percentage of such production investments eligible for withdrawal.

Nub of the negotiations is the actual dollar position of the British Treasury. While Britain's fiscal position admittedly still is grave, current reports indicate there has been an improvement exceeding even the recent predictions made to Commons by Chancellor of the Exchequer R. A. Butler on the results of Britain's new economic program.

It is expected that the negotiations here will continue throughout the week and possibly longer. A firm agreement might or might not emerge at their conclusion. If not, there would be a recess in the talks which could be resumed either here or in London, where negotiations of the previous agreements took place.

MPAA officials said they have no advance hint of what the British will propose. "They asked to reopen the agreement," one official said, "so we're just going to wait and listen to what they have in mind."

American industry representatives assume that the British delegation will make an extremely strong bid for whatever modifications in the agreement they have decided to concentrate upon, not only for practical reasons but also because a reduction in Britain's dollar expenditures for American films, if achieved, would be a political asset to the Churchill government at home.

THE PLEASURES of movie entertainment will be tied in with its "Good and Plenty" licorice candy in a newspaper advertising campaign planned by the Quaker City Chocolate & Confectionery Co., Inc., Philadelphia. Film stars, including Bing Crosby, Betty Hutton and Charles Boyer, will be featured in the ads under the slogan, "It's a treat to go to the movies!" This will be followed by the suggestion that "the treat will be complete" with "Good and Plenty" candy. Ads will mention each star's current film and will run day-and-date with showings, city by city, in newspapers in the East and Midwest.

The Electro-Chemical Products Corp., East Orange, N. J., has developed a film cleaning machine for use with its "Ecco" No. 1500 anti-static film cleaner. The unit will accommodate both eight and 16 mm. film, and there is another model for 35 mm. film. Called 'Speedrol," the device has a laboratory-type glass fluid-feed reservoir and valve designed to permit an accurate flow of cleaning fluid to the wiping pads without evaporation or annoying fumes. Film can be cranked through the spring-loaded jaws of the unit at any desired speed, thus enabling the operator to inspect the film either before or after it has been cleaned.

A universal high intensity arc slide projector which accommodates 2-by-2, 3¼-by-4 and 4-by-5-inch slides has been announced by the Strong Electric Corp., Toledo. Especially designed for the large screens of drive-in theatres, the projector (see photo below) is 78 inches in length. Adjustable legs permit establishment of the optical center at a height of from 36 to 55 inches while the projection angle afforded is as much as 27 degrees downward and 10 degrees upward. The motor-driven arc burns six mm. by seven inch copper coated carbons at 45 amperes and 21 volts to project 7,500 lumens of light. The optical system includes three lenses and a 3¼-inch focus polished glass reflector of 24-inch working distance and 10¼-inch diameter. Accurate Concise and Impartial

VOL. 72. NO. 48 NEW YORK, U.S.A., MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1952 TEN CENTS

By SHERWIN KANE

THE Justice Department recites as the aim of its suit to force the sale of films to television and other non-theatrical users the breaking up of an alleged conspiracy in the 16mm. field.

Should it succeed in convincing a court that the conspiracy alleged exists, the Department contends that it will ask for a decree which will not be ruinous to the motion picture industry but which will provide for reasonable clearance between exhibition of the same films in theatres and on television.

If such a decree is not to be ruinous to the motion picture industry, it is a fact that the courts which administer it must have the clairvoyant ability to determine when a motion picture's theatrical value has been exhausted. Otherwise, there is no way of determining whether the price asked for its exhibition on television is fair and reasonable. If its theatrical value has not been exhausted, or nearly so—and industry experience demonstrates how impossible it is to say when, if ever, that occurs—then the elapsed time after its initial theatrical showing is of no practical use in measuring the commercial value of the picture.

For that reason, the owner of a copyrighted motion picture, should he ever be required to offer it for sale to television, would be wholly justified in setting whatever price for it his best business judgment dictated.

That, of course, is pretty much the situation with respect to the sale of films to television which exists now and has existed for some time.

Television knows, as of this moment, where and from whom it can buy films—good films, not too old, and lots of them. What television does not know is where it can get the money to pay for them.

Accordingly, should the government win its suit, there is a real possibility that all it will achieve is a court certification of the status quo ante—film producers offering their copyrighted properties to television, with television unable to afford them.

Thus, at considerable drain on the public treasury—which is of great concern to taxpayers always and has particular point at election

Walcott Bout Set to Go Coast-to-Coast

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 7.—Plans for the first trans-continental theatre telecast were disclosed here with the announcement that Sherrill Corwin's Orpheum Theatre will put seats on sale tomorrow for the Jersey Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano heavyweight title bout, to be telecast from Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium on September 23.

Sufficient theatres are now committed to take the Walcott-Marciano fight telecast to exceed the minimum required by the International Boxing Club, Theatre Network Television disclosed here. The

Licensing of U. S. Film Imports Are Halted by France

The complete breakdown in the Franco-American film negotiations has resulted in termination of the carried-over previous pact to the extent that not even a single dubbing license will be issued to American distributors by France, it was reported here at the weekend.

It was learned also that the French move which made American acceptance of a new pact impossible was the withdrawal of a previous offer to permit the bulk of some $6,000,000 in blocked earnings to be remitted at the capital account rate forthwith.

The French were willing to remit $1,200,000 at the official rate, as pre-

Industry to Make New Bid to A.T.&T.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Theatre television lawyers and engineers will send a strong letter early this week to the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. reiterating the industry's request for theatre television transmission costs. This was decided here at the weekend during a meeting of industry television interests.

Copies of the letter which will be sent to the A. T. & T. will also be forwarded to the FCC, Welch said.

B'way Theatres Cooperate In Full-Page Ad Splurge

All New York newspapers yesterday carried a full-page promotional ad calling attention to current strong film attractions at 12 theatres in the Broadway area and blazoning the message that there are "More Great Movies on Broadway Than Ever Before!"

The ads, which reached an estimated 10,000,000 New York Sunday newspaper readers, resulted from the first cooperative effort of its kind by the Broadway first-runs. Prepared by the Donahue & Coe agency, the copy was designed not only to call attention to the strong product currently showing and the accompanying strong upbeat in box office business, but also to challenge the new season's television programs for public attention.

Illustrated with a panoramic, nighttime photo of the Broadway-Seventh Ave. triangle from the vantage point of Times Square, the ad asked the public to "Check the Hits You've Yet to See" and listed the attractions, time—we find the Justice Department prosecuting an action which, even if it is won, promises no benefit to the public or to television, even while it threatens the motion picture industry through possible miscarriage of justice in the application or interpretation of the eventual decree.

This, too, is the industry's story with respect to the 16mm. suit.

This purposeless waste of public money by the Justice Department on a legal adventure almost certain to end in practical insignificance if, as the Justice Department contends, it does not ruin the motion picture industry, constitutes a story that should be of interest to the public.

Thousands of screens and tons of newsprint are available for its telling.

Canada Subjects Industry to New Combine Regulations

OTTAWA, Sept. 7.—In an all-out drive to tighten up efforts in cracking down on possible combines in industry or trade, the Canadian government has appointed a new three-man commission, with stiffer regulations coming into effect Nov. 1. The motion picture industry is subject to the regulations.

Under the new setup, the present Combines Commissioner, T. D. MacDonald, will be Director of Investigations and Research. The new commission will give alleged offenders an opportunity to defend themselves in private hearings before a report is made to the Minister of Justice who will have the final say whether prosecutions should be undertaken. In addition, under the new laws, ceilings on maximum fines have been lifted and the courts will be allowed to grant injunctions restraining a combine from continuing in operation.

E. V. Richards Heads Louisiana Fete

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 7.—E. V. Richards, Jr., New Orleans theatre executive and chairman of the Louisiana Navy League, has been appointed chairman of the Louisiana Purchase Sesquicentennial Commission by Gov. Robert F. Kennon.

E. V. Richards, Jr.

Richards has called a meeting of city and state businessmen and civic leaders for Tuesday to begin immediate planning for the event, which will be held here early next year.

Richards developed one of the largest circuits in the South, which in later years he operated in partnership with Paramount and which, following the divorcement of the latter's exhibition operations, was taken over by United Paramount Theatres, and is now the Paramount Gulf circuit. Richards retains an interest in theatre business here, largely in an advisory capacity to his sons and the Richards Estate, in the operation of the Tudor and Globe here; the De Luxe, Slidell, La.; the A & G, Bay St. Louis, Miss.; the Pix, Jackson, Miss., and the Avalon, Pass Christian, Miss., which are known as the Slidell Theatre Corp.

Richards said his plans for the 150th anniversary of the Louisiana Purchase would embrace the governments of the United States and France and the participation of all states which were a part of the original Louisiana Territory.

Northwest Is Eager To Hit Gov't Suit

Exhibitors of Northern California, Oregon and the State of Washington are eager to get into the fight against the Department of Justice's 16mm. anti-trust suit, but are willing to await the development of a "pattern" which will show how best to attack the litigation, Henderson M. Richey, Loew's exhibitor relations director, reported here at the weekend following two weeks of informal conferences with Western Theatre Owners members on a multitude of industry subjects.

Theatremen of the Northwest, Richey said, are of the opinion that the time has passed for appealing to the Justice Department to see its error in pursuing the action.

Richey found the exhibitors he spoke with to be highly optimistic about the future of the theatre business. He said that in cities where television has not yet been introduced, showmen are fully prepared for the competition and are confident they can beat it.

The prediction came from Richey that the California, Washington and Oregon will be high on the list of outstanding contributing areas in the Council of Motion Picture Organizations dues drive. Showmen in the three states are girded for the fight for repeal of the 20 per cent admissions tax, he said.

Md. Censor Charges Are Hit by Breen

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 7.—The charge in the annual report of the Maryland State Censor Board that there has been a relaxation in the motion picture industry's voluntary code of self-regulation was described as "completely without foundation" by Joseph I. Breen, vice-president of the Motion Picture Association of America and administrator of the Production Code.

Declared Breen: "The unwarranted charges sound like nothing more than an effort to defend political censorship in the face of recent decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States which said that motion pictures are entitled to the freedom of speech and press guarantees of the Constitution.

"Not only has there been no relaxation of the standards of good taste and decency represented by the Code but there will be none. Hollywood, as it has done in the past, will continue to provide clean and wholesome entertainment.

The views of the Maryland censors cretainly are not shared by responsible and public-spirited groups all over the country."

WTO Future

tend to revitalize itself with the election of a new president.

Since Harvey resigned, however, several prominent members have declined the presidency. The organization recently was obliged to cancel its planned annual convention.

Unless a president can be found soon, WTO will not be represented at future meetings of the Council of Motion Picture Organizations board or the Industry Arbitration Conference. However, it is expected that a sufficient number of WTO members could be gotten together for the purpose of acting on an industry plan of arbitration, should one be submitted.

One of the WTO constituent organizations, Independent Theatre Owners of Washington, Northern Idaho and Alaska, recently applied to COMPO for membership in the industry agency, notwithstanding the fact that WTO is a charter member of COMPO. Other units in WTO are ITO of Northern California and Nevada, ITO of Oregon, ITO of Montana and ITO of Utah and Southern Idaho. The units may continue as separate entities if WTO goes out of being, or they may seek affiliation with existing national exhibitor organizations.

Until about a year ago WTO was known as the Pacific Coast Conference of Independent Theatre Owners.

'Snows' Given Big Magazine Break

The Sept. 23 issue of Look magazine, on newsstands tomorrow, will give cover attention and seven inside pages to publicity on 20th Century-Fox's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro."

Ava Gardner and Susan Hayward get the cover position. Many of the inside pages display color art from the picture and running text on the production. The film will have its world premiere at the Rivoli here on Sept. 17. The company claims the publicity is the largest ever accorded a film by Look and compares well with attention given to the film by a score of other magazines.

Ten fashion models who will appear at the American Fashion Critics Awards at the Waldorf-Astoria here on Sept. 16, will act as guest hostesses at the premiere.

A special five-page radio and television newsletter devoted exclusively to "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" is being distributed to over 1,200 news and showbusiness commentators, "disk jockeys," and "chatter show" "M.C.'s", it was reported by 20th Century-Fox.

St. Louis 7th to Top Compo Dues Quota

The St. Louis exchange area is the seventh indicated by the Council of Motion Picture Organizations as having exceeded its quota in the recent COMPO dues collection drive.

executive committee chairman; Herman M. Levy, general counsel, and William F. Rodgers, Loew's vice-president who has headed the distributors' arbitration negotiating committee.

If the distributors this week approve the arbitration draft, the Sept. 16 TOA business meeting, over which Walter Reade, Jr., will preside, will vote on acceptance of the document.

The following morning will be devoted by the convention to discussion of the government's anti-trust suit to force the sale of 16mm. pictures to TV and other outlets competing with regular theatres. According to an agenda released here at the weekend by TOA, Walter Morris will preside at a meeting of the organization's 16mm. committee and Wolfson and Levy will speak on the suit at a convention session to follow.

Will Ask Decision

Levy is scheduled to ask the delegates to decide if TOA, branded a co-conspirator in the government's complaint but not named a defendant, should seek to become a defendant in the suit.

The convention, which will open Sept. 14 and continue for five days, will feature a trade show, a large number of social events for delegates and their wives, and a world premiere preview of 20th-Fox's "Snows of Kilimanjaro." The Shoreham Hotel will be the site of business sessions and the trade show.

Sept. 14 will be taken up with a meeting of the TOA legal advisory council headed by Levy, an executive committee meeting and a nominating committee session. The TOA board will meet the following day under the chairmanship of Wolfson who will be substituting for board chairman Charles P. Skouras. The latter, National Theatres president, has informed TOA that personal family matters will make it impossible for him to attend this year's convention.

However, Wolfson reported that National Theatres will send to the convention the largest group of representatives in its history. Heading the group will be Dick Dickson, Southern California division manager; Elmer C. Rhoden, Midwest division president; Frank H. Ricketson, Inter-Mountain division president; Harold J. Fitzgerald, Wisconsin division president; R. H. McCullough, head of Research and maintenance, and Rudy Krappman, merchandising division chief. Rhoden, who has been mentioned as a possible successor to Skouras as TOA board chairman, will deliver the convention keynote address on Sept. 16.

Wolfson and A. Julian Brylawski, convention chairman, announced jointly at the weekend that registrations for the annual conclave have exceeded 500, or 200 more than were registered at the corresponding pre-convention time last year. Wolfson said the convention this year would be "definitely operation work-shop." When he gave his address last year accepting the presidency, the theme was "aggressive unity," he said, "and we are seeing that borne out in the responses to the convention this year. At no time in our history has there been a greater need for militant co-ordination of our industry strength to stimulate the box-office, to keep pace with technical facilities and to develop a greater public acceptance and goodwill for industry progress."

The opening convention session will include an address of greeting by F. Joseph Donohue, chairman of the District of Columbia Board of Commissioners, and a speech by Wolfson. A convention showmanship luncheon will follow, with Myron Blank serving as chairman. Earl J. Hudson will speak on the "Detroit Campaign" and Abe Montague, Columbia distribution vice-president, will speak on the Will Rogers Memorial Christmas Salute at the luncheon.

At the Sept. 17 morning session Robert O'Brien of United Paramount Theatres, Fabian and television attorney Marcus Cohn will discuss theatre TV. In the afternoon, Harold J. Fitzgerald will preside at a concessions session, Jack Braunagel at a drive-ins session, and Alfred Starr at an admission tax session, which will feature comments by Pat McGee, co-chairman of the Council of Motion Picture Organizations tax committee. Sam Pinanski, member of the COMPO governing triumvirate, will follow with a discussion of the industry agency's achievements.

Kirby, Lightman to Preside

The fifth and sixth business sessions on Sept. 18 will be presided over by Sam Kirby and M. A. Lightman, Sr., respectively. The fifth will be a closed session for TOA members and the sixth will deal with a plan for stimulating the box-office on a national basis. That same day will be marked by a convention research luncheon at which C. E. Cook, McCullough, and Nathan D. Golden, Commerce Department film chief, will speak. The president's banquet will be held in the evening.

Sponsors of various cocktail parties, show boat trips and other entertainment events during the convention include the Coca-Cola Co., Pepsi-Cola Co., and other business firms.

Lesser Forms New So. American Unit

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 7.—Formation of the W. H. Distributing Corp. to handle South American production and distribution for the Sol Lesser organization was announced here by Lesser, with "Cave Girl" in color by Technicolor, to be the first picture produced.

The picture will be filmed in Brazil this winter, under the direction of Harry Horner, with American stars in the two top male roles. The title role will be portrayed by a Latin-American actress. Lesser is currently discussing with two South American producers a deal whereby one will take on actual production reins under a similar arrangement as that which was recently set up by Lesser in England for the production of his "Black Chiffon," which British producer Sydney Box will make.

Jake Rachman, Critic

OMAHA, Sept. 7.—Jake Rachman, 68, World-Herald columnist and drama critic since 1938, and before that with the Bee-News here many years in a similar capacity, died Thursday in his sleep. Survivors include his cousin, R. D. Goldberg, of R. D. Goldberg Theatres.

boxed, at the 12 participating show houses. They are: "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" at the Astor and Bijou theatres; "The Quiet Man" at the Capitol; "The Big Sky," Criterion; "The Devil Makes Three," Globe; "High Noon," Mayfair; "The Crimson Pirate," Paramount; "Ivanhoe," Radio City Music Hall; "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" (starting Sept. 19), Rivoli; "Monkey Business," Roxy; "Sudden Fear," Loew's State, and "Affair in Trinidad," Victoria.

Accompanying text read: "Broadway is booming! ! ! The motion picture industry greets the new season with its best foot forward. All first-run theatres in town are playing wonderful attractions—attractions offered by no other entertainment medium—and presented for your pleasure at luxurious theatres with every comfort and convenience.

"Whatever you're looking for in the way of enjoyment is here—Hollywood's top stars in gay musicals, exciting dramas, riotous comedies, magnificent spectacles. There have never been so many outstanding pictures offered on Broadway at the same time before—and more are on the way.

"Plan to see as many of these fine films as you can. You'll enjoy every one of them."

Trade circles hope the Broadway theatres' cooperative move will set a pattern for similar ads elsewhere around the country. Distributors participating were: Warner, Columbia, Republic, RKO Radio, M-G-M, United Artists and 20th Century-Fox.

in 1946, and that the increase during the seven-week period varied from five to 11 per cent. It also revealed that attendance was up 16.5 per cent over that same period in the majority of the theatres whose managers and executives had attended the COMPO Texas conference on June 9-11.

The survey further revealed that this increased patronage was spread over 225 additional drive-in and conventional theatres built since 1946. Despite the increased attendance, the survey found current profits to be less than in 1946 due to greater operating costs. It was also pointed out that the "confiscatory" 20 per cent Federal admission tax amounted to 7.2 times the profit earned during the seven-week period.

Favorable comment on the findings came from such leading Texas showmen as Ed Rowley, president of Rowley United Theatres, Inc., Robert J. O'Donnell, vice-president and general manager of Interstate Circuit, Inc., and Col. H. A. Cole, co-chairman of the COMPO tax committee.

Rowley praised the COMPO conference in June for stimulating merchandising, while O'Donnell credited the better understanding of individual community problems on the part of theatre managers as a major factor.

Ezell declared that "if the exhibitors of Texas can continue this stimulated program of selling the superb product that is coming out of Hollywood, our worries are over."

H. J. Griffith, president of Theatre Enterprises, Inc., stated that the results achieved by Theatre Enterprises' managers since the COMPO conference would seem to justify conducting similar sessions every six months.

20% Tax Hit at Meet Of Iowa Exhibitors

DES MOINES, Sept. 7.—Injustices of the 20 per cent Federal amusement tax were stressed by actor George Murphy at a meeting here at the weekend of 200 exhibitors and their guests, 150 Iowa newspaper publishers and editors.

Calling for immediate repeal of the tax law, Murphy said movies are the "poor man's entertainment" and as such should not be subject to hamstringing penalties. He said the tax was a direct threat to the national economy resulting as it has in the closing down of so many theatres.

Murphy told his audience there was no further Communist menace in the industry, that the "Reds" had been ferreted out. He added that Hollywood is continually alert to prevent any further infiltration. He sees no threat in TV, saying that the two can live and work together just as is true with radio, and feels Hollywood will be making films for TV as a sideline and still producing bigger and better films. Urging greater exploitation of potential film audiences, Murphy noted that only 30 per cent of the population are film goers. He thinks this figure can be doubled with proper publicity.

viously offered, but wanted to pay the rest of the $6,000,000 over a period of 13 months instead of at once at the capital account rate, it was reported.

Having reduced American film import licenses from 121 to 90 per year, the French will not have to meet their obligation to accept 90 pictures until after a new remittance agreement is signed.

Eric A. Johnston, Motion Picture Association of America president, will be in no rush to negotiate with the French under the blanket authority given him by the Motion Picture Export Association board, it was said. Johnston is expected to visit Brazil to straighten out U. S. film difficulties there before undertaking the trip to Paris.

France was demonstrating its "Anti-American" attitude when it caused the breakdown of negotiations in Paris, one film export official here observed at the weekend. Also, he conceded, the rupture was a result of France's poor fiscal position.

SAG, Makers of TV Ad Films Meet Today

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 5.—Screen Actors Guild representatives left here over the weekend for New York for meetings starting Monday with national advertising agencies and film producers to negotiate a contract covering actors employed to make TV shorts.

The guild is seeking to restrict repeat showing of such films or to establish the principle of additional payments to performers for extra screenings. Representing the guild will be Richard Carlson, third vice-president; George Chandler, treasurer; John Dales, Jr., executive secretary; Kenneth Thomson, TV administrator, and William Berger, legal counsel.

Set Quick Processing Of RKO Fight Film

Three relays of cars with two cars in each relay, will rush the films of the Jersey Joe Walcott - Rocky Marciano heavyweight championship fight from Philadelphia to New York for processing, Sidney Kramer, RKO Radio short subject sales manager, said at the weekend.

Processing and editing will be under the direction of Jay Bonafield, RKO Pathe executive producer. The fight will be filmed by seven camera crews.

RKO Pathe Acquires A-Bomb Color Film

The first color films of the recent Atomic Warfare Maneuvers by the U. S. Marine Corps at Yucca Flat, Nevada, have been acquired by RKO Pathe, it was announced by Jay Bonafield, executive vice-president. These films, now being readied for RKO Radio distribution, will be released as a special two-reel subect, under the title of "Operation A-Bomb" and will feature a narration by Bob Considine, columnist and commentator.

RKO Radio said that "for the first time motion picture theatre audiences will see in color an actual A-Bomb blast explode." The films were photographed by Marine Corps cameramen in the new 35mm Eastman color. Fifteen cameramen, employing seven cameras, covered the event, shooting 29,000 feet of film.

Saw A-Bomb Close-up

Twenty-one hundred Leathernecks, selected at random, from bases all over the United States and Hawaii participated in the desert moneuvers. The men witnessed the A-Bomb close-up, under combat conditions, and then returned to their respective units to relay their experiences. The occasion marked the 28th A-Bomb exploded by the United States, at Alamogordo, Hiroshima, Nagasaki, two at Bikini and the rest here or at Eniwetok in the Pacific.

"Operation A-Bomb" will be produced by Bonafield and supervised and written by Burton Benjamin.

minimum is believed to be between 30 to 40 theatres. Wires were sent out Friday afternoon to committed theatres authorizing them to put their fight tickets on sale, TNT added. It was also pointed out that the cancellation provision of the IBC contract is now no longer operative.

The Orpheum, a 2,200-seater, the only television-equipped theatre here, will charge $3.60 for all seats except 130 loge seats, which are priced at $4.80.

Corwin's deal with Theatre Network Television, which has acquired the television rights from the International Boxing Club, is on sliding scale with TNT guaranteed 90 cents per seat against a $1.35 high if the house sells out.

U. K. Talks

F. W. Allport, MPAA manager for Britain, and John McCarthy, MPAA international vice-president.

The British officials exercised their right, under the existing two-year monetary agreement to reopen the pact at the end of its first year on Oct. 1, ostensibly to seek modifications of the sterling conversion and other provisions on the grounds that Britain's balance of overseas payments is less favorable now than when the agreement was made.

The pact permits the American film companies to withdraw $17,000,000 annually from Britain, plus a minimum guaranty of $4,000,000 from the Eady Plan fund in Britain, and 33⅓ per cent of the American investments in production in Britain. It has been estimated that withdrawals totaled about $25,000,000 for the first year of the agreement.

The British emissaries have been officially uncommunicative concerning the proposals for modification of the agreement which they will carry into the sessions here tomorrow. One report that preceded them here but lacks confirmation is that they will ask the American film industry to agree to a reduction of almost 50 per cent in the basic sterling conversion, or to perhaps $10 000,000, for the second year of the agreement.

The further unconfirmed report is that the British officials also will ask for increased production commitments in Britain by the American industry with, as a possible inducement, a higher percentage of such production investments eligible for withdrawal.

Nub of the negotiations is the actual dollar position of the British Treasury. While Britain's fiscal position admittedly still is grave, current reports indicate there has been an improvement exceeding even the recent predictions made to Commons by Chancellor of the Exchequer R. A. Butler on the results of Britain's new economic program.

It is expected that the negotiations here will continue throughout the week and possibly longer. A firm agreement might or might not emerge at their conclusion. If not, there would be a recess in the talks which could be resumed either here or in London, where negotiations of the previous agreements took place.

MPAA officials said they have no advance hint of what the British will propose. "They asked to reopen the agreement," one official said, "so we're just going to wait and listen to what they have in mind."

American industry representatives assume that the British delegation will make an extremely strong bid for whatever modifications in the agreement they have decided to concentrate upon, not only for practical reasons but also because a reduction in Britain's dollar expenditures for American films, if achieved, would be a political asset to the Churchill government at home.

The Electro-Chemical Products Corp., East Orange, N. J., has developed a film cleaning machine for use with its "Ecco" No. 1500 anti-static film cleaner. The unit will accommodate both eight and 16 mm. film, and there is another model for 35 mm. film. Called 'Speedrol," the device has a laboratory-type glass fluid-feed reservoir and valve designed to permit an accurate flow of cleaning fluid to the wiping pads without evaporation or annoying fumes. Film can be cranked through the spring-loaded jaws of the unit at any desired speed, thus enabling the operator to inspect the film either before or after it has been cleaned.

A universal high intensity arc slide projector which accommodates 2-by-2, 3¼-by-4 and 4-by-5-inch slides has been announced by the Strong Electric Corp., Toledo. Especially designed for the large screens of drive-in theatres, the projector (see photo below) is 78 inches in length. Adjustable legs permit establishment of the optical center at a height of from 36 to 55 inches while the projection angle afforded is as much as 27 degrees downward and 10 degrees upward. The motor-driven arc burns six mm. by seven inch copper coated carbons at 45 amperes and 21 volts to project 7,500 lumens of light. The optical system includes three lenses and a 3¼-inch focus polished glass reflector of 24-inch working distance and 10¼-inch diameter. Asks 'Opening' of Field; $3,135,000 in Damages

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 8. — An anti-trust suit for $3,135,000 in triple damages was filed against eight distribution companies and others in U. S. District Court here today to compel them to sell 16mm. feature films to the plaintiff, Kunz Motion Picture Service, without the imposition of restrictions on the exhibition of the substandard films.

The action, said to have been touched off by the filing last July of the Department of Justice's anti-trust suit to force the sale of 16mm. films to television and other non-theatrical users, includes among the defendants Loew's and Paramount, which were not named in the government action. The government said it had no evidence against the two.

Other defendants named are 20th

In addition to an Air Force contingent from Norton Field, several Hollywood stars including Tony Curtis, Janet Leigh, Colleen Gray, Bob Arthur and Natalie Wood, were on hand for the premiere. Don Hartman, Paramount production executive, was an honor guest and took a part in the proceedings.

LONDON, Sept. 8.—J. P. Kennedy, representative of the Bank of America here for the past 30 years, will retire Sept. 18 and return to America. He is succeeded by J. A. Buhler.

Bell Is Reopened

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 8.—Co-owners Eugene Calongne and Jules Sevin celebrated the opening of their remodeled Bell, a neighborhood theatre, over the weekend.

'Monkey Business' Opens to $95,000; Holdovers Govern

"Monkey Business" at the Roxy Theatre opened to a thriving estimated $95,000 for its first week, a seven-day period marked by hold-overs in all other key first-run situations in New York.

Sturdy business continued to be chalked up by "Ivanhoe," "The Quiet Man," "Sudden Fear" and "Crimson Pirate." Grosses at other situations varied from good to fair, with business at most Broadway houses lower than the summer peak reached over the Labor Day weekend.

For its sixth week "Ivanhoe" is expected to hit a robust $144,000 at Radio City Music Hall, while a fine $69,000 is seen for the second inning of "The Crimson Pirate" at the Paramount. Both the Paramount and the Hall, like the Roxy, feature stage shows.

At the Capitol, an excellent $59,000 is forecast for the third stanza of "The Quiet Man." "Sudden Fear" at Loew's State is holding up well, with a nice $32,000 estimated for its fifth week.

"The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" is doing well at the Astor, with $28,000 seen for its third week. The same film at the two-a-day Bijou is expected to hit a good $6,000 for its third and final week which ends tomorrow. No new film has been booked by the Bijou as yet.

For its seventh week, a healthy $20,000 is forecast for "High Noon" at the Mayfair, while a fairly nice $16,000 is indicated for the sixth week of "Affair in Trinidad" at the Victoria. At the Globe a moderate $14,500 is seen for the second round of "Devil Makes Three."

"The Big Sky" at the Criterion is expected to do a satisfactory $19,000 for its third week, while the fourth week of "Les Miserables" at the Rivoli is due to hit $7,000, a figure which is a bit on the slow side.

Among off-Broadway houses, "Ivory Hunter" at the Trans-Lux 52nd Street is holding up excellently with $11,000 indicated for its third week. "Man in the White Suit" is doing well, too, with $6,500 seen for the 23rd week. Another long-standing hold-over, "Encore" at the Normandie is expected to chalk up $5,000 for its 22nd inning.

"O'Henry's Full House" will be the next attraction at the Fine Arts Theatre, opening at a date to be set in early October. The current Fine Arts occupant, "The Stranger in Between" is expected to gross a good $6,200 for its third week. "The Amazing Monsieur Fabre" opened at the Park Avenue yesterday, replacing "Brandy for the Parson," which closed its fourth week with a nice $3,600.

Hall Books 'Because,' 'Happy' for Fall

Equipment Sales Up 25% In Cleveland

Cleveland, Sept. 8.—Theatre equipment business here is up from 20 to 25 per cent as a result of the past four weeks' improvement in theatre attendance, Frank Masek, National Theatre Supply branch manager, reports. Exhibitors are cautious and are making improvements slowly, Masek states, but there is enough optimism to warrant expenditures in a limited amount.

Knorr Will Produce Roxy Stage Shows

Arthur Knorr has been appointed producer in charge of stage productions of the Roxy Theatre beginning Sept. 27 when National Theatres takes over the house from 20th Century-Fox under the divorcement and reorganization of the two companies. Roxy stage shows under 20th-Fox ownership are produced by the theatre's production staff.

Prior to joining the Roxy in 1936, Knorr was producer and art director of the Capitol Theatre stage shows here and for the past four years has been producer of the Milton Berle TV show. David T. Katz, Roxy executive director, who announced Knorr's appointment, plans to develop new stage show ideas for the Roxy under the Knorr production aegis.

Heavy Program of Tri-States TOA Meet

MEMPHIS, Sept. 8.—The Mississippi, Arkansas and Tennessee Theatre Owners (TOA affiliate), will meet in annual convention in Memphis on Oct. 27-29. Dates for the Tri-State TOA convention were announced today by Leon Roundtree, secretary-treasurer of Holly Springs, Miss. Sessions will be held at the Hotel Gayoso.

M. A. Lightman, Jr., president of Tri-States, said arbitration, anti-trust suits, conciliation, Federal taxes, advertising and selling, how to cut operating overhead, drive-ins and concessions would be discussed.

Night in day...

The best moonlight is the light of the noonday sun . . .

Obvious, of course, to an industry trained in modern cinematographic technics. Equally obvious is the need for infinite care in the choice of film and filters—in keying film and situation . . . in co-ordinating method and result desired in processing.

To help solve problems such as these, representatives of the Eastman Technical Service for Motion Picture Film are trained to advise—are ready and able to roll up their sleeves and lend a hand wherever necessary.

In maintaining this service, the Eastman Kodak Company has branches at strategic centers . . . invites inquiry on all phases of film use from all members of the industry. Address: Motion Picture Film Department, Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester 4, N. Y. East Coast Division, 342 Madison Avenue, New York 17, N. 16mm. Suit

Century-Fox, Warner, RKO Radio, Columbia, Universal, Republic, Screen Gems, a Columbia subsidiary; United World Films, a Universal subsidiary; Films, Inc., Pictorial Films, Movies En Route and Movies U.S.A.

The plaintiff, headed by Carl J. Kunz, operates a 16mm. distribution business principally in this state and Maryland, and also in Ohio and New Jersey. The complaint lists its customers as schools, institutions, ships, etc., but does not mention any prospective television clients in the relief sought or the practices complained of.

The action, however, asks that the defendants be directed to grant unrestricted licenses for the exhibition of such of the feature films under their control "as the court deems necessary."

It also asks that the defendants be enjoined from conspiring to restrict the production, distribution or exhibition of 16mm. films and from "granting to theatres any protection against competition from exhibition of 16mm. feature films other than by granting reasonable clearance" between 35mm. films in theatres and 16mm. exhibitions of the same films elsewhere when such 16mm. exhibitions "are shown to the general public in an area that makes them substantially competitive with the theatre."

Presumably, if such relief were granted, the 16mm. distributor would be free to license films to television.

The complaint charges that as a result of combination and conspiracy among the defendants and exhibitors, defendants have refused to license their 16mm. feature films "in any place or manner that would compete with the exhibition of 35mm. films." It lists alleged restrictions imposed on the exhibition of 16mm. films, including "arbitrary and excessive clearance, license conditioning and price-fixing."

The action cites the U. S. vs. Paramount case and asks that the decisions therein be made a part of the present case.

Defendants are given 20 days after service to reply. Malkan & Isacson of New York and Fred C. Fiechter, Jr., of this city are attorneys for the plaintiffs. The attorneys said it is the first suit for damages brought by a 16mm. dealer under the anti-trust laws.

$1 Million Suit

by Emanuel Stutz, operator of the Moreland Theatre, a Cleveland suburban house, claimed the latter had been deprived of product over a period of years as a result of a conspiracy among the defendants.

Milton Mooney, one of the defendants, operates a buying and booking agency which represents about 125 independent theatres here. The plaintiff claimed Mooney exercised his buying power to persuade distributors to favor the defendant.

This is believed to be the first time a booking agency was charged with being the moving power in a civil anti-trust theatre case. Industry attorneys say that had the plaintiff been successful, the suit might have endangered the operation of booking agencies serving independent exhibitors.

Mooney and Gusdanovic were represented by the Cleveland law firm of Ulmer, Berne, Gordon & Glickman and by Jerome Curtis. Distributor defendants were represented by Jones, Day, Cockley & Revis of Cleveland.

Bank Loans Come High in Britain

London, Sept. 8.—Analysis of the recent financial report of the J. Arthur Rank Organization shows that £774,984 ($2,169,955) in loan interest had to be met by Odeon in the fiscal year ended June 28.

That would suffice to meet nearly eight years dividend on the preferred shares.

L. I. and Brooklyn Papers Hit US Suit

The Brooklyn Daily Eagle and the Long Island Daily Press have joined in the editorial attacks by newspapers on the Department of Justice's anti-trust suit to force the sale of 16mm. pictures to television and other outlets that compete with regular theatres.

The Brooklyn paper found the government's action "baffling," and the Jamaica daily branded it "unfair provocation." As in the case of Manhattan-published newspapers that hit the suit, the Eagle and Press printed their editorials after the Independent Theatre Owners Association of New York supplied them with the facts in the litigation.

Last weekend, meanwhile, the New York Journal-American, Sunday Mirror and Sunday News ran features emphasizing that quality Hollywood films are showing at Times Square area theatres. The features supported full-page advertisements to this effect which were placed by the Organization of the Motion Picture Industry of New York City.

Attending the meeting with Sherman were Max Roth and Charles Lindau, both of Chicago; N. P. Jacobs, San Francisco, representing the West Coast area; John Franconi, Dallas, representing the South and Southwest; Don Swartz, Milwaukee and Minneapolis; Jack Zide, Detroit; Bernie Mills, New York and Washington; Selma Mitchell, Cincinnati (sitting in on behalf of the Lee Goldberg Estate); Harry Allen, Toronto, and Sam Seidelman, formerly of United Artists and Eagle-Lion, who is negotiating to handle foreign distribution for the company.

Thirty Will Sponsor 'Italian Films Week'

All sections of the American film industry, as well as many phases of the cultural, business and governmental fields of this country, are represented among a list of 30 sponsors of "Salute to Italian Films Week," made public here by Winthrop W. Aldrich, honorary chairman of the Oct. 6-12 celebration.

During the week, seven new Italian films will be presented, one each evening, at the Little Carnegie Theatre. Participating in the many events planned will be a number of stars, producers, directors and government dignitaries from Italy, who will be joined here by Hollywood personalities.

Including Aldrich and Alberto Tarchiani, Italian Ambassador to the U. S., some of the sponsors follow: Ralph Bellamy, president, Actors Equity; Rudolph Bing, director, Metropolitan Opera Association; Floyd Blair, president, Philarmonic Symphony Society of New York; Charles Brackett, president, Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences; Harry Brandt president, Independent Theatre Owners Association; Valentine Davies, president, Screen Writers Guild; Quincy Howe, president, National Board of Review; Eric Johnston, president, Motion Picture Association of America; Ronald Reagan, president, Screen Actors Guild; Wilbur Snaper, president, Allied State Association; George Sidney, president, Screen Directors Guild; Mitchell Wolfson, president, Theatre Owners of America; E. R. Zorgniotti, U. S. representative, Italian Films Export.

It is hoped that at least 5,000 theatres will soon be participating in the project and that collections around $250,000 per year may result.

Several months ago, the hospital committee began an experiment without fanfare. About 100 theatres in various parts of the country were enlisted for the experiment. Small display cards were created with small collection-boxes attached. These were placed on candy-stands of the cooperating theatres. Over the three-month experimental period the theatre collections averaged $2.50 to $3.50 per week. There were no patron complaints. The committee will this week start expanding the plan on a national scale.

National Screen Service has volunteered to handle distribution of the collection can without charge. More than 1,000 theatres already are enrolled.

Judy Garland Will Make Film for WB

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 8.—Judy Garland will return to the screen after an absence of two years in "A Star Is Born," one of three Sid Luft productions in color for Warner Brothers, Jack L. Warner, executive producer, announces.

"A Star Is Born" is scheduled for production at Warners next spring. It will be the first picture she has ever made away from M-G-M where she was under contract until two years ago.

Elected to T.U.C., O'Brien Asks Raises

London, Sept. 8. — Tom O'Brien, who was elected president of the Trades Union Congress at Margate last week, returned to London and immediately asked the Cinematograph Exhibitors Association for wage increases for his union's 86,000 theatre employes here, which would cost exhibitors £132 000 ($369,600) annually. NATKE, O'Brien's union, also wants the work week reduced from 48 hours to 44 and double pay for Sundays.

CEA responded by pointing out that TUC is on record as counselling moderation in wage claims.

power," with the industry.

Today's three-hour introductory session at the Motion Picture Association of America will be followed by another meeting tomorrow afternoon, and it is expected that there will probably be daily meetings for the rest of the week. MPAA officials have already said that they expect the talks will last a week or even two. They have also pointed out that a final agreement may not come out of these sessions, and that a recess may be called at their finish, with a later resumption here or in London.

See 25-50% Cut

Although neither side would disclose terms and figures offered today by the British, it has been reported in the industry that the British will set a figure cutting the current allowed remittance of $17,000,000 a year by anywhere from 25 to 50 per cent.

Present for the British today were Sir Frank, permanent secretary of the British Board of Trade; Sidney Golt, head of the films division of the board; Victor George Baker, of the exchange control department of the Bank of England, Allan Christelow, member of the British Treasury delegation in Washington; and Geoffrey Parker, British Embassy commercial counselor.

Leaders Attend

MPAA president Eric Johnston and Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers president Ellis Arnall led the industry team, along with James Mulvey, SIMPP vice-president; Joyce O'Hara, MPAA vice-president; John McCarthy, MPAA international vice-president and Fayette Allport, MPAA British manager.

Judge Samuel Leibowitz, New York jurist, will be the principal speaker of the evening which will see entertainment industry leaders of all faiths join in the tribute to Goldenson.

Walcott Bout

get the bout "live" as it begins at about 10:00 P.M. (EDT).

In the meantime, Nathan Halpern, president of TNT, disclosed that theatres in San Francisco, Seattle, Denver and Kansas City have joined the Coast-to-Coast telecast which will emanate from Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium. Sherrill Corwin's Orpheum Theatre in Los Angeles has already booked the event.

Under the present plans, it was learned, a simultaneous film recording of the fight will be made by TNT at Municipal Stadium which will be received by telecase at the NBC-TV studio in New York, which, in turn, will be used as the origination point for the Western telecast. This method, TNT pointed out, will allow Western theatres to have the event on the large-screens within the hour of the event itself. It was also pointed out that if the fight goes many rounds the Western telecast will begin before the bout is ended.

With no radio or home television of the fight, TNT added, the Western theatres will have an exclusive on the event for the public in those areas. Other quarters pointed out, however, that the radio and TV "blackout" does not extend to Western radio news broadcasts which could flash the results of the fight before it reaches Western theatres' screens. With this unprecedented condition existing, the effect on the box-office of Western theatres taking the bout will be watched closely in trade quarters.

As to what system will be used to make the film recording, which later will be telecast, Halpern said engineers and technicians are currently studying the choices. He expressed assurance, however, that from past experience, from closed circuit tests with film conducted by TNT, the quality of the film and its reception will be excellent.

The planned first national distribution of a film, in this case a fight film, through the use of theatre TV came about when the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. informed TNT of its inability to service the event West of Omaha at fight time. The potential use of theatre TV as a medium of film distribution was highlighted by Spyros P. Skouras, president of 20th Century-Fox, in commenting recently on the unveiling of his company's Eidophor theatre TV system.

Robert Mochrie, distribution vice-president of RKO Pictures, which has purchased the film rights to the bout, said "no comment," when asked if he thought a question arose as to the propriety of telecasting the bout from a film. Other quarters pointed out, however, that TNT is not engaging in film distribution of the bout, the event remains a telecast on the same night for Western theatres.

Chicago Arrangements for Theatre TV of Bout Nearly Completed

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—Plans for the large-screen TV showing of the Walcott-Marciano fight Sept. 23 in the Chicago area are virtually complete, with Balaban and Katz having the event scheduled into the Tivoli, Uptown, and Marbro in Chicago, Totalling approximately 11,500 seats, and the Paramount, Hammond, Ind., a 2000-seater, and Essaness planning to show it at the 1200-seat Crown here in Chicago.

Admission at the three B. & K. Chicago houses will be $3.60 including tax. Prices have not been set, as yet, for the Paramount, and Essaness is charging $4.80 including tax for center seats at the Crown with the remainder going for $3.60, including tax. Previous top prices for TV events here were $3.60 at the Crown and $2.40 at the Balaban and Katz houses.

Plans Fight Telecast, Then Film Booking

The 50th Street Guild Theatre, which has already sold out for the Sept. 23 telecast of the Walcott-Marciano bout, plans to book the fight film for the following day, Norman Elson, president of the circuit, disclosed here yesterday.

Elson said negotiations with RKO Pictures for the fight film were currently underway. The 450-seat Guild Theatre is charging $4.80 for the fight telecast.

Monogram-AA Board Will Meet Today

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 8.—Out-of-town members of the Monogram and Allied Artists board of directors have arrived here to attend a meeting tomorrow at the studio. They include Arthur C. Bromberg, franchise owner, Atlanta; William Hurlbut, franchise owner; Detroit; Edward Morey, vice-president, New York; Herman Rifkin, vice-president and franchise owner, Boston, and Norton V. Ritchey, vice-president and Monogram International Corp. president, New York.

Others who will attend the session, to follow a stockholders meeting, are: Steve Broidy, president; G. Ralph Branton, vice-president; W. Ray Johnston, chairman; George D. Burrows, executive vice-president and treasurer, and Howard Stubbins, West Coast co-franchise owner.

Gertrude Lawrence Services Here Today

Services for Gertrude Lawrence, stage and screen actress, who died here Saturday of cancer at the age of 52, will be held today in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church. Burial will be in the family plot of the widower, Richard Aldrich, theatrical producer, in Upton, Mass.

Miss Lawrence had her stage debut as a child in 1911 and played her first role on the screen in 1929 in "The Battle of Paris." Pictures since include: "Aren't We All?" "Rembrandt," "Men Are Not Gods" and "The Glass Menagerie." A daughter from a previous marriage, Pamela Gordon, also survives.

Services Held for S. A. Myers of B-L

LONDON, Sept. 8.—Funeral services were held here today for Sidney A. Myers, assistant managing director of British Lion Film Corp., who died suddenly on Saturday, following a brief illness. Myers entered the industry here in 1918 and joined British Lion as head of its sales in 1929. He was named assistant managing director in 1946.

Burial was in Jewish Cemetery, Willesden, London.

Arbitration, COMPO Lauded By Harvey

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8.—Rotus Harvey in his Exhibitor's Digest column this month, takes a very optimistic view of the industry and points to the first draft of the arbitration plan as "very good news."

"Arbitration is necessary to settle the multitudinous problems which daily beset our industry," he says. "Through low cost, intelligently administered arbitration many disputes will be settled and as a consequence the number of lawsuits should be materially reduced. In the final analysis it is the exhibitors who have to pay all the bills assessed against the industry and therefore arbitration should mean a lot to all of us, both financially and as a quick means to settle arguments."

"The successful COMPO dues drive is another fine bit of news," he continued. "In the San Francisco area the independents 'came through well over 90 per cent.' I am told the circuits are also 'joining' which means success with a capital 'S'. COMPO, properly financed, can do a great job for the industry by public relations; Movietime tours plus being a fountain of information and providing a voice for a united industry.

"The tax repeal program is just starting to get under way and I want to again add my voice to the others and urge you to take a personal part in this campaign. This is a 'grass roots' fight and we must get the entire tax removed if we are to survive."

upon by the membership of the exhibitor organizations which participated in the Industry Arbitration Conference. Theatre Owners of America is in a position to be the first exhibitor organization to accept the draft since it will hold its annual meeting next week in Washington.

The draft was reviewed yesterday at a meeting here of distribution attorneys who, at the same time, set up the agenda for the meeting Thursday.

It was reported that the subject of arbitration will be discussed by Eric A. Johnston, MPAA president, at the final banquet of the TOA convention. The nature of his discussion will depend on the action taken on Thursday by the presidents of the companies, it was indicated. Also scheduled to discuss arbitration at TOA convention is William F. Rodgers, Loew's vice-president who is also chairman of the distributors' arbitration negotiating committee.

Errol Flynn Gets Help Taking Burma

LONDON, Sept. 8.—After seven years of cold storage, "Objective Burma" has been put back into the Warner Theatre here.

When the picture first opened in 1945, indignant Britons claimed that their Fourteenth Army and not Errol Flynn had defeated the Japs in Burma. The late Max Milder, then Warner's London manager, bowed before the storm and took the picture off after a few days run.

Now the film has been given a new prologue explaining that Mountbatten and Wingate, as well as Errol, had something to do with the Burma victory. Warners report it is doing top business and a general relcase through the ABC circuit is in negotiation.

Feels Associations Should Do Buying

San Francisco, Sept. 8.—H. V. (Rotus) Harvey, West Coast exhibitor leader, writing in the current organizational bulletin of Western Theatre Owners, suggests the formation of film buying and booking agencies by exhibitor associations, operated at cost as a service for small exhibitors in outlying locations.

Harvey says current conditions, with salesmen making fewer calls, New York approving deals and dates, mails being slowed and other factors, operate against the small, outlying theatre, whose account usually is too small for an established film buying and booking organization to handle.

Half of Exhibitors Apathetic: Kaufman

Half of the exhibitors in the country are apathetic in supporting the pictures they show, producer Joseph Kaufman declared here yesterday while on a visit from the Coast. He urged the exhibitors to "wake up and help combat competition" and at the same time increase their grosses.

Kaufman said he made his observations on the basis of what has happened during the first-run of his own picture, "Sudden Fear," starring Joan Crawford, and currently being released by RKO Radio. The film is now in its fifth week at Loew's State here.

"We've noticed," he said, "that everywhere this picture received real exhibitor support, the grosses were extremely high. Where it didn't, the grosses were average. Half the exhibitors are apathetic. They expect the distributor to do the whole job.

"Our business today," he continued, "depends on close support all the way down, from star and producer through the whole field to the theatre.

Net Depinet Will Aid Travelers Society

Ned Depinet, president of RKO pictures, has accepted the chairmanship of the motion picture division in the 1952 fund raising drive of the Travelers Aid Society of New York.

Depinet will encourage industry support for the work of Travelers Aid which last year furnished assistance to over 121,000 people lost, stranded, and desperate in New York.

'Caligari' Screening

There will be a special screening of the German films "The Last Laugh" and "The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari" this afternoon at the Johnny Victor Theatre here, followed by a reception. The films will open at The Baronet shortly.

Asks 'Opening' of Field; $3,135,000 in Damages

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 8. — An anti-trust suit for $3,135,000 in triple damages was filed against eight distribution companies and others in U. S. District Court here today to compel them to sell 16mm. feature films to the plaintiff, Kunz Motion Picture Service, without the imposition of restrictions on the exhibition of the substandard films.

The action, said to have been touched off by the filing last July of the Department of Justice's anti-trust suit to force the sale of 16mm. films to television and other non-theatrical users, includes among the defendants Loew's and Paramount, which were not named in the government action. The government said it had no evidence against the two.

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—Meeting at the Blackstone Hotel here, Harry Sherman, veteran producer, and a group of independent distributors from all parts of the U. S. and Canada, prepared a distribution franchise deal for forthcoming feature productions Sherman plans to film at his own studios in California. Present plans call for releasing one new picture per month, with four of the first 12 to be in color.

Sherman, who has made 153 pictures for release through other companies during his producing career (among them the Hopalong Cassidy series), long has had the idea of setting up his own distribution company. One feature of his projected organization would be that the distribution franchise holders would own a part

Western Theatres to Get Walcott Bout Via Film Recording

By MURRAY HOROWITZ

The first use of theatre television as a medium to effect national, simultaneous distribution of a film will occur with the history-making Transcontinental telecast of the Jersey Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano heavyweight title bout on Sept. 23, it was learned here yesterday.

Television-equipped theatres West of Omaha will be serviced by Theatre Network Television's film recording of the bout, which will be telecast separately to Western theatres about one hour after the fight begins. The point of origin for the film telecast will be from the NBC-TV studio in New York.

The East-West split up was necessitated by the lack of long line facilities West of Omaha before 11:15 P.M. (EDT). Theatres East of Omaha will

British Ask Change In Existing Pact

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Confirming industry expectations, British representatives here for negotiation of the monetary agreement between this country and Great Britain today asked for a modification of the existing terms.

At the close of their first meeting neither British nor industry representatives would give any details beyond this statement.

A spokesman for Sir Frank Lee, top British negotiator, declared that the British felt that publicizing the terms which they were proposing might "damage their bargaining

Arthur Doyle Heads 'U's' Tokyo Office

Arthur Doyle has been named to the post of managing director of Japan by Alfred E. Daff, executive vice-president and director of world sales for Universal-International.

Doyle started with 20th Century-Fox as a salesman in Pittsburgh in 1935. In 1936, he was made manager for Japan and in 1939 China and the Philippines were added to his territory. Following the war he rejoined 20th Century-Fox as managing director for India and China.

House Leader McCormack Favors Tax Elimination

BOSTON, Sept. 8.—Rep. John W. McCormack, (D.-Mass.), majority leader of the House of Representatives in Washington, in an interview in Boston last night regarding the 20 per cent Federal admission tax, stated that, "I am aware of the burdensome nature of any kind of taxes levied upon motion picture theatres. In my opinion when the time comes for the elimination of the miscellaneous taxes, then the 20 per cent Federal admission tax should be one of the first to be repealed in order to assist the motion picture industry in every way we possibly can.

"As a member of the House Ways and Means Committee many years ago I was in favor of the repeal of the 10 per cent Federal admission tax."

K-MTA Will Honor Biechele October 1

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 8.—R. R. (Dick) Biechele, 41 years an exhibitor, a leader in industry organizations, will be honored at the banquet Oct. 1 of the Kansas-Missouri Theatre Association. He operated the Osage Theatre in Kansas City, Kan. until its destruction in the flood of 1951. He has had an interest since its establishment in the Consolidated Agencies, Inc., handling theatre and other business.

Biechele served several years as president, secretary and director of the Kansas-Missouri Theatre Association and has for years represented this area on boards of national organizations and committees. He served two years as vice-president of the old MPTOA. His special field of service to the industry has been in legislative matters.

Zanuck Coming for Premiere of 'Snows'

Darryl F. Zanuck, 20th Century-Fox studio chief, will arrive here from Europe on Tuesday by plane to attend the world premiere of "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" at the Rivoli Theatre Wednesday evening. The Technicolor adaptation of Ernest Hemingway's story marks Zanuck's only personal production for 1952.

Zanuck currently is putting the final touches on two pictures scheduled to begin shooting on the Continent within the next week. They are "Man on A Tightrope" and "Able Seaman Brown."

Ohio Congressmen To Discuss Repeal

Cleveland, Sept. 8.—Ohio Republican Congressmen Frances P. Bolton, George Bender, Robert Crosser and Michael Feighan will meet with the northern Ohio anti-tax committee at a luncheon in the Hollenden Hotel on Monday, Sept. 15 to discuss support in the repeal of the 20 per cent admission tax. Committee members to attend the luncheon include chairman Leo T. Jones, M. B. Horwitz, Myer S. Fine, Milton A. Mooney, Frank Murphy, Joe Lissauer, Ernest Schwartz, Henry Greenberger and Robert Wile, ITO executive secretary.

Cinerama Premiere Now Set for Sept. 30

"This Is Cinerama," first production in the new film process that employs a giant screen, three projection units and six separate sound-tracks to create the illusion of a third dimension, will have its world premiere at the Broadway Theatre here on Tuesday evening, Sept. 30, it was announced by Cinerama Productions Corp.

Merian C. Cooper and Robert L. Bendick are the producers of the inaugural two-hour panorama of entertainment. Louis Forbes conducted the symphony orchestra. Lowell Thomas serves as narrator for the prologue and bridges the various sequences. He is chairman of the board of the corporation. The process is the invention of Fred Waller.

'Just for You' Makes L. Arrowhead Debut

LAKE ARROWHEAD, Cal., Sept. 8.—This mile-high play place slipped back into somnolent Indian summer today following a weekend animated by ceremonies surrounding the press premiere of Paramount's "Just for You" at Earl Strebe's Village Theatre.

In addition to an Air Force contingent from Norton Field, several Hollywood stars including Tony Curtis, Janet Leigh, Colleen Gray, Bob Arthur and Natalie Wood, were on hand for the premiere. Don Hartman, Paramount production executive, was an honor guest and took a part in the proceedings.

Bell Is Reopened

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 8.—Co-owners Eugene Calongne and Jules Sevin celebrated the opening of their remodeled Bell, a neighborhood theatre, over the weekend.

'Monkey Business' Opens to $95,000; Holdovers Govern

"Monkey Business" at the Roxy Theatre opened to a thriving estimated $95,000 for its first week, a seven-day period marked by hold-overs in all other key first-run situations in New York.

Sturdy business continued to be chalked up by "Ivanhoe," "The Quiet Man," "Sudden Fear" and "Crimson Pirate." Grosses at other situations varied from good to fair, with business at most Broadway houses lower than the summer peak reached over the Labor Day weekend.

For its sixth week "Ivanhoe" is expected to hit a robust $144,000 at Radio City Music Hall, while a fine $69,000 is seen for the second inning of "The Crimson Pirate" at the Paramount. Both the Paramount and the Hall, like the Roxy, feature stage shows.

At the Capitol, an excellent $59,000 is forecast for the third stanza of "The Quiet Man." "Sudden Fear" at Loew's State is holding up well, with a nice $32,000 estimated for its fifth week.

"The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" is doing well at the Astor, with $28,000 seen for its third week. The same film at the two-a-day Bijou is expected to hit a good $6,000 for its third and final week which ends tomorrow. No new film has been booked by the Bijou as yet.

For its seventh week, a healthy $20,000 is forecast for "High Noon" at the Mayfair, while a fairly nice $16,000 is indicated for the sixth week of "Affair in Trinidad" at the Victoria. At the Globe a moderate $14,500 is seen for the second round of "Devil Makes Three."

"The Big Sky" at the Criterion is expected to do a satisfactory $19,000 for its third week, while the fourth week of "Les Miserables" at the Rivoli is due to hit $7,000, a figure which is a bit on the slow side.

Among off-Broadway houses, "Ivory Hunter" at the Trans-Lux 52nd Street is holding up excellently with $11,000 indicated for its third week. "Man in the White Suit" is doing well, too, with $6,500 seen for the 23rd week. Another long-standing hold-over, "Encore" at the Normandie is expected to chalk up $5,000 for its 22nd inning.

"O'Henry's Full House" will be the next attraction at the Fine Arts Theatre, opening at a date to be set in early October. The current Fine Arts occupant, "The Stranger in Between" is expected to gross a good $6,200 for its third week. "The Amazing Monsieur Fabre" opened at the Park Avenue yesterday, replacing "Brandy for the Parson," which closed its fourth week with a nice $3,600.

Hall Books 'Because,' 'Happy' for Fall

Equipment Sales Up 25% In Cleveland

Cleveland, Sept. 8.—Theatre equipment business here is up from 20 to 25 per cent as a result of the past four weeks' improvement in theatre attendance, Frank Masek, National Theatre Supply branch manager, reports. Exhibitors are cautious and are making improvements slowly, Masek states, but there is enough optimism to warrant expenditures in a limited amount.

Knorr Will Produce Roxy Stage Shows

Arthur Knorr has been appointed producer in charge of stage productions of the Roxy Theatre beginning Sept. 27 when National Theatres takes over the house from 20th Century-Fox under the divorcement and reorganization of the two companies. Roxy stage shows under 20th-Fox ownership are produced by the theatre's production staff.

Prior to joining the Roxy in 1936, Knorr was producer and art director of the Capitol Theatre stage shows here and for the past four years has been producer of the Milton Berle TV show. David T. Katz, Roxy executive director, who announced Knorr's appointment, plans to develop new stage show ideas for the Roxy under the Knorr production aegis.

Night in day...

The best moonlight is the light of the noonday sun . . .

Obvious, of course, to an industry trained in modern cinematographic technics. Equally obvious is the need for infinite care in the choice of film and filters—in keying film and situation . . . in co-ordinating method and result desired in processing.

To help solve problems such as these, representatives of the Eastman Technical Service for Motion Picture Film are trained to advise—are ready and able to roll up their sleeves and lend a hand wherever necessary.

In maintaining this service, the Eastman Kodak Company has branches at strategic centers . . . invites inquiry on all phases of film use from all members of the industry. 16mm. Suit

Century-Fox, Warner, RKO Radio, Columbia, Universal, Republic, Screen Gems, a Columbia subsidiary; United World Films, a Universal subsidiary; Films, Inc., Pictorial Films, Movies En Route and Movies U.S.A.

The plaintiff, headed by Carl J. Kunz, operates a 16mm. distribution business principally in this state and Maryland, and also in Ohio and New Jersey. The complaint lists its customers as schools, institutions, ships, etc., but does not mention any prospective television clients in the relief sought or the practices complained of.

The action, however, asks that the defendants be directed to grant unrestricted licenses for the exhibition of such of the feature films under their control "as the court deems necessary."

It also asks that the defendants be enjoined from conspiring to restrict the production, distribution or exhibition of 16mm. films and from "granting to theatres any protection against competition from exhibition of 16mm. feature films other than by granting reasonable clearance" between 35mm. films in theatres and 16mm. exhibitions of the same films elsewhere when such 16mm. exhibitions "are shown to the general public in an area that makes them substantially competitive with the theatre."

Presumably, if such relief were granted, the 16mm. distributor would be free to license films to television.

The complaint charges that as a result of combination and conspiracy among the defendants and exhibitors, defendants have refused to license their 16mm. feature films "in any place or manner that would compete with the exhibition of 35mm. films." It lists alleged restrictions imposed on the exhibition of 16mm. films, including "arbitrary and excessive clearance, license conditioning and price-fixing."

The action cites the U. S. vs. Paramount case and asks that the decisions therein be made a part of the present case.

Defendants are given 20 days after service to reply. Malkan & Isacson of New York and Fred C. Fiechter, Jr., of this city are attorneys for the plaintiffs. The attorneys said it is the first suit for damages brought by a 16mm. dealer under the anti-trust laws.

$1 Million Suit

by Emanuel Stutz, operator of the Moreland Theatre, a Cleveland suburban house, claimed the latter had been deprived of product over a period of years as a result of a conspiracy among the defendants.

Milton Mooney, one of the defendants, operates a buying and booking agency which represents about 125 independent theatres here. The plaintiff claimed Mooney exercised his buying power to persuade distributors to favor the defendant.

This is believed to be the first time a booking agency was charged with being the moving power in a civil anti-trust theatre case. Industry attorneys say that had the plaintiff been successful, the suit might have endangered the operation of booking agencies serving independent exhibitors.

Mooney and Gusdanovic were represented by the Cleveland law firm of Ulmer, Berne, Gordon & Glickman and by Jerome Curtis. Distributor defendants were represented by Jones, Day, Cockley & Revis of Cleveland.

Bank Loans Come High in Britain

London, Sept. 8.—Analysis of the recent financial report of the J. Arthur Rank Organization shows that £774,984 ($2,169,955) in loan interest had to be met by Odeon in the fiscal year ended June 28.

That would suffice to meet nearly eight years dividend on the preferred shares.

L. I. and Brooklyn Papers Hit US Suit

The Brooklyn Daily Eagle and the Long Island Daily Press have joined in the editorial attacks by newspapers on the Department of Justice's anti-trust suit to force the sale of 16mm. pictures to television and other outlets that compete with regular theatres.

The Brooklyn paper found the government's action "baffling," and the Jamaica daily branded it "unfair provocation." As in the case of Manhattan-published newspapers that hit the suit, the Eagle and Press printed their editorials after the Independent Theatre Owners Association of New York supplied them with the facts in the litigation.

Last weekend, meanwhile, the New York Journal-American, Sunday Mirror and Sunday News ran features emphasizing that quality Hollywood films are showing at Times Square area theatres. The features supported full-page advertisements to this effect which were placed by the Organization of the Motion Picture Industry of New York City.

Attending the meeting with Sherman were Max Roth and Charles Lindau, both of Chicago; N. P. Jacobs, San Francisco, representing the West Coast area; John Franconi, Dallas, representing the South and Southwest; Don Swartz, Milwaukee and Minneapolis; Jack Zide, Detroit; Bernie Mills, New York and Washington; Selma Mitchell, Cincinnati (sitting in on behalf of the Lee Goldberg Estate); Harry Allen, Toronto, and Sam Seidelman, formerly of United Artists and Eagle-Lion, who is negotiating to handle foreign distribution for the company.

Thirty Will Sponsor 'Italian Films Week'

All sections of the American film industry, as well as many phases of the cultural, business and governmental fields of this country, are represented among a list of 30 sponsors of "Salute to Italian Films Week," made public here by Winthrop W. Aldrich, honorary chairman of the Oct. 6-12 celebration.

During the week, seven new Italian films will be presented, one each evening, at the Little Carnegie Theatre. Participating in the many events planned will be a number of stars, producers, directors and government dignitaries from Italy, who will be joined here by Hollywood personalities.

Rogers Hospital

which Joseph R. Vogel is chairman.

It is hoped that at least 5,000 theatres will soon be participating in the project and that collections around $250,000 per year may result.

Several months ago, the hospital committee began an experiment without fanfare. About 100 theatres in various parts of the country were enlisted for the experiment. Small display cards were created with small collection-boxes attached. These were placed on candy-stands of the cooperating theatres. Over the three-month experimental period the theatre collections averaged $2.50 to $3.50 per week. There were no patron complaints. The committee will this week start expanding the plan on a national scale.

National Screen Service has volunteered to handle distribution of the collection can without charge. More than 1,000 theatres already are enrolled.

Judy Garland Will Make Film for WB

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 8.—Judy Garland will return to the screen after an absence of two years in "A Star Is Born," one of three Sid Luft productions in color for Warner Brothers, Jack L. Warner, executive producer, announces.

"A Star Is Born" is scheduled for production at Warners next spring. It will be the first picture she has ever made away from M-G-M where she was under contract until two years ago.

Elected to T.U.C., O'Brien Asks Raises

London, Sept. 8. — Tom O'Brien, who was elected president of the Trades Union Congress at Margate last week, returned to London and immediately asked the Cinematograph Exhibitors Association for wage increases for his union's 86,000 theatre employes here, which would cost exhibitors £132,000 ($369,600) annually. NATKE, O'Brien's union, also wants the work week reduced from 48 hours to 44 and double pay for Sundays.

CEA responded by pointing out that TUC is on record as counselling moderation in wage claims.

power," with the industry.

Today's three-hour introductory session at the Motion Picture Association of America will be followed by another meeting tomorrow afternoon, and it is expected that there will probably be daily meetings for the rest of the week. MPAA officials have already said that they expect the talks will last a week or even two. They have also pointed out that a final agreement may not come out of these sessions, and that a recess may be called at their finish, with a later resumption here or in London.

See 25-50% Cut

Although neither side would disclose terms and figures offered today by the British, it has been reported in the industry that the British will set a figure cutting the current allowed remittance of $17,000,000 a year by anywhere from 25 to 50 per cent.

Present for the British today were Sir Frank, permanent secretary of the British Board of Trade; Sidney Golt, head of the films division of the board; Victor George Baker, of the exchange control department of the Bank of England, Allan Christelow, member of the British Treasury delegation in Washington; and Geoffrey Parker, British Embassy commercial counselor.

Leaders Attend

MPAA president Eric Johnston and Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers president Ellis Arnall led the industry team, along with James Mulvey, SIMPP vice-president; Joyce O'Hara, MPAA vice-president; John McCarthy, MPAA international vice-president and Fayette Allport, MPAA British manager.

Judge Samuel Leibowitz, New York jurist, will be the principal speaker of the evening which will see entertainment industry leaders of all faiths join in the tribute to Goldenson.

Walcott Bout

get the bout "live" as it begins at about 10:00 P.M. (EDT).

In the meantime, Nathan Halpern, president of TNT, disclosed that theatres in San Francisco, Seattle, Denver and Kansas City have joined the Coast-to-Coast telecast which will emanate from Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium. Sherrill Corwin's Orpheum Theatre in Los Angeles has already booked the event.

Under the present plans, it was learned, a simultaneous film recording of the fight will be made by TNT at Municipal Stadium which will be received by telecase at the NBC-TV studio in New York, which, in turn, will be used as the origination point for the Western telecast. This method, TNT pointed out, will allow Western theatres to have the event on the large-screens within the hour of the event itself. It was also pointed out that if the fight goes many rounds the Western telecast will begin before the bout is ended.

With no radio or home television of the fight, TNT added, the Western theatres will have an exclusive on the event for the public in those areas. Other quarters pointed out, however, that the radio and TV "blackout" does not extend to Western radio news broadcasts which could flash the results of the fight before it reaches Western theatres' screens. With this unprecedented condition existing, the effect on the box-office of Western theatres taking the bout will be watched closely in trade quarters.

As to what system will be used to make the film recording, which later will be telecast, Halpern said engineers and technicians are currently studying the choices. He expressed assurance, however, that from past experience, from closed circuit tests with film conducted by TNT, the quality of the film and its reception will be excellent.

The planned first national distribution of a film, in this case a fight film, through the use of theatre TV came about when the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. informed TNT of its inability to service the event West of Omaha at fight time. The potential use of theatre TV as a medium of film distribution was highlighted by Spyros P. Skouras, president of 20th Century-Fox, in commenting recently on the unveiling of his company's Eidophor theatre TV system.

Robert Mochrie, distribution vice-president of RKO Pictures, which has purchased the film rights to the bout, said "no comment," when asked if he thought a question arose as to the propriety of telecasting the bout from a film. Other quarters pointed out, however, that TNT is not engaging in film distribution of the bout, the event remains a telecast on the same night for Western theatres.

Chicago Arrangements for Theatre TV of Bout Nearly Completed

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—Plans for the large-screen TV showing of the Walcott-Marciano fight Sept. 23 in the Chicago area are virtually complete, with Balaban and Katz having the event scheduled into the Tivoli, Uptown, and Marbro in Chicago, Totalling approximately 11,500 seats, and the Paramount, Hammond, Ind., a 2000-seater, and Essaness planning to show it at the 1200-seat Crown here in Chicago.

Admission at the three B. & K. Chicago houses will be $3.60 including tax. Prices have not been set, as yet, for the Paramount, and Essaness is charging $4.80 including tax for center seats at the Crown with the remainder going for $3.60, including tax. Previous top prices for TV events here were $3.60 at the Crown and $2.40 at the Balaban and Katz houses.

Plans Fight Telecast, Then Film Booking

The 50th Street Guild Theatre, which has already sold out for the Sept. 23 telecast of the Walcott-Marciano bout, plans to book the fight film for the following day, Norman Elson, president of the circuit, disclosed here yesterday.

Elson said negotiations with RKO Pictures for the fight film were currently underway. The 450-seat Guild Theatre is charging $4.80 for the fight telecast.

Monogram-AA Board Will Meet Today

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 8.—Out-of-town members of the Monogram and Allied Artists board of directors have arrived here to attend a meeting tomorrow at the studio. They include Arthur C. Bromberg, franchise owner, Atlanta; William Hurlbut, franchise owner, Detroit; Edward Morey, vice-president, New York; Herman Rifkin, vice-president and franchise owner, Boston, and Norton V. Ritchey, vice-president and Monogram International Corp. president, New York.

Others who will attend the session, to follow a stockholders meeting, are: Steve Broidy, president; G. Ralph Branton, vice-president; W. Ray Johnston, chairman; George D. Burrows, executive vice-president and treasurer, and Howard Stubbins, West Coast co-franchise owner.

Gertrude Lawrence Services Here Today

Services for Gertrude Lawrence, stage and screen actress, who died here Saturday of cancer at the age of 52, will be held today in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church. Burial will be in the family plot of the widower, Richard Aldrich, theatrical producer, in Upton, Mass.

Miss Lawrence had her stage debut as a child in 1911 and played her first role on the screen in 1929 in "The Battle of Paris." Pictures since include: "Aren't We All?" "Rembrandt," "Men Are Not Gods" and "The Glass Menagerie." A daughter from a previous marriage, Pamela Gordon, also survives.

Services Held for S. A. Myers of B-L

LONDON, Sept. 8.—Funeral services were held here today for Sidney A. Myers, assistant managing director of British Lion Film Corp., who died suddenly on Saturday, following a brief illness. Myers entered the industry here in 1918 and joined British Lion as head of its sales in 1929. He was named assistant managing director in 1946.

Burial was in Jewish Cemetery, Willesden, London.

Arbitration, COMPO Lauded By Harvey

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8.—Rotus Harvey in his Exhibitor's Digest column this month, takes a very optimistic view of the industry and points to the first draft of the arbitration plan as "very good news."

"Arbitration is necessary to settle the multitudinous problems which daily beset our industry," he says. "Through low cost, intelligently administered arbitration many disputes will be settled and as a consequence the number of lawsuits should be materially reduced. In the final analysis it is the exhibitors who have to pay all the bills assessed against the industry and therefore arbitration should mean a lot to all of us, both financially and as a quick means to settle arguments."

"The successful COMPO dues drive is another fine bit of news," he continued. "In the San Francisco area the independents 'came through well over 90 per cent.' I am told the circuits are also 'joining' which means success with a capital 'S'. COMPO, properly financed, can do a great job for the industry by public relations; Movietime tours plus being a fountain of information and providing a voice for a united industry.

"The tax repeal program is just starting to get under way and I want to again add my voice to the others and urge you to take a personal part in this campaign. This is a 'grass roots' fight and we must get the entire tax removed if we are to survive."

upon by the membership of the exhibitor organizations which participated in the Industry Arbitration Conference. Theatre Owners of America is in a position to be the first exhibitor organization to accept the draft since it will hold its annual meeting next week in Washington.

The draft was reviewed yesterday at a meeting here of distribution attorneys who, at the same time, set up the agenda for the meeting Thursday.

It was reported that the subject of arbitration will be discussed by Eric A. Johnston, MPAA president, at the final banquet of the TOA convention. The nature of his discussion will depend on the action taken on Thursday by the presidents of the companies, it was indicated. Also scheduled to discuss arbitration at TOA convention is William F. Rodgers, Loew's vice-president who is also chairman of the distributors' arbitration negotiating committee.

Errol Flynn Gets Help Taking Burma

LONDON, Sept. 8.—After seven years of cold storage, "Objective Burma" has been put back into the Warner Theatre here.

When the picture first opened in 1945, indignant Britons claimed that their Fourteenth Army and not Errol Flynn had defeated the Japs in Burma. The late Max Milder, then Warner's London manager, bowed before the storm and took the picture off after a few days run.

Now the film has been given a new prologue explaining that Mountbatten and Wingate, as well as Errol, had something to do with the Burma victory. Warners report it is doing top business and a general release through the ABC circuit is in negotiation.

Feels Associations Should Do Buying

San Francisco, Sept. 8.—H. V. (Rotus) Harvey, West Coast exhibitor leader, writing in the current organizational bulletin of Western Theatre Owners, suggests the formation of film buying and booking agencies by exhibitor associations, operated at cost as a service for small exhibitors in outlying locations.

Harvey says current conditions, with salesmen making fewer calls, New York approving deals and dates, mails being slowed and other factors, operate against the small, outlying theatre, whose account usually is too small for an established film buying and booking organization to handle.

Half of Exhibitors Apathetic: Kaufman

Half of the exhibitors in the country are apathetic in supporting the pictures they show, producer Joseph Kaufman declared here yesterday while on a visit from the Coast. He urged the exhibitors to "wake up and help combat competition" and at the same time increase their grosses.

Kaufman said he made his observations on the basis of what has happened during the first-run of his own picture, "Sudden Fear," starring Joan Crawford, and currently being released by RKO Radio. The film is now in its fifth week at Loew's State here.

"We've noticed," he said, "that everywhere this picture received real exhibitor support, the grosses were extremely high. Where it didn't, the grosses were average. Half the exhibitors are apathetic. They expect the distributor to do the whole job.

"Our business today," he continued, "depends on close support all the way down, from star and producer through the whole field to the theatre.

Net Depinet Will Aid Travelers Society

Ned Depinet, president of RKO pictures, has accepted the chairmanship of the motion picture division in the 1952 fund raising drive of the Travelers Aid Society of New York.

Depinet will encourage industry support for the work of Travelers Aid which last year furnished assistance to over 121,000 people lost, stranded, and desperate in New York.

'Caligari' Screening

There will be a special screening of the German films "The Last Laugh" and "The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari" this afternoon at the Johnny Victor Theatre here, followed by a reception. The films will open at The Baronet shortly.

Drive-in Boom Is Underway in The Northwest

See Hundreds Built in The Next Five Years

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 9. — The greatest construction boom of drive-in theatres in the history of the Northwest is now underway and is sweeping the Minneapolis exchange area, according to reports from Film Row sources.

Leading the parade of optimistic predictions are Irving Marks'. The Monogram branch manager said that the boom may continue for as long as five years. In spite of the comparatively short season in the area, Marks continued, hundreds of drive-ins will be built due to the public demand for this type of showplace.

Meanwhile, the list of new drive-in openings in this area, or those under construction continues to grow.

The Snyder Theatre Co. of Williston, N. D., is opening a new drive-in theatre in that city on Friday. The Ironwood Amusement Co., Ironwood, Mich., opened a drive-in in that city a few

Pacts Give Rackmil $122,500 Yearly

Milton R. Rackmil, whose employment contract as president of Universal Pictures, provides for a salary of $80,000 per year, has taken a 50 per cent salary cut as Decca Records president to give him $42,500 instead of $85,000 per year as chief executive of the latter company, Decca has disclosed in a report to the Securities & Exchange Commission.

Decca, shortly before Rackmil was elected Universal president, became

Fabian Houses Join TNT Line-up for Title Bout

Three television-equipped Fabian Theatres, including the 4,060-seat Fox in Brooklyn, N. Y., will carry the telecast of the Walcott-Marciano heavyweight title bout on Sept. 23, thus bringing the number of theatres which have already disclosed plans to join the trans-continental telecast to 15.

Nathan Halpern, president of Theatre Network Television, also disclosed yesterday that in addition to Fabian's Fox, the Grand in Albany, N. Y., and National in Richmond, the Paramount and the Telenews, in San Francisco, will also carry the bout.

Negotiations with Century Circuit, Loew's, Warner Brothers, RKO Theatres and others for the fight telecast are continuing, in the meantime.

It was also learned that Comerford's Capital Theatre, Binghamton, N. Y., a 1,609-seater, also plans to carry the event, which will be telecast from Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium. The only contingency for the Capitol Theatre, it was added, is the availability of long lines and local loops. Pricing policy for the Capitol still is to be determined.

Other theatres which have already

The 12-week initial course, which will be conducted Thursday evenings, will open in the screening room of the RKO Pictures home office on Sept. 25. Tuition will be $15 per course and classes will last two hours per evening.

Truman in Tribute To Para. Newsreel

Newsreels were called an "indispensable public service . . . by which the American public keeps informed about the problems of the day" in a letter of congratulations by President Truman, sent to the Paramount home office here yesterday on the 25th anniversary of Paramount News.

The event was marked by an informal home office luncheon honoring A. J. Richard, editor of Paramount News. Barney Balaban, president of Paramount Pictures Corp., paid tribute to the veteran newsreel editor whose motion picture experience goes back to 1907.

In addition to President Truman's congratulations, other letters of tribute were received from General Sory Smith, director of public information; Robert A. Lovett, Secretary of Defense; Charles Sawyer, Secretary of Commerce; J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI; John W. Snyder, Sec-

FCC Says Para. in Control of DuMont

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—The Federal Communications Commission's broadcast bureau told the FCC today that Paramount Pictures has negative control of Allen B. Du Mont Laboratories, Inc., and at the same time both Du Mont and Paramount denied the existence of control.

The two companies and the broadcast bureau made these statements in proposed findings filed today with the Commission and dealing with the question of Paramount's control of Du Mont. This is one of the issues in the United Paramount Theatres—

To Rule Today On Censorship In Ohio Case

Future Industry Plans Hinge on the Decision

TOLEDO, Sept. 9.—Judge Frank W. Wiley said today that he will render his decision in Municipal Court tomorrow morning in the industry newsreel censorship case.

It is expected that the industry's campaign to eliminate motion picture censorship in the other states that have censor boards will pick up speed if the attack on the Ohio newsreel censorship law results in a decision by Judge Wiley that is favorable to the industry.

If, however, Judge Wiley rules unfavorably from an industry standpoint, the defendant, local exhibitor Martin G. Smith, and the Motion Picture Association of America and the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio are expected to appeal, with the ultimate aim of getting the case before the U.S. Supreme Court. The MPAA and the Ohio ITO co-operated with Smith's attorney's in preparing the "test" case

Indian Film Delegation to Arrive Mon. for US Tour

At the joint invitation of the U. S. State Department and Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, 14 top-ranking Indian motion picture industry personalities will arrive here Monday for a four-week, eight-city tour of the country, including a visit to Hollywood.

The invitation was extended as part of a program to bolster U.S.-Indian relations and to reciprocate India's reception of American film industry representatives at the International Film Festival held in New Delhi last March.

Seven of the 14 goodwill visitors are leading actors and actresses of the Indian screen, with producers, directors and a cinematographer among the others.

Highlights of their initial four days in New York, starting Sept. 16, include an official welcome by the mayor; a luncheon reception at the U.N. Secretariat, and a reception, hosted by Johnston, at the Waldorf-Astoria, with luminaries of the Broadway stage and Hollywood in attendance.

The visitors also will attend a performance of "The King and I," and on the following evening will be guests of 20th Century-Fox and the Rivoli theatre at the world premiere of "The Snows of Kilimanjaro."

Their activities in New York will be rounded out by a trip to Poughkeepsie, a visit to West Point, and a reception and tea by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt at Hyde Park.

In Washington, Sept. 19-22, the group will meet with President Truman. They will be guests of honor at a reception given by the State Department at Blair House, and another to be given by the Indian Embassy. Johnston will again be host at a dinner which will be followed by a screening in MPAA's Academia theatre of India's first feature picture in color.

Five Completed for Franco-London

Five new features have been completed abroad for Franco-London Films, it was revealed here by their American spokesman, Arthur Davis. Three were produced in France, one in Italy and one is a French-Italian bilingual co-production.

The three French pictures are: "The Minute of Truth," starring Jean Gabin, Michele Morgan and Daniel Gelin, directed by Jean Dellanoy; "The House of Silence," directed by G. W. Pabst and featuring Jean Marais, Frank Villard, and Aldo Fabrizi, and "Night Beauties," directed by Rene Clair, starring Gerard Philipe, Martine Carole and Gina Lollobrigida.

The Italian picture is Vittorio De Sica's "Hello, Elephant!" starring De Sica with Sabu and Maria Mercedar.

The French-Italian production, co-directed by Roberto Rossellini, Claude Autant-Lara and Yves Allegret, is "The Seven Capital Sins," starring Michele Morgan, Gerard Philipe, Viviane Romance and Frank Villard.

"Hello, Elephant!" and "The Seven Capital Sins" will be released in the United States before the end of 1952.

Maintain Secrecy at British Pact Talks

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—British and industry negotiators meeting here for the second day to work out a new monetary agreement pulled down a curtain of secrecy and refused to divulge anything in the way of facts and figures.

Only fact coming out of the morning and afternoon sessions held here today at the Motion Picture Association of America was that the teams would meet again tomorrow. British spokesmen, led by Sir Frank Lee, permanent secretary of the British Board of Trade, have previously indicated their feeling that disclosure of the terms they are asking might diminish their bargaining power.

Industry representatives, led by MPAA president Eric Johnston and Ellis Arnall, president of the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers, are respecting the wishes of the British and have said nothing.

July - August Stock Trading Was Light

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Stock trading by industry officers and directors was very light from mid-July to mid-August, according to a report issued today by the Securities and Exchange commission covering that period.

At Monogram W. Ray Johnson reported his holdings at 4,217 shares of common, after 1,900 shares had been returned on offer of rescission. Harry M. Warner disposed of 100 shares of Warner Brothers common, leaving his personal holdings at 245,300 shares and 16,000 in a trust. At United Paramount Theatres Walter P. Marshall bought 25 shares of common, bringing his holdings up to 125. Loew's acquired 197 shares of Loew's Boston Theatres common, leaving them with 129,934 shares at the close of the period.

Mullin Circuit to Reopen Five Theatres

BOSTON, Sept. 9.—Martin J. Mullin, president of New England Theatres, disclosed today that five out of the circuit's six closed houses will be in full-time operation by Sept. 21.

Two of the houses have already opened. They are the Olympia in Lynn, Mass., and the Merrimack Square in Lowell, Mass., with the Field's Corner Theatre in Dorchester, the Harvard in North Cambridge and the Strand in Somerville to open about Sept. 21. The Broadway Theatre in Chelsea will remain closed but may reopen later this year, said Mullin.

Says Prices Will Rise If U.S. Wins Suit

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 9.—"Free movies" via home television if the government's 16mm. suit is successful actually would not be free, said Norman Nadel, theatre editor of the Citizen.

The viewer he said, would pay for such films by increases in the price of "toothpaste, laxatives clothing, food, deodorants, soft drinks, breakfast food and beer." Quality of films would be cut if the U.S. wins, Nadel added. "If television is not strong enough to continue to supply entertainment without using a legal weapon to usurp movie production, that lack of strength will show up sooner or later, at which time nothing will be able to save it," he declared.

Nadel said that the "ideal situation" of good movies in theatres and good video at home is most apt to be achieved if the two media are allowed "full freedom of enterprise in their own fields."

Herb Golden Joins Bankers Trust Co.

Royal Performance May Get 'Andersen'

London, Sept. 9.—Bettng here favors Samuel Goldwyn's "Hans Christian Andersen" as the likely choice for the Royal Film Performance at M-G-M's Empire Theatre, Oct. 27. Many feel it has a slight edge over Britain's favored entry, "Pickwick Papers," from George Minter's Renown Pictures.

Film viewings by the selection panel will start Thursday.

Services Held for Charles W. Bunn, 61

Funcral services were held Monday for Charles W. Bunn, 61, veteran motion picture and theatre equipment executive, who died suddenly last Saturday at his home at Highland Falls, N. Y.

Bunn entered the industry in 1915 as a member of the sales staff of World Film Corp. Later he was affiliated with First National's special field force, headed Warner Brothers' road show department and, with the introduction of sound, became sales head of Vitaphone Corp. At the time of his retirement several years ago, he was general sales manager of Electrical Research Products, distributing and servicing sound equipment subsidiary of Western Electric.

Record $37,000 for 'Somebody' in Chi.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9. — Paramount's "Somebody Loves Me" is said to have smashed all box-office records in the first three days of its world premiere engagement, which began last Friday at the Chicago Theatre here with a $37,000 gross.

Playing to standing room only audiences, the Technicolor musical, starring Betty Hutton and Ralph Meeker, reportedly nearly doubled the opening day's business of the previous record holder, Hal Wallis' "Sailor Beware," grossing $13,500.

$1,225,000 Goal for Coast Charity Group

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 9.—The Permanent Charities Committee has announced a goal for the 1953 campaign of $1,225,000. Campaign chairman Dore Schary said, "While slightly in excess of the amount actually subscribed in last year's campaign, $1,225,000 is entirely a realistic goal which we believe we can reach."

Rosen Visits Coast

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 9. — Samuel Rosen, executive of Fabian Theatres, New York, is here to view pictures in production, and visited the Warner lot for conference with studio executives and meeting Warner stars on the sets.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 9.—Services will be held tomorrow at Steens Mortuary, North Hollywood, for Arthur J. Zellner, 59, veteran scenarist and publicist, who died yesterday night following a long illness. The widow and two daughters survive.

Review

"The Golden Hawk"

(Columbia)

SAM KATZMAN'S PRODUCTION of Frank Yerby's best-selling novel, "The Golden Hawk," is a lively pirate saga replete with sterling heroics, formidable sailing vessels, obstreperous battles and lovely women. Completing its array of merchandisable assets are color by Technicolor and a cast carrying such marquee names as Sterling Hayden, Rhonda Fleming and John Sutton.

Hayden, in the role of a French privateer, is a fine figure of a sea captain who captures a bevy of beautiful ladies who themselves turn out to be masters of ships. All of these become smitten with Hayden except Miss Fleming, a notorious lady pirate in disguise. The Frenchman, however, falls very much in love with her. Another of his prisoners, played by Helena Carter, loses her heart to Hayden, but he finds out before long that she is the fiancee of Sutton, sinister Spanish governor of Cartagena. This triangle is resolved in the denoument when Hayden slips into the fortress of Cartagena and, after being caught and exposed by Miss Fleming, finally is saved by her. The climax is marked by the bombardment of the city and its capture.

Also in the cast are Paul Cavanagh, Michael Ansara, Raymond Hatton, Alex Montoya and David Bond. Sidney Salkow directed with emphasis on quick pace. Robert E. Kent wrote the screenplay.

Running time, 83 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, not set.

MGM Executives at Miss Zucker Lunch

More than 85 friends and associates at the MGM home office turned out yesterday at Trader Horn's for a luncheon given to Gladys Zucker, secretary to Ben Melniker of the legal department, who on Sept. 14 will become Mrs. Abe Palen. Among those who attended were J. Robert Rubin, Ben Fielding, Melniker, Irving Greenfield, Archie Weltman, Stanley Thompson, Earle Beatty, Morris Sher, George Sharf, Jay Eisenberg, Sid Bromberg, Dolph Schadler, Mark Avramo, Tom Robinson, Bill Ornstein, Gilbert Wallterstein. The bride-to-be was presented with silver.

Close Rivoli to Prepare for 'Snows'

The Rivoli Theatre here will be closed to the public all day Sept. 17 to prepare for that evening's invitational premiere of Ernest Hemingway's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro," it was announced by Montague Salmon, the Rivoli's executive director.

Refurbishing of the lobby, and readying of installations for radio, TV and newsreel coverage of the opening of the 20th Century-Fox production make the closing necessary.

Chaplin to Observe His 40th Anniversary

Charles Chaplin's "Limelight," his first film in five years, will be described as his "40th Anniversary Film," it was announced by Francis M. Winikus, national director of advertising-publicity for United Artists, which will release the picture before the end of the year.

"Limelight" marks four decades since Chaplin appeared in his first motion picture, "Making a Living," a Keystone Comedy.

Set Dates for 'Beloved'

"Cry, the Beloved Country" will move into a series of first-run, popular-price engagements in Chicago, Seattle, New Orleans and Washington, during the next 10 days, it was announced by William J. Heineman, sales vice-president of United Artists, which is distributing the Lopert film.

News Writers to Quebec on 'Junket'

Two more flights have been set by Warner Brothers according to the company's schedule of taking key city newspaper, syndicate and national magazine representatives to Quebec City to cover the location shooting of "I Confess," Alfred Hitchcock production.

In Quebec today is a group of national and fan magazine writers, including Larry Elliot, Coronet; Ed Miller, Seventeen; Tony Gray, Photoplay, and Bess Little, Goodman Publications. Eve Siegel, Warner home office magazine contact, accompanied them. Flying up tomorrow will be syndicate writers L. L. Stevenson, Bell; Mel Heimer, King Features; Ed Stein, INP; Phyllis Battelle, INS; Harold Blumenfeld, Acme and Kay Sullivan, of Parade. Warner's Felix Greenfield will accompany them.

Carreras Sets Six Anglo-U.S. Features

LONDON, Sept. 9.—James Carreras, head of Exclusive Films, has completed deals to produce six Anglo-American cooperative features here in the next 12 months. Four will be made jointly with Sol Lesser; two with Robert Lippert.

First on the schedule is "The Flanagan Boy," starring Barbara Payton, with Reginald Le Borg directing.

Another from Rogers For Warner Bros.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 9.—As the result of negotiations completed between Jack L. Warner, executive producer, and Mitchell Hamilburg, representative of the Will Rogers family, Will Rogers, Jr., who had planned to make only one motion picture, has been signed to star for Warner Brothers in "The Boy from Oklahoma."

George Joins Culhane

George L. George, director of the Academy Award-winning Signal Corps featurette, "Toward Independence," has been appointed producer-director for Shamus Culhane Productions, Inc., it was announced by Culhane.

National Pre-Selling

DONAHUE & COE, advertising agents to the film industry, who serve major producing companies and Broadway theatres, were responsible for the splurge of full-page ads which hit all of the Metropolitan newspapers here on Sunday. We explored around to discover who instigated this fine institutional gesture at the beginning of a "Greater Movie Season," and found that the Motion Picture Association of America gave credit to Ed Churchill's staff, who prepared the ad copy and then solicited the necessary support for it. It was about the best piece of pre-selling of the year, and we know that the motion picture industry in New York, as well as across the country, will benefit from it. This was distinctly a New York presentation, but the idea can be followed elsewhere, for it is a good example for any city or town with a representative number of supporting theatres.

DuFine-Kaufman, Inc., advertising public relations experts in New York, are similarly charged with offering something new and different in their "Goodstix" transparent plastic posters, in miniature size and full color. M-G-M was among the first to use this ingenious point-of-sale device for motion pictures, and now, with the formation of a new company, Goodren Products Corp., at 136 West 21st Street, New York, it is to be expected that other film companies will follow. You merely press the adhesive strip against glass, where it stays until you want to peel it off.

"The Snows of Kilimanjaro" is the feature article in the new Look, dated Sept. 23, and it covers seven inside pages in both color and black-and-white, in addition to star portraits of Ava Gardner and Susan Hayward on the front cover. Exhibitors will do well to acquire enough copies of this issue to prepare and display a special lobby frame on the picture, made up from the magazine's pages, and including the color splash and editorial comment. The magazine says, "Some of the words are Hemingway's; the film takes two hours to see, and because the action is better than the words, it is a good one." Also, in the next Sunday issue of Pictorial Review a color photograph of Miss Hayward will be run in conjunction with an interview with her.

"Soundscriber," the dictating machine that is used in United Artists' "Sudden Fear," is purchasing large ads in 150 newspapers across the country, tying in with openings of the film. The company is also making available to theatres the use of a machine for the lobby to record patron's voices, and the discs, which play on any 33⅓ r.p.m. phonograph, will be given to patrons free. Further promotion is provided through the mailing of discs for recording to secretaries, schools and potential customers, who are asked to bring the recording to the theatre in exchange for guest tickets, with "Soundscriber" paying the admission for all discs turned in. Special kits have been sent to dealers and agents as a tieup with local playdates.

WALTER BROOKS

Commonwealth Fall Meet Opens in K.C.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 9.—The two-day fall meeting of Commonwealth Theatres began here this morning at the Muehlebach Hotel with R. M. Shelton, general manager, presiding for the preliminary proceedings. H. E. Jameyson, president, gave the keynote talk stressing showmanship.

Elmer C. Rhoden, president of Fox-Midwest, was the guest speaker at the luncheon reviewing the history of Commonwealth from small beginnings to its present importance.

The division managers and their staffs presented new product, each group talking on productions of a company. Winners of various contests were announced, and presentations were made at the banquet in the evening. The "King of the Sun" award in the traditional contest of summer months, for covered theatre managers, went to Ray Watkins, Superior, Neb. The runner-up was Harold McCracken, Belleville, Kan. The "King of the Moon" award, for drive-in theatre managers, went to Dick Wommack, Harrison, who won it last year also. Runner-up in the drive-in competition was Dale Stewart, Springfield, Mo.

Guest speaker at the banquet was Sterling Silliphant, the toastmaster Bob Walter. Service pins were presented by Jameyson, one for 20 years and one for 15 years with the circuit.

Silliphant will also speak tomorrow at the morning session, and division meetings will be held.

Report Business Up In Minneapolis

Minneapolis, Sept. 9.—Good pictures are smashing box-office records in the Minneapolis exchange area, according to Myron Adcock, Warner branch manager.

Adcock cited the many Minneapolis Loop hold-overs of first-run pictures as proof of the box-office upward trend here. Cities where box-office grosses are reported exceptionally good are Duluth, Minn., and Bismark, N. D.

Rackmil Pacts

the principal holder of Universal stock.

Rackmil's contracts with Universal and Decca are both for a period of seven years from last July 15. The Decca pact stipulates that he shall give at least one-third of his business time to performing his duties for that company, and the Universal contract also requires that he shall devote "not more than one-third of his business time" to Decca.

The Decca contract takes cognizance "of the fact that Rackmil has undertaken to serve as president and director of Universal Pictures, in which Decca had made a substantial investment."

Rackmil's Decca salary is to be paid in the form of $817.31 per week, while his Universal salary comes to $1,538.50 per week. Each company has granted him a one-month vacation per year.

The Decca agreement, stating that Rackmil "may serve as an officer or consultant to Universal and its subsidiaries or affiliates under his agreement with Universal dated July 15, 1952," allows that "he may continue to hold any directorship, trusteeship or executorship which he now has, but he shall not, without first obtaining the consent of the board of directors of Decca, assume any new obligations in any such capacity except such directorships in Universal, its subsidiaries and affiliates as shall be appropriate to his continuing relation with that company."

Rule Today on Censorship

here. Smith had exposed himself to arrest and fine for showing in one of his theatres a newsreel that had not been submitted to the Ohio censor board. The exhibitor did this to co-operate with the MPAA in the industry campaign to have the state law declared unconstitutional in light of the "Pinky" and "Miracle" decisions of the U. S. Supreme Court.

A certain amount of caution in pursuing "test" cases in other states is likely to be exercised by the industry, it is understood, in view of the Supreme Court's expressed disinclination to see so-called "test" actions against censorship coming to the fore with increasing frequency. Hence, industry strategy in fighting the state censorship statutes may be altered somewhat to enable future actions to be accepted as uncontrived, it was said. Ideas for such strategy are as yet undeveloped.

But, industry observers point out, the high court ruled against censorship in the "Pinky" and "Miracle" cases, and if the states refuse to be guided by the Supreme Court decisions, the industry may have to impress upon the justices the unqualified need for "test" cases. The decision by Judge Wiley may serve to arm the industry with a good argument in this connection should it not hold the state's censorship laws to be unconstitutional, as the industry contends.

Close Pimlico Theatre

BALTIMORE, Sept. 9, Lauritz Garman has closed his 1,100-seat Pimlico Theatre here. It is located near the Pimlico racetrack. Garman is disposing of all equipment and the building will be given over for commercial development.

Another typical example of how so many subscriptions keep coming to Motion Picture Daily . . .

Dear Mr. Quigley:

My father, J. F. Woodward, formerly with the Delft Theatre Circuit of Milwaukee, has recently formed the Lake-Wood Circuit servicing Wisconsin and Michigan. Previously he served as district manager of Eagle-Lion in St. Louis and branch manager of 20th Century-Fox in Milwaukee.

Enclosed is my check to cover a year's subscription to MOTION PICTURE DAILY which he and I consider the finest of the trade publications. His opinion is based on over twenty years in the business which started with the old Pathe company in Chicago. My somewhat different viewpoint is slanted from three years of New York TV. We both agree that it pays to read MPD.

Please send his copies to:

Para. Control

American Broadcasting Co. merger hearing recently terminated before the FCC. Proposed findings on the other issues in the hearing are due in ten days.

Has 'Negative' Control

In its findings the broadcast bureau declared that neither Paramount nor Du Mont have affirmative control, but that Paramount, "through the power to veto or block action on the many basic decisions of the company, has negative control of Du Mont."

The Bureau said that the facts brought out at the hearing "clearly delineate a division of powers and duties betwewen Paramount and Dr. Du Mont and his associates on the various levels of stockholders, board, executive and management action." This division, the bureau went on to say, "effectively prevents either group from gaining ascendency over the other in arriving at the basic decisions of the company."

The Paramount findings maintained that the company could not exercise any power of control over DuMont "unless it takes unusual affirmative action such as engaging in a proxy fight, purchasing more Class A stock, etc." The brief pointed out that Paramount could do those things with the same results even if it only had 100 shares of stock. Paramount would have no power to control Du Mont the brief went on, unless it "took such affirmative action." There is no evidence, the findings concluded, that Paramount "ever desired or attempted to obtain such control."

100-Page Statement

In a 100 page statement Du Mont told the FCC that Paramount has utterly failed to influence the policy of Du Mont with respect to the declaration of dividends, major expenditures, stock issues and operating policies." Dr. Du Mont, the class A majority of the Du Mont board of directors, and the Class A management "have eliminated Paramount as an influence on operating policies, the findings continued. In addition, the Du-Mont statement said, "the opportunity cannot arise for Paramount to exercise its veto power."

Paramount now holds all the outstanding shares of Class B stock in Du Mont as well as 2.8 per cent of the outstanding A stock. There are five Class A directors on the Du Mont board and three Class B Paramount directors.

The question of Paramount's control of Du Mont has been up before the Commission twice before and in each case the FCC found that Paramount did control Du Mont in the light of the Commission's ruling that no company or group may own more than five television stations. Most recent FCC statement on the subject was a proposed decision issued in 1948 but which has never been finalized by the Commission.

Next step on the way to a final Commission decision on this and other merger issues will be the hearing examiner's decision, which should come anywhere from two or six weeks after attorneys have filed proposed findings on the remaining merger issues.

Television--Radio

with Pinky Herman

GIL FATES, first to ever have been CBSigned to a three-way contract, actor-writer-producer, whose own career would make an entertaining story, will become executive director for Goodson-Todman Productions starting next Monday. . . . Mel Allen, Tommy Harmon, Bill Henry and Russ Hodges have been named to NBCover via TV, 11 NCAA football games starting Sept. 20, with General Motors picking up the tab. . . . Sam Jaffe Agency is plenty interested in Hamilton Benz, the scripter whose recent original story, "Gilia," was a "De LUXe Video Theatre" thrill. . . . After carving himself an altitudinous niche in his first season on TV, Red Skelton, who will start his second year Sunday, Sept. 28, returns likewise to radio, his NBClownings to be heard Tuesdays, 8:30-9:00 P.M., beginning next Tuesday. Red comes by his talents naturally, his father having been a circus clown for years. . . . Fred Allen will be off the air for awhile yet recuperating from an illness but one of his famous characters, will be heard in a daily 5-minute series titled, "Titus Moody Speaks." Program will be presented by Bob Monroe over WOR-Mutual and will bow in Sept. 30 (7:55-8:00 P.M.)

Veep Bill Dozier of CBS has three additional half hour dramatic packages all ready for TV should certain time slots become available. . . . We like the breezy style and hep sportcasting Jack Lescoulie delivers every morning on Dave Garroway's daily TVideo, "Today." . . . Producer Jack Hurdle is seeking a vocalist for the "Jackie Gleason Show" which will be telecast CBSatudays starting Sept. 20. . . . Tin Pan Alley's octogenarian songwriter Al Bryan, who appeared last Friday on the "We, the People" program is ever ready with a quip, anecdote or ad-lib. One day while having a cupacawffee at the Paddock on Broadway, Irving Berlin asked Al, "How are things?" "Oh," answered Bryan, "About the same." "What do you mean, about the same?" asked the Triple AAAscap composer. "Well," drawled Bryan, "You can still get MY songs published and I still could NOT get YOUR songs published." . . . Bob Houston, former NBChirper, just back from a successful engagement at the Hotel Roosevelt in N'Orlins, set for a TV buildup by his new manager Paul Kapp.

Paula Stone writes from the Coast that she is preparing two new musicals for Broadway. . . . "Mr. & Mrs. North," will debut on TV Friday, Oct. 3, and will be CBSeen 10:00-10:30 P.M. Series will be sponsored by Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Co., which will continue the radio series. Films, starring Barbara Britton and Richard Denning, as Pam and Jerry, are now being shot at the Sam Goldwyn studios in Hollywood. . . . That constant WABDuel between the sales and production departments should be called a draw and all concerned would benefit thereby. . . . Radio stations should avail themselves of the opportunity of presenting a timely and interesting series of public service programs, "Errand of Mercy," produced in Hollywood by Louis Graf for the American Red Cross, with Rod O'Connor, announcer. . . . Rex Marshall, who is announcer of Autolite's "CBSuspense" show for the fourth year, will also announce the "Herman Hickman Show" when it NBCommences. . . . Dennis (Voice of Old Gold Ciggies) James will cut up with Herb Shriner when the new "Two For The Money" simulcast takes place Tuesday Sept. 30 at 10:00 P.M. via NBC. Sponsor of the Goodson-Todman package is P. Lorillard Co.

LOTSA DOTS . . Film scouts should take a gander at the new baritone that record exec Dave Miller has brought in from Philly. Name's Dick Lee and he sings and looks like a million dollars. . . . George Harris, national sales manager for Dunhill cigarets, is in a bit of a dither these days. Seems that Mack Sennett has been getting bids to re-issue his Keystone Kops series for TV and George was one of Ford Sterling's Kops. . . . United Artists TV package, "Sports Parade," which opened two months ago in 22 cities, is now TViewed in 35 cities. . . . Don Sanford, former scripter of "Martin Kane, Private Eye," has been signed to write the "Man Against Crime," stories.

Atkin Managing House

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 9.—Gerry Atkin, Warner Theatres advertising and publicity director in the Eastern New York district, is now also managing the Ritz, Albany zone manager Charles Smakwitz announced. It is Atkins' first such assignment. It was also disclosed that Oscar J. Perrin, who managed the downtown "B" first run for four years has returned to his former post at the Uptown Madison. John Brousseau, who had been doubling from the Delaware, continues at that neighborhood house.

Set Du Mont Annual Meeting for Oct. 20

A special meeting of common stockholders of Allen B. Du Mont Laboratories will be held Oct. 20 in the company's offices at Clifton, N. J., to elect eight directors, the president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer and assistant treasurer of the corporation.

Paramount Pictures, which owns all of the Class B common stock of Du Mont, is entitled to elect three members of the board, the secretary, treasurer and assistant treasurer. Class A stockholders elect the others. The corporation's nominees for Class A stockholders' votes consist of five of the present board members, Allen B. Du Mont, Bruce T. Du Mont, Thomas T. Goldsmith, Jr., Stanley F. Patten and Percy M. Stewart, with Allen B. Du Mont for president, and Patten for vice-president.

The company's proxy statement notes that the identity of the directors and officers to be elected by Paramount are unknown to it. Listed compensation paid to officers last year are: Allen Du Mont, $50,500; Leonard Cramer, former vice-president, $52,961; Goldsmith, director of research, $25,400.

The special meeting of stockholders is being held in lieu of the annual meeting which was not held last May 5.

Balks at Ontario

ruled by Stuart W. Griffiths, CBC supervisor of programs here.

Ernest L. Bushnell, director-general of programs for both TV and radio, added: "We bought some pictures in the States and they've been censored by some board down there but not by the Ontario Board."

Bushnell asserted that the CBC would do its own policing.

O. J. Silverthorne, chairman of the Ontario censors, objected to the attitude of the Federal agency, declaring: "This board was set up to make sure our children and young people would get proper entertainment."

Ignored Distributors

It also developed that the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. had ignored the film distributors in Canada in buying at least three features in the U.S. for its television programs. These are "Jamaica Inn," "Red Stallion" and "Sky Dragon," the Canadian rights for which are held by film exchanges here.

The CBC has not bought a feature from any Canadian distributor, it is claimed.

Business Will Grow Despite TV: Berger

MINNEAPOLIS, April 9.—The motion picture theatre business will enjoy its greatest period of prosperity as soon as the novelty of television wears off, Benjamin Berger, president of North Central Allied, predicted at a district meeting in Fargo, N. D.

Berger told the well-attended meeting of exhibitors at Fargo that TV is going to hurt motion picture business until people get used to the novelty. But remember, Berger added, every home has a kitchen and still restaurants do a big business.

Drive-in Boom Is Underway in The Northwest

See Hundreds Built in The Next Five Years

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 9. — The greatest construction boom of drive-in theatres in the history of the Northwest is now underway and is sweeping the Minneapolis exchange area, according to reports from Film Row sources.

Leading the parade of optimistic predictions are Irving Marks'. The Monogram branch manager said that the boom may continue for as long as five years. In spite of the comparatively short season in the area, Marks continued, hundreds of drive-ins will be built due to the public demand for this type of showplace.

Meanwhile, the list of new drive-in openings in this area, or those under construction continues to grow.

The Snyder Theatre Co. of Williston, N. D., is opening a new drive-in theatre in that city on Friday. The Ironwood Amusement Co., Ironwood, Mich., opened a drive-in in that city a few

Pacts Give Rackmil $122,500 Yearly

Milton R. Rackmil, whose employment contract as president of Universal Pictures, provides for a salary of $80,000 per year, has taken a 50 per cent salary cut as Decca Records president to give him $42,500 instead of $85,000 per year as chief executive of the latter company, Decca has disclosed in a report to the Securities & Exchange Commission.

Decca, shortly before Rackmil was elected Universal president, became

Fabian Houses Join TNT Line-up for Title Bout

Three television-equipped Fabian Theatres, including the 4,060-seat Fox in Brooklyn, N. Y., will carry the telecast of the Walcott-Marciano heavyweight title bout on Sept. 23, thus bringing the number of theatres which have already disclosed plans to join the trans-continental telecast to 15.

Nathan Halpern, president of Theatre Network Television, also disclosed yesterday that in addition to Fabian's Fox, the Grand in Albany, N. Y., and National in Richmond, the Paramount and the Telenews, in San Francisco, will also carry the bout.

Negotiations with Century Circuit, Loew's, Warner Brothers, RKO Theatres and others for the fight telecast are continuing, in the meantime.

It was also learned that Comerford's Capital Theatre, Binghamton, N. Y., a 1,609-seater, also plans to carry the event, which will be telecast from Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium. The only contingency for the Capitol Theatre, it was added, is the availability of long lines and local loops. Pricing policy for the Capitol still is to be determined.

Other theatres which have already

The 12-week initial course, which will be conducted Thursday evenings, will open in the screening room of the RKO Pictures home office on Sept. 25. Tuition will be $15 per course and classes will last two hours per evening.

Truman in Tribute To Para. Newsreel

Newsreels were called an "indispensable public service . . . by which the American public keeps informed about the problems of the day" in a letter of congratulations by President Truman, sent to the Paramount home office here yesterday on the 25th anniversary of Paramount News.

The event was marked by an informal home office luncheon honoring A. J. Richard, editor of Paramount News. Barney Balaban, president of Paramount Pictures Corp., paid tribute to the veteran newsreel editor whose motion picture experience goes back to 1907.

In addition to President Truman's congratulations, other letters of tribute were received from General Sory Smith, director of public information; Robert A. Lovett, Secretary of Defense; Charles Sawyer, Secretary of Commerce; J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI; John W. Snyder, Sec-

FCC Says Para. in Control of DuMont

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—The Federal Communications Commission's broadcast bureau told the FCC today that Paramount Pictures has negative control of Allen B. Du Mont Laboratories, Inc., and at the same time both Du Mont and Paramount denied the existence of control.

The two companies and the broadcast bureau made these statements in proposed findings filed today with the Commission and dealing with the question of Paramount's control of Du Mont. This is one of the issues in the United Paramount Theatres—

To Rule Today On Censorship In Ohio Case

Future Industry Plans Hinge on the Decision

TOLEDO, Sept. 9.—Judge Frank W. Wiley said today that he will render his decision in Municipal Court tomorrow morning in the industry newsreel censorship case.

It is expected that the industry's campaign to eliminate motion picture censorship in the other states that have censor boards will pick up speed if the attack on the Ohio newsreel censorship law results in a decision by Judge Wiley that is favorable to the industry.

If, however, Judge Wiley rules unfavorably from an industry standpoint, the defendant, local exhibitor Martin G. Smith, and the Motion Picture Association of America and the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio are expected to appeal, with the ultimate aim of getting the case before the U.S. Supreme Court. The MPAA and the Ohio ITO co-operated with Smith's attorney's in preparing the "test" case

At the joint invitation of the U. S. State Department and Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, 14 top-ranking Indian motion picture industry personalities will arrive here Monday for a four-week, eight-city tour of the country, including a visit to Hollywood.

The invitation was extended as part of a program to bolster U.S.-Indian relations and to reciprocate India's reception of American film industry representatives at the International Film Festival held in New Delhi last March.

Seven of the 14 goodwill visitors are leading actors and actresses of the Indian screen, with producers, directors and a cinematographer among the others.

Highlights of their initial four days in New York, starting Sept. 16, include an official welcome by the mayor; a luncheon reception at the U.N. Secretariat, and a reception, hosted by Johnston, at the Waldorf-Astoria, with luminaries of the Broadway stage and Hollywood in attendance.

The visitors also will attend a performance of "The King and I," and on the following evening will be guests of 20th Century-Fox and the Rivoli theatre at the world premiere of "The Snows of Kilimanjaro."

Their activities in New York will be rounded out by a trip to Poughkeepsie, a visit to West Point, and a reception and tea by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt at Hyde Park.

In Washington, Sept. 19-22, the group will meet with President Truman. They will be guests of honor at a reception given by the State Department at Blair House, and another to be given by the Indian Embassy. Johnston will again be host at a dinner which will be followed by a screening in MPAA's Academia theatre of India's first feature picture in color.

Five Completed for Franco-London

Five new features have been completed abroad for Franco-London Films, it was revealed here by their American spokesman, Arthur Davis. Three were produced in France, one in Italy and one is a French-Italian bilingual co-production.

The three French pictures are: "The Minute of Truth," starring Jean Gabin, Michele Morgan and Daniel Gelin, directed by Jean Dellanoy; "The House of Silence," directed by G. W. Pabst and featuring Jean Marais, Frank Villard, and Aldo Fabrizi, and "Night Beauties," directed by Rene Clair, starring Gerard Philipe, Martine Carole and Gina Lollobrigida.

The Italian picture is Vittorio De Sica's "Hello, Elephant!" starring De Sica with Sabu and Maria Mercedar.

The French-Italian production, co-directed by Roberto Rossellini, Claude Autant-Lara and Yves Allegret, is "The Seven Capital Sins," starring Michele Morgan, Gerard Philipe, Viviane Romance and Frank Villard.

"Hello, Elephant!" and "The Seven Capital Sins" will be released in the United States before the end of 1952.

Maintain Secrecy at British Pact Talks

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—British and industry negotiators meeting here for the second day to work out a new monetary agreement pulled down a curtain of secrecy and refused to divulge anything in the way of facts and figures.

Only fact coming out of the morning and afternoon sessions held here today at the Motion Picture Association of America was that the teams would meet again tomorrow. British spokesmen, led by Sir Frank Lee, permanent secretary of the British Board of Trade, have previously indicated their feeling that disclosure of the terms they are asking might diminish their bargaining power.

Industry representatives, led by MPAA president Eric Johnston and Ellis Arnall, president of the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers, are respecting the wishes of the British and have said nothing.

July - August Stock Trading Was Light

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Stock trading by industry officers and directors was very light from mid-July to mid-August, according to a report issued today by the Securities and Exchange commission covering that period.

At Monogram W. Ray Johnson reported his holdings at 4,217 shares of common, after 1,900 shares had been returned on offer of rescission. Harry M. Warner disposed of 100 shares of Warner Brothers common, leaving his personal holdings at 245,300 shares and 16,000 in a trust. At United Paramount Theatres Walter P. Marshall bought 25 shares of common, bringing his holdings up to 125. Loew's acquired 197 shares of Loew's Boston Theatres common, leaving them with 129,934 shares at the close of the period.

Mullin Circuit to Reopen Five Theatres

BOSTON, Sept. 9.—Martin J. Mullin, president of New England Theatres, disclosed today that five out of the circuit's six closed houses will be in full-time operation by Sept. 21.

Two of the houses have already opened. They are the Olympia in Lynn, Mass., and the Merrimack Square in Lowell, Mass., with the Field's Corner Theatre in Dorchester, the Harvard in North Cambridge and the Strand in Somerville to open about Sept. 21. The Broadway Theatre in Chelsea will remain closed but may reopen later this year, said Mullin.

Says Prices Will Rise If U.S. Wins Suit

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 9.—"Free movies" via home television if the government's 16mm. suit is successful actually would not be free, said Norman Nadel, theatre editor of the Citizen.

The viewer he said, would pay for such films by increases in the price of "toothpaste, laxatives clothing, food, deodorants, soft drinks, breakfast food and beer." Quality of films would be cut if the U.S. wins, Nadel added. "If television is not strong enough to continue to supply entertainment without using a legal weapon to usurp movie production, that lack of strength will show up sooner or later, at which time nothing will be able to save it," he declared.

Nadel said that the "ideal situation" of good movies in theatres and good video at home is most apt to be achieved if the two media are allowed "full freedom of enterprise in their own fields."

Herb Golden Joins Bankers Trust Co.

Herb Golden will terminate 14 years as a film reporter for Variety this week to join the 51st Street branch of Bankers Trust Co. here, where he will serve in a new entertainment industries division headed by Harry Watkins, vice-president. The new department will specialize in financing of films, television, radio and related fields.

Royal Performance May Get 'Andersen'

London, Sept. 9.—Bettng here favors Samuel Goldwyn's "Hans Christian Andersen" as the likely choice for the Royal Film Performance at M-G-M's Empire Theatre, Oct. 27. Many feel it has a slight edge over Britain's favored entry, "Pickwick Papers," from George Minter's Renown Pictures.

Film viewings by the selection panel will start Thursday.

Services Held for Charles W. Bunn, 61

Funeral services were held Monday for Charles W. Bunn, 61, veteran motion picture and theatre equipment executive, who died suddenly last Saturday at his home at Highland Falls, N. Y.

Bunn entered the industry in 1915 as a member of the sales staff of World Film Corp. Later he was affiliated with First National's special field force, headed Warner Brothers' road show department and, with the introduction of sound, became sales head of Vitaphone Corp. At the time of his retirement several years ago, he was general sales manager of Electrical Research Products, distributing and servicing sound equipment subsidiary of Western Electric.

Record $37,000 for 'Somebody' in Chi.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9. — Paramount's "Somebody Loves Me" is said to have smashed all box-office records in the first three days of its world premiere engagement, which began last Friday at the Chicago Theatre here with a $37,000 gross.

Playing to standing room only audiences, the Technicolor musical, starring Betty Hutton and Ralph Meeker, reportedly nearly doubled the opening day's business of the previous record holder, Hal Wallis' "Sailor Beware," grossing $13,500.

$1,225,000 Goal for Coast Charity Group

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 9.—The Permanent Charities Committee has announced a goal for the 1953 campaign of $1,225,000. Campaign chairman Dore Schary said, "While slightly in excess of the amount actually subscribed in last year's campaign, $1,225,000 is entirely a realistic goal which we believe we can reach."

Rosen Visits Coast

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 9. — Samuel Rosen, executive of Fabian Theatres, New York, is here to view pictures in production, and visited the Warner lot for conference with studio executives and meeting Warner stars on the sets.

Services for Zellner

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 9.—Services will be held tomorrow at Steens Mortuary, North Hollywood, for Arthur J. Zellner, 59, veteran scenarist and publicist, who died yesterday night following a long illness. The widow and two daughters survive.

Review

"The Golden Hawk"

(Columbia)

SAM KATZMAN'S PRODUCTION of Frank Yerby's best-selling novel, "The Golden Hawk," is a lively pirate saga replete with sterling heroics, formidable sailing vessels, obstreperous battles and lovely women. Completing its array of merchandisable assets are color by Technicolor and a cast carrying such marquee names as Sterling Hayden, Rhonda Fleming and John Sutton.

Hayden, in the role of a French privateer, is a fine figure of a sea captain who captures a bevy of beautiful ladies who themselves turn out to be masters of ships. All of these become smitten with Hayden except Miss Fleming, a notorious lady pirate in disguise. The Frenchman, however, falls very much in love with her. Another of his prisoners, played by Helena Carter, loses her heart to Hayden, but he finds out before long that she is the fiancee of Sutton, sinister Spanish governor of Cartagena. This triangle is resolved in the denoument when Hayden slips into the fortress of Cartagena and, after being caught and exposed by Miss Fleming, finally is saved by her. The climax is marked by the bombardment of the city and its capture.

Also in the cast are Paul Cavanagh, Michael Ansara, Raymond Hatton, Alex Montoya and David Bond. Sidney Salkow directed with emphasis on quick pace. Robert E. Kent wrote the screenplay.

Running time, 83 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, not set.

MGM Executives at Miss Zucker Lunch

More than 85 friends and associates at the MGM home office turned out yesterday at Trader Horn's for a luncheon given to Gladys Zucker, secretary to Ben Melniker of the legal department, who on Sept. 14 will become Mrs. Abe Palen. Among those who attended were J. Robert Rubin, Ben Fielding, Melniker, Irving Greenfield, Archie Weltman, Stanley Thompson, Earle Beatty, Morris Sher, George Sharf, Jay Eisenberg, Sid Bromberg, Dolph Schadler, Mark Avramo, Tom Robinson, Bill Ornstein, Gilbert Wallterstein. The bride-to-be was presented with silver.

Close Rivoli to Prepare for 'Snows'

The Rivoli Theatre here will be closed to the public all day Sept. 17 to prepare for that evening's invitational premiere of Ernest Hemingway's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro," it was announced by Montague Salmon, the Rivoli's executive director.

Refurbishing of the lobby, and readying of installations for radio, TV and newsreel coverage of the opening of the 20th Century-Fox production make the closing necessary.

Chaplin to Observe His 40th Anniversary

Charles Chaplin's "Limelight," his first film in five years, will be described as his "40th Anniversary Film," it was announced by Francis M. Winikus, national director of advertising-publicity for United Artists, which will release the picture before the end of the year.

"Limelight" marks four decades since Chaplin appeared in his first motion picture, "Making a Living," a Keystone Comedy.

Set Dates for 'Beloved'

"Cry, the Beloved Country" will move into a series of first-run, popular-price engagements in Chicago, Seattle, New Orleans and Washington, during the next 10 days, it was announced by William J. Heineman, sales vice-president of United Artists, which is distributing the Lopert film.

News Writers to Quebec on 'Junket'

Two more flights have been set by Warner Brothers according to the company's schedule of taking key city newspaper, syndicate and national magazine representatives to Quebec City to cover the location shooting of "I Confess," Alfred Hitchcock production.

In Quebec today is a group of national and fan magazine writers, including Larry Elliot, Coronet; Ed Miller, Seventeen; Tony Gray, Photoplay, and Bess Little, Goodman Publications. Eve Siegel, Warner home office magazine contact, accompanied them. Flying up tomorrow will be syndicate writers L. L. Stevenson, Bell; Mel Heimer, King Features; Ed Stein, INP; Phyllis Battelle, INS; Harold Blumenfeld, Acme and Kay Sullivan, of Parade. Warner's Felix Greenfield will accompany them.

Carreras Sets Six Anglo-U.S. Features

LONDON, Sept. 9.—James Carreras, head of Exclusive Films, has completed deals to produce six Anglo-American cooperative features here in the next 12 months. Four will be made jointly with Sol Lesser; two with Robert Lippert.

First on the schedule is "The Flanagan Boy," starring Barbara Payton, with Reginald Le Borg directing.

Another from Rogers For Warner Bros.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 9.—As the result of negotiations completed between Jack L. Warner, executive producer, and Mitchell Hamilburg, representative of the Will Rogers family, Will Rogers, Jr., who had planned to make only one motion picture, has been signed to star for Warner Brothers in "The Boy from Oklahoma."

George Joins Culhane

George L. George, director of the Academy Award-winning Signal Corps featurette, "Toward Independence," has been appointed producer-director for Shamus Culhane Productions, Inc., it was announced by Culhane.

National Pre-Selling

DONAHUE & COE, advertising agents to the film industry, who serve major producing companies and Broadway theatres, were responsible for the splurge of full-page ads which hit all of the Metropolitan newspapers here on Sunday. We explored around to discover who instigated this fine institutional gesture at the beginning of a "Greater Movie Season," and found that the Motion Picture Association of America gave credit to Ed Churchill's staff, who prepared the ad copy and then solicited the necessary support for it. It was about the best piece of pre-selling of the year, and we know that the motion picture industry in New York, as well as across the country, will benefit from it. This was distinctly a New York presentation, but the idea can be followed elsewhere, for it is a good example for any city or town with a representative number of supporting theatres.

DuFine-Kaufman, Inc., advertising public relations experts in New York, are similarly charged with offering something new and different in their "Goodstix" transparent plastic posters, in miniature size and full color. M-G-M was among the first to use this ingenious point-of-sale device for motion pictures, and now, with the formation of a new company, Goodren Products Corp., at 136 West 21st Street, New York, it is to be expected that other film companies will follow. You merely press the adhesive strip against glass, where it stays until you want to peel it off.

"The Snows of Kilimanjaro" is the feature article in the new Look, dated Sept. 23, and it covers seven inside pages in both color and black-and-white, in addition to star portraits of Ava Gardner and Susan Hayward on the front cover. Exhibitors will do well to acquire enough copies of this issue to prepare and display a special lobby frame on the picture, made up from the magazine's pages, and including the color splash and editorial comment. The magazine says, "Some of the words are Hemingway's; the film takes two hours to see, and because the action is better than the words, it is a good one." Also, in the next Sunday issue of Pictorial Review a color photograph of Miss Hayward will be run in conjunction with an interview with her.

"Soundscriber," the dictating machine that is used in United Artists' "Sudden Fear," is purchasing large ads in 150 newspapers across the country, tying in with openings of the film. The company is also making available to theatres the use of a machine for the lobby to record patrons' voices, and the discs, which play on any 33⅓ r.p.m. phonograph, will be given to patrons free. Further promotion is provided through the mailing of discs for recording to secretaries, schools and potential customers, who are asked to bring the recording to the theatre in exchange for guest tickets, with "Soundscriber" paying the admission for all discs turned in. Special kits have been sent to dealers and agents as a tieup with local playdates.

Commonwealth Fall Meet Opens in K.C.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 9.—The two-day fall meeting of Commonwealth Theatres began here this morning at the Muehlebach Hotel with R. M. Shelton, general manager, presiding for the preliminary proceedings. H. E. Jameyson, president, gave the keynote talk stressing showmanship.

Elmer C. Rhoden, president of Fox-Midwest, was the guest speaker at the luncheon reviewing the history of Commonwealth from small beginnings to its present importance.

The division managers and their staffs presented new product, each group talking on productions of a company. Winners of various contests were announced, and presentations were made at the banquet in the evening. The "King of the Sun" award in the traditional contest of summer months, for covered theatre managers, went to Ray Watkins, Superior, Neb. The runner-up was Harold McCracken, Belleville, Kan. The "King of the Moon" award, for drive-in theatre managers, went to Dick Wommack, Harrison, who won it last year also. Runner-up in the drive-in competition was Dale Stewart, Springfield, Mo.

Guest speaker at the banquet was Sterling Silliphant, the toastmaster Bob Walter. Service pins were presented by Jameyson, one for 20 years and one for 15 years with the circuit.

Silliphant will also speak tomorrow at the morning session, and division meetings will be held.

Report Business Up In Minneapolis

Minneapolis, Sept. 9.—Good pictures are smashing box-office records in the Minneapolis exchange area, according to Myron Adcock, Warner branch manager.

Adcock cited the many Minneapolis Loop hold-overs of first-run pictures as proof of the box-office upward trend here. Cities where box-office grosses are reported exceptionally good are Duluth, Minn., and Bismark, N. D.

Rackmil Pacts

the principal holder of Universal stock.

Rackmil's contracts with Universal and Decca are both for a period of seven years from last July 15. The Decca pact stipulates that he shall give at least one-third of his business time to performing his duties for that company, and the Universal contract also requires that he shall devote "not more than one-third of his business time" to Decca.

The Decca contract takes cognizance "of the fact that Rackmil has undertaken to serve as president and director of Universal Pictures, in which Decca had made a substantial investment."

Rackmil's Decca salary is to be paid in the form of $817.31 per week, while his Universal salary comes to $1,538.50 per week. Each company has granted him a one-month vacation per year.

The Decca agreement, stating that Rackmil "may serve as an officer or consultant to Universal and its subsidiaries or affiliates under his agreement with Universal dated July 15, 1952," allows that "he may continue to hold any directorship, trusteeship or executorship which he now has, but he shall not, without first obtaining the consent of the board of directors of Decca, assume any new obligations in any such capacity except such directorships in Universal, its subsidiaries and affiliates as shall be appropriate to his continuing relation with that company."

He will be in Denver tomorrow, Salt Lake City Thursday, Seattle on Friday, Los Angeles over the weekend, San Francisco on Monday, Los Angeles again next Tuesday, Dallas on Wednesday, and New Orleans on Thursday, Sept. 18.

Rule Today on Censorship

here. Smith had exposed himself to arrest and fine for showing in one of his theatres a newsreel that had not been submitted to the Ohio censor board. The exhibitor did this to co-operate with the MPAA in the industry campaign to have the state law declared unconstitutional in light of the "Pinky" and "Miracle" decisions of the U. S. Supreme Court.

A certain amount of caution in pursuing "test" cases in other states is likely to be exercised by the industry, it is understood, in view of the Supreme Court's expressed disinclination to see so-called "test" actions against censorship coming to the fore with increasing frequency. Hence, industry strategy in fighting the state censorship statutes may be altered somewhat to enable future actions to be accepted as uncontrived, it was said. Ideas for such strategy are as yet undeveloped.

But, industry observers point out, the high court ruled against censorship in the "Pinky" and "Miracle" cases, and if the states refuse to be guided by the Supreme Court decisions, the industry may have to impress upon the justices the unqualified need for "test" cases. The decision by Judge Wiley may serve to arm the industry with a good argument in this connection should it not hold the state's censorship laws to be unconstitutional, as the industry contends.

Close Pimlico Theatre

BALTIMORE, Sept. 9, Lauritz Garman has closed his 1,100-seat Pimlico Theatre here. It is located near the Pimlico racetrack. Garman is disposing of all equipment and the building will be given over for commercial development.

Another typical example of how so many subscriptions keep coming to Motion Picture Daily . . .

Dear Mr. Quigley:

My father, J. F. Woodward, formerly with the Delft Theatre Circuit of Milwaukee, has recently formed the Lake-Wood Circuit servicing Wisconsin and Michigan. Previously he served as district manager of Eagle-Lion in St. Louis and branch manager of 20th Century-Fox in Milwaukee.

Enclosed is my check to cover a year's subscription to MOTION PICTURE DAILY which he and I consider the finest of the trade publications. His opinion is based on over twenty years in the business which started with the old Pathe company in Chicago. My somewhat different viewpiont is slanted from three years of New York TV. We both agree that it pays to read MPD.

Para. Control

American Broadcasting Co. merger hearing recently terminated before the FCC. Proposed findings on the other issues in the hearing are due in ten days.

Has 'Negative' Control

In its findings the broadcast bureau declared that neither Paramount nor Du Mont have affirmative control, but that Paramount, "through the power to veto or block action on the many basic decisions of the company, has negative control of Du Mont."

The Bureau said that the facts brought out at the hearing "clearly delineate a division of powers and duties betwewen Paramount and Dr. Du Mont and his associates on the various levels of stockholders, board, executive and management action." This division, the bureau went on to say, "effectively prevents either group from gaining ascendency over the other in arriving at the basic decisions of the company."

The Paramount findings maintained that the company could not exercise any power of control over DuMont "unless it takes unusual affirmative action such as engaging in a proxy fight, purchasing more Class A stock, etc." The brief pointed out that Paramount could do those things with the same results even if it only had 100 shares of stock. Paramount would have no power to control Du Mont the brief went on, unless it "took such affirmative action." There is no evidence, the findings concluded, that Paramount "ever desired or attempted to obtain such control."

100-Page Statement

In a 100 page statement Du Mont told the FCC that Paramount has utterly failed to influence the policy of Du Mont with respect to the declaration of dividends, major expenditures, stock issues and operating policies." Dr. Du Mont, the class A majority of the Du Mont board of directors, and the Class A management have eliminated Paramount as an influence on operating policies, the findings continued. In addition, the Du-Mont statement said, "the opportunity cannot arise for Paramount to exercise its veto power."

Paramount now holds all the outstanding shares of Class B stock in Du Mont as well as 2.8 per cent of the outstanding A stock. There are five Class A directors on the Du Mont board and three Class B Paramount directors.

The question of Paramount's control of Du Mont has been up before the Commission twice before and in each case the FCC found that Paramount did control Du Mont in the light of the Commission's ruling that no company or group may own more than five television stations. Most recent FCC statement on the subject was a proposed decision issued in 1948 but which has never been finalized by the Commission.

Next step on the way to a final Commission decision on this and other merger issues will be the hearing examiner's decision, which should come anywhere from two or six weeks after attorneys have filed proposed findings on the remaining merger issues.

Atkin Managing House

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 9.—Gerry Atkin, Warner Theatres advertising and publicity director in the Eastern New York district, is now also managing the Ritz, Albany zone manager Charles Smakwitz announced. It is Atkins' first such assignment. It was also disclosed that Oscar J. Perrin, who managed the downtown "B" first run for four years has returned to his former post at the Uptown Madison. John Brousseau, who had been doubling from the Delaware, continues at that neighborhood house.

Set Du Mont Annual Meeting for Oct. 20

A special meeting of common stockholders of Allen B. Du Mont Laboratories will be held Oct. 20 in the company's offices at Clifton, N. J., to elect eight directors, the president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer and assistant treasurer of the corporation.

Paramount Pictures, which owns all of the Class B common stock of Du Mont, is entitled to elect three members of the board, the secretary, treasurer and assistant treasurer. Class A stockholders elect the others. The corporation's nominees for Class A stockholders' votes consist of five of the present board members, Allen B. Du Mont, Bruce T. Du Mont, Thomas T. Goldsmith, Jr., Stanley F. Patten and Percy M. Stewart, with Allen B. Du Mont for president, and Patten for vice-president.

The company's proxy statement notes that the identity of the directors and officers to be elected by Paramount are unknown to it. Listed compensation paid to officers last year are: Allen Du Mont, $50,500; Leonard Cramer, former vice-president, $52,961; Goldsmith, director of research, $25,400.

The special meeting of stockholders is being held in lieu of the annual meeting which was not held last May 5.

ruled by Stuart W. Griffiths, CBC supervisor of programs here.

Ernest L. Bushnell, director-general of programs for both TV and radio, added: "We bought some pictures in the States and they've been censored by some board down there but not by the Ontario Board."

Bushnell asserted that the CBC would do its own policing.

O. J. Silverthorne, chairman of the Ontario censors, objected to the attitude of the Federal agency, declaring: "This board was set up to make sure our children and young people would get proper entertainment."

Ignored Distributors

It also developed that the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. had ignored the film distributors in Canada in buying at least three features in the U.S. for its television programs. These are "Jamaica Inn," "Red Stallion" and "Sky Dragon," the Canadian rights for which are held by film exchanges here.

The CBC has not bought a feature from any Canadian distributor, it is claimed.

Business Will Grow Despite TV: Berger

MINNEAPOLIS, April 9.—The motion picture theatre business will enjoy its greatest period of prosperity as soon as the novelty of television wears off, Benjamin Berger, president of North Central Allied, predicted at a district meeting in Fargo, N. D.

Berger told the well-attended meeting of exhibitors at Fargo that TV is going to hurt motion picture business until people get used to the novelty. But remember, Berger added, every home has a kitchen and still restaurants do a big business.

Tentative Deal On a New U. K. Pact Reached

Terms Not Revealed; Needs Formal Approval

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—A tentative agreement on new monetary terms was reached here today by British and industry negotiators.

Announcement was made by the Motion Picture Association of America at the close of three days of negotiations conducted by representatives of the British government, the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers and MPAA.

Both British and industry spokesmen agreed not to make public any details of the agreement. MPAA declared in its statement that details probably would not be disclosed until after the British government and the two industry organizations had considered the terms of the agreement. That they involve a modification of the present agreement, however, was admitted.

The British have insisted during the negotiations that they did not

When "Somebody Loves Me" opens at the Roxy Theatre here after the current attraction, "Monkey Business," it will be the first time that a Paramount picture has played that showcase in 20 years.

Distribution Heads Will Attend the TOA Convention

Among the more than 500 from exhibition and distribution who have indicated they will attend the Theatre Owners of America convention in Washington next week are several top sales executives, including Alfred W. Schwalberg, Paramount; Charles Reagan, Loew's; Al Lichtman, William Gehring and Arthur Silverstone, 20th Century-Fox; Abe Montague, Columbia; James R. Grainger, Republic, and George Dembow, National Screen.

As previously announced by TOA, William F. Rodgers, Loew's vice-president and chairman of the distributors' arbitration negotiating committee, will address the convention on arbitration.

Others definitely scheduled to attend are Ned E. Depinet, RKO Ra-

U. S.-France Rift Aids Italian Films

The cessation of American film exports to France, a direct result of the collapse of negotiations for a new Franco-American film agreement, has caused concern in distribution circles here over what was described as the likelihood that France will depend increasingly on Italian film imports to fill the American product gap.

If U. S. films are kept out of France for an extended time, American distributors could find upon resumption of shipments that competition there

Arbitration Meet Off Until Monday

The meeting to act on the industry arbitration system draft which MPAA member companies' presidents, sales managers and attorneys had scheduled for today at the Hotel Astor here, yesterday was postponed to Monday at the same location. After voting on the draft Monday morning, the meeting probably will devote the afternoon to a discussion of the Anglo-American film agreement reached yesterday in Washington. The postponement was caused by MPAA president Eric Johnston's having to remain in the Capital for UK pact clean-up talks.

Reels Censorship Ruled Unconstitutional In Toledo; State to Appeal

By GENE FISKE

TOLEDO, Sept. 10.—Newsreel censorship as practiced 17 years under the Ohio law violates both the Federal and State constitutions, Municipal Judge Frank W. Wiley ruled here today. "News reels are entitled to the same protection from 'prior restraint' as newspapers and other publications have historically been entitled to receive," Judge Wiley stated.

Prior restraint in the case of Ohio regulations, the Judge said, consists first of the requirement to submit films for censorship prior to their showing and, secondly, of the requirement covering inspection fees.

The judge said the Ohio law violated both the constitution of Ohio, and the First and 14th Amendments of the United States Constitution,

DecisionMomentous Advance: Johnston

Eric A. Johnston, Motion Picture Asociation of America president, yesterday hailed the Toledo court decision in the newsreel censorship case. Said Johnston:

"The Ohio court's decision carries out the clear dictates of the U. S. Supreme Court and is another momentous step toward the liberation of American motion pictures from the yoke of censorship.

"The ruling that the censorship of

Collier's Editorial Calls U. S. 16mm. Suit 'Foolish'

The government's suit to compel the sale of 16mm. films to television and other non-theatrical users is described as "foolish," "cockeyed sophistry" and establishing, if successful, a "disquieting" precedent, in a full-page editorial in the Sept. 20th issue of Collier's magazine, on newsstands today.

The editorial is headed: "Really Happy Marriages Don't Start This Way," and is illustrated with a cartoon in color depicting the shot-gun wedding of a blissful TV lass to a discomfited "Hollywood Investment," with the Justice Department holding the gun while a night-shirted Uncle Sam performs the ceremony.

The editorial terms the regulation of distribution and exhibition of 16 mm. prints of feature films, "common business sense." "And it doesn't seem

Cites Growth of Industry Amid Competition Increase

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 10.—The "amazing ability" of the American public to absorb new forms of recreation as shown by the growth of the motion picture industry in the midst of a parallel increase in other forms of entertainment was underscored here today by Howard E. Jameyson, president of Commonwealth Theatres.

In his address marking the end of the fall meeting of Commonwealth Theatres, Jameyson also called upon managers to exercise their talents in the exploitation and advertising of films on the local level. He urged the managers to devise advertising in simple language for their towns, helping their public to know what the pictures offered are about and to appreciate what is worth seeing in them. Sterling Silliphant, Eastern publicity manager for 20th Century-Fox, talked on exploitation programs for various pictures, particularly outstanding ones. The division, city and house managers in their presentation of leading new pictures gave explicit ideas on copy for local advertising on promotion at the theatres. Dick Orear, purchasing agent, lead a forum on concession management. He and Fred Muhmel, who has charge of concessions, stressed promotion.

New England Trust Suit Is Settled

BOSTON, Sept. 10. — Settled here today, with prejudice, was the multi-million-dollar anti-trust suit filed by Jean Campopiano of the Lawrence Capitol Co. of Lawrence, Mass., against Warner Brothers, Paramount, Loew's, RKO Radio, Universal, Columbia, United Artists, and the Warner Brothers Circuit Management Corp.

It was dismissed pursuant to an agreement with the defendants.

Ohio Candidates Favor Tax Relief

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 10.—Senator John W. Bricker of Ohio and Michael V. Di Salle, his Democratic opponent in the November elections, are in favor of tax relief for theatres, according to replies from them received by Robert Wile, secretary of the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio. Wile has queried all Ohio Senatorial and Congressional candidates on their attitudes about repeal of the 20 per cent Federal admission tax.

"You are just as right as you can be," said Bricker. "I shall do everything in my power to help this cause along." Di Salle said that "as a general rule I am in favor of minimizing the tax rate wherever possible and as soon as possible." Di Salle, former Mayor of Toledo, pointed out that Toledo is the only major Ohio city which does not also have a municipal admission tax.

Favorable replies were received from six additional Congressional candidates and incumbents. The score now stands: 19 for repeal and three non-committal. Among those indicating support of tax relief are Walter B. Huber, Akron; Carleton C. Reiser, Celina; George C. Steinemann, Sandusky; Cliff Clevenger, Fifth District; Gordon H. Scherer, Cincinnati, and James G. Polk, Sixth District. Polk said he favored elimination of taxes on admissions of 50 cents and less.

IMPPA Costs Cut By AFM Contract

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 10. — Producer members of the Independent Motion Picture Producers Association are spared a considerable portion of the present expense of preparing old pictures for sale to television under the terms of the new contract offered by the American Federation of Musicians following protracted negotiations with IMPPA's I. E. Chadwick.

AFM required formerly that old films be completely rescored with original musicians receiving full salaries and with a new sound track actually affixed to the film. The new deal requires that each musician be paid one half of his salary for one scoring session only with no actual work being performed. The standard stipulation that the producer pay into the AFM fund five per cent of the gross revenue obtained from the sale of the film to television remains unchanged.

TV Tops 86 Papers At SMPTE Meet

Television will again head the list of 86 papers to be presented by the Society of Motion Picture and Television Engineers at the 72nd semi-annual convention at the Statler Hotel in Washington, Oct. 6-10, it was disclosed by Peter Mole, SMPTE president.

During the 16 sessions, papers will be read on television, color photography, technical advances in production, sound recording and other subjects.

A minimum of 14 awards for special contributions to the motion picture and TV industries will be presented.

likely to us," the editorial observes, "that a deep, dark formal conspiracy would be necessary to persuade these individual members of the industry that it would be inviting commercial suicide to sell their product indiscriminately to their TV competitors at a small fraction of the product's original cost."

"In any event, we believe that the decision of whether to reissue, sell to TV or keep the film in the can is one which should be left up to the company which spent its money to produce the picture in the first place." The editorial continues, in part:

"If the government can compel the movie makers to turn over their 16-millimeter films to television, why can't it also force them to sell their 35-millimeter pictures to the same medium, in case the movie companies refuse to make any more 16-millimeter duplicates? And if the government can exercise that compulsion, why can't it also order television networks sometime in the future to show some special event, like a World Series or a championship fight or a political convention, only in theatres to paid admissions?

"The film industry is one of the country's largest simply because its product has won popular favor all over the world. Thousands of people depend upon it for their livelihood—not only the stars and executives with six-figure incomes, but the man who runs the neighborhood movie house and hires a half-dozen people to work for him. The Justice Department can threaten all those livelihoods if it succeeds through its present action in throwing open Hollywood's doors and inviting a competitor to help himself.

"All this leads us back to something which we have said before, and which we intend to keep on saying when the occasion warrants until something is done: the antitrust laws should be interpreted in the light of public benefit and not of economic theory; and Congress should re-examine and if necessary rewrite those laws in the interest of the just regulation and orderly growth of American industry, rather than in the interest of punishment and restriction."

Clear Belgium Pact For Senate Action

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The way has been cleared for the Senate to act on an agreement with Belgium which would exempt motion picture film rentals from double taxation, the State Department announced here today.

The department said that a convention with Belgium had been signed earlier this month which modifies and supplements the convention of Oct., 1948, for the avoidance of double taxation. Senate action on the 1948 agreement has been held up pending the conclusion of the supplementary convention.

Belgium Lightens Some Import Rules

OTTAWA, Sept. 10.—Certain products may now be imported into Belgium from countries in the dollar area under a quota system by virtue of a ruling of the joint Belgo-Luxembourg Administrative Commission, with certain types of films being included under the new quota system, according to a report from Brussels to the Foreign Trade Service of the Canadian government.

The import into Belgium of the items affected has been restricted since Sept., 1951 but it is understood that the monthly quotas to Dec. 31, 1952 will amount to 33 per cent of the average monthly imports during the first six months of 1951.

With the Century Circuit joining the network, the number of announced theatres in the TNT line-up now stands at 19.

U. S.-France Rift

from Italian films had mounted to a disadvantageous degree, it was pointed out.

In recent years the popularity of Italian films in France has been second only to that of Hollywood product, U. S. film export officials have reminded.

It was estimated that only a very small number of dubbed American films are in France awaiting release. These are the residue of 121 that went in under France's previous import stipulation. No single major American producer was estimated to have more than three set for release there at this time, while one or more companies were said to have only one dubbed unreleased picture in French vaults. Some may have none at all.

Under the circumstances, it was expected that French theatres would feel an American product "pinch" within a few months. If at that time a new Franco-American pact is not in sight, French exhibitors might demand that the door be opened to an increased flow of Italian films, observers here believe.

When the Franco-American negotiations broke down last week, with the rejection by the Motion Picture Export Association of an unfavorable French remittance offer, Eric A. Johnston, Motion Picture Association of America president, was given blanket authority to deal with the French. It was indicated he would go to Paris for this purpose, but not necessarily in the immediate future. Actually, the expectation was that he first would visit Rio de Janeiro and then Rome to seek to straighten out American distribution difficulties in Brazil and Italy, before venturing to Paris.

wish to give out any information on facts and figures, since they felt that publicity would cut down their bargaining power. MPAA and SIMPP representatives have respected the wishes of the British in this regard.

One British spokesman did say today, however, that he felt "negotiators on both sides are happy with this tentative agreement." MPAA spokesmen declined all comment, declaring that they "would let the British speak" for them.

Sir Frank Lee, permanent secretary of the British Board of Trade, who led the talks for the British, is expected to return to London over the week-end to present the agreement to his government. MPAA president Eric Johnston, SIMPP president Ellis Arnall and SIMPP vice-president James Mulvey are expected to submit the proposals to their organizations at meetings in New York next week.

Came As Surprise

The fact that a tentative agreement was reached after only three days of meeting came as a surprise to many observers, who were expecting the talks would be drawn out over a week or even two.

There was no indication, however, as to whether the shortness of the negotiations meant that the tentative terms reached were good or bad for the industry. Reports coming from London in advance of the British team indicated that the British would probably ask for a substantial cut in the $17,000,000 in annual remittances from Great Britain permitted to the industry by the current monetary agreement, exclusive of Eady Plan and bonus provisions accounting for another $8,000,000.

It was felt that the British would ask to cut the figure by anywhere from $2,000,000 to $8,000,000 and that they would ask, in addition, that the industry increase the amount of its motion picture production in Great Britain. Negotiations may have held the cut to a maximum of $5,000,000 or less, it is believed.

The British exercised their right under the existing two-year agreement to re-open negotiations at the end of a year, due to the fact that the country's dollar shortage is more acute now than it was when the monetary agreement was signed. If the new terms are approved, they will become effective Oct. 1, for one year.

Taking part in the negotiations along with Sir Frank, Johnston, Arnall and Mulvey were Joyce O'Hara, MPAA vice-president; John McCarthy, MPAA international vice-president; Fayette Allport, MPAA British chief; Sidney Golt, assistant secretary of the British Board of Trade in charge of the films division; Alan Christelow of the British Treasury delegation in Washington; and Geoffrey Parker, British Embassy commercial counselor.

WB Renews Grayson

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 10. — Kathryn Grayson's association with Warner Brothers will continue through several more pictures as a result of a contract negotiated with her by Jack L. Warner, executive producer. Miss Grayson has been signed for at least four more pictures of which "The Grace Moore Story" will be first. After that she will star in "Saratoga," "Trilby" and "Mademoiselle Modiste."

Grand Loses Bid For Extended Runs

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—The Winston Theatre case, in which RKO Theatres was asking that the Grand Theatre here be exempted from provisions of the Jackson Park decree (limiting "affiliated" theatres two weeks on first run pictures, unless specific exemption was made on a particular picture by the court), was decided against RKO their petition for exemption being denied by Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe.

The 20th Century-Fox and Warner Brothers petitions for extended first runs on "Snows of Kilimanjaro" and "Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima," respectively, will be heard by Judge Igoe tomorrow.

On another legal front, the hearing on attorney Thomas C. McConnell's plea for additional fees covering the period from the time of the original decision to the date of the ruling on the defendant's appeal in the Milwaukee Towne case has been put over to Oct. 13.

20th Sets Plan to Promote Art Films

A special eight-page manual detailing advertising and exploitation plans for 20th Century-Fox's seven Art Films' color in Technicolor short subjects are now being circulated to theatres throughout the country.

A complete theatre campaign, pretested in Allentown, Pa., highlights the exploitation section, which also features tie-ups with schools, clubs, civic leaders and others. The manual also carries illustrations of the ad mats and accessories available from National Screen Service.

Holbrook Bissell Dies in Albany

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 10.—Holbrook Bissell, associated with the industry for more than a quarter of a century as salesman, branch manager and screen advertising executive, died in St. Peters Hospital here after a short illness. He served in this city with Columbia and Warner Brothers, having been manager for the former in 1945-46. Bissell also sold film in Buffalo, Philadelphia and Cleveland.

Ohio Censor Suit

guaranteeing freedom of speech and freedom of the press.

"To subject a news reel to our present censorship is of itself a greater evil than the possibility of evil against which the statute was designed to protect," the jurist stated.

Dr. Clyde Hissong, director of the Ohio State Department of Education, division of film censorship, said in Columbus that it was the state's plan to appeal the decision after consultation with the Attorney General.

Judge Wiley accepted the arguments of defense counsel attacking "vagueness of the criteria on which the administrative officials are to act (in their job of censoring), particularly as applied to newsreels." The Ohio law, he pointed out, provides approval for "only such films as are in the judgment and discretion of the Department of Education of a moral, educational or amusing and harmless character."

Finds Judgment Relative

"What may appear harmless to one person may appear harmful to another, depending upon the individual's background, education, experience and environment," Judge Wiley stated. "The criteria, therefore, come down to what the particular reviewing board happens to think about the particular picture. The Ohio censorship statutes do not say, as the criminal statutes do, that only lewd and obscene publications are objectionable."

". . . From a 1952 viewpoint, it appears that self-censorship in the industry has removed much of the possibility for evil that may have existed in earlier years; likewise, the necessity for the use of general terms in censorship statutes to cover unexpected developments is minimized by the actual development pattern of the industry. "It does not follow," Judge Wiley warned," that the constitution requires absolute freedom to exhibit every motion picture of every kind at all times and all places, but nothing was presented to this court to warrant making an exception to the prevailing rule of 'freedom of speech and press.'

". . . Newsreels are an established method of communication of news. No controlling distinction can be made between newsreels and newspapers." Whatever the intention of the legislature was 40 years ago in enacting the first censorship law, amended in 1935, the Judge said, the character of the present statute is such that "it strikes at the very foundation of the freedom of the press by subjecting it to a license and censorship." It is apparent from the language of the law itself, Judge Wiley continued, that the $3 minimum fee for "inspection of newsreels" is not merely a license fee to cover the cost of making the inspection, but is a tax imposed on motion pictures.

"It is our opinion that these charges constitute a tax and as such are a form of 'prior restraint' which violates the constitutional guarantee of freedom of speech and press," he added.

"There is no attempt by Ohio to tax other media of dissemination of information in the same manner, such as newspapers, magazines, radio and television. "As a striking example of this discrimination, there was recently shown on the screens in several Ohio theatres the picture of the Robinson-Maxim prize fight by direct television . . . This was not subject to attempted censorship or collection of tax. If the same prize fight had been recorded on film and shown the next day in the same theatres, then the division of film censorship would have insisted on licensing and collection of fees."

Charge Is Discriminatory

The charge of $3 per film is discriminatory because it "singles out one method of disseminating information against all others, and therefore violates the 'due process and equal protection' clauses of the Federal and State constitutions."

The ruling came in a test case instituted by the State Division of Censorship against Martin G. Smith, operator of Toledo's Westwood Theatre.

The Motion Picture Association of America and the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio, said it would be the first step in their drive to have the courts declare the Ohio law unconstitutional.

Donald Melhorn, of the law firm of Marshall, Melhorn, Block and Belt, attorneys for Smith, said "We cannot minimize the effect of this decision." He added that it would be difficult for the state censor board to enforce the newsreel censorship statute in other cities of Ohio because other municipal courts would dismiss similar cases almost automatically because of the precedent of the Wiley decision.

'La Ronde' Appeal Off to November

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 10.—The appeal by Commercial Pictures Corp. of California from a 3-to-2 decision of the Appellate Division last May, upholding the Board of Regents in refusing to license "La Ronde" on the grounds that the French-made film is "immoral and would tend to corrupt morals," will not be heard at the October term of the Court of Appeals.

Notice of appeals has been filed, but the printed record and briefs have not yet been received by the state's highest court. This means the case cannot be heard before that tribunal next reassembles Nov. 17th.

Commercial Pictures has announced the case would be carried to the U. S. supreme court, in case of an adverse decision.

Decision Momentous

newsreels is unconstitutional marks a great victory for those who believe in freedom and democracy. It is a resounding defeat for those who would muffle or destroy free speech and a free press in our country.

"I want especially to commend the courageous atcion of Martin Smith of Toledo in bringing about this court test which has turned out so successfully."

Reade Sending 15 To AMPA's School

A large contingent of Walter Reade Theaters executives and staff members headed by Nick Schermerhorn, circuit general manager, and Paul Peterson, drive-in supervisor, will attend the Associated Motion Picture Advertisers forthcoming course in showmanship and promotion, Walter Reade, Jr., president of the circuit, yeesterday informed Harry K. McWilliams, AMPA president.

The Reade group will number as many as 15, and the circuit will bear the tuition cost of all, Reade said. City managers and theatre managers will be among the students. Reade personnel will come to New York weekly from New Jersey and up-state New York cities where the circuit's houses are located. Changes in the employes' working hours will be made to enable them to attend the weekly evening classes which will commence Sept. 25 in the home office screening room of RKO Radio.

Albert Floersheimer, Jr., advertising director of Reade Theatres, and AMPA treasurer, has been named chairman of the Oct. 16 class, which will deal with advertising on the local level. The course will run for 12 weeks.

The Vital Spark that ignites the interest of exhibitors for specific pictures, so that it can flame into that enthusiasm which inspires real showmanship, is a soundly planned program of trade advertising. Without that, no exhibitor can be blamed for lacking in excitement over pictures which are offered to him virtually "cold".

It is obvious that the extent of a distributor's confidence in product he has available is generally indicated by either the telling—or lack of telling about it—in trade paper messages.

There never was a greater need for good product. There never was a greater interest among exhibitors to know about the product they should plan to obtain and exploit. There never was a keener readership of trade paper messages.

Requisites for successful motion picture trade paper advertising of good product are: (1) Start it soon enough; (2) Make it effectively proclaim the box-office values of the picture; (3) Publish a sufficient continuity of sales messages to impress and remind.

Soundly planned trade advertising is the basic telling that leads to successful selling. Its cost is dimes that bring dollars. It is the vital spark for the power that produces greatest results!

Tentative Deal On a New U. K. Pact Reached

Terms Not Revealed; Needs Formal Approval

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—A tentative agreement on new monetary terms was reached here today by British and industry negotiators.

Announcement was made by the Motion Picture Association of America at the close of three days of negotiations conducted by representatives of the British government, the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers and MPAA.

Both British and industry spokesmen agreed not to make public any details of the agreement. MPAA declared in its statement that details probably would not be disclosed until after the British government and the two industry organizations had considered the terms of the agreement. That they involve a modification of the present agreement, however, was admitted.

The British have insisted during the negotiations that they did not

Reels Censorship Ruled Unconstitutional In Toledo; State to Appeal

By GENE FISKE

TOLEDO, Sept. 10.—Newsreel censorship as practiced 17 years under the Ohio law violates both the Federal and State constitutions, Municipal Judge Frank W. Wiley ruled here today. "News reels are entitled to the same protection from 'prior restraint' as newspapers and other publications have historically been entitled to receive," Judge Wiley stated.

Prior restraint in the case of Ohio regulations, the Judge said, consists first of the requirement to submit films for censorship prior to their showing and, secondly, of the requirement covering inspection fees.

The judge said the Ohio law violated both the constitution of Ohio, and the First and 14th Amendments of the United States Constitution,

Collier's Editorial Calls U. S. 16mm. Suit 'Foolish'

The government's suit to compel the sale of 16mm. films to television and other non-theatrical users is described as "foolish," "cockeyed sophistry" and establishing, if successful, a "disquieting" precedent, in a full-page editorial in the Sept. 20th issue of Collier's magazine, on newsstands today.

The editorial is headed: "Really Happy Marriages Don't Start This Way," and is illustrated with a cartoon in color depicting the shot-gun wedding of a blissful TV lass to a discomfited "Hollywood Investment," with the Justice Department holding the gun while a night-shirted Uncle Sam performs the ceremony.

Cites Growth of Industry Amid Competition Increase

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 10.—The "amazing ability" of the American public to absorb new forms of recreation as shown by the growth of the motion picture industry in the midst of a parallel increase in other forms of entertainment was underscored here today by Howard E. Jameyson, president of Commonwealth Theatres.

In his address marking the end of the fall meeting of Commonwealth Theatres, Jameyson also called upon managers to exercise their talents in the exploitation and advertising of films on the local level. He urged the managers to devise advertising in simple language for their towns, helping their public to know what the pictures offered are about and to appreciate what is worth seeing in them. Sterling Silliphant, Eastern publicity manager for 20th Century-Fox, talked on exploitation programs for various pictures, particularly outstanding ones. The division, city and house managers in their presentation of leading new pictures gave explicit ideas on copy for local advertising on promotion at the theatres. Dick Orear, purchasing agent, lead a forum on concession management. He and Fred Muhmel, who has charge of concessions, stressed promotion.

Ohio Candidates Favor Tax Relief

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 10.—Senator John W. Bricker of Ohio and Michael V. Di Salle, his Democratic opponent in the November elections, are in favor of tax relief for theatres, according to replies from them received by Robert Wile, secretary of the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio. Wile has queried all Ohio Senatorial and Congressional candidates on their attitudes about repeal of the 20 per cent Federal admission tax.

"You are just as right as you can be," said Bricker. "I shall do everything in my power to help this cause along." Di Salle said that "as a general rule I am in favor of minimizing the tax rate wherever possible and as soon as possible." Di Salle, former Mayor of Toledo, pointed out that Toledo is the only major Ohio city which does not also have a municipal admission tax.

Favorable replies were received from six additional Congressional candidates and incumbents. The score now stands: 19 for repeal and three non-committal. Among those indicating support of tax relief are Walter B. Huber, Akron; Carleton C. Reiser, Celina; George C. Steinemann, Sandusky; Cliff Clevenger, Fifth District; Gordon H. Scherer, Cincinnati, and James G. Polk, Sixth District. Polk said he favored elimination of taxes on admissions of 50 cents and less.

IMPPA Costs Cut By AFM Contract

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 10. — Producer members of the Independent Motion Picture Producers Association are spared a considerable portion of the present expense of preparing old pictures for sale to television under the terms of the new contract offered by the American Federation of Musicians following protracted negotiations with IMPPA's I. E. Chadwick.

AFM required formerly that old films be completely rescored with original musicians receiving full salaries and with a new sound track actually affixed to the film. The new deal requires that each musician be paid one half of his salary for one scoring session only with no actual work being performed. The standard stipulation that the producer pay into the AFM fund five per cent of the gross revenue obtained from the sale of the film to television remains unchanged.

TV Tops 86 Papers At SMPTE Meet

Television will again head the list of 86 papers to be presented by the Society of Motion Picture and Television Engineers at the 72nd semi-annual convention at the Statler Hotel in Washington, Oct. 6-10, it was disclosed by Peter Mole, SMPTE president.

During the 16 sessions, papers will be read on television, color photography, technical advances in production, sound recording and other subjects.

A minimum of 14 awards for special contributions to the motion picture and TV industries will be presented.

Also, equipment supply, Benjamin Perse, Capitol Supply; concessions, Benjamin Sherman, ABC Vending Corp.; purchasing agents, Martin Levine, Brandt Theatres; labor, Herman Gelber, Local No. 306, Vincent Jacobi, Local No. 1, and Thomas Murtha, Local No. 4, all of the IATSE.

4A's Vote Division Of TV Jurisdiction

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 10.—Screen Actors Guild revealed here that the Associated Actors and Artists of America board today voted 53 to four, in New York, to rescind the 1950 resolution which had given Television Authority jurisdiction over all television, and in favor of a new resolution dividing the jurisdiction between Television Authority and SAG along the lines already established by a series of NLRB elections.

Collier's Editorial Calls

likely to us," the editorial observes, "that a deep, dark formal conspiracy would be necessary to persuade these individual members of the industry that it would be inviting commercial suicide to sell their product indiscriminately to their TV competitors at a small fraction of the product's original cost."

"In any event, we believe that the decision of whether to reissue, sell to TV or keep the film in the can is one which should be left up to the company which spent its money to produce the picture in the first place." The editorial continues, in part:

"If the government can compel the movie makers to turn over their 16-millimeter films to television, why can't it also force them to sell their 35-millimeter pictures to the same medium, in case the movie companies refuse to make any more 16-millimeter duplicates? And if the government can exercise that compulsion, why can't it also order television networks sometime in the future to show some special event, like a World Series or a championship fight or a political convention, only in theatres to paid admissions?

"The film industry is one of the country's largest simply because its product has won popular favor all over the world. Thousands of people depend upon it for their livelihood—not only the stars and executives with six-figure incomes, but the man who runs the neighborhood movie house and hires a half-dozen people to work for him. The Justice Department can threaten all those livelihoods if it succeeds through its present action in throwing open Hollywood's doors and inviting a competitor to help himself.

"All this leads us back to something which we have said before, and which we intend to keep on saying when the occasion warrants until something is done: the antitrust laws should be interpreted in the light of public benefit and not of economic theory; and Congress should re-examine and if necessary rewrite those laws in the interest of the just regulation and orderly growth of American industry, rather than in the interest of punishment and restriction."

Clear Belgium Pact For Senate Action

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The way has been cleared for the Senate to act on an agreement with Belgium which would exempt motion picture film rentals from double taxation, the State Department announced here today.

The department said that a convention with Belgium had been signed earlier this month which modifies and supplements the convention of Oct., 1948, for the avoidance of double taxation. Senate action on the 1948 agreement has been held up pending the conclusion of the supplementary convention.

Belgium Lightens Some Import Rules

OTTAWA, Sept. 10.—Certain products may now be imported into Belgium from countries in the dollar area under a quota system by virtue of a ruling of the joint Belgo-Luxembourg Administrative Commission, with certain types of films being included under the new quota system, according to a report from Brussels to the Foreign Trade Service of the Canadian government.

The import into Belgium of the items affected has been restricted since Sept., 1951 but it is understood that the monthly quotas to Dec. 31, 1952 will amount to 33 per cent of the average monthly imports during the first six months of 1951.

With the Century Circuit joining the network, the number of announced theatres in the TNT line-up now stands at 19.

U. S.-France Rift

from Italian films had mounted to a disadvantageous degree, it was pointed out.

In recent years the popularity of Italian films in France has been second only to that of Hollywood product, U. S. film export officials have reminded.

It was estimated that only a very small number of dubbed American films are in France awaiting release. These are the residue of 121 that went in under France's previous import stipulation. No single major American producer was estimated to have more than three set for release there at this time, while one or more companies were said to have only one dubbed unreleased picture in French vaults. Some may have none at all.

Under the circumstances, it was expected that French theatres would feel an American product "pinch" within a few months. If at that time a new Franco-American pact is not in sight, French exhibitors might demand that the door be opened to an increased flow of Italian films, observers here believe.

When the Franco-American negotiations broke down last week, with the rejection by the Motion Picture Export Association of an unfavorable French remittance offer, Eric A. Johnston, Motion Picture Association of America president, was given blanket authority to deal with the French. It was indicated he would go to Paris for this purpose, but not necessarily in the immediate future. Actually, the expectation was that he first would visit Rio de Janeiro and then Rome to seek to straighten out American distribution difficulties in Brazil and Italy, before venturing to Paris.

New U. K. Pact

wish to give out any information on facts and figures, since they felt that publicity would cut down their bargaining power. MPAA and SIMPP representatives have respected the wishes of the British in this regard.

One British spokesman did say today, however, that he felt "negotiators on both sides are happy with this tentative agreement." MPAA spokesmen declined all comment, declaring that they "would let the British speak" for them.

Sir Frank Lee, permanent secretary of the British Board of Trade, who led the talks for the British, is expected to return to London over the week-end to present the agreement to his government. MPAA president Eric Johnston, SIMPP president Ellis Arnall and SIMPP vice-president James Mulvey are expected to submit the proposals to their organizations at meetings in New York next week.

Came As Surprise

The fact that a tentative agreement was reached after only three days of meeting came as a surprise to many observers, who were expecting the talks would be drawn out over a week or even two.

There was no indication, however, as to whether the shortness of the negotiations meant that the tentative terms reached were good or bad for the industry. Reports coming from London in advance of the British team indicated that the British would probably ask for a substantial cut in the $17,000,000 in annual remittances from Great Britain permitted to the industry by the current monetary agreement, exclusive of Eady Plan and bonus provisions accounting for another $8,000,000.

It was felt that the British would ask to cut the figure by anywhere from $2,000,000 to $8,000,000 and that they would ask, in addition, that the industry increase the amount of its motion picture production in Great Britain. Negotiations may have held the cut to a maximum of $5,000,000 or less, it is believed.

The British exercised their right under the existing two-year agreement to re-open negotiations at the end of a year, due to the fact that the country's dollar shortage is more acute now than it was when the monetary agreement was signed. If the new terms are approved, they will become effective Oct. 1, for one year.

Taking part in the negotiations along with Sir Frank, Johnston, Arnall and Mulvey were Joyce O'Hara, MPAA vice-president; John McCarthy, MPAA international vice-president; Fayette Allport, MPAA British chief; Sidney Golt, assistant secretary of the British Board of Trade in charge of the films division; Alan Christelow of the British Treasury delegation in Washington; and Geoffrey Parker, British Embassy commercial counselor.

WB Renews Grayson

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 10. — Kathryn Grayson's association with Warner Brothers will continue through several more pictures as a result of a contract negotiated with her by Jack L. Warner, executive producer. Miss Grayson has been signed for at least four more pictures of which "The Grace Moore Story" will be first. After that she will star in "Saratoga," "Trilby" and "Mademoiselle Modiste."

Grand Loses Bid For Extended Runs

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—The Winston Theatre case, in which RKO Theatres was asking that the Grand Theatre here be exempted from provisions of the Jackson Park decree (limiting "affiliated" theatres two weeks on first run pictures, unless specific exemption was made on a particular picture by the court), was decided against RKO their petition for exemption being denied by Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe.

The 20th Century-Fox and Warner Brothers petitions for extended first runs on "Snows of Kilimanjaro" and "Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima," respectively, will be heard by Judge Igoe tomorrow.

On another legal front, the hearing on attorney Thomas C. McConnell's plea for additional fees covering the period from the time of the original decision to the date of the ruling on the defendant's appeal in the Milwaukee Towne case has been put over to Oct. 13.

20th Sets Plan to Promote Art Films

A special eight-page manual detailing advertising and exploitation plans for 20th Century-Fox's seven Art Films' color in Technicolor short subjects are now being circulated to theatres throughout the country.

A complete theatre campaign, pretested in Allentown, Pa., highlights the exploitation section, which also features tie-ups with schools, clubs, civic leaders and others. The manual also carries illustrations of the ad mats and accessories available from National Screen Service.

Holbrook Bissell Dies in Albany

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 10.—Holbrook Bissell, associated with the industry for more than a quarter of a century as salesman, branch manager and screen advertising executive, died in St. Peters Hospital here after a short illness. He served in this city with Columbia and Warner Brothers, having been manager for the former in 1945-46. Bissell also sold film in Buffalo, Philadelphia and Cleveland.

UPT 25-Cent Dividend

MGM Buys 'King Arthur'

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 10.—M-G-M has purchased "King Arthur and the Round Table" for production. The film will be made in England, with color in Technicolor. Pandro S. Berman will produce.

Ohio Censor Suit

guaranteeing freedom of speech and freedom of the press.

"To subject a news reel to our present censorship is of itself a greater evil than the possibility of evil against which the statute was designed to protect," the jurist stated.

Dr. Clyde Hissong, director of the Ohio State Department of Education, division of film censorship, said in Columbus that it was the state's plan to appeal the decision after consultation with the Attorney General.

Judge Wiley accepted the arguments of defense counsel attacking "vagueness of the criteria on which the administrative officials are to act (in their job of censoring), particularly as applied to newsreels." The Ohio law, he pointed out, provides approval for "only such films as are in the judgment and discretion of the Department of Education of a moral, educational or amusing and harmless character."

Finds Judgment Relative

"What may appear harmless to one person may appear harmful to another, depending upon the individual's background, education, experience and environment," Judge Wiley stated. "The criteria, therefore, come down to what the particular reviewing board happens to think about the particular picture. The Ohio censorship statutes do not say, as the criminal statutes do, that only lewd and obscene publications are objectionable."

". . . From a 1952 viewpoint, it appears that self-censorship in the industry has removed much of the possibility for evil that may have existed in earlier years; likewise, the necessity for the use of general terms in censorship statutes to cover unexpected developments is minimized by the actual development pattern of the industry. "It does not follow," Judge Wiley warned," that the constitution requires absolute freedom to exhibit every motion picture of every kind at all times and all places, but nothing was presented to this court to warrant making an exception to the prevailing rule of 'freedom of speech and press.'

". . . Newsreels are an established method of communication of news. No controlling distinction can be made between newsreels and newspapers." Whatever the intention of the legislature was 40 years ago in enacting the first censorship law, amended in 1935, the Judge said, the character of the present statute is such that "it strikes at the very foundation of the freedom of the press by subjecting it to a license and censorship." It is apparent from the language of the law itself, Judge Wiley continued, that the $3 minimum fee for "inspection of newsreels" is not merely a license fee to cover the cost of making the inspection, but is a tax imposed on motion pictures.

"It is our opinion that these charges constitute a tax and as such are a form of 'prior restraint' which violates the constitutional guarantee of freedom of speech and press," he added.

"There is no attempt by Ohio to tax other media of dissemination of information in the same manner, such as newspapers, magazines, radio and television. "As a striking example of this discrimination, there was recently shown on the screens in several Ohio theatres the picture of the Robinson-Maxim prize fight by direct television . . . This was not subject to attempted censorship or collection of tax. If the same prize fight had been recorded on film and shown the next day in the same theatres, then the division of film censorship would have insisted on licensing and collection of fees."

Charge Is Discriminatory

The charge of $3 per film is discriminatory because it "singles out one method of disseminating information against all others, and therefore violates the 'due process and equal protection' clauses of the Federal and State constitutions."

The ruling came in a test case instituted by the State Division of Censorship against Martin G. Smith, operator of Toledo's Westwood Theatre.

The Motion Picture Association of America and the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio, said it would be the first step in their drive to have the courts declare the Ohio law unconstitutional.

Donald Melhorn, of the law firm of Marshall, Melhorn, Block and Belt, attorneys for Smith, said "We cannot minimize the effect of this decision." He added that it would be difficult for the state censor board to enforce the newsreel censorship statute in other cities of Ohio because other municipal courts would dismiss similar cases almost automatically because of the precedent of the Wiley decision.

'La Ronde' Appeal Off to November

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 10.—The appeal by Commercial Pictures Corp. of California from a 3-to-2 decision of the Appellate Division last May, upholding the Board of Regents in refusing to license "La Ronde" on the grounds that the French-made film is "immoral and would tend to corrupt morals," will not be heard at the October term of the Court of Appeals.

Notice of appeals has been filed, but the printed record and briefs have not yet been received by the state's highest court. This means the case cannot be heard before that tribunal next reassembles Nov. 17th.

Commercial Pictures has announced the case would be carried to the U. S. supreme court, in case of an adverse decision.

Decision Momentous

newsreels is unconstitutional marks a great victory for those who believe in freedom and democracy. It is a resounding defeat for those who would muffle or destroy free speech and a free press in our country.

"I want especially to commend the courageous atcion of Martin Smith of Toledo in bringing about this court test which has turned out so successfully."

Reade Sending 15 To AMPA's School

A large contingent of Walter Reade Theaters executives and staff members headed by Nick Schermerhorn, circuit general manager, and Paul Peterson, drive-in supervisor, will attend the Associated Motion Picture Advertisers forthcoming course in showmanship and promotion, Walter Reade, Jr., president of the circuit, yeesterday informed Harry K. McWilliams, AMPA president.

The Reade group will number as many as 15, and the circuit will bear the tuition cost of all, Reade said. City managers and theatre managers will be among the students. Reade personnel will come to New York weekly from New Jersey and up-state New York cities where the circuit's houses are located. Changes in the employes' working hours will be made to enable them to attend the weekly evening classes which will commence Sept. 25 in the home office screening room of RKO Radio.

Albert Floersheimer, Jr., advertising director of Reade Theatres, and AMPA treasurer, has been named chairman of the Oct. 16 class, which will deal with advertising on the local level. The course will run for 12 weeks.

* Pictures featured in M. P. Daily advertised during past 6 weeks.

The Vital Spark that ignites the interest of exhibitors for specific pictures, so that it can flame into that enthusiasm which inspires real showmanship, is a soundly planned program of trade advertising. Without that, no exhibitor can be blamed for lacking in excitement over pictures which are offered to him virtually "cold".

It is obvious that the extent of a distributor's confidence in product he has available is generally indicated by either the telling—or lack of telling about it—in trade paper messages.

There never was a greater need for good product. There never was a greater interest among exhibitors to know about the product they should plan to obtain and exploit. There never was a keener readership of trade paper messages.

Requisites for successful motion picture trade paper advertising of good product are: (1) Start it soon enough; (2) Make it effectively proclaim the box-office values of the picture; (3) Publish a sufficient continuity of sales messages to impress and remind.

Soundly planned trade advertising is the basic telling that leads to successful selling. Its cost is dimes that bring dollars. It is the vital spark for the power that produces greatest results!

TNT Walcott Net Set for 36 Theatres

See More Houses Before The Sept. 23 Fight Date

Thirty-six large-screen television-equipped theatres across the country already have signed contracts with Theatre Network Television for the telecast of the Jersey Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano heavyweight title bout, a TNT source said yesterday.

With 12 more days to go before the fight date, the number of theatres which will carry the Sept. 23 event from Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium is virtually certain to grow, topping the previous record set last June in the Robinson-Maxim bout, it was said. The June bout attracted 38 theatres.

'Ivanhoe' Grossed $1,006,000 in Six Weeks, Setting Hall Record

A record six-week gross has been racked up by "Ivanhoe" at Radio City Music Hall, with the picture grossing $1,006,000 for the month-and-a-half period.

The previous top six-week grosser in the near 20-year history of the Hall was "Showboat," which hit $916,000 in a similar period late last summer. Other films which did outstanding business at the Hall for the same period include "Sunset Boulevard" and "The Great Caruso."

"Ivanhoe," on the first day of its seventh week at the Hall yesterday, again got off to an auspicious start, with a fine $18,000 estimated for the day.

Pre-Release Policy Set for 'Ivanhoe'

M-G-M sales policy for "Ivanhoe" will be based on competitive bidding for pre-release first-runs of the picture in each exchange center, the company revealed yesterday.

Thereafter, the picture will be open to offers by suitable theatres in each city of approximately 100,000 population, following which it will be available on the same selective basis in cities under approximately 100,000 population.

The company states it expects there will be about 500 such pre-release engagements of the picture. In a "reasonable time" after their conclusion M-G-M plans to put the picture into general release.

Submission of Newsreels To Ohio Censors Studied

Any decision by newsreel distributors to discontinue submitting newsreels to the Ohio censor board in light of Toledo Municipal Judge Frank W. Wiley's ruling on Wednesday that such censorship is unconstitutional will have to await a meeting of the companies' attorneys, it was indicated here yesterday.

The attorneys, although apprised yesterday of the favorable decision, were without copies of the 15-page ruling which acquitted Toledo exhibitor Martin G. Smith of censorship violation charges. When they are supplied with copies they will study them, discuss the decision with distribution executives and then meet to decide whether the board will be ignored in connection with the supplying of Ohio theatres other than those in Toledo with newsreels. Meanwhile, reels destined for Toledo houses no longer will be submitted to the board, it was expected.

The big question in the minds of the attorneys is whether an appeal can be taken by Ohio in a criminal

'Reds' Head DPOWA, Senate Group Asserts

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—The investigatory unit of the Senate sub-committee on Internal Security headed by Sen. James O. Eastland (D., Miss.), has alleged that 24 of the 32 members of the Distributive, Processing and Office Workers of America's executive board were "members of the Communist party." DPOWA is the parent union of the New York Screen Publicists Guild.

The sub-committee last year launched an investigation into the DPOWA's affairs. Sen. Pat McCarran (D., Nev.), chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee and its sub-committee on internal security, said that the union "has advanced the Communist cause in many ways."

The sub-committee charged that the union is "under the control of agents of the Kremlin . . . dedicated to the destruction of the freedom which members of the organization now enjoy." It recommended that its hearing record be sent to the Attorney General to determine whether perjury had been committed by union officers who have signed the Taft-Hartley non-Communist oath.

MASS. TOWN STARTS TAXING TV SETS AS THEY DO IN U. K.

BOSTON, Sept. 11.—The first municipality in Massachusetts, and believed to be the first in this country, to levy a tax on television sets—as the British do throughout England—was revealed here when it was learned that the assessors of the town of Stow are sending out tax notices to residents who own television sets. The assessors have been checking all homes showing outside aerials.

The tax is classified as a personal property tax. All television sets regardless of their purchase price are placed at $100 value by the assessors. The tax is $4.50 a year.

Henry F. Long, Commissioner of Taxation and Corporations for Massachusetts, declared that the tax is legal as the statute governing the personal property tax does not include or fails to mention that television sets be exempt.

Meanwhile, in Boston, a difference of opinion developed over the television set tax when Edmund Burke of the city's board of assessors stated that he considers television sets in homes eligible for the household furnishing exemption and therefore do not come under the personal property tax law.

MGM's Ornstein Has 1st Book Published

William Ornstein, M-G-M trade press contact, and author of more than 50 published short stories, has his first work published in book form this week with the appearance of "Ma and Me," which consists of a collection of 20 of his stories.

Described as "a novel in short story form," "Ma and Me" is published by Story Book Press of Dallas. Containing 231 pages, it is priced at $3.

Stories Cited

Ornstein's stories for the past several years have been cited by Martha Foley in her anthologies, "Best American Short Stories" and "The Best of the Best American Short Stories." In her 1952 anthology, out Sept. 25, she includes 11 of Ornstein's stories, a record for an author in a single year, and some of which are included in "Ma and Me."

In addition to his writing, Ornstein, a former trade paper reporter, also has lectured at New York University, Columbia, American University in Washington, the Catholic Writers Guild and later this month will appear at the Kingsbridge Veterans Hospital Writing Project.

Extended Chi. Runs For 'Fatima,' 'Snows'

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe has granted extended first-runs of eight weeks each to Warner Brothers' "Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" and 20th Century-Fox's "Snows of Kilimanjaro," allowing the distributors to offer them to "affiliated" theatres here for runs up to eight weeks long (without court permission these theatres cannot run a picture over two weeks unless it is released to outlying theatres at the end of the second week, which would put the first run house in the position of playing day-and-date with subsequent run theatres).

Meanwhile, another top picture, "Ivanhoe," has been awarded to the Oriental for the first Chicago showing. It will follow "Sudden Fear," which opened there today.

20th Sets Heavy TV Barrage for 'Snows'

Twentieth Century-Fox and WJZ-TV have concluded a deal whereby the film company will run 75 TV spots between today and Sept. 20 promoting the opening at the Rivoli Theatre of "Snows of Kilimanjaro" on Wednesday, the television station disclosed here yesterday. This was alleged to be the heaviest concentration of TV spots ever to herald an opening.

In addition, the package calls for the TV station to carry a special 45 minute telecast of the premiere events.

Set Book Shop Tie-in For 'Snows' Premiere

Additional advance publicity for the world premiere of Darryl F. Zanuck's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro," beginning Wednesday at the Rivoli Theatre here, is being created by store window displays in prominent Manhattan book shops, reports 20th Century-Fox.

The campaign, launched several weeks ago timed to the publication of Ernest Hemingway's latest novel, is being centered in Brentano's and Doubleday. Displays consist of stills from "The Snows of Kilimanjaro," window cards crediting the Rivoli, book jackets and reviews of "The Old Man and the Sea," plus covers of other Hemingway novels.

Drawing upon the geographical backgrounds of the production as well as aspects of its story, window and in-store decorations are appearing in luggage shops, and tourist and travel bureaus.

Award to 'Fatima'

"The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" will be the recipient of one of the Christopher Awards this month as a work of "enduring spiritual significance," it was announced by Father James Keller, MM, founder and director of the organization.

Over 300 members of the Warner Club and their guests are expected to turn out for the club's annual golf tournament at the Westchester Country Club today.

See Progress In SAG Talks

A report of progress on talks between representatives of the Screen Actors Guild and the Film Producers Association governing a new pact for TV producers in the East was rendered here yesterday by an FPA spokesman.

He said that successful meetings already have been held on two of the three phases of the projected agreement — on television programming and industrial films terms. He added that all terms agreed upon at meetings must be submitted to the FPA membership for approval. The tentative agreement on television programming, he explained, follows the pattern set by the SAG in negotiations with West Coast producers.

The third phase of the projected contract between the two organizations, dealing with TV commercial spots, will be the subject of a meeting here today between SAG and FPA representatives.

Griffis in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 11. — Stanton Griffis, chairman of the executive committee of Paramount Pictures, has arrived here for his first visit to the studio in six years. A member of the U. S. Diplomatic Corps, Griffis recently resigned as Ambassador to Spain. Previously, he had been Ambassador to Poland, Egypt and Argentina.

Services for Joseph Allen

BOSTON, Sept. 11.—A requiem mass for Joseph Allen, 80, who performed in the first motion picture version of "Seven Keys to Bald Pate" and a number of other films and was a well-known stage performer, will be held Saturday at St. Philip Neri Church in Waban, Mass. Interment will be private. Allen died Tuesday.

Md. Censor Charge Called 'Untrue' by RKO's Bamberger

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 11.—The charge of the Maryland censor board in its recent report to the governor that "certain Hollywood companies have recently been deviating from the (Production) code" was branded "untrue" by Leon Bamberger, sales promotion manager for RKO Radio, in an address on censorship to the annual convention of West Virginia Allied Theatres Association here today.

Bamberger said the industry agrees with the censors that "a free screen does not include obscenity, immorality and inciting to crime."

"It is undeniably untrue, however, that responsible producers who are subscribers to the Production and advertising codes (and all of them are) have deviated from that code and I challenge the Maryland censor board to present any evidence thereof.

"Isn't it apparent," Bamberger continued, "that the sole purpose behind the (censor's) report is the effort of the politically appointed Maryland censors to hold on to their jobs in the face of what we hope will be the eradication of all censorship in the not too distant future?"

Progress has been made toward that goal, Bamberger told the convention, reviewing the recent Supreme Court decisions in the "Pinky" and "Miracle" cases. "Many of us had hoped that these decisions would quickly spell the end of state censorship," he said, "but all that has been thus far accomplished is to deprive censors of banning pictures on sacrilegious grounds or for any such general reasons as being 'prejudicial to the best interests of the people'."

Bamberger said he believes the legal test invalidating newsreel censorship in Toledo to be limited to that city and said "it is evident that a long and bitter struggle will ensue before we can hope to enjoy the full freedoms accorded the press under the First Amendment."

Bamberger warned that irresponsible elements that offer sex and dope pictures on the theory that censor boards under pressure may be influenced to pass them are "doing the legitimate industry a great disfavor."

"Hurricane Smith"

(Paramount)

A TALE OF SOUTH SEA ISLANDS skullduggery and adventure in the mid-19th century by Gordon Ray Young has been transformed into a thrill-laden screenplay by Frank Gruber. While what is brought to the screen in "Hurricane Smith" has a familiar grain there can be little question about this picture's capacity to keep the customers thoroughly absorbed. Produced in vivid color by Technicolor by Nat Holt and directed by Jerry Hopper, it offers for the marquee the names of Yvonne DeCarlo, John Ireland, Richard Arlen, James Craig, Forrest Tucker and Lyle Bettger.

The story line is easy to follow: Ireland, in the title role, is a fugitive from justice who, with his companions Tucker and Richard Arlen, has been hiding away on a South Sea island. "Blackbirding"—kidnapping of natives for sale as slaves to plantation owners—though outlawed, is still a favorite sport. And when a ship approaches on this nefarious mission, Ireland and his friends seize the vessel and leave the "blackbirders" on the island.

Ireland has a fortune stached away on an island, and as he and his companions are laying over in an Australian port, worrying where to get money to equip their ship, Craig approaches them with an offer to rent the ship for a scientific expedition. After the ship sails, it soon becomes obvious that Craig's expedition is mercenary rather than scientific. He is in fact after the same fortune that Ireland is trying to regain. What with Miss DeCarlo on board as the daughter of a doctor who came aboard with Craig, and her falling in love with Ireland, romance soon blossoms.

As is inevitable, a fight breaks out among the opposing forces, there is shooting and mutiny and all other kinds of action, including Ireland's rescuing the girl practically from the mouth of a shark. Eventually the evil forces are beaten and Ireland and his friends lay claim to the treasure.

Running time, 90 minutes. General audience classification. For October release.

Starting Oct. 9 in Richmond and Louisville, 15 more Loew's theatres, making a total of 30, are set to open "Ivanhoe." Subsequent dates will be in Norfolk, Canton, Waterbury, Akron, Hartford, Providence, Springfield, Worcester, Bridgeport, Dayton, Columbus, Syracuse and Rochester. Non-Loew's theatres with early opening dates for the film are the Des Moines, Des Moines; Melba, Dallas; Texas, San Antonio, and Palace, Albany.

Previously announced Sept. 25 openings in Loew's houses include the State and Orpheum, Boston; Penn, Pittsburgh; Loew's, Indianapolis; Palace, St. Louis; Midland, Kansas City; Buffalo, Buffalo; State, New Orleans, and Poli, New Haven.

ment continued to be guarded closely, it was learned that one of the main provisions involves modifications of the American participation in Britain's Eady Plan. Presumably, a part or all of the Americans' share of Eady Plan revenue for the final year of the pact would be frozen in England, a concession made by the MPAA and SIMPP in light of Britain's now less favorable dollar position. The original arangement a year ago provided for a minimum guaranty of $4,000,000 annually for two years as the American companies' share in the Eady Tax Plan. That amount was remittable to New York whether or not the American share in it aggregated $4,000,000. The excess also was remittable up to $6,000,000.

AMPA Will Publish Its 12-Week Ad Course As A Book

Upon completion of the Associated Motion Picture Advertisers' initial 12-week course in showmanship and promotion which will begin here on Sept. 25, AMPA will publish in book form the lectures, discussions and lessons of the series, Harry K. McWilliams, organization president, reported yesterday.

McWilliams said that due to the interest expressed by industry members outside of the New York Metropolitan area the entire 12 sessions will be tape recorded and later edited by Dr. Karl Egmont Ettinger, New School and Columbia University instructor who has been named coordinator of the AMPA school. Distribution home office screening rooms will accommodate the Thursday evening classes.

The text of the course, McWilliams said, will be published in a limited edition. Subscription price in advance of publication is $20, he added.

AIR MAIL EDITION

VOL. 72. NO. 53 NEW YORK, U. S. A., MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1952 TEN CENTS

Tradewise . . .

By SHERWIN KANE

ROBERT U. BROWN, editor of Editor & Publisher, devoted his "Shop Talk at Thirty" column in the Sept. 6 issue to answering Paul Bruun's wonderings in the Miami Beach Florida Sun why newspapers give so much space to sports events and so little to movies, in which so many more people are interested.

"Controversy and conflict are the basic ingredients of all news. Neither exists in amusements of any kind, with rare exceptions, and both are predominant in any sporting contest," Brown tells the Miami Beach columnist.

Any follower of the sports pages will dispute that. The baseball fan is not treated daily to "controversy and conflict" nor is he disappointed about that. He follows a team in which he is interested; he wants to know if it won or lost, what its standing is from time to time and, in the case of more avid fans, who did the pitching, the hitting and who made the unusual, if any, fielding plays or base running.

A movie fan is much the same. He follows particular stars, particular types of films and, frequently, particular stories. He wants news about all of them and, not being served by his newspaper in that respect, he buys millions of motion picture fan magazines.

That also answers another of Brown's contentions—that there is nothing to write about a local movie once it has been reviewed.

He also contends that evidence that the public is more interested in sports than in films is to be found in the inability of most people to name the producer, director or company that made the picture they saw last night, whereas, he says, the same people will know statistics concerning their favorite baseball team and the name of its manager.

We doubt very much whether Brown himself can name the managers of the 16 major league teams. And we will bet Brown that more people are familiar with the major film companies' names than with

OTTAWA, Sept. 14.-Mainly because of the small number of TV sets sold, the coming of television to Canada's two largest cities, Montreal and Toronto, is not expected to adversely affect motion picture theatre attendance, at least for a long period.

TOA CONVENTION GETS UNDER WAY

TOA Committees Report; Urge Stand On 16mm. Suit Role

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—The Theatre Owners of America released over the week-end 11 committee reports which will be made during the week to members attending the 1952 convention here.

Here is a digest of the reports.

The legal advisory council, Herman Levy, chairman: Top agenda item on the council's pre-convention meeting which will be presented to the membership is the 16mm. anti-trust suit, says the report, and urges the board of directors at its meetings to decide whether TOA should move to intervene as a party defendant in the suit.

The report points out that if the Department of Justice and the U. S. Statutory Court approve the arbitration system it may be in operation before the 1953 convention, and TOA should recommend machinery for the system's functioning at this convention.

The council will also take up the continued fight against censorship at the local and national levels, espe-

Eady Plan Alone Is Altered Under Pact

As opinions of the new Anglo-American film agreement continued favorable in distribution circles here at the weekend, indications were that approval of it certainly would be forthcoming today at separate meetings of the Motion Picture Association of America and the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers boards. MOTION PICTURE DAILY reported on Friday that the two trade organizations would vote approval.

The only significant modification in the existing US-UK pact is the proposed freezing of the American industry's share of the British Eady Tax Fund during the ensuing year. The terms of the original Eady Tax

Record Ad Campaign Is Set for 'Kilimanjaro'

One of the largest advertising campaigns ever set by 20th Century-Fox for a single motion picture has been programmed for Hearst magazines and newspaper supplements from Coast-to-Coast for Darryl F. Zanuck's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro."

The record drive, designed to saturate a readership total of upwards of 130-million, is timetabled to coincide with the fall pre-release engagements of the production. Four color spreads will hit monthly issues of the magazines and weekly supplements.

Included on the magazine roster are Cosmopolitan, Good Housekeeping, Harper's Bazaar, House Beautiful and Town and Country. The American Weekly, Pictorial Review and The Comic Weekly are the supplements to feature full page ads and spreads.

Complementing the ad total will be special publicity layouts, feature stories and picture spreads dealing with aspects of the film's international backgrounds and personality profiles of stars Gregory Peck, Susan Hayward and Ava Gardner.

In addition, 7,500 newspapers will be serviced with a variety of mats and stills, and 1,000 radio and TV stations will receive a program based on the film, its fashions and other material.

UA Negotiating for New Shorts Series

Negotiations are pending on a deal under which United Artists would release the "Zane Grey Sports Trail" outdoor scenic-and-sports series, of which Romer Grey and Ted Sierks have completed 26 two-reelers. Grey has left here for Pagosa Springs, Colo., to film another of the subjects.

Friedlob Stresses Stars' Appearances

Personal appearances by qualified stars aids immeasurably in selling a picture in today's market, Bert Friedlob, independent producer releasing through 20th Century-Fox, declared here at the weekend.

In consonance with that belief, Friedlob disclosed that he will tour 20 cities with Joseph Cotten when "The Steel Trap" is released in November. Joseph Cotten and Theresa Wright star in the film.

Friedlob, who is under a three-year contract to 20th-Fox, also announced that production on his new film, "The Star," featuring Bette Davis, has been completed and will probably be released after the first of the year.

The independent producer explained that the stars best qualified to tour cities in aiding the sale of a film are those who have something to say of interest to audiences and who have a commanding stage presence.

Friedlob, who departed for the Coast following a day's conference on Friday with 20th-Fox executives, also commented on the so-called "large-versus-small picture" controversey in the industry. "I think it's the subject matter that counts," Friedlob said, rather than the amount of money spent on the picture that attracts audiences.

Friedlob said that as an independent he has had no trouble financing his current pictures through the banks.

Ask Walsh to Rule On Projectionist 'Encounter' Boycott

The question whether the IATSE could legally direct or urge its projectionists in theatres across the country to refuse to show a film made abroad by Americans accused of having Communist ties has been put to "IA" international president Richard F. Walsh to answer, it was learned here at the weekend. Walsh is expected to confer shortly on the question with the union's attorneys.

Arose Last Month

The problem arose late last month when the Hollywood American Federation of Labor Film Council identified "Encounter," scheduled for United Artists distribution, as representing the work of four Americans whom the council says are or were Communists or refugees from subpoenas issued by the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Starring Paul Muni, the film was produced in Italy by John Weber and Bernard Vorhaus, with Joseph Losey as director and Ben Barzman as script writer. Roy M. Brewer, IATSE Coast representative, in a letter to House Committee chairman John T. Wood, charged the producers, director and writer with being either Communists, former Communists or refugees from subpoenas. The letter urged the Committee to "initiate legislation at once" to ban the importation and showing in this country of films made by Americans so identified.

Brewer Threat

If UA should release the picture and exhibitors book it, Brewer said, "we shall then initiate measures to call upon our fellow unionists in the projection rooms of American theatres not to show it." UA officials here at the time asked company president Arthur B. Krim, visiting in Europe, to look into the problem. No report of action by Krim has yet been made. The company signed the distribution deal about a year ago.

The Taft-Hartley Law, in the "unofficial" opinion of a film labor attorney who declined to be identified, would not prohibit the IATSE from asking, possibly directing, its projectionists to refuse to screen a film of "Communist character." However, he added, the law would have to be studied to determine the application to "Encounter."

those of the owners of major league teams. And they sure know their "statistics" on their favorite film stars.

Brown's fourth and final point is that if you go where "men gather," you'll hear them talking about sports, not movies.

Conceding that probably more men discuss sports than movies, we wonder why Brown doesn't suggest that his readers go where women—and children—gather, and find out whether they talk more about sports than movies.

They're newspaper readers, too, Mr. Brown.

Again Press A. T. & T. on Theatre TV Cost Data

Washington, Sept. 14.—Theatre Television attorneys told the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. over the weekend that they wanted only an A T and T estimate of what transmission charges for theatre television would be and that they were not asking the company for firm figures.

In an attempt to get an answer on transmission costs, attorneys who will present the industry's theatre television case to the Federal Communications Commission said in a letter to the company that A T and T might be assuming "that we are asking for firm quotations to supply the kind and quality of television service we need and desire."

All they wanted, the industry attorneys went on, was A T and T's "best estimate" of what the charges would be and "a similar estimate as to when such service could and would be instituted." A T and T has previously dodged answering the request for such information on two occasions, the most recent being two weeks ago.

The industry attorneys told the company that "the existing service is wholly inadequate and unsatisfactory." They pointed out that the industry's technical experts had been able to obtain facts concerning the necessary equipment and its cost and that they saw no reason why A T and T couldn't do the same.

The entire point of the attorneys' questions in their two previous requests was "when and for how much?" They wrote to A T and T. "Neither one of those questions has yet been answered by you," they went on, "although five months' time has elapsed and a considerable amount of correspondence has been indulged in since we first directed our requests to you."

The letter was addressed to Ernest D. North, of the A T and T long lines department, who had answered the industry's latest request for cost estimates. It was signed by Vincent Welch and James Fly, attorneys for the Motion Picture Association of America, and by Marcus Cohen, attorney for the National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee.

Says US Producers Abide by the Code

Baltimore, Sept. 14.—Noting that "American film producers, bound by a production code, have done much to avoid religious affront," while "some makers of foreign films have not been so reverent in their treatment of religion," Sydney R. Traub, chairman of the Maryland Board of Censors, reported that the board has approved "The Miracle" for showings throughout the state. Traub stated, however, that the board condemns the film as "an obvious indignity to religious personages and beliefs."

Referring to the recent U. S. Supreme Court ruling which outlaws sacrilege as a basis for censorship of film matter by a state, Traub said, "We have no legal alternative other than to approve "The Miracle."

ACLU Protests State Censorship To Maryland's Governor

The American Civil Liberties Union has lodged a protest with the governor of Maryland over the continued efforts by the Board of Censors of that state to exercise censorship over motion pictures. In a letter to Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin, Jr., the chairman of the ACLU's National Council on Freedom from Censorship, Elmer Rice, noted that the recent U. S. Supreme Court decision in " The Miracle" case "placed films in the same category as newspapers and magazines with regard to the constitutional protection of freedom of the press."

Rice urged the governor "to advise the board that whatever it may feel its duties to be, that they may not in any way exercise a prior restraint over motion picture films."

300 Attend Warner Club Golf Tourney

Over 300, including many industry leaders, attended the Warner Club annual golf tournament on Friday at the Westchester Country Club in Rye, N. Y.

Prizes, handed out by toastmaster Sam Schneider, Warner executive, went to Leonard Palumbo, first low gross; G. Grahm, first low net, member; Ed Fabian, first low net, guest; D. Richards, longest drive, and Bill Heineman, nearest to pin.

Among the executives were Major Albert Warner, Spyros Skouras, Ned Depinet, George Skouras, Ben Kalmenson, Harry Kalmine, Charles Moskowitz, Al Schwalberg, Jerry Pickman, Herman Starr and Bob Mochrie.

TV Spots Subject Of SAG-FPA Talks

Another series of meetings between representatives of the Screen Actors Guild and the Film Producers Association on a new pact to govern TV production in the East will take place here this week.

Negotiations will be on the issue of TV spot commercials, it was learned, following virtual agreement on terms to govern TV programming and industrial films.

To Kick-Off Film, TV Tie-up Today

The mutual promotion agreement between New York theatres and WNBC-WNBT will be kicked off today by Skitch Henderson in his radio and television shows, which will include a listing of popular films at neighborhood and Broadway theatres. His TV program will highlight some institutional promotion, too.

The radio programs will be from 12:45 to 1:15 P. M. and 11:15 to 12:00 midnight. The TV program can be seen from 6:30 to 7:00 P. M.

The Organization of the Motion Picture Industry of the City of New York signed the agreement for some 500 New York theatres.

Brown Finishes U.K. Job

M-G-M producer Clarence Brown left London Saturday for New York. He will stop over a day before returning to Hollywood. In England, Brown produced and Delmer Daves directed "Never Let Me Go," Clark Gable-Gene Tierney co-starrer.

12-Hour Show for Regular Admission

Cincinnatti, Sept. 14. — A new high in entertainment quantity has been established in this area by the Acme Drive-in, located between here and nearby Hamilton, where a "Moviethon" is given on Saturdays, starting at dusk and continuing until dawn. The program consists of four full features and one chapter each of 12 serials, with nothing repeated in the 12-hour show, for which the regular admission scale prevails.

Production in UK Is At High Point: Lean

Film production in England currently is at a high point, with filming there by American companies having assisted in keeping 100 per cent employment at the studios, David Lean, British producer, reported here at the weekend. Lean was in New York from London and South Africa with his wife, actress Ann Todd, to arrange for editing and American distribution of his latest picture, "The Sound Barrier," in which Miss Todd stars.

The Britishers discussed their film at a luncheon for the trade press given by Lopert Films Distributing Corp., through which "The Sound Barrier" is expected to be released here. The picture, Lean said, is a drama dealing with supersonic aircraft developments.

Canadian Circuit in Regional Meetings

Toronto, Sept. 14.—Officials of 20th Century Theatres, headed by N. A. Taylor, have started a round of regional meetings of managers.

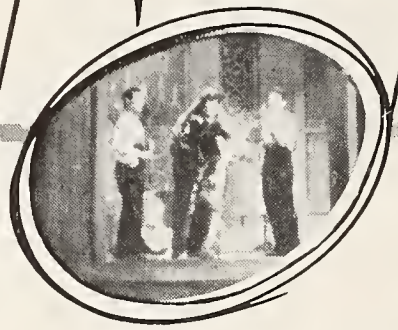
A conference was held at Ottawa which was attended by Taylor, vice-president Raoul Auerbach and M. L. Axler, J. S. Kurk and Barney Fox from the Toronto head-office. The conference program was drawn up by Ernie Warren, manager of the Ottawa Elgin. The meeting at the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa, is part of a series which includes Sudbury, London and Hamilton, with a final session at Toronto on Sept. 30. The circuit is affiliated with Famous Players Corp.

Frank William, WB Booker in Chicago

Chicago, Sept. 14.—Frank E. Williams, 67, head booker for Warner Brothers' theatres here since 1930 and with the Coston Booking Circuit for many years prior to 1930, died here Thursday. He is survived by a sister and three brothers.

Zimbalist, Nebenzal Form New Company

Hollywood, Sept. 14.—Formation of Motion Picture Artists, Inc., a new production company headed by Alfred Zimbalist and Harold Nebenzal, president and vice-president of the new company, was disclosed here at the weekend.



The company will specialize in exploitation films, one of which is "Miss Robinson Crusoe."

* Pictures featured in M. P. Daily advertising during past 6 weeks.

The Vital Spark that ignites the interest of exhibitors for specific pictures, so that it can flame into that enthusiasm which inspires real showmanship, is a soundly planned program of trade advertising. Without that, no exhibitor can be blamed for lacking in excitement over pictures which are offered to him virtually "cold".

It is obvious that the extent of a distributor's confidence in product he has available is generally indicated by either the telling—or lack of telling about it—in trade paper messages.

There never was a greater need for good product. There never was a greater interest among exhibitors to know about the product they should plan to obtain and exploit. There never was a keener readership of trade paper messages.

Requisites for successful motion picture trade paper advertising of good product are: (1) Start it soon enough; (2) Make it effectively proclaim the box-office values of the picture; (3) Publish a sufficient continuity of sales messages to impress and remind.

Soundly planned trade advertising is the basic telling that leads to successful selling. Its cost is dimes that bring dollars. It is the vital spark for the power that produces greatest results!

Accurate Concise and Impartial

VOL. 72. NO. 53 NEW YORK, U.S.A., MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1952 TEN CENTS

Tradewise . . .

By SHERWIN KANE

ROBERT U. BROWN, editor of Editor & Publisher, devoted his "Shop Talk at Thirty" column in the Sept. 6 issue to answering Paul Bruun's wonderings in the Miami Beach Florida Sun why newspapers give so much space to sports events and so little to movies, in which so many more people are interested.

"Controversy and conflict are the basic ingredients of all news. Neither exists in amusements of any kind, with rare exceptions, and both are predominant in any sporting contest," Brown tells the Miami Beach columnist.

Any follower of the sports pages will dispute that. The baseball fan is not treated daily to "controversy and conflict" nor is he disappointed about that. He follows a team in which he is interested; he wants to know if it won or lost, what its standing is from time to time and, in the case of more avid fans, who did the pitching, the hitting and who made the unusual, if any, fielding plays or base running.

A movie fan is much the same. He follows particular stars, particular types of films and, frequently, particular stories. He wants news about all of them and, not being served by his newspaper in that respect, he buys millions of motion picture fan magazines.

That also answers another of Brown's contentions—that there is nothing to write about a local movie once it has been reviewed.

He also contends that evidence that the public is more interested in sports than in films is to be found in the inability of most people to name the producer, director or company that made the picture they saw last night, whereas, he says, the same people will know statistics concerning their favorite baseball team and the name of its manager.

We doubt very much whether Brown himself can name the managers of the 16 major league teams. And we will bet Brown that more people are familiar with the major film companies' names than with

World Prefers U. S. Pictures, Raibourn Says

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—The worldwide preference for American motion pictures was underscored in an address by Paul Raibourn, vice-president of Paramount Pictures Corp., before the Communications Section of the Centennial of Engineering Symposium, meeting here at the Eighth Street Theatre at the weekend.

TV No Problem to Canadian Exhibitors

OTTAWA, Sept. 14.—Although television has now come officially to Canada's two largest cities, Montreal and Toronto, and other TV outlets are planned in several other centres, including Ottawa, motion picture theatre attendance in those cities is not expected to be affected adversely, at least for a long period.

One of the principal reasons is that sales of TV receiving sets in those areas have not been spectacular.

TOA CONVENTION GETS UNDER WAY

TOA Committees Report; Urge Stand On 16mm. Suit Role

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—The Theatre Owners of America released over the week-end 11 committee reports which will be made during the week to members attending the 1952 convention here.

Here is a digest of the reports.

The legal advisory council, Herman Levy, chairman: Top agenda item on the council's pre-convention meeting which will be presented to the membership is the 16mm. anti-trust suit, says the report, and urges the board of directors at its meetings to decide whether TOA should move to intervene as a party defendant in the suit.

The report points out that if the Department of Justice and the U. S. Statutory Court approve the arbitration system it may be in operation before the 1953 convention, and TOA should recommend machinery for the system's functioning at this convention.

The council will also take up the continued fight against censorship at the local and national levels, espe-

Eady Plan Alone Is Altered Under Pact

As opinions of the new Anglo-American film agreement continued favorable in distribution circles here at the weekend, indications were that approval of it certainly would be forthcoming today at separate meetings of the Motion Picture Association of America and the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers boards. MOTION PICTURE DAILY reported on Friday that the two trade organizations would vote approval.

The only significant modification in the existing US-UK pact is the proposed freezing of the American industry's share of the British Eady Tax Fund during the ensuing year. The terms of the original Eady Tax

Record Ad Campaign Is Set for 'Kilimanjaro'

One of the largest advertising campaigns ever set by 20th Century-Fox for a single motion picture has been programmed for Hearst magazines and newspaper supplements from Coast-to-Coast for Darryl F. Zanuck's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro."

The record drive, designed to saturate a readership total of upwards of 130-million, is timetabled to coincide with the fall pre-release engagements of the production. Four color spreads will hit monthly issues of the magazines and weekly supplements.

Included on the magazine roster are Cosmopolitan, Good Housekeeping, Harper's Bazaar, House Beautiful and Town and Country. The American Weekly, Pictorial Review and The Comic Weekly are the supplements to feature full page ads and spreads.

Complementing the ad total will be special publicity layouts, feature stories and picture spreads dealing with aspects of the film's international backgrounds and personality profiles of stars Gregory Peck, Susan Hayward and Ava Gardner.

In addition, 7,500 newspapers will be serviced with a variety of mats and stills, and 1,000 radio and TV stations will receive a program based on the film, its fashions and other material.

The independent producer explained that the stars best qualified to tour cities in aiding the sale of a film are those who have something to say of interest to audiences and who have a commanding stage presence.

"I think it's the subject matter that counts," Friedlob said, rather than the amount of money spent on the picture that attracts audiences.

Friedlob said that as an independent he has had no trouble financing his current pictures through the banks.

Ask Walsh to Rule On Projectionist 'Encounter' Boycott

The question whether the IATSE could legally direct or urge its projectionists in theatres across the country to refuse to show a film made abroad by Americans accused of having Communist ties has been put to "IA" international president Richard F. Walsh to answer, it was learned here at the weekend. Walsh is expected to confer shortly on the question with the union's attorneys.

Arose Last Month

The problem arose late last month when the Hollywood American Federation of Labor Film Council identified "Encounter," scheduled for United Artists distribution, as representing the work of four Americans whom the council says are or were Communists or refugees from subpoenas issued by the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Starring Paul Muni, the film was produced in Italy by John Weber and Bernard Vorhaus, with Joseph Losey as director and Ben Barzman as script writer. Roy M. Brewer, IATSE Coast representative, in a letter to House Committee chairman John T. Wood, charged the producers, director and writer with being either Communists, former Communists or refugees from subpoenas. The letter urged the Committee to "initiate legislation at once" to ban the importation and showing in this country of films made by Americans so identified.

Brewer Threat

If UA should release the picture and exhibitors book it, Brewer said, "we shall then initiate measures to call upon our fellow unionists in the projection rooms of American theatres not to show it." UA officials here at the time asked company president Arthur B. Krim, visiting in Europe, to look into the problem. No report of action by Krim has yet been made. The company signed the distribution deal about a year ago.

The Taft-Hartley Law, in the "unofficial" opinion of a film labor attorney who declined to be identified, would not prohibit the IATSE from asking, possibly directing, its projectionists to refuse to screen a film of "Communist character." However, he added, the law would have to be studied to determine the application to "Encounter."

those of the owners of major league teams. And they sure know their "statistics" on their favorite film stars.

Brown's fourth and final point is that if you go where "men gather," you'll hear them talking about sports, not movies.

Conceding that probably more men discuss sports than movies, we wonder why Brown doesn't suggest that his readers go where women—and children—gather, and find out whether they talk more about sports than movies.

They're newspaper readers, too, Mr. Brown.

Again Press A. T. & T. on Theatre TV Cost Data

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Theatre Television attorneys told the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. over the weekend that they wanted only an A T and T estimate of what transmission charges for theatre television would be and that they were not asking the company for firm figures.

In an attempt to get an answer on transmission costs, attorneys who will present the industry's theatre television case to the Federal Communications Commission said in a letter to the company that A T and T might be assuming "that we are asking for firm quotations to supply the kind and quality of television service we need and desire."

All they wanted, the industry attorneys went on, was A T and T's "best estimate" of what the charges would be and "a similar estimate as to when such service could and would be instituted." A T and T has previously dodged answering the request for such information on two occasions, the most recent being two weeks ago.

The industry attorneys told the company that "the existing service is wholly inadequate and unsatisfactory." They pointed out that the industry's technical experts had been able to obtain facts concerning the necessary equipment and its cost and that they saw no reason why A T and T couldn't do the same.

The entire point of the attorneys' questions in their two previous requests was "when and for how much?" They wrote to A T and T. "Neither one of those questions has yet been answered by you," they went on, "although five months' time has elapsed and a considerable amount of correspondence has been indulged in since we first directed our requests to you."

The letter was addressed to Ernest D. North, of the A T and T long lines department, who had answered the industry's latest request for cost estimates. It was signed by Vincent Welch and James Fly, attorneys for the Motion Picture Association of America, and by Marcus Cohen, attorney for the National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee.

Says US Producers Abide by the Code

BALTIMORE, Sept. 14.—Noting that "American film producers, bound by a production code, have done much to avoid religious affront," while "some makers of foreign films have not been so reverent in their treatment of religion," Sydney R. Traub, chairman of the Maryland Board of Censors, reported that the board has approved "The Miracle" for showings throughout the state. Traub stated, however, that the board condemns the film as "an obvious indignity to religious personages and beliefs."

Referring to the recent U. S. Supreme Court ruling which outlaws sacrilege as a basis for censorship of film matter by a state, Traub said, "We have no legal alternative other than to approve "The Miracle."

ACLU Protests State Censorship To Maryland's Governor

The American Civil Liberties Union has lodged a protest with the governor of Maryland over the continued efforts by the Board of Censors of that state to exercise censorship over motion pictures. In a letter to Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin, Jr., the chairman of the ACLU's National Council on Freedom from Censorship, Elmer Rice, noted that the recent U. S. Supreme Court decision in " The Miracle" case "placed films in the same category as newspapers and magazines with regard to the constitutional protection of freedom of the press."

Rice urged the governor "to advise the board that whatever it may feel its duties to be, that they may not in any way exercise a prior restraint over motion picture films."

300 Attend Warner Club Golf Tourney

Over 300, including many industry leaders, attended the Warner Club annual golf tournament on Friday at the Westchester Country Club in Rye, N. Y.

Prizes, handed out by toastmaster Sam Schneider, Warner executive, went to Leonard Palumbo, first low gross; G. Grahm, first low net, member; Ed Fabian, first low net, guest; D. Richards, longest drive, and Bill Heineman, nearest to pin.

Among the executives were Major Albert Warner, Spyros Skouras, Ned Depinet, George Skouras, Ben Kalmenson, Harry Kalmine, Charles Moskowitz, Al Schwalberg, Jerry Pickman, Herman Starr and Bob Mochrie.

TV Spots Subject Of SAG-FPA Talks

Another series of meetings between representatives of the Screen Actors Guild and the Film Producers Association on a new pact to govern TV production in the East will take place here this week.

Negotiations will be on the issue of TV spot commercials, it was learned, following virtual agreement on terms to govern TV programming and industrial films.

To Kick-Off Film, TV Tie-up Today

The mutual promotion agreement between New York theatres and WNBC-WNBT will be kicked off today by Skitch Henderson in his radio and television shows, which will include a listing of popular films at neighborhood and Broadway theatres. His TV program will highlight some institutional promotion, too.

The radio programs will be from 12:45 to 1:15 P. M. and 11:15 to 12:00 midnight. The TV program can be seen from 6:30 to 7:00 P. M.

The Organization of the Motion Picture Industry of the City of New York signed the agreement for some 500 New York theatres.

Brown Finishes U.K. Job

M-G-M producer Clarence Brown left London Saturday for New York. He will stop over a day before returning to Hollywood. In England, Brown produced and Delmer Daves directed "Never Let Me Go," Clark Gable-Gene Tierney co-starrer.

12-Hour Show for Regular Admission

Cincinnatti, Sept. 14. — A new high in entertainment quantity has been established in this area by the Acme Drive-in, located between here and nearby Hamilton, where a "Moviethon" is given on Saturdays, starting at dusk and continuing until dawn. The program consists of four full features and one chapter each of 12 serials, with nothing repeated in the 12-hour show, for which the regular admission scale prevails.

Production in UK Is At High Point: Lean

Film production in England currently is at a high point, with filming there by American companies having assisted in keeping 100 per cent employment at the studios, David Lean, British producer, reported here at the weekend. Lean was in New York from London and South Africa with his wife, actress Ann Todd, to arrange for editing and American distribution of his latest picture, "The Sound Barrier," in which Miss Todd stars.

The Britishers discussed their film at a luncheon for the trade press given by Lopert Films Distributing Corp., through which "The Sound Barrier" is expected to be released here. The picture, Lean said, is a drama dealing with supersonic aircraft developments.

Canadian Circuit in Regional Meetings

TORONTO, Sept. 14.—Officials of 20th Century Theatres, headed by N. A. Taylor, have started a round of regional meetings of managers.

A conference was held at Ottawa which was attended by Taylor, vice-president Raoul Auerbach and M. L. Axler, J. S. Kurk and Barney Fox from the Toronto head-office. The conference program was drawn up by Ernie Warren, manager of the Ottawa Elgin. The meeting at the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa, is part of a series which includes Sudbury, London and Hamilton, with a final session at Toronto on Sept. 30. The circuit is affiliated with Famous Players Corp.

Frank William, WB Booker in Chicago

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Frank E. Williams, 67, head booker for Warner Brothers' theatres here since 1930 and with the Coston Booking Circuit for many years prior to 1930, died here Thursday. He is survived by a sister and three brothers.

Zimbalist, Nebenzal Form New Company

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 14.—Formation of Motion Picture Artists, Inc., a new production company headed by Alfred Zimbalist and Harold Nebenzal, president and vice-president of the new company, was disclosed here at the weekend.

The company will specialize in exploitation films, one of which is "Miss Robinson Crusoe."

cially in the light of recent favorable decisions of the Supreme Court.

Sam Pinanski, TOA representative on the Council of Motion Picture Organization's committee of three: The period of COMPO's uncertainty is over and for the first time it seems amply financed. Tax repeal campaign has already obtained commitments from many senators and congressmen and a research program is underway to provide accurate figures and documentation for industry spokesmen who will appear before Senate and House committees asking for repeal of the Federal admissions tax.

Another round table conference between producers and exhibitors will probably be held in January, since studio leaders have asked for more frequent meetings with exhibitors.

Drive-in theatres committee, Jack Braunagel, chairman: Says there is still room for drive-in expansion, but "we are now to the critical point of overbuilding in drive-ins which leads to product fights."

Concessions Increase

Concessions committee, Harold J. Fitzgerald, chairman: Generally theatre concessions in 1952 will show a dollar increase. The chairman has appointed a concessions committee to supply year-round service to the exhibitor and to promote the growing awareness on the part of manufacturers that the motion picture field is a market for their merchandise.

Codes and ordinances committee, Henry Anderson, chairman: Unless nitrocellulose film is entirely eliminated from use in theatres, exhibitors are extremely handicapped in obtaining recognition in insurance rates or modification in building codes.

Report of the theatre equipment and accessories committee, R. H. McCullough, chairman: There is no shortage of equipment and equipment dealers report that business is very poor. Proper maintenance of equipment has suffered because of poor business in many situations and many exhibitors have held remodeling work and equipment replacement in abeyance because their resources are exhausted.

Now Has Sufficient Funds

Special TOA tax committee, Alfred Starr, chairman: The great proportion of small independent exhibitors subscribed almost 100 per cent to the national tax repeal campaign committee and it now has sufficient funds to do a business-like job.

State and local legislation committee, Morris Lowenstein, chairman: States and municipalities must be watched if the Federal admissions tax is repealed for attempts to channel savings into new amusement taxes, income taxes and local relief measures.

Organization and membership committee, E. D. Martin, chairman: TOA membership increased during the past year, and almost every member organization increased as well. A concentrated drive should be held for new members by all TOA units.

Film reviewing committee, R. W. Wilbey, chairman: The industry has channeled much less in the way of government public information films since the Korean war than it did, comparatively, for World War II This is due either to lack of coordination among government agencies or to the fact that the administration had nothing to say about Korea.

TOA Convention

move by TOA to have itself named a defendant in the action. All indications point to the committee's going on record as favoring that course. Many feel that TOA can make its best contribution to the fight against the suit in the role of a defendant and liken its present co-conspirator status to the amicus curiae role it essayed in the U. S. vs. Paramount case. The latter role, TOA leaders hold, proved totally ineffectual in staving off competitive bidding and other phases of the final Paramount decree regarded as objectionable by most exhibitors.

Had TOA been a defendant in the Paramount case, they reason, a much different final decree probably would have resulted. Now, they say, if the 16mm. suit is to be an all-industry fight, which they believe it should be, TOA wants "in" as a defendant, in which role it believes it can fight the most effectively.

On Today's Agenda

The legal advisory committee's agenda for tomorrow also includes the last-minute scrutiny and consideration of the proposed industry arbitration draft, on the results of which may hinge convention action on approval or disapproval of TOA's participation in the plan.

However, early sentiment here reveals no serious opposition to TOA participation, at least for the initial 18 months' trial period. It was largely through TOA's persistence and effort over recent years that the current attempt to provide a new arbitration system for the industry was made.

The executive committee, still in session at a late hour this afternoon, was scheduled to discuss plans for converting the existing TOA grievance panels in several sections of the country into conciliation panels. The committee also was to discuss the government 16mm. suit, industry arbitration, theatre television, particularly with respect to long lines charges of American Telephone & Telegraph Co., and the coming hearings before the Federal Communications Commission on industry applications for allocation of separate channels for theatre television.

Fabian Is Chairman

Expansion of TOA membership was another subject on the executive committee's agenda. S. H. Fabian is chairman of the committee.

Meeting tonight will be the nominating committee under the chairmanship of Morris Loewenstein. Sentiment is unanimous for the nomination of Alfred Starr to succeed Wolfson as president, and for the reelection of Charles Skouras as chairman of the board. For family and business reasons Skouras probably will be unable to attend the convention but his National Theatres will be well represented by most of its regional heads.

The nominating committee also will consider a plan for the election for the first time of three vice-presidents with the aim of maintaining a panel of ready-groomed executives for succession to the TOA presidency. At present, Walter Reade, Jr., and John Rowley are vice-presidents. J. J. O'Leary, treasurer, and Max Connett, secretary, are expected to be re-nominated. Nomination is tantamount to election as there is no opposition ticket in view.

Board Meets Today

The board of directors will meet tomorrow and the convention will get under way officially on Tuesday, continuing through Thursday. Registration, including wives of delegates and official guests, is expected to exceed 500.

The huge trade show being held in conjunction with the convention was officially opened today and will continue through Thursday also.

Gardner Will Welcome TOA Delegates to 'Snows' Preview

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—A special welcome to delegates to the Theatre Owners of America convention will be extended here tomorrow night by Ava Gardner, star of Darryl F. Zanuck's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro," who will head the reception line in accepted State Department fashion to greet exhibitors and their wives attending a preview of the picture at the Uptown Theatre.

Miss Gardner, will fly to Washington tomorrow afternoon from New York, accompanied by Al Lichtman, director of distribution. Edwin W. Aaron and Arthur Silverstone, Western and Eastern sales managers for 20th Century-Fox, respectively, will also attend. The star will be hostess at a press reception in her Shoreham Hotel suite in the afternoon.

Crusade For Freedom Will Laud TOA Members For Support

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Members attending the 1952 convention of the Theatre Owners of America opening here tomorrow will hear a laudatory message from the Crusade for Freedom.

National Crusade chairman Charles E. Wilson has written TOA president Mitchell Wolfson extending his appreciation to member exhibitors for their cooperation in exhibiting the Crusade for Freedom short subject, "The Big Truth," during the 1951 campaign. In his letter, Wilson declared that motion picture theatres in the smaller cities and towns have become centers of community activity and the Crusade urgently needs their cooperation. Wolfson will read the letter to the convention.

vidual and the hope of success portrayed in them, and which exists nowhere else in the world except in America."

Raibourn, in his address, titled "Motion Pictures and the Future," also dealt with the current economic conditions of the industry, the problem of home television competition, the advent of subscription-TV and other industry matters.

Despite recent set-backs, Raibourn stressed the vitality of the industry, pointing out that "tax figures indicate admission revenues in America at the theatre, are off only about 20 per cent from 1946 levels."

"For six years it has been shouted from some house-tops and whispered in many a corner saloon that the motion picture was through," continued the Paramount vice-president. "This seems an unusual outlook for the enterprise which are America's chief messengers to the rest of the world. They are more potent as messengers of America's attitudes than Marshall plans and ECA's. Foreigners pay us over $100,000,000 per year for the privilege of seeing our motion pictures and it is characteristic of human beings that they value things on the basis of what they cost them."

The big competitive factors since 1946, according to Raibourn, are home television and the peace-time return of other leisure-time activities, chiefly the automobile. Economic relocation, he added, was also caused by the ruling on the anti-trust split-up of film companies into production-distribution and exhibition units.

Raibourn called the problem of releasing theatrical feature films to home television economically "insuperable" at this time without the utilization of some form of subscription television. One subscription home TV system, Telemeter, is 50 per cent owned by Paramount.

Raibourn told his audience of engineers that motion picture producers and exhibitors view "a matured home television" differently. He predicted that "when 'pay-as-you-see' television comes in, the producer will probably have a dilemma as to choice of showing it in the theatre through the motion picture screen or in the home through the medium of the television set."

Confronting the producer at such a time, said Raibourn, are the problems of audience reaction in the home versus theatre response, the screen definitions of the two mediums, and the question of how the TV commercial will affect enjoyment of the picture.

Under the heading of "New Developments in the Theatre," Raibourn said he was impressed by Cinerama, the peripheral process which gives a three-dimensional effect, although he acknowledged that the economic feasibility of the system still must be demonstrated.

In the foreign field, Raibourn said that despite competition from revived film industries overseas, "individual motion pictures continue to appear which are sufficiently advanced to show world gross revenues which are well above" previous highs.

He paid tribute to many industry pioneers such as the late Thomas Edison, Adolph Zukor and Earl I. Sponable.

* Pictures featured in M. P. Daily advertising during past 6 weeks.

The Vital Spark that ignites the interest of exhibitors for specific pictures, so that it can flame into that enthusiasm which inspires real showmanship, is a soundly planned program of trade advertising. Without that, no exhibitor can be blamed for lacking in excitement over pictures which are offered to him virtually "cold".

It is obvious that the extent of a distributor's confidence in product he has available is generally indicated by either the telling—or lack of telling about it—in trade paper messages.

There never was a greater need for good product. There never was a greater interest among exhibitors to know about the product they should plan to obtain and exploit. There never was a keener readership of trade paper messages.

Requisites for successful motion picture trade paper advertising of good product are: (1) Start it soon enough; (2) Make it effectively proclaim the box-office values of the picture; (3) Publish a sufficient continuity of sales messages to impress and remind.

Soundly planned trade advertising is the basic telling that leads to successful selling. Its cost is dimes that bring dollars. It is the vital spark for the power that produces greatest results!

Okay Draft in Principle; Send Committee to Wash.

A meeting here yesterday of presidents, sales executives and attorneys of the Motion Picture Association of America member companies and United Artists approved "in principle" the draft of a proposed industry arbitration system. Final approval, according to a statement issued by the MPAA, will await further discussions with exhibitor representatives.

The meeting named a four-man committee to confer in Washington tomorrow with Abram F. Myers and Herman M. Levy, attorneys for Allied States Association and Theatre Owners of America, respectively, with a view to clarifying

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.--J. C. Shanklin, president of West Virginia Theatre Owners Association, has been informed by Rep. Elizabeth Kee of the Fifth Congressional District of West Virginia that she "very definitely" favors repeal of the 20 per cent Federal admission tax.

U. S. Industry Approves UK Pact Changes

The Motion Picture Export Association and the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers yesterday formally approved the agreement negotiated last week with representatives of the British government modifying the present Anglo-American film pact.

Announcement of MPEA board approval was made by Eric A. Johnston, Motion Picture Association of America and MPEA president. James A. Mulvey, chairman of the SIMPP distribution committee, made the announcement in behalf of the Society.

The modifications deal with the arrangements under which U. S. film companies are allowed to convert into dollars part of their earnings in the United Kingdom.

In 1951, it was agreed that the U. S. companies should be allowed to transfer, in addition to the amounts

Weekend Business Steadies 1st-runs Here to Fine Pace

Weekend business along Broadway buoyed this week's grosses, which hit a nice steady pace in most first-run theatres for the seven-day period. Virtually all situations felt a week-day drop in business due to the opening of the city's schools.

Outstanding attractions such as "Ivanhoe," "Monkey Business," and "The Quiet Man" continued to do extremely well at the box-office.

At Radio City Music Hall, a big $130,000 is seen for the seventh week of the record-breaking "Ivanhoe." The picture has already exceeded the $1,000,000 gross mark at the Hall, doing so by the end of the sixth week.

Holding up strong is "The Quiet Man" at the Capitol, where a sturdy $51,000 is estimated for its fourth inning. At the Roxy, which also features a stage show, "Monkey Business" is due to hit a healthy $75,000 for its second week. The next Roxy film attraction is "Somebody Loves Me," which will bow in Sept. 24.

At the Paramount, featuring "The Crimson Pirate" on screen and Louis Armstrong on stage, a fine $56,000 is forecast for the bill's third week. "High Noon" is doing excellently at the Mayfair, with $24,000 seen for its eighth stanza.

For the sixth week, a healthy $27,000 is indicated for "Sudden Fear" at Loew's State. A fairly nice $19,000 is estimated for the fourth week of "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" at the Astor.

"One Minute to Zero" will open Friday at the Criterion, replacing "The Big Sky," which is expected to do a fair $16,000 for its fourth and final week. The seventh stanza of "Affair in Trinidad" is due to hit a nice $16,000 at the Victoria.

'You for Me' Premieres

The premiere of "You for Me" at the Globe will be on Tuesday. The current Globe attraction, "Devil Makes Three," is expected to rack up a moderate $11,500. An all right $7,000 is seen for the fifth week of "Les Miserables" at the Rivoli.

Among off-Broadway theatres, "The Amazing Monsieur Fabre" opened to a robust $9,300 in its first seven days. "Ivory Hunter" at the Trans-Lux 52nd Street is doing extremely well, with $8,200 indicated for its fourth week. Also doing fine are the two long-standing hold-overs, "Man in the White Suit" at the Sutton and "Encore" at the Normandie. For its 25th week, the Sutton attraction is due to draw $6,500, while the 24th week of "Encore" is estimated to hit $5,200.

A Simple Statement of Fact

There is only ONE Airmail Edition in the motion picture trade paper field.

It is rushed by Air Mail not merely to a few people at the Hollywood studios—but to ALL the exhibition pacemakers in ALL areas of the United States (except those in the New York or nearby zones who get it by hand-delivery or first class mail).

Also, the Airmail Edition goes to the motion picture editors and critics of the leading newspapers, and other public opinion makers, throughout the nation—as well as to the film distribution executives of the industry.

Bringing the very latest news reports in concise factual form, by the fastest possible means—delivering it two to four days sooner to distant states—the Airmail Edition of Motion Picture Daily naturally is accorded preferred attention and keenest actual readership.

Compo Gets Off-side TV Sign Removed

Acting on complaints from the Council of Motion Picture Organizations, one of the country's biggest automobile manufacturing companies has ordered removal from its sales agencies' windows of a sign displaying the legend, "See the Best Movies on TV."

Disclosure of the motor company's action was made yesterday by Robert W. Coyne, COMPO special counsel, whose protest caused the sign's removal. Existence of the sign had been called to Coyne's attention by New York exhibitors.

Greshler Plans Big 'Call' Promotion

An extensive radio, television, trade paper and newspaper advertising campaign on his newly acquired British production, "Emergency Call," is planned by producer Abner J. Greshler.

The executive producer of "At War with the Army," the Martin and Lewis starrer, is here from Hollywood to arrange for a releasing deal for the British Butcher company's picture which was filmed at Nettleford Studios in London, with Anthony Steel and Earl Cameron heading the cast, under the direction of Lewis Gilbert. Greshler revealed additional plans to produce a series of trailers for a national tie-in with TV stations.

Both Steel and Cameron will be taken to Hollywood by Greshler next year to appear in a production. Greshler is currently negotiating for a story property which recently appeared in the Saturday Evening Post for the two British players.

"I can't go along with those who think that a cut in the advertising budget is a good business move, regardless of whether business is on the up-grade or down-grade," Greshler stated. "Extensive and punchy advertising is as vitally necessary in our field as it is in the merchandising field and we should take a page out of the book of the local department stores' methods of selling," he stated.

ANNOUNCING

THE SALES PLAN

OF M-G-M's

IVANHOE

LAST MAY at the "Seeing Is Believing" meeting at our M-G-M Studios, IVANHOE was screened for the first time to more than 100 representative exhibitors in the country and members of the press. Their enthusiasm for its possibilities as one of the outstanding box-office attractions of all time was so great that before determining a sales policy, we decided to set up pre-release test engagements in the following cities: New York, San Francisco, Cleveland, Houston, Atlanta and Evansville.

IVANHOE is now playing or has completed its engagement in the above mentioned cities to business that confirms the opinion of those who saw it at our Studios.

From time to time through the medium of the trade press, we have kept the trade at large informed of the business IVANHOE was doing. The total attendance on IVANHOE exceeds the total attendance on QUO VADIS in five of the above situations. The sixth, the engagement at the Radio City Music Hall, New York City (where QUO VADIS was not shown) has played to a greater gross than any other picture in the history of the theatre for the first five weeks of its run there and with one exception had a greater attendance than any other picture.

Following our "Seeing Is Believing" meeting in California, the picture was trade shown in almost 100 theatres and again the enthusiasm upon the part of those who saw it was overwhelming. It is now apparent that if the first-run pre-release exhibitions of IVANHOE are handled generally as in the case of QUO VADIS, the results at the box-office will equal or even exceed the results on QUO VADIS.

It is our intention to have a pre-release first-run exhibition of IVANHOE in each of the exchange centers across the country, then in each of the cities in the country of over approximately 100,000 population and after that in cities of under approximately 100,000. We expect that there will be approximately 500 of such pre-release first-run exhibitions. Within a reasonable time after these showings are completed, IVANHOE will be made available for general release.

Arrangements are now being made for the pre-release first-run showings of IVANHOE in each of the Exchange Centers.

After this announcement appears, our attention will be directed to pre-release first-run exhibitions in the other cities of the country beginning, of course, with the larger ones.

Any exhibitor who has a suitable theatre and is interested in the pre-release first-run exhibition of IVANHOE in his city should promptly and in writing advise our appropriate exchange office of his interest and we shall be pleased to afford him an opportunity of submitting an offer on the picture.

We are confident that we shall receive the same wholehearted cooperation in the marketing of this great production as we did on QUO VADIS and that our customers will find our plan on IVANHOE as much to their advantage as was the case with QUO VADIS.

bout from Philadelphia and record it on 35mm. film which will be ready for re-telecasting to the West one minute after the action occurs. The re-telecast will take place from NBC-TV studios here as soon as long lines West of Omaha are cleared, expected at about 11:15 P.M. (EDT). The showing at Eastern theatres will be simultaneous.

Meanwhile, it was learned that the Hippodrome, Cleveland; Orpheum, Omaha; Harris, Pittsburgh, and Rivoli, Toledo, plan to carry the fight telecast. Presumably, they are among the 36 theatres already said to be lined up for the trans-continental telecast.

In Albany, Fabian's Grand reported yesterday that orders were being received for seats from Syracuse and Utica following newspaper ads Sunday. The price at the 1,500-seater is $3.60, including the admission tax. A trailer advertising the planned telecast is being shown at Albany Fabian houses and tickets are being sold at Fabian's Palace and Leland, Albany; Proctor's, Schenectady, and Proctor's, Troy.

Harris Theatre in Pittsburgh Will Carry Walcott Bout

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 14.— The J. P. Harris Theatre here has added its name to the list of theatres which will televise the Marciano-Walcott fight Sept. 23. The 2,000 seat house will have a $3.50 top.

FP-C May Yet Get A Telecast Permit

TORONTO, Sept. 15.—Famous Players Canadian Corp. may yet get its Federal television broadcasting license, it is believed, following a statement by Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent on the eve of the start of TV by the government-owned Canadian Broadcasting Corp.

J. J. Fitzgibbons applied for a license for Famous Players some two years ago but the CBC alone went ahead with the installation of TV facilities although the theatre circuit had its equipment ready. St. Laurent has now stated that the government is giving active consideration to the part that privately-owned stations would play in the extension of TV in Canada. He denied that television would remain a public monopoly.

Racine Sues Over Rights to TV Films

A suit involving television distribution rights to 25 films was filed here in Federal Court by Racine Television Corp. against Masterpiece Productions, Herman Greenfield and Jules B. Weil..

The papers, seeking injunctive relief and damages, claim that Racine was assigned the rights to the 25 films from Motion Pictures for Television, Inc., and United Artists in 1951. Since that time, the suit charged, the defendnats have been infringing on Racine rights by licensing the films in question to television.

CBS Will Film Promotion of 'Snows' Premiere

Unprecedented coverage will be given the New York Rivoli world premiere of Darryl F. Zanuck's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" tomorrow night in a TV feature currently being produced by a specially-assigned CBS unit.

Concentrating on the effort and concentration that goes into planning a Hollywood premiere in New York, CBS staffers have been stationed in and around the 20th Century-Fox home office and the Rivoli Theatre filming scenes of executive confabs, artists at work on the campaign, posting of billboards, setting up the house and arranging for the hundred and one details that go to plan a premiere.

The news feature, which will pick up final footage of the celebrities and crowds tomorrow night at the opening will be edited overnight for showing on the 6:00 P. M. CBS news show Thursday.

Biggest in History

The television and radio coverage of the premiere will be the biggest in the history of the company with four major outlets on the scene to describe the arrival of celebrities.

Latest video network to add its cameras to the reportorial ranks is ABC-TV, which will program the pre-screening theatre activities as a 45-minute "live" show between 8:00 and 8:45 P. M. Martin Starr will "emcee" the on-the-spot show, to be highlighted by interviews with stars and glimpses of the throngs expected to jam the Broadway area for blocks around the theatre.

Pre-selling the special lobby show, ABC-TV will place ads in the Journal-American today and the Daily News tomorrow, calling attention to the event. Publicity emanting from the network for the next few days will concentrate on "The Snows of Kilimanjaro."

Complementing the newspaper advertising and publicity campaign, 20th Century-Fox started last Friday to herald the production on 75 spots on and adjacent to the ABC network's highest-rated shows. The TV announcements cycle will continue through Saturday.

The WJZ outlet in New York will augment the previously announced coverage consisting of Jinx Falkenberg for national radio presentation over NBC, Martin Starr handling WINS for local commentary, as well as the CBS-TV feature.

Offer Skiatron Stock For Public Sale

One hundred and eight thousand shares of additional common stock of Skiatron Electronics and Television Corp. at $2.50 per share will be offered publicly today by Coffin, Betz & Co., investment brokers.

Proceeds will be used by Skiatron for its planned subscription-vision test in New York City.

CBS Names Cummings

Irving Cummings, motion picture pioneer actor and director, has been named to produce CBS Radio's "Lux Radio Theatre," which has started its 19th season.

TOA Will Act Today On Arbitration

On the left, Charles Skouras, who was re-elected chairman of the board of TOA, and Walter Reade, Jr., who was elected executive vice-president and chairman of the executive committee.

Elect Starr

Rowley, Texas; Roy Cooper, Cal., and Myron Blank, Iowa, vice-presidents; Si Fabian, New York, treasurer; Albert M. Pickus, Stratford, Conn., secretary; Mitchell Wolfson and M. A. Lightman, Sr., co-chairmen of the finance committee, and Herman Levy, general counsel.

Heretofore TOA has had only two vice-presidents. The new plan calling for the election of an increased number is designed to provide the organization with ready material for succession to the presidency at the annual elections. Reade, whose title is a newly created one, will be the first in line for succession to the TOA presidency.

Morris Lowenstein of Oklahoma City was chairman of the TOA nominating committee which prepared the slate of officers elected today.

No Proposals to TOA Meet on 16mm. Suit

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15. — Theatre Owners of America legal advisory committee, headed by Herman Levy, will report to the convention without recommendations Wednesday on the government's anti-trust suit to force the sale of 16mm. films to television and their non-theatrical users. However, Levy will make recommendations subsequently, with little doubt that they will call for TOA approval of steps being taken by it to intervene as a defendant in the suit. At present the government charges it only with being co-conspirator.

TOA Committees Cite 'P.R.' Progress and TV Prospects

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15,—The Theatre Owners of America's public relations committee, under the chairmanship of Elmer C. Rhoden, and the theatre TV committee, headed by Robert J. O'Brien, issued lengthy reports at the weekend here as the organization's annual convention got underway.

"While great progress has been made by the industry in the past year in public relations, this progress has been represented largely in matters of expediency rather than in a strong well-coordinated all-industry program designed to establish and maintain a good character for the motion picture and the people who make them," was the conclusion drawn by the TOA "P.R." group.

The "P.R." report cited the "incomparable service rendered this industry by the Motion Picture Industry Council in the battle against Hollywood Reds." It described "the Reds" as "on the run," and reported "present indications are the industry will be given a clean bill of health, and Hollywood today is in a position to furnish a blueprint for action to other Commie-harrassed industries."

The TV committee reported: "It is clear that intermittent programming provides no real test of theatre television's potentialities. The real value of this new medium will become apparent only when it can offer some regularity of programming through which it can cultivate its own following. This coming year should bring efforts to develop a series of programs for the public and provide the exhibitor with some regularity of usage so that his fixed costs can be prorated over a broader base."

TOA Board Bids Exhibitors Take Censorship Action

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.— Today's meeting of the Theatre Owners of America board recommended that exhibitors and exhibitor organizations take affirmative action in opposing censorship laws in their areas, after reviewing recent U. S. Supreme Court decisions. However, it stated it regards as unfair the placing of the burden on exhibitors of testing such laws.

States and municipalities should study the Supreme Court rulings and take the necessary steps themselves to see that their censorship statutes conform with those decisions, the TOA board feels.

The board also devoted extended attention to immediate long range plans for expanding TOA membership in new areas.

California Theatres Association of San Francisco, previously unaffiliated, was admitted as a member and Roy Cooper was elected to the TOA board as representative of the former.

Herman Hunt, independent exhibitor of Cincinnati, was also elected to the board and will endeavor to organize a TOA unit in the Southern Ohio area. If successful, it will be TOA's first entry into that state.

Additionally, plans were made for extending aid to organizing movements in other unnamed Midwestern areas.

The board approved the continuation of TOA as a member of the Council of Motion Picture Organizations and, as heretofore, left the question of its affiliates becoming COMPO members entirely up to the individual units.

"We feel COMPO's aims are worthy and will continue to support it," Wolfson said. "Arrangements were made by which our members can contribute to approved COMPO activities, without contributing to all of them."

400 Register Before Start of Convention

Washington, Sept. 15. — Theatre Owners of America convention registration for yesterday and today approached the 400 mark with many more expected to register between now and the start of the business sessions tomorrow morning.

Arbitration Meets

and altering a number of points in the draft, one having to do with arbitration award damages.

The new distributors' committee consists of William F. Rodgers, chairman of the distributors' arbitration negotiating committee; Austin C. Keough, Paramount; Adolph Schimel, Universal, and Robert W. Perkins, Warner Brothers. The latter three are their companies' general counsels. Rodgers is vice-president of Loew's-M-G-M.

The committee will confer with the two exhibitor associations' attorneys "to complete a draft which will be submitted later to exhibitor organizations," according to the MPAA statement.

Rodgers Will Talk

Meanwhile, TOA's annual convention, now meeting in Washington, is scheduled to take up the subject of arbitration at an afternoon session today. Part of the session, according to an agenda which was prepared several days in advance, will be given over to an address by Rodgers entitled, "Distribution Looks at Arbitration." Other convention speakers who this afternoon will discuss arbitration are TOA officials Mitchell Wolfson, S. H. Fabian, Levy and Walter Reade, Jr.

The draft is the product of several recent months' work by committees, sub-committees, attorneys' committees and other offshoot units of the Industry Conference on Arbitration. The Conference, made up of delegates from exhibition and distribution, has convened twice so far and may convene at least once again before an arbitration system is adopted, if a draft can be agreed upon.

Thursday to consider and act upon such revisions, if any. Allied States' Abram Myers also will sit in at the Wednesday meeting with the distribution representatives.

Little doubt was left of TOA's desire to see an industry arbitration plan adopted and put into effect at the earliest possible moment following a press interview at the close of TOA's afternoon board meeting today.

Alfred Starr, newly elected TOA president, said that while some individuals might not be as well off were there to be no arbitration plan, he is convinced that most of the industry will be benefitted by it in proportion to the degree of good faith they bring to it.

"If a distributor or exhibitor should regard the arbitration plan as a roadblock, up to which they can do anything, arbitration will fail," Starr said. "However, if they both are ruled by the spirit rather than the letter of the plan, the industry and they will benefit by it."

Mitchell Wolfson, retiring president, said he hopes to see arbitration in operation in the industry within the near future, possibly this year.

'Hopeful Spirit'

Levy, chairman of the TOA legal advisory committee and a member of the arbitration drafting group, said that TOA will approach the suggestions to be made by distribution on Wednesday for possible revisions of the arbitration plan "in the same constructive and hopeful spirit that it has brought to consideration of the draft to date."

Levy pointed out that every effort to act on the draft will be made before the convention closes Thursday, inasmuch as the TOA board is not scheduled to meet again until mid-February in Los Angeles. Action long before then will be considered essential, he said.

The problem of companies such as Republic being made parties to an arbitration plan which will itself be made a part of the decree if approved by the Department of Justice and the Federal Statutory Court in New York has been clarified, it was learned.

Such companies will voluntarily subscribe to the arbitration plan and will be bound by it, but will not be made parties to nor will they be bound by any other part of the Paramount decree.

TOA '53 Convention Set for Chicago

Washington, Sept. 15. — Theatre Owners of America's 1953 convention will be held Oct. 31 to Nov. 4 in the Conrad Hilton Hotel, Chicago. Under plans recently worked out, the TESMA-TEDA trade show, being held in conjunction with the Allied States convention this year, will be TOA's next year.

Kindly Commit Suicide!

THE Department of Justice has charged 12 members of the motion picture industry with conspiring to keep their products off television screens.

Collier's magazine has come to the defense of the picture industry with a full-page editorial that exposes the full implications of this action.

Collier's magazine points out that, if this anti-trust suit is successful, it would be, in effect, a command to the picture companies to commit suicide.

Collier's explains that if the Department can make its case stick in regard to 16-millimeter films—and the companies refuse to make more of them—the way is open to order film companies to release their 35-millimeters for TV.

And Collier's adds that the possible effects of such a decree may not be good for TV, itself.

You will want to read every word of this editorial—it's in the Collier's that's out now. And you will probably want to distribute reprints of it, too. To order reprints, write:

Okay Draft in Principle; Send Committee to Wash.

A meeting here yesterday of presidents, sales executives and attorneys of the Motion Picture Association of America member companies and United Artists approved "in principle" the draft of a proposed industry arbitration system. Final approval, according to a statement issued by the MPAA, will await further discussions with exhibitor representatives.

The meeting named a four-man committee to confer in Washington tomorrow with Abram F. Myers and Herman M. Levy, attorneys for Allied States Association and Theatre Owners of America, respectively, with a view to clarifying

Canadian Summer Grosses Increase

OTTAWA, Sept. 15. — Attendance figures for motion picture theatres throughout Canada will show higher box-office returns for the summer months of 1952 than for 1951.

While many more Canadians are now on a 40-hour week than last year, allowing more time for amusement, it is also learned that weekend attendance this summer was poor.

Rep. Kee of W. Va. Opposes Ticket Tax

Washington, Sept. 15.—Rep. Elizabeth Kee of the Fifth Congressional District of West Virginia has advised J.C. Shanklin, president of West Virginia Theatre Owners Association, that she is "very definitely in favor of repeal of the (Federal admission) tax."

U. S. Industry Approves UK Pact Changes

The Motion Picture Export Association and the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers yesterday formally approved the agreement negotiated last week with representatives of the British government modifying the present Anglo-American film pact.

Announcement of MPEA board approval was made by Eric A. Johnston, Motion Picture Association of America and MPEA president. James A. Mulvey, chairman of the SIMPP distribution committee, made the announcement in behalf of the Society.

The modifications deal with the arrangements under which U. S. film companies are allowed to convert into dollars part of their earnings in the United Kingdom.

In 1951, it was agreed that the U. S. companies should be allowed to transfer, in addition to the amounts

Weekend Business Steadies 1st-runs Here to Fine Pace

Weekend business along Broadway buoyed this week's grosses, which hit a nice steady pace in most first-run theatres for the seven-day period. Virtually all situations felt a week-day drop in business due to the opening of the city's schools.

Outstanding attractions such as "Ivanhoe," "Monkey Business," and "The Quiet Man" continued to do extremely well at the box-office.

At Radio City Music Hall, a big $130,000 is seen for the seventh week of the record-breaking "Ivanhoe." The picture has already exceeded the $1,000,000 gross mark at the Hall, doing so by the end of the sixth week.

Holding up strong is "The Quiet Man" at the Capitol, where a sturdy $51,000 is estimated for its fourth inning. At the Roxy, which also features a stage show, "Monkey Business" is due to hit a healthy $75,000 for its second week. The next Roxy film attraction is "Somebody Loves Me," which will bow in Sept. 24.

At the Paramount, featuring "The Crimson Pirate" on screen and Louis Armstrong on stage, a fine $56,000 is forecast for the bill's third week. "High Noon" is doing excellently at the Mayfair, with $24,000 seen for its eighth stanza.

For the sixth week, a healthy $27,000 is indicated for "Sudden Fear" at Loew's State. A fairly nice $19,000 is estimated for the fourth week of "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" at the Astor.

"One Minute to Zero" will open Friday at the Criterion, replacing "The Big Sky," which is expected to do a fair $16,000 for its fourth and final week. The seventh stanza of "Affair in Trinidad" is due to hit a nice $16,000 at the Victoria.

'You for Me' Premieres

The premiere of "You for Me" at the Globe will be on Tuesday. The current Globe attraction, "Devil Makes Three," is expected to rack up a moderate $11,500. An all right $7,000 is seen for the fifth week of "Les Miserables" at the Rivoli.

Among off-Broadway theatres, "The Amazing Monsieur Fabre" opened to a robust $9,300 in its first seven days. "Ivory Hunter" at the Trans-Lux 52nd Street is doing extremely well, with $8,200 indicated for its fourth week. Also doing fine are the two long-standing hold-overs, "Man in the White Suit" at the Sutton and "Encore" at the Normandie. For its 25th week, the Sutton attraction is due to draw $6,500, while the 24th week of "Encore" is estimated to hit $5,200.

A Simple Statement of Fact

There is only ONE Airmail Edition in the motion picture trade paper field.

It is rushed by Air Mail not merely to a few people at the Hollywood studios—but to ALL the exhibition pacemakers in ALL areas of the United States (except those in the New York or nearby zones who get it by hand-delivery or first class mail).

Also, the Airmail Edition goes to the motion picture editors and critics of the leading newspapers, and other public opinion makers, throughout the nation—as well as to the film distribution executives of the industry.

Bringing the very latest news reports in concise factual form, by the fastest possible means—delivering it two to four days sooner to distant states—the Airmail Edition of Motion Picture Daily naturally is accorded preferred attention and keenest actual readership.

Compo Gets Off-side TV Sign Removed

Acting on complaints from the Council of Motion Picture Organizations, one of the country's biggest automobile manufacturing companies has ordered removal from its sales agencies' windows of a sign displaying the legend, "See the Best Movies on TV."

Disclosure of the motor company's action was made yesterday by Robert W. Coyne, COMPO special counsel, whose protest caused the sign's removal. Existence of the sign had been called to Coyne's attention by New York exhibitors.

Greshler Plans Big 'Call' Promotion

An extensive radio, television, trade paper and newspaper advertising campaign on his newly acquired British production, "Emergency Call," is planned by producer Abner J. Greshler.

The executive producer of "At War with the Army," the Martin and Lewis starrer, is here from Hollywood to arrange for a releasing deal for the British Butcher company's picture which was filmed at Nettleford Studios in London, with Anthony Steel and Earl Cameron heading the cast, under the direction of Lewis Gilbert. Greshler revealed additional plans to produce a series of trailers for a national tie-in with TV stations.

Both Steel and Cameron will be taken to Hollywood by Greshler next year to appear in a production. Greshler is currently negotiating for a story property which recently appeared in the Saturday Evening Post for the two British players.

"I can't go along with those who think that a cut in the advertising budget is a good business move, regardless of whether business is on the up-grade or down-grade," Greshler stated. "Extensive and punchy advertising is as vitally necessary in our field as it is in the merchandising field and we should take a page out of the book of the local department stores' methods of selling," he stated.

ANNOUNCING

THE SALES PLAN

OF M-G-M's

IVANHOE

LAST MAY at the "Seeing Is Believing" meeting at our M-G-M Studios, IVANHOE was screened for the first time to more than 100 representative exhibitors in the country and members of the press. Their enthusiasm for its possibilities as one of the outstanding box-office attractions of all time was so great that before determining a sales policy, we decided to set up pre-release test engagements in the following cities: New York, San Francisco, Cleveland, Houston, Atlanta and Evansville.

IVANHOE is now playing or has completed its engagement in the above mentioned cities to business that confirms the opinion of those who saw it at our Studios.

From time to time through the medium of the trade press, we have kept the trade at large informed of the business IVANHOE was doing. The total attendance on IVANHOE exceeds the total attendance on QUO VADIS in five of the above situations. The sixth, the engagement at the Radio City Music Hall, New York City (where QUO VADIS was not shown) has played to a greater gross than any other picture in the history of the theatre for the first five weeks of its run there and with one exception had a greater attendance than any other picture.

Following our "Seeing Is Believing" meeting in California, the picture was trade shown in almost 100 theatres and again the enthusiasm upon the part of those who saw it was overwhelming. It is now apparent that if the first-run pre-release exhibitions of IVANHOE are handled generally as in the case of QUO VADIS, the results at the box-office will equal or even exceed the results on QUO VADIS.

It is our intention to have a pre-release first-run exhibition of IVANHOE in each of the exchange centers across the country, then in each of the cities in the country of over approximately 100,000 population and after that in cities of under approximately 100,000. We expect that there will be approximately 500 of such pre-release first-run exhibitions. Within a reasonable time after these showings are completed, IVANHOE will be made available for general release.

Arrangements are now being made for the pre-release first-run showings of IVANHOE in each of the Exchange Centers.

After this announcement appears, our attention will be directed to pre-release first-run exhibitions in the other cities of the country beginning, of course, with the larger ones.

Any exhibitor who has a suitable theatre and is interested in the pre-release first-run exhibition of IVANHOE in his city should promptly and in writing advise our appropriate exchange office of his interest and we shall be pleased to afford him an opportunity of submitting an offer on the picture.

We are confident that we shall receive the same wholehearted cooperation in the marketing of this great production as we did on QUO VADIS and that our customers will find our plan on IVANHOE as much to their advantage as was the case with QUO VADIS.

The re-telecast will take place from NBC-TV studios here as soon as long lines West of Omaha are cleared, expected at about 11:15 P.M. (EDT). The showing at Eastern theatres will be simultaneous.

Meanwhile, it was learned that the Hippodrome, Cleveland; Orpheum, Omaha; Harris, Pittsburgh, and Rivoli, Toledo, plan to carry the fight telecast. Presumably, they are among the 36 theatres already said to be lined up for the trans-continental telecast.

In Albany, Fabian's Grand reported yesterday that orders were being received for seats from Syracuse and Utica following newspaper ads Sunday. FP-C May Yet Get A Telecast Permit

TORONTO, Sept. 15.—Famous Players Canadian Corp. may yet get its Federal television broadcasting license, it is believed, following a statement by Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent on the eve of the start of TV by the government-owned Canadian Broadcasting Corp.

J. J. Fitzgibbons applied for a license for Famous Players some two years ago but the CBC alone went ahead with the installation of TV facilities although the theatre circuit had its equipment ready. St. Laurent has now stated that the government is giving active consideration to the part that privately-owned stations would play in the extension of TV in Canada. He denied that television would remain a public monopoly.

Since that time, the suit charged, the defendnats have been infringing on Racine rights by licensing the films in question to television.

ONCE the World Series is over Easterners will again enjoy the zany antics of Jack Kirkwood, the funnyman who four years ago not only NBClowned around five mornings a week but also wrote the scripts. Since then he's been a Coast feature but comes mid-October, the "Jack Kirkwood Show" will be Coast-to-Coasted via Mutual every afternoon from Monday through Friday on a co-op sponsorship. . . . Jimmy Durante's initial "All-Star Revue," NBCast this Saturday, will feature Margaret Truman and Phil Harris. . . . Abby Greshler, just home from a business trip to England, heads for the Coast next week to start shooting a new telefilm series, "Peck's Bad Boy," situation comedy starring 12-year-old Jimmy Boyd who scored last season on several Frank Sinatra programs. Ed Helwick will script the series with Hal Walker directing the Greshler package. . . . Larry Berns, producer of the "Peggy Lee" and "Meet Miss Brooks" programs, in New York for a vacation. . . .

When we attended high school there, we not only ate most of our meals at the St. Clair Restaurant (owned by Sid's Dad) but while relaxing in a bit of pinnochle with his two older brothers, Abe and Dave, we had to baby-sit and listen while he did his saxaphone lessons. . . . Luden's Coughdrops and Candy will sponsor the new "20 Questions" series over the entire DuMont network, the show moving into the 10:00 to 10:30 P.M. Friday nite slot late next month. . . . Jackie Gleason is offering a lot of lettuce to have Joan Crawford appear as his first Guestar on his new CBS-TV series. . . . Just for the records, one of the unsung heroes of Max Liebman's "Your Show of Shows" is a lad named Howard Morris who is stooge, straight man and foil in most of the Caesar-Coca sketches. . . .

CBS Will Film Promotion of 'Snows' Premiere

Unprecedented coverage will be given the New York Rivoli world premiere of Darryl F. Zanuck's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" tomorrow night in a TV feature currently being produced by a specially-assigned CBS unit.

Concentrating on the effort and concentration that goes into planning a Hollywood premiere in New York, CBS staffers have been stationed in and around the 20th Century-Fox home office and the Rivoli Theatre filming scenes of executive confabs, artists at work on the campaign, posting of billboards, setting up the house and arranging for the hundred and one details that go to plan a premiere.

The news feature, which will pick up final footage of the celebrities and crowds tomorrow night at the opening will be edited overnight for showing on the 6:00 P. M. CBS news show Thursday.

Biggest in History

The television and radio coverage of the premiere will be the biggest in the history of the company with four major outlets on the scene to describe the arrival of celebrities.

Latest video network to add its cameras to the reportorial ranks is ABC-TV, which will program the pre-screening theatre activities as a 45-minute "live" show between 8:00 and 8:45 P. M. Martin Starr will "emcee" the on-the-spot show, to be highlighted by interviews with stars and glimpses of the throngs expected to jam the Broadway area for blocks around the theatre.

Pre-selling the special lobby show, ABC-TV will place ads in the Journal-American today and the Daily News tomorrow, calling attention to the event. Publicity emanting from the network for the next few days will concentrate on "The Snows of Kilimanjaro."

Complementing the newspaper advertising and publicity campaign, 20th Century-Fox started last Friday to herald the production on 75 spots on and adjacent to the ABC network's highest-rated shows. The TV announcements cycle will continue through Saturday.

The WJZ outlet in New York will augment the previously announced coverage consisting of Jinx Falkenberg for national radio presentation over NBC, Martin Starr handling WINS for local commentary, as well as the CBS-TV feature.

Offer Skiatron Stock For Public Sale

One hundred and eight thousand shares of additional common stock of Skiatron Electronics and Television Corp. at $2.50 per share will be offered publicly today by Coffin, Betz & Co., investment brokers.

Proceeds will be used by Skiatron for its planned subscription-vision test in New York City.

TOA Will Act Today On Arbitration

On the left, Charles Skouras, who was re-elected chairman of the board of TOA, and Walter Reade, Jr., who was elected executive vice-president and chairman of the executive committee.

Elect Starr

Rowley, Texas; Roy Cooper, Cal., and Myron Blank, Iowa, vice-presidents; Si Fabian, New York, treasurer; Albert M. Pickus, Stratford, Conn., secretary; Mitchell Wolfson and M. A. Lightman, Sr., co-chairmen of the finance committee, and Herman Levy, general counsel.

Heretofore TOA has had only two vice-presidents. The new plan calling for the election of an increased number is designed to provide the organization with ready material for succession to the presidency at the annual elections. Reade, whose title is a newly created one, will be the first in line for succession to the TOA presidency.

Morris Lowenstein of Oklahoma City was chairman of the TOA nominating committee which prepared the slate of officers elected today.

No Proposals to TOA Meet on 16mm. Suit

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15. — Theatre Owners of America legal advisory committee, headed by Herman Levy, will report to the convention without recommendations Wednesday on the government's anti-trust suit to force the sale of 16mm. films to television and their non-theatrical users. However, Levy will make recommendations subsequently, with little doubt that they will call for TOA approval of steps being taken by it to intervene as a defendant in the suit. At present the government charges it only with being co-conspirator.

TOA Committees Cite 'P.R.' Progress and TV Prospects

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15,—The Theatre Owners of America's public relations committee, under the chairmanship of Elmer C. Rhoden, and the theatre TV committee, headed by Robert J. O'Brien, issued lengthy reports at the weekend here as the organization's annual convention got underway.

"While great progress has been made by the industry in the past year in public relations, this progress has been represented largely in matters of expediency rather than in a strong well-coordinated all-industry program designed to establish and maintain a good character for the motion picture and the people who make them," was the conclusion drawn by the TOA "P.R." group.

The "P.R." report cited the "incomparable service rendered this industry by the Motion Picture Industry Council in the battle against Hollywood Reds." It described "the Reds" as "on the run," and reported "present indications are the industry will be given a clean bill of health, and Hollywood today is in a position to furnish a blueprint for action to other Commie-harrassed industries."

The TV committee reported: "It is clear that intermittent programming provides no real test of theatre television's potentialities. The real value of this new medium will become apparent only when it can offer some regularity of programming through which it can cultivate its own following. This coming year should bring efforts to develop a series of programs for the public and provide the exhibitor with some regularity of usage so that his fixed costs can be prorated over a broader base."

TOA Board Bids Exhibitors Take Censorship Action

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.— Today's meeting of the Theatre Owners of America board recommended that exhibitors and exhibitor organizations take affirmative action in opposing censorship laws in their areas, after reviewing recent U. S. Supreme Court decisions. However, it stated it regards as unfair the placing of the burden on exhibitors of testing such laws.

States and municipalities should study the Supreme Court rulings and take the necessary steps themselves to see that their censorship statutes conform with those decisions, the TOA board feels.

The board also devoted extended attention to immediate long range plans for expanding TOA membership in new areas.

California Theatres Association of San Francisco, previously unaffiliated, was admitted as a member and Roy Cooper was elected to the TOA board as representative of the former.

Herman Hunt, independent exhibitor of Cincinnati, was also elected to the board and will endeavor to organize a TOA unit in the Southern Ohio area. If successful, it will be TOA's first entry into that state.

Additionally, plans were made for extending aid to organizing movements in other unnamed Midwestern areas.

The board approved the continuation of TOA as a member of the Council of Motion Picture Organizations and, as heretofore, left the question of its affiliates becoming COMPO members entirely up to the individual units.

"We feel COMPO's aims are worthy and will continue to support it," Wolfson said. "Arrangements were made by which our members can contribute to approved COMPO activities, without contributing to all of them."

400 Register Before Start of Convention

Washington, Sept. 15. — Theatre Owners of America convention registration for yesterday and today approached the 400 mark with many more expected to register between now and the start of the business sessions tomorrow morning.

Arbitration Meets

and altering a number of points in the draft, one having to do with arbitration award damages.

The new distributors' committee consists of William F. Rodgers, chairman of the distributors' arbitration negotiating committee; Austin C. Keough, Paramount; Adolph Schimel, Universal, and Robert W. Perkins, Warner Brothers. The latter three are their companies' general counsels. Rodgers is vice-president of Loew's-M-G-M.

The committee will confer with the two exhibitor associations' attorneys "to complete a draft which will be submitted later to exhibitor organizations," according to the MPAA statement.

Rodgers Will Talk

Meanwhile, TOA's annual convention, now meeting in Washington, is scheduled to take up the subject of arbitration at an afternoon session today. Part of the session, according to an agenda which was prepared several days in advance, will be given over to an address by Rodgers entitled, "Distribution Looks at Arbitration." Other convention speakers who this afternoon will discuss arbitration are TOA officials Mitchell Wolfson, S. H. Fabian, Levy and Walter Reade, Jr.

The draft is the product of several recent months' work by committees, sub-committees, attorneys' committees and other offshoot units of the Industry Conference on Arbitration. The Conference, made up of delegates from exhibition and distribution, has convened twice so far and may convene at least once again before an arbitration system is adopted, if a draft can be agreed upon.

Eric A. Johnston, MPAA president, presided at yesterday's distribution meeting, which was held at the Hotel Astor. Among those attending were: Keough, William Michel, Jack Cohn, Irving Moross, Abe Schneider, Abe Montague, Al Schwalberg, Louis Phillips, Al Daff, John J. O'Connor, Schimel, Ted Black, Richard Yates, Rodgers, J. Robert Rubin, Nicholas Schenck, Charles Reagan, John Caskey, Howard Levinson, Al Lichtman, Ben Kalmenson, Sidney Schreiber, Perkins, Monroe Goodman, Robert Clark, Ned E. Depinet, Robert Mochrie, Joyce O'Hara.

Thursday to consider and act upon such revisions, if any. Allied States' Abram Myers also will sit in at the Wednesday meeting with the distribution representatives.

Little doubt was left of TOA's desire to see an industry arbitration plan adopted and put into effect at the earliest possible moment following a press interview at the close of TOA's afternoon board meeting today.

Alfred Starr, newly elected TOA president, said that while some individuals might not be as well off were there to be no arbitration plan, he is convinced that most of the industry will be benefitted by it in proportion to the degree of good faith they bring to it.

"If a distributor or exhibitor should regard the arbitration plan as a roadblock, up to which they can do anything, arbitration will fail," Starr said. "However, if they both are ruled by the spirit rather than the letter of the plan, the industry and they will benefit by it."

Mitchell Wolfson, retiring president, said he hopes to see arbitration in operation in the industry within the near future, possibly this year.

'Hopeful Spirit'

Levy, chairman of the TOA legal advisory committee and a member of the arbitration drafting group, said that TOA will approach the suggestions to be made by distribution on Wednesday for possible revisions of the arbitration plan "in the same constructive and hopeful spirit that it has brought to consideration of the draft to date."

Levy pointed out that every effort to act on the draft will be made before the convention closes Thursday, inasmuch as the TOA board is not scheduled to meet again until mid-February in Los Angeles. Action long before then will be considered essential, he said.

The problem of companies such as Republic being made parties to an arbitration plan which will itself be made a part of the decree if approved by the Department of Justice and the Federal Statutory Court in New York has been clarified, it was learned.

Such companies will voluntarily subscribe to the arbitration plan and will be bound by it, but will not be made parties to nor will they be bound by any other part of the Paramount decree.

TOA '53 Convention Set for Chicago

Washington, Sept. 15. — Theatre Owners of America's 1953 convention will be held Oct. 31 to Nov. 4 in the Conrad Hilton Hotel, Chicago. Under plans recently worked out, the TESMA-TEDA trade show, being held in conjunction with the Allied States convention this year, will be TOA's next year.

Kindly Commit Suicide!

THE Department of Justice has charged 12 members of the motion picture industry with conspiring to keep their products off television screens.

Collier's magazine has come to the defense of the picture industry with a full-page editorial that exposes the full implications of this action.

Collier's magazine points out that, if this anti-trust suit is successful, it would be, in effect, a command to the picture companies to commit suicide.

Collier's explains that if the Department can make its case stick in regard to 16-millimeter films—and the companies refuse to make more of them—the way is open to order film companies to release their 35-millimeters for TV.

And Collier's adds that the possible effects of such a decree may not be good for TV, itself.

You will want to read every word of this editorial—it's in the Collier's that's out now. And you will probably want to distribute reprints of it, too. To order reprints, write:

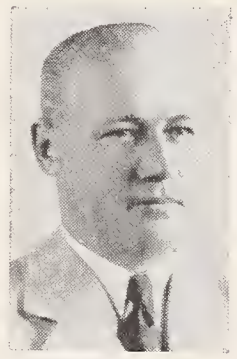
Arbitration Plan Discussed by TOA In Closed Session

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Pursuing a policy and pattern of holding executive sessions closed to the press, essayed with only indifferent success at its 1951 convention in New York City, Theatre Owners of America conventioneers here went into a locked-door session this afternoon to discuss the industry arbitration plan.



The arbitration proposals were summarized for the session by Herman Levy, TOA general counsel, and, section by section, were opened to discussion from the floor. At the end of a two-hour discussion, less than one-third of the draft had been exposed and examined. At the time of adjournment, the reaction of the convention to those proposals it had heard was generally favorable. The process of explanation and discussion

Business Optimism Voiced by Wolfson

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Sounding a hearty note of optimism for the future of theatre business and the state of the industry generally, Mitchell Wolfson, retiring president of the Theatre Owners of America, urged exhibitors to "work on our common problems united in mind and spirit" in his opening address to the annual convention here today.

Wolfson said the crises of today in the industry will in retrospect look like the uncertainty brought on by the advent of radio in the 1920's if each branch of the industry does its best job now.

Already, he pointed out, Congressional support for repeal of the Federal admission tax is being given the

1st UA Film at the Roxy in 25 Years

The first sound motion picture ever made in which not a word is spoken, "The Thief," starring Ray Milland, will have its world premiere at the Roxy Theatre here following the engagement of "Somebody Loves Me," it was announced yesterday by William J. Heineman, U. A. vice-president in charge of distribution.

"The Thief," a Harry M. Popkin production, is the first United Artists release to be shown at the Roxy in 25 years. The first U. A. release to play at the Roxy, coincidentally, was the picture with which the late S. L. Rothafel opened his showplace in March, 1927, "Love of Sunya," starring Gloria Swanson.

Walcott Bout Tickets in NY Theatres Sell at Good Pace

Ticket sales at three New York theatres taking the telecast of the Jersey Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano bout are proceeding at a fairly good to brisk pace. A fourth theatre, the 50th Street Guild, sold out a week ago at $4.80 per seat.

Fabian's Fox in Brooklyn, which seats 4,060 and is charging $3.00 per seat, including admission tax, reported a "fairly brisk pace" of ticket sales for Tuesday's event, following the appearance of ads in New York dailies. The manager of the house said that one-quarter of the theatre is already sold out. Tickets went on sale Friday.

Response of the public to the bout telecast was described as "good" by the Century Circuit, whose Marine, Brooklyn, and Queens, Queens Village, L. I., are carrying the title match. The two theatres are charging $2.50 for general admission and $3.00 for loges, with both prices including the tax. The circuit expects ticket sales to pick up markedly when advertisements begin appearing this week in local newspapers.

Meanwhile it was learned that the S-3 Drive-in Theatre at Rutherford, N. J., plans to charge $10 per car for the fight telecast, with tickets going on sale tonight. The $10, which includes the tax, pays the admission for "as many people as are in the car," according to a spokesman for the drive-in. The S-3 is the first drive-in in the nation to be equipped with theatre television.

With only six days left until the fight date, neither Loew's, Warner, or RKO theatres have signed up to take the event in their theatre TV equipped houses. The three circuits continue to balk at the price being charged by Theatre Network Television, which has acquired the television rights to the bout. The charge, which includes all long lines "tabs," runs from a 90-cent per seat minimum guarantee to $1.35, according to the number of seats in the house.

The possibility still exists, however, that the hold-out theatre TV-equipped circuits will make a last-minute deal with TNT, which claims it has already lined up 36 theatres for the trans-continental telecast. Another theatre, the Carib at Miami, has signed for the telecast, it was learned.

Two Laboratories Will Process Fight Films

Two laboratories will process the Jersey Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano fight film, Sidney Kramer, RKO Radio short subject sales manager, disclosed yesterday. The fight takes place Tuesday in Philadelphia.

The Pathe and the DeLuxe laboratories will process prints, he said. While no decision will be reached as to the number of prints to be made until the conclusion of the fight, Kramer recalled that for last year's Sugar Ray Robinson-Randy Turpin bout 1,300 prints were made, apart from shipments overseas.

House Prober Cites Television Code

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—The chairman of a House sub-committee investigating the content of television and radio programs said today that he was very impressed with the recently adopted Television Standards of Practice Code.

Orren Harris (D. Ark.), chairman of the House Interstate Commerce sub-committee, declared that if the television industry lived up to the code, it "wouldn't have any trouble" from the government or from anybody else. Harris added, however, that although he was impressed with the code, he thought it would be hard to live up to as a practical matter.

Brown A Witness

Harris made these statements during the testimony of H. Brown, Jr. director of the television department of the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters. Brown was one of three witnesses appearing before the committee today as it reopened its investigation, begun last spring. Others who testified today were Ralph W. Hardy, NARTB director of government relations, and Hollis M. Seavey, representing the Mutual Broadcasting System.

From the Allen B. Du Mont network and American Broadcasting, the committee will hear additional witnesses here tomorrow and will then go to New York for hearings on Thursday and Friday of next week.

Needs Publicizing

Harris said he had not even heard of the code until a few weeks ago, and thought it could stand considerable publicizing. He agreed with Brown, he said, in the wisdom of the television industry's setting up such a voluntary code in the "initial days of television."

Brown told the committee that since the code was adopted last March the Television Code Review Board had received a little over 100 complaints, some of which were in the corrective stage now. In no case, he said, had it been necessary to go beyond the corrective stage and take disciplinary action. Under the terms of the code, he explained in a statement, the only disciplinary course the Review Board can take is to enjoin an erring station from using the board's seal of good practice.

Want to Test Shows

Hardy informed the committee that since the code was adopted there has been an increasing desire among producers of package shows to test their pictures before they go out on shows, in an effort to save an investment that might be lost if the finished production were found to be undesirable.

All three witnesses stressed the efficacy of a voluntary system of self-regulation, as against a check by an agency of the government.

Newsreel Parade

HIGHLIGHTS of the Presidential campaign spotlight current newsreels, which feature both "Ike" and Stevenson. Other sequences include the Korean war, the arrival of Russian diplomats here and NATO meeting in France.

MOVIETONE NEWS, No. 76—Ike-Taft confab. Gov. Stevenson warns against fear. Double dates in blouses. Delta Wing Jet Bombers. Ava Gardner in big town. Reds warned, then bombed.

NEWS OF THE DAY, No. 206 — Taft pledges aid to Ike. Stevenson jibes at accord. Korea Red bases blasted. Russia sends new diplomats. Stamp honors servicewomen. New penguin home. Blind golfers championship.

'Ivanhoe Week' Set To Begin Sept. 22

M-G-M has set the week of Sept. 22 as "Ivanhoe Week," at which time the production will be playing or will have played in every U. S. exchange center.

In line with this, all M-G-M and National Screen branches will display promotion material on the picture for the entire weeek. In cities where the picture will be current, or will open soon, all advertising accessories will give the name of the theatre and the play-dates.

'Ivanhoe' Canadian Bow

M-G-M's "Ivanhoe" will have its Canadian premiere at Loew's in Toronto starting Oct. 2, it was announced following conferences between Ted Gould, general sales manager for M-G-M Films of Canada, and home office executives. Currently showing in Toronto at Loew's key theatre is "The Merry Widow," which will be continued for a third week before "Ivanhoe" opens.

Pinanski at Detroit Meet

DETROIT, Sept. 16.—Samuel Pinanski, who serves with Trueman Rembusch and Al Lichtman as one of three co-chairmen who are directing the Council of Motion Picture Organizations' activities, may be on hand to attend the Allied Theatres of Michigan convention Oct. 20-22. Pinanski has accepted Allied's invitation and is attempting to arrange his schedule to be able to appear for an address Oct. 21 at the Tuller Hotel.

NEW YORK

Because of the extraordinary quality of this picture, "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" will be available for special pre-release engagements in selected theatres in a limited number of large cities for October showing. These pre-release engagements will generate exploitation possibilities and word-of-mouth publicity seldom before attained by any motion picture.

National Pre-Selling

WOMAN'S Home Companion adds a twist to its advertising in today's MOTION PICTURE DAILY, suggesting a twirl of the dial to tune out television, as the family goes out to see "Companion-Approved Movies" in which the McCann-Erickson agency proves that it knows how to make friends and influence advertisers. . . . Redbook names "Sudden Fear" as its October choice of the "Picture-of-the-Month" with feature editor Florence Somers promising that "no audience will be running up the aisles for popcorn during this exicting film." Recently, we inadvertently credited this RKO Radio Joan Crawford starring vehicle to United Artists, something UA didn't mind but RKO Radio did. . . . LIFE devotes its front cover to United Artists's silent siren, Rita Gam, star of "The Thief," with an inside story spreading over three pages, an accomplishment that makes the first silent picture in 25 years seem like something-for-wishful-thinking. A national promotion campaign accompanies the innovation, and we assure them of great popular success, based on the sample. Among sponsoring advertisers are Aquascutum Raincoats, Pabst Beer, Meilink Safes and Clinton Swan men's clothes, if that gives you any idea of the plot.

Lustre-Creme places its wonderful double-page spread of 36 Hollywood stars and their current pictures, under the heading, "Don't Be a Living Room Captive," for another insertion in This Week, in Sunday's New York Herald Tribune proving that what's good can be done again. Tag line says: "Save these two pages as your directory of outstanding movies." The same issue contains a color-splash story by Louis Berg, entitled "Hollywood Discovers Mars," which will set off more space ships between the planets.

The next Sunday edition of Pictorial Review will carry an interesting and revealing story on Leo Genn. It was written by Louella Parsons and tells about Genn's career when he was a practicing barrister in London. Genn also did the commentary at the time of the coronation of King George VI, in addition to reading the death speech at the time of the King's passing. He is featured in Paramount's "Pleasure Island" and M-G-M's "Plymouth Adventure."

Four-day radio and TV coverage of tonight's world premiere of 20th Century-Fox's "Snows of Kilimanjaro" will give the picture one of the biggest send-offs ever accorded a film on the air waves. Internationally, the Armed Forces Radio Service will carry a tape recording of the entire proceedings at the Rivoli theatre, and locally, Jinx Falkenburg will interview personalities for her NBC show.

WALTER BROOKS

Reviews

"Yankee Buccaneer"

(Universal-International)

A GOOD ADVENTURE YARN, wrapped in color by Technicolor, has been fashioned by producer Howard Christie. The sea tale, highlighted by action shots of the Spanish Main and bold American Navy men, should please both the young and the old, for there is sufficient high adventure to make most people forget the cares of the day.

The story-line itself has all the tested ingredients. Jeff Chandler is the ship captain, gruff, hewing to the book, respected, but feared. Scott Brady is the executive officer, bearing sealed orders; he is young, upright, callow, and Chandler resents him. George Matthews is the chief petty officer, knowing both men as men, confident in their ability, and himself realistic, amiable and slightly inclined towards the bottle. Joseph Calleia is the Spanish governonr, hiding a raw cruelty behind sophistication, glibness and culture. Suzan Ball is the Portuguese countess, whose arrival among men living a lonely naval life stirs rivalry and chivalry in Brady and Chandler. The sealed orders are for the American man-of-war to turn buccaneer, and its men to lose their identities and become prey-hunting pirates. The idea of this is to find where the pirates are, then to send the information to the American fleet, which attacks in force.

The finding of the countess upon an island resolves the problem. She is fleeing the very Spanish governor who is in league with the pirates and the Portuguese fleet. Both plan to waylay a wealthy cargo from Rio. Her difficulties entangle the Americans with the Spanish governor, whom they outwit and capture, and from whom they obtain the information they seek.

There are fights, ambushes, storms and disasters at sea, and even a fight between Brady, trying to repair a broken rudder, and a shark.

Frederick de Cordova directed, from a story and screenplay by Charles K. Peck, Jr. Others in the cast include Rodolfo Acosta, George Mathews, James Parnell and David Jansen.

Running time, 86 minutes. General audience classification. For October release.

"The Magic Box"

(J Arthur Rank-Mayer-Kingsley)

A LAVISH, STAR-STUDDED film biography of England's William Friese-Greene, "The Magic Box," dramatizes the evolution of motion pictures. The historical validity of the film may be open to question, but not however the fact that what meets the eye is a generally slow unfolding of the frequently recited genius-ahead-of-his-time story.

Exhibitors will note immediately that the cast and credits of the film read like a "Who's Who" of the British industry—which should aid immeasurably in selling the film over here. Robert Donat stars as the unsung hero of Eric Ambler's screenplay, directed by John Boulting and produced by Ronald Noame. In minor supporting roles are to be seen Laurence Olivier, Leo Genn, Barry Jones, Glynis Johns, Michael Redgrave, Margaret Rutherford, Peter Ustinov, Emlyn Williams and others of equal rank. The appearance of these well-known faces in such an array of unimportant roles serves to distort the proper dramatic emphasis in what is an episodic story anyway.

The film opens in 1921, the very day Friese-Greene died at a London distributors' meeting, and tells the story of the man in two extended flashbacks. The first is introduced by his second wife, Margaret Johnson, and covers the inventor-photographer's latter days between 1896 and 1921, during which he went deeper and deeper into debt and obscurity in his persistent efforts to perfect his conception of color motion pictures. The second—and most entertaining flashback—shows Friese-Greene as the successful young society photographer whose great dream of bringing motion to pictures is realized at the expense of fortune and security.

For reasons never completely clear, details essential to a compact, dramatic story are never presented. These include the exact extent of Friese-Green's contributions to the development of motion pictures and how the industry eventually grew up and left him behind. There is, too, no attempt to bridge the period between his two wives to bring unity to his story.

Individual scenes, however, are brilliantly written and played with humor and pathos. The whole production, photographed in beautiful color by Technicolor, has received much care in sets, costumes and effect.

Designed originally as a cooperative effort for showing at the Edinburgh Film Festival last year, the film is listed as a presentation of Festival Film Productions and J. Arthur Rank. The assumption by the producers that Friese-Greene's activities were vital to the development of films was the subject of lively controversey last year.

Running time, 93 minutes. General audience classification. Release date Sept. 24.

Temporary Drop In Texas Revenue

DALLAS, Sept. 16.—Phil Isley, president of Allied of Texas and of Isley Theatres, with operations in Texas, California and Oklahoma, has sent a telegraphic message to all members of Allied warning them about the usual temporary drop of business in Texas in the first four weeks following the opening of school.

Isley advised members not to be discouraged because this was a normal trend, and he urged theatre owners to book as many outstanding pictures during the period as they could and to double their merchandising and selling efforts during this time.

A NEW LIGHT control system designed to dim fluorescent lamps smoothly and efficiently at the turn of a knob has been developed by General Electric engineers at Nela Park in Cleveland. The system consists of a dimming control unit and especially designed matching ballast. By means of a circuit which maintains the starting voltage but changes the current to affect the light output, fluroescent lamps can be turned on instantly at any point in the dimming range. By twisting a knob the lamps may be dimmed from maximum brightness untill they produce practically no light at all. General Electric's specialty transformer and ballast department will produce the system for use with either the conventional 40-watt preheat type of lamp, or with the new 40-watt "rapid start" fluorescent lamps. Two sizes of controls will be made, one operating up to eight lamps, and the other up to 35 lamps. The system is said to be effective in creating special lighting effects, particularly with colored fluorescent lamps.

Carbonic Dispenser, Inc., of Canfield, Ohio has announced a new means of carbonating water in beverage producing or dispensing equipment. Trade-named "Supercharger," the carbonators convert ordinary tap water into concentrated water without use of mechanical agitators or refrigeration equipment. A specially designed jet intake nozzle foamesces and recirculates the water at high velocity into a pressure tank containing CO_2 gas. This action completely destroys the surface tension of the water and as a result, countless bubbbles are formed. These bubbles are filled with and surrounded by CO_2 gas making for high saturation. The carbonators are built with 100 to 500-gallon per hour capacities. Both horizontal and vertical tank units are available.

A mop wringer tank designed to make use of lightweight interlocking gearing to multiply pressure has been marketed by Geerpres Wringers, Inc., Muskegon, Mich. The gearing consists of a double row of rack teeth assembled so that they are staggered to give continuous action and prevent the gears from slipping out of mesh sideways. Both wringers and buckets are electroplated. Single and double tank mopping outfits are available.

are to remain content as a co-conspirator or join in the fight (as defendants) to clear our name of this charge."

He urged, too, that the fight be carried to the public and that labor union and other groups be enlisted.

"What is behind this conspiracy suit?", Rhoden asked. "Who inspired it? Have we come to the place in American life where self-preservation is unlawful? It is a matter of record that one government official, since charged with bribery and other misconduct in office, accepted a fee of $50,000 for his presumed influence in obtaining films for a phonevision test. Have similar tactics been employed in the present case?

Have Right to Know

"We believe we have a right to know and I urge this convention to call on our law-makers to get the answers."

Rhoden also called attention to "some producers who are selling their older pictures to television in conflict with our previous requests" and asked: "What are we going to do about it?" "We owe our allegiance," he said, "to those who have shown the courage and good judgment to turn down a few quick dollars, even at the expense of being charged with conspiracy for protecting the interests of their primary market."

"Also," he continued, "we must recognize and appreciate the decision by many of our outstanding stars to reserve their talents to the screen. These personalities deserve our loyal support, and by support I mean to do our utmost in merchandising the pictures in which they appear. They are working for us and us alone. Let us work for them."

The keynote Rhoden sounded in his speech was one of confidence in the future of the industry. With it, he said, there should and must be industry unity—to meet common problems and fight common battles. He lauded the campaign being waged by the Council of Motion Picture Organizations for repeal of the Federal admission tax and urged TOA members to "get behind COMPO, extend its presentation, enlarge its scope and authority, and let it become the voice of the industry, fortified by the wholehearted support of all phases of this business, so that it will be well prepared to cope with any problem which now exists or may arise to confront the industry."

Reasons for Confidence

Rhoden reviewed the current reasons for confidence in the future of the industry, the marked improvement in theatre attendance, better product coming from Hollywood studios, which he hailed enthusiastically and called upon the convention to go on record as recognizing, and "extending our thanks and appreciation to the producers "In checking releases from July 1 to Nov. 1," Rhoden told the convention, "we find not only better pictures than we were given last year, but more of them. To be specific, in the stated four months period in 1951 there were 29 pictures of outstanding quality, whereas in the same period of this year there will be 43. That is an increase of almost 50 per cent."

He called upon exhibitors to unite to do a better selling job for the better pictures being delivered, to "strive harder to get better box-office returns. We must create new selling approaches, build our grosses so that film returns to the studios will enable them to make even greater pictures.

"We have no right to demand more and better pictures" Rhoden reminded, "unless we as theatre owners are willing to reward them with better audiences."

The industry's public relations have been improved, he declared, with considerable credit for that also going to Hollywood, specifically to the Motion Picture Industry Council "and its executive secretary, Art Arthur" for spearheading the fight to rid Hollywood of Communist influences and sympathizers. The result, Rhoden said, has been better newspaper treatment for Hollywood and better relations with veterans and other civic organizations.

"I would like to see this convention adopt a resolution commending the splendid work of the MPIC in the Hollywood 'Red' battle."

All of the resolutions suggested by Rhoden will be acted upon by committees or the convention before its adjournment.

In reviewing reasons for industry optimism, Rhoden also cited the progress being made on the industry arbitration plan and its promise of improved industry relations within. He cited the progress being made in research, in the fields of tri-dimensional film, improved projection giving a sense of depth to the picture and of large screen theatre television in color, such as Eidophor and other systems promise.

He also cited as a reason for optimism the waning addiction to television by those who have owned sets for any extended periods. A further reason for welcoming the future, he said, is the increase in the birth-rate in America, citing its immediate benefit to drive-ins, many of whose patrons are there because their children are brought with them. He urged special attention by exhibitors to the "audience of tomorrow" and commended producers for making pictures suitable for the new, young audiences available at reasonable prices.

PARTIES, SUPPERS, LUNCHEONS CROWD TOA'S SOCIAL PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—The social side of the Theatre Owners of America convention here is being well taken care of. Cocktail parties, buffet suppers and luncheons crowd the program.

Last night a huge delegation saw a preview of 20th Century-Fox's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" at the Uptown Theatre here, with Ava Gardner on hand to greet the exhibitor visitors and their wives. Tonight, Cola-Cola was host at a showboat party that took the delegates up the Potomac to Mt. Vernon, with dinner and refreshments aboard, and the weather was ideal.

Women visitors will be guests at the White House tomorrow and will be conducted on a tour of the renovated mansion by the President and Mrs. Truman. Numerous other special events for the ladies have been scheduled.

Tomorrow night, the Pepsi-Cola Co. will be host at a cocktail party and seafood dinner, and Thursday night the convention will close with the big social event of the TOA week, the president's banquet, at which the motion picture companies will be hosts. Eric Johnston, Motion Picture Association president, will be the principal speaker. Alfred Starr, new TOA president, will make his inaugural address. Entertainment will include Morton Downey, the Air Force band and others.

Mack Posts Prizes For Early Birds

Washington, Sept. 16.—Irving Mack of Filmack, Chicago, a visitor at the Theatre Owners of America convention here, is cooperating in endeavoring to solve a convention problem of late arrivals for the morning sessions. He has posted handsome clocks as prizes each day of the three-day convention, to be awarded to lucky ticket-holders among those arriving in the first 20 minutes of the opening of meeting room doors.

First winner this morning was Mrs. Dorothy Lang, a Clarksburg, W. Va., exhibitor.

Trade Show Hogs Play in D. C. Press

Washington, Sept. 16.—Theatre Owners of America officials are not too happy about the kind of publicity their annual convention in session here is drawing in Washington newspapers. Every feature and syndicated writer who has had a convention story published thus far has written exclusively about the trade show, mostly refreshment displays, being held in conjunction with the convention. Plenty of popcorn, candy and soft drinks, the writers' refrain goes, but it's a film trade show, where are the films?

Rodgers Sees

told TOA members that "very little remains to be straightened out" at tomorrow's scheduled session here of distribution representatives and TOA and Allied States officials, at which questions raised concerning the arbitration proposals by company presidents at their meeting in New York on Monday will be taken up.

Largely Mechanical

"The remaining difficulty," Rodgers said, "is largely mechanical, a matter of language, which I believe will be ironed out tomorrow."

Rodgers' address was made before the TOA convention session, held immediately afterward, which was to listen to a report on the arbitration draft and to act on it.

Rodgers told the luncheon gathering of approximately 250 exhibitors that the presidents of all distribution companies and the heads of all of the participating organizations are recommending acceptance of the arbitration draft to their boards of directors.

Recalling that other attempts to establish codes for the improvement of trade relations in which he had participated had failed, Rodgers stated: "This will not fall through as the others did."

Rodgers was careful to remind his listeners nevertheless that much still remains to be done before an industry arbitration plan can become a reality. It must have the approval of the New York Federal Statutory Court, the approval of the Department of Justice and the approvals of the boards of directors of all the participating organizations including those of the individual distribution companies.

Those ratifying actions cannot be taken, Rodgers said, until after the Court and Justice Department have given the plan their approvals. All prior approvals, he indicated, will be conditional only. Rodgers also took pains to remind his TOA listeners that credit for any final achievement must be shared equally by all of the participating organizations. While paying tribute to TOA's contributions, particularly those of its general counsel, Herman Levy, its president, Mitchell Wolfson, and its former executive committee chairman, S. H. Fabian, Rodgers accorded equal credit for the progress made thus far to the other participating organizations — Allied States, the distributors, the Independent Theatre Owners Association of New York, Metropolitan Motion Picture Theatres Association and Western Theatre Owners.

"The combined efforts all," Rodgers said, "are responsible for bringing about this understanding between us which should result in less of our time being spent in fighting and more in tending to our business."

The arbitration of disputes he said, will be only a part of the benefits to be derived from the plan. A more valuable reseult, Rodgerse said, will be the bringing together "of all of us whose common objective is the betterment of the industry."

Berger Urges Tax Repeal

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 16.—Benjamin Berger, president of North Central Allied urged repeal of the 20 per cent Federal admission tax at a meeting of the Southern Minnesota Exhibitors Association held here today at the Nicollet Hotel. Stanley D. Kane, executive counsel for North Central Allied, also spoke at the meeting, urging the exhibitors to work for repeal of the tax.

TOA Session

will be continued at the third business session of the convention, starting tomorrow morning. Which also will be closed to the press.

Levy stated following today's meeting that some suggestions for changes in language of the arbitration draft had developed and that, conceivably, more could develop tomorrow. The suggestions for changes will be taken into the meeting with distribution and Allied States' representatives to be held here tomorrow for the purpose of clarifying and, perhaps, altering other draft language in consequence of distributor questions which arose at the meeting of company presidents in New York on Monday.

Attending the latter meeting tomorrow will be W. F. Rodgers, distributors' arbitration chairman; Austin Keough, Robert Perkins and Adolph Schimel, distribution attorneys; Mitchell Wolfson, S. H. Fabian and, possibly, Levy, for TOA; Abram F. Myers for Allied States and Emanuel Frisch for the Metropolitan Motion Picture Theatres Association. Levy holds a power of attorney for Western Theatre Owners, and the other conference member, the Independent Theatre Owners Asociation of New York, will be contacted by telephone during the meeting if a vote is necesary. All suggested changes in the draft, both by distributors and TOA, were described here tonight as "minor" and unlikely to create problems of any kind.

Acceptance Predicted

When the arbitration draft has been fully described to and discussed by the TOA convention, which is expected to be by noon tomorrow, the TOA membership will vote on its acceptance or rejection, with acceptance freely predicted on all sides. If agreements are reached tomorrow on changes in language proposed by those present at the exhibitor-distributor meeting, Rodgers said the arbitration draft would be released for publication, providing the exhibitor organizations had no objections, as soon as the changes in language agreed upon could be entered in the draft. TOA tonight said it had no objections to release of the draft.

Following the TOA convention examination of the arbitration draft, the convention is scheduled to continue in closed session for discussion of the government's 16mm. anti-trust suit, on the conclusion of which TOA will decide whether it will seek to intervene to have itself made a defendant in the action, or merely to continue in the status of an accused co-conspirator, which it now has. Indications also point to a vote in favor of seeking the status of a defendant.

TOA officers gave as the reason for maintaining secrecy on that session their apprehension that some member might be quoted in a manner that would jeopardize TOA's legal status as a party named in the suit. Nevertheless, with Thursday morning's business session, devoted to exhibitor grievances and trade practice complaints, also closed to the press, it now appears that in all of the three days of the convention, only two or three general busines sessions will have been open to trade reporters and others. All of the board, executive committee and other committee meetings also were locked-door sessions.

At the TOA New York convention last year, efforts to close a number of the sessions, particularly the trade practice complaints session, to the press were thwarted by the membership when put to a vote. This year, the membership was not given an opportunity to express itself on the question.

The convention, scheduled to open officially at 9:30 this morning, actually did not get under way until 10:30. About half the 25 seats in the convention hall were filled at that time, but more came in later. The meeting room was decorated with plugs for arbitration—large colorful valances being hung at eye-arresting angles proclaiming that "Industry Salvation Is Industry Arbitration"; or warning: "Arbitrate or Strangulate," or asking: "R. U. the 'U' in Unity?"

A. Julian Brylawski, convention chairman, called the meeting to order. On the dais were: Levy, Fabian, Wolfson, Elmer Rhoden, R. J. O'Donnell and Myron Blank.

An address of welcome was made by F. Joseph Donahue, president of the District of Columbia Commissioners, in which theatre owners of the district were commended for their response to many appeals for civic and charitable causes and patriotic endeavors. Brylawski was personally complimented for his leadership in many such activities which, Donahue said, have done so much to improve community spirit and good relations in the district.

Press Won't Be There

Levy told the convention he believed arbitration and the 16mm. suit would be the most important subjects to be placed before the convention. When they are, the industry press will not be permitted to be present.

Discussing the ASCAP tax on non-film music, Levy told the convention it was a legally justified impost and that there were no satisfactory ways of avoiding it, other than to dispense with ASCAP music entirely.

Brylawski, substituting for Pat McGee, a co-chairman of the Council of Motion Picture Organizations' campaign for repeal of the Federal admission tax, who was not present, lauded COMPO's work and told the convention he "hopes to see COMPO given the complete support of all exhibitor organizations." Listeners recalled that in other years COMPO had something less than the complete support of TOA.

Wolfson, retiring TOA president, called upon the membership to help achieve the goals of better liaison between individual TOA units and between them and the TOA New York office; better trade press relations; better general press relations, better public relations; increased TOA membership and development of industry and exhibition research. Every TOA unit should conduct at least a one-month membership drive annually, Wolfson advised.

Convention registrations were closed tonight with a total slightly in excess of 500.

Smiles and Spending at TOA Meet Show Theatre Business Is Better

Washington, Sept. 16.—If observers need any assurance that theatre business is better now than it was a year ago they need only contrast the atmosphere at the Theatre Owners of America convention in session here this week with that which prevailed last year at the New York convention.

Smiles and jocularity are abundant now where they were rare then; spending by visitors is more noticeable because there's more money; complaints are fewer, even about film terms, and there is less tension, worry and puzzlement than a year ago. The exhibitors are relaxed and enjoying themselves.

industry with the campaign not yet completely under way; publications across the country are siding with the industry against the government's 16mm. anti-trust suit; industry arbitration machinery is in process of being developed; progress is being made in theatre television and in the utilization of home television for exploiting pictures and selling theatre tickets.

Finally, Wolfson said, "more and more patrons are returning to the movies and indications are that business will continue to improve."

Wolfson said in his travels around the country as president of the TOA in the past 12 months he found "many exhibitors guilty of a self-induced sleeping sickness—even among many who kept their theatres in good shape and worked hard to sell their product." He said he referred to exhibitors who go it alone failing to support their exhibitor organizations and doing nothing to aid in solving industry problems of equal importance to all.

"Show me an exhibitor who says all his problems are local ones and I'll show you a badly deluded person. Lets work on our common problems united in mind and spirit," Wolfson concluded.

Mexico, Too, Has Controls Troubles

Mexico City, Sept. 16.—The trade is disturbed by talk in government circles that the new administration of President-elect Adolfo Ruiz Cortines, who begins a six-year term on Dec. 1, will establish a ministry to supervise the motion picture industry along with official information and tourism. The trade objects to being included in such a ministry, considering it as too much government control.

story, stars Gregory Peck, Ava Gardner and Susan Hayward.

From Hollywood, Europe and India stars have been arriving during the past week to help celebrate the debut of the production, which marks the 25th anniversary of Darryl F. Zanuck as a motion picture producer.

Zanuck will join 20th Century-Fox president Spyros P. Skouras as hosts of the evening, while Miss Gardner tops the roster of screen personalities who will be present, among them Bette Davis, Anne Bancroft, Ava Norring, Gloria De Haven, Marlene Dictrich, Gary Merrill, Lisa Ferraday and Ezio Pinza.

Headed by New York Mayor Vincent Impellitteri, noted figures invited include: Sailing Baruch, Jr., Joseph Bernard, Yolande Betbeze, Sid Caesar, John Carradine, Count and Countess Cassini, Bennett Cerf, Ilka Chase, Harry Conover, Nancy Craig, Vicki Cummings, John Daly, Martha Deane, Laraine Day and Leo Durocher, James A. Farley, Pegeen Fitzgerald, Nina Foch, Arlene Francis, Betty Furness, Eva Gabor, Dave Garroway, Billy Gaxton, Bernard F. Gimbel, Ben Grauer, Nancy Guild, John Gunther, Rudolph Halley, Johnny Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Lahr, Bill Leonard, Robert Q. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. John Loder, Henry R. Luce, Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Lynn, Tex McCrary, Eloise McElhone, Irene Manning, Garry Moore, Elliott Nugent, Lew Parker, Roberta Peters, Georgie Price, Gregory Ratoff, Irene Rich, Billy Rose, Lanny Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sherwood, Commissioner Walter Shirley, Herb Shriner, Michael Todd, Mel Torme, Gene Tunney, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., Fred Waring, Paul Winchel and Jane Wyatt.

The premiere will have extended radio and TV coverage with three networks concentrating on the event. In advance of the opening, CBS-TV put a special camera crew to work filming events leading up to the culmination of the premiere. They will be on hand filming final footage this evening of the celebrities and crowds at the theatre. This feature news report will be broadcast over CBS tomorrow night.

Zanuck Is Here for 'Snows' Premiere

Darryl Zanuck, vice-president of 20th Century-Fox, who returned from Europe yesterday to attend the world premiere of "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" at the Rivoli Theatre tonight, reported that while in Europe he purchased the rights to the novel, "The Egyptian," by Mika Waltari. He will star Marlon Brando.

Casey Robinson, who did the script for "Kilimanjaro", was with Zanuck and has returned to do the screenplay for "The Egyptian," which will be Zanuck's only personal production for 1953. Zanuck will return to California immediately after the "Kilimanjaro" premiere.

India's Code Based On U.S. Industry's

Ninety per cent of the production code of India is based on the U. S. industry's Production Code, and the other 10 per cent is based on the codes of industries in other countries, Chandulal Shah, president of the Indian Motion Picture Producers Association, reported at a press interview here yesterday.

Shah, an Indian producer-director and a member of the official film censor board of that country, heads a delegation of 14 top-ranking personalities of the Indian industry which arrived here Monday for a four-week, eight-city tour of the U. S., including a visit to Hollywood. The group came here at the joint invitation of the U. S. State Department and Eric A. Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America.

For the first time in the history of the Indian film industry, Shah reported, pictures in both English and color by Technicolor are being made there. One such picture has been completed and another is now being edited, he said. Producer Gabriel Pascal next year will make a film in India, a country which has 3,000 theatres and 100 16mm. mobile units, he added.

Accompanying the visitors on their tour will be Harry Stone of the MPAA's international division.

Members of the Indian delegation include film actresses Nargis, Suryakumari, Arundhati Mukherji and Bina Rai; actors Raj Kapoor, Prem Nath and David Abraham; producer-director Chandulal Shah, who is also president of the Indian Motion Picture Producers Association; producer-director-exhibitor B. N. Sircar; producer-director K. Subramanian; Nitin Bose, producer-director; Keki Modi, director and exhibitor; M. R. Acharekar, art director; D. P. Divecha, cinematographer.

The visitors will be in Washington, Sept. 19-22; Knoxville, Sept. 23-24; Chicago, Sept. 24-27; Denver, Sept. 28-29; Salt Lake City, Sept. 30-Oct. 2, and Hollywood, Oct. 3-12. Main social event of the visit to the film capital will be a gala dinner attended by American screen stars and other Hollywood notables.

The group will return to India by way of Hawaii and Japan.

Services Tomorrow For Adam Adams, 66

Services will be held tomorrow at his home at Orange, N. J., for Adam A. Adams, 66 years old, who died on Monday at St. Michael's Hospital in North Bergen from a heart attack which he suffered on July 13.

Adams, a veteran in exhibition in North New Jersey, was the owner of the Park and Adam theatres in Newark, the Park Lane at Palisades Park, and the Astor at North Bergen. Surviving are his widow, Marie, three sons, Thomas, Emanuel and Peter, and a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Pantages.

Art Directors Hit Gov't 16mm. Suit

Hollywood, Sept. 16.—In a complaint to U. S. Attorney-General McGranery, the Society of Motion Picture Art Directors has protested the 16mm. government suit.

The complaint stated, in part: "Our pictures which are made for big screen viewing are bound to suffer if final exhibition is confined to small screen viewing. Improper showing of our top product could irreparably damage the prestige which this industry has built in the past 40 years."

be so recognized.

Additionally, the Quigley Overseas Grand Award was given to the owner and manager of the Argora Theatre, Brussels, Belgium.

In addition to Wolfson, E. E. Whittaker, operations manager of Georgia Theatres, and Harry Mandel, director of advertising-publicity and assistant to the vice-president of RKO Theatres, participated in the presentation. A large number of the nation's top showmen and visiting industry executives witnessed the presentation of the Awards, among them J. Meyer Schine, M. A. Lightman, Sr., Leon Bamberger, Arthur Silverstone, E. W. Aaron, H. M. Richey, Pierce McCoy of Georgia Theatres, (the 1948 Grand Award winner), Robert Wilby, J. C. Shanklin, Herman Levy, Morris Loewenstein, Irving Mack, Joseph Stein, Myron Blank, Jack Levin, and others.

Judges for the awards are the advertising, publicity and exploitation executives of distribution home offices and major circuits. The presentations are made for the best showmanship displayed in a large situation where managers may have the help of home office publicity departments, and the other for small situations where the manager generally is limited to his own initiative and effort.

To File Grievance vs. WB on Solicitation

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 16.—AFL Film Council voted today at its regular weekly meeting to file a labor grievance with NLRB against Warner Brothers studio demanding return of "all monies exacted from employees by representatives of management" for the Eisenhower-Nixon campaign.

In a statement issued after the meeting, council chairman Roy Brewer declared the organization considers political solicitation as allegedly conducted at Warner studio in "violation of our contractual relations."

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 16.—In reply to the action of the AFL Film Council this afternoon Harry M. and Jack L. Warner issued the following statement.

"We Warner Brothers have always exercised our American rights to campaign for the person and party of our choice. We Warner Brothers intend to continue to exercise this American right. We shall campaign as volunteers for Dwight D. Eisenhower in the current campaign and we shall ask friends and employees who feel as we do to join us in helping to elect this great American to the presidency of the U. S. Those who do not agree are perfectly free to vote and campaign as they see fit."

fer rights under the Eady Plan in respect of the current year ending Sept. 30, 1952, and in respect of the year ending Sept. 30, 1953. However, the distributors are entitled to invest their share of the Eady reserve in 27 different ways, including co-production in England.

It was estimated that the amount by which the dollar transfers of American companies will be abated will be $5,900,000. MPEA took only 20 minutes to approve the agreement at its meeting here Monday.

U.K. Industry Groups Disturbed Over Eady Plan 'Non-Cooperators'

LONDON, Sept. 16.—All four British trade associations are disturbed at the growing number of Eady Plan "non-cooperators" or defaulters. Latest returns show that 266 exhibitors now are refusing to pay the levy representing an estimated loss to the pool of £80,500 a year.

Some theatremen are depositing the amounts due from them in separate banking accounts and say they will hand over the cash as soon as their complaints over the pool's administration are dealt with. Others frankly admit they will never pay until the so-called voluntary levy is made statutory.

At a recent private dinner in his honor, Sir Wilfrid Eady told trade representatives very plainly that if the voluntary levy broke down the government would not hestitate to make the plan statutory. Sir Wilfrid is no longer in the government service but it may be taken that his speech represents the Treasury view.

The suggestion has been made that the government may do away with the present Eady plan and substitute therefore a scheme of handing over to producers a percentage of the aggregate yield of entertainment tax from theatres. The best-informed political circles, however, maintain that that is unlikely in the extreme. In the present economic position no UK government would dare hand over a production subsidy from the Exchequer, it was said.

One main objection among theatremen is to the plan's fixed-price levy. Objectors claim that the levy should be on a percentage basis. But the overall grievance relates to the manner in which the pool is distributed. It is pointed out that a mediocre picture which is booked only because it carries a quota ticket gets a share of the pool with no guarantee that its producer won't go on turning out low-grade product. That, say the complainants, is the direct opposite of the purpose for which the fund was established.

Arbitration Plan Discussed by TOA In Closed Session

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Pursuing a policy and pattern of holding executive sessions closed to the press, essayed with only indifferent success at its 1951 convention in New York City, Theatre Owners of America conventioneers here went into a locked-door session this afternoon to discuss the industry arbitration plan.

The arbitration proposals were summarized for the session by Herman Levy, TOA general counsel, and, section by section, were opened to discussion from the floor. At the end of a two-hour discussion, less than one-third of the draft had been exposed and examined. At the time of adjournment, the reaction of the convention to those proposals it had heard was generally favorable. The process of explanation and discussion

Louis Grossman

The Grand Award winners for 1951, to whom plaques were presented at the convention ceremonies, were Louis Grossman, manager of the RKO Alden Theatre, Jamaica, New York, winner of the bronze plaque for large situations, and John Harrison, city manager for Georgia Theatre Co. at Waycross, Ga., winner of the award for smaller situations.

John Harrison

Both winners are unique in contrasting ways: Grossman is the first New York City showman to win the Grand Award in the 18-year history of this showmanship recognition and encouragement project; Harrison, on the other hand, is the third manager of the Georgia Theatres organization to

Business Optimism Voiced by Wolfson

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Sounding a hearty note of optimism for the future of theatre business and the state of the industry generally, Mitchell Wolfson, retiring president of the Theatre Owners of America, urged exhibitors to "work on our common problems united in mind and spirit" in his opening address to the annual convention here today.

Wolfson said the crises of today in the industry will in retrospect look like the uncertainty brought on by the advent of radio in the 1920's if each branch of the industry does its best job now.

Already, he pointed out, Congressional support for repeal of the Federal admission tax is being given the

1st UA Film at the Roxy in 25 Years

The first sound motion picture ever made in which not a word is spoken, "The Thief," starring Ray Milland, will have its world premiere at the Roxy Theatre here following the engagement of "Somebody Loves Me," it was announced yesterday by William J. Heineman, U. A. vice-president in charge of distribution.

"The Thief," a Harry M. Popkin production, is the first United Artists release to be shown at the Roxy in 25 years. The first U. A. release to play at the Roxy, coincidentally, was the picture with which the late S. L. Rothafel opened his showplace in March, 1927, "Love of Sunya," starring Gloria Swanson.

Walcott Bout Tickets in NY Theatres Sell at Good Pace

Ticket sales at three New York theatres taking the telecast of the Jersey Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano bout are proceeding at a fairly good to brisk pace. A fourth theatre, the 50th Street Guild, sold out a week ago at $4.80 per seat.

Fabian's Fox in Brooklyn, which seats 4,060 and is charging $3.00 per seat, including admission tax, reported a "fairly brisk pace" of ticket sales for Tuesday's event, following the appearance of ads in New York dailies. The manager of the house said that one-quarter of the theatre is already sold out. Tickets went on sale Friday.

Response of the public to the bout telecast was described as "good" by the Century Circuit, whose Marine, Brooklyn, and Queens, Queens Village, L. I., are carrying the title match. The two theatres are charging $2.50 for general admission and $3.00 for loges, with both prices including the tax. The circuit expects ticket sales to pick up markedly when advertisements begin appearing this week in local newspapers.

Meanwhile it was learned that the S-3 Drive-in Theatre at Rutherford, N. J., plans to charge $10 per car for the fight telecast, with tickets going on sale tonight. The $10, which includes the tax, pays the admission for "as many people as are in the car," according to a spokesman for the drive-in. The S-3 is the first drive-in in the nation to be equipped with theatre television.

With only six days left until the fight date, neither Loew's, Warner, or RKO theatres have signed up to take the event in their theatre TV equipped houses. The three circuits continue to balk at the price being charged by Theatre Network Television, which has acquired the television rights to the bout. The charge, which includes all long lines "tabs," runs from a 90-cent per seat minimum guarantee to $1.35, according to the number of seats in the house.

The possibility still exists, however, that the hold-out theatre TV-equipped circuits will make a last-minute deal with TNT, which claims it has already lined up 36 theatres for the trans-continental telecast. Another theatre, the Carib at Miami, has signed for the telecast, it was learned.

Two Laboratories Will Process Fight Films

Two laboratories will process the Jersey Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano fight film, Sidney Kramer, RKO Radio short subject sales manager, disclosed yesterday. The fight takes place Tuesday in Philadelphia.

The Pathe and the DeLuxe laboratories will process prints, he said. While no decision will be reached as to the number of prints to be made until the conclusion of the fight, Kramer recalled that for last year's Sugar Ray Robinson-Randy Turpin bout 1,300 prints were made, apart from shipments overseas.

House Prober Cites Television Code

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—The chairman of a House sub-committee investigating the content of television and radio programs said today that he was very impressed with the recently adopted Television Standards of Practice Code.

Orren Harris (D. Ark.), chairman of the House Interstate Commerce sub-committee, declared that if the television industry lived up to the code, it "wouldn't have any trouble" from the government or from anybody else. Harris added, however, that although he was impressed with the code, he thought it would be hard to live up to as a practical matter.

Brown A Witness

Harris made these statements during the testimony of H. Brown, Jr. director of the television department of the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters. Brown was one of three witnesses appearing before the committee today as it reopened its investigation, begun last spring. Others who testified today were Ralph W. Hardy, NARTB director of government relations, and Hollis M. Seavey, representing the Mutual Broadcasting System.

From the Allen B. Du Mont network and American Broadcasting, the committee will hear additional witnesses here tomorrow and will then go to New York for hearings on Thursday and Friday of next week.

Needs Publicizing

Harris said he had not even heard of the code until a few weeks ago, and thought it could stand considerable publicizing. He agreed with Brown, he said, in the wisdom of the television industry's setting up such a voluntary code in the "initial days of television."

Brown told the committee that since the code was adopted last March the Television Code Review Board had received a little over 100 complaints, some of which were in the corrective stage now. In no case, he said, had it been necessary to go beyond the corrective stage and take disciplinary action. Under the terms of the code, he explained in a statement, the only disciplinary course the Review Board can take is to enjoin an erring station from using the board's seal of good practice.

Want to Test Shows

Hardy informed the committee that since the code was adopted there has been an increasing desire among producers of package shows to test their pictures before they go out on shows, in an effort to save an investment that might be lost if the finished production were found to be undesirable.

All three witnesses stressed the efficacy of a voluntary system of self-regulation, as against a check by an agency of the government.

'Ivanhoe Week' Set To Begin Sept. 22

M-G-M has set the week of Sept. 22 as "Ivanhoe Week," at which time the production will be playing or will have played in every U. S. exchange center.

In line with this, all M-G-M and National Screen branches will display promotion material on the picture for the entire weeek. In cities where the picture will be current, or will open soon, all advertising accessories will give the name of the theatre and the play-dates.

'Ivanhoe' Canadian Bow

M-G-M's "Ivanhoe" will have its Canadian premiere at Loew's in Toronto starting Oct. 2, it was announced following conferences between Ted Gould, general sales manager for M-G-M Films of Canada, and home office executives. Currently showing in Toronto at Loew's key theatre is "The Merry Widow," which will be continued for a third week before "Ivanhoe" opens.

Pinanski at Detroit Meet

DETROIT, Sept. 16.—Samuel Pinanski, who serves with Trueman Rembusch and Al Lichtman as one of three co-chairmen who are directing the Council of Motion Picture Organizations' activities, may be on hand to attend the Allied Theatres of Michigan convention Oct. 20-22. Pinanski has accepted Allied's invitation and is attempting to arrange his schedule to be able to appear for an address Oct. 21 at the Tuller Hotel.

NEW YORK

Because of the extraordinary quality of this picture, "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" will be available for special pre-release engagements in selected theatres in a limited number of large cities for October showing. These pre-release engagements will generate exploitation possibilities and word-of-mouth publicity seldom before attained by any motion picture.

WOMAN'S Home Companion adds a twist to its advertising in today's MOTION PICTURE DAILY, suggesting a twirl of the dial to tune out television, as the family goes out to see "Companion-Approved Movies" in which the McCann-Erickson agency proves that it knows how to make friends and influence advertisers. . . . Redbook names "Sudden Fear" as its October choice of the "Picture-of-the-Month" with feature editor Florence Somers promising that "no audience will be running up the aisles for popcorn during this exicting film." Recently, we inadvertently credited this RKO Radio Joan Crawford starring vehicle to United Artists, something UA didn't mind but RKO Radio did. . . . LIFE devotes its front cover to United Artists's silent siren, Rita Gam, star of "The Thief," with an inside story spreading over three pages, an accomplishment that makes the first silent picture in 25 years seem like something-for-wishful-thinking. A national promotion campaign accompanies the innovation, and we assure them of great popular success, based on the sample. Among sponsoring advertisers are Aquascutum Raincoats, Pabst Beer, Meilink Safes and Clinton Swan men's clothes, if that gives you any idea of the plot.

WALTER BROOKS

Reviews

"Yankee Buccaneer"

(Universal-International)

A GOOD ADVENTURE YARN, wrapped in color by Technicolor, has been fashioned by producer Howard Christie. The sea tale, highlighted by action shots of the Spanish Main and bold American Navy men, should please both the young and the old, for there is sufficient high adventure to make most people forget the cares of the day.

The story-line itself has all the tested ingredients. Jeff Chandler is the ship captain, gruff, hewing to the book, respected, but feared. Scott Brady is the executive officer, bearing sealed orders; he is young, upright, callow, and Chandler resents him. George Matthews is the chief petty officer, knowing both men as men, confident in their ability, and himself realistic, amiable and slightly inclined towards the bottle. Joseph Calleia is the Spanish governonr, hiding a raw cruelty behind sophistication, glibness and culture. Suzan Ball is the Portuguese countess, whose arrival among men living a lonely naval life stirs rivalry and chivalry in Brady and Chandler. The sealed orders are for the American man-of-war to turn buccaneer, and its men to lose their identities and become prey-hunting pirates. The idea of this is to find where the pirates are, then to send the information to the American fleet, which attacks in force.

The finding of the countess upon an island resolves the problem. She is fleeing the very Spanish governor who is in league with the pirates and the Portuguese fleet. Both plan to waylay a wealthy cargo from Rio. Her difficulties entangle the Americans with the Spanish governor, whom they outwit and capture, and from whom they obtain the information they seek.

There are fights, ambushes, storms and disasters at sea, and even a fight between Brady, trying to repair a broken rudder, and a shark.

Frederick de Cordova directed, from a story and screenplay by Charles K. Peck, Jr. Others in the cast include Rodolfo Acosta, George Mathews, James Parnell and David Jansen.

Running time, 86 minutes. General audience classification. For October release.

"The Magic Box"

(J Arthur Rank-Mayer-Kingsley)

A LAVISH, STAR-STUDDED film biography of England's William Friese-Greene, "The Magic Box," dramatizes the evolution of motion pictures. The historical validity of the film may be open to question, but not however the fact that what meets the eye is a generally slow unfolding of the frequently recited genius-ahead-of-his-time story.

Exhibitors will note immediately that the cast and credits of the film read like a "Who's Who" of the British industry—which should aid immeasurably in selling the film over here. Robert Donat stars as the unsung hero of Eric Ambler's screenplay, directed by John Boulting and produced by Ronald Noame. In minor supporting roles are to be seen Laurence Olivier, Leo Cenn, Barry Jones, Glynis Johns, Michael Redgrave, Margaret Rutherford, Peter Ustinov, Emlyn Williams and others of equal rank. The appearance of these well-known faces in such an array of unimportant roles serves to distort the proper dramatic emphasis in what is an episodic story anyway.

The film opens in 1921, the very day Friese-Greene died at a London distributors' meeting, and tells the story of the man in two extended flashbacks. The first is introduced by his second wife, Margaret Johnson, and covers the inventor-photographer's latter days between 1896 and 1921, during which he went deeper and deeper into debt and obscurity in his persistent efforts to perfect his conception of color motion pictures. The second—and most entertaining flashback—shows Friese-Greene as the successful young society photographer whose great dream of bringing motion to pictures is realized at the expense of fortune and security.

For reasons never completely clear, details essential to a compact, dramatic story are never presented. These include the exact extent of Friese-Green's contributions to the development of motion pictures and how the industry eventually grew up and left him behind. There is, too, no attempt to bridge the period between his two wives to bring unity to his story.

Individual scenes, however, are brilliantly written and played with humor and pathos. The whole production, photographed in beautiful color by Technicolor, has received much care in sets, costumes and effect.

Designed originally as a cooperative effort for showing at the Edinburgh Film Festival last year, the film is listed as a presentation of Festival Film Productions and J. Arthur Rank. The assumption by the producers that Friese-Greene's activities were vital to the development of films was the subject of lively controversey last year.

Running time, 93 minutes. General audience classification. Release date Sept. 24.

Temporary Drop In Texas Revenue

DALLAS, Sept. 16.—Phil Isley, president of Allied of Texas and of Isley Theatres, with operations in Texas, California and Oklahoma, has sent a telegraphic message to all members of Allied warning them about the usual temporary drop of business in Texas in the first four weeks following the opening of school.

Isley advised members not to be discouraged because this was a normal trend, and he urged theatre owners to book as many outstanding pictures during the period as they could and to double their merchandising and selling efforts during this time.

A NEW LIGHT control system designed to dim fluorescent lamps smoothly and efficiently at the turn of a knob has been developed by General Electric engineers at Nela Park in Cleveland. The system consists of a dimming control unit and especially designed matching ballast. By means of a circuit which maintains the starting voltage but changes the current to affect the light output, fluroescent lamps can be turned on instantly at any point in the dimming range. By twisting a knob the lamps may be dimmed from maximum brightness untill they produce practically no light at all. General Electric's specialty transformer and ballast department will produce the system for use with either the conventional 40-watt preheat type of lamp, or with the new 40-watt "rapid start" fluorescent lamps. Two sizes of controls will be made, one operating up to eight lamps, and the other up to 35 lamps. The system is said to be effective in creating special lighting effects, particularly with colored fluorescent lamps.

Carbonic Dispenser, Inc., of Canfield, Ohio has announced a new means of carbonating water in beverage producing or dispensing equipment. Trade-named "Supercharger," the carbonators convert ordinary tap water into concentrated water without use of mechanical agitators or refrigeration equipment. A specially designed jet intake nozzle foamesces and recirculates the water at high velocity into a pressure tank containing CO_2 gas. This action completely destroys the surface tension of the water and as a result, countless bubbbles are formed. These bubbles are filled with and surrounded by CO_2 gas making for high saturation. The carbonators are built with 100 to 500-gallon per hour capacities. Both horizontal and vertical tank units are available.

Both wringers and buekets are electroplated. Single and double tank mopping outfits are available.

are to remain content as a co-conspirator or join in the fight (as defendants) to clear our name of this charge."

He urged, too, that the fight be carried to the public and that labor union and other groups be enlisted.

"What is behind this conspiracy suit?", Rhoden asked. "Who inspired it? Have we come to the place in American life where self-preservation is unlawful? It is a matter of record that one government official, since charged with bribery and other misconduct in office, accepted a fee of $50,000 for his presumed influence in obtaining films for a phonevision test. Have similar tactics been employed in the present case?

Have Right to Know

"We believe we have a right to know and I urge this convention to call on our law-makers to get the answers."

Rhoden also called attention to "some producers who are selling their older pictures to television in conflict with our previous requests" and asked: "What are we going to do about it?" "We owe our allegiance," he said, "to those who have shown the courage and good judgment to turn down a few quick dollars, even at the expense of being charged with conspiracy for protecting the interests of their primary market."

"Also," he continued, "we must recognize and appreciate the decision by many of our outstanding stars to reserve their talents to the screen. These personalities deserve our loyal support, and by support I mean to do our utmost in merchandising the pictures in which they appear. They are working for us and us alone. Let us work for them."

The keynote Rhoden sounded in his speech was one of confidence in the future of the industry. With it, he said, there should and must be industry unity—to meet common problems and fight common battles. He lauded the campaign being waged by the Council of Motion Picture Organizations for repeal of the Federal admission tax and urged TOA members to "get behind COMPO, extend its presentation, enlarge its scope and authority, and let it become the voice of the industry, fortified by the wholehearted support of all phases of this business, so that it will be well prepared to cope with any problem which now exists or may arise to confront the industry."

Reasons for Confidence

Rhoden reviewed the current reasons for confidence in the future of the industry, the marked improvement in theatre attendance, better product coming from Hollywood studios, which he hailed enthusiastically and called upon the convention to go on record as recognizing, and "extending our thanks and appreciation to the producers "In checking releases from July 1 to Nov. 1," Rhoden told the convention, "we find not only better pictures than we were given last year, but more of them. To be specific, in the stated four months period in 1951 there were 29 pictures of outstanding quality, whereas in the same period of this year there will be 43. That is an increase of almost 50 per cent."

He called upon exhibitors to unite to do a better selling job for the better pictures being delivered, to "strive harder to get better box-office returns. We must create new selling approaches, build our grosses so that film returns to the studios will enable them to make even greater pictures.

"We have no right to demand more and better pictures" Rhoden reminded, "unless we as theatre owners are willing to reward them with better audiences."

The industry's public relations have been improved, he declared, with considerable credit for that also going to Hollywood, specifically to the Motion Picture Industry Council "and its executive secretary, Art Arthur" for spearheading the fight to rid Hollywood of Communist influences and sympathizers. The result, Rhoden said, has been better newspaper treatment for Hollywood and better relations with veterans and other civic organizations.

"I would like to see this convention adopt a resolution commending the splendid work of the MPIC in the Hollywood 'Red' battle."

All of the resolutions suggested by Rhoden will be acted upon by committees or the convention before its adjournment.

In reviewing reasons for industry optimism, Rhoden also cited the progress being made on the industry arbitration plan and its promise of improved industry relations within. He cited the progress being made in research, in the fields of tri-dimensional film, improved projection giving a sense of depth to the picture and of large screen theatre television in color, such as Eidophor and other systems promise.

He also cited as a reason for optimism the waning addiction to television by those who have owned sets for any extended periods. A further reason for welcoming the future, he said, is the increase in the birth-rate in America, citing its immediate benefit to drive-ins, many of whose patrons are there because their children are brought with them. He urged special attention by exhibitors to the "audience of tomorrow" and commended producers for making pictures suitable for the new, young audiences available at reasonable prices.

PARTIES, SUPPERS, LUNCHEONS CROWD TOA'S SOCIAL PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—The social side of the Theatre Owners of America convention here is being well taken care of. Cocktail parties, buffet suppers and luncheons crowd the program.

Last night a huge delegation saw a preview of 20th Century-Fox's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" at the Uptown Theatre here, with Ava Gardner on hand to greet the exhibitor visitors and their wives. Tonight, Cola-Cola was host at a showboat party that took the delegates up the Potomac to Mt. Vernon, with dinner and refreshments aboard, and the weather was ideal.

Women visitors will be guests at the White House tomorrow and will be conducted on a tour of the renovated mansion by the President and Mrs. Truman. Numerous other special events for the ladies have been scheduled.

Tomorrow night, the Pepsi-Cola Co. will be host at a cocktail party and seafood dinner, and Thursday night the convention will close with the big social event of the TOA week, the president's banquet, at which the motion picture companies will be hosts. Eric Johnston, Motion Picture Association president, will be the principal speaker. Alfred Starr, new TOA president, will make his inaugural address. Entertainment will include Morton Downey, the Air Force band and others.

Mack Posts Prizes For Early Birds

Washington, Sept. 16.—Irving Mack of Filmack, Chicago, a visitor at the Theatre Owners of America convention here, is cooperating in endeavoring to solve a convention problem of late arrivals for the morning sessions. He has posted handsome clocks as prizes each day of the three-day convention, to be awarded to lucky ticket-holders among those arriving in the first 20 minutes of the opening of meeting room doors.

First winner this morning was Mrs. Dorothy Lang, a Clarksburg, W. Va., exhibitor.

Trade Show Hogs Play in D. C. Press

Washington, Sept. 16.—Theatre Owners of America officials are not too happy about the kind of publicity their annual convention in session here is drawing in Washington newspapers. Every feature and syndicated writer who has had a convention story published thus far has written exclusively about the trade show, mostly refreshment displays, being held in conjunction with the convention. Plenty of popcorn, candy and soft drinks, the writers' refrain goes, but it's a film trade show, where are the films?

Rodgers Sees

told TOA members that "very little remains to be straightened out" at tomorrow's scheduled session here of distribution representatives and TOA and Allied States officials, at which questions raised concerning the arbitration proposals by company presidents at their meeting in New York on Monday will be taken up.

Largely Mechanical

"The remaining difficulty," Rodgers said, "is largely mechanical, a matter of language, which I believe will be ironed out tomorrow."

Rodgers' address was made before the TOA convention session, held immediately afterward, which was to listen to a report on the arbitration draft and to act on it.

Rodgers told the luncheon gathering of approximately 250 exhibitors that the presidents of all distribution companies and the heads of all of the participating organizations are recommending acceptance of the arbitration draft to their boards of directors.

Recalling that other attempts to establish codes for the improvement of trade relations in which he had participated had failed, Rodgers stated: "This will not fall through as the others did."

Rodgers was careful to remind his listeners nevertheless that much still remains to be done before an industry arbitration plan can become a reality. It must have the approval of the New York Federal Statutory Court, the approval of the Department of Justice and the approvals of the boards of directors of all the participating organizations including those of the individual distribution companies.

Those ratifying actions cannot be taken, Rodgers said, until after the Court and Justice Department have given the plan their approvals. All prior approvals, he indicated, will be conditional only. Rodgers also took pains to remind his TOA listeners that credit for any final achievement must be shared equally by all of the participating organizations. While paying tribute to TOA's contributions, particularly those of its general counsel, Herman Levy, its president, Mitchell Wolfson, and its former executive committee chairman, S. H. Fabian, Rodgers accorded equal credit for the progress made thus far to the other participating organizations — Allied States, the distributors, the Independent Theatre Owners Association of New York, Metropolitan Motion Picture Theatres Association and Western Theatre Owners.

"The combined efforts all," Rodgers said, "are responsible for bringing about this understanding between us which should result in less of our time being spent in fighting and more in tending to our business."

The arbitration of disputes he said, will be only a part of the benefits to be derived from the plan. A more valuable reseult, Rodgerse said, will be the bringing together "of all of us whose common objective is the betterment of the industry."

Berger Urges Tax Repeal

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 16.—Benjamin Berger, president of North Central Allied urged repeal of the 20 per cent Federal admission tax at a meeting of the Southern Minnesota Exhibitors Association held here today at the Nicollet Hotel. Stanley D. Kane, executive counsel for North Central Allied, also spoke at the meeting, urging the exhibitors to work for repeal of the tax.

TOA Session

will be continued at the third business session of the convention, starting tomorrow morning. Which also will be closed to the press.

Levy stated following today's meeting that some suggestions for changes in language of the arbitration draft had developed and that, conceivably, more could develop tomorrow. The suggestions for changes will be taken into the meeting with distribution and Allied States' representatives to be held here tomorrow for the purpose of clarifying and, perhaps, altering other draft language in consequence of distributor questions which arose at the meeting of company presidents in New York on Monday.

Attending the latter meeting tomorrow will be W. F. Rodgers, distributors' arbitration chairman; Austin Keough, Robert Perkins and Adolph Schimel, distribution attorneys; Mitchell Wolfson, S. H. Fabian and, possibly, Levy, for TOA; Abram F. Myers for Allied States and Emanuel Frisch for the Metropolitan Motion Picture Theatres Association. Levy holds a power of attorney for Western Theatre Owners, and the other conference member, the Independent Theatre Owners Asociation of New York, will be contacted by telephone during the meeting if a vote is necesary. All suggested changes in the draft, both by distributors and TOA, were described here tonight as "minor" and unlikely to create problems of any kind.

Acceptance Predicted

When the arbitration draft has been fully described to and discussed by the TOA convention, which is expected to be by noon tomorrow, the TOA membership will vote on its acceptance or rejection, with acceptance freely predicted on all sides. If agreements are reached tomorrow on changes in language proposed by those present at the exhibitor-distributor meeting, Rodgers said the arbitration draft would be released for publication, providing the exhibitor organizations had no objections, as soon as the changes in language agreed upon could be entered in the draft. TOA tonight said it had no objections to release of the draft.

Following the TOA convention examination of the arbitration draft, the convention is scheduled to continue in closed session for discussion of the government's 16mm. anti-trust suit, on the conclusion of which TOA will decide whether it will seek to intervene to have itself made a defendant in the action, or merely to continue in the status of an accused co-conspirator, which it now has. Indications also point to a vote in favor of seeking the status of a defendant.

TOA officers gave as the reason for maintaining secrecy on that session their apprehension that some member might be quoted in a manner that would jeopardize TOA's legal status as a party named in the suit. Nevertheless, with Thursday morning's business session, devoted to exhibitor grievances and trade practice complaints, also closed to the press, it now appears that in all of the three days of the convention, only two or three general busines sessions will have been open to trade reporters and others. All of the board, executive committee and other committee meetings also were locked-door sessions.

At the TOA New York convention last year, efforts to close a number of the sessions, particularly the trade practice complaints session, to the press were thwarted by the membership when put to a vote. This year, the membership was not given an opportunity to express itself on the question.

The convention, scheduled to open officially at 9:30 this morning, actually did not get under way until 10:30. About half the 25 seats in the convention hall were filled at that time, but more came in later. The meeting room was decorated with plugs for arbitration—large colorful valances being hung at eye-arresting angles proclaiming that "Industry Salvation Is Industry Arbitration"; or warning: "Arbitrate or Strangulate," or asking: "R. U. the 'U' in Unity?"

A. Julian Brylawski, convention chairman, called the meeting to order. On the dais were: Levy, Fabian, Wolfson, Elmer Rhoden, R. J. O'Donnell and Myron Blank.

An address of welcome was made by F. Joseph Donahue, president of the District of Columbia Commissioners, in which theatre owners of the district were commended for their response to many appeals for civic and charitable causes and patriotic endeavors. Brylawski was personally complimented for his leadership in many such activities which, Donahue said, have done so much to improve community spirit and good relations in the district.

Press Won't Be There

Levy told the convention he believed arbitration and the 16mm. suit would be the most important subjects to be placed before the convention. When they are, the industry press will not be permitted to be present.

Discussing the ASCAP tax on non-film music, Levy told the convention it was a legally justified impost and that there were no satisfactory ways of avoiding it, other than to dispense with ASCAP music entirely.

Brylawski, substituting for Pat McGee, a co-chairman of the Council of Motion Picture Organizations' campaign for repeal of the Federal admission tax, who was not present, lauded COMPO's work and told the convention he "hopes to see COMPO given the complete support of all exhibitor organizations." Listeners recalled that in other years COMPO had something less than the complete support of TOA.

Wolfson, retiring TOA president, called upon the membership to help achieve the goals of better liaison between individual TOA units and between them and the TOA New York office; better trade press relations; better general press relations, better public relations; increased TOA membership and development of industry and exhibition research. Every TOA unit should conduct at least a one-month membership drive annually, Wolfson advised.

Convention registrations were closed tonight with a total slightly in excess of 500.

Smiles and Spending at TOA Meet Show Theatre Business Is Better

Washington, Sept. 16.—If observers need any assurance that theatre business is better now than it was a year ago they need only contrast the atmosphere at the Theatre Owners of America convention in session here this week with that which prevailed last year at the New York convention.

Smiles and jocularity are abundant now where they were rare then; spending by visitors is more noticeable because there's more money; complaints are fewer, even about film terms, and there is less tension, worry and puzzlement than a year ago. The exhibitors are relaxed and enjoying themselves.

Business Optimism

industry with the campaign not yet completely under way; publications across the country are siding with the industry against the government's 16mm. anti-trust suit; industry arbitration machinery is in process of being developed; progress is being made in theatre television and in the utilization of home television for exploiting pictures and selling theatre tickets.

Finally, Wolfson said, "more and more patrons are returning to the movies and indications are that business will continue to improve."

Wolfson said in his travels around the country as president of the TOA in the past 12 months he found "many exhibitors guilty of a self-induced sleeping sickness—even among many who kept their theatres in good shape and worked hard to sell their product." He said he referred to exhibitors who go it alone failing to support their exhibitor organizations and doing nothing to aid in solving industry problems of equal importance to all.

"Show me an exhibitor who says all his problems are local ones and I'll show you a badly deluded person. Lets work on our common problems united in mind and spirit," Wolfson concluded.

Mexico, Too, Has Controls Troubles

Mexico City, Sept. 16.—The trade is disturbed by talk in government circles that the new administration of President-elect Adolfo Ruiz Cortines, who begins a six-year term on Dec. 1, will establish a ministry to supervise the motion picture industry along with official information and tourism. The trade objects to being included in such a ministry, considering it as too much government control.

story, stars Gregory Peck, Ava Gardner and Susan Hayward.

From Hollywood, Europe and India stars have been arriving during the past week to help celebrate the debut of the production, which marks the 25th anniversary of Darryl F. Zanuck as a motion picture producer.

Zanuck will join 20th Century-Fox president Spyros P. Skouras as hosts of the evening, while Miss Gardner tops the roster of screen personalities who will be present, among them Bette Davis, Anne Bancroft, Ava Norring, Gloria De Haven, Marlene Dietrich, Gary Merrill, Lisa Ferraday and Ezio Pinza.

Headed by New York Mayor Vincent Impellitteri, noted figures invited include: Sailing Baruch, Jr., Joseph Bernard, Yolande Betbeze, Sid Caesar, John Carradine, Count and Countess Cassini, Bennett Cerf, Ilka Chase, Harry Conover, Nancy Craig, Vicki Cummings, John Daly, Martha Deane, Laraine Day and Leo Durocher, James A. Farley, Pegeen Fitzgerald, Nina Foch, Arlene Francis, Betty Furness, Eva Gabor, Dave Garroway, Billy Gaxton, Bernard F. Gimbel, Ben Grauer, Nancy Guild, John Gunther, Rudolph Halley, Johnny Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Lahr, Bill Leonard, Robert Q. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. John Loder, Henry R. Luce, Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Lynn, Tex McCrary, Eloise McElhone, Irene Manning, Garry Moore, Elliott Nugent, Lew Parker, Roberta Peters, Georgie Price, Gregory Ratoff, Irene Rich, Billy Rose, Lanny Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sherwood, Commissioner Walter Shirley, Herb Shriner, Michael Todd, Mel Torme, Gene Tunney, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., Fred Waring, Paul Winchel and Jane Wyatt.

The premiere will have extended radio and TV coverage with three networks concentrating on the event. In advance of the opening, CBS-TV put a special camera crew to work filming events leading up to the culmination of the premiere. They will be on hand filming final footage this evening of the celebrities and crowds at the theatre. This feature news report will be broadcast over CBS tomorrow night.

Zanuck Is Here for 'Snows' Premiere

Darryl Zanuck, vice-president of 20th Century-Fox, who returned from Europe yesterday to attend the world premiere of "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" at the Rivoli Theatre tonight, reported that while in Europe he purchased the rights to the novel, "The Egyptian," by Mika Waltari. He will star Marlon Brando.

Casey Robinson, who did the script for "Kilimanjaro", was with Zanuck and has returned to do the screenplay for "The Egyptian," which will be Zanuck's only personal production for 1953. Zanuck will return to California immediately after the "Kilimanjaro" premiere.

India's Code Based On U.S. Industry's

Ninety per cent of the production code of India is based on the U. S. industry's Production Code, and the other 10 per cent is based on the codes of industries in other countries, Chandulal Shah, president of the Indian Motion Picture Producers Association, reported at a press interview here yesterday.

Shah, an Indian producer-director and a member of the official film censor board of that country, heads a delegation of 14 top-ranking personalities of the Indian industry which arrived here Monday for a four-week, eight-city tour of the U. S., including a visit to Hollywood. The group came here at the joint invitation of the U. S. State Department and Eric A. Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America.

For the first time in the history of the Indian film industry, Shah reported, pictures in both English and color by Technicolor are being made there. One such picture has been completed and another is now being edited, he said. Producer Gabriel Pascal next year will make a film in India, a country which has 3,000 theatres and 100 16mm. mobile units, he added.

Accompanying the visitors on their tour will be Harry Stone of the MPAA's international division.

Members of the Indian delegation include film actresses Nargis, Suryakumari, Arundhati Mukherji and Bina Rai; actors Raj Kapoor, Prem Nath and David Abraham; producer-director Chandulal Shah, who is also president of the Indian Motion Picture Producers Association; producer-director-exhibitor B. N. Sircar; producer-director K. Subramanian; Nitin Bose, producer-director; Keki Modi, director and exhibitor; M. R. Acharekar, art director; D. P. Divecha, cinematographer.

The visitors will be in Washington, Sept. 19-22; Knoxville, Sept. 23-24; Chicago, Sept. 24-27; Denver, Sept. 28-29; Salt Lake City, Sept. 30-Oct. 2, and Hollywood, Oct. 3-12. Main social event of the visit to the film capital will be a gala dinner attended by American screen stars and other Hollywood notables.

The group will return to India by way of Hawaii and Japan.

Services Tomorrow For Adam Adams, 66

Services will be held tomorrow at his home at Orange, N. J., for Adam A. Adams, 66 years old, who died on Monday at St. Michael's Hospital in North Bergen from a heart attack which he suffered on July 13.

Adams, a veteran in exhibition in North New Jersey, was the owner of the Park and Adam theatres in Newark, the Park Lane at Palisades Park, and the Astor at North Bergen. Surviving are his widow, Marie, three sons, Thomas, Emanuel and Peter, and a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Pantages.

Art Directors Hit Gov't 16mm. Suit

Hollywood, Sept. 16.—In a complaint to U. S. Attorney-General McGranery, the Society of Motion Picture Art Directors has protested the 16mm. government suit.

The complaint stated, in part: "Our pictures which are made for big screen viewing are bound to suffer if final exhibition is confined to small screen viewing. Improper showing of our top product could irreparably damage the prestige which this industry has built in the past 40 years."

be so recognized.

Additionally, the Quigley Overseas Grand Award was given to the owner and manager of the Argora Theatre, Brussels, Belgium.

In addition to Wolfson, E. E. Whittaker, operations manager of Georgia Theatres, and Harry Mandel, director of advertising-publicity and assistant to the vice-president of RKO Theatres, participated in the presentation. A large number of the nation's top showmen and visiting industry executives witnessed the presentation of the Awards, among them J. Meyer Schine, M. A. Lightman, Sr., Leon Bamberger, Arthur Silverstone, E. W. Aaron, H. M. Richey, Pierce McCoy of Georgia Theatres, (the 1948 Grand Award winner), Robert Wilby, J. C. Shanklin, Herman Levy, Morris Loewenstein, Irving Mack, Joseph Stein, Myron Blank, Jack Levin, and others.

Judges for the awards are the advertising, publicity and exploitation executives of distribution home offices and major circuits. The presentations are made for the best showmanship displayed in a large situation where managers may have the help of home office publicity departments, and the other for small situations where the manager generally is limited to his own initiative and effort.

To File Grievance vs. WB on Solicitation

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 16.—AFL Film Council voted today at its regular weekly meeting to file a labor grievance with NLRB against Warner Brothers studio demanding return of "all monies exacted from employees by representatives of management" for the Eisenhower-Nixon campaign.

In a statement issued after the meeting, council chairman Roy Brewer declared the organization considers political solicitation as allegedly conducted at Warner studio in "violation of our contractual relations."

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 16.—In reply to the action of the AFL Film Council this afternoon Harry M. and Jack L. Warner issued the following statement.

"We Warner Brothers have always exercised our American rights to campaign for the person and party of our choice. We Warner Brothers intend to continue to exercise this American right. We shall campaign as volunteers for Dwight D. Eisenhower in the current campaign and we shall ask friends and employees who feel as we do to join us in helping to elect this great American to the presidency of the U. S. Those who do not agree are perfectly free to vote and campaign as they see fit."

fer rights under the Eady Plan in respect of the current year ending Sept. 30, 1952, and in respect of the year ending Sept. 30, 1953. However, the distributors are entitled to invest their share of the Eady reserve in 27 different ways, including co-production in England.

It was estimated that the amount by which the dollar transfers of American companies will be abated will be $5,900,000. MPEA took only 20 minutes to approve the agreement at its meeting here Monday.

U.K. Industry Groups Disturbed Over Eady Plan 'Non-Cooperators'

LONDON, Sept. 16.—All four British trade associations are disturbed at the growing number of Eady Plan "non-cooperators" or defaulters. Latest returns show that 266 exhibitors now are refusing to pay the levy representing an estimated loss to the pool of £80,500 a year.

Some theatremen are depositing the amounts due from them in separate banking accounts and say they will hand over the cash as soon as their complaints over the pool's administration are dealt with. Others frankly admit they will never pay until the so-called voluntary levy is made statutory.

At a recent private dinner in his honor, Sir Wilfrid Eady told trade representatives very plainly that if the voluntary levy broke down the government would not hestitate to make the plan statutory. Sir Wilfrid is no longer in the government service but it may be taken that his speech represents the Treasury view.

The suggestion has been made that the government may do away with the present Eady plan and substitute therefore a scheme of handing over to producers a percentage of the aggregate yield of entertainment tax from theatres. The best-informed political circles, however, maintain that that is unlikely in the extreme. In the present economic position no UK government would dare hand over a production subsidy from the Exchequer, it was said.

One main objection among theatremen is to the plan's fixed-price levy. Objectors claim that the levy should be on a percentage basis. But the overall grievance relates to the manner in which the pool is distributed. It is pointed out that a mediocre picture which is booked only because it carries a quota ticket gets a share of the pool with no guarantee that its producer won't go on turning out low-grade product. That, say the complainants, is the direct opposite of the purpose for which the fund was established.

No Action Taken on the Two Major Subjects Before Convention; Little Possibility of Effective Action on Arbitration Plan Today

By SHERWIN KANE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Theatre Owners of America's convention here was stymied today by inability to take action on either of the two major subjects before it—the proposed industry arbitration plan and the government's 16mm. anti-trust suit to force the sale of films to television and other non-theatrical users.

The arbitration plan was left incomplete following the meeting with distribution representatives and Allied States here today with little prospect remaining that the convention can take any effective or conclusive action on it in the final day, tomorrow. The most that could be done would be to approve the incompleted draft subject to changes sought by distribution and others, after those changes are explained to the convention. That course appears to be doubtful in view of the seriously uncertain status of the arbitration draft, following today's meeting.

The convention today passed a motion directing the new TOA president, Alfred Starr, and the new executive committee to conduct an immediate survey of TOA's regional units to determine what action they wish

Calls Off-Hours Theatre TV Most Promising Now

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Off-hours use of large-screen theatre television appears currently to be the most promising and profitable purpose to which the costly equipment can be put and may remain so until regular programming sources are developed, Robert O'Brien of United Paramount Theatres, New York, told the Theatre Owners of America convention session on theatre television here today.

Robert O'Brien

O'Brien described the successful off-hours utilization of the large screen TV equipment in UPT and other theatres which have carried Civil Defense and other programs on a multi-theatre simultaneous hook-up. The method can be used, he pointed out, for sales meetings, conventions and numerous other off-hours events at considerable profit to the theatres.

Mitchell Wolfson, former TOA president and operator of a Miami television station, told the meeting he believed that when 20th Century-Fox has readied its Eidophor large-screen TV equipment for the market, perhaps within the next year, its introduction will be accompanied by regular programming arrangements.

The discussion from the floor subsequently questioned the

Denies Motion Pictures And Video Spur Crime

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—A spokesman for a television network told a House sub-committee investigating television program content today that people who blame crime on motion pictures, television, radio and comic books are only seeking a "scapegoat for the ills of our society."

Appearing before the Harris subcommittee of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, Mrs. Geraldine Zorbaugh, general counsel for the American Broadcasting Co., declared there was no evidence at all that television crime shows have produced a crime increase. She gave the committee FBI figures for 10 cities with television and 10 without it during the period from 1946 to 1951, which showed that there was no change in the crime trend after television was introduced.

Mrs. Zorbaugh said that the ABC radio and television networks screen all their mtacrial very carefully, in order to climinate possibly offensive matter.

Chris Witting, who testified as manager of the Dumont Television Network, told the committee he thought the recently adopted television code would assure reasonably high standards of good taste for television programs.

The committee recessed today and will continue its hearings Tueseday and Wednesday in New York, with spokesmen from National Broadcasting, the National Television Film Council, Columbia Broadcasting System and the Mutual Network.

'Movietime, U. S. A.' Group Is Touring Colorado, Wyoming

DENVER, Sept. 17. — "Movietime U.S.A.'s" Colorado group of eight persons have arrived here from Hollywood for a week's tour of 35 cities and towns in Colorado and Wyoming.

Assembled under the supervision of Hollywood "Movietime" chairman Marvin Schenck and Stanley Richardson of the Hollywood Coordinating Committee, the group comprises John Agar, John Derek, director Mervyn LeRoy, Una Merkel, Debra Paget and her mother, Margaret Gibson, Barbara Ruick and writer Val Scott.

The group was met by a civic committee headed by Congressmen Byron Rodgers and Edgar Chemoweth and State's Attorney-General Duke Dunbar.

They first attended a mass essembly in the Denver Coliseum sponsored by the Denver Post for the benefit of the Cerebral Palsy Fund, which was attended by more than 30,000 persons.

They were feted at the state capitol by Governor Dan Thornton of Colorado and then divided up into two groups and moved out into the state for the tour.

First Indian Film In Color Arrives

Negotiations for the distribution in the United States of "Aan," the first all-Indian color in Technicolor production, will get underway shortly following the arrival here yesterday of Mehboob Kahn, the producer

A spokesman for the producer said that the film will be shown in Washington on Friday by the Motion Picture Association of America for State Department officials, Indian industry representatives and others. Kahn plans to leave for Hollywood Wednesday with Mike Frankovich, sales manager of Film Locations, Inc., which has secured U. S. distribution rights for the film.

Coast Newsmen to Conduct Forums

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 17.—A monthly series of international motion picture round table discussions and forums, sponsored by the Hollywood Foreign Correspondents' Association, will be inaugurated tomorow evening at the Paramount Studio. Billy Wilder, producer-director; William Holden, and fashion designer Edith Head will be the principal speakers at the initial session, to be devoted to the subejct, "The Fate of the Hollywood Motion Picture Abroad."

WB Completes Work On Coast Radio Unit

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 17. — Warner Brothers has completed final assembly work on a new 110-foot radio mast mounted on the sound building, and the studio's short wave communication system with location companies is now in use again.

A highly directional antenna coupled with a bearing indicator gives the 49-mg transmitter unobstructed range with any location site in Southern California. Location sound trucks are equipped to receive studio signals and transmit in return, thus eliminating the necessity of telephonic communication with the Burbank lot.

Reviews

"The Turning Point"

(Paramount)

THERE IS A MARK OF AUTHENTICITY which distinguishes this film dealing with big-time, organized crime in a large city. This Irving Asher production, ably directed by William Dieterle, also boasts a polish in acting and characterization. While it is melodramatic in spots, the plot not only is credible, but represents a certain maturity in its point of view. With crime impinging on the lives of people throughout the country, through headlines in the daily newspapers, through denunciations from the pulpit and political rostrum, "The Turning Point" should find a receptive audience. Intelligently, dramatically, it grapples with the problem.

The story finds law professor Edmond O'Brien appointed head of a state crime investigating committee. Although everyone in the know recognizes Ed Begley as head of a crime syndicate, it's O'Brien's job to nail him. He is aided by newspaperman William Holden and chief researcher Alexis Smith, who provides the romantic angle.

One sequence is a perfect take-off on the television performance of the Kefauver Crime Committee, complete with nervous witnesses, the probing examiner's questions, and the comic relief.

O'Brien's father, a cop, is being payed off by the crime syndicate and suffers the pangs of guilt before he is killed. There are additional flashes in the lives of other characters which illuminate the story. The syndicate is broken and its top leaders jailed before the film ends, but the price of courage as shown in the film is high.

Warren Duff wrote the screenplay, from a story by Horace McCoy. Others in the cast include Tom Tully, Dan Dayton, Adele Longmire and Ray Teal.

Running time, 85 minutes. General audience classification. For November release.

"The Savage"

(Paramount)

THE HEARTS OF CHILDREN WILL be captured by this Mel Epstein production, which features the divided loyalty of a white boy brought up to manhood by Indians. The film, done in color by Technicolor, should also find a receptive audience among adults whose tastes run along Western action film lines.

As a boy, Warbonnet, played by Charlton Heston, is adopted by the chief of a Sioux tribe. The adoption comes when the white boy's entire family is wiped out during an attack by unfriendly Crow Indians. Heston becomes a brave warrior of a Sioux tribe and is accepted as one of its own.

The harmony of his life is broken, however, when Sioux tribes meet to discuss war against the white men. Heston is sent to the U. S. Cavalry Fort in the Black Mountains to spy on the whites. There he is attracted to Susan Morrow, a sister of a cavalry lieutenant and his conscience begins to upset him. The threat of Indians killing women and children of the fort finally pulls his loyalty over to the opposite side.

This brief run-down of the story line, however, does not give credit to the excitement of the scenes on the screen. The action is highlighted by the rescue of an Indian maid, an Indian attack on a wagon train, and the colorful meeting of the Sioux tribes.

George Marshall directed, from a screenply by Sydney Boehm, based on a novel by L. L. Foreman. Others in the cast include Peter Hanson, Joan Taylor, Richard Rober and Donald Porter.

Running time, 95 minutes. General audience classification. For November release.

Films to Further Improve Training

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17. — A joint Army-Navy research study pointing the way to better training through motion pictures is now available at the Office of Technical Services, the Department of Commerce, announced here.

The report, the result of a five-year study by Pennsylvania State College specialists, offers help in predicting the results of film instruction more accurately, improving the planning and production of instructional films and increasing the effectiveness of film utilization procedures.

E. Leigh in New Post

TORONTO, Sept. 17.—Following the departure of Keith Wilson to California, where he has become advertising-publicity manager for a drive-in circuit, Edward Leigh, formerly manager of the Century Theatre, Ottawa, has been appointed manager of the Roxy at Brampton, Ont., by National Theatre Services Ltd., an affiliate of Canadian Odeon.

Lieber Heads Coast Studio Publicists

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 17.—Perry Lieber, RKO Radio studio publicity director, has been elected chairman of the Studio Publicity Directors Committee. He will serve for the next six months, succeeding Alex Evelove, Warner Brothers publicity head here, who has completed a six months' chairmanship of the Association of Motion Picture Producers' committee.

Another Gardner Drive-in

ALBANY, N.Y., Sept. 17.—The Turnpike Drive-in has been opened in the town of Guilderland, between Albany and Schenectady, by John Gardner, operator of the Colony, Schenectady. He built the 400-car theatre in two months.

Yugoslavia Film toEllis

Jack Ellis, president of Ellis Films, has acquired the distribution rights to what is described as the first important film to come from Yugoslavia, "The Magic Sword." The film will open in New York early in October.

Sizeable Increase In Film Dividends

Washington, Sept. 17.—Publicly-reported cash dividend payments by film companies in August were $594,000, compared with $505,000 in August 1951, the Commerce Department reports. It said the reason for the increase was the fact that Universal paid this year in August a dividend paid last year in December.

75 on Committee To Honor Equity

At 'Snows of Kilimanjaro' Opening

release script and production preparation by 20th Century-Fox.

Witnessed by crowds estimated at 15,000 jamming the Broadway area, and by thousands more watching and listening to the proceedings at home on television and radio, the event formally ushered in the fall film season here.

With crowds gathering at the theatre late in the afternoon to view the arrival of celebrities, special police details had to be assigned to the entire vicinity.

The roster of luminaries, topped by Ava Gardner, who stars in the production with Gregory Peck and Susan Hayward, included 20th Century-Fox president Spyros P. Skouras, Darryl F. Zanuck, vice-president in charge of production for the studio, who flew in from Europe, and an official party of city leaders led by Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri.

ABC-TV, in a special on-the-spot "live" show, trained its cameras on the theatre for 45 minutes while Jinx Falkenberg McCrary taped interviews with the luminaries for rebroadcasting on her NBC radio show.

Commentator Martin Starr announced to station WINS radio and ABC-TV audiences the top arrivals, and CBS-TV had a special crew filming highlights of a feature devoted to the planning and execution of the premiere to be shown over the network's outlets this evening. Additionally, Movietone News and newspaper and photo service lensmen were on the scene in droves.

Fourteen leading industry representatives from India added international flavor to the proceedings, which will pattern similar openings of the Ernest Hemingway screen adaptation in key cities in the United States and Canada, plus capital cities of Europe, South America, Australia, and Asia.

Escorting the guests to their seats were ten high-fashion models, attired in white gowns inspired by "The Snows of Kilimanjaro." They also participated in lobby ceremonies.

Northwest Fears Football Telecasts

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 17.—Box-office grosses at Minneapolis and St. Paul Loop theatres will be seriously affected next year if a campaign underway to have home football games of the University of Minnesota televised is successful. The campaign to have the games on television is being sponsored by the electrical appliance, radio and television dealers of the Twin Cities and is expected to spread throughout the state as more television stations go into operation. Even without additional stations it is estimated that persons owning television sets within a 150-mile area could watch the game. The two Twin Cities television stations now serve an estimated 325,000 sets in their telecasting range.

Dealers have been asked to write or contact the Regents of the University upon whom the campaign is being centered urging the telecasting of the games and to free the University of Minnesota from the dictates of the National Collegiate Athletic Association on the matter of televising football games and other athletic events.

The dealers claim that televising of the football games would aid disabled veterans and shut-ins unable to attend the games and also enable persons unable to buy tickets because of the constant sellouts to see the games.

Dealers are even willing to attempt to raise a substantial amount of money as a guarantee if that is what the University Regents will insist on. Every year thousands of people from all over Minnesota and adjoining states come to Minneapolis and St. Paul to see the home games which are played at the University located in Minneapolis.

Brothers, uncommitted for the event. There still remains the possibility that Loew's and Warner will sign for the bout, but the chances of their doing so appear to be diminishing.

The addition of RKO Theatres to the TNT line-up virtually assures that the Walcott-Marciano trans-continental hook-up will be the largest theatre TV net in the history of the medium. Before the addition of the five RKO Theatres, TNT claimed to have signed up 36 theatres. The previous high was 39 for the June Robinson-Maxim bout.

The following RKO Theatres will carry the bout, originating from Philadelphia's Municipal Staduim: RKO Fordham, Bronx, New York; Keith's, Washington; RKO Palace, Cleveland; Keith's, Dayton, and Albee, Cincinnati.

RKO will charge $3.60, including admission tax, for the event in Washington and Cleveland and $3.00, including tax, in New York, Cincinnati and Dayton. The addition of the RKO Fordham makes it the fifth theatre in New York to line-up for the bout.

Meanwhile, published reports by sports writers posing the possibility that Walcott may refuse to fight unless he gets a contract for a return match in Pennsylvania were discounted here by the International Boxing Club, co-promoters of the event. An IBC spokesman said both fighters have an iron-bound contract.

Press-sheets on the Fight One Available from NSS

A press-sheet containing copies of the ads, the two-color 40-by-60 and the one-sheet which have been prepared for the Jersey Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano world heavyweight championship bout film are now available through National Screen Service, Sidney Kramer, RKO Radio short subjects sales manager, disclosed yesterday.

The fight picture will not be sold until after the fight is over and company executives have decided that the material available is "really box-office," he said.

suitability of some Broadway stage productions for family audiences. Stage shows televised directly to theatres had been mentioned as one of the programming possibilities for large-screen theatre TV of the future. The consensus appeared to be that the advanced admissions of as much as $3 or $4 would automatically exclude the younger elements of audiences at such performances.

S. H. Fabian, head of National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee told the meeting he believed the industry will be successful in its bid for its own TV channels before the Federal Communications Commission this fall and next winter. He urged exhibitors to give financial support to NETTC in its work.

Marcus Cohen, attorney for NETTC, described plans for the Oct. 20 FCC hearing on industry TV channels, stating that the first will be limited entirely to engineering and technical considerations. The January hearing, he said, will require united exhibitor support.

Say it with DATES in NOVEMBER!

Suit, Arbitration Stymie TOA Meet

Myers

hibition who have worked on the proposed arbitration system. The group had met to clarify and alter a few points in the draft of the system.

Myers' statement came as a surprise to the entire industry, which had been led to believe from statements made by the arbitration planning and drafting committees that an acceptable arbitration system was imminent. At a meeting in New York on Monday, sales executives and attorneys of the Motion Picture Association of America member companies and United Artists had approved the draft of the proposed system. It was expected that the approved draft would be presented to the TOA convention now meeting here and to the Allied convention when it meets in November for exhibitor approval.

Myers said that there was no final draft ready for the exhibitor organizations to consider and added that the group was not as far advanced in the formulation of an arbitration system as it thought it had been at the end of August.

He said that no progress had been made at today's meeting and that he did not know what the next step would be in the attempt to shape up a system which would be acceptable to both distributors and exhibitors.

Myers declared that the film company attorneys and representatives of the Theatre Owners of America, with whom he met today, had presented "numerous changes" which the arbitration planning and drafting committees had not acted upon "largely because the time was consumed with the same discussions and arguments that had taken place at the first session in April."

He said he would not present to the allied convention in November "anything except a final draft that has been approved by the distributors."

Representatives of distribution present at the meeting today were William F. Rodgers, chairman of the distributors' arbitration negotiating committee; Austin C. Keough, Paramount; Adolph Schimel, Universal; Robert W. Perkins, Warner Brothers; and Henderson M. Richey, M-G-M.

Exhibitors were represented by Alfred Starr, New TOA president; Robert Wilby; Herman Levy, TOA general counsel; Emanuel Frisch of the Metropolitan Motion Picture Theatres Association and Myers.

Here is the text of Myers' statement:

"On August 19 I submitted to a small committee of lawyers a draft of an arbitration plan based on discussions which had proceeded for many weeks, together with a suggested method for presenting the plan to the courts. Late at night on August 20 this committee had a draft which we felt was the best that could be evolved in view of the divergent interests represented in the conference.

"Today the film company lawyers and TOA representatives orally presented numerous changes which we did not consider or act upon largely because the time was consumed with the same discussions and arguments that had taken place at the first session in April.

"No progress was made at today's meeting. There is no final draft for the exhibitor organizations to consider. We are not as far advanced as we thought we were on August 20. I do not know exactly what the next step will be. I am not encouraged to believe that there will be an arbitration system for many months, if ever."

Arbitration Plan Draft Due for Further Surgery

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Another unexpected delay in moving the proposed industry arbitration plan toward completion occurred today at a meeting of exhibitor-distributor representatives at the Mayflower Hotel here, a distributor spokesman said.

The conferees were unable to complete their work on clarification and possible revisions and additions to the plan and were obliged to adjourn until a later date, according to the spokesman.

The exhibitor-distributor representatives met for about three hours in the hotel suite of William F. Rodgers, distribution chairman for arbitration, and the distributor spokesman said that a date and place for the next meeting would be set as soon as it could be determined when all of the conferees would be available again.

No official information was made available to the press on happenings at the meeting but it was subsequently reported that in addition to the changes or clarifications in the draft sought by distribution company presidents following their meeting in New York last Monday, Theatre Owners of America representatives, also went into the meeting with proposals for changes in the draft. The cumulative effect, it was said, turned what was regarded in advance as a sample operation on the plan into a complicated bit of near-major surgery.

In consequence, the TOA representatives, Herman Levy, Mitchell Wolfson and S. H. Fabian, were obliged to return to the TOA convention in session here and report the inconclusive results. Whether the situation would prevent the TOA convention from acting on acceptance or rejection of the draft was not clear at a late hour today but with the convention scheduled to adjourn tomorrow that appeared to be the likely consequence. It had been TOA's original plan to submit the draft to the convention today, with approval expected almost as a matter of course.

In preparation for that procedure, Levy spent all of yesterday afternoon and most of this morning summarizing the arbitration proposals for the convention and opening each phase for discussion from the floor. It was the result of that discussion that TOA went into the meeting with distributors with changes and clarifications of its own to suggest.

Nevertheless, it was apparent that the area of non-agreement if only on the language of the draft, was extensive enough to make it impossible to finish the discussions today and required the later meeting.

If TOA does not act, either in convention or at its final board of directors meeting here tomorrow, it will be necessary for it to pursue the same route that Allied is taking —that is, either to call a special meeting of the board to act on the plan when it is completed, or to poll directors by phone and mail.

In any event, it was apparent that the inability to complete the draft changes today has indefinitely delayed release of the arbitration draft for publication.

TOA to take with respect to the 16mm. suit, including that of seeking the status of a co-defendant. Thereafter, the president and the executive committee, the motion directed, should arrange for the holding of a special board meeting to carry out speedily the wishes of the member units. The canvass of regionals could be completed within a few weeks, TOA officials predicted.

The step taken by the convention, however, was clear indication that despite the fact that the 16mm. suit was declared in advance to be one of the most important issues to come before the convention, regional units failed to authorize their delegates to take action on it. Accordingly, the poll of regionals was made necessary. The motion stated that it was the consensus of the convention that the membership "is incensed and shocked" at the institution of the Government action.

The convention spent the entire afternoon today in discussion, at a closed meeting, of the 16mm. suit. There were clear indications following the meeting between the exhibitor-distributor representatives today that the changes of clarifications in the arbitration draft are of a serious rather than the "minor" nature, as they have been described heretofore. That, at least, is the impression some of the exhibitors at today's meeting carried away with them.

One problem, for example, involves suits for damages over clearance claims. The Aug. 20 draft does not specify that exhibitors seeking such damages had to prove in advance that they had previously petitioned a reduction of clearance. The distribution clarification, it is reported, would make that a condition in order that suing exhibitors would need to show loss suffered during the period the clearance reduction applied for had been denied. Some of the exhibitors here regard that issue as vital, rather than minor.

In any case, it is apparent that the turn of events has robbed the TOA convention of its opportunity to take conclusive action on the major issues before it. The convention, in its closing hours tomorrow, is scheduled to turn its attention to drive-in theatres, concessions and admission taxes, with perhaps some further weighing of the present and new arbitration status. The press was assured late tonight those meetings would be open to it.

The convention closes tomorrow night with the president's banquet. Eric Johnston, Motion Picture Association president; Nathan Golden, the Commerce Department's film division chief, and Starr, new TOA president, are the principal speakers.

Proposes Samples

president of Dancer, Fitzgerald and Sample, an agency that handles much of General Mills' promotions, told a TOA convention luncheon today that he would be glad to sit down with a Representative TOA group and discuss concrete plans for a nation-wide distribution of theatre passes along with the General Mills samples distribution.

He suggested that the operation could be worked with the "Movietime" campaign which will tee off in the fall of 1953 and added that it might be tied into a contest with prizes, to select a name for the plan.

Manchester said it would have to be "an absolutely maximum, gigantic operation to end all operations" and that the public should be offered a sample of only "the very best, best product" in the industry.

Although General Mills was not the only company that could provide the "tools" for such an operation, he said, he would like to suggest that theatre owners "send out the passes through General Mills." The company would be willing to expand its promotion budget considerably, he declared, to a point where it would spend close to $3,000,000 in six to eight weeks, if it were to distribute theatre passes along with its merchandise samples. The operation would not cost exhibitors anything, he added.

Betty Hutton Cited For USO Tour

Betty Hutton, who last March went to Korea to perform before combat troops under the auspices of USO-Camp Shows, Inc., was awarded yesterday, a citation for her "tireless effort and unceasing devotion to the men and women of the Armed Forces of the United States." The award was presented at a luncheon of the New York USO Defense Fund before 100 leading New Yorkers at the Wadorf-Astoria Hotel. Admiral Oscar C. Badger, Fund chairman, presided, and James E. Sauter, president of USO-Camp Shows, delivered the citation.

200 More Theatres To Aid Rogers Fund

Close to two hundred theatres were added to the new Will Rogers Memorial Hospital collection-can project when the Harry Brandt theatres and other members of the New York Independent Theatre Owners Association "signed up" with chairman Joseph R. Vogel to place the coin-boxes on their candy stands.

The group includes Trans-Lux Theatres, the Globe, Mayfair, New Amsterdam and other Cinema Circuit houses, the New York Theatre, Selwyn, Victoria, Astor, Beacon, Times Square, and many others in Metropolitan New York City, as well as many in up-state cities and in New Jersey. With the entire membership of the MMPTA also enrolled, exhibitors of the New York area are now in the campaign nearly 100 per cent, numbering 1,300.

Chaplin Plans Film With NY Locale

Charles Chaplin, before sailing yesterday for Europe on the S. S. Queen Elizabeth with his wife and their four children, disclosed plans for his next film which, he said, will have a New York City background and will be filmed partly on location here and partly at his Coast studio.

Chaplin says he expects the trip abroad—his first in 20 years—to last for six months.

Press And TOA Sessions

also promises to be largely a closed-door affair.

Press representatives, both trade and general, were more than a little bit exercised over the difficulties put in the way of their covering the convention.

Organization officials to whom complaints were made disclaimed responsibility for the star-chamber sessions. The principal explanation given was that the subjects of arbitration and the government's 16mm. anti-trust suit comprised the main topics of discussion and TOA felt it could not open the discussions to the press in view of the fact that distribution has not authorized publication of the proposals. Most of the latter, however, have been aired from time to time in the trade press for the past several months.

TOA also takes the position that since the government has named it a co-conspirator in the 16mm. suit its deliberations of the role it will take in that action has legal implications not ordinarily present in exhibitor organization discussion of such subjects and, therefore, it is obliged to bar the press.

However, advance invitations to the press to attend the convention issued when it was certain those topics would be uppermost promised that "only one" convention session would be closed. To date, it has been just the reverse. Only one session has been "open."

Many of the trade press representatives who came long distances at considerable expense feel they would have been just as close to the sessions had they remained at home bases. The extent of most of their information has been limited to briefings at the end of the day by Herman Levy, TOA general counsel, and to bits of information they are able to glean from delegates.

The press dissatisfaction is not limited to the closed-door sessions, either. There is complete confusion over arrangements for press conferences, time and place of meetings and changes in the printed program of convention activities. To date, very little has gone according to schedule and the impatience of numerous delegates is evidenced by the many seen wandering about the hotel while the business sessions are in progress. It is a case of closing the meeting to the willing and opening it to the unwilling.

The fault does not lie with the convention press contacts, Jack Foxe of Loew's Washington Theatres; Dick Pitts and Howard Bryant of the TOA New York office. They are left as much in the dark about what is going on as is the press itself.

Has New Tack for Promotional Ads

Louis Higdon of Mid-Central Theatres, Inc. has hit upon a unique advertising campaign to promote patronage and industry goodwill, based on "the established fact that advertising which appeals to the public's vanity has almost always met with tremendous success," reports the Theatre Owners of America.

The appeal to vanity, says Higdon, should be premised on the notion that "people who stay young attend movies." Supporting this thesis, the Kansas exhibitor notes that "Everyone wants to stay young and they are willing to pay in order to try! Cosmetics, foundation garments and other lines of merchandise have proven this."

TOA's current Progress Report reproduces some of the ads which Mid-Central circuit has worked up so far. The copy of one reads: "People who stay young . . . go to the movies! Regardless of your age, it's a youthful habit! See a movie today!"

Todd, Small in Deal

Michael Todd and Edward Small have finalized an agreement to jointly produce one film a year, to be filmed in color in Europe. The films will be released through United Artists. Their agreement is for three years.

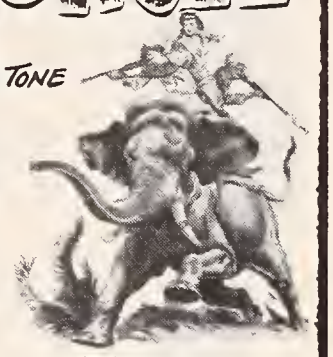
$500,000 for Film Imports to Greece

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Greece has allotted $500,000 to cover the importation of United States motion pictures during the coming fiscal year, the Department of Commerce said today.

The currency committee of the Bank of Greece has made a similar allocation for the past several years.



The Department said the allocation will be made quarterly in installments of $125,000, and will come from free dollar holdings in the Bank of Greece.

Commerce said that the money will cover the value of imported films, the value of advertising material and transportation charges. Any balance left over after these payments are made will be used to pay film royalties to producers, the Department added.

Upholds Chesapeake Fund Attachment

Justice Irving A. Saypol has denied the motion in New York Supreme Court by United Artists for dismissal of the attachment for claims aggregating in excess of $200,000 obtained by Chesapeake Industries (formerly Pathe Industries). The attachment grew out of claims and counter-claims involving proceeds from distribution by United Artists of certain former Eagle-Lion films acquired from Pathe Industries more than a year ago and other disputed phases of the purchase contract.

Total claims by Chesapeake are in excess of $400,000. The attachment applies to a separate U. A. fund held in escrow.

Preparatory to holding a full-scale parley of Council of Motion Picture Organizations leaders to plan further steps in connection with the national tax repeal campaign and other projects, COMPO's governing triumvirate today will be hosts at a luncheon for the trade press.

The COMPO chieftains will discuss suggested approaches to the publicizing of the industry's campaign to kill the 20 per cent tax.

SWG Calls US 16mm. Suit 'Ill-advised'

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 17. — Screen Writers Guild tonight dispatched a letter to the Department of Justice labelling the Government's 16mm. conspiracy suit "ill advised" and declaring that forcing the film industry to deliver its product to television would soon make it impossible for the industry to continue independent operation in a competitive economy.

Press Shut Out Of Most TOA Meeting Sessions

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Theatre Owners of America's convention, which was half-open to the press yesterday, was in complete star-chamber session today except for a 20-minute period in the morning when theatre television was being discussed. The final convention day tomorrow

No Action Taken on the Two Major Subjects Before Convention; Little Possibility of Effective Action on Arbitration Plan Today

By SHERWIN KANE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Theatre Owners of America's convention here was stymied today by inability to take action on either of the two major subjects before it—the proposed industry arbitration plan and the government's 16mm. anti-trust suit to force the sale of films to television and other non-theatrical users.

The arbitration plan was left incomplete following the meeting with distribution representatives and Allied States here today with little prospect remaining that the convention can take any effective or conclusive action on it in the final day, tomorrow. The most that could be done would be to approve the incompleted draft subject to changes sought by distribution and others, after those changes are explained to the convention. That course appears to be doubtful in view of the seriously uncertain status of the arbitration draft, following today's meeting.

The convention today passed a motion directing the new TOA president, Alfred Starr, and the new executive committee to conduct an immediate survey of TOA's regional units to determine what action they wish

Calls Off-Hours Theatre TV Most Promising Now

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Off-hours use of large-screen theatre television appears currently to be the most promising and profitable purpose to which the costly equipment can be put and may remain so until regular programming sources are developed, Robert O'Brien of United Paramount Theatres, New York, told the Theatre Owners of America convention session on theatre television here today.

Robert O'Brien

O'Brien described the successful off-hours utilization of the large screen TV equipment in UPT and other theatres which have carried Civil Defense and other programs on a multi-theatre simultaneous hook-up. The method can be used, he pointed out, for sales meetings, conventions and numerous other off-hours events at considerable profit to the theatres.

Mitchell Wolfson, former TOA president and operator of a Miami television station, told the meeting he believed that when 20th Century-Fox has readied its Eidophor large-screen TV equipment for the market, perhaps within the next year, its introduction will be accompanied by regular programming arrangements.

The discussion from the floor subsequently questioned the

Denies Motion Pictures And Video Spur Crime

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—A spokesman for a television network told a House sub-committee investigating television program content today that people who blame crime on motion pictures, television, radio and comic books are only seeking a "scapegoat for the ills of our society."

Appearing before the Harris subcommittee of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, Mrs. Geraldine Zorbaugh, general counsel for the American Broadcasting Co., declared there was no evidence at all that television crime shows have produced a crime increase. She gave the committee FBI figures for 10 cities with television and 10 without it during the period from 1946 to 1951, which showed that there was no change in the crime trend after television was introduced.

Mrs. Zorbaugh said that the ABC radio and television networks screen all their mtaerial very carefully, in order to eliminate possibly offensive matter.

Chris Witting, who testified as manager of the Dumont Television Network, told the committee he thought the recently adopted television code would assure reasonably high standards of good taste for television programs.

The committee recessed today and will continue its hearings Tueseday and Wednesday in New York, with spokesmen from National Broadcasting, the National Television Film Council, Columbia Broadcasting System and the Mutual Network.

'Movietime, U. S. A.' Group Is Touring Colorado, Wyoming

DENVER, Sept. 17. — "Movietime U.S.A.'s" Colorado group of eight persons have arrived here from Hollywood for a week's tour of 35 cities and towns in Colorado and Wyoming.

Assembled under the supervision of Hollywood "Movietime" chairman Marvin Schenck and Stanley Richardson of the Hollywood Coordinating Committee, the group comprises John Agar, John Derek, director Mervyn LeRoy, Una Merkel, Debra Paget and her mother, Margaret Gibson, Barbara Ruick and writer Val Scott.

The group was met by a civic committee headed by Congressmen Byron Rodgers and Edgar Chemoweth and State's Attorney-General Duke Dunbar.

They first attended a mass essembly in the Denver Coliseum sponsored by the Denver Post for the benefit of the Cerebral Palsy Fund, which was attended by more than 30,000 persons.

They were feted at the state capitol by Governor Dan Thornton of Colorado and then divided up into two groups and moved out into the state for the tour.

First Indian Film In Color Arrives

Negotiations for the distribution in the United States of "Aan," the first all-Indian color in Technicolor production, will get underway shortly following the arrival here yesterday of Mehboob Kahn, the producer

A spokesman for the producer said that the film will be shown in Washington on Friday by the Motion Picture Association of America for State Department officials, Indian industry representatives and others. Kahn plans to leave for Hollywood Wednesday with Mike Frankovich, sales manager of Film Locations, Inc., which has secured U. S. distribution rights for the film.

Coast Newsmen to Conduct Forums

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 17.—A monthly series of international motion picture round table discussions and forums, sponsored by the Hollywood Foreign Correspondents' Association, will be inaugurated tomorow evening at the Paramount Studio. Billy Wilder, producer-director; William Holden, and fashion designer Edith Head will be the principal speakers at the initial session, to be devoted to the subejct, "The Fate of the Hollywood Motion Picture Abroad."

WB Completes Work On Coast Radio Unit

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 17. — Warner Brothers has completed final assembly work on a new 110-foot radio mast mounted on the sound building, and the studio's short wave communication system with location companies is now in use again.

A highly directional antenna coupled with a bearing indicator gives the 49-mg transmitter unobstructed range with any location site in Southern California. Location sound trucks are equipped to receive studio signals and transmit in return, thus eliminating the necessity of telephonic communication with the Burbank lot.

Reviews

"The Turning Point"

(Paramount)

THERE IS A MARK OF AUTHENTICITY which distinguishes this film dealing with big-time, organized crime in a large city. This Irving Asher production, ably directed by William Dieterle, also boasts a polish in acting and characterization. While it is melodramatic in spots, the plot not only is credible, but represents a certain maturity in its point of view. With crime impinging on the lives of people throughout the country, through headlines in the daily newspapers, through denunciations from the pulpit and political rostrum, "The Turning Point" should find a receptive audience. Intelligently, dramatically, it grapples with the problem.

The story finds law professor Edmond O'Brien appointed head of a state crime investigating committee. Although everyone in the know recognizes Ed Begley as head of a crime syndicate, it's O'Brien's job to nail him. He is aided by newspaperman William Holden and chief researcher Alexis Smith, who provides the romantic angle.

One sequence is a perfect take-off on the television performance of the Kefauver Crime Committee, complete with nervous witnesses, the probing examiner's questions, and the comic relief.

O'Brien's father, a cop, is being payed off by the crime syndicate and suffers the pangs of guilt before he is killed. There are additional flashes in the lives of other characters which illuminate the story. The syndicate is broken and its top leaders jailed before the film ends, but the price of courage as shown in the film is high.

Warren Duff wrote the screenplay, from a story by Horace McCoy. Others in the cast include Tom Tully, Dan Dayton, Adele Longmire and Ray Teal.

Running time, 85 minutes. General audience classification. For November release.

MURRAY HOROWITZ

"The Savage"

(Paramount)

THE HEARTS OF CHILDREN WILL be captured by this Mel Epstein production, which features the divided loyalty of a white boy brought up to manhood by Indians. The film, done in color by Technicolor, should also find a receptive audience among adults whose tastes run along Western action film lines.

As a boy, Warbonnet, played by Charlton Heston, is adopted by the chief of a Sioux tribe. The adoption comes when the white boy's entire family is wiped out during an attack by unfriendly Crow Indians. Heston becomes a brave warrior of a Sioux tribe and is accepted as one of its own.

The harmony of his life is broken, however, when Sioux tribes meet to discuss war against the white men. Heston is sent to the U. S. Cavalry Fort in the Black Mountains to spy on the whites. There he is attracted to Susan Morrow, a sister of a cavalry lieutenant and his conscience begins to upset him. The threat of Indians killing women and children of the fort finally pulls his loyalty over to the opposite side.

This brief run-down of the story line, however, does not give credit to the excitement of the scenes on the screen. The action is highlighted by the rescue of an Indian maid, an Indian attack on a wagon train, and the colorful meeting of the Sioux tribes.

George Marshall directed, from a screenply by Sydney Boehm, based on a novel by L. L. Foreman. Others in the cast include Peter Hanson, Joan Taylor, Richard Rober and Donald Porter.

Running time, 95 minutes. General audience classification. For November release.

Films to Further Improve Training

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17. — A joint Army-Navy research study pointing the way to better training through motion pictures is now available at the Office of Technical Services, the Department of Commerce, announced here.

The report, the result of a five-year study by Pennsylvania State College specialists, offers help in predicting the results of film instruction more accurately, improving the planning and production of instructional films and increasing the effectiveness of film utilization procedures.

E. Leigh in New Post

TORONTO, Sept. 17.—Following the departure of Keith Wilson to California, where he has become advertising-publicity manager for a drive-in circuit, Edward Leigh, formerly manager of the Century Theatre, Ottawa, has been appointed manager of the Roxy at Brampton, Ont., by National Theatre Services Ltd., an affiliate of Canadian Odeon.

Lieber Heads Coast Studio Publicists

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 17.—Perry Lieber, RKO Radio studio publicity director, has been elected chairman of the Studio Publicity Dirccors Committee. He will serve for the next six months, succeeding Alex Evelove, Warner Brothers publicity head here, who has completed a six months' chairmanship of the Association of Motion Picture Producers' committee.

Another Gardner Drive-in

ALBANY, N.Y., Sept. 17.—The Turnpike Drive-in has been opened in the town of Guilderland, between Albany and Schenectady, by John Gardner, operator of the Colony, Schenectady. He built the 400-car theatre in two months.

Yugoslavia Film toEllis

Jack Ellis, president of Ellis Films, has acquired the distribution rights to what is described as the first important film to come from Yugoslavia, "The Magic Sword." The film will open in New York early in October.

Sizeable Increase In Film Dividends

Washington, Sept. 17.—Publicly-reported cash dividend payments by film companies in August were $594,000, compared with $505,000 in August 1951, the Commerce Department reports. It said the reason for the increase was the fact that Universal paid this year in August a dividend paid last year in December.

75 on Committee To Honor Equity

An amusement industry cooperating committee of 75 show business executives, actors, writers, union leaders and newspaper columnists has been formed to sponsor and aid the dinner honoring Actors Equity Association, to be given by the National Labor Council of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

The event, commemorating Equity's victory against segregation at the National Theatre in Washington, will be held on Tuesday evening, Dec. 2, in New York's Waldorf-Astoria. George Meany, secretary-treasurer of the American Federation of Labor, is chairman.

Presentation Highlight

A highlight of the dinner will be the presentation of a "National Brotherhood Award" to Equity.

release script and production preparation by 20th Century-Fox.

Witnessed by crowds estimated at 15,000 jamming the Broadway area, and by thousands more watching and listening to the proceedings at home on television and radio, the event formally ushered in the fall film season here.

With crowds gathering at the theatre late in the afternoon to view the arrival of celebrities, special police details had to be assigned to the entire vicinity.

The roster of luminaries, topped by Ava Gardner, who stars in the production with Gregory Peck and Susan Hayward, included 20th Century-Fox president Spyros P. Skouras, Darryl F. Zanuck, vice-president in charge of production for the studio, who flew in from Europe, and an official party of city leaders led by Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri.

ABC-TV, in a special on-the-spot "live" show, trained its cameras on the theatre for 45 minutes while Jinx Falkenberg McCrary taped interviews with the luminaries for rebroadcasting on her NBC radio show.

Commentator Martin Starr announced to station WINS radio and ABC-TV audiences the top arrivals, and CBS-TV had a special crew filming highlights of a feature devoted to the planning and execution of the premiere to be shown over the network's outlets this evening. Additionally, Movietone News and newspaper and photo service lensmen were on the scene in droves.

Fourteen leading industry representatives from India added international flavor to the proceedings, which will pattern similar openings of the Ernest Hemingway screen adaptation in key cities in the United States and Canada, plus capital cities of Europe, South America, Australia, and Asia.

Escorting the guests to their seats were ten high-fashion models, attired in white gowns inspired by "The Snows of Kilimanjaro." They also participated in lobby ceremonies.

Northwest Fears Football Telecasts

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 17.—Box-office grosses at Minneapolis and St. Paul Loop theatres will be seriously affected next year if a campaign underway to have home football games of the University of Minnesota televised is successful. The campaign to have the games on television is being sponsored by the electrical appliance, radio and television dealers of the Twin Cities and is expected to spread throughout the state as more television stations go into operation. Even without additional stations it is estimated that persons owning television sets within a 150-mile area could watch the game. The two Twin Cities television stations now serve an estimated 325,000 sets in their telecasting range.

Dealers have been asked to write or contact the Regents of the University upon whom the campaign is being centered urging the telecasting of the games and to free the University of Minnesota from the dictates of the National Collegiate Athletic Association on the matter of televising football games and other athletic events.

The dealers claim that televising of the football games would aid disabled veterans and shut-ins unable to attend the games and also enable persons unable to buy tickets because of the constant sellouts to see the games.

Dealers are even willing to attempt to raise a substantial amount of money as a guarantee if that is what the University Regents will insist on. Every year thousands of people from all over Minnesota and adjoining states come to Minneapolis and St. Paul to see the home games which are played at the University located in Minneapolis.

Brothers, uncommitted for the event. There still remains the possibility that Loew's and Warner will sign for the bout, but the chances of their doing so appear to be diminishing.

The addition of RKO Theatres to the TNT line-up virtually assures that the Walcott-Marciano trans-continental hook-up will be the largest theatre TV net in the history of the medium. Before the addition of the five RKO Theatres, TNT claimed to have signed up 36 theatres. The previous high was 39 for the June Robinson-Maxim bout.

The following RKO Theatres will carry the bout, originating from Philadelphia's Municipal Staduim: RKO Fordham, Bronx, New York; Keith's, Washington; RKO Palace, Cleveland; Keith's, Dayton, and Albee, Cincinnati.

RKO will charge $3.60, including admission tax, for the event in Washington and Cleveland and $3.00, including tax, in New York, Cincinnati and Dayton. The addition of the RKO Fordham makes it the fifth theatre in New York to line-up for the bout.

Meanwhile, published reports by sports writers posing the possibility that Walcott may refuse to fight unless he gets a contract for a return match in Pennsylvania were discounted here by the International Boxing Club, co-promoters of the event. An IBC spokesman said both fighters have an iron-bound contract.

Press-sheets on the Fight One Available from NSS

A press-sheet containing copies of the ads, the two-color 40-by-60 and the one-sheet which have been prepared for the Jersey Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano world heavyweight championship bout film are now available through National Screen Service, Sidney Kramer, RKO Radio short subjects sales manager, disclosed yesterday.

The fight picture will not be sold until after the fight is over and company executives have decided that the material available is "really box-office," he said.

suitability of some Broadway stage productions for family audiences. Stage shows televised directly to theatres had been mentioned as one of the programming possibilities for large-screen theatre TV of the future. The consensus appeared to be that the advanced admissions of as much as $3 or $4 would automatically exclude the younger elements of audiences at such performances.

S. H. Fabian, head of National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee told the meeting he believed the industry will be successful in its bid for its own TV channels before the Federal Communications Commission this fall and next winter. He urged exhibitors to give financial support to NETTC in its work.

Marcus Cohen, attorney for NETTC, described plans for the Oct. 20 FCC hearing on industry TV channels, stating that the first will be limited entirely to engineering and technical considerations. The January hearing, he said, will require united exhibitor support.

Suit, Arbitration Stymie TOA Meet

hibition who have worked on the proposed arbitration system. The group had met to clarify and alter a few points in the draft of the system.

Myers' statement came as a surprise to the entire industry, which had been led to believe from statements made by the arbitration planning and drafting committees that an acceptable arbitration system was imminent. At a meeting in New York on Monday, sales executives and attorneys of the Motion Picture Association of America member companies and United Artists had approved the draft of the proposed system. It was expected that the approved draft would be presented to the TOA convention now meeting here and to the Allied convention when it meets in November for exhibitor approval.

Myers said that there was no final draft ready for the exhibitor organizations to consider and added that the group was not as far advanced in the formulation of an arbitration system as it thought it had been at the end of August.

He said that no progress had been made at today's meeting and that he did not know what the next step would be in the attempt to shape up a system which would be acceptable to both distributors and exhibitors.

Myers declared that the film company attorneys and representatives of the Theatre Owners of America, with whom he met today, had presented "numerous changes" which the arbitration planning and drafting committees had not acted upon "largely because the time was consumed with the same discussions and arguments that had taken place at the first session in April."

He said he would not present to the allied convention in November "anything except a final draft that has been approved by the distributors."

Representatives of distribution present at the meeting today were William F. Rodgers, chairman of the distributors' arbitration negotiating committee; Austin C. Keough, Paramount; Adolph Schimel, Universal; Robert W. Perkins, Warner Brothers; and Henderson M. Richey, M-G-M.

Exhibitors were represented by Alfred Starr, New TOA president; Robert Wilby; Herman Levy, TOA general counsel; Emanuel Frisch of the Metropolitan Motion Picture Theatres Association and Myers.

Here is the text of Myers' statement:

"On August 19 I submitted to a small committee of lawyers a draft of an arbitration plan based on discussions which had proceeded for many weeks, together with a suggested method for presenting the plan to the courts. Late at night on August 20 this committee had a draft which we felt was the best that could be evolved in view of the divergent interests represented in the conference.

"Today the film company lawyers and TOA representatives orally presented numerous changes which we did not consider or act upon largely because the time was consumed with the same discussions and arguments that had taken place at the first session in April.

"No progress was made at today's meeting. There is no final draft for the exhibitor organizations to consider. We are not as far advanced as we thought we were on August 20. I do not know exactly what the next step will be. I am not encouraged to believe that there will be an arbitration system for many months, if ever."

Arbitration Plan Draft Due for Further Surgery

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Another unexpected delay in moving the proposed industry arbitration plan toward completion occurred today at a meeting of exhibitor-distributor representatives at the Mayflower Hotel here, a distributor spokesman said.

The conferees were unable to complete their work on clarification and possible revisions and additions to the plan and were obliged to adjourn until a later date, according to the spokesman.

The exhibitor-distributor representatives met for about three hours in the hotel suite of William F. Rodgers, distribution chairman for arbitration, and the distributor spokesman said that a date and place for the next meeting would be set as soon as it could be determined when all of the conferees would be available again.

No official information was made available to the press on happenings at the meeting but it was subsequently reported that in addition to the changes or clarifications in the draft sought by distribution company presidents following their meeting in New York last Monday, Theatre Owners of America representatives, also went into the meeting with proposals for changes in the draft. The cumulative effect, it was said, turned what was regarded in advance as a sample operation on the plan into a complicated bit of near-major surgery.

In consequence, the TOA representatives, Herman Levy, Mitchell Wolfson and S. H. Fabian, were obliged to return to the TOA convention in session here and report the inconclusive results. Whether the situation would prevent the TOA convention from acting on acceptance or rejection of the draft was not clear at a late hour today but with the convention scheduled to adjourn tomorrow that appeared to be the likely consequence. It had been TOA's original plan to submit the draft to the convention today, with approval expected almost as a matter of course.

In preparation for that procedure, Levy spent all of yesterday afternoon and most of this morning summarizing the arbitration proposals for the convention and opening each phase for discussion from the floor. It was the result of that discussion that TOA went into the meeting with distributors with changes and clarifications of its own to suggest.

Nevertheless, it was apparent that the area of non-agreement if only on the language of the draft, was extensive enough to make it impossible to finish the discussions today and required the later meeting.

If TOA does not act, either in convention or at its final board of directors meeting here tomorrow, it will be necessary for it to pursue the same route that Allied is taking —that is, either to call a special meeting of the board to act on the plan when it is completed, or to poll directors by phone and mail.

In any event, it was apparent that the inability to complete the draft changes today has indefinitely delayed release of the arbitration draft for publication.

TOA to take with respect to the 16mm. suit, including that of seeking the status of a co-defendant. Thereafter, the president and the executive committee, the motion directed, should arrange for the holding of a special board meeting to carry out speedily the wishes of the member units. The canvass of regionals could be completed within a few weeks, TOA officials predicted.

The step taken by the convention, however, was clear indication that despite the fact that the 16mm. suit was declared in advance to be one of the most important issues to come before the convention, regional units failed to authorize their delegates to take action on it. Accordingly, the poll of regionals was made necessary. The motion stated that it was the consensus of the convention that the membership "is incensed and shocked" at the institution of the Government action.

The convention spent the entire afternoon today in discussion, at a closed meeting, of the 16mm. suit. There were clear indications following the meeting between the exhibitor-distributor representatives today that the changes of clarifications in the arbitration draft are of a serious rather than the "minor" nature, as they have been described heretofore. That, at least, is the impression some of the exhibitors at today's meeting carried away with them.

One problem, for example, involves suits for damages over clearance claims. The Aug. 20 draft does not specify that exhibitors seeking such damages had to prove in advance that they had previously petitioned a reduction of clearance. The distribution clarification, it is reported, would make that a condition in order that suing exhibitors would need to show loss suffered during the period the clearance reduction applied for had been denied. Some of the exhibitors here regard that issue as vital, rather than minor.

In any case, it is apparent that the turn of events has robbed the TOA convention of its opportunity to take conclusive action on the major issues before it. The convention, in its closing hours tomorrow, is scheduled to turn its attention to drive-in theatres, concessions and admission taxes, with perhaps some further weighing of the present and new arbitration status. The press was assured late tonight those meetings would be open to it.

The convention closes tomorrow night with the president's banquet. Eric Johnston, Motion Picture Association president; Nathan Golden, the Commerce Department's film division chief, and Starr, new TOA president, are the principal speakers.

Proposes Samples

president of Dancer, Fitzgerald and Sample, an agency that handles much of General Mills' promotions, told a TOA convention luncheon today that he would be glad to sit down with a Representative TOA group and discuss concrete plans for a nation-wide distribution of theatre passes along with the General Mills samples distribution.

He suggested that the operation could be worked with the "Movietime" campaign which will tee off in the fall of 1953 and added that it might be tied into a contest with prizes, to select a name for the plan.

Manchester said it would have to be "an absolutely maximum, gigantic operation to end all operations" and that the public should be offered a sample of only "the very best, best product" in the industry.

Although General Mills was not the only company that could provide the "tools" for such an operation, he said, he would like to suggest that theatre owners "send out the passes through General Mills." The company would be willing to expand its promotion budget considerably, he declared, to a point where it would spend close to $3,000,000 in six to eight weeks, if it were to distribute theatre passes along with its merchandise samples. The operation would not cost exhibitors anything, he added.

Betty Hutton Cited For USO Tour

Betty Hutton, who last March went to Korea to perform before combat troops under the auspices of USO-Camp Shows, Inc., was awarded yesterday, a citation for her "tireless effort and unceasing devotion to the men and women of the Armed Forces of the United States." The award was presented at a luncheon of the New York USO Defense Fund before 100 leading New Yorkers at the Wadorf-Astoria Hotel. Admiral Oscar C. Badger, Fund chairman, presided, and James E. Sauter, president of USO-Camp Shows, delivered the citation.

200 More Theatres To Aid Rogers Fund

Close to two hundred theatres were added to the new Will Rogers Memorial Hospital collection-can project when the Harry Brandt theatres and other members of the New York Independent Theatre Owners Association "signed up" with chairman Joseph R. Vogel to place the coin-boxes on their candy stands.

The group includes Trans-Lux Theatres, the Globe, Mayfair, New Amsterdam and other Cinema Circuit houses, the New York Theatre, Selwyn, Victoria, Astor, Beacon, Times Square, and many others in Metropolitan New York City, as well as many in up-state cities and in New Jersey. With the entire membership of the MMPTA also enrolled, exhibitors of the New York area are now in the campaign nearly 100 per cent, numbering 1,300.

Chaplin Plans Film With NY Locale

Charles Chaplin, before sailing yesterday for Europe on the S. S. Queen Elizabeth with his wife and their four children, disclosed plans for his next film which, he said, will have a New York City background and will be filmed partly on location here and partly at his Coast studio.

Chaplin says he expects the trip abroad—his first in 20 years—to last for six months.

Press And TOA Sessions

also promises to be largely a closed-door affair.

Press representatives, both trade and general, were more than a little bit exercised over the difficulties put in the way of their covering the convention.

Organization officials to whom complaints were made disclaimed responsibility for the star-chamber sessions. The principal explanation given was that the subjects of arbitration and the government's 16mm. anti-trust suit comprised the main topics of discussion and TOA felt it could not open the discussions to the press in view of the fact that distribution has not authorized publication of the proposals. Most of the latter, however, have been aired from time to time in the trade press for the past several months.

TOA also takes the position that since the government has named it a co-conspirator in the 16mm. suit its deliberations of the role it will take in that action has legal implications not ordinarily present in exhibitor organization discussion of such subjects and, therefore, it is obliged to bar the press.

However, advance invitations to the press to attend the convention issued when it was certain those topics would be uppermost promised that "only one" convention session would be closed. To date, it has been just the reverse. Only one session has been "open."

Many of the trade press representatives who came long distances at considerable expense feel they would have been just as close to the sessions had they remained at home bases. The extent of most of their information has been limited to briefings at the end of the day by Herman Levy, TOA general counsel, and to bits of information they are able to glean from delegates.

The press dissatisfaction is not limited to the closed-door sessions, either. There is complete confusion over arrangements for press conferences, time and place of meetings and changes in the printed program of convention activities. To date, very little has gone according to schedule and the impatience of numerous delegates is evidenced by the many seen wandering about the hotel while the business sessions are in progress. It is a case of closing the meeting to the willing and opening it to the unwilling.

The fault does not lie with the convention press contacts, Jack Foxe of Loew's Washington Theatres; Dick Pitts and Howard Bryant of the TOA New York office. They are left as much in the dark about what is going on as is the press itself.

Has New Tack for Promotional Ads

Louis Higdon of Mid-Central Theatres, Inc. has hit upon a unique advertising campaign to promote patronage and industry goodwill, based on "the established fact that advertising which appeals to the public's vanity has almost always met with tremendous success," reports the Theatre Owners of America.

The appeal to vanity, says Higdon, should be premised on the notion that "people who stay young attend movies." Supporting this thesis, the Kansas exhibitor notes that "Everyone wants to stay young and they are willing to pay in order to try! Cosmetics, foundation garments and other lines of merchandise have proven this."

TOA's current Progress Report reproduces some of the ads which Mid-Central circuit has worked up so far. The copy of one reads: "People who stay young . . . go to the movies! Regardless of your age, it's a youthful habit! See a movie today!"

Todd, Small in Deal

Michael Todd and Edward Small have finalized an agreement to jointly produce one film a year, to be filmed in color in Europe. The films will be released through United Artists. Their agreement is for three years.

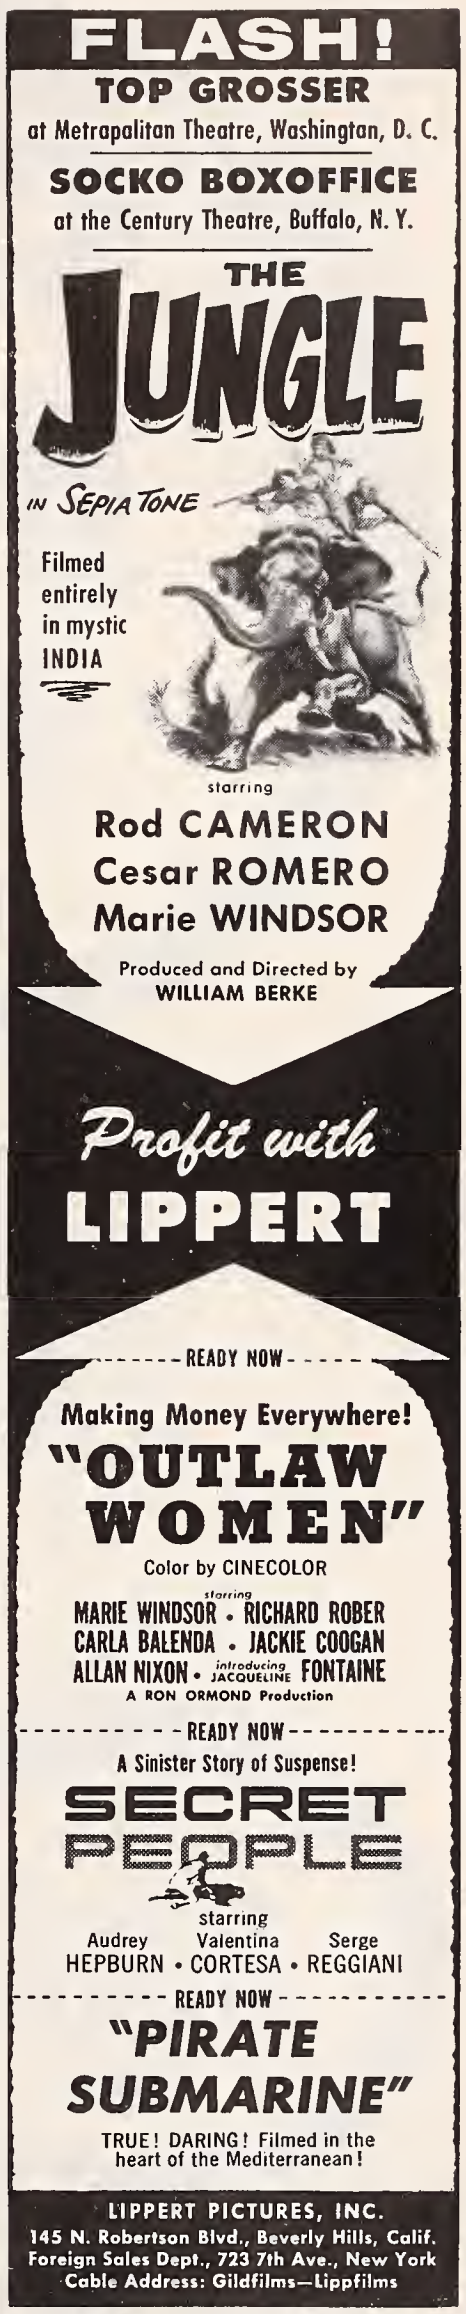
$500,000 for Film Imports to Greece

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Greece has allotted $500,000 to cover the importation of United States motion pictures during the coming fiscal year, the Department of Commerce said today.

The currency committee of the Bank of Greece has made a similar allocation for the past several years.



The Department said the allocation will be made quarterly in installments of $125,000, and will come from free dollar holdings in the Bank of Greece.

Commerce said that the money will cover the value of imported films, the value of advertising material and transportation charges. Any balance left over after these payments are made will be used to pay film royalties to producers, the Department added.

Upholds Chesapeake Fund Attachment

Justice Irving A. Saypol has denied the motion in New York Supreme Court by United Artists for dismissal of the attachment for claims aggregating in excess of $200,000 obtained by Chesapeake Industries (formerly Pathe Industries). The attachment grew out of claims and counter-claims involving proceeds from distribution by United Artists of certain former Eagle-Lion films acquired from Pathe Industries more than a year ago and other disputed phases of the purchase contract.

Total claims by Chesapeake are in excess of $400,000. The attachment applies to a separate U. A. fund held in escrow.

'Arbitration Is Here Now,' Starr Tells TOA Meet

3-Point TOA Program Is Set by Starr

Aims at 16mm. Suit, Tax And Arbitration System

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18. — A three-fold, year-round program for the Theatre Owners of America, encompassing the government's 16mm. suit, the campaign to repeal the 20 per cent Federal admission tax, and the projected arbitration system, was outlined here tonight by Alfred Starr, new TOA president.

In his acceptance speech, titled "Men of Good Will," made at the president's banquet, Starr hit at the Department of Justice's 16mm. suit seeking to force the sale of feature films to television and other non-theatrical media. He pointed to the "indignant chorus of protests" aroused by the suit, not only from the motion picture industry, "but also from the independent and impartial daily

Johnston Tells TOA Arbitration Is The Key to Unity

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Eric A. Johnston, Motion Picture Association of America president, this evening told the delegates to the Theatre Owners of America convention that it was about time the industry got out of the law business and back into show business.

Eric Johnston

Achieving this, he added, the industry will go forward to a "great measure of unity and cooperation among all of its branches." He said he believed such unity "will be wrapped around a sound and workable arbitration system."

New TOA President Takes Sharp Issue With Myers' Statement That There May Be No Arbitration System For Months

By SHERWIN KANE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Taking sharp issue with the statement of Abram F. Myers, Allied States chairman and general counsel, that there may be no industry arbitration plan for "months," Alfred Starr, newly elected president of Theatre Owners of America, told the latter's closing convention session here today that he believes "arbitration is here" now.

"I am disturbed by Myers' statement in today's MOTION PICTURE DAILY," Starr said. "I attended the same meeting yesterday with distribution representatives that Myers attended. I do not believe, as he says he does, that arbitration is months away. All the groundwork has been completed. All segments of the indus-

WIDELY VARIED INGREDIENTS ranging from tense African hunting scenes, battlefield action and the amorous adventures of a young American writer in the playgrounds of the idle—Paris, the Riviera, Madrid and Africa—combine with superior talents and costly production investitures to make of Ernest Hemingway's short story, "The Snows of Kilimanjaro," a superior attraction for audience tastes as varied as are the picture's attractions.

With Gregory Peck as the successful but unrooted writer, searching for meaning and purpose in life; with Susan Hayward, Ava Gardner and Hildegarde Neff as the female attractions who captivate and hold him at intervals, and with magnificent direction by Henry King, this Darryl F. Zanuck production in color by Technicolor ranks as one of the major attractions of the current season. It should do important business everywhere. A quick glance at the production investment just mentioned is enough to give real showmen a good idea of the selling opportunities it affords them and its intriguing gross potentials in their situations. Also present from COMPO was Charles E. McCarthy, information director. It was suggested at the luncheon that another similar meeting be held in the near future. There is no prospect of an immediate conference here among COMPO leaders.

AFL to Act on Tax Repeal, Filming Abroad, 16mm. Suit

Resolutions protesting the government's 16mm. anti-trust suit, supporting repeal of the Federal 20 per cent admission tax and assailing production of motion pictures abroad by American companies have been introduced at the American Federation of Labor convention currently in session here.

The resolutions, all of which were referred to the convention committee on resolutions, were introduced by delegate C. J. Haggerty of the California State Federation of Labor. Action on them is expected toward the end of the convention, which is due to continue into next week.

The Screen Actors Guild and the IATSE, both AFL affiliates, were credited with having secured the California Federation's sponsorship of the resolutions.

Haggerty called upon the convention in the resolution against the government's suit to "protest with the proper official of the Department of Justice with respect to the proposed action requiring the producers of motion pictures to re-release their pictures on 16mm. film to television stations and advertising agencies."

On the tax issue, the resolution requested that the convention go on record to ask Congress to repeal the amusement tax. It was resolved also that individual Congressmen be requested to introduce and vote favorably on a bill to bring about "this relief so desperately needed to save this industry from possible destruction."

The practice of overseas production by American producers was described as "growing at an alarming rate and depriving many U. S. citizens of employment who would otherwise be used in the production of these motion pictures, as well as depriving the U. S. government of taxes which would accrue from their salaries and wages." It was urged that the resolution attacking the practice "be given the widest circulation possible throughout the U. S. to all labor organizaitons and other American groups."

'Fatima' Tops for WB in Pitts., Cleve.

In its first two out-of New York special pre-release engagements, at the Allen Theatre, Cleveland and the Warner, Pittsburgh, "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" completed its first week yesterday to business topping both "Distant Drums," (which played over New Year's holiday in both situations) and "A Streetcar Named Desire," Warner Brothers' previous top money-makers in these cities.

Film drew $20,300 at the Allen and $21,400 at the Warner.

"Fatima" Buffalo Premiere at Center Theatre Wednesday

BUFFALO, Sept. 19.—"The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" will open at the Center Theatre here on Wednesday night with festive front, floodlights and civic society educational and religious leaders in attendance.

WB, Loew's Plan to Carry Walcott Bout

Loew's and Warner Brothers plan to carry the Walcott-Marciano fight telecast in eight theatres, including the Warner Theatre on Broadway which will be reopened for the evening of the fight, it was learned here yesterday.

With only five days before the fight, both circuits were reported to have entered the Theatre Network Television line-up, bringing the total number of theatres which reportedly are booked for Tuesday telecast from Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium to about 50. This establishes a new landmark in the number of theatres in the TV network.

Loew's was said to be joining the trans-continental telecast with two theatres, Loew's Victoria, in Manhattan, and Loew's State, Cleveland.

Warner theatres in the following cities, besides New York, were reported to have joined the TNT net: Washington, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Milwaukee, and Erie.

While a WB theatre spokesman here could not be reached for confirmation of the report of a deal with TNT, confirmation of Loew's plans was received.

It was also reported that Skouras's Academy Theatre, Manhattan, plans to carry the fight telecast. The television installation in Loew's Victoria was transferred from Loew's State,

The addition of the Victoria, Academy and Warner theatres would bring the number of theatres planning to carry the fight in New York up to eight.

TNT is expected to issue a list of theatres carrying the bout today.

Set Bout in Baltimore Theatre; Tickets at $2.50

BALTIMORE, Sept. 18.—The Metropolitan Theatre here, owned by Milton Schwaber, and playing to Negro audiences, has signed to carry the Walcott-Marciano bout Tuesday night. The house seats 1,200 and prices have been set at $2.50 for general admission, and no reserve seats.

Arnall to Coast for Annual SIMPP Meet

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 18.—Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers will hold its annual meeting of executive committee and members Wednesday, with SIMPP president Ellis Arnall, who arrives Tuesday, presiding. Arnall will remain several days for meetings with other SIMPP officials and individual producers before leaving, next weekend, for Atlanta.

Estimate $11,000 For 'Snows' Opening

Darryl F. Zanuck's "The Snows of Killimanjaro" was heading for an all time record at the Rivoli theatre yesterday when at 3:00 P.M. a gross of $3,095 saw the 20th Century-Fox picture $400 ahead of "David and Bathsheba," as well as far out in front of such previous record holders as "Pinky," "The Song of Bernadette" and "The Snake Pit." On the strength of the afternoon showing a high of more than $11,000 was predicted for the day.

New Extension for Loew's, UATC Denied

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—With the Department of Justice today denying a further extension of time, Loew's was to have asked today for a court order terminating its 3 joint interests with United Artists Theatre Circuit.

Under Loew's consent decree, the company was to have filed a satisfactory plan for dissolution or else to have asked the court to order one. Loew's asked the Department for an extension of today's deadline, but since it had already been postponed a number of times, the Department denied an additional extension.

In New York, a spokesman for the Department of Justice said that no action had been filed yesterday by Loew's, seeking the dissolution of its joint theatre interests with United Artists Theatre Circuit. If no action is taken by Loew's today, observers believe that the Justice Department will ask the court to implement its consent decree, provisions of which call for such dissolution of joint interests.

Compo Tours Are Warmly Praised

Washington, Sept. 18. — The Council of Motion Picture Organizations "Movietime" tours were warmly praised at the TOA convention here today by Pat McGee of Fox Intermountain Theatres, Denver, and Martin Mullin of New England Theatre, Boston.

Both described their experiences with the tours, detailing how problems were licked and and the activities turned to the constructive benefit of theatres in their areas.

McCullough Offers New Film Method

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18. — A new method of photography and projection offering more depth to the image and less strain on film and equipment was described to the Theatre Owners of America today by Russell H. McCullough, head of research for National Theatres.

McCullough told a TOA convention luncheon-meeting that the new method would reduce the "drastic acceleration" of film and allow "much more time for the film to stabilize itself." He said it would produce a screen image twice as bright as that produced by existing equipment.

'The Snows of Kilimanjaro'

attractions promises rewards in keeping with the measure of showmanship ingenuity devoted to it. To those who do advantage themselves of the opportunities it affords, it is certain to be richly rewarding.

Casey Robinson's screen play preserves the sophisticated, man-of-the-world Hemingway flavor. Snatches of dialogue, dipped in double entendre, and some unconventional situations, aim the picture primarily for the adult market. But there is much in its nearly two hours running time for the strictly conventional, as well. Scenes in which principals and natives pursue a herd of hippopotami in an African river, or in which the hunters are charged by an enraged rhino, as well as the fluid skill of bullfighters in the arena, and night-time scenes of restless animals grazing and on the hunt, are beautifully photographed and memorable.

Peck gives another of his top performances as the rootless writer who has squandered his talent in the belief that his career depends upon movement, adventure and dalliance. Leo Carroll, as Peck's uncle, endeavoring to give the younger man direction, poses the riddle of Hemingway's story—the discovery of the frozen carcass of a leopard on the upper reaches of Mt. Kilimanjaro, highest peak in Africa, and what the vague promise might have been that led it to its doom on the bare and frigid shelf. Find the answer, Peck was told, and he, too, would be helped.

THE STORY opens with Peck, Miss Hayward, his wife, and Torin Thatcher, their safari leader, at the foot of Kilimanjaro. Peck, with an infected leg injury, is threatened with death unless Thatcher can bring medical help in time. In moments of consciousness, fever and delirium his past life is recalled. Leaving home as a youth after the end of an adolescent love affair, he becomes a newspaper correspondent and struggling novelist in Paris, where he meets and falls in love with Miss Gardner. He attains some success as a writer and, after their marriage, pursuing the will-o-the-wisp of his career, he takes her with him to Africa where, in hunting and the accompanying life, he finds happiness.

Miss Gardner, longing for normality, comes to believe she will know it only without Peck, who believes that wandering is the normal life for him. She loses her unborn child in an accident and eventually runs away. Peck takes up with the Riviera set and is "adopted" by Miss Neff, playing a wealthy countess. A brief pleasure interlude ends when Miss Neff destroys a letter to Peck from Miss Gardner, to whom Peck remains devoted. He seeks her in Spain where the Civil War is in progress, eventually finding her fatally injured in the wreck of an ambulance she had been driving.

Returning to Paris he meets and marries Miss Hayward because of her resemblance to his first wife. Returning with her to Africa in search of his lost happiness and the answer to the riddle of Kilimanjaro, he meets with disillusionment. Miss Hayward's love and devotion to him during the crisis brought on by the leg infection point to a solution as Thatcher returns to the camp with medical assistance.

All performances are excellent. The production has top-notch values in all departments.

Running time, 114 minutes. Adult audience classification. For pre-release in October.

SHERWIN KANE.

Concessions Data To Be Gathered

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—The appointment of a national committee to represent every geographical section of the country for the purpose of gathering information on theatre concession operations was recommended to the Theatre Owners of America convention here today by Harold J. Fitzgerald, head of Fox Wisconsin Theatres, Milwaukee, chairman of TOA's concessions committee.

The recommendation, which was approved by the convention, is designed to gather and funnel information to the committee chairman who, in turn, will release it to the trade press for the benefit of all exhibitors.

The need for the committee, Fitzgerald said, lies in the fact that no matter how experienced an exhibitor may be in theatre operation, he is, nevertheless, a novice in the operation of his concession business.

"This is a new business for exhibitors," he pointed out. "Whether big or little, they need the counsel and the information of those who best can give it to them."

Fitzgerald, reporting for the TOA committee which has held four sessions here, also recommended that an entire day be set aside at next year's convention in Chicago for the discussion of concessions. It was also recommended that the new National Concessions Committee should meet in Chicago within the next six months to begin planning for the 1953 convention concessions day and that all such sessions should be known as "buyers" meetings. In connection with such meetings, the committee also recommended that representatives of refreshment makers and dealers be invited to participate.

The committee further recommended that exhibitors be alert to the possibilities of introducing new retail sales articles suitable for merchandising in theatres.

Inspect Repellent Is Also Saleable

Washington, Sep. 18.—Drive-in operators seeking the answer to insect and other pest control problems at the TOA convention drive-in sesion today received inspiration from a Beaumont, Tex., exhibitor, plagued with a serious mosquito invasion of his drive-in.

"When fogging and other methods proved unsatisfactory," the exhibitor said, "I stocked my concession stands with bottles of insect repellent. Sold gallons of it and the customers seemed satisfied.

Tells of Plan to Ease Gov't Rules On Construction

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—"There is now under consideration a modification" of existing governmental regulations governing theatre construction, Nathan D. Golden, film chief for the National Production Authority, yesterday informed the Theatre Owners of America convention.

Nathan Golden

In his address, Golden said the easing of governmental regulations, planned for April 1, 1953, is contingent upon the material supply at the effective date. He urged theatre owners, especially those contemplating the construction of drive-in theatres in 1953, to lay their plans now in anticipation of the relaxation of materials on April 1.

Added Golden: "I urge everyone of you to buy your theatre equipment now from your dealers while such equipment is plentiful."

Under the contemplated modified regulations, Golden stated, a theatre owner will be allowed to self-certify for five tons of carbon steel, not to include more than two tons of all types of structural shapes, 500 pounds of copper and copper base alloys and 300 pounds of aluminum. No stainless steel or alloy steel is permitted. This amount of material, Golden added, will be permitted per project, per quarter.

Present regulations call for only two tons of steel, 200 pounds of copper and no aluminum or stainless steel to be used in theatre or drive-in construction without NPA permission. If additional material is needed, application must be made to the NPA.

Under the projected new regulations, Golden also stated that a theatre owner may use self-certification for building equipment and building materials which require a "DO" rating other than controlled materials up to $15,000, where a supplier requires a "DO" rating for certain building materials. If production equipment and production machinery is necessary, he added, a theatre owner may purchase such equipment and such machinery up to $5,000 and issue a self-certification "DO" for such equipment.

many cycles and Paramount never lost faith and confidence that the tide would turn in our favor, as it now has."

Paramount calls on showmen to "continue to equal with their own enthusiasm and energies the confidence in the future."

The company lists 12 productions available from now through December, as follows: "The Greatest Show on Earth," "Son of Paleface," "Caribbean," "Hurricane Smith," "The Turning Point," "Road to Bali," "Jumping Jacks," "The Blazing Forest," "Somebody Loves Me," "The Savage," "Just for You" and "The Stooge." Also listed are 13 productions finished for 1953.

Let's keep up the Box

Our Faith, Optimism and Enthusiasm Got It Rolling . . .

Together, Showmen, We Can Keep It Going Forever!

POWER-CHARGED MOMENTUM has roared into our industry during recent months. Exhibitors, from the largest circuit groups to the smallest situations, are feeling it, matching their energies to it. "The crowds are coming back!" is the happy word from theatre men everywhere!

Paramount, in its more than 40 years of existence, has lived through many cycles and Paramount never lost faith and confidence that the tide would turn in our favor, as it now has. On February 23, we announced in the trade papers: "The general release of Cecil B. DeMille's 'THE GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH,' originally planned for the late fall of 1952, will be moved up to July, 1952, in response to demands from exhibitors . . . who have emphasized their need for big, big attractions during the summer months."

This great picture spearheaded the box-office momentum which all of us in the industry must now hold and extend. Evidence of that momentum is realistically reflected in the record-setting figures registered by "THE GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH," "QUO VADIS," "JUMPING JACKS," "IVANHOE," "WHERE'S CHARLEY?," "THE WORLD IN HIS ARMS," "AFFAIR IN TRINIDAD," "SUDDEN FEAR," "DREAMBOAT," "HIGH NOON," "THE QUIET MAN" and others.

This upbeat established by Paramount with "THE GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH" was not just a flash in the box-office pan. It spanned the whole summer as we went all the way with big ones like "JUMPING JACKS," "CARRIE," "JUST FOR YOU" and "SON OF PALEFACE."

And this upbeat by Paramount is continuing with great pictures for the balance of 1952 . . . through 1953 and beyond, many of which we have already seen; many are now in production; and many are ready to roll. These pictures—and the many millions of dollars they represent — reflect our faith, our optimism, our enthusiasm, our determination to KEEP THE CROWDS COMING BACK TO THE BOXOFFICE.

Paramount calls on showmen to continue to equal with their own enthusiasm and energies the confidence in the future expressed in its big business-producing product which is outlined here.

'Arbitration Is Here Now:' Starr

try are agreed on it. I believe we will have it very soon."

Starr reviewed the recent developments in connection with the arbitration plan. He stated flatly that the Aug. 20 draft represented an agreement unqualified even by "in principle." His reference was interpreted as another thrust at Myers, who took exception last August to the draft being described as an "agreement in principle."

Starr said that with the completion of the Aug. 20 draft it was agreed jointly by the conferees on arbitration that the only changes which could be made in the document subsequently were those which involved verbiage or those which might be brought about by legal considerations. Starr said the spirit of that understanding was respected in yesterday's meeting at which distribution's and TOA's suggestions for changes or clarifications in the draft were made. The changes suggested, Starr said, were "inconsequential."

Myers characterized the suggested changes as "sweeping."

Following Starr's statement, Herman Levy, TOA general counsel, proposed a resolution, which was adopted, endorsing the principle of industry arbitration and recommending for approval to the TOA member units the arbitration proposals as presented to the convention on Tuesday and yesterday, "with due regard to the changes proposed by the convention to the arbitration (TOA's) committee."

The resolution amounted to a convention vote of confidence in the principle of industry arbitration.

That is as far as the convention could go on the subject of arbitration. It had fondly hoped, and no one here made any secret of it, to be the first exhibitor organization to approve the proposed plan. The changes sought prevented that but TOA still might get first crack at a completed draft, if and when, by means of a special board meeting called in advance of Allied's November convention in Chicago.

The convention also was frustrated in its wish to take action on the government's 16mm. anti-trust suit, inasmuch as delegates came here without the necessary authority to commit their regional organizations to authorize TOA to move to have itself made a defendant in the action. Now the organization must poll its regional units on the other issues associated with the 16mm. suit.

The final session of the convention was thrown open to the press, making exactly half of the three days' meetings "on the record." In an open discussion, Mitchell Wolfson, retiring TOA president, proposed that the convention advise Charles Skouras that it will encourage and cooperate with the development of third-dimension films and other technical and research activities but that it believes the advancement of such improvements should be sponsored by persons or agencies other than the exhibitor organization. Skouras had not asked TOA's sponsorship of the tri-dimensional process but had invited reactions and suggestions on further research and development. The tri-dimensional plan had been outlined earlier to the delegates by R. H. McCullough of Skouras' West Coast circuit research staff.

Another proposal, from the floor, was for the establishment of a TOA office in Washington "in the modern manner." Had there been such an office, it was contended, the industry might have learned in time to intervene or disassociate TOA from the 16mm. suit.

Wolfson replied that it "takes money" to do things like that and that it is a job to get in the minimum amount of money just to run the organization."

Wolfson was obliged to make the same reply to suggestions for action with respect to the admission tax repeal campaign, to participation in research activities and other projects.

Starr also bemoaned the dearth of TOA funds, stating that the organization needs a national secretary and "can't afford one."

This was taken to be a reference to the resignation last Sunday of Gael Sullivan as executive director. The resignation was attributed around the convention primarily to the fact that TOA could not meet Sullivan's salary expectancy.

"It is shameful," Starr said, "that the organization does not have the funds to do the things it should do. We were told today of a million-dollar campaign to sell an item like popcorn. What can we spend to sell this industry and its product?"

Another suggestion from the floor was that next year's convention, to be held in Chicago, obtain a top Hollywood name to help take lay press attention from the refreshment trade show.

TOA Resolution Sends Producers 'Grateful Thanks'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18. — Resolutions adopted by the TOA convention at the closing session here today:

That TOA extend its "grateful thanks" to Hollywood producers for better, more popular pictures delivered to the nation's theatres, and that the producers be urged to continue such output and that "TOA members give concrete expression of their appreciation by merchandising this better quality product with the utmost in showmanship."

That TOA "acknowledge its debt and express its profound appreciation to the Motion Picture Industry Council of Hollyowood for its successful battle to rid Hollywood of Communist filtration and for the courageous support of the anti-Communist campaign by all the member organizations of the MPIC and their representatives."

That TOA express its gratitude to its convention committee, headed by A. Julian Brylawski, Mrs. Sidney Lust and Mrs. Frank Boucher.

That TOA express its appreciation to the trade and lay press "for the magnificent manner in which they have rallied in defense of the industry and particularly exhibitors, against the Government's 16mm. anti-trust suit.

Johnston

of the three-day convention, a banquet at the Shoreham Hotel in honor of the presidents of the distribution companies which followed adjournment of a series of business sessions.

Touching on trade practices, the MPAA chief cautioned against multiple runs. He said they narrow the choice film-goers can make and in consequence cut down on the size of audiences.

"When you rush a picture through the community at this speed," he observed, "aren't you losing advantage of the advertising, the word of mouth, the building power of a film? Aren't you, in effect, telling the people in your town that they have to see this particular picture at this particular time, or stay home, or go somewhere else, any place except where we want them to go—to the local theatre?"

Citing "the progress that has been made on arbitration," Johnston said the contribution of Herman M. Levy, TOA general counsel, in this connection amounted to "more keen thought and more real devotion" than the MPAA president thought anyone could give.

He also praised Mitchell Wolfson, fomrer TOA president, S. H. Fabian, former executive committee chairman, and William F. Rodgers, Loew's vice-president and chairman of the distributors' arbitration negotiating committee.

Johnston described Rodgers as "one of the truly great statesmen of our industry."

The company presidents, Johnston continued, "genuinely want to see an arbitration system set up and operating—and the sooner the better."

Reviewing the exhibitor-distributor work on arbitration "during the long, hot summer months," Johnston reminded that the companies have agreed to the main principles in the arbitration package. He added: "But I'm sure it will come as no surprise to you when I say there are a few loose ends yet to be worked out." This was viewed by many of his listeners as an euphemistic way of describing the failure of the conference here Wednesday of exhibitor and distributor lawyers to reach agreement on an arbitration system draft.

Johnston urged both distributors and exhibitors to "take some good hard inward looks" to determine if they are doing their utmost to improve business.

Pointing to the recent business upswing in New York, he called upon the industry to discard the pessimistic outlook for optimism. Johnston reminded that TV could be turned to the industry's advantage and he hit the government's 16mm. anti-trust suit to force the sale of films to TV.

Questioning the value of double bills, Johnston asked the showmen if they didn't believe their customers would prefer a more balanced program of one feature, shorts and newsreels. Asserting that Hollywood now is providing better product, Johnston said that Hollywood now asks that more exhibitors "merchandise pictures to the hilt."

TOA to Begin Poll Of Units on 16mm. Suit Next Week

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18. — The Theatre Owners of America will begin polling its membership next week to find out what members wish to do about fighting the government's 16mm. anti-trust suit, TOA general counsel Herman Levy said today.

Levy told the TOA convention that members should let him know whether they favored "the intervention procedure, using your screens, Congressional investigation or other avenues of relief, or combinations of them." He asked members to consult with their boards of directors and their legal advisors and send in a speedy reply.

Although the TOA legal counsel had expected to get a directive at the convention as to what TOA wished to do about the suit, it was found that regional units had not instructed their delegates to the convention to act on the matter. It is therefore necessary to poll the units and for the TOA board of directors to determine what course TOA will take in regard to the suit after it has heard the results of the poll.

Levy warned members not to fear a consent decree among the parties to the suit before TOA has had an opportunity to present its case. He told them that consent decrees are not "overnight matters" and added that the Department of Justice had assured TOA it would have an opportunity to present its views on appropriate relief in the case before the entry of a consent decree, should an acceptable decree be proposed to the government.

New Conciliation System Set Up

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18. — The Theatre Owners of America board of directors today authorized its new president Alfred Starr, to appoint a TOA member in each exchange area to act as exhibitor-distributor conciliator.

The new conciliaton panel, to be known as the trade practice committee, will replace the approximately half-dozen regional grievance boards that TOA set up around the country during the past year. Many exhibitors, it was explained, found the distances too great to travel to put their complaints before the regional boards and consequently, many complaints never were aired. The new exchange center conciliators are expected to remedy that situation. The trade practice committee will remain in existence TOA said, until an industry arbitration-conciliation plan has been put into effect.

The board also voted to extend the organization's membership in the Council of Motion Picture Organizations.

Set $1,000,000 Ad Popcorn Campaign

Washington, Sept. 18. — The Popcorn Institute will engage in a $1,000,000 advertising promotion campaign mostly in national magazines, during the next year to enlarge the legion of popcorn eaters, the TOA convention here was advised today.

Theatres will have an opportunity to share in a less generalized campaign of their own. The institute will offer a plan for taxing their purchases of corn five cents per hundredweight, which will be matched by the Institute, and the proceeds used for specific promotion of sales of popcorn in theatres.

3-Point Program

press, and from national magazines."

The new TOA president called the Federal admission tax "monstrous" and the tax of local governments on admissions "illogical and unfair" in light of the U. S. Supreme Court's "Miracle" decision, which held that motion pictures are a medium of communications entitled to the protection of the Constitution in regard to freedom of speech and expression. Starr asked rhetorically, "why not an excise tax on radio, on the free press?"

Pledged Starr: "We will in the coming months devote our full energies . . . toward removing this paralyzing and unjustifiable tax on admissions."

Starr predicted that when a system of arbitration is "put to work," it will relieve the industry, and exhibition in particular, of a staggering burden of expense. He said he intended to travel from Coast to Coast during the next 12 months to explain to the various state and regional units of TOA the details involved in the projected arbitration plan, still to be drafted completely. Starr paid tribute to TOA general counsel Herman M. Levy for his work on arbitration and to the "fair minded men in distribution," who, he said, "were willing to sacrifice present advantages in order to minimize discord and litigation in our industry."

The 16mm. suit, which will be the subject of a survey of TOA's regional units to determine what action should be pursued by the organization, including that of seeking the status of a co-defendant, was further explored by Starr in his speech. Why, Starr asked, this insistence on films for television that have been made for the express purpose of exhibition in theatres. He also questioned why does not the television industry make its own films especially for telecasting, shorter films and special films made for a special medium.

Black prophecies that television will spell the doom of motion pictures were dismissed by Starr. He called TV simply "one more device for mass communications" and predicted that the two industries in future years will not regard each other as "economic enemies."

Starr's opening remarks were in tribute to retiring president Mitchell Wolfson for his work over the past year in strengthening the industry. In closing, the new TOA president pledged that the daily problems of the exhibitor, "ever increasing film rentals," "pressures of competition," "unfair trade practices," and rising costs would also be in the domain of TOA, which would seek answers to such problems.

GRIPES DON'T COME EASY AT TOA MEET; BUSINESS TOO GOOD

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18. — Theatre business has improved so much it appeared at the closing session of the Theatre Owners of America annual convention here today that M. A. Lightman of Memphis, chairman of the open forum, had to touch off the fireworks himself to get the "gripes" into the open. Invitations to the delegates to get things off their chest fell on unresponsive ears until Lightman grabbed the "mike" and assailed competitive bidding and simultaneous runs as "stupid and vicious" trade practices that demanded immediate and persistent exhibitor attention.

Walter Reade, Jr., new head of the TOA executive committee. Then assailed high terms for special releases as "subterfuges" to circumvent the illegal practice of prescribing advanced and admissions. Both Lightman and Reade cited chapter and verse, naming names.

Lightman urged that exhibitors must do something about bidding and simultaneous runs. Both can be worked out. He said. His complaint against bidding centered on awards of pictures to other than top bidders, citing terms he himself had offered unsuccessfully for pictures. Exhibitors, he said, should accumulate evidence of top bids being rejected and take them to the Department of Justice as evidence of the misapplication of the system, and demand changes.

Reade cited the increasing number of pictures being sold at terms that require advanced admissions and urged exhibitors to protest vigorously to distribution companies.

Sidney Lust of Washington and Lightman urged TOA convention planners to allow more time for open forum discussions at future conventions, warning against relegating them to the final hours "when nothing can be done about trade practice complaints except to bury them" with unfinished business.

Mitchell Wolfson, retiring TOA president, urged exhibitors to "take a militant stand" with their local newspapers against higher advertising rates for amusements than for other advertising. "You should not tell the newspapers what they should charge for amusement advertising," Wolfson advised. "But you should protest strongly against being charged a higher rate than other merchants are charged. If the prevailing rate is too high, then don't advertise."

Spells Out Plan

the press was permitted to hear—was made by Jack Braunagel of Commonwealth Theatres, Kansas City, chairman of TOA's drive-in commitee.

Braunagel spent the better part of an hour detailing tried and proven showmanship stunts that have brought abundant extra business to Commonwealth's numerous drive-ins in a five-state area in the Midwest. As a prelude, he related that Commonwealth made a six to eight weeks average of attendance at its conventional theatres before and after the seasonal opening of its drive-ins. It learned that, on opening, for every $100 taken in by the drive-ins, there was a drop of only $5 in the gross of the conventional theatres. And on the seasonal closing of the drive-ins, the conventional houses recovered only $5 in gross.

The $95 difference, Braunagel pointed out, was new business—business the drive-ins were commanding and the conventional theatres were not getting. He posed the problem: How best to get that new drive-in business?

Part Carnival

Commonwealth's experience, he said, contributes to the answer to that question. His company regards drive-ins as part theatre business and part carnival business and operates the drive-in accordingly. Braunagel described the free attractions for children and adults alike, the stunts—from goat-milking contests to pie-throwing contests—that have been used to draw patrons, and that have drawn them.

Braunagel lauded the recent drive-in survey published by Jack Levin Associates of New York, stating that it had been of great value to Commonwealth.

He advised drive-in operators to talk to the customers, not to their country club friends, to find out what is wrong with business and what the customers want.

He advised them, too, to give thought to the problem of new manpower sources for their operations, asserting that the theatre business, in his opinion, is in the poorest shape of any business today in respect to new manpower. The top men in exhibition today, Braunagel said, are neither encouraging nor training new men. He recommended that TOA sponsor a training school for managers similar to that operated in the late 1920's by Publix Theatres under Sam Katz. Commonwealth, he said, is doing just that now and, in its training courses, has discovered managerial and showmanship talent, whose accomplishments he detailed to the convention.

The trainees, Braunagel said, are taught to sell pictures and to operate theatres, not merely to push popcorn.

"There is too much emphasis on the latter in our business today," he said.

Sam Pinanski, chairman of the convention session in the absence of Sam Kirby, expressed the reaction of the delegates to Braunagels talk when he said the resourcefulness in ideas and stunts devised by Commonwealth managers to get business made him "feel like a heel" and made him realize he has been "only a bookkeeper."

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 18. — Columbia announced the withdrawal of Mary Pickford from the cast of Stanley Kramer's "Circle of Fire."

Sees Eidophor in From 6 to 8 Months

Washington, Sep. 18.—Twentieth Century-Fox's Eidophor system for large-screen television will be ready for use with Columbia Broadcasting System color in from six to eight months, Russell McCullough, head of research for National Theatres, said today.

Urge Good Spot for 'Rogers' Coin Box

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Appeals to exhibitors to place the coin containers for public contributions to the Variety Clubs Will Rogers Memorial Hospital funds in strategic locations in their lobbies were made to a large breakfast gathering here today by prominent industry men identified with the hospital. Abe Montague, president of the hospital and general sales manager of Columbia Pictures, presided.

Doob for Vogel

Oscar Doob, addressing the meeting in the absence of Joe Vogel of Loew's Theatres, New York, reported that in tests made with 110 containers placed in theatres during the past four months, collections averaged between $3.50 and $4.50 per week. Placed in at least 5,000 theatres, Doob pointed out, the source can be a vital adjunct of other means of financing the hospital, such as the "Christmas Salute" and the sponsoring of hospital rooms at $2,000 per year by industry individuals.

S. H. Fabian, hospital treasurer, emphasized the aim of the hospital in "taking care of our own, even though we are called upon and do help so many other worthy causes."

Montague reported that 94,000 people in the industry contributed $92,000 in the Christmas Salute last year, pointing out that the number of contributions was evidence that the industry's people do want the hospital maintained.

Robert J. O'Donnell, hospital board chairman, related that minimum annual expenses for maintaining the hospital are $200,000 and that there is $117,000 in the treasury now. It needs a fund of $350,000 to relieve the strain and provide for improvements, he said.

Bamberger Speaks

Other speakers included Leon Bamberger of RKO Radio, who reported that most of the circuits, large and small, throughout the country are placing the coin containers on display; Jack Beresin, chief barker of Variety Clubs International; William Ruffin, Sam Switow, Chick Lewis and Fred Schwartz.

Speakers emphasized the humanitarian work of the project ad its value in industry public relations, pointing out that one day tuberculosis will have been vanquished and the industry, through the Will Rogers Hospital, will have earned credit for some of the victory.

In this connection, Doob expressed the opinion that the industry made a mistake in ending its association with the March of Dimes annual campaign.

"One day, infantile paralysis will be licked," Doob said, "and the industry will not be identified with that great public victory."

By SHERWIN KANE

IT WAS A DISAPPOINTMENT to many delegates to the Theatre Owners of America convention in Washington last week that no conclusive action could be taken by the convention on the three topics heralded in advance as the most important to come before the meeting: The government's 16mm. suit, arbitration and the campaign for admission tax repeal.

TOA action with respect to its role in the 16mm. suit was referred back to the regional units for instructions to the national organization; arbitration, still incomplete, could only be approved in principle subject to proposed changes in the plan, and the uncertainties attendant upon those developments just about crowded discussion of the admission tax repeal off the convention schedule. If it was discussed at all, it was in one of the three out of six closed meetings from which the press was barred.

Despite those frustrations, there was much in the open convention sessions of great practical value to exhibitors.

Elmer Rhoden's keynote speech and retiring president Mitchell Wolfson's address, both pointing the roads to industry and, particularly, exhibition's economic recovery and future health, were solid items of inspiration and guidance. Jack Braunagel's specifics of operation of successful drive-ins were as good as money in the bank for any exhibitor alert enough to hear and mark the dollars-and-cents blueprint put before him. Harold Fitzgerald's analysis and recommendation of refreshment concessions operation, with the accompanying trade show, can be translated, now and in the future, into cash for many a theatre operation.

The suggestions for trade practice action advanced by M. A. Lightman and Walter Reade, Jr., opened the way to constructive exhibitor action on some fundamentals of theatre operation. And TOA's executive committee, working around the clock, took vital steps to strengthen, expand and vastly increase the organization and its service functions to members.

Finally, the new slate of officers headed by Alfred Starr of Nashville, represents enthusiasm, com-

Starr Urged Arbitration Of Clearances

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—A proposal that circuits and other exhibitors be given the right to initiate arbitration proceedings to increase clearance was put before last week's arbitration drafting committee meeting by Alfred Starr, new president of the Theatre Owners of America, it was learned here over the weekend.

A top TOA official, who asked that his name not be used, revealed this development. He made the disclosure when asked for his views as to what Allied States Association general counsel Abram F. Myers might have had in mind when he issued a statement declaring that one TOA proposal to the drafting committee was "revolutionary." Myers himself refused to give further details.

The TOA official denied this was a "revolutionary" idea, and said he felt it was really not too important. He said the proposal had originally

Wisc. Congressmen All Out for Repeal

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 21.—A record 100 attended the regional meeting of Allied of Wisconsin at Wausau where the highlight was the report given by president Sig Goldberg, on the progress being made in Wisconsin on the 20 per cent tax repeal campaign. He said the campaign itself was well organized and he congratulated the distributor chairmen for their earnestness in exercising their duties.

Goldberg stated that eight of the 10 districts have had meetings with their Congressmen and have received definite commitments that their Congressmen will go all out for repeal.

Another Coast Unit Protests 16mm. Suit

Hollywood, Sept. 21.—The Screen Story Analysts Guild reported that it had sent a communication to the Department of Justice protesting the 16mm. suit as capable of causing "unjustifiable injury" to the motion picture industry.

49 Theatres in 30 Cities Set for Bout

Forty-nine theatres in 30 cities from Coast-to-Coast will take tomorrow night's telecast of the Jersey Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano heavyweight title bout, to be fought at Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium, Theatre Network Television officially disclosed here at the weekend.

The line-up of theatres tops the previous high set in June for the Robinson-Maxim bout, when 38 TV-equipped theatres joined the network.

The largest network of theatres was assured when Loew's, RKO Theatres and Warner Brothers booked the event late last week. It was also effected by TNT's planned use of a simultaneous film recording, or a

Expect Rupture in Work On Draft to Be Healed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Distribution representatives who were in Washington at the weekend after attending the Theatre Owners of America covnention banquet here expressed definite optimism that the apparent rupture in the work of completing the proposed industry arbitration draft would be healed in short order. The reasons for their optimism, however, were not disclosed.

One major company sales manager who was asked if distribution had decided to waive its request for changes in the language of the draft was noncommittal in reply but insisted that while "things looked very dark following the exhibitor-distributor meeting here last

Irving P. Alexander Dies in Boston

BOSTON, Sept. 21.—Irving P. Alexander, 55, of Winthrop, Mass., division manager for the Snider Theatre Enterprises of Boston, died suddenly at the Beth Israel Hospital here Thursday as he was about to undergo an emergency operation.

Alexander had been associated with the motion picture industry for over 30 years. He was formerly with New England Theatres Operating Co., Paramount Publix Theatres and the M. and P. Theatres. He leaves his widow, two daughters and a brother.

Royalty at 'Limelight' London Premiere

"Limelight," Charles Chaplin's first picture in five years, will have its London premiere under the sponsorship of the Royal London Society for Teaching and Training the Blind, with Her Royal Highness Princess Alice and the Earl of Athlone, the Earl and Countess of Mountbatten and United States Ambassador Walter S. Gifford serving as premiere presidents, United Artists announced.

Chaplin, now en route to London for the premiere, may not be readmitted to the U. S. Attorney General McGranery said at the weekend that he had ordered authorities of the Immigration Service to determine whether the comedian, a British citizen, should be readmitted. The premiere, slated for Oct. 16, was scheduled to be Chaplin's first stop on a world tour with his wife and children.

RKO Radio Drive On Short Subjects

RKO Radio will launch a short subject sales drive starting Oct. 1 and running to the end of the year, it was announced at the weekend by Sid Kramer, short subjects sales manager.

Spearheading the drive will be "Operation A-Bomb," two-reel special produced by RKO Pathe which presents an atomic blast at Yucca Flats, Nevada, in color.

Para. Sales Drive For Oscar Morgan

Oscar A. Morgan, general sales manager of Paramount short subjects and the newsreel, will be honored by the company during the week of Sept. 28 with a sales drive bearing his name.

This marks the fourth successive year Paramount has paid tribute to the sales executive with an "Oscar Morgan Week," and is the anniversary also of his 38th year with the company.

This year's drive includes, in addition to short subjects and the newsreel, two features, W. Somerset Maugham's "Trio" and "Encore," of which Morgan is in charge of sales.

U-I to Herald '53 With Three in Color

Three pictures in color by Technicolor will be released in January by Universal-International, heralding the new year with an emphasis on color, Charles J. Feldman, U-I general sales manager, disclosed here at the weekend, following his return from the Coast.

The trio of releases set for January consists of "The Lawless Breed," starring Rock Hudson and Julia Adams, "City Beneath the Sea," starring Robert Ryan and Mala Powers; and "Meet Me At the Fair," starring Dan Dailey and Diana Lynn.

Feldman returned to New York following a tour of the Midwest, Pacific Northwest and the Coast, where he conducted meetings with exhibitors, circuit heads and members of his own organization. At the studio Feldman viewed "Mississippi Gambler," "Desert Legion," "A Man's Country," "The Lone Hand," 'Seminole" and "Column South."

Columbia Drive Winners Named

Ten domestic branch and division managers from Columbia Pictures, accompanied by their wives will shortly be travelling to Paris, London, Rome, or any one of a score of other foreign cities in which the company maintains offices. The trips are being awarded to the 10 for winning the "Round the World" sales drive, which concluded June 26.

In addition, salesmen, office managers and bookers of all branches which won first, second and special prizes and branch managers of the runner-up exchanges will receive awards. The 10 winners are: Bob Ingram, Southeastern district manager; Jack Underwood, Southwestern division manager; Wayne Ball, Los Angeles; George Roscoe, Atlanta; H. Duvall, New Orleans; R. C. Hill, Denver; N. J. Colquhoun, Memphis; H. Green, Salt Lake City; J. H. Jacobs, Omaha; J. R. Beale, Portland. Portland.

Jones Quits the FCC To Practice Law

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21. — Robert F. Jones, a strong opponent of monopoly and "bigness" in the radio and television field, resigned as a member of the Federal Communications Commission over the weekend.

Jones, in various separate concurring or dissenting opinions, has repeatedly emphasized the anti-trust record of the film industry and was considered to be one of the major hurdles which the industry would have to overcome to win exclusive theatre television channels and to expand in other ways into the television field. He has been on the Commission since 1947 and prior to that was a member of Congress. He will enter private law practice in Washington with Arthur Scharfeld, specializing FCC cases.

petence, purpose and determination.

Most assuredly, not all of the practical values of an exhibitor convention are necessarily those which get the biggest headlines. Even in the casual meetings and exchange of ideas which a convention affords, there are opportunities aplenty for exhibitors to obtain and take home with them ideas which can be translated into actual extra cash in the box-office till.

kinescope, which will be televised to theatres West of Omaha from New York at about 11:15 P.M. (EDT).

The fight, which will not be home televised or broadcast, will be seen in theatres in the following cities: New York, Los Angeles, Seattle, Washington, Cleveland, Milwaukee, Toledo, Baltimore, Kansas City, Asbury Park, Rutherford, N. J.; Chicago, Detroit, Gary, Ind.; Hammond, Ind.; Miami, San Francisco, Binghampton, N. Y.; Albany, N. TNT declines to name the 49 theatres taking the bout due to what is believed to be competitive reasons. About 39 theatres taking the bout were listed previously in MOTION PICTURE DAILY as reported by field correspondents.

In New York City, eight theatres will take the telecast, including the Warner Theatre on Broadway which will reopen tomorrow night for the event and then shutter again. The 2,700-seat Warner Theatre is charging $3.60, including the admission tax, for general admission and $4.80, including tax, for loges.

Other Warner houses taking the telecast include: Warner, Erie, Stanley, Baltimore; Warner, Milwaukee; Warner, Washington; and the Stanley, Pittsburgh.

WB, like most other theatres, is charging either $3 or $3.60, for the event outside New York. The other seven theatres in New York taking the event are: 50th Street Guild, Academy, Manhattan, RKO Fordham, Bronx; Marine, Fox, Brooklyn; Queens, Queens Village, L. I.

Washington Theatres Charge $3.60 for Bout

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—All three Washington theatres showing telecasts of Tuesday's Walcott-Marciano fight are charging $3.60 admission, the highest figure ever charged here for a theatre television event.

Most previous theatre TV showings here have had an admission price of $2.40 or less. One theatre on one occasion went up to $3 for reserved seats, though keeping the $2.40 top for general admission.

Officials of the three theatres explain that the cost of rights to the fight and other expenses made the new high charge necessary.

The three houses showing the theatre telecast Tuesday are RKO Keith's, the Lincoln Theatre and the Warner. This will be the first time the Warner has had theatre television. All three theatres are showing the fight along with the regular feature, and all are having advance sales but no reserved seats.

A fourth local theatre, Loew's Capitol, has theatre TV facilities, but a Loew's official said it was not showing the fight telecast because the company felt the other three theatres had saturated the area.

TOA Board Elects New Executive Unit

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21. — The Theatre Owners of America executive committee for the next year, as elected by the TOA board at the organization's annual convention in Washington last week will be constituted as follows:

RKO Pathe Set to Take 40,000 Feet of Film

RKO Pathe has cleared its decks preparatory to processing an anticipated 40,000 feet of film that will be taken at the Jersey Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano heavyweight championship bout in Philadelphia tomorrow night, Jay Bonafield, executive producer, disclosed here at the weekend.

Key operating personnel will be on duty all night to assist in the prompt handling of the negative, so that the prints are made ready in the least possible time.

At the RKO home office about 150 employes will remain on duty to handle distribution of the film, Sidney Kramer, shorts subject sales manager, said. RKO branch managers and their staffs will also work through the night.

Metal for Theatres Is Cut by N.P.A.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21. — Smaller amounts of steel, cooper and aluminum have been alloted to the National Production Authority's film section for parcelling out to theatre and film equipment manufacturers for use in the first quarter of next year, NPA has announced.

At the Theatre Owners of America convention in Washington last week, Nathan D. Golden, Department of Commerce film chief, said easing of governmental regulations governing the supply of building materials was planned for April 1, 1953.

Concerning the new NPA announcement, for all three metals, the amounts are well below allotments for previous quarters. The steel allotment is most sharply reduced, due to the steel strike, and in most cases the copper and aluminum allotments have been cut back since less of these materials can be used due to the steel shortage.

NPA said it was giving the motion picture and photographic products section only 4,315 tons of steel ior allotment in the first quarter, compared with 5,181 tons in the fourth quarter of this year, and 6,207 tons in the current third quarter. The copper allotment was reduced from 1,463,000 pounds in the fourth quarter to 1,276,000 pounds in the first quarter, and the aluminum allotment was cut from 3,214,000 pounds in the last three months of this year to 3,101,000 pounds in the first three months of next year.

terms of the Loew's consent decree. The filing of the suit came after Loew's failed to get a new extension of its deadline from the Department of Justice. The deadline, which called for Loew's and UATC to effect divestiture or Loews' to take court action, expired last Thursday.

Loew's action on Friday also called upon the court to order the receiver to submit a satisfactory plan for the termination of the joint interests. The following theatres are held jointly by both parties: Loew's State, Louisville; Loew's Century, Parkway, and Velencia; Baltimore; Loew's Broad and Loew's Ohio, Columbus, and Loew's Penn and Ritz, Pittsburgh.

VancouverExchange Strike Is Settled

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 21.—The month-long strike of film exchange employes here, ended with the signing of a memo of agreement on wage increases to be granted by RKO Radio, M-G-M, Warner Brothers, 20th Century-Fox, Paramount and Columbia.

Climax in the bargaining battle came when members of Local No. B-71, exchange backroom employes, and Local No. F-71, exchange front office employes, set out to picket all Vancouver theatres showing films distributed by companies which had not yet reached an agreement with the unions. Actually, picketing of only one house, the Hastings, took place, and that lasted only 20 minutes. Five other theatres withdrew their scheduled attractions before the doors opened at 11:00 A. M. and substituted pictures distributed by either J. Arthur Rank, Empire-Universal or United Artists. The first two of these companies had signed contracts several weeks before, providing wage increases satisfactory to the locals, and UA had given acceptable assurances regarding a settlement.

At the Hastings, where the lone picket line was established, the management likewise shifted to films of one of the companies with which a dispute no longer existed—when it became apparent that projectionist members of IATSE Local No. 348 would voluntarily respect the picket line.

Russia Refuses

the American-owned films was contained in an official note from the Soviet Foreign Office, transmitted to the U. S. State Department through the American Embassy in Moscow.

The note was the first official Russian reaction to a series of protests initially lodged with the Soviet government more than a year ago by the State Department at the request of Eric Johnston, MPEA president. Johnston repeatedly protested the "pirating" of the American films.

The pictures involved are "Meet John Doe," "Viva Villa," "Mr. Smith Goes to Washigton," "The Three Musketeers" and "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town." While the Russian note referred to only these five subjects, MPEA said, at least four other Hollywood pictures are known to have been grabbed as "war booty" and shown in Russian theatres: "Romeo and Juliet," "The Crowd Roars," "The Man in the Iron Mask" and "The Story of Louis Pasteur."

Two of the eight films, it is known, were reedited and distorted for anti-American propaganda purposes, said the MPEA. The other six offered Soviet editors little latitude for distortion and apparently were left intact.

It was learned by the MPEA that all of the films are still being widely released and re-released throughout Russia and that they invariably play to sell-out crowds wherever shown, said the MPEA.

Possibilities

Wednesday, they are much brighter now."

The reason for the changed attitude was unknown to Abram F. Myers, Allied States chairman and general counsel, who participated in the Wednesday arbitration meeting. At the close of that meeting Myers issued a statement in which he said he believed an arbitration plan was farther from realization that before the meeting and that it would be months, if ever, before the industry had a plan in work.

Replying to a question, Myers said he had not altered that opinion and that he had heard nothing from the distributors since the meeting.

"I have no idea what they plan to do, or when they will do it," Myers said when asked if another arbitration conference date had been set.

Despite Allied's position, Eric Johnston, Motion Picture Association of America president, went ahead with his prepared speech at the Thursday night TOA banquet, in which he expressed confidence that the industry needs, must have and soon would have an arbitration plan.

Some trade cricles here wondered whether there was any possibility of the Department of Justice and the Federal Statutory Court in New York approving an arbitration draft without the participation of Allied. Some believed there was a chance of that happening, provided the other exhibitor organizations, such as the Independent Theatre Owners Association of New York, the Metropolitan Motion Picture Theatres Association and Western Theatre Owners also approved.

Allied Is Important

However, they pointed out that without Allied participation the plan would be less effective, particularly insofar as realization of the main objective of distribution is concerned —the lessening of industry anti-trust suits.

TOA's convention action Thursday in approving in principle the incomplete arbitration draft, subject to changes suggested and outlined to the convention, confused even some TOA members here. The action was generally compared with that taken by the company presidents in New York last Monday, when they approved the plan in principle, subject to changes in or clarification of certain draft language. No exhibitor here regarded that as a complete or final approval of the draft and most felt that TOA's action should be similarly regarded.

Questions were also raised in connection with TOA's convention action on arbitration in the light of the previous conference agreement that no exhibitor organization would act on the draft until it had been formally approved by distribution. How TOA's action jibes with that agreement was a matter of speculation among exhibitors here.

Many feel that the status of the plan is approximately the same, apart from Allied's stated current dissatisfaction, as it was on Aug. 20. When it was announced that an agreement in principle had been reached. Even then, Myers disputed that.

Allied, it was learned, also is mildly upset by information that a distribution committee which met several weeks ago with investigators for the Senate small business committee on its probe of industry trade practices based on complaints of southern California exhibitors, reportedly told the investigators that an industry arbitration plan which would take care of all such trade complaints, was imminent and, therefore, pressing the action now was unnecessary. The committee, apparently, was not persuaded, even if the report relayed to Allied is correct. Committee investigators were despatched to Los Angeles again last week to pursue the inquiry already begun and others are about to take off from here.

Let a New Drafting Group Repair Arbitration: Myers

By J. A. OTTEN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—In another bitter blast at the participants and developments at last Wednesday's arbitration meeting at the Mayflower Hotel here, Allied States Association general counsel Abram F. Myers suggested a new drafting committee be set up to continue further work on the arbitration plan.

He intimated that "know-it-all boys" and "Monday morning quarterbacks" had thrown a monkey-wrench into the arbitration works, and that they should now be made to bear the responsibility for future developments.

Myers' blast came in answer to a question as to whether he personally would attend any further drafting committee meetings. His statement did not answer the question directly, but certainly indicated he is very reluctant to invest any more of his time in these meetings.

"I think those of us who toiled through the hot summer are entitled to be relieved," he declared, "and that the Mnoday morning quarterbacks among the home office attorneys and elsewhere should now take over. I for one would like to do a little second guessing for a chance."

Myers said he thought it would be "interesting to see what sort of plan the know-it-all boys can produce," and promised that "if it is worthy, the Allied arbitration committee will submit it to the Allied Board of directors." But he reaffirmed previous statements that he would not put anything but a finished plan before Allied's convention in November, and that he doubted very much that a plan would be ready by then.

He will insist on a finished plan, Myers said, so that "Allied, like the Theatre Owners of America, will then be privileged to consider the whole subject in convention and vote on the proposals one by one if it sees fit." Myers said he understood this was the procedure followed by the TOA convention here last week.

The Allied official vehemently denied that the changes proposed by TOA and the distributors at Wednesday's meeting were "not substantial," a claim that was made by TOA and distributor officials following Myers' first blast at the outcome of Wednesday's session. "One TOA proposal was, to say the least, revolutionary," Myers said. "One of the distributor proposals would have weakened the meager provisions against the spread of competitive bidding."

Myers refused to give any further details on either of these proposals.

None of the proposals at the Wednesday meeting was submitted in writing, Myers again asserted, and "none could be acted upon because the time was consumed in extraneous arguments by persons who were not members of the legal committee and who had not participated in preceding conferences, lately or at all."

It was understood, though Myers would not comment, that these remarks were aimed primarily at Alfred Starr, new TOA president; Robert Wilby of TOA; and Austin C. Keogh of Paramount.

Wilder to Venice Confab

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Thornton Wilder, author and playwright, has been named chairman of the United States participating group for the International Conference of Artists, to be held in Venice, Italy, opening today. The Department of State and the U. S. National Commission for UNESCO announced also that among other members of the party representing the U. S. will be Valentine Davies.

Box to Make Rank Film in Canada

TORONTO, Sept. 21.—The J. Arthur Rank Organization has announced that, following a Canadian visit by producer Betty E. Box and director Ralph Thomas from Pinewood Studios, London, production will start next spring on "Campbell's Kingdom," an oil-field picture, on location in Alberta.

Another group of Rank officials will be here shortly for a survey in connection with the company's production program in the Dominion. Leslie Parkyn, Sergei Nolbandov and author Neil Patterson will scout locations for "Scottish Settlement."

Rush Coming for Rodeo

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 21.—Art Rush, personal manager of Roy Rogers and Dale Evans, has entrained for New York, accompanied by his wife, to join the two Western stars for their Sept. 24-Oct. 19 engagement at the Madion Square Garden world championship rodeo. With publicity director Al Rackin already there, general manager Larry Kent, sales promotion manager Connie Krebs, and Helen Young, Rush's secretary, are slated to join the entourage next week.

been discussed by the drafting committee in earlier meetings this spring and summer, and had been discarded as too controversial. Then, he added, the suggestion was again made from the floor of the TOA convention Tuesday afternoon during a closed-door session on arbitration, and Starr passed the suggestion along to the arbitration drafting committee when he attended its meeting at the Mayflower hotel last Wednesday.

Starr refused to discuss the report, saying that at the arbitration meeting there had been much talk and a cataloguing of many things that exhibitors wanted, and that "it's pretty silly to center on any one phase of all these things." He said there was an agreement not to talk about what had been discussed, and that the final arbitration draft would be made public at the proper time and then would be the time for comment on details.

The TOA president reaffirmed his statement of Thursday that all of the parties are agreed in principle of an arbitration plan, and that there is no cause for pessimism on the subject.

Flurry of Activity In Chicago Courts

CHICAGO, Sept. 21. — A flurry of legal activity in the Federal courts here found technical rulings being passed and hearings being set on three theatre anti-trust suits.

The hearing on a change of venue from Chicago to Milwaukee on the Viking Theatre Corp. (Oshkosh, Wis.) case has been scheduled for Jan. 20 by Federal judge John Barnes.

Judge Sam Perry has ruled that the Paramount decree is not applicable to the Schoenstadt Circuit's position as defendant in the Midtown Theatre suit, but that the circuit must defend itself on other aspects of the suit. Oct. 1 has been set as the date for the hearing on the Thompson-Metropolis-32 West Randolph St. Building $8,000,000 suit against B. & K., major film companies, Warner Theatres, and RKO Theatres. The 32 W. Randolph Building houses the Oriental Theatre.

Disney to Film Bob Roy

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 21.—Walt Disney's next live-action production will be based on the Scottish outlaw, Bob Roy, with Richard Todd starred. It will be made in Scotland.

Will you share this dream with us?

Not many weeks ago there passed away from the motion picture industry a man who had devoted half his adult life to the victims of modern plagues; cancer, heart disease and tuberculosis. During the war he dedicated himself to the blind veterans. In peace-time he spent most of himself for the people in the amusement industries who were stricken with tuberculosis and whom he helped back to health at the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital in Saranac Lake.

HIS NAME WAS HAROLD RODNER

He had a dream about the Hospital. He wanted to see it equipped with a Research Section where scientists could develop speedier methods for returning to normal life, those suffering from tuberculosis. We have undertaken to convert this dream into reality.

In the beginning this was a modest venture by a small group of Harold's friends. But as the word of what they were planning spread out, many men and women to whom he had given hope and life, insisted upon the opportunity to share in converting Harold's idea into a real Laboratory. Therefore, we are extending an invitation to everyone in the amusement industries to participate.

If you have been helped by Harold Rodner, or if he opened the doors of the hospital to one of your employees or friends, or even if you didn't know Harold and the selfless work he did, and would like to perpetuate the spirit of such a man, then join this project with us to keep alive and warm the kindly, sympathetic help he gave to the needy and the suffering.

VOL. 72. NO. 58 NEW YORK, U. S. A., MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1952 TEN CENTS

By SHERWIN KANE

IT WAS A DISAPPOINTMENT to many delegates to the Theatre Owners of America convention in Washington last week that no conclusive action could be taken by the convention on the three topics heralded in advance as the most important to come before the meeting: The government's 16mm. suit, arbitration and the campaign for admission tax repeal.

TOA action with respect to its role in the 16mm. suit was referred back to the regional units for instructions to the national organization; arbitration, still incomplete, could only be approved in principle subject to proposed changes in the plan, and the uncertainties attendant upon those developments just about crowded discussion of the admission tax repeal off the convention schedule. If it was discussed at all, it was in one of the three out of six closed meetings from which the press was barred.

Despite those frustrations, there was much in the open convention sessions of great practical value to exhibitors.

Elmer Rhoden's keynote speech and retiring president Mitchell Wolfson's address, both pointing the roads to industry and, particularly, exhibition's economic recovery and future health, were solid items of inspiration and guidance. Jack Braunagel's specifics of operation of successful drive-ins were as good as money in the bank for any exhibitor alert enough to hear and mark the dollars-and-cents blueprint put before him. Harold Fitzgerald's analysis and recommendation of refreshment concessions operation, with the accompanying trade show, can be translated, now and in the future, into cash for many a theatre operation.

The suggestions for trade practice action advanced by M. A. Lightman and Walter Reade, Jr., opened the way to constructive exhibitor action on some fundamentals of theatre operation. And TOA's executive committee, working around the clock, took vital steps to strengthen, expand and vastly increase the organization and its service functions to members.

Finally, the new slate of officers headed by Alfred Starr of Nashville, represents enthusiasm, com-

Starr Urged Arbitration Of Clearances

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—A proposal that circuits and other exhibitors be given the right to initiate arbitration proceedings to increase clearance was put before last week's arbitration drafting committee meeting by Alfred Starr, new president of the Theatre Owners of America, it was learned here over the weekend.

A top TOA official, who asked that his name not be used, revealed this development. He made the disclosure when asked for his views as to what Allied States Association general counsel Abram F. Myers might have had in mind when he issued a statement declaring that one TOA proposal to the drafting committee was "revolutionary." Myers himself refused to give further details.

The TOA official denied this was a "revolutionary" idea, and said he felt it was really not too important. He said the proposal had originally

Royalty at 'Limelight' London Premiere

"Limelight," Charles Chaplin's first picture in five years, will have its London premiere under the sponsorship of the Royal London Society for Teaching and Training the Blind, with Her Royal Highness Princess Alice and the Earl of Athlone, the Earl and Countess of Mountbatten and United States Ambassador Walter S. Gifford serving as premiere presidents, United Artists announced.

Chaplin, now en route to London for the premiere, may not be readmitted to the U. S. Attorney Generai McGranery said at the weekend that he had ordered authorities of the Immigration Service to determine whether the comedian, a British citizen, should be readmitted. The premiere, slated for Oct. 16, was scheduled to be Chaplin's first stop on a world tour with his wife and children.

RKO Radio Drive On Short Subjects

RKO Radio will launch a short subject sales drive starting Oct. 1 and running to the end of the year, it was announced at the weekend by Sid Kramer, short subjects sales manager.

Spearheading the drive will be "Operation A-Bomb," two-reel special produced by RKO Pathe which presents an atomic blast at Yucca Flats, Nevada, in color.

Para. Sales Drive For Oscar Morgan

Oscar A. Morgan, general sales manager of Paramount short subjects and the newsreel, will be honored by the company during the week of Sept. 28 with a sales drive bearing his name.

This marks the fourth successive year Paramount has paid tribute to the sales executive with an "Oscar Morgan Week," and is the anniversary also of his 38th year with the company.

This year's drive includes, in addition to short subjects and the newsreel, two features, W. Somerset Maugham's "Trio" and "Encore," of which Morgan is in charge of sales.

Jones Quits the FCC To Practice Law

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21. — Robert F. Jones, a strong opponent of monopoly and "bigness" in the radio and television field, resigned as a member of the Federal Communications Commission over the weekend.

Jones, in various separate concurring or dissenting opinions, has repeatedly emphasized the anti-trust record of the film industry and was considered to be one of the major hurdles which the industry would have to overcome to win exclusive theatre television channels and to expand in other ways into the television field. He has been on the Commission since 1947 and prior to that was a member of Congress. He will enter private law practice in Washington with Arthur Scharfeld, specializing FCC cases.

petence, purpose and determination.

Most assuredly, not all of the practical values of an exhibitor convention are necessarily those which get the biggest headlines. Even in the casual meetings and exchange of ideas which a convention affords, there are opportunities aplenty for exhibitors to obtain and take home with them ideas which can be translated into actual extra cash in the box-office till.

kinescope, which will be televised to theatres West of Omaha from New York at about 11:15 P.M. (EDT).

The fight, which will not be home televised or broadcast, will be seen in theatres in the following cities: New York, Los Angeles, Seattle, Washington, Cleveland, Milwaukee, Toledo, Baltimore, Kansas City, Asbury Park, Rutherford, N. J.; Chicago, Detroit, Gary, Ind.; Hammond, Ind.; Miami, San Francisco, Binghampton, N. Y.; Albany, N. Y.; Indianapolis, Denver, Louisville, Pittsburgh, Sacramento, Omaha, Dayton, Minneapolis, Cincinnati, Erie, Pa., and Richmond, Va.

TNT declines to name the 49 theatres taking the bout due to what is believed to be competitive reasons. About 39 theatres taking the bout were listed previously in MOTION PICTURE DAILY as reported by field correspondents.

In New York City, eight theatres will take the telecast, including the Warner Theatre on Broadway which will reopen tomorrow night for the event and then shutter again. The 2,700-seat Warner Theatre is charging $3.60, including the admission tax, for general admission and $4.80, including tax, for loges.

Other Warner houses taking the telecast include: Warner, Erie, Stanley, Baltimore; Warner, Milwaukee; Warner, Washington; and the Stanley, Pittsburgh.

WB, like most other theatres, is charging either $3 or $3.60, for the event outside New York. The other seven theatres in New York taking the event are: 50th Street Guild, Academy, Manhattan, RKO Fordham, Bronx; Marine, Fox, Brooklyn; Queens, Queens Village, L. I.

Washington Theatres Charge $3.60 for Bout

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—All three Washington theatres showing telecasts of Tuesday's Walcott-Marciano fight are charging $3.60 admission, the highest figure ever charged here for a theatre television event.

Most previous theatre TV showings here have had an admission price of $2.40 or less. One theatre on one occasion went up to $3 for reserved seats, though keeping the $2.40 top for general admission.

Officials of the three theatres explain that the cost of rights to the fight and other expenses made the new high charge necessary.

The three houses showing the theatre telecast Tuesday are RKO Keith's, the Lincoln Theatre and the Warner. This will be the first time the Warner has had theatre television. All three theatres are showing the fight along with the regular feature, and all are having advance sales but no reserved seats.

A fourth local theatre, Loew's Capitol, has theatre TV facilities, but a Loew's official said it was not showing the fight telecast because the company felt the other three theatres had saturated the area.

TOA Board Elects New Executive Unit

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21. — The Theatre Owners of America executive committee for the next year, as elected by the TOA board at the organization's annual convention in Washington last week will be constituted as follows:

organization, a new theatre company, to be called National Theatres, Inc., will be organized which will take over the interests of 20th Century-Fox Film Corp. in the common stock of Wesco Theatres Corp. and Roxy Theatre, Inc.

The plan also calls for the organization of a new company which will be incorporated in Delaware under the name of 20th Century-Fox Film Corp. and which will take over the balance of the assets of the present company; the dissolution of the present 20th-Fox Corp.; and the distribtuion of stock in the new picture company and new theatre company to the stockholders of the present 20th-Fox Corp. in exchange for their present shares, on the basis of one share of stock in each new company for each present share of the present company.

RKO Pathe Set to Take 40,000 Feet of Film

RKO Pathe has cleared its decks preparatory to processing an anticipated 40,000 feet of film that will be taken at the Jersey Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano heavyweight championship bout in Philadelphia tomorrow night, Jay Bonafield, executive producer, disclosed here at the weekend.

Key operating personnel will be on duty all night to assist in the prompt handling of the negative, so that the prints are made ready in the least possible time.

At the RKO home office about 150 employes will remain on duty to handle distribution of the film, Sidney Kramer, shorts subject sales manager, said. RKO branch managers and their staffs will also work through the night.

Metal for Theatres Is Cut by N.P.A.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Smaller amounts of steel, cooper and aluminum have been alloted to the National Production Authority's film section for parcelling out to theatre and film equipment manufacturers for use in the first quarter of next year, NPA has announced.

At the Theatre Owners of America convention in Washington last week, Nathan D. Golden, Department of Commerce film chief, said easing of governmental regulations governing the supply of building materials was planned for April 1, 1953.

Concerning the new NPA announcement, for all three metals, the amounts are well below allotments for previous quarters. The steel allotment is most sharply reduced, due to the steel strike, and in most cases the copper and aluminum allotments have been cut back since less of these materials can be used due to the steel shortage.

NPA said it was giving the motion picture and photographic products section only 4,315 tons of steel for allotment in the first quarter, compared with 5,181 tons in the fourth quarter of this year, and 6,207 tons in the current third quarter. The copper allotment was reduced from 1,463,000 pounds in the fourth quarter to 1,276,000 pounds in the first quarter, and the aluminum allotment was cut from 3,214,000 pounds in the last three months of this year to 3,101,000 pounds in the first three months of next year.

Stolkin is understood to have heavy interests in theatres in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and the Midwest, and is said to have plans for further theatre acquisitions, according to the spokesman for the buying interests.

terms of the Loew's consent decree. The filing of the suit came after Loew's failed to get a new extension of its deadline from the Department of Justice. The deadline, which called for Loew's and UATC to effect divestiture or Loews' to take court action, expired last Thursday.

Loew's action on Friday also called upon the court to order the receiver to submit a satisfactory plan for the termination of the joint interests. The following theatres are held jointly by both parties: Loew's State, Louisville; Loew's Century, Parkway, and Velencia; Baltimore; Loew's Broad and Loew's Ohio, Columbus, and Loew's Penn and Ritz, Pittsburgh.

VancouverExchange Strike Is Settled

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 21.—The month-long strike of film exchange employes here, ended with the signing of a memo of agreement on wage increases to be granted by RKO Radio, M-G-M, Warner Brothers, 20th Century-Fox, Paramount and Columbia.

Climax in the bargaining battle came when members of Local No. B-71, exchange backroom employes, and Local No. F-71, exchange front office employes, set out to picket all Vancouver theatres showing films distributed by companies which had not yet reached an agreement with the unions. Actually, picketing of only one house, the Hastings, took place, and that lasted only 20 minutes. Five other theatres withdrew their scheduled attractions before the doors opened at 11:00 A. M. and substituted pictures distributed by either J. Arthur Rank, Empire-Universal or United Artists. The first two of these companies had signed contracts several weeks before, providing wage increases satisfactory to the locals, and UA had given acceptable assurances regarding a settlement.

At the Hastings, where the lone picket line was established, the management likewise shifted to films of one of the companies with which a dispute no longer existed—when it became apparent that projectionist members of IATSE Local No. 348 would voluntarily respect the picket line.

Russia Refuses

the American-owned films was contained in an official note from the Soviet Foreign Office, transmitted to the U. S. State Department through the American Embassy in Moscow.

The note was the first official Russian reaction to a series of protests initially lodged with the Soviet government more than a year ago by the State Department at the request of Eric Johnston, MPEA president. Johnston repeatedly protested the "pirating" of the American films.

The pictures involved are "Meet John Doe," "Viva Villa," "Mr. Smith Goes to Washigton," "The Three Musketeers" and "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town." While the Russian note referred to only these five subjects, MPEA said, at least four other Hollywood pictures are known to have been grabbed as "war booty" and shown in Russian theatres: "Romeo and Juliet," "The Crowd Roars," "The Man in the Iron Mask" and "The Story of Louis Pasteur."

Two of the eight films, it is known, were reedited and distorted for anti-American propaganda purposes, said the MPEA. The other six offered Soviet editors little latitude for distortion and apparently were left intact.

It was learned by the MPEA that all of the films are still being widely released and re-released throughout Russia and that they invariably play to sell-out crowds wherever shown, said the MPEA.

Possibilities

Wednesday, they are much brighter now."

The reason for the changed attitude was unknown to Abram F. Myers, Allied States chairman and general counsel, who participated in the Wednesday arbitration meeting. At the close of that meeting Myers issued a statement in which he said he believed an arbitration plan was farther from realization that before the meeting and that it would be months, if ever, before the industry had a plan in work.

Replying to a question, Myers said he had not altered that opinion and that he had heard nothing from the distributors since the meeting.

"I have no idea what they plan to do, or when they will do it," Myers said when asked if another arbitration conference date had been set.

Despite Allied's position, Eric Johnston, Motion Picture Association of America president, went ahead with his prepared speech at the Thursday night TOA banquet, in which he expressed confidence that the industry needs, must have and soon would have an arbitration plan.

Some trade cricles here wondered whether there was any possibility of the Department of Justice and the Federal Statutory Court in New York approving an arbitration draft without the participation of Allied. Some believed there was a chance of that happening, provided the other exhibitor organizations, such as the Independent Theatre Owners Association of New York, the Metropolitan Motion Picture Theatres Association and Western Theatre Owners also approved.

Allied Is Important

However, they pointed out that without Allied participation the plan would be less effective, particularly insofar as realization of the main objective of distribution is concerned —the lessening of industry anti-trust suits.

TOA's convention action Thursday in approving in principle the incomplete arbitration draft, subject to changes suggested and outlined to the convention, confused even some TOA members here. The action was generally compared with that taken by the company presidents in New York last Monday, when they approved the plan in principle, subject to changes in or clarification of certain draft language. No exhibitor here regarded that as a complete or final approval of the draft and most felt that TOA's action should be similarly regarded.

Questions were also raised in connection with TOA's convention action on arbitration in the light of the previous conference agreement that no exhibitor organization would act on the draft until it had been formally approved by distribution. How TOA's action jibes with that agreement was a matter of speculation among exhibitors here.

Many feel that the status of the plan is approximately the same, apart from Allied's stated current dissatisfaction, as it was on Aug. 20. When it was announced that an agreement in principle had been reached. Even then, Myers disputed that.

Allied, it was learned, also is mildly upset by information that a distribution committee which met several weeks ago with investigators for the Senate small business committee on its probe of industry trade practices based on complaints of southern California exhibitors, reportedly told the investigators that an industry arbitration plan which would take care of all such trade complaints, was imminent and, therefore, pressing the action now was unnecessary. The committee, apparently, was not persuaded, even if the report relayed to Allied is correct. Committee investigators were despatched to Los Angeles again last week to pursue the inquiry already begun and others are about to take off from here.

Let a New Drafting Group Repair Arbitration: Myers

By J. A. OTTEN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—In another bitter blast at the participants and developments at last Wednesday's arbitration meeting at the Mayflower Hotel here, Allied States Association general counsel Abram F. Myers suggested a new drafting committee be set up to continue further work on the arbitration plan.

He intimated that "know-it-all boys" and "Monday morning quarterbacks" had thrown a monkey-wrench into the arbitration works, and that they should now be made to bear the responsibility for future developments.

Myers' blast came in answer to a question as to whether he personally would attend any further drafting committee meetings. His statement did not answer the question directly, but certainly indicated he is very reluctant to invest any more of his time in these meetings.

"I think those of us who toiled through the hot summer are entitled to be relieved," he declared, "and that the Mnoday morning quarterbacks among the home office attorneys and elsewhere should now take over. I for one would like to do a little second guessing for a chance."

Myers said he thought it would be "interesting to see what sort of plan the know-it-all boys can produce," and promised that "if it is worthy, the Allied arbitration committee will submit it to the Allied Board of directors." But he reaffirmed previous statements that he would not put anything but a finished plan before Allied's convention in November, and that he doubted very much that a plan would be ready by then.

He will insist on a finished plan, Myers said, so that "Allied, like the Theatre Owners of America, will then be privileged to consider the whole subject in convention and vote on the proposals one by one if it sees fit." Myers said he understood this was the procedure followed by the TOA convention here last week.

The Allied official vehemently denied that the changes proposed by TOA and the distributors at Wednesday's meeting were "not substantial," a claim that was made by TOA and distributor officials following Myers' first blast at the outcome of Wednesday's session. "One TOA proposal was, to say the least, revolutionary," Myers said. "One of the distributor proposals would have weakened the meager provisions against the spread of competitive bidding."

Myers refused to give any further details on either of these proposals.

None of the proposals at the Wednesday meeting was submitted in writing, Myers again asserted, and "none could be acted upon because the time was consumed in extraneous arguments by persons who were not members of the legal committee and who had not participated in preceding conferences, lately or at all."

It was understood, though Myers would not comment, that these remarks were aimed primarily at Alfred Starr, new TOA president; Robert Wilby of TOA; and Austin C. Keogh of Paramount.

Wilder to Venice Confab

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Thornton Wilder, author and playwright, has been named chairman of the United States participating group for the International Conference of Artists, to be held in Venice, Italy, opening today. The Department of State and the U. S. National Commission for UNESCO announced also that among other members of the party representing the U. S. will be Valentine Davies.

Box to Make Rank Film in Canada

TORONTO, Sept. 21.—The J. Arthur Rank Organization has announced that, following a Canadian visit by producer Betty E. Box and director Ralph Thomas from Pinewood Studios, London, production will start next spring on "Campbell's Kingdom," an oil-field picture, on location in Alberta.

Another group of Rank officials will be here shortly for a survey in connection with the company's production program in the Dominion. Leslie Parkyn, Sergei Nolbandov and author Neil Patterson will scout locations for "Scottish Settlement."

Rush Coming for Rodeo

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 21.—Art Rush, personal manager of Roy Rogers and Dale Evans, has entrained for New York, accompanied by his wife, to join the two Western stars for their Sept. 24-Oct. 19 engagement at the Madion Square Garden world championship rodeo. With publicity director Al Rackin already there, general manager Larry Kent, sales promotion manager Connie Krebs, and Helen Young, Rush's secretary, are slated to join the entourage next week.

been discussed by the drafting committee in earlier meetings this spring and summer, and had been discarded as too controversial. Then, he added, the suggestion was again made from the floor of the TOA convention Tuesday afternoon during a closed-door session on arbitration, and Starr passed the suggestion along to the arbitration drafting committee when he attended its meeting at the Mayflower hotel last Wednesday.

Starr refused to discuss the report, saying that at the arbitration meeting there had been much talk and a cataloguing of many things that exhibitors wanted, and that "it's pretty silly to center on any one phase of all these things." He said there was an agreement not to talk about what had been discussed, and that the final arbitration draft would be made public at the proper time and then would be the time for comment on details.

The TOA president reaffirmed his statement of Thursday that all of the parties are agreed in principle of an arbitration plan, and that there is no cause for pessimism on the subject.

Flurry of Activity In Chicago Courts

CHICAGO, Sept. 21. — A flurry of legal activity in the Federal courts here found technical rulings being passed and hearings being set on three theatre anti-trust suits.

The hearing on a change of venue from Chiacgo to Milwaukee on the Viking Theatre Corp. (Oshkosh, Wis.) case has been scheduled for Jan. 20 by Federal judge John Barnes.

Judge Sam Perry has ruled that the Paramount decree is not applicable to the Schoenstadt Circuit's position as defendant in the Midtown Theatre suit, but that the circuit must defend itself on other aspects of the suit. Oct. 1 has been set as the date for the hearing on the Thompson-Metropolis-32 West Randolph St. Building $8,000,000 suit against B. & K., major film companies, Warner Theatres, and RKO Theatres. The 32 W. Randolph Building houses the Oriental Theatre.

Will you share this dream with us?

Not many weeks ago there passed away from the motion picture industry a man who had devoted half his adult life to the victims of modern plagues; cancer, heart disease and tuberculosis. During the war he dedicated himself to the blind veterans. In peace-time he spent most of himself for the people in the amusement industries who were stricken with tuberculosis and whom he helped back to health at the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital in Saranac Lake.

HIS NAME WAS HAROLD RODNER

He had a dream about the Hospital. He wanted to see it equipped with a Research Section where scientists could develop speedier methods for returning to normal life, those suffering from tuberculosis. We have undertaken to convert this dream into reality.

In the beginning this was a modest venture by a small group of Harold's friends. But as the word of what they were planning spread out, many men and women to whom he had given hope and life, insisted upon the opportunity to share in converting Harold's idea into a real Laboratory. Therefore, we are extending an invitation to everyone in the amusement industries to participate.

If you have been helped by Harold Rodner, or if he opened the doors of the hospital to one of your employees or friends, or even if you didn't know Harold and the selfless work he did, and would like to perpetuate the spirit of such a man, then join this project with us to keep alive and warm the kindly, sympathetic help he gave to the needy and the suffering.

Second 16mm. Dealer Trust Suit Is Filed

Fisher Asks $1,050,000 Treble Damages

The second civil anti-trust suit to compel the sale of 16mm. films to non-theatrical outlets following the similar action taken by the Department of Justice last July was filed in U. S. District Court here yesterday by Fisher Studio, Inc., and Robert V. Fisher, 16mm. dealers and "roadshow men." Filing attorneys were Malken & Isacson of New York.

Citing not the government's 16mm. anti-trust suit, but rather restraints set forth in the U. S. vs. Paramount, et al, suit, the plaintiffs in the new action ask $1,050,000 treble damages from seven major distributors and others.

On Sept. 8, an anti-trust suit for $3,135,000 in triple damages was filed against eight distribution companies and others in U. S. District Court in Philadelphia, with Kunz Motion Picture Service as plaintiff.

The complaint filed yesterday makes

Carolina TO Marks 40th Anniversary

Charlotte, Sept. 22.—The Theatre Owners of North and South Carolina, of which Robert E. Bryant is president and Mrs. Walter Griffith is executive secretary and treasurer, will hold its 40th anniversary convention at the Hotel Charlotte here on Nov. 9-10-11.

An affiliate of Theatre Owners of America, it is the oldest exhibitor organization in the industry.

Negotiations Continue for Purchase Of Hughes' RKO Pictures Stock

Hollywood, Sept. 22.—Negotiations for the purchase of Howard Hughes' 1,050,000 shares of RKO Pictures stock at a price in excess of $7,000,000 continued here today with closing of the deal expected to be announced at any time.

Included in the deal are some 35,000 shares owned by Ned E. Depinet, RKO Pictures president, who arrived here late last week for the final phases of the negotiations.

The purchasing syndicate, consisting of Ralph Stolkin, Chicago manufacturer; A. L. Koolish, Stolkin's father-in-law; Ray Ryan and E. J. Burke, Texas oil opertaors, reportedly would take over management of RKO Pictures two weeks after the formal closing for purchase of Hughes' controlling interest in the company.

Should the deal be closed, Hughes still would hold 929,020 shares of RKO Theatres stock, which is now held in trusteeship by Irving Trust Co., New York, in consequence of an RKO divorcement restriction. Hughes paid a total of nearly $9,000,000 for his RKO stock when purchased from Atlas Corp. four years ago.

'Snows' Due for Big $86,000 at Rivoli

A terrific $86,000 is indicated for the initial week of "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" at the Rivoli here, setting the pace for New York first-runs.

Weekend business at the Rivoli topped the previous house record set by "David and Bathsheba" in Aug., 1951. That picture heralded its Rivoli run with a first-week gross of $84,600.

"Big Jim McLain" opened to a good $70,000 at the Paramount for the first seven days, while a nice $37,000 was chalked up for the first week of "One Minute to Zero" at the Criterion.

A healthy $120,000 is indicated for the eighth and final week of "Ivanhoe" at the Radio City Music Hall. The Hall's next attraction "Because You're Mine" will premiere on Thursday.

See Sellout For Bout in N.Y. Assured

Eight Theatres Tell of The Box-Office Draw

A sell-out in eight New York theatres carrying tonight's exclusive transcontinental telecast of the Jersey Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano heavyweight title bout was virtually assured yesterday, according to a check of preliminary sales of tickets.

Virtual complete sell-outs were reported by Fabian's Fox, Brooklyn, RKO Fordham, Bronx, Marine, Brooklyn, and the Queens, Queens Village, L. I. Fabian's Fox and the RKO Fordham are charging $3.00 per seat, while the Marine and Queens are charging $2.50 for general admissions and $3.00 for loges. All prices include the Federal 20 per cent admission tax.

May Ask Ohio for Censor Ruling

Distribution attorneys, who have been holding long and frequent meetings to deal with the thorny Ohio censorship problem, are seriously considering an appeal to the state's attorney-general for a state-wide ruling in light of the industry's victory over newsreel censorship in Toledo, it was learned here.

Meanwhile, until the problem of film censorship in all of Ohio is settled in some fashion, the distributors are continuing and will continue to submit newsreels to the state's censor board.

The award has been made annually since 1947 when J. A. Maurer, former vice-president of SMPTE, was the first to receive the honorarium created by the Warner Brothers in memory of their late brother to encourage the development of new and improved methods or apparatus designed for sound-on-film motion pictures, including any steps in the process.

Farrell, McGowan Get M-G-M Posts

CLEVELAND, Sept. 22.—Tom Farrell, former M-G-M representative in China, has joined the local branch sales force, assigned to the Toledo territory. Jerry McGowan, who joined the branch several weeks ago, is now assigned to the "river" territory. They were appoined to succeed Phil Harrington and Jerry Lipow who resigned, Harrington to go into another business, Lipow to become a partner of Justin Spiegle in Roadshows, distributing exploitation pictures.

Fete Eckman on 25th Anniversary

LONDON, Sept 22.—Sam Eckman, M-G-M managing director here, will observe his 25th anniversary in the post on Wednesday. He will be feted at a dinner in the Savoy Hotel to be attended by representatives of all branches of the industry, American organizations, government departments and armed services.

$60,000 Ad Campaign Is Set for Cinerama Opening

Cinerama will be introduced at the Broadway Theatre, New York, on Sept. 30 with a $60,000 newspaper campaign devised by McCann-Erickson, Inc. The production and projection system, introducing a new dimension in sight and sound in a two-hour entertainment, presented problems never before encountered in amusement page advertising, it was stated at the office here of Lynn Farnol, who is handling some promotional phases of the showing. Primarily, it was one of describing a medium that conveys the illusion of a third dimension in a two dimensional medium, it was said.

The key of the advertising campaign is that of representing "the emotional thrill" of the new entertainment without describing the technical apparatus and without cataloguing any of the specific details of the first program of entertainment on a screen six times the usual size.

Built around phrases like "You Rise Right Out of Your Chair," "You're in the Heart of This Picture," and "The Theatre That Flies," and stressing the slogan, "the film with the new dimension," the ads will run in large display space in all Metropolitan dailies here.

Monogram Meet

G. Ralph Branton, vice-presidents; Walter Mirisch, executive producer, and Harold Wirthwein, Western division sales manager.

Others who also arrived today included Edward Morey, vice-president; Norton V. Ritchey, vice-president and president of Monogram International; Lloyd Lind, supervisor of exchange operations, and L. E. Goldhammer, Eastern division manager, all of New York, and James Prichard, Dallas, Southwestern division manager.

Others here to attend the conclave are from the organization's 31 wholly-owned or franchise-operated exchanges in the U. S., according to John C. Flinn, national advertising-publicity director.

A. R. Glaubinger Is Named Monogram Branch Manager

Albert R. Glaubinger has been appointed Monogram-Allied Artists branch manager in Indianapolis, it was announced by M. R. Goldstein, vice-president and general sales manager. Glaubinger, who formerly was branch manager in Indianapolis for Universal, replaces Norman Linz who resigned after the company recenty bought the Indianapolis and Chicago franchise from Irving Mandel.

Testimonial for Rubin

Harry Rubin, director of projection for Paramount theatres for the past 35 years, will be honored by his associates and by members of motion picture operators union Local No. 306 at a testimonial dinner this evening at Rosoff's Restaurant here.

Col., RKO Radio, UA, Skouras Aid AMPA

Three distributors and a circuit have provided "classrooms" for the Associated Motion Picture Advertisers' weekly courses on showmanship and merchandising which will get underway on Thursday and continue on subsequent Thursdays for 12 weeks. The cooperating companies are Columbia Pictures, RKO Radio, Skouras Theatres and United Artists, according to Harry K. McWilliams, AMPA president, who said their screening rooms will be used for the courses.

The first course will be held in RKO Radio's home office preview room, the second in Columbia's, the third at UA's and the fourth at Skouras Theatres', with the four companies alternating their rooms in that order for remaining sessions.

Brown, Leff Switch Managerial Posts

BUFFALO, Sept. 22.—M. A. Brown has been named manager of the local United Artists branch, succeeding Dave Leff. Brown returns from Cleveland where he had been managing the UA office. Leff takes over the UA management in Cleveland.

Brown is a former manager of the Buffalo Paramount exchange and before assuming that post had been Paramount manager in Toronto. Leff has been manager of the Buffalo UA office for the past several years.

The Legion of Decency reports that the following five films have been placed in Class B: "Snows of Kilimanjaro," "My Wife's Best Friend," and "Monkey Business," 20th Century-Fox; "Hellgate," Lippert Productions, and "Strange Fascination," Columbia.

L. Wingham, MGM Veteran, Dies at 56

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 22.—Langdon C. (Butch) Wingham, 56, manager of the local M-G-M exchange since 1939, died of a heart attack today. He first joined the industry as a salesman for Samuel Goldwyn in 1923 in Seattle, and three years later was made manager of M-G-M's office in Salt Lake City. From there he was transferred to San Francisco. He is survived by his widow and a son.

Mrs. Fanny Jutkovitz

Funeral services were held yesterday at Jewish Center, Far Rockaway, N. Y., for Mrs. Fanny Jutkovitz, member of a family which owns and operates several theatres in the Rockaway section. Mrs. Jutkovitz, who died Saturday night, was the widow of Jacob Jutkovitz. A son, Izidor, survives.

NEWS in Brief . . .

A musical stage version of "Gone with the Wind," under the title of "Scarlett O'Hara," will be presented on Broadway by David O. Selznick. Contracts were signed between Selznick and Stephens Mitchell, on behalf of the estate of his sister, the late Margaret Mitchell, author of the best-seller. As announced simultaneously in New York, Los Angeles and Atlanta, Selznick has also acquired the television and radio rights to the book.

Tell FCC

the parent company to UPT, and the sale of the station—should the merger be approved—to the Columbia Broadcasting System.

CBS filed its pertinent proposed findings Friday but Paramount Pictures, Allen B. DuMont Laboratories, Inc. and the FCC broadcast bureau are still to be heard from. Based on these proposed findings of the parties to the case FCC hearing examiner Leo Resnick will write his initial decision, which can come anywhere from two to six weeks after the final findings are in. Deadline for filing findings is October 3.

In a 168-page document UPT, ABC and B and K also requested the FCC to approve the renewal of license of WBKB and WSMB and to consent to the involuntary transfer of stock in Paramount Richards Gulf Theatres to UPT.

The proposed findings told the Commission that "there is no reasonable probability that the effect of proposed merger, if consummated, will be substantially to lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in any line of commerce in any section of the country," and that a grant of the above described merger applications would be in the public interest. Pointing to the "scarcity of challengers in the network field, willing to risk their resources in a competitive struggle with the dominant duopoly," ABC and UPT told the Commission that only a company such as UPT "with long experience in public entertainment" and "ample financial resources" would "venture to assume the burden" of competing with CBS and the National Broadcasting in the television field.

The findings said it would be "fallacious to suggest that UPT's motion picture and theatre television exhibition interests would tempt it to retard the fullest development of television."

ABC and UPT pointed out that there has been full compliance with the Paramount consent judgment with respect to the requirement that UPT and Paramount Pictures be separate and distinct, that UPT has proceeded with its divestiture program in an orderly and diligent manner, and that the trade practices condemned by the judgment "have long since been abandoned."

no mention of the recent government action, but incorporates the Paramount case in which some of the defendants were found to have violated the antitrust laws in the distribution of film.

The complaint alleges restraints of "block booking," a "price fixing system," "arbitrary and excessive clearance," "protection to preferred exhibitors" and other charges contained in the Paramount case.

Allege Other Restraints

Besides these alleged restraints, the plaintiffs charged the defendants with "arbitrarily refusing to license to plaintiffs feature motion picture film of like kind and quality as that released to exhibitors of 35mm. feature film and available on 16mm. film."

Named as defendants were Loew's, Paramount, 20th Century-Fox, Warner, RKO Radio, Columbia, Universal, Republic, Screen Gems, United World, Pictorial Films, Movie En Route, Inc., and Movies U. S. A., Inc.

Blasted by A.F.L.

product to TV and other non-theatrical outlets was taken in a resolution sponsored by the Screen Actors Guild, the IATSE and the California State Federation of Labor.

The AFL contended that if the suit was successful in forcing producers to allow the free showing on television of major theatrical pictures, "a great many of the 22,000 American motion picture theatres would be forced to close, with the result that film producers then would not have enough monetary returns to finance the making of quality theatrical pictures in which hundreds and sometimes thousands of American workmen are employed."

"This capricious and unreasonable suit. . . . jeopardizes the livelihood of many of the 250,000 workers in the film industry, who for the most part are organized in AFL unions," the resolution said. It instructed the AFL executive council "to investigate all factors in the bringing of this unfair suit."

Another similarly sponsored resolution condemning the production of pictures abroad by American companies also was voted by the convention. A resolution supporting repeal of the Federal 20 per cent admission tax was approved by the convention and referred to the AFL taxation committee for implementation.

See Sellout

Stadium, reported that more than half of their seats were sold as of yesterday and the pace of sales was good, indicating a sell-out by fight time. The price is $4.50 for general admissions and $5.00 for loges. Both prices include the tax.

The Warner Theatre, which will reopen just for tonight's telecast and then shutter again, is one of the few theatres in the country which is not offering regular film fare with the fight. A theatre spokesman said there will be a newsreel and a short subject only.

At Loew's Victoria and Skouras's Academy of Music, Manhattan, more than half the seats were sold as of yesterday. The Victoria management said it will "definitely be a sell-out," while a spokesman for the Academy Theatre reported that theatre personnel have not been able to answer phone calls fast enough. The Victoria is charging $3.00 for all seats, while the Academy is charging $3.60 and $4.80 for loges. Both prices include the tax.

The 450-seat 50th Street Guild theatre sold out weeks ago at $4.80.

Theatre Network Television, which acquired the TV rights to the bout for sale to theatres, plans to continue the telecast, picking up a preliminary bout, in the event of a quick knockout in the main event, it was reported here yesterday. TNT could not be reached for confirmation.

The bout will be telecast to theatres West of Omaha about an hour after the Walcott match gets underway.

With 50 theatres from Coast-to-Coast set to take the bout, theatres are almost certain to outdraw the expected 50,000 attendance at the gate in Philadelphia. Co-promoter Herman Taylor said he expected the fight to draw between $550,000 and $600,000 on the basis of advance sales which reached $300,000 at the weekend.

The grossing potential of the 50 theatres is about $450,000, it is estimated, with about 150,000 seats available in the trans-continental network

Meanwhile, field reports indicate a sell-out in all RKO houses outside of New York, including Keith's, Washington; RKO Palace, Cleveland; Keith's Dayton, and Albee, Cincinnati. Fabian's TV-equipped theatre in Richmond, Va., was two-thirds sold out as of yesterday, with one-third of the tickets sold in Fabian's house in Norfolk, Va., 90 miles away.

In Minneapolis, the Radio City reported that the advance sale is fairly good with about half of the tickets expected to be sold before fight time. The house seats 4,000 and is charging $2.50 for the event on a reserved seat basis.

Henry B. French, president of Minnesota Amusement Co., expressed disappointment over early results in the advance sale, adding that such performance is not good enough for the investment involved or the attraction offered.

In Asbury Park, N. J., Walter Reade's St. James expected to hit the sell-out mark shortly, with only 200 seats left to be sold as of yesterday.

Slow in Albany

In Albany, advance ticket sales of Fabian's Grand Theatre were slow, but Albany is noted for the reluctance of fight fans to pay for the event in advance. There, too, a maximum audience is anticipated.

In Baltimore, the State Theatre, with 1600 seats, has completely sold-out. All the tickets had been disposed of at a general admission of $2.50 and no reserved seats, by last Friday.

The Stanley, with 2,900 seats, is almost entirely sold and by fight time it's expected there will be only standing room. Tickets are $3 and no seats reserved.

To Start Hornblow Film

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 22. — Producer Arthur Hornblow, Jr., started shooting "Remains to Be Seen," with June Allyson and Van Johnson, and Don Weiss directing, at M-G-M's studio today.

Drive-in Installs 6,000 Seats For Overflow Fight Crowd

The only drive-in in the country to book tonight's trans-continental telecast of the Walcott-Marciano heavyweight title bout, the S-3 Drive-in Theatre at Rutherford, N. J., has sold out at $10 per car, it was disclosed here yesterday.

The capacity of the drive-in, the largest open air theatre in New Jersey, is 1,300 cars. In order to accommodate additional demand for tickets, the S-3 management disclosed that 6,000 "ringside" seats will be sold at the same $10 per car tab, which includes the admission tax.

The 6,000 chairs will be placed in the arena closest to the screen and those in the overflow cars will be allotted the "ringside" seats. The overflow cars will be parked in convenient locations by the management. Car space will be allotted on a first come, first served basis, it was explained.

An S-3 spokesman estimated that about 16,000 people would attend the drive-in event. The $10 price covers as many persons as are in the car.

Roxy tomorrow and its premiere will be marked by the attendance of celebrities, including Milton Berle and George Jessel. It replaces "Monkey Business," which is expected to bow out with a fair $50,000 for the last five days of its third week.

"The Quiet Man" is holding up well, with $45,000 indicated for its fifth inning at the Capitol. For the seventh week of "Sudden Fear" at Loew's State, a solid $22,000 is seen. It will be superceded tomorrow by "The Merry Widow."

At the Mayfair a good $18,500 is estimated for the ninth stanza of "High Noon." The Victoria is expected to hit a fairly nice $16,000 for the eighth week of "Affair in Trinidad."

"You for Me" has its premiere tomorrow at the Globe, replacing "Devil Makes Three," which is forecast to do a moderate $7,500 for its last five days of the fourth week.

"The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" is doing all right at the Astor, with $17,000 seen for its fifth week.

Among off-Broadway houses, "Ivory Hunter" at the 52nd Street Trans-Lux is doing excellently, with $6,300 indicated for the fifth inning. Another strong attraction, "The Amazing Monsieur Fabre" at the Park Avenue, is expected to hit $6,900 for its second week.

'Strangers' in 6th Week

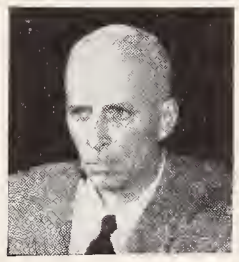
At the Fine Arts, a good $4,600 is seen for the sixth week of "The Strangers in Between." The 25th week of "Man in the White Suit" at the Sutton is forecast to rack up a fine $6,200, while the last six days of "Encore," now in its 25th week at the Normandie hit a nice $4,500. "The Magic Box" opens at the Normandie today.

$4,541 for 'O. Henry'

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 22. — A big $4,541 was racked up by the 500-seat Beverly Canon theatre in the first four days of "O. Henry's Full House."

Col. 'Holders Suit Virtually Settled

At a hearing in New York Supreme Court here yesterday Judge Morris Eder approved, with one reservation, referee Arthur G. Klein's recommended settlement of a Columbia Pictures' stockholders action alleging waste by various officers and directors of the corporation.



The only question left open was whether $20,000 or $40,000 should be repaid to the company in consequence of the alleged waste by some officers and directors. One of the suing stockholders was given three days in which to submit documents supporting his claim that $40,000 should be repaid.

The first opening of IVANHOE following its test engagements was at the Palace Theatre, Washington, D.C., Wednesday, September 17.

As we go to press, the gross on IVANHOE for the first five days of its engagement exceeded the gross on QUO VADIS, despite the fact that QUO VADIS opened on Christmas day.

Attendance on IVANHOE for the same period exceeded attendance on QUO VADIS by more than 7,000 admissions. An all-time Palace record.

The following admission prices were charged on IVANHOE and QUO VADIS for these engagements:

IVANHOE		QUO VADIS
Matinee	74¢	Matinee	90¢ to 5 P.M.
Evening	$1.25	5 to 6 P.M.	$1.25 • Evening $1.50

Fisher Asks $1,050,000 Treble Damages

The second civil anti-trust suit to compel the sale of 16mm. films to non-theatrical outlets following the similar action taken by the Department of Justice last July was filed in U. S. District Court here yesterday by Fisher Studio, Inc., and Robert V. Fisher, 16mm. dealers and "roadshow men." Filing attorneys were Malken & Isacson of New York.

Citing not the government's 16mm. anti-trust suit, but rather restraints set forth in the U. S. vs. Paramount, et al, suit, the plaintiffs in the new action ask $1,050,000 treble damages from seven major distributors and others.

On Sept. 8, an anti-trust suit for $3,135,000 in triple damages was filed against eight distribution companies and others in U. S. District Court in Philadelphia, with Kunz Motion Picture Service as plaintiff.

The complaint filed yesterday makes

Carolina TO Marks 40th Anniversary

Charlotte, Sept. 22. — The Theatre Owners of North and South Carolina, of which Robert E. Bryant is president and Mrs. Walter Griffith is executive secretary and treasurer, will hold its 40th anniversary convention at the Hotel Charlotte here on Nov. 9-10-11.

An affiliate of Theatre Owners of America, it is the oldest exhibitor organization in the industry.

Negotiations Continue for Purchase Of Hughes' RKO Pictures Stock

Hollywood, Sept. 22.—Negotiations for the purchase of Howard Hughes' 1,050,000 shares of RKO Pictures stock at a price in excess of $7,000,000 continued here today with closing of the deal expected to be announced at any time.

Included in the deal are some 35,000 shares owned by Ned E. Depinet, RKO Pictures president, who arrived here late last week for the final phases of the negotiations.

The purchasing syndicate, consisting of Ralph Stolkin, Chicago manufacturer; A. L. Koolish, Stolkin's father-in-law; Ray Ryan and E. J. Burke, Texas oil opertaors, reportedly would take over management of RKO Pictures two weeks after the formal closing for purchase of Hughes' controlling interest in the company.

Should the deal be closed, Hughes still would hold 929,020 shares of RKO Theatres stock, which is now held in trusteeship by Irving Trust Co., New York, in consequence of an RKO divorcement restriction. Hughes paid a total of nearly $9,000,000 for his RKO stock when purchased from Atlas Corp. four years ago.

'Snows' Due for Big $86,000 at Rivoli

A terrific $86,000 is indicated for the initial week of "The Snows of Kilimanjaro" at the Rivoli here, setting the pace for New York first-runs.

Weekend business at the Rivoli topped the previous house record set by "David and Bathsheba" in Aug., 1951. That picture heralded its Rivoli run with a first-week gross of $84,600.

"Big Jim McLain" opened to a good $70,000 at the Paramount for the first seven days, while a nice $37,000 was chalked up for the first week of "One Minute to Zero" at the Criterion.

A healthy $120,000 is indicated for the eighth and final week of "Ivanhoe" at the Radio City Music Hall. The Hall's next attraction "Because You're Mine" will premiere on Thursday.

"Somebody Loves Me" opens at the

See Sellout For Bout in N.Y. Assured

Eight Theatres Tell of The Box-Office Draw

A sell-out in eight New York theatres carrying tonight's exclusive transcontinental telecast of the Jersey Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano heavyweight title bout was virtually assured yesterday, according to a check of preliminary sales of tickets.

Virtual complete sell-outs were reported by Fabian's Fox, Brooklyn, RKO Fordham, Bronx, Marine, Brooklyn, and the Queens, Queens Village, L. I. Fabian's Fox and the RKO Fordham are charging $3.00 per seat, while the Marine and Queens are charging $2.50 for general admissions and $3.00 for loges. All prices include the Federal 20 per cent admission tax.

ington, during the period of Oct. 6 through 10.

The award has been made annually since 1947 when J. A. Maurer, former vice-president of SMPTE, was the first to receive the honorarium created by the Warner Brothers in memory of their late brother to encourage the development of new and improved methods or apparatus designed for sound-on-film motion pictures, including any steps in the process.

Farrell, McGowan Get M-G-M Posts

CLEVELAND, Sept. 22.—Tom Farrell, former M-G-M representative in China, has joined the local branch sales force, assigned to the Toledo territory. Jerry McGowan, who joined the branch several weeks ago, is now assigned to the "river" territory. They were appoined to succeed Phil Harrington and Jerry Lipow who resigned, Harrington to go into another business, Lipow to become a partner of Justin Spiegle in Roadshows, distributing exploitation pictures.

Fete Eckman on 25th Anniversary

LONDON, Sept 22.—Sam Eckman, M-G-M managing director here, will observe his 25th anniversary in the post on Wednesday. He will be feted at a dinner in the Savoy Hotel to be attended by representatives of all branches of the industry, American organizations, government departments and armed services.

$60,000 Ad Campaign Is Set for Cinerama Opening

Cinerama will be introduced at the Broadway Theatre, New York, on Sept. 30 with a $60,000 newspaper campaign devised by McCann-Erickson, Inc. The production and projection system, introducing a new dimension in sight and sound in a two-hour entertainment, presented problems never before encountered in amusement page advertising, it was stated at the office here of Lynn Farnol, who is handling some promotional phases of the showing. Primarily, it was one of describing a medium that conveys the illusion of a third dimension in a two dimensional medium, it was said.

The key of the advertising campaign is that of representing "the emotional thrill" of the new entertainment without describing the technical apparatus and without cataloguing any of the specific details of the first program of entertainment on a screen six times the usual size.

Built around phrases like "You Rise Right Out of Your Chair," "You're in the Heart of This Picture," and "The Theatre That Flies," and stressing the slogan, "the film with the new dimension," the ads will run in large display space in all Metropolitan dailies here.

the parent company to UPT, and the sale of the station—should the merger be approved—to the Columbia Broadcasting System.

CBS filed its pertinent proposed findings Friday but Paramount Pictures, Allen B. DuMont Laboratories, Inc. and the FCC broadcast bureau are still to be heard from. Based on these proposed findings of the parties to the case FCC hearing examiner Leo Resnick will write his initial decision, which can come anywhere from two to six weeks after the final findings are in. Deadline for filing findings is October 3.

In a 168-page document UPT, ABC and B and K also requested the FCC to approve the renewal of license of WBKB and WSMB and to consent to the involuntary transfer of stock in Paramount Richards Gulf Theatres to UPT.

The proposed findings told the Commission that "there is no reasonable probability that the effect of proposed merger, if consummated, will be substantially to lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in any line of commerce in any section of the country," and that a grant of the above described merger applications would be in the public interest. Pointing to the "scarcity of challengers in the network field, willing to risk their resources in a competitive struggle with the dominant duopoly," ABC and UPT told the Commission that only a company such as UPT "with long experience in public entertainment" and "ample financial resources" would "venture to assume the burden" of competing with CBS and the National Broadcasting in the television field.

The findings said it would be "fallacious to suggest that UPT's motion picture and theatre television exhibition interests would tempt it to retard the fullest development of television."

ABC and UPT pointed out that there has been full compliance with the Paramount consent judgment with respect to the requirement that UPT and Paramount Pictures be separate and distinct, that UPT has proceeded with its divestiture program in an orderly and diligent manner, and that the trade practices condemned by the judgment "have long since been abandoned."

Trust Suit

no mention of the recent government action, but incorporates the Paramount case in which some of the defendants were found to have violated the anti-trust laws in the distribution of film.

The complaint alleges restraints of "block booking," a "price fixing system," "arbitrary and excessive clearance," "protection to preferred exhibitors" and other charges contained in the Paramount case.

Allege Other Restraints

Besides these alleged restraints, the plaintiffs charged the defendants with "arbitrarily refusing to license to plaintiffs feature motion picture film of like kind and quality as that released to exhibitors of 35mm. feature film and available on 16mm. film."

Named as defendants were Loew's, Paramount, 20th Century-Fox, Warner, RKO Radio, Columbia, Universal, Republic, Screen Gems, United World, Pictorial Films, Movie En Route, Inc., and Movies U. S. A., Inc.

Blasted by A.F.L.

product to TV and other non-theatrical outlets was taken in a resolution sponsored by the Screen Actors Guild, the IATSE and the California State Federation of Labor.

The AFL contended that if the suit was successful in forcing producers to allow the free showing on television of major theatrical pictures, "a great many of the 22,000 American motion picture theatres would be forced to close, with the result that film producers then would not have enough monetary returns to finance the making of quality theatrical pictures in which hundreds and sometimes thousands of American workmen are employed."

"This capricious and unreasonable suit. . . . jeopardizes the livelihood of many of the 250,000 workers in the film industry, who for the most part are organized in AFL unions," the resolution said. It instructed the AFL executive council "to investigate all factors in the bringing of this unfair suit."

Another similarly sponsored resolution condemning the production of pictures abroad by American companies also was voted by the convention. A resolution supporting repeal of the Federal 20 per cent admission tax was approved by the convention and referred to the AFL taxation committee for implementation.

Stadium, reported that more than half of their seats were sold as of yesterday and the pace of sales was good, indicating a sell-out by fight time. The price is $4.50 for general admissions and $5.00 for loges. Both prices include the tax.

The Warner Theatre, which will reopen just for tonight's telecast and then shutter again, is one of the few theatres in the country which is not offering regular film fare with the fight. A theatre spokesman said there will be a newsreel and a short subject only.

At Loew's Victoria and Skouras's Academy of Music, Manhattan, more than half the seats were sold as of yesterday. The Victoria management said it will "definitely be a sell-out," while a spokesman for the Academy Theatre reported that theatre personnel have not been able to answer phone calls fast enough. The Victoria is charging $3.00 for all seats, while the Academy is charging $3.60 and $4.80 for loges. Both prices include the tax.

The 450-seat 50th Street Guild theatre sold out weeks ago at $4.80.

Theatre Network Television, which acquired the TV rights to the bout for sale to theatres, plans to continue the telecast, picking up a preliminary bout, in the event of a quick knockout in the main event, it was reported here yesterday. TNT could not be reached for confirmation.

The bout will be telecast to theatres West of Omaha about an hour after the Walcott match gets underway.

With 50 theatres from Coast-to-Coast set to take the bout, theatres are almost certain to outdraw the expected 50,000 attendance at the gate in Philadelphia. Co-promoter Herman Taylor said he expected the fight to draw between $550,000 and $600,000 on the basis of advance sales which reached $300,000 at the weekend.

The grossing potential of the 50 theatres is about $450,000, it is estimated, with about 150,000 seats available in the trans-continental network

Meanwhile, field reports indicate a sell-out in all RKO houses outside of New York, including Keith's, Washington; RKO Palace, Cleveland; Keith's Dayton, and Albee, Cincinnati. Fabian's TV-equipped theatre in Richmond, Va., was two-thirds sold out as of yesterday, with one-third of the tickets sold in Fabian's house in Norfolk, Va., 90 miles away.

In Minneapolis, the Radio City reported that the advance sale is fairly good with about half of the tickets expected to be sold before fight time. The house seats 4,000 and is charging $2.50 for the event on a reserved seat basis.

Henry B. French, president of Minnesota Amusement Co., expressed disappointment over early results in the advance sale, adding that such performance is not good enough for the investment involved or the attraction offered.

In Asbury Park, N. J., Walter Reade's St. James expected to hit the sell-out mark shortly, with only 200 seats left to be sold as of yesterday.

Slow in Albany

In Albany, advance ticket sales of Fabian's Grand Theatre were slow, but Albany is noted for the reluctance of fight fans to pay for the event in advance. There, too, a maximum audience is anticipated.

In Baltimore, the State Theatre, with 1600 seats, has completely sold-out. All the tickets had been disposed of at a general admission of $2.50 and no reserved seats, by last Friday.

The Stanley, with 2,900 seats, is almost entirely sold and by fight time it's expected there will be only standing room. Tickets are $3 and no seats reserved.

Drive-in Installs 6,000 Seats For Overflow Fight Crowd

The only drive-in in the country to book tonight's trans-continental telecast of the Walcott-Marciano heavyweight title bout, the S-3 Drive-in Theatre at Rutherford, N. J., has sold out at $10 per car, it was disclosed here yesterday.

The capacity of the drive-in, the largest open air theatre in New Jersey, is 1,300 cars. In order to accommodate additional demand for tickets, the S-3 management disclosed that 6,000 "ringside" seats will be sold at the same $10 per car tab, which includes the admission tax.

The 6,000 chairs will be placed in the arena closest to the screen and those in the overflow cars will be allotted the "ringside" seats. The overflow cars will be parked in convenient locations by the management. Car space will be allotted on a first come, first served basis, it was explained.

An S-3 spokesman estimated that about 16,000 people would attend the drive-in event. The $10 price covers as many persons as are in the car.

Roxy tomorrow and its premiere will be marked by the attendance of celebrities, including Milton Berle and George Jessel. It replaces "Monkey Business," which is expected to bow out with a fair $50,000 for the last five days of its third week.

"The Quiet Man" is holding up well, with $45,000 indicated for its fifth inning at the Capitol. For the seventh week of "Sudden Fear" at Loew's State, a solid $22,000 is seen. It will be superceded tomorrow by "The Merry Widow."

At the Mayfair a good $18,500 is estimated for the ninth stanza of "High Noon." The Victoria is expected to hit a fairly nice $16,000 for the eighth week of "Affair in Trinidad."

"You for Me" has its premiere tomorrow at the Globe, replacing "Devil Makes Three," which is forecast to do a moderate $7,500 for its last five days of the fourth week.

"The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" is doing all right at the Astor, with $17,000 seen for its fifth week.

Among off-Broadway houses, "Ivory Hunter" at the 52nd Street Trans-Lux is doing excellently, with $6,300 indicated for the fifth inning. Another strong attraction, "The Amazing Monsieur Fabre" at the Park Avenue, is expected to hit $6,900 for its second week.

'Strangers' in 6th Week

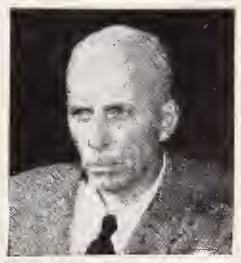
At the Fine Arts, a good $4,600 is seen for the sixth week of "The Strangers in Between." The 25th week of "Man in the White Suit" at the Sutton is forecast to rack up a fine $6,200, while the last six days of "Encore," now in its 25th week at the Normandie hit a nice $4,500. "The Magic Box" opens at the Normandie today.

$4,541 for 'O. Henry'

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 22. — A big $4,541 was racked up by the 500-seat Beverly Canon theatre in the first four days of "O. Henry's Full House."

Col. 'Holders Suit Virtually Settled

At a hearing in New York Supreme Court here yesterday Judge Morris Eder approved, with one reservation, referee Arthur G. Klein's recommended settlement of a Columbia Pictures' stockholders action alleging waste by various officers and directors of the corporation.



The only question left open was whether $20,000 or $40,000 should be repaid to the company in consequence of the alleged waste by some officers and directors. One of the suing stockholders was given three days in which to submit documents supporting his claim that $40,000 should be repaid.

IVANHOE

Beats "QUO VADIS"

IN WASHINGTON

The first opening of IVANHOE following its test engagements was at the Palace Theatre, Washington, D.C., Wednesday, September 17.

As we go to press, the gross on IVANHOE for the first five days of its engagement exceeded the gross on QUO VADIS, despite the fact that QUO VADIS opened on Christmas day.

Attendance on IVANHOE for the same period exceeded attendance on QUO VADIS by more than 7,000 admissions. An all-time Palace record.

The following admission prices were charged on IVANHOE and QUO VADIS for these engagements:

IVANHOE	QUO VADIS
Matinee . . . . . 74¢	Matinee . . . . . 90¢ to 5 P.M.
Evening $1.25	5 to 6 P.M. $1.25 • Evening $1.50

There's nothing wrong with business that IVANHOE can't cure.

RKO Pictures Control Goes to Stolkin Group

Hughes Sells 1,013,420 Shares at $7 Per Share; Depinet's Stock Also Sold; Buyers Plan 'Top Grade Films for Theatres' Policy

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 23.—Characteristic of Howard Hughes and his disdain for timepieces, the sale of his 1,013,420 shares of RKO Pictures stock, representing about 26 per cent of the total outstanding, and a controlling interest in the company, was concluded here at 1:30 A.M. this morning (4:30 A.M. E.D.T.). The selling price was $7 per share, or $7,093,940.

The purchasing group is headed by Ralph Stolkin, 34-year old owner of a Chicago mail order concern, Empire Industries; vice-president of National Video Corp., manufacturer of television tubes; member of a syndicate which recently bought Washington and Oregon television-radio stations from the Marshall Field interests, and an investor with his present associates in Texas oil wells.

Sees Success of New RKO Owners

"The new owners of RKO Pictures are a young, aggressive lot and I have every reason to believe they will try their best to make a success of their operation of the company," Samuel Goldwyn told a press conference here yesterday.

Goldwyn has a three-year distribution deal with RKO Radio, with options to cancel at the end of each year. His new production, "Hans Christian Andersen," has been delivered to the company for December premieres.

Asked whether he had any apprehensions about the new RKO Pictures owners, he replied: "The company has a fine sales organization, and we

Title Bout Sets Records At Theatre Box-offices

By MURRAY HOROWITZ

The first trans-continental theatre telecast—last night's Jersey Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano heavyweight title bout—attracted a record number of theatres and outgrossed every other theatre TV event in the history of the medium.

The network of 50 theatres, which offered a seating capacity of an estimated 120,000, had a potential gross of about $400,000, compared to the estimated $200,000 gross realized for the Robinson-Maxim bout last June which attracted 38 theatres.

Despite a black-out during a first-round knockdown, reception of the bout, which Marciano won by a K.O. in the 13th, was generally good, as seen at the Warner Theatre here. Thousands were turned away from the

Proclamation by Gov. for 'Fatima'

The highlight of the campaign for the first New England engagements of Warner Brothers' "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" in New Bedford and Boston is a proclamation issued by Massachusetts' Governor Paul A. Dever for a "Pray for Peace Day" today and tomorrow to coincide with both premieres. The production will open today at the State Theatre, New Bedford, and tomorrow at the Astor in Boston.

Modeling the campaign after the world premiere on Broadway, advance interest in both premieres was created by TV and radio spot announcements for the past two weeks. Local civic, social and educational groups, in addition to religious groups of all faiths, have been cooperating, with special mailing pieces to respective contacts, along with specially prepared bookmarks heralding the playdates. Student parties for blocks of 100 seats, or more within a radius of 20 miles of both engagements, have already been set. Special screenings of the picture have resulted in feature picture and story layouts and editorials in New England dailies.

'Our Lady of Fatima' Opens in Detroit Friday

DETROIT, Sept. 23.—"The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" will open at the Madison Theatre here Friday backed by an extensive advertising, publicity and promotion campaign modeled after the world premiere promotion on Broadway.

The advance campaign included special screening of the production for leaders of all faiths resulting in advance word-of-mouth publicity. Commendations were received from interchurch councils, public and parochial school officials and the Detroit press.

Skouras Honored on 10th Anniversary

Twentieth Century-Fox's exchange heads who will be honored in the company's annual branch managers' sales drive testimonial starting Sept. 28, will pay tribute to Spyros P. Skouras, president, Oct. 12-18, by naming that period "Spyros P. Skouras Week."

The period will mark Skouras' 10th anniversary as company president. During it, the company will have in release some of its top productions of the year, headed by Darryl F. Zanuck's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro."

It is expected that the 20th Century-Fox trademark will be seen on the screens of virtually every theatre in the country during the week, with branch heads and sales personnel currently gearing themselves toward that goal.

Industry Leaders at Goldenson Tribute

Entertainment industry leaders will join with members of New York's Cinema Lodge of B'nai B'rith and their guests at the Hotel Astor here tonight to pay tribute to Leonard H. Goldenson, president of United Paramount Theatres, "for his years of service to humanity as a leader in the fight against intolerance and bigotry through the Anti-Defamation League and as a pioneer in helping to awaken Americans to the plight of the physically handicapped afflicted with cerebral palsy," said a statement from the Lodge.

Rabbi Bernard Birstein of the Actors' Temple, will deliver the invocation.

French Problem Up Before Presidents Again Next Tuesday

Motion Picture Association of America member companies' presidents and foreign managers will meet here next Tuesday specifically for the purpose of discussing the problems posed for distribution in France and Japan. However, it is understood that at that meeting the presidents may also reassess developments in connection with the long-standing attempt to set up an industry system of arbitration.

On the question of France and the break-off of negotiations looking to a new Franco-American film agreement, it is likely to be decided at the meeting when Eric A. Johnston, MPAA president, and Ellis G. Arnall, president of the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers, together should go to Paris with a view to resuming talks with the French.

The problem in Japan concerns the refusal of that country to allocate for the six-month period starting Oct. 1, more than 59 import permits for use by Motion Picture Export Association companies. The companies had asked for at least 63 permits.

Bout Sets Records

Warner, with some standing-room sold at $3.60. It was strictly a fight crowd.

The cities with the greatest number of theatres taking the bout, New York and Chicago, did a brisk business. The eight theatres in New York were sold out before fight time, while Chicago reported before fight time that the Windy City was definitely headed for "its most impressive box-office showing." The box-office take for the four Chicago theatres taking the telecast and the one theatre in Hammond, Ind., was said to likely hit over $40,000 after taxes.

Pittsburgh, too, reported that its two theatres carrying the bout was completely sold out hours before fight time.

Get Kinescope

Theatres west of Omaha were scheduled to receive the telecast from a kinescope transmitted from New York's NBC-TV studios as soon as long-line facilities were made available, at about 11:15 P.M. (EDT). The kinescope, or simultaneous film recording made at the site of the fight, Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium, marked the first time a film had been distributed nationally by theatre TV.

The eight sold-out New York theatres were: RKO Fordham, Bronx; Fabian's Fox, Century Circuit's Marine, Brooklyn; Century Circuit's Marine, Queens Village, L. I.; Warner, Loew's Victoria and Skouras's Academy of Music, Manhattan.

The following are field reports from MOTION PICTURE DAILY correspondents:

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23.—Pittsburgh's two theatres, the J. P. Harris and the Stanley theatres, had complete sellouts and a few standees for the Marciano-Walcott fight here tonight.

The Harris, with a seating capacity of 2,104, and the Stanley which seats 3,680, both charged $3.50 and issued rain checks should the fight be postponed.

Both houses opened at 7:30 P.M. and had a feature on the screen together with shorts until fight time. Both also made arrangements to televise one of the preliminaries at Philadelphia should the title event terminate in the first few rounds.

The fight telecast didn't hurt theatre business elsewhere in the city.

ALBANY, Sept. 23.—Appearance of counterfeit tickets was an unusual feature of the 1500-seat Grand's sellout, at $3.60 (record high here), tonight for the telecast of the Walcott-Marciano heavyweight championship bout.

The spurious stubs apparently were printed in Schenectady, when Fabian city manager Guy Graves spotted four as a man tried to exchange them at Proctor's, for cash. He reportedly had paid $2 for each ticket.

Grand manager Paul Wallen said the racks were clear by 5 P.M. He estimated 1,000 additional tickets could have been sold.

Attendance at other downtown theatres was not affected.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 23.—The State, seating 1,600, sold out two days in advance at $2.50 general admission for the Walcott-Marciano bout. The Stanley, seating 2,900 sold out 24 hours in advance at $3.00 general admission and turned away 2,500. State also turned away 1,000. Both houses sold standing room at 10 o'clock to capacity. The Met, a negro house, 1,400 seats, sold out at $2.50 general and a few reserved at $3.30. This, despite Stevenson speaking here at armory with a 9,000 capacity. Regular business is slightly off except in a couple of instances where major attractions are showing.

DENVER, Sept. 23.—With the house practically sold out before the door opened a hour in advance, Paramount, with 2,200 seats, filled them at $1.80, tax included, for theatre television of Walcott-Marciano fight. Those unable to get in boosted attendance at close by first runs.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 23.—The RKO Albee, seating 3,300, has near capacity, for the Walcott-Marciano fight telecast. Entire house scaled at three dollars. Business at other houses is below normal. This is a more or less natural Tuesday night condition.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—All three houses here showing the telecast of the Walcott-Marciano title bout had sold out early in the evening and were admitting a limited number of standing-room admissions. All tickets went at $3.60.

The three houses were the 2,000-seat RKO Keith, the 1,800-seat Lincoln, and the 2,200-seat Warner, which was telecasting a bout for the first time.

Other houses reported business running from above normal to average.

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—As anticipated, the Walcott-Marciano theatre telecast was selling out at four theatres here tonight. First to sell out was the Essaness Crown, selling tickets at $4.80 and $3.60, including tax, at six P.M. The B. & K. Marbro went clean at seven P.M. with the Tivoli following suit at 7:45 P.M., and the Uptown expected to do likewise at 8:30 P.M. One half hour before the starting gong, the four houses here have a total of 13,000 seats. Admission at the three B. & K. houses was $3.60, including tax.

British-Lion Loss at At $415,582 for '51

LONDON, Sept. 23.—British Lion Films today reported a net loss of £148,422 ($415,582) for the fiscal year ended last March 31, thereby increasing its previous debit balance to £2,070,566 ($5,797,485). National Film Finance Co. loans to B-L are estimated to amount to £3,000,000 ($8,400,000).

2,000 Theatres in Rogers Fund Drive

The number of theatres now participating in the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital collection-can project has passed the 2,000 mark and within a week will hit 2,500—half-way in the goal to enlist 5,000 theatres, according to the collection committee headed by Joseph R. Vogel, Loew's vice-president. More than 500 theatres were "signed up" during the Theatre Owners of America convention in Washington.

The aim of the campaign is to place a small collection-box on the candy stands of 5,000 theatres. These receptacles can gather in coins at the rate of $2 to $3.50 per week.

A vast advertising campaign, one of the largest ever set by 20th Century-Fox for a single picture, has been scheduled through Hearst magazines and newspaper supplements for "Snows of Kilimanjaro." The drive, designed to saturate a total readership of 130,000,000, will coincide with the pre-release engagement of the Technicolor production. Four color spreads will hit monthly issues and Sunday supplements. Included in the Hearst roster are Cosmopoliton, Good Housekeeping, Harper's Bazaar, House Beautiful and Town and Country. The American Weekly, Pictorial Review and Puck, the Comic Weekly will feature full pages in the newspaper field. Hearst field representatives will contact sales staffs, theatre managers and editors in hundreds of cities to pinpoint local playdates. In addition, 7,500 newspapers will be serviced with a variety of mats and glossy stills, and 1,000 radio stations will receive a program based on the picture.

year than they have for some time. Our fine pictures are doing better business than ever before. Despite some 18,000,000 television sets now in use, with perhaps 50,000,000 viewers the public is paying to see the good pictures in theatres rather than staying home to see poor ones on TV without charge."

Goldwyn said he has no intention of discontinuing his own production activities and will begin preparations for his next picture before leaving here for the Coast. He said he had encountered reports while abroad that he planned to "rest on his laurels" after completing "Hans Christian Andersen."

"That is not true," Goldwyn said. "My next picture will be ready to start about May 1."

It will be his 89th production since becoming an independent. Beyond stating that music will play an important part in the picture and that it will be in color, Goldwyn declined to divulge any information about it.

"It takes me so long to make a picture," he said, "I have to be quiet about it at first. It will be made mostly in Hollywood," he said, "but will use some foreign exteriors."

"Andersen" will have New York and Los Angeles premieres shortly before Christmas. Theatres have not been set yet but "bidding" for the picture is under way, Goldwyn said. In reply to a question whether it would be sold at "advanced admission prices," Goldwyn said "some exhibitors have suggested that." He added, "I don't know how I would get back my investment otherwise. I need $8,000,000 to break even."

He said the sales policy for the picture has not been set yet and that it might await the outcome of the premieres and perhaps some additional test engagements. Goldwyn said a $500,000 advertising campaign for "Andersen" in magazines has been approved and that perhaps $1,000,000 might be spent for newspaper advertising.

The producer pointed out that his own money is in "Andersen" and will go into his next picture. "What better evidence of my confidence in the future of the industry could anyone ask for?" he enquired.

Goldwn said his observations in Europe convinced him there are not proportionately as many good pictures being made abroad as in Hollywood. "We still lead the world in good pictures," he said.

Goldwyn came to the defense of Charles Chaplin in the latter's current difficulties with the Attorney General and Immigration Bureau. "Chaplin," he said, "is a genius. He has contributed much to our industry. We need him and I hope the threat to bar him from returning to this country is not fulfilled."

On politics, Goldwyn declared himself enthusiastically for General Eisenhower. "It's time for a change," he said. "It's wrong for people, a whole generation, to grow up thinking only one party is capable of running the country."

The producer waved aside the complaint made last week by Roy Brewer of the A. F. of L. Hollywood Labor Council that pressure was being brought to bear on employes at the Warner studio for contributions to the Eisenhower campaign fund.

"Brewer is for Stevenson," Goldwyn said. "He has a perfect right to complain about collections for Ike. However, Warners are for Ike, but they're not knocking anvone on the head to get contributions."

On American subsidies to foreign producers: "Subsidies are bad for any creative workers. If foreign producers would spend more time making pictures and less sitting on the steps of Embassies waiting for subsidies, their pictures would be better."

On the proposed industry arbitration plan: "If exhibitors spent more time in their theatres and less in meetings like that, business would be better. I am against all nonsense like arbitration. We have no problems that good pictures and proper merchandising can't take care of."

On the government's 16mm antitrust suit to force the sale of films to television: "It's silly. It must have been inspired by some underlings in the TV business. The head men are too smart to be involved in anything like that."

RKO Pictures Control

Burke of San Antonio, Texas, Ray Ryan of San Antonio and Evansville, Ind. and Sherrill C. Corwin, has Angeles exhibitor.

Announcing the consummation of the deal, Hughes said: "The buyers have assured me that they will present a program of top grade product of motion pictures for exhibition in motion picture theatres. Their plans encompass a strong policy of distribution in this country and throughout the world, utilizing the full facilities of the entire RKO distribution organization."

Purchasing Group Statement

Amplifying Hughes' remarks on the intentions of the purchasing group, the group itself issued the following statement: "We expect to continue to produce motion pictures as a major studio operation. We believe a number of substantial economies can be effeted, and at the same time, we expect to add to the present staff, the ablest management and talent available. While we are studying carefully production and distribution of television films, we want to make it clear that at this time we have no intention of releasing any of the studio's stock of films for the use of television. Such a move is a part of a much broader economic question involving a tremendous investment on the part of theatre owners, and it is our intention to assist exhibitors in every way possible to protect such investments. We feel there is a great motion picture audience that must be served; and while we have not overlooked the fact that both motion pictures and television are related we would probably go no further than to state that for the time being there may be an engagement but no marriage."

In addition to the purchase of Hughes' stock, the group also acquired an estimated 38,000 shares of RKO Pictures common from Ned E. Depinet, company president, also at $7 per share, or a total of $266,000. With that purchase, the group's stock ownership is 1,050,420 shares and an investment of $7,359,940.

RKO Pictures shares closed at 4½ on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday, off one-eighth from the previous day's closing.

There was no immediate indication of the new owner's policy with respect to continuing or effecting changes in company management. Hughes has had no corporate office but has been head of production at the studio and a member of the board of directors. He will resign both posts. His associate, Noah Dietrich, is chairman of the board and he, too, it is believed likely will resign. Other members of the board are Depinet, J. Miller Walker, vice-president, secretary and general counsel, and Francis J. O'Hara. All are Hughes' designees.

A local report is that the new owners will not take over for about two weeks and that no decisions have been made yet concerning management, so that the present operating executives will continue in their posts indefinitely.

Stolkin reportedly owns a small group of theatres in Wisconsin. Under the name of Ralph Stolkin & Associates the group has operated an investment office here and financed the Martin-Lewis film, "At War with the Army."

The negotiations with Hughes were begun almost two months ago, with the local law firm of Bautzer, Grant, Youngman & Silbert representing the purchasers. Gordon Youngman, of the law firm, formerly was general counsel and vice-president of RKO, having resigned about a year ago. Hughes was represented by Tom Slack, his personal attorney. Several unqualified denials that the sale of the stock was being negotiated were issued by Hughes while the talks were in progress.

Bought from Atlas

Hughes acquired 929,020 shares of RKO common at approximately $10 per share from Atlas Corp. in 1948. With the divorcement of RKO's picture and theatre operations last year, Hughes received 929,020 shares in both the new picture and the new theatre company. He subsequently added almost 100,000 shares of RKO Pictures stock to his holdings. His 929,020 shares of RKO Theatres stock, about 24 per cent of the total, and also representing control of that company, are held in trust by Irving Trust Co., New York, under a restriction of the RKO divorcement, which permitted Hughes to retain ownership of his stock in either, but not both of the companies.

Hughes was given until next Feb. 20 to sell his theatre stock when, it appeared, he had elected to retain ownership of the picture company shares. Had the stock not been sold by that time, Irving Trust was directed to sell it within the next two years. Hughes, however, was contesting the sale provisions and planned to take the case to the U. S. Supreme Court should a forced sale be ordered.

Now, however, having disposed of the picture company stock, Hughes is free to apply to the Federal court in New York for the release of his theatre stock from trusteeship. Whether or not that stock also will be sold by Hughes is not known. RKO Theatres shares closed at 3¾ on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday but, inasmuch as they, too, represent control, they should command a price of $6 to $6.50 per share. Thus, for his four-year old investment of approximately $9,000,000, Hughes stands to realize about $13,700,000.

Due to curtailed releases, RKO Pictures reported a loss of $3,700,000 for the first half of this year. However, with good pictures in release since and with a high profit margin being realized on the reissue of "King Kong," the trade expects profits for the current and subsequent quarter to be greatly improved.

47-Year History To RKO Pictures

Another chapter was added to the long and intricate corporate history of RKO yesterday with the purchase of control from Howard Hughes by a group headed by Ralph Stolkin of Chicago.

RKO's corporate beginnings can be traced back to a $900 investment made by John R. Freuler of Milwaukee in 1905 in a nickelodeon there. The deal led to the formation of the Western Film Exchange there and its expansion into the nucleus of the Mutual Film Corp. in 1913. Out of that, successively, grew Exhibitors Mutual Corp., the Robertson-Cole company and FBO. In 1928, under the aegis of Joseph P. Kennedy, Keith-Albee-Orpheum was organized, bringing the venerable B. F. Keith and Martin Beck Orpheum companies into the Albee fold. Later, RCA entered the picture, giving the company the Radio-Keith-Orpheum name.

In 1933, RKO was reorganized in bankruptcy and RCA sold out. The principal investor subsequently was Atlas Corp., headed by Floyd B. Odlum, which, in 1948, sold its controlling interest to Hughes.

The divorcement last year split the company into separate picture and theatre companies.

Stolkin, Ted Gamble Are TV Partners

Ralph Stolkin, head of the group which yesterday acquired control of RKO Pictures from Howard Hughes, is a partner with Ted R. Gamble, head of Gamble Enterprises, in the operation of television-radio stations KOIN and KOIN-FM in Portland, Ore., and station KJR, Seattle. The stations were purchased from the Marshal Field interests for $1,500,000 several months ago.

Stolkin has small theatre operations and has been associated with Sherrill Corwin, Los Angeles exhibitor and a member of the purchasing group, in financing operations there. Several years ago when exhibitors, fearful of a product shortage, planned National Exhibitors Finance Co., to sponsor their own production, Stolkin, reportedly on Corwin's recommendation, subscribed $100,000 to NEFC.

RKO Pictures Control Goes to Stolkin Group

Hughes Sells 1,013,420 Shares at $7 Per Share; Depinet's Stock Also Sold; Buyers Plan 'Top Grade Films for Theatres' Policy

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 23.—Characteristic of Howard Hughes and his disdain for timepieces, the sale of his 1,013,420 shares of RKO Pictures stock, representing about 26 per cent of the total outstanding, and a controlling interest in the company, was concluded here at 1:30 A.M. this morning (4:30 A.M. E.D.T.). The selling price was $7 per share, or $7,093,940.

The purchasing group is headed by Ralph Stolkin, 34-year old owner of a Chicago mail order concern, Empire Industries; vice-president of National Video Corp., manufacturer of television tubes; member of a syndicate which recently bought Washington and Oregon television-radio stations from the Marshall Field interests, and an investor with his present associates in Texas oil wells.

Sees Success of New RKO Owners

"The new owners of RKO Pictures are a young, aggressive lot and I have every reason to believe they will try their best to make a success of their operation of the company," Samuel Goldwyn told a press conference here yesterday.

Goldwyn has a three-year distribution deal with RKO Radio, with options to cancel at the end of each year. His new production, "Hans Christian Andersen," has been delivered to the company for December premieres.

Asked whether he had any apprehensions about the new RKO Pictures owners, he replied: "The company has a fine sales organization, and we

Ruling Is Narrowed To Toledo: Hissong

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 23.—A municipal court's ruling on a constitutional issue is not binding outside its jurisdiction, said Dr. Clyde Hissong, chief state film censor, in a statement in which he said that the state censor board is continuing to censor newsreels despite the fact that Judge Frank Wiley of Toledo ruled such censorship unconstitutional.

"It would have been a different matter had a Common Pleas Court or an Appellate Court ruled such censorship is unconstitutional," said Dr. Hissong. He indicated that newsreel censorship will continue without any statewide change whether the state appeals the Toledo decision or not.

Title Bout Sets Records At Theatre Box-offices

The first trans-continental theatre telecast—last night's Jersey Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano heavyweight title bout—attracted a record number of theatres and outgrossed every other theatre TV event in the history of the medium.

The network of 50 theatres, which offered a seating capacity of an estimated 120,000, had a potential gross of about $400,000, compared to the estimated $200,000 gross realized for the Robinson-Maxim bout last June which attracted 38 theatres.

Despite a black-out during a first-round knockdown, reception of the bout, which Marciano won by a K.O. in the 13th, was generally good, as seen at the Warner Theatre here. Thousands were turned away from the

Proclamation by Gov. for 'Fatima'

The highlight of the campaign for the first New England engagements of Warner Brothers' "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" in New Bedford and Boston is a proclamation issued by Massachusetts' Governor Paul A. Dever for a "Pray for Peace Day" today and tomorrow to coincide with both premieres. The production will open today at the State Theatre, New Bedford, and tomorrow at the Astor in Boston.

Modeling the campaign after the world premiere on Broadway, advance interest in both premieres was created by TV and radio spot announcements for the past two weeks. Local civic, social and educational groups, in addition to religious groups of all faiths, have been cooperating, with special mailing pieces to respective contacts, along with specially prepared bookmarks heralding the playdates. Student parties for blocks of 100 seats, or more within a radius of 20 miles of both engagements, have already been set. Special screenings of the picture have resulted in feature picture and story layouts and editorials in New England dailies.

'Our Lady of Fatima' Opens in Detroit Friday

DETROIT, Sept. 23.—"The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima" will open at the Madison Theatre here Friday backed by an extensive advertising, publicity and promotion campaign modeled after the world premiere promotion on Broadway.

The advance campaign included special screening of the production for leaders of all faiths resulting in advance word-of-mouth publicity. Commendations were received from interchurch councils, public and parochial school officials and the Detroit press.

Skouras Honored on 10th Anniversary

Twentieth Century-Fox's exchange heads who will be honored in the company's annual branch managers' sales drive testimonial starting Sept. 28, will pay tribute to Spyros P. Skouras, president, Oct. 12-18, by naming that period "Spyros P. Skouras Week."

The period will mark Skouras' 10th anniversary as company president. During it, the company will have in release some of its top productions of the year, headed by Darryl F. Zanuck's "The Snows of Kilimanjaro."

It is expected that the 20th Century-Fox trademark will be seen on the screens of virtually every theatre in the country during the week, with branch heads and sales personnel currently gearing themselves toward that goal.

Industry Leaders at Goldenson Tribute

Entertainment industry leaders will join with members of New York's Cinema Lodge of B'nai B'rith and their guests at the Hotel Astor here tonight to pay tribute to Leonard H. Goldenson, president of United Paramount Theatres, "for his years of service to humanity as a leader in the fight against intolerance and bigotry through the Anti-Defamation League and as a pioneer in helping to awaken Americans to the plight of the physically handicapped afflicted with cerebral palsy," said a statement from the Lodge.

Rabbi Bernard Birstein of the Actors' Temple, will deliver the invocation.

French Problem Up Before Presidents Again Next Tuesday

Motion Picture Association of America member companies' presidents and foreign managers will meet here next Tuesday specifically for the purpose of discussing the problems posed for distribution in France and Japan. However, it is understood that at that meeting the presidents may also reassess developments in connection with the long-standing attempt to set up an industry system of arbitration.

On the question of France and the break-off of negotiations looking to a new Franco-American film agreement, it is likely to be decided at the meeting when Eric A. Johnston, MPAA president, and Ellis G. Arnall, president of the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers, together should go to Paris with a view to resuming talks with the French.

The problem in Japan concerns the refusal of that country to allocate for the six-month period starting Oct. 1, more than 59 import permits for use by Motion Picture Export Association companies. The companies had asked for at least 63 permits.

Bout Sets Records

Warner, with some standing-room sold at $3.60. It was strictly a fight crowd.

The cities with the greatest number of theatres taking the bout, New York and Chicago, did a brisk business. The eight theatres in New York were sold out before fight time, while Chicago reported before fight time that the Windy City was definitely headed for "its most impressive box-office showing." The box-office take for the four Chicago theatres taking the telecast and the one theatre in Hammond, Ind., was said to likely hit over $40,000 after taxes.

Pittsburgh, too, reported that its two theatres carrying the bout was completely sold out hours before fight time.

Get Kinescope

Theatres west of Omaha were scheduled to receive the telecast from a kinescope transmitted from New York's NBC-TV studios as soon as long-line facilities were made available, at about 11:15 P.M. (EDT). The kinescope, or simultaneous film recording made at the site of the fight, Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium, marked the first time a film had been distributed nationally by theatre TV.

The eight sold-out New York theatres were: RKO Fordham, Bronx; Fabian's Fox, Century Circuit's Marine, Brooklyn; Century Circuit's Marine, Queens Village, L. I.; Warner, Loew's Victoria and Skouras's Academy of Music, Manhattan.

The following are field reports from MOTION PICTURE DAILY correspondents:

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23.—Pittsburgh's two theatres, the J. P. Harris and the Stanley theatres, had complete sell-outs and a few standees for the Marciano-Walcott fight here tonight.

The Harris, with a seating capacity of 2,104, and the Stanley which seats 3,680, both charged $3.50 and issued rain checks should the fight be postponed.

Both houses opened at 7:30 P.M. and had a feature on the screen together with shorts until fight time. Both also made arrangements to televise one of the preliminaries at Philadelphia should the title event terminate in the first few rounds.

The fight telecast didn't hurt theatre business elsewhere in the city.

ALBANY, Sept. 23. — Appearance of counterfeit tickets was an unusual feature of the 1500-seat Grand's sellout, at $3.60 (record high here), tonight for the telecast of the Walcott-Marciano heavyweight championship bout.

The spurious stubs apparently were printed in Schenectady, when Fabian city manager Guy Graves spotted four as a man tried to exchange them at Proctor's, for cash. He reportedly had paid $2 for each ticket.

Grand manager Paul Wallen said the racks were clear by 5 P.M. He estimated 1,000 additional tickets could have been sold.

Attendance at other downtown theatres was not affected.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 23.—The State, seating 1,600, sold out two days in advance at $2.50 general admission for the Walcott-Marciano bout. The Stanley, seating 2,900 sold out 24 hours in advance at $3.00 general admission and turned away 2,500. State also turned away 1,000. Both houses sold standing room at 10 o'clock to capacity. The Met, a negro house, 1,400 seats, sold out at $2.50 general and a few reserved at $3.30. This, despite Stevenson speaking here at armory with a 9,000 capacity. Regular business is slightly off except in a couple of instances where major attractions are showing.

DENVER, Sept. 23.—With the house practically sold out before the door opened a hour in advance, Paramount, with 2,200 seats, filled them at $1.80, tax included, for theatre television of Walcott-Marciano fight. Those unable to get in boosted attendance at close by first runs.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 23.—The RKO Albee, seating 3,300, has near capacity, for the Walcott-Marciano fight telecast. Entire house scaled at three dollars. Business at other houses is below normal. This is a more or less natural Tuesday night condition.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—All three houses here showing the telecast of the Walcott-Marciano title bout had sold out early in the evening and were admitting a limited number of standing-room admissions. All tickets went at $3.60.

The three houses were the 2,000-seat RKO Keith, the 1,800-seat Linclon, and the 2,200-seat Warner, which was telecasting a bout for the first time.

Other houses reported business running from above normal to average.

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—As anticipated, the Walcott-Marciano theatre telecast was selling out at four theatres here tonight. First to sell out was the Essaness Crown, selling tickets at $4.80 and $3.60, including tax, at six P.M. The B. & K. Marbro went clean at seven P.M. with the Tivoli following suit at 7:45 P.M., and the Uptown expected to do likewise at 8:30 P.M. One half hour before the starting gong, the four houses here have a total of 13,000 seats. Admission at the three B. & K. houses was $3.60, including tax.

British-Lion Loss at At $415,582 for '51

LONDON, Sept. 23.—British Lion Films today reported a net loss of £148,422 ($415,582) for the fiscal year ended last March 31, thereby increasing its previous debit balance to £2,070,566 ($5,797,485). National Film Finance Co. loans to B-L are estimated to amount to £3,000,000 ($8,400,000).

2,000 Theatres in Rogers Fund Drive

The number of theatres now participating in the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital collection-can project has passed the 2,000 mark and within a week will hit 2,500—half-way in the goal to enlist 5,000 theatres, according to the collection committee headed by Joseph R. Vogel, Loew's vice-president. More than 500 theatres were "signed up" during the Theatre Owners of America convention in Washington.

The aim of the campaign is to place a small collection-box on the candy stands of 5,000 theatres. These receptacles can gather in coins at the rate of $2 to $3.50 per week.

National Pre-Selling

PARAMOUNT'S new color Technicolor musical, "Just For You," gets top billing, a full-page, four-picture layout in "McCall's Goes to the Movies," October issue, on the stands tomorrow. McCall's front-of-the-book selection also recommends RKO Radio's "One Minute to Zero," Warner's deeply moving "Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima," and Columbia's chronicle of a French-Canadian family, "The Happy Times." . . . Look, dated Oct. 7 and on the stands today, features a double-truck center-spread in four-colors on "The Snows of Kilimanjaro," almost as spectacular as the film itself. And the same issue tells newsmen who turned down that flying trip to Alaska last June, for the world premiere of Universal's "World in His Arms" at far-North military bases—because it took 14 days and covered 12,000 miles of flying time—it was "something for the boys," with pictures by Look's photographer, to prove that "Northern hospitality was the finest ever seen."

Theatrical press agents are generally better paid than movie press agents, so it's comforting to note that "Guys and Dolls"—a show that's been playing two years—has finally gotten around to a tie-up with "Guys and Dolls" fashions, which, incidentally, originated in Los Angeles. . . . Holiday for October compares "The Merry Widow" with a pastry you find in Viennese restaurants known as Pischinger Torte—"endlessly delicious layers of vari-colored sweet pastry with a crust of angelic evanescense." Al Hine says, "If you don't like sweets, stay away, but you're missing something."

Louella Parsons tells intimate details of Arlene Dahl's business activities other than picture work in Pictorial Review, published Sept. 28. Miss Dahl was interviewed on the set of "Desert Legion," the new Universal-International film which also stars Alan Ladd. Miss Dahl is sponsoring a new nylon hosiery which will be placed on the market for Christmas. She is also interested in a lingerie firm and her name appears on a beauty hint column.

A vast advertising campaign, one of the largest ever set by 20th Century-Fox for a single picture, has been scheduled through Hearst magazines and newspaper supplements for "Snows of Kilimanjaro." The drive, designed to saturate a total readership of 130,000,000, will coincide with the pre-release engagement of the Technicolor production. Four color spreads will hit monthly issues and Sunday supplements. Included in the Hearst roster are Cosmopolitan, Good Housekeeping, Harper's Bazaar, House Beautiful and Town and Country. The American Weekly, Pictorial Review and Puck, the Comic Weekly will feature full pages in the newspaper field. Hearst field representatives will contact sales staffs, theatre managers and editors in hundreds of cities to pinpoint local playdates. In addition, 7,500 newspapers will be serviced with a variety of mats and glossy stills, and 1,000 radio stations will receive a program based on the picture.

Goldwyn

year than they have for some time. Our fine pictures are doing better business than ever before. Despite some 18,000,000 television sets now in use, with perhaps 50,000,000 viewers the public is paying to see the good pictures in theatres rather than staying home to see poor ones on TV without charge."

Goldwyn said he has no intention of discontinuing his own production activities and will begin preparations for his next picture before leaving here for the Coast. He said he had encountered reports while abroad that he planned to "rest on his laurels" after completing "Hans Christian Andersen."

"That is not true," Goldwyn said. "My next picture will be ready to start about May 1."

It will be his 89th production since becoming an independent. Beyond stating that music will play an important part in the picture and that it will be in color, Goldwyn declined to divulge any information about it.

"It takes me so long to make a picture," he said, "I have to be quiet about it at first. It will be made mostly in Hollywood," he said, "but will use some foreign exteriors."

"Andersen" will have New York and Los Angeles premieres shortly before Christmas. Theatres have not been set yet but "bidding" for the picture is under way, Goldwyn said. In reply to a question whether it would be sold at "advanced admission prices," Goldwyn said "some exhibitors have suggested that." He added, "I don't know how I would get back my investment otherwise. I need $8,000,000 to break even."

He said the sales policy for the picture has not been set yet and that it might await the outcome of the premieres and perhaps some additional test engagements. Goldwyn said a $500,000 advertising campaign for "Andersen" in magazines has been approved and that perhaps $1,000,000 might be spent for newspaper advertising.

The producer pointed out that his own money is in "Andersen" and will go into his next picture. "What better evidence of my confidence in the future of the industry could anyone ask for?" he enquired.

Goldwn said his observations in Europe convinced him there are not proportionately as many good pictures being made abroad as in Hollywood. "We still lead the world in good pictures," he said.

Goldwyn came to the defense of Charles Chaplin in the latter's current difficulties with the Attorney General and Immigration Bureau. "Chaplin," he said, "is a genius. He has contributed much to our industry. We need him and I hope the threat to bar him from returning to this country is not fulfilled."

On politics, Goldwyn declared himself enthusiastically for General Eisenhower. "It's time for a change," he said. "It's wrong for people, a whole generation, to grow up thinking only one party is capable of running the country."

The producer waved aside the complaint made last week by Roy Brewer of the A. F. of L. Hollywood Labor Council that pressure was being brought to bear on employes at the Warner studio for contributions to the Eisenhower campaign fund.

"Brewer is for Stevenson," Goldwyn said. "He has a perfect right to complain about collections for Ike. However, Warners are for Ike, but they're not knocking anvone on the head to get contributions."

On American subsidies to foreign producers: "Subsidies are bad for any creative workers. If foreign producers would spend more time making pictures and less sitting on the steps of Embassies waiting for subsidies, their pictures would be better."

On the proposed industry arbitration plan: "If exhibitors spent more time in their theatres and less in meetings like that, business would be better. I am against all nonsense like arbitration. We have no problems that good pictures and proper merchandising can't take care of."

On the government's 16mm antitrust suit to force the sale of films to television: "It's silly. It must have been inspired by some underlings in the TV business. The head men are too smart to be involved in anything like that."

RKO Pictures Control

Burke of San Antonio, Texas, Ray Ryan of San Antonio and Evansville, Ind. and Sherrill C. Corwin, has Angeles exhibitor.

Announcing the consummation of the deal, Hughes said: "The buyers have assured me that they will present a program of top grade product of motion pictures for exhibition in motion picture theatres. Their plans encompass a strong policy of distribution in this country and throughout the world, utilizing the full facilities of the entire RKO distribution organization."

Purchasing Group Statement

Amplifying Hughes' remarks on the intentions of the purchasing group, the group itself issued the following statement: "We expect to continue to produce motion pictures as a major studio operation. We believe a number of substantial economies can be effeted, and at the same time, we expect to add to the present staff, the ablest management and talent available. While we are studying carefully production and distribution of television films, we want to make it clear that at this time we have no intention of releasing any of the studio's stock of films for the use of television. Such a move is a part of a much broader economic question involving a tremendous investment on the part of theatre owners, and it is our intention to assist exhibitors in every way possible to protect such investments. We feel there is a great motion picture audience that must be served; and while we have not overlooked the fact that both motion pictures and television are related we would probably go no further than to state that for the time being there may be an engagement but no marriage."

In addition to the purchase of Hughes' stock, the group also acquired an estimated 38,000 shares of RKO Pictures common from Ned E. Depinet, company president, also at $7 per share, or a total of $266,000. With that purchase. the group's stock ownership is 1,050,420 shares and an investment of $7,359,940.

RKO Pictures shares closed at 4½ on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday, off one-eighth from the previous day's closing.

There was no immediate indication of the new owner's policy with respect to continuing or effecting changes in company management. Hughes has had no corporate office but has been head of production at the studio and a member of the board of directors. He will resign both posts. His associate, Noah Dietrich, is chairman of the board and he, too, it is believed likely will resign. Other members of the board are Depinet, J. Miller Walker, vice-president, secretary and general counsel, and Francis J. O'Hara. All are Hughes' designees.

A local report is that the new owners will not take over for about two weeks and that no decisions have been made yet concerning management, so that the present operating executives will continue in their posts indefinitely.

Stolkin reportedly owns a small group of theatres in Wisconsin. Under the name of Ralph Stolkin & Associates the group has operated an investment office here and financed the Martin-Lewis film, "At War with the Army."

The negotiations with Hughes were begun almost two months ago, with the local law firm of Bautzer, Grant, Youngman & Silbert representing the purchasers. Gordon Youngman, of the law firm, formerly was general counsel and vice-president of RKO, having resigned about a year ago. Hughes was represented by Tom Slack, his personal attorney. Several unqualified denials that the sale of the stock was being negotiated were issued by Hughes while the talks were in progress.

Bought from Atlas

Hughes acquired 929,020 shares of RKO common at approximately $10 per share from Atlas Corp. in 1948. With the divorcement of RKO's picture and theatre operations last year, Hughes received 929,020 shares in both the new picture and the new theatre company. He subsequently added almost 100,000 shares of RKO Pictures stock to his holdings. His 929,-020 shares of RKO Theatres stock, about 24 per cent of the total, and also representing control of that company, are held in trust by Irving Trust Co., New York, under a restriction of the RKO divorcement, which permitted Hughes to retain ownership of his stock in either, but not both of the companies.

Hughes was given until next Feb. 20 to sell his theatre stock when, it appeared, he had elected to retain ownership of the picture company shares. Had the stock not been sold by that time, Irving Trust was directed to sell it within the next two years. Hughes, however, was contesting the sale provisions and planned to take the case to the U. S. Supreme Court should a forced sale be ordered.

Now, however, having disposed of the picture company stock. Hughes is free to apply to the Federal court in New York for the release of his theatre stock from trusteeship. Whether or not that stock also will be sold by Hughes is not known. RKO Theatres shares closed at 3¾ on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday but, inasmuch as they, too, represent control, they should command a price of $6 to $6.50 per share. Thus, for his four-year old investment of approximately $9,000,000, Hughes stands to realize about $13,700,000.

Due to curtailed releases, RKO Pictures reported a loss of $3,700,000 for the first half of this year. However, with good pictures in release since and with a high profit margin being realized on the reissue of "King Kong," the trade expects profits for the current and subsequent quarter to be greatly improved.

47-Year History To RKO Pictures

Another chapter was added to the long and intricate corporate history of RKO yesterday with the purchase of control from Howard Hughes by a group headed by Ralph Stolkin of Chicago.

RKO's corporate beginnings can be traced back to a $900 investment made by John R. Freuler of Milwaukee in 1905 in a nickelodeon there. The deal led to the formation of the Western Film Exchange there and its expansion into the nucleus of the Mutual Film Corp. in 1913. Out of that, successively, grew Exhibitors Mutual Corp., the Robertson-Cole company and FBO. In 1928, under the aegis of Joseph P. Kennedy, Keith-Albee-Orpheum was organized, bringing the venerable B. F. Keith and Martin Beck Orpheum companies into the Albee fold. Later, RCA entered the picture, giving the company the Radio-Keith-Orpheum name.

In 1933, RKO was reorganized in bankruptcy and RCA sold out. The principal investor subsequently was Atlas Corp., headed by Floyd B. Odlum, which, in 1948, sold its controlling interest to Hughes.

The divorcement last year split the company into separate picture and theatre companies.

Stolkin, Ted Gamble Are TV Partners

Ralph Stolkin, head of the group which yesterday acquired control of RKO Pictures from Howard Hughes, is a partner with Ted R. Gamble, head of Gamble Enterprises, in the operation of television-radio stations KOIN and KOIN-FM in Portland, Ore., and station KJR, Seattle. The stations were purchased from the Marshal Field interests for $1,500,000 several months ago.

Stolkin has small theatre operations and has been associated with Sherrill Corwin, Los Angeles exhibitor and a member of the purchasing group, in financing operations there. Several years ago when exhibitors, fearful of a product shortage, planned National Exhibitors Finance Co., to sponsor their own production, Stolkin, reportedly on Corwin's recommendation, subscribed $100,000 to NEFC.

Hail Box-office Showing of Fight Telecast

Gross Put at $400,000; Academy Sole Breakdown

Theatremen across the country, with few exceptions, yesterday hailed the box-office performance of Tuesday night's Walcott-Marciano bout, which grossed nearly $400,000.

The first trans-continental telecast lined up by Theatre Network Television went to 49 theatres in 30 cities and attracted an estimated 120,000 patrons, breaking all previous theatre TV records.

Lack of enthusiasm was registered at the Academy Theatre in New York, where exposed wires in the TV equipment resulted in a short, black-

Paramount's TV Findings Are Submitted to FCC

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Citing the record of Paramount Pictures in the development of television, Paramount's attorneys today asked the Federal Communications Commission to renew the license of KTLA, Paramount Television Productions' Los Angeles television station.

In proposed findings filed today Paramount also asked for commission consent to the transfer of control of P.T.P. and Allen B. Du Mont Laboratories, Inc., from the parent company, Paramount Pictures, to the new production company formed under the consent decree, Paramount Pictures Corp. The findings also requested the renewal of licenses of the three Du Mont network television stations.

In requesting the renewal of licenses Paramount's proposed findings pointed out that the company "has been instrumental in the development of a television company which is a manufacturer of television transmitting and receiving eqiupment." They went on to say that Paramount "is expending tremendous effort and money in the development of a color tube and a pay-as-you-see system of subscription television." Everything in the record, the document said, proves the fact that Paramount sees no conflict between theatres and television and does not have a "restrictive" or an "antagonistic" attitude toward TV.

The proposed findings declared that Paramount has made its stories and stars freely available to television. So far as making films available to television, the findings said, that will happen "as soon as the economic condition of television is such that it can pay a price for the films comparable to that which the moving picture industry can pay."

Argentine Officials At 'Gaucho' Opening

A delegation of Argentine government officials headed by Ambassador Hipolito Jesu Paz, is expected to join with over 400 guests at the world premiere of 20th Century-Fox's "Way of a Gaucho," to be held aboard the S.S. Argentine on Tuesday evening.

Invitations have been sent also to Gorje A. Nicolini, Consul General in New York; First Secretary Santos Gona; Economic Counselor Dr. Ovidio Z. Schiopetto; Embassy Attache Gustavo A. Dan Gelderan, and Third Secretaries Leopoldo H. Deddanandi and Hector Candos.

New York Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri, United Nations delegates, and representatives from other South American nations, along with Hollywood screen stars, Broadway stage and television stars and newspapermen, are also being asked to the premiere.

The event, to include cocktails, dancing, dinner, and a Latin-American fashion show, will be co-sponsored by the Moore-McCormick Lines. "Way of a Gaucho," will open next month in New York. The motion picture was filmed in Argentina with color in Technicolor.

4 Circuit Ad Heads to Judge 20th Contest

Four advertising-publicity chiefs of circuits will judge 20th Century-Fox's $7,500 showmanship contest for "Something for the Birds."

The judges are Ernest Emerling of Loew's Theatres; Harry Goldberg of Warner Theatres; Harry Mandel of RKO Theatres, and Seymour L. Morris of Schine Theatres, who will select the winners from campaigns to be submitted starting with the release of the comedy in October and running through January. The prizes will be awarded in defense bonds with a $1,000 bond as first prize.

Chicago Wins 2nd Lap of UA Drive

United Artists' Chicago, Charlotte and New Haven exchanges have taken first-prize money in the second six-week lap of the company's "Bill Heineman Sales Drive," in each of the three exchange groups into which all branches have been classified, it was announced by vice-president Max E. Youngstein, who is drive captain.

Chicago won in the first group, Charlotte in the second and New Haven in the third. Second-prize money went to Philadelphia in the first group, New Orleans in the second and Milwaukee in the third, while third prizes were won by San Francisco in the first group, St. Louis in the second and Vancouver in the third.

Completion of the second lap now cleans the slate. All exchanges start from scratch in battling for prizes in the third six-week lap. The drive will wind up with a fourth lap of seven weeks, at the end of which grand prizes will be awarded. The drive is named for William J. Heineman, sales vice-president.

AMPA School Rates Cut for Members

The Associated Motion Picture Advertisers showmanship courses, which will get under way this evening at the RKO Radio home office screening room, have been offered to AMPA members in good standing at the reduced tuition of $10, in accordance with an AMPA board directive. Nonmembers will be charged $15.

Objects to Drive-in Signs

DENVER, Sept. 24.—Mark Watrous, state highway engineer, intends asking the state legislature, which meets in January, for a law that would prohibit the erection of a screen where it could possibly be seen from a major highway.

Says Thanks For Palsy Aid

Gratitude to all branches of show business and the press for making it possible for him to successfully launch United Cerebral Palsy was expressed by Leonard H. Goldenson, president of United Paramount Theatres, as the entertainment industry joined with New York's Cinema Lodge of B'nai B'rith at the Hotel Astor here last night in paying tribute to him for his years of service to humanity.

Goldenson was presented the Cinema Lodge "Honor Scroll' by Judge Samuel Leibowitz for his leadership in the fight against intolerance and bigotry through the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith and for his pioneering in helping to awaken Americans to the plight of the physically handicapped afflicted with cerebral palsy.

Martin Levine, president of the Lodge, recovering from a recent illness, presided at the ceremonies witnessed by a capacity turnout of more than 350. Other speakers included S. Arthur Glixon, Robert M. Weitman, Louis A. Novins and Alfred W. Schwalberg. Adolph Zukor delivered a brief tribute.

SIMPP Officers Are Re-elected

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 24.—The Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers re-elected all officers and directors today at the annual meeting of the membership and directorate in honor of Ellis Arnall's return to the presidency.

Arnall, who will leave for Georgia tonight or tomorrow, told members the foreign market now is yielding almost 50 per cent of the industry revenue and the rise in the percentage is still progressing.

Reporting on the Anglo-American film agreement and on the Franco-American pact negotiations, Arnall added his personal observation that independent films he's seen in production, both abroad and here, are among the reasons he has for a belief that the future is bright for the industry.

2-Theatre Opening Here for 'Limelight'

Charles Chaplin's "Limelight" will have its American premiere here on Thursday, Oct. 23, at the Astor on Broadway and the Trans-Lux 60th St., it was announced by William J. Heineman, United Artists distribution vice-president.

Roadshow Cinerama In a Few Months

While conceding that Cinerama still has "a long way to go technically," producer Merian C. Cooper and radio reporter Lowell Thomas, partners in the enterprise, reported here yesterday that the new triple-projection technique could be "roadshown" in a few months following its initial public demonstration "run" at the Broadway Theatre here.

The Broadway showing will commence next Tuesday with a two-hour program under the title "This Is Cinerama." The screen subjects will include roller-coaster riding, opera scenes, a symphony orchestra, etc. Advance ticket sales at the Broadway, where top price for the show will be $2.80, thus far indicate an eight-week sell-out, it was reported.

Cooper said Cinerama's dramatic problems have been "licked," and while technical problems still exist, they are insurmountable. He reported that many exhibitors and producers have been consulted concerning future plans for the new medium, which combines a three-dimensional visual effect with "stereophonic" sound.

Easily Done

"Roadshowing" of Cinerama, Cooper explained, would involve transportation of the special projectors, screen and sound equipment from theatre to theatre. This, he added, could be done with relative ease and installations would not pose any particular challenge, nor would they be expensive.

Cooper expects to put a new Cinerama picture into production 30 days following the Broadway opening. He said he has several story properties under consideration for the next picture. The picture at the Broadway will be in Eastman color, the prints having been made by Technicolor, Cooper said.

Greenfield and Piro Are Promoted by 'U'

The promotion of Arthur Greenfield to the post of Universal branch manager in Seattle and the elevation of Ernest J. Piro, a salesman in Portland, Ore., to branch manager in Portland, was announced here by Charles J. Feldman, general sales manager.

Greenfield had been branch manager in Portland since July, 1951. Piro had been a member of the Universal organization from 1941 to 1945. He rejoined "U" in Portland in July, 1951.

Greenfield replaces Donald Gillin who resigned recently to join Sol Lesser Productions.

3 Percentage Suits Filed in Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 24.—Paramount, Warner and Columbia have filed separate percentage suits in Federal Court here against the operators of the Majestic Theatre in Ellwood City, Pa. Defendants are Frank, Andy B., Hildebrand E. and Irma Biordi and Ida Colavincenza. Each action asks recovery for damages based on alleged under-reporting of reecipts on percentage engagements.

Reed, Smith, Shaw & McClay of Pittsburgh, represent the distributors, with Sargoy & Stein, New York, of counsel.

"Everything I Have Is Yours"

(Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer) Hollywood, Sept. 24

MARGE AND GOWER CHAMPION, gay and gifted members of the generation that buys 90-odd percent of today's admission tickets, make of this all-around excellent M-G-M musical a major audience experience. The nimblest duo ever burdened with a clumsy and confusing name (from the billing point of view) fulfill here in abundance all the promise they've shown and the predictions made for them. They would be personally tremendous in this even if it were a bad picture. Happily, however, it is one of the finest in the long, glittering procession of color by Technicolor musicals from the House of Leo—stunningly danced, quite as well sung, correctly timed, paced and assembled, in short a superbly balanced production in a category where balance is often the insoluble problem that licks the project. Don't be surprised if "Everything I Have Is Yours" exceeds even M-G-M's box-office expectations.

Back-stopping the Champions, as to billing, are Dennis O'Keefe, as a successful producer of stage musicals, and Monica Lewis, as an understudy for the leading lady in one of his shows. And back-stopping these, just short of incredibly well, are singers and dancers in number, in and out of formation, in small groups and large, who supply the skilled support that only top talents like the Champions can top.

The story, a warm little family narrative, plausible far beyond the par for musicals, is by George ("Three Little Words") Wells, who also produced, and the direction is by Robert Z. Leonard, whose list of successes is too long for this page. Musical direction is by the distinguished, dependable David Rose, with Gower Champion and Nick Castle staging the musical numbers, of which there are eight—all terrific.

The musical numbers are by such estimable, renowned and able gentlemen as Johnny Green, Johnny Mercer, the late Walter Donaldson and Gus Kahn, and when you're talking about music for the plain people who love a tender sentiment and a hot-beat equally well, these are the gentlemen whose works you're referring to—with the name of M-G-M's No. 1 music man, Johnny Green, leading all the rest.

Running time, 96 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Oct. 31.

WILLIAM R. WEAVER

"Springfield Rifle"

(Warner Brothers) Hollywood, Sept. 24

GARY COOPER, man and boy, has been making big money for exhibitors in pictures presenting him in various uniforms of this country's armed services, and there is no reason for supposing that he will do less than that on this occasion. This time he portrays a cavalry officer in the Union Army during the Civil War, with such experienced players as David Brian, Paul Kelly, Lon Chaney, "Big Boy" Williams, Alan Hale, Jr., Philip Carey and Vince Barnett providing support, and with Phyllis Thaxter furnishing distaff interest, which is a minority factor in the story. Major factors are splendid horsemanship displayed in sensationally staged conflicts in mountain terrain, intricate twists in a complex script, and dramatic use of WarnerColor.

Producer Louis F. Edelman got a maximum yield from Sloan Nibley's story via a screenplay by Charles Marquis Warren and Frank Davis, who steered clear of cliche and commonplace throughout. The direction by Andre Detoth was a unique choice for this type of subject. It is a bit slow in spots but snaps into tension whenever, as happens frequently and violently, the characters break into fisticuffs as a better means than dialogue for settling moot points. The film is at its best when fighting rages full blast.

In the story Cooper is a cavalry officer who pretends disobediances to orders and gets himself cashiered from the army so he can join raiders stealing horses from Union forces and thus learn the identity of a traitor who is supplying raiders (in Confederate employ) with information. Following a number of clashes and surprises, he learns his own commandant is the traitor responsible, and he clears up the situation with the use of a newly-invented Winchester rifle, receiving honors also for establishing American army counter-espionage.

Running time, 93 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Oct. 25.

New York 'Mirror' Promoting Product

The New York Daily Mirror is publishing every Monday morning an up-front bold-face box strongly recommending attendance at motion picture theatres, as follows:

"Are you a living-room captive? If night after night you tie yourself down at home, you are denying yourself many pleasures. For example, the joy of going to the movies. Relax in a luxurious, modern theatre, see the first releases on a giant screen, without eyestrain; thrill to wonderful music. The amusement pages of the Mirror will help you decide what picture to see and where to see it. Leading theatres advertise here every day. Don't miss their current showings, which are announced in this issue."

Kramer Unit Off To Israel Tonight

The entire production unit of Stanley Kramer's Columbia production, "The Juggler," comprising 32 persons, will arrive at Idlewild Airport here this morning, preparatory to leaving tonight by plane for Tel Aviv.

Heading the group are Milly Vitale, Italian actress, and director Edward Dmytryk. Kirk Douglas will leave by air on Saturday.

Plans Dixie Reopening

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 24.—Edward Davis, owner and manager of the neighborhood subsequent-run Dixie Theatre here, has announced plans to reopen the theatre in the near future. The house has been dark for two months.

Starr and McCraw to Attend Florida Meet

JACKSONVILLE, Sept. 24.—A lineup of industry speakers were announced here for the annual convention of the Motion Picture Exhibitors of Florida which will be held Oct. 19-21 at the Roosevelt Hotel in Jacksonville, by Maurice B. Hensler, president. Featured at the main banquet will be an address by William McCraw, Variety International executive.

Alfred Starr, of Bijou Amusement Co., Nashville, recently elected national president of the Theatre Owners of America, will be the principal speaker at the closing business session of the meeting. Starr will speak on TOA as well as theatre operations in general. From the national headquarters of TOA will also come Herman Levy, general counsel, and Dick Pitts, executive director.

A highlight of the convention will be a "School for Drive-In Theatre Owners," which will be conducted by Jack Braunagel, Commonwealth Theatres, Kansas City. Various concession firms will have exhibits. Lineup of stars who will attend the sessions will be announced next week.

Kickoff speaker will be Mitchell Wolfson of Miami, past president of TOA, and one of the founders of the local group. The board of directors of the organization invite interested parties from all over the country to attend the meetings.

40 Manufacturers In 'Andersen' Tieups

What is described as one of the most comprehensive merchandising campaigns ever accorded a picture is being arranged for Samuel Goldwyn's production of "Hans Christian Andersen" through the joint efforts of RKO Radio and the Samuel Goldwyn offices.

Although release of the Goldwyn film is still months away, the tie-ups already include more than 40 manufacturers of clothing and accessories, toys and fabrics, all of which will be co-ordinated with the promotional departments of several leading department store chains. Meanwhile, both the RKO and Goldwyn offices are developing separate promotions in the music and book publishing fields.

Tie-ups are being made by Geraldine Cooper of RKO and Martin Davis of the Goldwyn office.

125 Set for Variety Tourney at Tuckahoe

Approximately 125 from the industry here will be on hand for the New York Variety Club's first annual golf tournament today at the Vernon Hills Country Club, Tuckahoe, N. Y.

Edward Lachman, club property master, and Edward Fabian of Fabian Theatres handled the arrangements.

Variety Host to Press

Variety Clubs International will hold a luncheon at the Hotel Astor here today for the trade press. Jack Beresin, international chief barker, and Jack Chisholm, international press-guy, will attend from Philadelphia and Toronto, respectively. This luncheon is unrelated to the local tent's golf tournament and party set for the same day.

Allied Artists

decided to discard the use of the Monogram name from all but corporate transactions came as a surprise to the delegates to the national convention.

Broidy told the gathering that the industry "now is entering a new era." He said "the period of despondency of doom and gloom is behind us. We are moving ahead into an era of enthusiastic showmanship in which the world's theatre screens will soon be reflecting the greatest buy per entertainment dollar ever offered. The entire film industry is now being geared not only to keep customers coming back to the box-office but to offer the kind of packages that will entice new audiences."

He continued: "The reaching of these new heights can't be realized by wishful thinking. Genuine efforts have to be made to bring this about. The producers have to provide the right kind of product. The distributors have to sell this product to its fullest potential value, and in turn the exhibitors have to merchandise it in a manner that will bring in the greatest returns."

Steve Broidy

He said that each year Monogram-AA strived to play a more prominent part in the industry and that "we have now reached a position where we are regarded as a very important cog in the overall picture." He said the position held at present by the company "is the result of three years of intensive planning for the expansion of our distribution and production operations."

Terming the 35-feature program one that is aimed "at every theatre in the country, from the largest metropolitan show cases to the smallest rural situations," Broidy said many of the pictures will be given the heaviest exploitation yet undertaken.

BATTLE ZONE, starring John Hodiak, Linda Christian and Stephen McNally; KANSAS PACIFIC, starring Sterling Hayden, and FORT CALAGARY, starring James Craig, all produced by Walter Wanger.

TORPEDO, a Lindsley Parsons-John Burrows production starring Mark Stevens and Dorothy Malone; COW COUNTRY, produced by Scott R. Dunlap; AFFAIR IN MONTE CARLO, in color by Technicolor, starring Richard Todd and Merle Oberon; POCAHONTAS, produced by Dunlap and James S. Burkett.

ROAR OF THE CROWD, WICHITA and THE SIREN JEZEBEL, all produced by Richard Heermance; SON OF BELLE STARR, produced by Peter Scully, and THE BLACK KNIGHT and THE ANNAPOLIS STORY, both produced by Walter Mirisch.

JALOPY, CLIPPED WINGS, LOOSE IN LONDON and DESERT KNIGHTS, Bowery Boys comedies produced by Jerry Thomas and starring Leo Gorcey and Huntz Hall.

LEOPOLD LAND and THE GOLDEN IDOL, both produced by Mirisch and starring Johnny Sheffield; TANGIER INCIDENT and OFF THE RECORD, produced by Parsons and starring George Brent; JOPLIN, MOJAVE PASS, THE HOMESTEADERS and BOOT HILL, starring Bill Elliott, and THE COPPERHEADS, OKLAHOMA MANHUNT, THE MARKSMAN and WILD CATTLE, starring Wayne Morris, all eight produced by Vincent M. Fennelly.

WHITE LIGHTNING and HIGH TENSION, produced by Ben Schwalb; WOLF DOG and THE BIG WILDERNESS, produced by Parsons and William F. Broidy, and MURDER WITHOUT TEARS and WANTED BY THE F.B.I., produced by Broidy.

Also, the company will continue to release the one- and two-reel Little Rascals comedies.

$600,000 Profit Reported by Mono.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Monogram Pictures Corp. and its consolidated companies will show net earnings just short of $600,000 for the fiscal year just ended, George D. Burrows, executive vice-president and treasurer, today reported to the company's national convention here in a message read to the meeting by Steve Broidy, president.

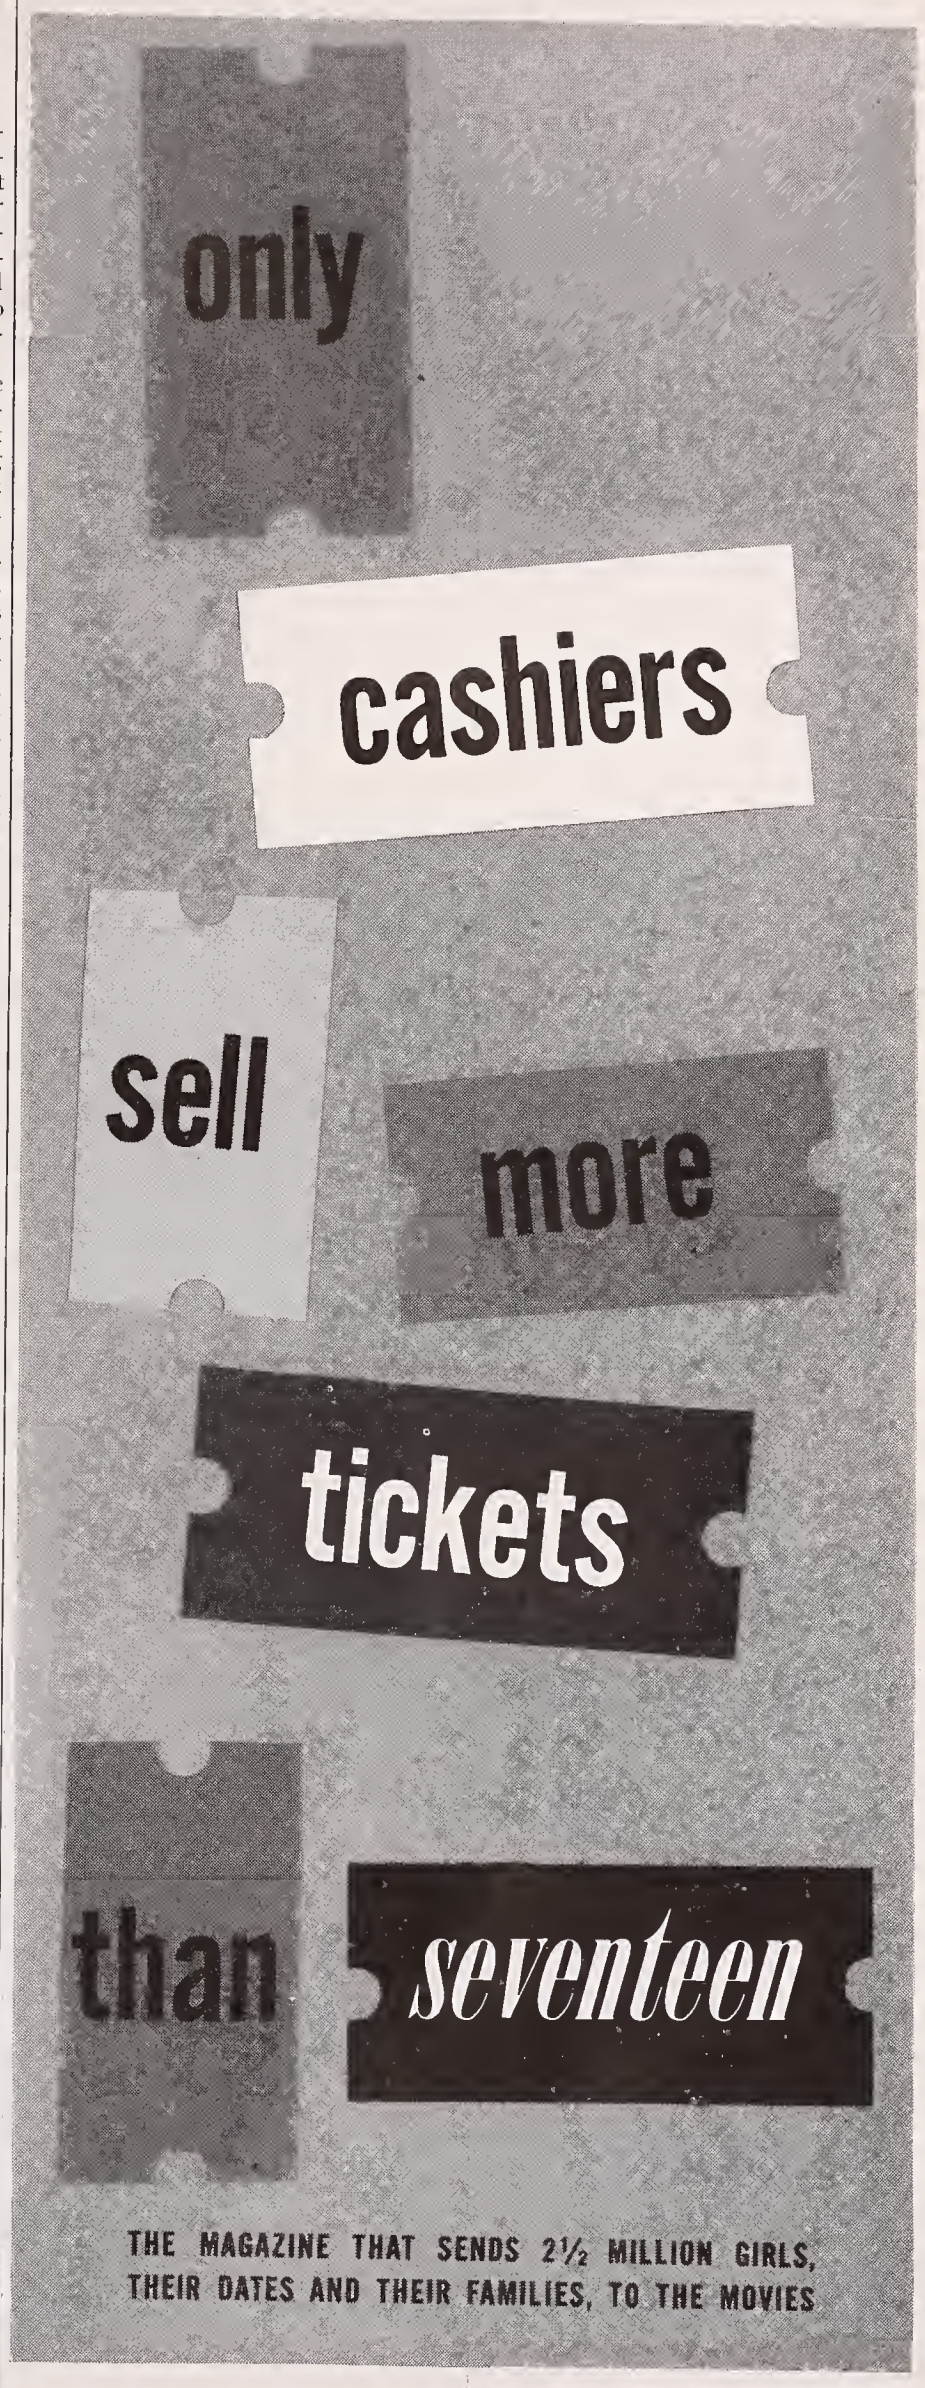
Burrow's message described the company's financial prospects as "exceedingly bright." He added that "every indication points to our having profits for the current year that will at least equal the earnings we will show for the year just ended."

The message continued: "The combined effect of accumulated earnings and materializing of financial plans under consideration will permit coordination of operations in the company that have been somewhat lacking in the past because of our lack of working capital. Our present financial condition now permits the intelligent planning of production, distribution and financing, all coordinated to the best interests of the company, its management, employes and stockholders."

Theatre Men Join Pop Corn Promotion

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—The first day of the eighth annual Pop Corn Industries convention, at the Hotel La Salle here Nov. 12-14, will be featured by a discussion of handling, merchandising, and selling pop corn at theatre concession stands, it was announced by Thomas J. Sullivan, executive vice-president of the National Association of Pop Corn Manufacturers.

Scheduled to participate in a panel discussion on "Getting Maximum Returns from Concessions Operations" are Harold J. Fitzgerald, Fox-Wisconsin Amusement Corp., Milwaukee; Abner Horn, Rainbow, Inc., Lake Charles, La.; Charles Manley, Manley, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.; J. J. Fitzgibbons, Jr., Theatre Confections, Toronto, and L. A. Dunn, New England Theatres Service Corp., Boston.



Gary Honors 20th For 'Lydia' Film

A special citation of merit from the city of Gary, Ind., was presented this week to Spyros P. Skouras, president of 20th Century-Fox, honoring the company for its production of "Lydia Bailey." The presentation was made by Charles H. Bonner, president of Community Services of Gary, which is the home town of William Marshall, star of the picture. The citation, signed by Mayor Peter Mandich, and representatives of the Gary Chamber of Commerce, the United Steelworkers of America and other community leaders, marked the first time that all Gary civic groups joined to honor a motion picture.

Similar certificates of merit will be forwarded to production chief Darryl F. Zanuck, producer Jules Schermer, director Jean Negulesco, and writers Philip Dunne and Michael Blankfort.

Technicolor Dividend

The board of directors of Technicolor, Inc., has declared a dividend of 50 cents a share, payable Oct. 20, to stockholders of record on Oct. 6. This will be the third dividend of 50 cents paid by Technicolor in 1952.

Fight Film Does 'Brisk Business'

A top notch fight film of the Walcott-Marciano bout, produced by RKO Pathe, drew in crowds yesterday afternoon at the seven Broadway houses here, where it had enjoyed its first run.

Managers at the Palace, Embassy, 46th Street Trans-Lux, 49th Street Trans-Lux, Globe, Times Square and the New York reported brisk business. The film was put on the screens of the houses a little after 3:00 P. M.

The dramatic quality of the bout, which saw the heavyweight title pass to Marciano, is fully captured in the film, which runs 21 minutes. The blistering first round when Walcott sent the challenger to the canvas for the count of three, sets the tempo. From there on in, virtually every second of the film is exciting.

The 13th round, when Walcott is kayoed by Marciano, climaxes the film. Shots of the 13th and first round are also done in slow-motion, allowing the audience to see the big punches of the evening more closely.

The eight camera crews which filmed the fight at Philadelphia's Municipal stadium deserve a round of applause and commendation should also be passed on for the fine job of editing.

The RKO Pathe film is much superior to the fight telecast as viewed at the Warner Theatre, which on the whole was quite good. The lighting and definition of the film surpasses that of the telecast.

Sidney Kramer, RKO short subjects sales manager, announced that he expected the print order to exceed that of "any fight film RKO has ever handled." Last year, 1,350 prints were made for the Robinson-Turpin bout. The film began playing at all neighborhood RKO Theatres last evening in New York. More than 1,500 theatres, according to RKO Pathe, are slated to take the fight film.

Gold Defends Video Programming Here

The economics of the television industry dictate "good taste" in programming, Melvin L. Gold, president of the National Television Film Council, told the House sub-committee probing TV programming here.

He defended the number of crime shows on TV as an expression of the public's demand for such programming which, he said, features "action" and "drama." He saw no need for additional legislation governing the content of programming, calling attention to present Federal Communications Commission regulations.

Gold appeared before the special sub-committee of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee investigating radio and television programs. The radio and TV industry was also defended in testimony by Charles R. Denny, vice-president of National Broadcasting.

The committee was informed by Jack L. Van Volkenburg, Columbia Broadcasting president, that the company has received no complaints lately from any source concerning the apparel of actresses on TV. Criticism in the past centered around the "scantiness" of actresses' costumes.

Hail Fight Telecast

ing out the telecast completely. Beginning yesterday morning, the theatre began returning $12,963 to disappointed fight patrons. The management assured the patrons, who remained in their seats to hear the commentary of the fight, that they would receive the money spent on tickets.

The installation at the Academy, which was rushed in a few days towards completion, was the only TV-equipped house to suffer a complete breakdown.

Of the 50 theatres carrying the telecast, 36 were equipped with RCA large-screen television, the manufacturing company reported yesterday. All of the 36 reported "good performance," the company said, including the Warner Theatre here which experienced a momentary blackout during the first round which was corrected within a matter of seconds.

Troubles of another sort was experienced by the S-3 Drive-in, Rutherford, N. J., the only open-air theatre in the country to carry the bout. It stemmed from the huge overflow which clamored to get in, causing in addition to a traffic jam, damage to the theatre. Fences were torn down, fires were built on the grounds, and the concession stand had to be closed to forestall theft.

Enthusiasm for the performance, however, was expressed by Philip Smith, of Smith Management Co., and president of Midwest Drive-in Theatres, Inc. of Boston, which operates the S-3. He said the fight grossed $14,000 and at least 5,000 cars were turned away. Added Smith, "If it weren't for our consideration for the more than 7,000 people on foot that stormed our entrance and exit roadways, we could easily have taken care of another four or five hundred cars in our waiting room space."

Theatre Network Television's success in moving up the time of the main attraction from 10 to 10:30 P.M. assured an exclusive to West Coast theatres. The kinescope to theatres West of Omaha was transmitted from New York starting at 11:15 P.M. (EDT), while the fight was in its seventh round. This forestalled any West Coast breaks in the radio and TV blackout, allowing West Coast fight fans to hear news flashes at the end of the bout before it appeared on theatre screens.

Enthusiasm was also the reaction of the International Boxing Club, which stands to receive about $140,000 for the theatre TV rights, about $35,000 above the minimum due to its box-office draw.

The S-3 Drive-in used RCA's instantaneous theatre TV equipment, which projected a picture 24 by 36 feet, the largest theatre-TV picture ever thrown on the screen. Its projection throw of more than 125 feet was also the longest ever used in theatre TV.

Smith, commenting further on the S-3's experience, declared "theatre television of big fights and other outstanding attractions is here to stay and I don't see how any group of sponsors can compete successfully with a sufficient number of theatre outlets. The drive-in theatres of America alone will one day in the near future gross over $10,000,000 on one night on a top attraction. Don't sell your theatre short—both conventional and drive-in theatres have a wonderful future to look forward to."

As to the fight performance in other sections of the country, here are late reports from Motion Picture Daily correspondents:

Los Angeles—Sherrill Corwin's Orpheum Theatre played the fight telecast to a virtual capacity audience of 2,200, grossing about $8,000. Management was enthusiastic about the event.

Seattle—Reception at the Orpheum here was good, with a capacity audience of about 2,600 in attendance.

Indianapolis—The theatre telecast of the Walcott-Marciano fight was seen by a capacity crowd of 3,200 at the Indiana here. All seats were $2.50, yielding an estimated gross of $8,000. Management said 4,000 persons were turned away. The overflow evidently boosted business at all other first-run theatres. They reported grosses up above Monday night and also Tuesday of last week.

Cleveland—For the first time three local theatres carried a telecast of a fight. Attendance for the Walcott bout was satisfactory, but not sensational.

Approximate attendance at the Hippodrome was 2,200; Palace, 1,700; State, 1,500. Non-fight theatres had average week-day attendance. Concession sales were excellent and the crowds orderly at the three theatres.

Kansas City, Mo. — The Ashland, only television equipped theatre in Kansas City, sold out its 1,200 seats by 7:30 yesterday evening. For the fight, admission was $3.30, including tax and no reserved seat basis.

Some other theatres in Kansas City had average or better Tuesday evening business, but attendance at some was light relative to the previous attendance for the current programs. The Nixon broadcast might have affected theatre attendance.

Milwaukee—There was a complete sell-out at the Warner and Riverside theatres here, topped by standing in the aisles. Reception was good. Prices were $2.40 and $3.00. Business at other downtown theatres was average.

Minneapolis—Radio City Theatre, a Minnesota Amusement Co. first-run house with 4,038 seats was the only theatre in the twin cities to telecast the Walcott-Marciano fight. Every seat was sold at $2.50, including tax, one of the lowest prices in the country.

Three hundred persons were turned away at Radio City. Three other Minnesota Amusement Co. first-run houses, the Century, State and Lyric, benefitted with good business from the Radio City overflow. Other first-run houses reporting were RKO Orpheum with average business. The Karatz reported business below normal because of the fight telecast.

Minnesota Amusement Co. president Harry French said the fight was an "outstanding demonstration of future possibilities of theatre television."

Omaha — The Walcott-Marciano fight drew a capacity 3,000 crowd to the Orpheum for the theatre's second TV ring offering. Tri-States manager William Miskeel said it was more than 1,000 above the Robinson bout. The price was $2.50, plus tax.

San Francisco — The Telenews here was a complete sell-out for the fight. Its 399 seats were scaled at $4.80, all reserved.

No increase in concession business was noted. Seats were scaled as high as $27. A hundred persons waited outside hoping to buy even standing room tickets. Business at other houses was reported to be normal.

Earl Long's 2,735-seat Paramount, with loges reserved at $3.60 and others $3.00 sold out before fight time. No increase in concession business was reported. Primo Carnera, Willie Ritchie, Bobo Olson and other fight personalities appeared on the Paramount's stage prior to the fight. The picture was good. Earl Long expressed confidence that future sporting events will pay their way.

Miami Beach—A sell-out for the Walcott-Marciano closed circuit telecast was chalked up by the Carib Theatre here tonight. Fight fans filled the theatre's 2,070 seats long before the start of the bout. The house was scaled at $3 and $4.00.

The telecast had no appreciable effect upon other first-run houses in the greater Miami area. Managers of these outlets reported average Tuesday night attendance in all cases.

Detroit, Sept. 24.—SRO signs were out at United Detroit Theatres' Palms, and W & W Theatres', Eastown, last night for the Walcott-Marciano fight. Tickets sold for $3.60 at the theatres with no reserved seats. The 2,700-seat Eastown and the 2,900-seat Palms both reported a full house.

23 Legislators from Ohio Favor Repeal

Columbus, O., Sept. 24.—Official listing of Ohio candidates' attitudes on repeal of the Federal admission tax by the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio shows not one Senatorial or Congressional candidate listed as opposing the proposal.

The list gives 18 candidates definitely committed to repeal, five favorably inclined, one for reduction and seven who promised to give "serious consideration" to arguments by theatremen for repeal. This makes 31 candidates out of 49 in the state. The remaining 18 have not replied to queries by Robert Wile, ITOO secretary.

Requests Public Aid Against Tax, Censors

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 24.—The American public has two great stakes in the industry today, Maurice A. Bergman, Universal Pictures public relations director, told the Kiwanis Club at a luncheon at the Hotel Ten Eyck here.

Citing these stakes as the repeal of the 20 per cent admission tax and the fight against censorship, Bergman urged his listeners to join with the industry in their community to help achieve a successful adjudication of these two issues.

Calls US 16mm. Suit 'Not Unusual Charge'

Los Angeles, Sept. 24.— Chief William C. Dixon of the West Coast offices of the anti-trust division of the Department of Justice told a noonday meeting of the National Society of Television Film Producers and guests that the Government's 16mm. suit is "not an unusual charge," and is based on the Department of Justice view that a trade practice becomes conspiracy "when conscious parallel action of participants is demonstrable." In a question-answer period, Dixon said, "Based on other cases, it might take two years to get this one to District Court and another year to reach the Supreme Court."

tern of frequent and regular attendance at motion picture theatres, Balaban said, Paramount and the other production companies "today, more than ever before in the history of the motion pictures are responding with a type of screen entertainment specifically designed to meet the tastes and demands of the public. All of this indicates a very healthy situation and outlook for the motion picture industry."

Met With Freeman

While in Hollywood, Balahan held a "series of intensive conferences" with Y. Frank Freeman, Paramount vice-president and studio head; Don Hartman, production head, and other studio executives.

"I cannot remember a trip to Hollywood that has given me so much cause for genuine optimism about the future of our business and of our company," the Paramount president declared.

"The realistic attention to the box-office needs of exhibitors and to the present day tastes of world audiences, combined with vigorous and imaginative showmansip, with which every picture-maker on our lot is going about his job is truly inspiring," he added.

Based on Finished Films

"Based upon the finished pictures I have seen, coupled with our current successes, pace setters for the industry as well as Paramount," said Balaban, "I am confident that our company's present box-office momentum will be maintained, if not exceeded, with resulting increased patronage from the public and increased box-office receipts for our customers."

Balaban cited pictures produced or to be produced by Cecil B. DeMille, Hal Wallis, Perlberg-Seaton, William Wyler, George Stevens and others as responsible for much of his optimistic outlook for Paramount.

and other enterprises, including RKO Pictures.' He has three children.

His rise to wealth, estimated by Fortune at $35,000,000 to $40,000,000 with an annual income of $4,000,000, is one of the most spectacular success stories of the postwar period.

Stolkin is also vice-president of Kleen-Stik, manufacturers of adhesive labels and tape; U-Arc Corp., arc lamp producer, and Postal Finance Corp. He is co-owner of a 20,000-acre beef cattle ranch in Kerrville, Texas, with Robert S. Hays of San Antonio, and recently purchased a controlling interest in stations KJR, Seattle, and KOIN, Portland, Ore. He is president of Screen Associates, Beverly Hills, Cal., producers of films for television.

Prior to going into the mail order punch-board business, Stolkin was progressively a runner, salesman, and customers' man for a Chicago brokerage firm.

His attorneys are Sidney Korshak, Chicago; Arnold Grant, New York, and Gregson Bautzer, Los Angeles.

Koolish heads Empire Industries, and is the originator of the automobile license facsimiles for key chains which are distributed by disabled veterans.

There was still no official word yesterday concerning the new RKO Pictures' owners views concerning management. However, it is widely believed that Stolkin will be named chairman of the board, replacing Noah Dietrich, Howard Hughes' associate, and that Ned E. Depinet, president, will be continued in that post. Stolkin is due here from the Coast tomorrow and will leave for New York over the weekend to visit and inspect RKO Pictures headquarters on Monday. While there he hopes to arrange a board meeting for late in the week.

Sherrill Corwin, Los Angeles exhibitor and a member of the purchasing group, is expected to be added to the RKO Pictures board, along with other members of the group or their representatives. It is also reported in Hollywood that Corwin may be identified with the studio in an executive capacity, replacing Hughes' appointee, C. J. Tevlin.

and James Fly, attorneys for the Motion Picture Association of America, and Marcus Cohn, attorney for the National Exhibitors Theatre Television Council, A T and T declared that such a meeting "would provide an opportunity to reach a mutual understanding of our respective problems." The letter suggested that the A T and T and industry "technical people" get together as soon as possible.

Welch said today that the meeting would probably take place next week, since the industry's theatre television lawyers and engineers are agreeable to the idea.

A T and T's letter was the latest in a series of exchanges marked by the attempts of Welch, Fly and Cohn to obtain cost and equipment information on theatre television transmission.

ing positions and unreasonable clearance. Both the California District court and Court of Appeals found for the defendants in the case, who argued that the playing positions and clearances given to the Puente Theatre in Puente were the result of independent action by each defendant and not the result of understanding or conspiracy.

The suit was brought by Steve and Emma M. Chorak, owners of the Puente Theatre. The distributor defendants are: RKO Radio Pictures, Warner Brothers, 20th Century-Fox, Columbia, Universal, Loew's, Paramount, United Artists, and Monogram. Exhibitor defendants are: A. L. San Orn, owner of the El Monte Theatre, and James Edwards, Jr., whose Edwards circuit operates the Valley and Tumblewood theatres.

Hughes Loan Part of RKO Sales Pact

Hollywood, Sept. 24. — A spokesman for Howard Hughes today confirmed overnight reports that "as part of a sales agreement with the Stolkin syndicate, Howard Hughes agreed that if he is called upon by RKO Pictures Company he will loan RKO eight million dollars."

Although the spokesman declined to elaborate, the trade here was quick to observe that Hughes had not bound himself to make such a loan to the syndicate purchasing his stock, but to the company in whole, and that no date specifications or limitations were included in the statement.

Johnston, now in San Francisco, is expected to go to Hollywood today for a brief visit before returning to Washington over the weekend. Meanwhile, the Texas exhibitors' protest has not reached him, it was said. Johnston undoubtedly will reply on his return and, meanwhile, MPAA spokesmen pointed out that Johnston's staement did not infer that the TV film production he forecast inferred any "immediate" such activity.

The protesting Texas exhibitors, H. J. Griffith, Julius Gordon, Phil Isley and Claude Ezell, asked Johnston how Hollywood can serve two masters.

Hail Box-office Showing of Fight Telecast

Gross Put at $400,000; Academy Sole Breakdown

Theatremen across the country, with few exceptions, yesterday hailed the box-office performance of Tuesday night's Walcott-Marciano bout, which grossed nearly $400,000.

The first trans-continental telecast lined up by Theatre Network Television went to 49 theatres in 30 cities and attracted an estimated 120,000 patrons, breaking all previous theatre TV records.

Lack of enthusiasm was registered at the Academy Theatre in New York, where exposed wires in the TV equipment resulted in a short, black-

STOLKIN DESCRIBED AS 'NEW RICH' BY FORTUNE

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Ralph Stolkin, who heads the syndicate which yesterday purchased a controlling interest in RKO Pictures, graduated from Hyde Park High School and attended the University of Illinois for one year. He borrowed $10,000 to go into the punch-board business in 1945 and sold the business in 1947 for over $1,000,000.

Ralph Stolkin

Stolkin, now 34, was written up by Fortune Magazine in Jan., 1952, in an article entitled "New Rich," as one of the outstanding young industrialists in the U. S.

He went into oil prospecting with Ray Ryan, struck oil, and expanded into cattle, TV parts manufacturing (National Video Corp.), and motion picture production (he owned a piece of "At War with the Army). He has long been interested in films. He has a private screening room in his suburban Highland Park house and screens Hollywood pictures before they are released on the local market.

He is married to Ruth Koolish, daughter of A. L. Koolish, who is associated with him in Empire Industries (Chicago mail order concern)

Paramount's TV Findings Are Submitted to FCC

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Citing the record of Paramount Pictures in the development of television, Paramount's attorneys today asked the Federal Communications Commission to renew the license of KTLA, Paramount Television Productions' Los Angeles television station.

In proposed findings filed today Paramount also asked for commission consent to the transfer of control of P.T.P. and Allen B. Du Mont Laboratories, Inc., from the parent company, Paramount Pictures, to the new production company formed under the consent decree, Paramount Pictures Corp. The findings also requested the renewal of licenses of the three Du Mont network television stations.

In requesting the renewal of licenses Paramount's proposed findings pointed out that the company "has been instrumental in the development of a television company which is a manufacturer of television transmitting and receiving eqiupment." They went on to say that Paramount "is expending tremendous effort and money in the development of a color tube and a pay-as-you-see system of subscription television." Everything in the record, the document said, proves the fact that Paramount sees no conflict between theatres and television and does not have a "restrictive" or an "antagonistic" attitude toward TV.

The proposed findings declared that Paramount has made its stories and stars freely available to television. So far as making films available to television, the findings said, that will happen "as soon as the economic condition of television is such that it can pay a price for the films comparable to that which the moving picture industry can pay."

Argentine Officials At 'Gaucho' Opening

A delegation of Argentine government officials headed by Ambassador Hipolito Jesu Paz, is expected to join with over 400 guests at the world premiere of 20th Century-Fox's "Way of a Gaucho," to be held aboard the S.S. Argentine on Tuesday evening.

Invitations have been sent also to Gorje A. Nicolini, Consul General in New York; First Secretary Santos Gona; Economic Counselor Dr. Ovidio Z. Schiopetto; Embassy Attache Gustavo A. Dan Gelderan, and Third Secretaries Leopoldo H. Deddanandi and Hector Candos.

New York Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri, United Nations delegates, and representatives from other South American nations, along with Hollywood screen stars, Broadway stage and television stars and newspapermen, are also being asked to the premiere.

The event, to include cocktails, dancing, dinner, and a Latin-American fashion show, will be co-sponsored by the Moore-McCormick Lines. "Way of a Gaucho," will open next month in New York. The motion picture was filmed in Argentina with color in Technicolor.

4 Circuit Ad Heads to Judge 20th Contest

Four advertising-publicity chiefs of circuits will judge 20th Century-Fox's $7,500 showmanship contest for "Something for the Birds."

The judges are Ernest Emerling of Loew's Theatres; Harry Goldberg of Warner Theatres; Harry Mandel of RKO Theatres, and Seymour L. Morris of Schine Theatres, who will select the winners from campaigns to be submitted starting with the release of the comedy in October and running through January. The prizes will be awarded in defense bonds with a $1,000 bond as first prize.

Chicago Wins 2nd Lap of UA Drive

United Artists' Chicago, Charlotte and New Haven exchanges have taken first-prize money in the second six-week lap of the company's "Bill Heineman Sales Drive," in each of the three exchange groups into which all branches have been classified, it was announced by vice-president Max E. Youngstein, who is drive captain.

Chicago won in the first group, Charlotte in the second and New Haven in the third. Second-prize money went to Philadelphia in the first group, New Orleans in the second and Milwaukee in the third, while third prizes were won by San Francisco in the first group, St. Louis in the second and Vancouver in the third.

Completion of the second lap now cleans the slate. All exchanges start from scratch in battling for prizes in the third six-week lap. The drive will wind up with a fourth lap of seven weeks, at the end of which grand prizes will be awarded. The drive is named for William J. Heineman, sales vice-president.

Says Thanks For Palsy Aid

Gratitude to all branches of show business and the press for making it possible for him to successfully launch United Cerebral Palsy was expressed by Leonard H. Goldenson, president of United Paramount Theatres, as the entertainment industry joined with New York's Cinema Lodge of B'nai B'rith at the Hotel Astor here last night in paying tribute to him for his years of service to humanity.

Goldenson was presented the Cinema Lodge "Honor Scroll' by Judge Samuel Leibowitz for his leadership in the fight against intolerance and bigotry through the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith and for his pioneering in helping to awaken Americans to the plight of the physically handicapped afflicted with cerebral palsy.

Martin Levine, president of the Lodge, recovering from a recent illness, presided at the ceremonies witnessed by a capacity turnout of more than 350. Other speakers included S. Arthur Glixon, Robert M. Weitman, Louis A. Novins and Alfred W. Schwalberg. Adolph Zukor delivered a brief tribute.

SIMPP Officers Are Re-elected

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 24.—The Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers re-elected all officers and directors today at the annual meeting of the membership and directorate in honor of Ellis Arnall's return to the presidency.

Arnall, who will leave for Georgia tonight or tomorrow, told members the foreign market now is yielding almost 50 per cent of the industry revenue and the rise in the percentage is still progressing.

Reporting on the Anglo-American film agreement and on the Franco-American pact negotiations, Arnall added his personal observation that independent films he's seen in production, both abroad and here, are among the reasons he has for a belief that the future is bright for the industry.

Roadshow Cinerama In a Few Months

While conceding that Cinerama still has "a long way to go technically," producer Merian C. Cooper and radio reporter Lowell Thomas, partners in the enterprise, reported here yesterday that the new triple-projection technique could be "roadshown" in a few months following its initial public demonstration "run" at the Broadway Theatre here.

The Broadway showing will commence next Tuesday with a two-hour program under the title "This Is Cinerama." The screen subjects will include roller-coaster riding, opera scenes, a symphony orchestra, etc. Advance ticket sales at the Broadway, where top price for the show will be $2.80, thus far indicate an eight-week sell-out, it was reported.

Cooper said Cinerama's dramatic problems have been "licked," and while technical problems still exist, they are insurmountable. He reported that many exhibitors and producers have been consulted concerning future plans for the new medium, which combines a three-dimensional visual effect with "stereophonic" sound.

Easily Done

"Roadshowing" of Cinerama, Cooper explained, would involve transportation of the special projectors, screen and sound equipment from theatre to theatre. This, he added, could be done with relative ease and installations would not pose any particular challenge, nor would they be expensive.

Cooper expects to put a new Cinerama picture into production 30 days following the Broadway opening. He said he has several story properties under consideration for the next picture. The picture at the Broadway will be in Eastman color, the prints having been made by Technicolor, Cooper said.

Greenfield and Piro Are Promoted by 'U'

The promotion of Arthur Greenfield to the post of Universal branch manager in Seattle and the elevation of Ernest J. Piro, a salesman in Portland, Ore., to branch manager in Portland, was announced here by Charles J. Feldman, general sales manager.

Greenfield had been branch manager in Portland since July, 1951. Piro had been a member of the Universal organization from 1941 to 1945. He rejoined "U" in Portland in July, 1951.

Greenfield replaces Donald Gillin who resigned recently to join Sol Lesser Productions.

3 Percentage Suits Filed in Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 24.—Paramount, Warner and Columbia have filed separate percentage suits in Federal Court here against the operators of the Majestic Theatre in Ellwood City, Pa. Defendants are Frank, Andy B., Hildebrand E. and Irma Biordi and Ida Colavincenza. Each action asks recovery for damages based on alleged under-reporting of receipts on percentage engagements.

Reed, Smith, Shaw & McClay of Pittsburgh, represent the distributors, with Sargoy & Stein, New York, of counsel.

"Everything I Have Is Yours"

(Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer) Hollywood, Sept. 24

MARGE AND GOWER CHAMPION, gay and gifted members of the generation that buys 90-odd percent of today's admission tickets, make of this all-around excellent M-G-M musical a major audience experience. The nimblest duo ever burdened with a clumsy and confusing name (from the billing point of view) fulfill here in abundance all the promise they've shown and the predictions made for them. They would be personally tremendous in this even if it were a bad picture. Happily, however, it is one of the finest in the long, glittering procession of color by Technicolor musicals from the House of Leo—stunningly danced, quite as well sung, correctly timed, paced and assembled, in short a superbly balanced production in a category where balance is often the insoluble problem that licks the project. Don't be surprised if "Everything I Have Is Yours" exceeds even M-G-M's box-office expectations.

Back-stopping the Champions, as to billing, are Dennis O'Keefe, as a successful producer of stage musicals, and Monica Lewis, as an understudy for the leading lady in one of his shows. And back-stopping these, just short of incredibly well, are singers and dancers in number, in and out of formation, in small groups and large, who supply the skilled support that only top talents like the Champions can top.

The story, a warm little family narrative, plausible far beyond the par for musicals, is by George ("Three Little Words") Wells, who also produced, and the direction is by Robert Z. Leonard, whose list of successes is too long for this page. Musical direction is by the distinguished, dependable David Rose, with Gower Champion and Nick Castle staging the musical numbers, of which there are eight—all terrific.

The musical numbers are by such estimable, renowned and able gentlemen as Johnny Green, Johnny Mercer, the late Walter Donaldson and Gus Kahn, and when you're talking about music for the plain people who love a tender sentiment and a hot-beat equally well, these are the gentlemen whose works you're referring to—with the name of M-G-M's No. 1 music man, Johnny Green, leading all the rest.

Running time, 96 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Oct. 31.

WILLIAM R. WEAVER

"Springfield Rifle"

(Warner Brothers) Hollywood, Sept. 24

GARY COOPER, man and boy, has been making big money for exhibitors in pictures presenting him in various uniforms of this country's armed services, and there is no reason for supposing that he will do less than that on this occasion. This time he portrays a cavalry officer in the Union Army during the Civil War, with such experienced players as David Brian, Paul Kelly, Lon Chaney, "Big Boy" Williams, Alan Hale, Jr., Philip Carey and Vince Barnett providing support, and with Phyllis Thaxter furnishing distaff interest, which is a minority factor in the story. Major factors are splendid horsemanship displayed in sensationally staged conflicts in mountain terrain, intricate twists in a complex script, and dramatic use of WarnerColor.

Producer Louis F. Edelman got a maximum yield from Sloan Nibley's story via a screenplay by Charles Marquis Warren and Frank Davis, who steered clear of cliche and commonplace throughout. The direction by Andre Detoth was a unique choice for this type of subject. It is a bit slow in spots but snaps into tension whenever, as happens frequently and violently, the characters break into fisticuffs as a better means than dialogue for settling moot points. The film is at its best when fighting rages full blast.

In the story Cooper is a cavalry officer who pretends disobediances to orders and gets himself cashiered from the army so he can join raiders stealing horses from Union forces and thus learn the identity of a traitor who is supplying raiders (in Confederate employ) with information. Following a number of clashes and surprises, he learns his own commandant is the traitor responsible, and he clears up the situation with the use of a newly-invented Winchester rifle, receiving honors also for establishing American army counter-espionage.

Running time, 93 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Oct. 25.

New York 'Mirror' Promoting Product

The New York Daily Mirror is publishing every Monday morning an up-front bold-face box strongly recommending attendance at motion picture theatres, as follows:

"Are you a living-room captive? If night after night you tie yourself down at home, you are denying yourself many pleasures. For example, the joy of going to the movies. Relax in a luxurious, modern theatre, see the first releases on a giant screen, without eyestrain; thrill to wonderful music. The amusement pages of the Mirror will help you decide what picture to see and where to see it. Leading theatres advertise here every day. Don't miss their current showings, which are announced in this issue."

Kramer Unit Off To Israel Tonight

The entire production unit of Stanley Kramer's Columbia production, "The Juggler," comprising 32 persons, will arrive at Idlewild Airport here this morning, preparatory to leaving tonight by plane for Tel Aviv.

Heading the group are Milly Vitale, Italian actress, and director Edward Dmytryk. Kirk Douglas will leave by air on Saturday.

Starr and McCraw to Attend Florida Meet

JACKSONVILLE, Sept. 24. — A lineup of industry speakers were announced here for the annual convention of the Motion Picture Exhibitors of Florida which will be held Oct. 19-21 at the Roosevelt Hotel in Jacksonville, by Maurice B. Hensler, president. Featured at the main banquet will be an address by William McCraw, Variety International executive.

Alfred Starr, of Bijou Amusement Co., Nashville, recently elected national president of the Theatre Owners of America, will be the principal speaker at the closing business session of the meeting. Starr will speak on TOA as well as theatre operations in general. From the national headquarters of TOA will also come Herman Levy, general counsel, and Dick Pitts, executive director.

A highlight of the convention will be a "School for Drive-In Theatre Owners," which will be conducted by Jack Braunagel, Commonwealth Theatres, Kansas City. Various concession firms will have exhibits. Lineup of stars who will attend the sessions will be announced next week.

Kickoff speaker will be Mitchell Wolfson of Miami, past president of TOA, and one of the founders of the local group. The board of directors of the organization invite interested parties from all over the country to attend the meetings.

40 Manufacturers In 'Andersen' Tieups

What is described as one of the most comprehensive merchandising campaigns ever accorded a picture is being arranged for Samuel Goldwyn's production of "Hans Christian Andersen" through the joint efforts of RKO Radio and the Samuel Goldwyn offices.

Although release of the Goldwyn film is still months away, the tie-ups already include more than 40 manufacturers of clothing and accessories, toys and fabrics, all of which will be co-ordinated with the promotional departments of several leading department store chains. Meanwhile, both the RKO and Goldwyn offices are developing separate promotions in the music and book publishing fields.

Tie-ups are being made by Geraldine Cooper of RKO and Martin Davis of the Goldwyn office.

125 Set for Variety Tourney at Tuckahoe

Approximately 125 from the industry here will be on hand for the New York Variety Club's first annual golf tournament today at the Vernon Hills Country Club, Tuckahoe, N. Y.

Edward Lachman, club property master, and Edward Fabian of Fabian Theatres handled the arrangements.

Variety Host to Press

Variety Clubs International will hold a luncheon at the Hotel Astor here today for the trade press. Jack Beresin, international chief barker, and Jack Chisholm, international press-guy, will attend from Philadelphia and Toronto, respectively. This luncheon is unrelated to the local tent's golf tournament and party set for the same day.

Allied Artists

decided to discard the use of the Monogram name from all but corporate transactions came as a surprise to the delegates to the national convention.

Broidy told the gathering that the industry "now is entering a new era." He said "the period of despondency of doom and gloom is behind us. We are moving ahead into an era of enthusiastic showmanship in which the world's theatre screens will soon be reflecting the greatest buy per entertainment dollar ever offered. The entire film industry is now being geared not only to keep customers coming back to the box-office but to offer the kind of packages that will entice new audiences."

He continued: "The reaching of these new heights can't be realized by wishful thinking. Genuine efforts have to be made to bring this about. The producers have to provide the right kind of product. The distributors have to sell this product to its fullest potential value, and in turn the exhibitors have to merchandise it in a manner that will bring in the greatest returns."

Steve Broidy

He said that each year Monogram-AA strived to play a more prominent part in the industry and that "we have now reached a position where we are regarded as a very important cog in the overall picture." He said the position held at present by the company "is the result of three years of intensive planning for the expansion of our distribution and production operations."

Terming the 35-feature program one that is aimed "at every theatre in the country, from the largest metropolitan show cases to the smallest rural situations," Broidy said many of the pictures will be given the heaviest exploitation yet undertaken.

Battle Zone, starring John Hodiak, Linda Christian and Stephen McNally; Kansas Pacific, starring Sterling Hayden, and Fort Calagary, starring James Craig, all produced by Walter Wanger.

Torpedo, a Lindsley Parsons-John Burrows production starring Mark Stevens and Dorothy Malone; Cow Country, produced by Scott R. Dunlap; Affair in Monte Carlo, in color by Technicolor, starring Richard Todd and Merle Oberon; Pocahontas, produced by Dunlap and James S. Burkett.

Roar of the Crowd, Wichita and The Siren Jezebel, all produced by Richard Heermance; Son of Belle Starr, produced by Peter Scully, and The Black Knight and The Annapolis Story, both produced by Walter Mirisch.

Jalopy, Clipped Wings, Loose in London and Desert Knights, Bowery Boys comedies produced by Jerry Thomas and starring Leo Gorcey and Huntz Hall.

Leopold Land and The Golden Idol, both produced by Mirisch and starring Johnny Sheffield; Tangier Incident and Off the Record, produced by Parsons and starring George Brent; Joplin, Mojave Pass, The Homesteaders and Boot Hill, starring Bill Elliott, and The Copperheads, Oklahoma Manhunt, The Marksman and Wild Cattle, starring Wayne Morris, all eight produced by Vincent M. Fennelly.

White Lightning and High Tension, produced by Ben Schwalb; Wolf Dog and The Big Wilderness, produced by Parsons and William F. Broidy, and Murder Without Tears and Wanted by the F.B.I., produced by Broidy.

Also, the company will continue to release the one- and two-reel Little Rascals comedies.

$600,000 Profit Reported by Mono.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Monogram Pictures Corp. and its consolidated companies will show net earnings just short of $600,000 for the fiscal year just ended, George D. Burrows, executive vice-president and treasurer, today reported to the company's national convention here in a message read to the meeting by Steve Broidy, president.

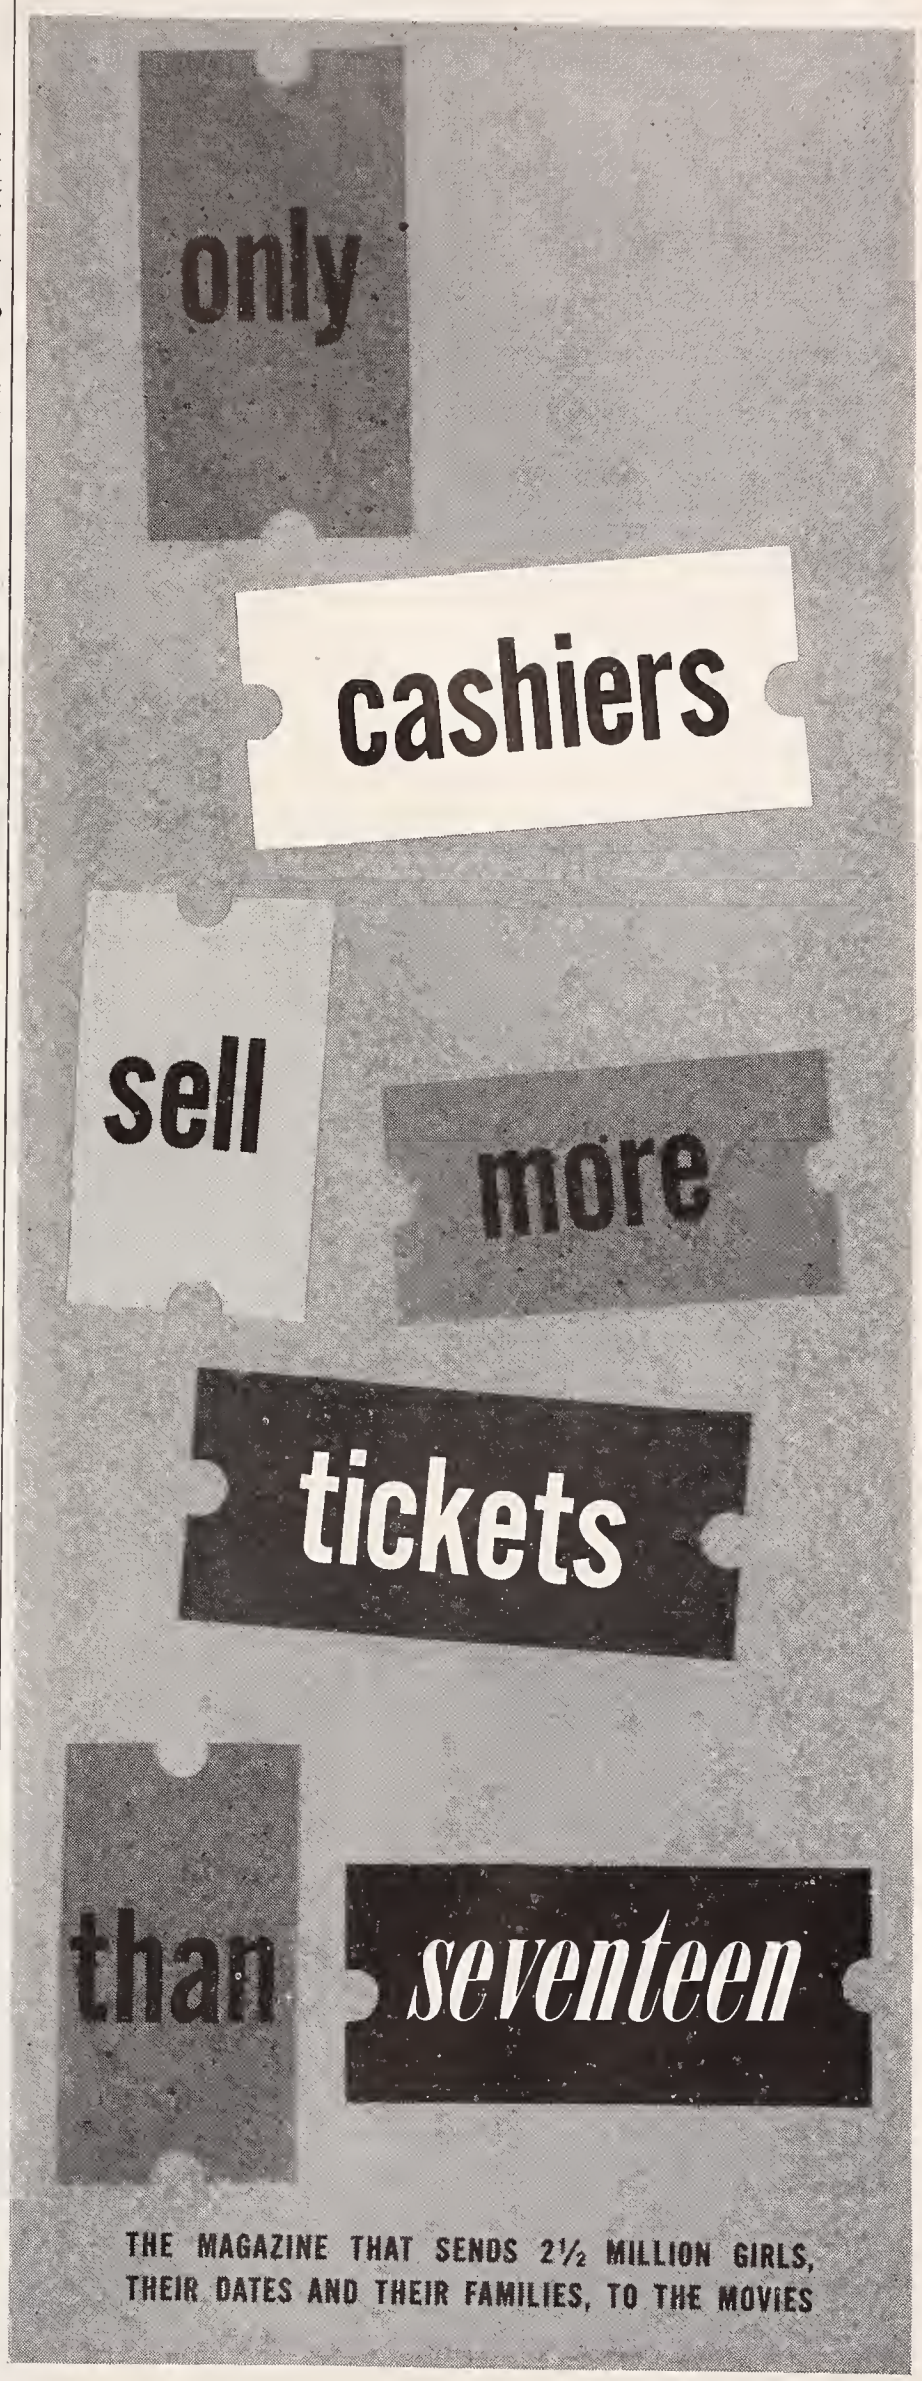
Burrow's message described the company's financial prospects as "exceedingly bright." He added that "every indication points to our having profits for the current year that will at least equal the earnings we will show for the year just ended."

The message continued: "The combined effect of accumulated earnings and materializing of financial plans under consideration will permit coordination of operations in the company that have been somewhat lacking in the past because of our lack of working capital. Our present financial condition now permits the intelligent planning of production, distribution and financing, all coordinated to the best interests of the company, its management, employes and stockholders."

Theatre Men Join Pop Corn Promotion

Chicago, Sept. 24.—The first day of the eighth annual Pop Corn Industries convention, at the Hotel La Salle here Nov. 12-14, will be featured by a discussion of handling, merchandising, and selling pop corn at theatre concession stands, it was announced by Thomas J. Sullivan, executive vice-president of the National Association of Pop Corn Manufacturers.

Scheduled to participate in a panel discussion on "Getting Maximum Returns from Concessions Operations" are Harold J. Fitzgerald, Fox-Wisconsin Amusement Corp., Milwaukee; Abner Horn, Rainbow, Inc., Lake Charles, La.; Charles Manley, Manley, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.; J. J. Fitzgibbons, Jr., Theatre Confections, Toronto, and L. A. Dunn, New England Theatres Service Corp., Boston.



Gary Honors 20th For 'Lydia' Film

A special citation of merit from the city of Gary, Ind., was presented this week to Spyros P. Skouras, president of 20th Century-Fox, honoring the company for its production of "Lydia Bailey." The presentation was made by Charles H. Bonner, president of Community Services of Gary, which is the home town of William Marshall, star of the picture. The citation, signed by Mayor Peter Mandich, and representatives of the Gary Chamber of Commerce, the United Steelworkers of America and other community leaders, marked the first time that all Gary civic groups joined to honor a motion picture.

Similar certificates of merit will be forwarded to production chief Darryl F. Zanuck, producer Jules Schermer, director Jean Negulesco, and writers Philip Dunne and Michael Blankfort.

Technicolor Dividend

The board of directors of Technicolor, Inc., has declared a dividend of 50 cents a share, payable Oct. 20, to stockholders of record on Oct. 6. This will be the third dividend of 50 cents paid by Technicolor in 1952.

Fight Film Does 'Brisk Business'

A top notch fight film of the Walcott-Marciano bout, produced by RKO Pathe, drew in crowds yesterday afternoon at the seven Broadway houses here, where it had enjoyed its first run.

Managers at the Palace, Embassy, 46th Street Trans-Lux, 49th Street Trans-Lux, Globe, Times Square and the New York reported brisk business. The film was put on the screens of the houses a little after 3:00 P. M.

The dramatic quality of the bout, which saw the heavyweight title pass to Marciano, is fully captured in the film, which runs 21 minutes. The blistering first round when Walcott sent the challenger to the canvas for the count of three, sets the tempo. From there on in, virtually every second of the film is exciting.

The 13th round, when Walcott is kayoed by Marciano, climaxes the film. Shots of the 13th and first round are also done in slow-motion, allowing the audience to see the big punches of the evening more closely.

The eight camera crews which filmed the fight at Philadelphia's Municipal stadium deserve a round of applause and commendation should also be passed on for the fine job of editing.

The RKO Pathe film is much superior to the fight telecast as viewed at the Warner Theatre, which on the whole was quite good. The lighting and definition of the film surpasses that of the telecast.

Sidney Kramer, RKO short subjects sales manager, announced that he expected the print order to exceed that of "any fight film RKO has ever handled." Last year, 1,350 prints were made for the Robinson-Turpin bout. The film began playing at all neighborhood RKO Theatres last evening in New York. More than 1,500 theatres, according to RKO Pathe, are slated to take the fight film.

Gold Defends Video Programming Here

The economics of the television industry dictate "good taste" in programming, Melvin L. Gold, president of the National Television Film Council, told the House sub-committee probing TV programming here.

He defended the number of crime shows on TV as an expression of the public's demand for such programming which, he said, features "action" and "drama." He saw no need for additional legislation governing the content of programming, calling attention to present Federal Communications Commission regulations.

Gold appeared before the special sub-committee of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee investigating radio and television programs. The radio and TV industry was also defended in testimony by Charles R. Denny, vice-president of National Broadcasting.

The committee was informed by Jack L. Van Volkenburg, Columbia Broadcasting president, that the company has received no complaints lately from any source concerning the apparel of actresses on TV. Criticism in the past centered around the "scantiness" of actresses' costumes.

Hail Fight Telecast

ing out the telecast completely. Beginning yesterday morning, the theatre began returning $12,963 to disappointed fight patrons. The management assured the patrons, who remained in their seats to hear the commentary of the fight, that they would receive the money spent on tickets.

The installation at the Academy, which was rushed in a few days towards completion, was the only TV-equipped house to suffer a complete breakdown.

Of the 50 theatres carrying the telecast, 36 were equipped with RCA large-screen television, the manufacturing company reported yesterday. All of the 36 reported "good performance," the company said, including the Warner Theatre here which experienced a momentary blackout during the first round which was corrected within a matter of seconds.

Troubles of another sort was experienced by the S-3 Drive-in, Rutherford, N. J., the only open-air theatre in the country to carry the bout. It stemmed from the huge overflow which clamored to get in, causing in addition to a traffic jam, damage to the theatre. Fences were torn down, fires were built on the grounds, and the concession stand had to be closed to forestall theft.

Enthusiasm for the performance, however, was expressed by Philip Smith, of Smith Management Co., and president of Midwest Drive-in Theatres, Inc. of Boston, which operates the S-3. He said the fight grossed $14,000 and at least 5,000 cars were turned away. Added Smith, "If it weren't for our consideration for the more than 7,000 people on foot that stormed our entrance and exit roadways, we could easily have taken care of another four or five hundred cars in our waiting room space."

Theatre Network Television's success in moving up the time of the main attraction from 10 to 10:30 P.M. assured an exclusive to West Coast theatres. The kinescope to theatres West of Omaha was transmitted from New York starting at 11:15 P.M. (EDT), while the fight was in its seventh round. This forestalled any West Coast breaks in the radio and TV blackout, allowing West Coast fight fans to hear news flashes at the end of the bout before it appeared on theatre screens.

Enthusiasm was also the reaction of the International Boxing Club, which stands to receive about $140,000 for the theatre TV rights, about $35,000 above the minimum due to its box-office draw.

The S-3 Drive-in used RCA's instantaneous theatre TV equipment, which projected a picture 24 by 36 feet, the largest theatre-TV picture ever thrown on the screen. Its projection throw of more than 125 feet was also the longest ever used in theatre TV.

Smith, commenting further on the S-3's experience, declared "theatre television of big fights and other outstanding attractions is here to stay and I don't see how any group of sponsors can compete successfully with a sufficient number of theatre outlets. The drive-in theatres of America alone will one day in the near future gross over $10,000,000 on one night on a top attraction. Don't sell your theatre short—both conventional and drive-in theatres have a wonderful future to look forward to."

As to the fight performance in other sections of the country, here are late reports from Motion Picture Daily correspondents:

Los Angeles—Sherrill Corwin's Orpheum Theatre played the fight telecast to a virtual capacity audience of 2,200, grossing about $8,000. Management was enthusiastic about the event.

Seattle—Reception at the Orpheum here was good, with a capacity audience of about 2,600 in attendance.

Indianapolis—The theatre telecast of the Walcott-Marciano fight was seen by a capacity crowd of 3,200 at the Indiana here. All seats were $2.50, yielding an estimated gross of $8,000. Management said 4,000 persons were turned away. The overflow evidently boosted business at all other first-run theatres. They reported grosses up above Monday night and also Tuesday of last week.

Cleveland—For the first time three local theatres carried a telecast of a fight. Attendance for the Walcott bout was satisfactory, but not sensational.

Approximate attendance at the Hippodrome was 2,200; Palace, 1,700; State, 1,500. Non-fight theatres had average week-day attendance. Concession sales were excellent and the crowds orderly at the three theatres.

Kansas City, Mo. — The Ashland, only television equipped theatre in Kansas City, sold out its 1,200 seats by 7:30 yesterday evening. For the fight, admission was $3.30, including tax and no reserved seat basis.

Some other theatres in Kansas City had average or better Tuesday evening business, but attendance at some was light relative to the previous attendance for the current programs. The Nixon broadcast might have affected theatre attendance.

Milwaukee—There was a complete sell-out at the Warner and Riverside theatres here, topped by standing in the aisles. Reception was good. Prices were $2.40 and $3.00. Business at other downtown theatres was average.

Minneapolis—Radio City Theatre, a Minnesota Amusement Co. first-run house with 4,038 seats was the only theatre in the twin cities to telecast the Walcott-Marciano fight. Every seat was sold at $2.50, including tax, one of the lowest prices in the country.

Three hundred persons were turned away at Radio City. Three other Minnesota Amusement Co. first-run houses, the Century, State and Lyric, benefitted with good business from the Radio City overflow. Other first-run houses reporting were RKO Orpheum with average business. The Karatz reported business below normal because of the fight telecast.

Minnesota Amusement Co. president Harry French said the fight was an "outstanding demonstration of future possibilities of theatre television."

Omaha — The Walcott-Marciano fight drew a capacity 3,000 crowd to the Orpheum for the theatre's second TV ring offering. Tri-States manager William Miskeel said it was more than 1,000 above the Robinson bout. The price was $2.50, plus tax.

San Francisco — The Telenews here was a complete sell-out for the fight. Its 399 seats were scaled at $4.80, all reserved.

No increase in concession business was noted. Seats were scaled as high as $27. A hundred persons waited outside hoping to buy even standing room tickets. Business at other houses was reported to be normal.

Earl Long's 2,735-seat Paramount, with loges reserved at $3.60 and others $3.00 sold out before fight time. No increase in concession business was reported. Primo Carnera, Willie Ritchie, Bobo Olson and other fight personalities appeared on the Paramount's stage prior to the fight. The picture was good. Earl Long expressed confidence that future sporting events will pay their way.

Miami Beach—A sell-out for the Walcott-Marciano closed circuit telecast was chalked up by the Carib Theatre here tonight. Fight fans filled the theatre's 2,070 seats long before the start of the bout. The house was scaled at $3 and $4.00.

The telecast had no appreciable effect upon other first-run houses in the greater Miami area. Managers of these outlets reported average Tuesday night attendance in all cases.

Detroit, Sept. 24.—SRO signs were out at United Detroit Theatres' Palms, and W & W Theatres', Eastown, last night for the Walcott-Marciano fight. Tickets sold for $3.60 at the theatres with no reserved seats. The 2,700-seat Eastown and the 2,900-seat Palms both reported a full house.

23 Legislators from Ohio Favor Repeal

Columbus, O., Sept. 24.—Official listing of Ohio candidates' attitudes on repeal of the Federal admission tax by the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio shows not one Senatorial or Congressional candidate listed as opposing the proposal.

The list gives 18 candidates definitely committed to repeal, five favorably inclined, one for reduction and seven who promised to give "serious consideration" to arguments by theatremen for repeal. This makes 31 candidates out of 49 in the state. The remaining 18 have not replied to queries by Robert Wile, ITOO secretary.

Requests Public Aid Against Tax, Censors

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 24.—The American public has two great stakes in the industry today, Maurice A. Bergman, Universal Pictures public relations director, told the Kiwanis Club at a luncheon at the Hotel Ten Eyck here.

Citing these stakes as the repeal of the 20 per cent admission tax and the fight against censorship, Bergman urged his listeners to join with the industry in their community to help achieve a successful adjudication of these two issues.

Calls US 16mm. Suit 'Not Unusual Charge'

Los Angeles, Sept. 24.— Chief William C. Dixon of the West Coast offices of the anti-trust division of the Department of Justice told a noonday meeting of the National Society of Television Film Producers and guests that the Government's 16mm. suit is "not an unusual charge," and is based on the Department of Justice view that a trade practice becomes conspiracy "when conscious parallel action of participants is demonstrable." In a question-answer period, Dixon said, "Based on other cases, it might take two years to get this one to District Court and another year to reach the Supreme Court."

Balaban Sees

tern of frequent and regular attendance at motion picture theatres, Balaban said, Paramount and the other production companies "today, more than ever before in the history of the motion pictures are responding with a type of screen entertainment specifically designed to meet the tastes and demands of the public. All of this indicates a very healthy situation and outlook for the motion picture industry."

Met With Freeman

While in Hollywood, Balahan held a "series of intensive conferences" with Y. Frank Freeman, Paramount vice-president and studio head; Don Hartman, production head, and other studio executives.

"I cannot remember a trip to Hollywood that has given me so much cause for genuine optimism about the future of our business and of our company," the Paramount president declared.

"The realistic attention to the box-office needs of exhibitors and to the present day tastes of world audiences, combined with vigorous and imaginative showmansip, with which every picture-maker on our lot is going about his job is truly inspiring," he added.

Based on Finished Films

"Based upon the finished pictures I have seen, coupled with our current successes, pace setters for the industry as well as Paramount," said Balaban, "I am confident that our company's present box-office momentum will be maintained, if not exceeded, with resulting increased patronage from the public and increased box-office receipts for our customers."

Balaban cited pictures produced or to be produced by Cecil B. DeMille, Hal Wallis, Perlberg-Seaton, William Wyler, George Stevens and others as responsible for much of his optimistic outlook for Paramount.

and other enterprises, including RKO Pictures. He has three children.

His rise to wealth, estimated by Fortune at $35,000,000 to $40,000,000 with an annual income of $4,000,000, is one of the most spectacular success stories of the postwar period.

Stolkin is also vice-president of Kleen-Stik, manufacturers of adhesive labels and tape; U-Arc Corp., arc lamp producer, and Postal Finance Corp. He is co-owner of a 20,000-acre beef cattle ranch in Kerrville, Texas, with Robert S. Hays of San Antonio, and recently purchased a controlling interest in stations KJR, Seattle, and KOIN, Portland, Ore. He is president of Screen Associates, Beverly Hills, Cal., producers of films for television.

Prior to going into the mail order punch-board business, Stolkin was progressively a runner, salesman, and customers' man for a Chicago brokerage firm.

His attorneys are Sidney Korshak, Chicago; Arnold Grant, New York, and Gregson Bautzer, Los Angeles.

Koolish heads Empire Industries, and is the originator of the automobile license facsimiles for key chains which are distributed by disabled veterans.

There was still no official word yesterday concerning the new RKO Pictures' owners views concerning management. However, it is widely believed that Stolkin will be named chairman of the board, replacing Noah Dietrich, Howard Hughes' associate, and that Ned E. Depinet, president, will be continued in that post. Stolkin is due here from the Coast tomorrow and will leave for New York over the weekend to visit and inspect RKO Pictures headquarters on Monday. While there he hopes to arrange a board meeting for late in the week.

Sherrill Corwin, Los Angeles exhibitor and a member of the purchasing group, is expected to be added to the RKO Pictures board, along with other members of the group or their representatives. It is also reported in Hollywood that Corwin may be identified with the studio in an executive capacity, replacing Hughes' appointee, C. J. Tevlin.

and James Fly, attorneys for the Motion Picture Association of America, and Marcus Cohn, attorney for the National Exhibitors Theatre Television Council, A T and T declared that such a meeting "would provide an opportunity to reach a mutual understanding of our respective problems." The letter suggested that the A T and T and industry "technical people" get together as soon as possible.

Welch said today that the meeting would probably take place next week, since the industry's theatre television lawyers and engineers are agreeable to the idea.

A T and T's letter was the latest in a series of exchanges marked by the attempts of Welch, Fly and Cohn to obtain cost and equipment information on theatre television transmission.

ing positions and unreasonable clearance. Both the California District court and Court of Appeals found for the defendants in the case, who argued that the playing positions and clearances given to the Puente Theatre in Puente were the result of independent action by each defendant and not the result of understanding or conspiracy.

The suit was brought by Steve and Emma M. Chorak, owners of the Puente Theatre. The distributor defendants are: RKO Radio Pictures, Warner Brothers, 20th Century-Fox, Columbia, Universal, Loew's, Paramount, United Artists, and Monogram. Exhibitor defendants are: A. L. San Orn, owner of the El Monte Theatre, and James Edwards, Jr., whose Edwards circuit operates the Valley and Tumblewood theatres.

Hughes Loan Part of RKO Sales Pact

Hollywood, Sept. 24. — A spokesman for Howard Hughes today confirmed overnight reports that "as part of a sales agreement with the Stolkin syndicate, Howard Hughes agreed that if he is called upon by RKO Pictures Company he will loan RKO eight million dollars."

Although the spokesman declined to elaborate, the trade here was quick to observe that Hughes had not bound himself to make such a loan to the syndicate purchasing his stock, but to the company in whole, and that no date specifications or limitations were included in the statement.

Johnston, now in San Francisco, is expected to go to Hollywood today for a brief visit before returning to Washington over the weekend. Meanwhile, the Texas exhibitors' protest has not reached him, it was said. Johnston undoubtedly will reply on his return and, meanwhile, MPAA spokesmen pointed out that Johnston's staement did not infer that the TV film production he forecast inferred any "immediate" such activity.

The protesting Texas exhibitors, H. J. Griffith, Julius Gordon, Phil Isley and Claude Ezell, asked Johnston how Hollywood can serve two masters.

Accept French Remittance of $1,200,000

'Goodwill' Offer Viewed As Bid for Early Talks

A French government "no-strings-attached" offer to remit at once to American distributors $1,200,000 of their frozen earnings has been accepted by the companies, it was learned here yesterday following a meeting of foreign managers. Conversion will be at the official rate of exchange.

The surprise offer, following by less than three weeks the collapse of Franco-American film pact negotiations, was interpreted here as a goodwill gesture designed to hasten a resumption of negotiations.

Actually, the move by France represented nothing more than that country had intended to do when the talks in Paris between officials of the

More Trade Ads Needed: AA's Flinn

Chicago, Sept. 25. — John Flinn, Allied Artists national director of advertising and publicity, declared here today that a definite need exists for more trade advertising for the company's forthcoming product.

Flinn said that during the past year AA trade paper advertising increased 60 per cent over the previous year, but that the outstanding 1953 AA product requires an even greater amount of trade ads. Flinn addressed the Allied Artists sales convention.

Pit European Variety Club Tent Vs. 'Red' Influence

Viewing the humanitarian work of the International Variety Clubs as a formidable potential weapon for counteracting Communist propaganda in Europe and the Middle East, the U. S. State Department has suggested to the entertainment industry organization that efforts be made to establish tents in those overseas areas.

This was revealed here yesterday by Variety's international chief barker Jack Beresin at a meet-the-trade-press luncheon at the Hotel Astor. He added that Variety was quick to act on the suggestion with the result that charters are about to be granted to tents which have been set up in Madrid, Hamburg and Frankfort. In due course, Beresin added, Variety clubs will be organized in Paris and Rome.

Meanwhile, the chief barker said, no time is being lost in planning for

Schenck Hits News Report on Merger

Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's, Inc. and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, yesterday denied that there is any truth in the published rumor that there would be a merger between M-G-M and 20th Century-Fox.

"The rumor is without any possible foundation," he said. "It is ridiculous, absurd, untrue, never been thought of, a complete invention. You cannot make the denial strong enough."

The rumor was published in yesterday's New York Daily News under a Hollywood date-line with Hedda Hopper's byline.

A similar denial was issued by 20th Century-Fox officials here and on the Coast, which also covered the report that Darryl F. Zanuck might join RKO Radio.

Merger Rumor Is 'Untrue': Skouras

Spyros P. Skouras, president of 20th Century-Fox, yesterday branded a statement made in a New York newspaper that a merger was in the making between 20th-Fox and Loew's, Inc. as "completely untrue."

He made it very clear that 20th

Marilyn Monroe Is Voted Top 'Star of Tomorrow'

Exhibitors throughout the country have chosen Marilyn Monroe as the number one "Star of Tomorrow" in the 12th annual poll conducted by Motion Picture Herald.

The other nine elected were voted in the following order: Debbie Reynolds, Marge and Gower Champion, Mitzi Gaynor, Kim Hunter, Rock Hudson, Audie Murphy, David Wayne, Forrest Tucker and Danny Thomas.

The "Stars of Tomorrow" poll is Motion Picture Herald's mid-year companion survey to its 21-year-old "Money-Making Stars" poll, the industry's oldest and unanimously accredited measure of talent values. Both polls are conducted by sealed ballot, direct mail and present the aggregate findings of the nation's theatre operators, independent and circuit.

Marilyn Monroe was voted top position by the biggest margin any of the previous poll's leaders have achieved. She was also selected for the key spot by Canadian showmen.

Henry Morgan in Columbia Series

Columbia Pictures has signed Henry Morgan, radio and television comedy star, as writer-narrator of a new series of one-reel shorts, "Animal Cavalcade," "Chimp-antics," the initial offering in the set of eight subjects, will be released Oct. 30. The series is being produced and directed in New York by Harry Foster.

French Offer

two governments ended unsuccessfully. The breakdown came when France withdrew a previous offer to permit an additional $4,500,000 in blocked earnings to be remitted forthwith at the capital account rate. Thus the fate of this additional sum remains undetermined.

At the time the Franco-American negotiations were about to commence in Paris the French hit American film imports with a decree cutting them from 121 to 90 per year. Moreover, during the talks the French pressed hard for an agreement that would provide a form of subsidization of French production by the American companies. Ultimately, the Motion Picture Export Association, the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers and the U. S. State Department stood unanimous in opposition to such an agreement.

The MPEA member companies' presidents and foreign managers are scheduled to meet here next week, possibly on Tuesday, to discuss the possibility of meeting again with the French officials. Eric A. Johnston, MPEA president, was given carte blanche by the company presidents to deal with the French following the negotiations break-off. He and Ellis G. Arnall, SIMPP president, are expected to journey to Paris for new talks, but when the trip will take place is something the presidents and foreign managers will have to decide. A date may be set at next week's meeting following consultation with Arnall.

The break-off of negotiations marked the cessation of American film shipments to France.

Overflow Crowd at First AMPA Course

Associated Motion Picture Advertisers' first lecture course in its projected 12-week series was held last night before an overflow crowd of about 125—or nearly double what was anticipated. In fact, the number was too large for the RKO Radio home office screening room, where Howard Dietz, M-G-M advertising-publicity vice-president, was to deliver the first lecture. Those who attended were taken in cars to the Barbizon Plaza, where a large enough room was rented.

Next week's course, to be addressed by Paul Lazarus, will be held at the larger Columbia screening room.

NY Tent's First Golf Tourney Draws 125

Over 125 members of the industry attended the New York Variety Club's first annual golf tournament yesterday at Vernon Hills Country Club, Tuckahoe, N. Y., which saw Abe Schneider and Harold Rinzler come in first and second respectively for the low gross score.

Other winners included: Ed Fabian and Monroe Greenthal, longest drive; Bill White and Bill Scully, nearest to pin; Martin Moscowitz and Max Cooper, worst gross, and Stan Kolbert, Sol Strausberg, George Hornstein, and Max Cohen in the putting contest.

tents in the only two major U. S. cities where none exists, namely, New Orleans and Seattle. The greater progress in this connection has been made in Seattle, he said, where H. V. (Rotus) Harvey, former Western Theatre Owners president, has been handling organizing arrangements.

Present also at the luncheon, which served too as a birthday party for Beresin, were William J. German, New York tent chief barker; John Fulton, Atlanta chief barker, and John J. Chisholm of Toronto, international press guy. The Variety leaders met with press representatives to invite the latter's suggestions for improving the organization's publicity program.

Beresin described plans for the Nov. 21-23 club convention in Pittsburgh, following which a special Variety fund-raising show will depart for Dublin, Ireland, to perform. The only European cities now having chartered Variety tents are Dublin and London. Tokyo, Mexico City and Toronto are other foreign cities having tents. The 1953 international convention will be held in Mexico City next spring.

Yesterday afternoon, Beresin, German, Fulton and Chisholm met with executives of radio and TV broadcasting companies here to solicit the latter's help in propagating information about Variety.

JDA Unit Will Hold Luncheon Today to Organize for Drive

A luncheon at the Hotel Astor here is scheduled for today, at which members of the motion picture industry division of the Joint Defense Appeal will organize a drive for industry-wide support of the JDA. Leon Goldberg, Universal Pictures, and Edward L. Fabian, Fabian Theatres, are the overall JDA chairmen in the Industry.

The industry is helping to raise New York's share of the 1952 goal of $5,000,000, to finance the activities of the American Jewish Committee and the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith.

The various divisions of the industry and the chairmen are: Home office, Harry Kalmine; exhibitors, Harold J. Rinzler; exchanges, Saul Gottlieb, and David Levy; laboratories, William German; publicity, Morton Sunshine; film deliveries, Ira Meinhardt; trade press, Martin Quigley; equipment supplies, Benjamin Perse; concessions, Benjamin Sherman; purchasing agents, Martin Levine; labor, Herman Gelber, Vincent Jacobi, and Thomas Murtha.

president of National Theatres, will have headquarters at the Roxy Theatre while in New York. The home offices of NT will remain on the Coast.

Spyros P. Skouras will head the production-distribution firm, as previously announced. The management and board personnel of both organizations under divorcement remains the same.

NT's Skouras is expected here about Oct. 10 for conferences with David T. Katz, executive director of the Roxy, which has been acquired by NT from 20th-Fox, effective on Jan. 1. In the interim period, it was explained, no further changes in personnel are contemplated although general dismissal notices sent out in August are still in force.

Arthur Knorr, recently appointed producer in charge of stage productions, currently heads up the production staff with individual choreographers being hired from show to show. The star talent is being booked by Katz. Recently, a two-year contract with the musicians union was signed by the Roxy, which granted a $7.25 per man wage boost under the pattern established by Radio City Music Hall.

Merger Rumor

Century-Fox is entering upon "the most important era in its history" in the production and distribution of motion pictures.

With the recent divorcement of its theatre holdings, the company of which Skouras remains president is developing "the most ambitious plans since its founding."

Buffalo Tent to Meet Congressmen on Tax

Buffalo, Sept. 25. — Dave Miller, chief barker of Tent No. 7, Variety Clubs, has issued invitations to a "Meet Your Congressman" night in the club's headquarters on Monday evening, Oct. 6. It will be an occasion for industryites here to meet their Congressmen and to put over some good work for the elimination of the 20 per cent admission tax, says the announcement.

Levy, ACLU, Charges TV Code Illegal

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. — Herbert Monte Levy, of the American Civil Liberties Union, today told the Harris subcommittee of the Interstate Commerce Committee that the recently adopted television standards of practice code was illegal.

Committee members, who have been relatively enthusiastic in their comments on the code during the committee's hearings on television program content, were rather unenthusiastic about Levy's contention about the code.

Draft Due

scheduled for next Tuesday at the Motion Picture Association of America office here. Whether the meeting will be held on that day, or a day or so later, will depend on the progress the attorneys make in amending the draft. Problems in a number of foreign countries, including France, are due for discussion by the presidents and foreign managers, and the company heads are desirous of conferring at a single meeting or succession of meetings in one day on both arbitration and the foreign problems.

Suggested Last Week

The arbitration draft amendments were suggested at a meeting in Washington last week among the Theatre Owners of America, Allied, and distribution attorneys. If the new draft is approved by the presidents it will be submitted to TOA and Allied for action.

recent national TOA convention in Washington.

Lamont, who attended with Lewis A. Sumberg, executive director and counsel for the local TOA, said the consensus of industry leaders there was that a workable system of arbitration would be effected. Owner of seven drive-ins and a conventional theatre, Lamont believes that arbitration machinery is "imperative" for the continued existence of exhibtors.

He and Sumberg expect to mail a report on the national convention to local members over the weekend. One of the questions which members will be asked to answer at a meeting here about Oct. 15 is whether the Albany TOA should be made a defendant in the government's 16mm. suit.

"Blazing Forest"

(Pine-Thomas-Paramount) Hollywood, Sept. 25

WHEN THE GIANT pine forest in this color by Technicolor creation gets to blazing it burns all the other fire pictures ever made right out of memory. Before the picture gets down to the point where the fire begins those canny co-producers, William H. Pine and William C. Thomas, have fastened audience interest firmly upon a likeable set of people variously engaged in the logging business and in each others' affairs, economic and emotional. The fire starts quietly, almost incidentally, and is seen and dealt with, as it grows, from the vantage point of the Forestry Service, the fire watchers, the bulldozers, the shovel brigade, the helicopter pilot and, of course, the hero who braves the inferno to save his friend. Maybe because of the way it's worked into the story, maybe because it's a genuine forest fire in the Nevada Sierras instead of a phony on a miniature set, or maybe because Technicolor and technology have never collaborated more congenially in the interests of melodrama, the fire section of the film is the best ever produced. Coming atop a right snug piece of story-telling, in which the nonesuch Agnes Moorehead and William Demarest support John Payne, Susan Morrow and Richard Arlen in the principal roles, the climactic conflagration figures to draw like a—what else?—forest fire.

The script by Lewis R. Foster and Winston Miller, directed with steadily rising tempo by Edward Ludwig, opens on the problem of Miss Moorehead, owner of fine but remote timber land, whose niece, Miss Morrow, is determined to leave for the city and whose long-time suitor, Demarest, has a running feud with Payne, a lumber-camp boss whose men resent his relentless driving but respect his ability. Miss Moorehead cuts Payne in on a sharing basis in order to persuade him to contract to cut her land, and when he gets rolling, his brother Arlen, an irresponsible given to stealing from his employers, arrives to work on the job, being in hiding from police at the time. There is some rivalry between Payne and Arlen over Miss Morrow, and there are other plot twists of not unusual character, although credible, before the right people are brought together and the weakling brother is eliminated by the blazing forest.

Runing time, 90 minutes. General audience classification. For December release.

WILLIAM R. WEAVER

"The Thief"

(Harry M. Popkin-United Artists)

HARRY M. POPKIN, a producer with a bent for essaying departures from standard in picture-making, has come up with a decidedly unique offering in "The Thief"—unique in that during the entire 85 minutes given to telling the story of an atomic secrets spy not a single word of dialogue emanates from the screen. Neither is there any narration accompanying the action. Yet there is no shutting out of such sounds of normal, everyday city living as auto horns, doors shutting, footfalls, etc.

The prospect of the nagging curiosity potential audiences could experience concerning the novel approach of "The Thief," plus the marquee strength of star Ray Milland, should make exhibitors who book Popkin's new film confident that they have a box-office winner. If this film is promoted properly and adroitly, such confidence should prove to be wholly justified.

Apart from the novelty attending this lack of dialogue, "The Thief" is little more than the usual spy thriller studded with its moments of taut suspense and exciting pursuit. The latter element is displayed here in cat-and-mouse activity involving an FBI man and Milland, the spy, in the TV tower of the Empire State Building high above the streets of New York.

With the foregoing of dialogue the camera must necessarily be explicit and "eloquent" to a proper degree, without seeming to be. This is achieved here to perfection for the most part under the able direction of Russell Rouse who shared with producer Clarence Greene the task of preparing the script. Yet, absorbing though the story may be for the average film-goer, he will find himself preoccupied, during the unfoldment on the screen, with that which makes the picture unique.

How is dialogue avoided? Merely by virtue of the fact that the camera focuses principally on Milland, an American physicist who lives a quiet and lonely existence in Washington. He has sold out to foreign agents, presumably Russians, and his contact with them is achieved by signals delivered by ringing telephones, casually dropped pieces of paper, etc. When, by an accident of fate, the FBI gets on Milland's trail, he succeeds in escaping undetected to New York where, chased up the skyscraper's TV tower, he kills the Federal pursuer. His foreign friends arrange for his escape aboard an ocean freighter, but overcome by remorse over the FBI agent's murder as he is about to walk up the gangplank he suddenly turns back toward the city to surrender himself. There seems to be something just a little too contrived about the ending.

Milland's performance, calling for facial expressions of anxiety, fear, anguish and hysteria, is first-rate. Other players, including Martin Gabel as the principal foreign agent; Rita Gam as a silent and sultry rooming house neighbor of Milland, and Harry Bronson, John McKutcheon, Rita Vale, Rex O'Malley and Joe Conlin register with force and effect. Herschel Gilbert's musical accompaniment is good.

Running time, 85 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Oct. 10.

helping to place you in a position to overcome any sales resistance," he added.

"There is no production problem, whether it concerns cost, story acquisition, technical obstacles or casting that we won't tackle during 1953 if it results in bringing to the screen the best in entertainment value," stated Mirisch.

Concerning his recent trip to Europe, Mirisch reported that plans are now in progress for future important productions to be launched jointly with Associated British-Pathe.

"Allied Artists quality has passed the proving grounds stage," Mirisch said. "It has won strong exhibitor acceptance."

Allied Artists' sound position today may be attributed in large part to its "dynamic sales force," Edward Morey, New York, vice-president, told the executives, branch managers, bookers and salesmen attending the convention, held in the Blackstone Hotel.

"During the past year when many companies reported either losses or considerably lowered earnings, Monogram and Allied Artists business improved," he said.

"This, in part, may be attributed to a better calibre of picture produced under the guidance of Walter Mirisch, but we cannot minimize the job done by the sales force in marketing our product." He singled out Morey (Razz) Goldstein, vice-president and general sales manager, for doing "an exceptional job."

At the same session, John C. Flinn, national director of advertising and publicity, promised the sales staff that his department would continue to go all out to give increased service to exhibitors.

He pointed out recent innovations which have been put into effect, including the circulation among exhibitors of thousands of "Studio News Flashes"—photo broadsides depicting off-stage highlights and special pressbooks for drive-in theatres.

The company's annual banquet, at which leading exhibitors of the Chicago territory were guests, was held tonight. At the affair, Nat Nathanson, who had headquarters for many years in Chicago and who recently joined the company as a sales executive, was welcomed to the organization.

By SHERWIN KANE

THE OPTIMISM and confidence that was restored to the industry last summer when it was demonstrated that good pictures have not lost their power to draw the public away from TV's peep shows and other competing forms of entertainment and recreation has been disturbed from time to time in the past three months by the question: "Will it last?"

TV's best attractions are off the air now, the quizzical reminded. What will happen when they return? Or: It's an unusually hot and humid summer. People are going to air-conditioned theatres for relief. Will they continue to go next autumn?

The answers are coming in now. TV's top attractions are back, for the most part. Summer is past. And still the nation's box offices are thriving.

For those who still are not completely convinced, last week's news columns offered reassurance for the future from two of the industry's top showmen, Samuel Goldwyn and Barney Balaban. They were not speaking of today, but of the days to come.

Goldwyn used a press conference to lay at rest reports that his forthcoming "Hans Christian Andersen," his 88th production since becoming an independent producer, would be his last.

Not so, he said. Even now he is working on "No. 89." Into it are going millions of his own money, as they have gone into "Andersen" and other Goldwyn pictures. The industry's future, Goldwyn holds, is secure. Television has been a challenge, he says, but that challenge has been met.

Balaban returned to New York from Hollywood, where he looked into the industry's future, not in a crystal ball but on a screen which held a goodly slice of its yet to be released product. Not a man to make glib predictions, Balaban nevertheless left Hollywood so filled with enthusiasm by what he had seen, he was impelled to share the good news with the industry.

His conclusion: that the improvement in business not only will be maintained but will be increased. That view, he reported, is shared by other executives.

The Goldwyn and Balaban state-

Industry, A.T. & T. Officials Meet Tomorrow on Costs

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Theatre television attorneys and engineers will meet here Tuesday with representatives of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., in an effort to obtain from A. T. and T. cost information on theatre television transmission.

The meeting was suggested last week by A. T. & T. after a series of letters from James Fly, Vincent Welch and Marcus Cohn—attorneys who will present the industry's theatre television case to the Federal Communications Commission — had failed to elicit the required facts and figures from A. T. & T. When the company suggested the meeting it said that a recent change in the specifications made by the three attorneys might enable A. T. & T. to make a "speculative" forecast of the charges for transmission.

The meeting will take place at the Motion Picture Association of America headquarters here. Representing MPAA will be Welch, Fly, Andrew Inglis and Ed Cooper. Cohn and Stuart Bailey will represent the National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee. From A. T. & T. will be general counsel Ernest D. North and top-level company engineers.

Healthier Box-office Seen by Branton

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—Ralph Branton, Monogram Pictures vice-president, told company distribution and executive personnel in a closing session at the weekend of the convention of Monogram-Allied Artists that he felt there would be a healthy level of theatre attendance during the months ahead. Branton said, "I don't think that the alarmists in our industry need look any further for assurance than to the program of expansion Allied Artists is making in its quality

N. Dakota Oil Find Lures Neb. Showmen

Minneapolis, Sept. 28. — Newly-discovered oil in North Dakota, with its consequent rise in the economic level, has lured numerous Nebraska exhibitors into that state.

There have been theatre purchases in the cities of Bismark and Valley City and Nebraska theatremen are eyeing expansion in the oil fields through Williston and Wolf Point and at Kalispel, in Montana.

Johnston Visit to France in Offing

Eric A. Johnston, MPAA president, is virtually certain to go to France for further film pact talks before he undertakes visits to any other countries, it was indicated here at the weekend. At his meeting here Thursday with company presidents and foreign managers the date of his departure for Paris will be decided.

Johnston was due to fly East from the Coast over the weekend.

Plans Skiatron Test In Philadelphia, Too

Every effort will be made to extend the projected Skiatron subscription home television test to Philadelphia, Arthur Levey, Skiatron president, said here at the weekend.

The company recently announced that it is preparing an application to the Federal Communications Commission for authorization to launch a 90-day test in the New York Metropolitan area among 300 families. Levey said the company now contemplates the inclusion of Philadelphia in the application provided suitable arrangements can be made.

Because distribution attorneys who have been working on suggested amendments to the much-abused industry arbitration draft have not completed their work and do not expect to complete it for several more days, company presidents will not discuss the subject of arbitration at their scheduled meeting here on Thursday, it was indicated at the weekend.

It was pointed out that the lawyers are attempting to amend the draft in such a way that it could be ac-

Companies Hit By European Credit 'Mess'

French, German, Italian Exhibitors Not Paying

A particularly acute, heretofore unpublicized problem for American distributors has affected the sale of product in France, Germany and Italy. Film export officials here reported at the weekend that they are becoming increasingly concerned that exhibitors in those countries in large numbers are not paying for pictures sold to them on credit.

This withholding of payments by French, German and Italian theatres and circuits was described as widespread and represents a "staggering" outstanding sum for the American distribution industry.

It has been recommended to the Motion Picture Export Association board that it study the problem of overdue accounts in Europe. The MPEA meeting here last week reviewed the situation and agreed that

The French premiere will follow by a week or two the two-theatre Oct. 23 American premiere in New York at the Astor Theatre and at the Trans-Lux 60th St. Theatre.

Wald Decries Cuts in Exploitation Crews

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 28.—Declaring that heavier field exploitation is one of Hollywoods greatest needs in film marketing, producer Jerry Wald addressed 50 exhibitors and RKO Radio exchange men at a meeting here as part of the advance campaign for the world premiere in Dallas of "The Lusty Men."

Wald, who is making a week's tour of Texas cities with Milton Pickman, vice-president of Wald-Krasna Productions, scored those distributing companies which have cut field exploitation staffs, calling such moves "false economy."

"There is no question but that the reduction of personnel in the field deprives the industry's selling mechanism of able men whose obligation and responsibility is to provide new advertising methods, explore new channels, break new ground and maintain aggressive sales measures as a live, moving force in the business end of show business," Wald said.

"My own belief in the value of field exploitation is so strong that for 'The Lusty Men' alone 10 additional exploiteers will be dispatched throughout the county to buttress RKO's regular field force," he concluded.

MGM to Film Musical Of 'Golden West'

Dore Schary, M-G-M production chief who will arrive here this morning, blocked out details before he left Los Angeles for a musical screen version of "The Girl of the Golden West." Arthur Freed will produce, with Alan J. Lerner assigned to the screenplay.

The Belasco play has twice been the basis for motion pictures, first in 1930 as a drama in which Ann Harding starred and again in 1938 as a film musical with Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy and music by Sigmund Romberg. Schary will spend about four weeks in New York for conferences and advance plans on "Plymouth Adventure," his production which is slated to have its premiere on Nov. 24.

Texas Star Tours Begin on Nov. 10

Dallas, Sept. 28.—Phil Isley, chairman of the Texas Council of Motion Picture Organizations "Movietime" star tours, reports that the tours in Texas will begin on Nov. 10.

Serving on the committee with Isley are Robert J. O'Donnell, Col. H. A. Cole, William O'Donnell, R. I. Payne, Don Douglas, C. C. Ezell and Paul Short.

Will Not Ask Tour Talent to Entertain

In reply to a suggestion by actor Forrest Tucker that players on "Movietime" tours entertain their audiences, national "Movietime" director Robert J. O'Donnell and Hollywood chairman Marvin Schenck have issued a statement here, in which they said that under "Movietime's" policy regarding entertainment, "players may entertain if they wish and if they have a particular talent, such as singing or dancing, but they are not asked to nor are they expected to."

Would Be Unfair

The statement noted that "the Council of Motion Picture Organizations feels that such a broad policy would be unfair to many players whose talents do not lend themselves to on-the-spot, off-the-cuff entertainment. It is COMPO's wish and desire to present the personaltities in their best light before the public. If the Screen Actors Guild, after hearing Tucker's arguments for entertainment on the tours, asks or demands that COMPO adopt this policy, COMPO will act upon it, but otherwise it will continue to operate on what is a proven increasingly successful formula."

Dixie Papers Hit D. of J.'s 16mm. Suit

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 28.—The question whether government officials or courts of law are competent to say when a motion picture has exhausted its theatrical value and should be shown on television is raised in an editorial in the New Orleans Times-Picayune and States, critical of the government action to force the sale of 16mm. films to television.

The editorial adds: "Movies for the most part have weathered the competition initially offered by TV. Once used to video, many people feel that the motion picture screen still has something to offer that isn't available on the screen in the parlor." However, it concludes, you can't expect them to pay admission to a theatre to see a picture which will be available on TV free later on.

SAVANNAH, GA., Sept. 28. — The Savannah Morning News in commenting editorially on the government suit to force the sale of 16mm. films to television expressed the opinion that the government, "in its efforts to force the movie industry to contribute to a competitive program which is against its own interests is striking at the very heart of a system (free enterprise) which has made this nation great."

Notables to Attend Cinerama Premiere Here Tomorrow

Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York, Governor Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey and former President Herbert Hoover are among the distinguished guests slated to attend the world premiere of Cinerama at the Broadway Theatre here tomorrow evening.

Harry Sherman Had Planned New Firm

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 28.—Harry Sherman, veteran producer who died here at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital late Thursday night at the age of 68, had plans well underway for a new distribution franchise organization.

The plans, which were disclosed Sept. 8 from Chicago following a meeting between Sherman and a group of independent distributors, called for the release of one picture per month. One feature of the projected organization was that the distribution franchise holders would own a part of the company, in addition to having distribution rights in their territories.

Sherman operated a theatre circuit in the Minneapolis area before turning to distribution and production. He was associated with Pathe and M-G-M prior to his forming Harry Sheman Productions in 1935 to make the Hopalong Cassidy series. Among his productions were "Ramrod," "Four Faces West," "Parson of Panamint" and "Buffalo Bill."

PARLAYING a $10,000 loan through a punchboard business into oil, cattle, television and now controlling stock ownership of RKO Pictures in a matter of seven years, suggests that Ralph Stolkin, head of the group which last week replaced Howard Hughes as owners of the picture company, may have more than a bit of showmanship in his makeup.

If so, there will be no lack of opportunity for him to exercise it freely from now on.

Mutual-MGM Shows Back on Air Tonight

WOR-Mutual's group of 10 M-G-M produced programs will return as a bloc to the Monday through Saturday schedule tonight, it was announced by Julius F. Seebach, Jr., MBS-WOR vice-president in charge of programs.

Five of these shows—"Woman of the Year," "The Black Museum," "M-G-M Musical Comedy Theater," "Modern Adventures of Casanova" aand "Adventures Of Maisie" — were not heard during the summer. The other five—"Crime Does Not Pay," "Story of Dr. Kildare," "The Hardy Family," "The Gracie Fields Show" and "M-G-M Theater of the Air"—have been broadcast on the WOR schedule weekly since their debut last winter.

ceptable to the Theatre Owners of America and Allied States Association. In due course, TOA and Allied are likely to come up with their own recommended changes, and agreement would have to be reached by the three principles and other Arbitration Conference participants on an official, amended draft.

Would Like Changes

Both TOA and the distributors indicated at their recent meeting in Washington that they would like to make changes in the draft. Abram F. Myers, Allied general counsel, who sat in on the conference, indicated that Allied too undoubtedly would want to suggest changes, but that the Allied member units would have to be polled in this connection.

The distribution attorneys' efforts last week to compile suggested changes and fit them into the draft as it stood prior to the Washington meeting was interpreted as a manifestation of distribution's desire to see an industrywide arbitration system created.

fight, which drew an estimated 120,000 fight fans in TV-equipped theatres, as the "latest instance of how top-flight events are being denied the country's 18,0000,000 TV set owners under the present program-sponsored system.

"It is not at all far fetched," said Levey, "that the Walcott-Marciano fight might have drawn a minimum of $10,000,000 on subscription TV alone at a charge of no more than $1 per family."

Rep. Favors Tax Repeal

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—Rep. Richard B. Wigglesworth (R.,Mass.) in an interview regarding the elimination of the 20 per cent Federal admission tax, stated, "I do not care to make any definite commitment at this time but I am in favor of tax reduction. I voted specifically for the elimination or reduction of this tax when it was last considered by Congress two years ago."

Credit 'Mess'

delayed payments are having a serious effect on the overall remittance picture. In other words, the amount of business done in any one of the three countries in a given period can show up considerably greater than sums held for remittance covering the period.

Large French, German and Italian circuits were said to be particularly serious offenders in the matter of delayed payment for product. In the case of some of these, credit has been withdrawn and product withheld pending receipt of all or part of what is owed.

One export official said that the credit situation in the three countries is without a doubt "a mess." Columbia was said to be particularly hard hit by the problem.

Further discussion of the problem is expected to take place at the meeting of MPEA companies' presidents and foreign managers scheduled for Thursday here.

'Overcoat' Is First Italian 'Salute' Film

In the THEATRE Equipment World . . .

. . . with RAY GALLO

A NUMBER of theatre operators throughout the country are taking advantage of a new odorless paint which enables them to carry out interior decoration jobs without the usual interruptions in business or discomfort to patrons. The paint is a product of the Keystone Paint and Varnish Corp. of Brooklyn, N. Y. Through experimentation, under the leadership of Douglas C. Arnold, Keystone's president, a process was found for boiling the odor out of the oil used in the manufacture of oil-base paints. Then a thinner, which has the benefits of turpentine but none of its odor was developed. The paints are available in flat, semi-gloss, gloss, enamel, floor paint and varnish. Theatres which have already used it include the Paris in New York, the Crown and the Lincoln in New Haven and the Fine Arts in Westport, Conn.

Changes in its industrial vacuum Model VA20 have been announced by the Holt Manufacturing Co. of Oakland, Cal., and Newark, N. J. Motion Picture Daily Feature Reviews

"The Lusty Men"

(Wald-Krasna-RKO Radio) Hollywood, Sept. 28

THE LUSTY MEN referred to in the title of this sprawling, drawling and sometimes brawling production by the show-wise and sure-handled Jerry Wald are the men who earn their living and often their dying in the rodeo business. The men chiefly concerned in this straight-line screenplay by Horace McCoy and David Dortort (from a story by Claude Stanish) are Robert Mitchum, Arthur Kennedy, Frank Faylen and Arthur Hunnicutt, and the woman with whom the first two of these lusty men are principally concerned is Susan Hayward, who doesn't like rodeo-ing but is stuck with it. Nice billing material.

Director Nicholas Ray seems to have paced the unfolding of his story to the slow and ambling gait of the former rodeo champion played by Mitchum, save for the frequent furious passages in which the rodeo animals galvanize the action on their own volition. The contrast between the plodding progress of the people and the lightning action of the broncs, steers and Brahma bulls is dramatically effective throughout what could have been an overlong 112 minutes otherwise.

The commercial possibilities of the picture are not readily determinable. The names obviously promise a solid opening. The box-office import of the fact that the picture deals exclusively (also intimately, informatively and extremely well) with the rodeo institution and rodeo people is open to question save in localities where predilection for that subject is known to prevail. Neither is it a simple matter to determine in advance whether the tremendous amount of expert riding, roping, bulldogging and so on in the picture is going to prove as profitable in the theatre as in the rodeo arena, especially under a title that doesn't state clearly what the picture's about.

In short, Mitchum plays a former rodeo champion whom Kennedy, the young, cowhand husband of Miss Hayward, persuades to teach him the rodeo business and manage him in it on a 50-50 basis. Kennedy becomes so successful as a rodeo performer that he refuses to retire and buy a ranch, as his wife and he intended in the beginning, and determines to go on with his hazardous career. Mitchum, following a differene with Kennedy, tells Miss Hayward of his love for her, but she says she's still in love with nobody but her husband. Next day Mitchum, who hasn't competed in rodeo since making the deal to manage Kennedy, gets himself killed in the arena, and Kennedy heeds his wife's wishes about retiring to the relative safety of ranching.

Running time, 112 minutes. General audience classification. For October release.

"Apache War Smoke"

(Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer)

BLENDING THE ELEMENTS of humor, farce, sophistication and "corn," this Hayes Goetz production is a Western in format. Its content, however, elevates to high moments of tenderness and humor an absolute rascal and other choice rascals, and is therefore unsuitable for youngsters whose parents have been teaching them the difference between right and wrong.

The story by Jerry Davis has Gilbert Roland enact a Mexican bad man, beloved by women, including those with husbands, and the father of numerous and often unknown progeny. One of these is Robert Horton, the upright and dedicated keeper of the Wells Fargo way station. It is the latter's bad luck that a gold cargo shepherded by company official Gene Lockhart arrives at the same time as Roland; and that the Apaches are looking for a white man who did them wrong. Roland captivates the women as usual; and even while disarmed keeps trying to get the gold. Continued Apache attacks begin to decimate the little fort; and the men are for throwing Roland to the Apaches. Horton has to make his difficult choice: to drive his bad but charming killer-father to death, or continue fighting. He chooses the latter. And Roland resolves the problem; he discovers the actual white man the Apaches are seeking, and by strategy sends him out from the fort. The Apaches kill him. This leaves peace, and the various romantic complications which have ensued become straightened: Horton is left with a good girl, the bad girl leaves with Lockhart, and Roland leaves after them.

Roland rides off after the stagecoach and the gold, and those who watch him leave are fairly certain he'll get the gold, because the boy who drives the coach also is his son.

Roland's portrayal of the bad man is good and subtle comedy; and the tense moments of gunplay and Apache attack keep the Western pace. Glenda Farrell's part as a gambling woman who carries two six-shooters with her and welcomes Roland as a fellow adventurer, is in character.

Davis' screenplay is based upon a story by Ernest Raycox. Harold Kress directed. In supporting roles are Barbara Ruick, Henry Morgan, Patricia Tiernan, Hank Worden, and others.

Running time, 67 minutes. Adult audience classification. Release date, Oct. 17.

Bernard an Importer

The opening title, "L. Barry Bernard presents," on Manor Films' "The French Way," marks the entry into the foreign-film importation field of the veteran art-house publicist. Bernard was for several years associated with Herbert Rosener Theatres on the Coast.

Mexican Loans Are Down

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 28.—The trade's own bank, the semi-official Banco Nacional Cinematografico, S. A., publishing its balance sheet as of Aug. 31, for the first time in a long while, reports loans, credits and discounts of only $1,290,375.25 and $1,970,000 worth of its bonds in circulation.

"Horizons West"

(Universal-International) Hollywood, Sept. 28

UNDER the above innocuous title the experienced and always expert Albert J. Cohen has put together an adult Western in the sparse "Outlaw," "Duel in the Sun" category that has made exhibitors so much money and cost them so much family patronage. This one, a bit more temperate than those in some respects but equally violative of the Autry-Rogers-Boyd screen tradition that family folk have been trained by repetition to regard as standard for Westerns, figures to make the same kind of money if similarly exploited, and to cost somewhat less family patronage, although some. From this point of view, the attraction looks like an easy money-maker for the houses that don't cultivate family trade, and a policy problem for those that do.

The people principally involved in the story are Robert Ryan, Rock Hudson, Raymond Burr, Julia Adams, James Arness and Judith Braun, who turn in strong, steady performances under the competent and sometimes remarkably adroit direction of Budd Boetticher. The story and screenplay are by Louis Stevens, a good man with a line of dialogue and obviously a staunch foe of formula. Charles P. Boyle directed the photography, with William Fritsche as Technicolor consultant, and you wouldn't ask to see finer shots of Texas terrain, streams, saloons, driven cattle, grazing sheep and good-looking women. Mighty purty.

The principal role is played by Ryan, a Texan fresh back from the war between the states, who finds the old home ranch too dull and unrewarding for his taste and sets out to get big money fast by any feasible means. He gets it, by all the means commonly employed by the heavies in Westerns, and with it the opposition of the good people of the community (Austin) including his own family. Killed off in the course of his rise to power are Burr, an equally evil but wealthier man whose wife loves Ryan at sight, and a civic officer who decides to make a Federal case of Ryan and his gang, plus numerous others. Finally, of course, Ryan gets killed, too, but for no more clearly established reason than being a split second late on the draw. It brings the picture to a close, but hardly to a conclusion, which small differentiation so often divides the stories from the tales, the successes from the also-rans.

Running time, 80 minutes. Adult audience classification. For October release.

"Willie and Joe Back at the Front"

(Universal-International) Hollywood, Sept. 28

A SERVICEABLE COMEDY, based on the two Bill Mauldin "G.I." characters, has been fashioned by Universal under the able direction of George Sherman. Tom Ewell as Joe and Harvey Lemback as Willie are in enough amusing situations to please most every audience.

Willie and Joe find themselves back not only in uniform, due to having signed up for inactive reserve, but in Tokyo and in assorted troubles, in this script by Lou Brewlow, Don McGuire and Oscar Brodney. First gales of laughter greet their attempts to "goldbrick" out of service by feigning physical infirmity, and from then on the burble of pleased customers is virtually unbroken. Scenes in a Tokyo bath house are uproarious as is the scene when the pair receives the commanding general's personal aid over protests of all officers, in order to trap smugglers. The script is constantly a laugh producer to the finish.

Leonard Goldstein produced. Others in the cast include Mari Blanchard and Barry Kelley.

Running time, 87 minutes. General audience classification. For October release.

"Under the Red Sea"

(RKO Radio)

UNUSUAL UNDERSEA PHOTOGRAPHY in black-and-white is the factor in this interesting feature that has a wide range of appeal for various audiences. For the action-minded there are close-ups of a moray eel stabbing, a conflict with a manta ray, and a crew member riding a whale shark. It features an impressive scientific experiment conducted by expedition head Hans Hass in which is shown that fish ignore all sounds of civilization including jazz but are strongly attracted by the steady waltz beat of Strauss' "The Blue Danube." Other underwater footage includes coral formations and many types of fish. Attractive Lottie Berl shows to distinct advantage above and below water in various form-revealing bathing suits.

Les Tremayne speaks the narration that explains all the pantomime action of the film which has a suggestion of a story-line. The tale concerns the expedition by Hass and the major conflict seems to be whether expedition secretary Miss Berl can succeed in replacing the photographer who is sidelined by illness. Details about obtaining proper equipment, using a special oxygen respirator, seeing the architectural ruins of Port Sudan, and finding the underwater remains of an old slave ship help maintain interest. The tailor-made climax occurs when Miss Berl is knocked unconscious by a manta ray with a 22-foot wingspread. While everyone's oxygen supply is running low, she is spotted and saved by Dr. Hass, who later marries her.

Other members of the crew who contribute to the proceedings are Gerald Weidler, Leo Rohrer, Edward Wawrowetz, Alfonso Hochhauser and Mahmoud Amir.

Running time, 67 minutes. General audience classification. For October release.

By SHERWIN KANE

THE OPTIMISM and confidence that was restored to the industry last summer when it was demonstrated that good pictures have not lost their power to draw the public away from TV's peep shows and other competing forms of entertainment and recreation has been disturbed from time to time in the past three months by the question: "Will it last?"

TV's best attractions are off the air now, the quizzical reminded. What will happen when they return? Or: It's an unusually hot and humid summer. People are going to air-conditioned theatres for relief. Will they continue to go next autumn?

The answers are coming in now. TV's top attractions are back, for the most part. Summer is past. And still the nation's box offices are thriving.

For those who still are not completely convinced, last week's news columns offered reassurance for the future from two of the industry's top showmen, Samuel Goldwyn and Barney Balaban. They were not speaking of today, but of the days to come.

Goldwyn used a press conference to lay at rest reports that his forthcoming "Hans Christian Andersen," his 88th production since becoming an independent producer, would be his last.

Not so, he said. Even now he is working on "No. 89." Into it are going millions of his own money, as they have gone into "Andersen" and other Goldwyn pictures. The industry's future, Goldwyn holds, is secure. Television has been a challenge, he says, but that challenge has been met.

Balaban returned to New York from Hollywood, where he looked into the industry's future, not in a crystal ball but on a screen which held a goodly slice of its yet to be released product. Not a man to make glib predictions, Balaban nevertheless left Hollywood so filled with enthusiasm by what he had seen, he was impelled to share the good news with the industry.

His conclusion: that the improvement in business not only will be maintained but will be increased. That view, he reported, is shared by other executives.

The Goldwyn and Balaban state-

Industry, A.T. & T. Officials Meet Tomorrow on Costs

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Theatre television attorneys and engineers will meet here Tuesday with representatives of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., in an effort to obtain from A. T. and T. cost information on theatre television transmission.

The meeting was suggested last week by A. T. & T. after a series of letters from James Fly, Vincent Welch and Marcus Cohn—attorneys who will present the industry's theatre television case to the Federal Communications Commission — had failed to elicit the required facts and figures from A. T. & T. When the company suggested the meeting it said that a recent change in the specifications made by the three attorneys might enable A. T. & T. to make a "speculative" forecast of the charges for transmission.

The meeting will take place at the Motion Picture Association of America headquarters here. Representing MPAA will be Welch, Fly, Andrew Inglis and Ed Cooper. Cohn and Stuart Bailey will represent the National Exhibitors Theatre Television Committee. From A. T. & T. will be general counsel Ernest D. North and top-level company engineers.

Healthier Box-office Seen by Branton

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—Ralph Branton, Monogram Pictures vice-president, told company distribution and executive personnel in a closing session at the weekend of the convention of Monogram-Allied Artists that he felt there would be a healthy level of theatre attendance during the months ahead. Branton said, "I don't think that the alarmists in our industry need look any further for assurance than to the program of expansion Allied Artists is making in its quality

N. Dakota Oil Find Lures Neb. Showmen

Minneapolis, Sept. 28. — Newly-discovered oil in North Dakota, with its consequent rise in the economic level, has lured numerous Nebraska exhibitors into that state.

There have been theatre purchases in the cities of Bismark and Valley City and Nebraska theatremen are eyeing expansion in the oil fields through Williston and Wolf Point and at Kalispel, in Montana.

Johnston Visit to France in Offing

Eric A. Johnston, MPAA president, is virtually certain to go to France for further film pact talks before he undertakes visits to any other countries, it was indicated here at the weekend. At his meeting here Thursday with company presidents and foreign managers the date of his departure for Paris will be decided.

Johnston was due to fly East from the Coast over the weekend.

Plans Skiatron Test In Philadelphia, Too

Every effort will be made to extend the projected Skiatron subscription home television test to Philadelphia, Arthur Levey, Skiatron president, said here at the weekend.

The company recently announced that it is preparing an application to the Federal Communications Commission for authorization to launch a 90-day test in the New York Metropolitan area among 300 families. Levey said the company now contemplates the inclusion of Philadelphia in the application provided suitable arrangements can be made.

Levey cited the Walcott-Marciano

Presidents Put Off Arbitration Confab

Because distribution attorneys who have been working on suggested amendments to the much-abused industry arbitration draft have not completed their work and do not expect to complete it for several more days, company presidents will not discuss the subject of arbitration at their scheduled meeting here on Thursday, it was indicated at the weekend.

It was pointed out that the lawyers are attempting to amend the draft in such a way that it could be ac-

Companies Hit By European Credit 'Mess'

French, German, Italian Exhibitors Not Paying

A particularly acute, heretofore unpublicized problem for American distributors has affected the sale of product in France, Germany and Italy. Film export officials here reported at the weekend that they are becoming increasingly concerned that exhibitors in those countries in large numbers are not paying for pictures sold to them on credit.

This withholding of payments by French, German and Italian theatres and circuits was described as widespread and represents a "staggering" outstanding sum for the American distribution industry.

It has been recommended to the Motion Picture Export Association board that it study the problem of overdue accounts in Europe. The MPEA meeting here last week reviewed the situation and agreed that

Business Up, Fox Reopens Theatres

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 28.—The Fox-Wisconsin Amusement Corp. has reopened three of the four theatres which it closed for the summer, as a result of increased business. The three are the State, Venetian and Riviera, Harold J. Fitzgerald, president, disclosed.

Mull Weekly Fight Theatre Telecasts

Many theatremen, in the wake of the box-office success of the Walcott-Marciano bout, are thinking in terms of telecasting a boxing match every week.

It was further disclosed that the International Boxing Club had been approached on the subject a number of times. However, an IBC spokesman said that its commitments for the current year are with home TV and nothing would probably be decided now.

Starr to Meet Press

Alfred Starr of Nashville, new president of the Theatre Owners of America, has scheduled an interview with the trade press at TOA headquarters here tomorrow.

Distributors Will Present Product at Kansas City KMTA Meet Tomorrow

Kansas City, Sept. 28.—Each of a dozen distribution offices in Kansas City's film row will present product at the 34th annual convention of the Kansas-Missouri Theatre Association Tuesday and Wednesday at the Hotel President.

The branch managers and staffs will have 20 minutes to demonstrate how they would exploit their picture if they were exhibitors.

The discussion parts of the two-day convention will take up theatre television, showmanship, public relations, and Theatre Owners of America activities, the latter including a report on the recent convention.

Guest speakers will include Pat McGee, and Alfred Starr, recently elected president of TOA.

The business session, with C. E. Cook, president, presiding, will be held Wednesday morning. The convention opens at 1:30 P.M. Tuesday. R. R. Biechele, veteran exhibitor and long a respected and valuable worker in local and national film organizations, will be honored at the testimonial dinner phase of the banquet where Starr will be the speaker.

Kodak Promotes Johnson, Grauel

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 28. — A. Dexter Johnson and Edwin L. Grauel were appointed assistant directors of advertising at Eastman Kodak by director of advertising W. B. Potter and associate director L. H. Bartlett.

Johnson has handled the company's display advertising and was in charge of all merchandising operations of the advertising department. Grauel has been the assistant to advertising director Potter, and was business manager of the advertising department in charge of budget, planning, scheduling, accounting, cost control, media buying and other business operations.

$10,000 for Fight Film at Brockton

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—A big estimated $10,000 is seen for the Brockton Theatre at Brockton, Mass., the home town of heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, from the opening of RKO Radio's fight film on Wednesday through the weekend.

Oriental Books Fight Film

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—The Walcott-Marciano heavyweight championship fight film was booked for a one week's exclusive Chicago first run at the downtown Oriental Theatre. The fight telecast was a sell-out at four Chicago theatres and a Hammond, Indiana theatre. The film will be available to outlying theatres on Friday.

4-Theatre 'Limelight' Premiere in Paris

Charles Chaplin's "Limelight" will have its French premiere in four Paris theatres simultaneously, at the Marignan, Normandie, Rex and Marivaux, it was announced by Arnold M. Picker, United Artists foreign distribution vice-president.

The French premiere will follow by a week or two the two-theatre Oct. 23 American premiere in New York at the Astor Theatre and at the Trans-Lux 60th St. Theatre.

Wald Decries Cuts in Exploitation Crews

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 28.—Declaring that heavier field exploitation is one of Hollywoods greatest needs in film marketing, producer Jerry Wald addressed 50 exhibitors and RKO Radio exchange men at a meeting here as part of the advance campaign for the world premiere in Dallas of "The Lusty Men."

Wald, who is making a week's tour of Texas cities with Milton Pickman, vice-president of Wald-Krasna Productions, scored those distributing companies which have cut field exploitation staffs, calling such moves "false economy."

"There is no question but that the reduction of personnel in the field deprives the industry's selling mechanism of able men whose obligation and responsibility is to provide new advertising methods, explore new channels, break new ground and maintain aggressive sales measures as a live, moving force in the business end of show business," Wald said.

"My own belief in the value of field exploitation is so strong that for 'The Lusty Men' alone 10 additional exploiteers will be dispatched throughout the county to buttress RKO's regular field force," he concluded.

MGM to Film Musical Of 'Golden West'

Dore Schary, M-G-M production chief who will arrive here this morning, blocked out details before he left Los Angeles for a musical screen version of "The Girl of the Golden West." Arthur Freed will produce, with Alan J. Lerner assigned to the screenplay.

The Belasco play has twice been the basis for motion pictures, first in 1930 as a drama in which Ann Harding starred and again in 1938 as a film musical with Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy and music by Sigmund Romberg. Schary will spend about four weeks in New York for conferences and advance plans on "Plymouth Adventure," his production which is slated to have its premiere on Nov. 24.

Texas Star Tours Begin on Nov. 10

Dallas, Sept. 28.—Phil Isley, chairman of the Texas Council of Motion Picture Organizations "Movietime" star tours, reports that the tours in Texas will begin on Nov. 10.

Serving on the committee with Isley are Robert J. O'Donnell, Col. H. A. Cole, William O'Donnell, R. I. Payne, Don Douglas, C. C. Ezell and Paul Short.

Will Not Ask Tour Talent to Entertain

In reply to a suggestion by actor Forrest Tucker that players on "Movietime" tours entertain their audiences, national "Movietime" director Robert J. O'Donnell and Hollywood chairman Marvin Schenck have issued a statement here, in which they said that under "Movietime's" policy regarding entertainment, "players may entertain if they wish and if they have a particular talent, such as singing or dancing, but they are not asked to nor are they expected to."

Would Be Unfair

The statement noted that "the Council of Motion Picture Organizations feels that such a broad policy would be unfair to many players whose talents do not lend themselves to on-the-spot, off-the-cuff entertainment. It is COMPO's wish and desire to present the personaltities in their best light before the public. If the Screen Actors Guild, after hearing Tucker's arguments for entertainment on the tours, asks or demands that COMPO adopt this policy, COMPO will act upon it, but otherwise it will continue to operate on what is a proven increasingly successful formula."

Dixie Papers Hit D. of J.'s 16mm. Suit

New Orleans, Sept. 28.—The question whether government officials or courts of law are competent to say when a motion picture has exhausted its theatrical value and should be shown on television is raised in an editorial in the New Orleans Times-Picayune and States, critical of the government action to force the sale of 16mm. films to television.

The editorial adds: "Movies for the most part have weathered the competition initially offered by TV. Once used to video, many people feel that the motion picture screen still has something to offer that isn't available on the screen in the parlor." However, it concludes, you can't expect them to pay admission to a theatre to see a picture which will be available on TV free later on.

Savannah, Ga., Sept. 28. — The Savannah Morning News in commenting editorially on the government suit to force the sale of 16mm. films to television expressed the opinion that the government, "in its efforts to force the movie industry to contribute to a competitive program which is against its own interests is striking at the very heart of a system (free enterprise) which has made this nation great."

Notables to Attend Cinerama Premiere Here Tomorrow

Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York, Governor Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey and former President Herbert Hoover are among the distinguished guests slated to attend the world premiere of Cinerama at the Broadway Theatre here tomorrow evening.

Others invited include New York Mayor Impellitteri, Ambassador Warren Austin, Deems Taylor, Fritz Kreisler, James Melton, Admiral Richard Byrd, John Foster Dulles, Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein, David Sarnoff, Rosalind Russell, Jane Pickens, Clifton Fadiman, John Kieran, and others.

Meanwhile, WCBS-TV disclosed that Cinerama has purchased a 52-announcement saturation campaign which will close on Oct. 7.

Milwaukee, Sept. 28.—Ernst Langemack, 69, former Milwaukee theatre operator, died on Sept. 20 at Green Bay, Wis. Langemack operated the Colonial Theatre here for 30 years. He had left Milwaukee three years ago because of illness. Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Harrison Brace, of Grand Rapids, Mich., and a son, Dr. William Langemack of Brillion.

Horan a WB Salesman

Boston, Sept. 28. — George W. Horan, at one time branch manager here and a district manager for Warner Brothers, has returned to the company as a salesman for Northeastern New England, it was disclosed by branch manager Ralph Iannuzzi.

Harry Sherman Had Planned New Firm

Hollywood, Sept. 28.—Harry Sherman, veteran producer who died here at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital late Thursday night at the age of 68, had plans well underway for a new distribution franchise organization.

The plans, which were disclosed Sept. 8 from Chicago following a meeting between Sherman and a group of independent distributors, called for the release of one picture per month. One feature of the projected organization was that the distribution franchise holders would own a part of the company, in addition to having distribution rights in their territories.

Sherman operated a theatre circuit in the Minneapolis area before turning to distribution and production. He was associated with Pathe and M-G-M prior to his forming Harry Sheman Productions in 1935 to make the Hopalong Cassidy series. Among his productions were "Ramrod," "Four Faces West," "Parson of Panamint" and "Buffalo Bill."

PARLAYING a $10,000 loan through a punchboard business into oil, cattle, television and now controlling stock ownership of RKO Pictures in a matter of seven years, suggests that Ralph Stolkin, head of the group which last week replaced Howard Hughes as owners of the picture company, may have more than a bit of showmanship in his makeup.

If so, there will be no lack of opportunity for him to exercise it freely from now on.

Mutual-MGM Shows Back on Air Tonight

WOR-Mutual's group of 10 M-G-M produced programs will return as a bloc to the Monday through Saturday schedule tonight, it was announced by Julius F. Seebach, Jr., MBS-WOR vice-president in charge of programs.

Five of these shows—"Woman of the Year," "The Black Museum," "M-G-M Musical Comedy Theater," "Modern Adventures of Casanova" aand "Adventures Of Maisie" — were not heard during the summer. The other five—"Crime Does Not Pay," "Story of Dr. Kildare," "The Hardy Family," "The Gracie Fields Show" and "M-G-M Theater of the Air"—have been broadcast on the WOR schedule weekly since their debut last winter.

ceptable to the Theatre Owners of America and Allied States Association. In due course, TOA and Allied are likely to come up with their own recommended changes, and agreement would have to be reached by the three principles and other Arbitration Conference participants on an official, amended draft.

Would Like Changes

Both TOA and the distributors indicated at their recent meeting in Washington that they would like to make changes in the draft. Abram F. Myers, Allied general counsel, who sat in on the conference, indicated that Allied too undoubtedly would want to suggest changes, but that the Allied member units would have to be polled in this connection.

The distribution attorneys' efforts last week to compile suggested changes and fit them into the draft as it stood prior to the Washington meeting was interpreted as a manifestation of distribution's desire to see an industrywide arbitration system created.

of film output."

"Growing public awareness of global happenings," he added, "has opened up a wider range of exploitable story themes and intriguing location shots." He pointed out that the exploitation film has outgrown the old connotation of being a skimpily produced film based wholly on a documentary subject.

fight, which drew an estimated 120,000 fight fans in TV-equipped theatres, as the "latest instance of how top-flight events are being denied the country's 18,0000,000 TV set owners under the present program-sponsored system.

"It is not at all far fetched," said Levey, "that the Walcott-Marciano fight might have drawn a minimum of $10,000,000 on subscription TV alone at a charge of no more than $1 per family."

Rep. Favors Tax Repeal

Boston, Sept. 28.—Rep. Richard B. Wigglesworth (R.,Mass.) in an interview regarding the elimination of the 20 per cent Federal admission tax, stated, "I do not care to make any definite commitment at this time but I am in favor of tax reduction. I voted specifically for the elimination or reduction of this tax when it was last considered by Congress two years ago."

Dual '4 Poster' Premiere

"The Four Poster," Stanley Kramer production for Columbia release, based upon Jan de Hartog's Broadway play, and starring Rex Harrison and Lilli Palmer, will have a dual world premier on Wednesday, Oct. 15, at the Victoria and Sutton theatres here.

100 More Theatres Join Rogers Drive

More than 100 additional theatres in Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont, Connecticut, New Jersey, Ohio, Kentucky, Maryland, Virginia and New York have joined the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital collection-can drive making 750 additional theatres so far. Among the latest circuits which have sent in lists of their theatres to receive the collection-boxes for placement on candy stands are: Lazar Theatres, Buffalo, with 16 theatres; the Kallet Circuit, Oneida, N. Y., with 28 theatres; Walter Reade Theatres in New Jersey, and Interstate Theatres, Boston.

Reports to drive chairman Joseph R. Vogel indicate that in many theatres where the collection-boxes are already at work, donations are coming in much faster than anticipated.

Southern Cal. Unit Plaque to DeMille

Hollywood, Sept. 28.—Cecil B. DeMille has received a special plaque hailing him as "the greatest of all showmen" from the Southern California Motion Picture Council.

At the same time, Paramount's "Just for You" producer, Pat Duggan, and director, Elliott Nugent, were given a "gold seal" certificate of award by the Council which selected the film as "a picture of outstanding merit" for the family.

The special award to DeMille, and another to Walt Disney, are the first such honors voted by the Council.

Hollywood, Sept. 28.—Next Monday night the first "live" network dramatic show to originate in Hollywood, "Hollywood Opening Night," will be seen in New York on NBC-TV. The show will also be the first dramatic show to originate from the recently opened unit of NBC's studio center in Burbank.

Fine Arts Gets 3rd Mayer-Kingsley Film

"The Magic Box," the new Robert Donat color by Technicolor feature, will be distributed nationally through Fine Arts Films. It is an Arthur Mayer-Edward Kingsley release.

Fine Arts is also the national distributor of two other Mayer-Kingsley releases, "Brandy for the Parson," which recently completed its American premiere at the Park Ave. Theatre, and Jean Cocteau's "The Strange Ones."

Credit 'Mess'

delayed payments are having a serious effect on the overall remittance picture. In other words, the amount of business done in any one of the three countries in a given period can show up considerably greater than sums held for remittance covering the period.

Large French, German and Italian circuits were said to be particularly serious offenders in the matter of delayed payment for product. In the case of some of these, credit has been withdrawn and product withheld pending receipt of all or part of what is owed.

One export official said that the credit situation in the three countries is without a doubt "a mess." Columbia was said to be particularly hard hit by the problem.

Further discussion of the problem is expected to take place at the meeting of MPEA companies' presidents and foreign managers scheduled for Thursday here.

'Overcoat' Is First Italian 'Salute' Film

"The Overcoat," adapted from Nicolai Gogol's short story, will be presented next Monday night as the first of seven premieres at the Little Carnegie Theatre during "Salute to Italian Films Week," Oct. 6-12.

Proceeds of each evening's showing, with the exception of the first one, will be shared equally by the American Theatre Wing and the Variety Clubs-Will Rogers Memorial Hospital at Saranac Lake.

In the THEATRE Equipment World . . .

. . . with RAY GALLO

A NUMBER of theatre operators throughout the country are taking advantage of a new odorless paint which enables them to carry out interior decoration jobs without the usual interruptions in business or discomfort to patrons. The paint is a product of the Keystone Paint and Varnish Corp. of Brooklyn, N. Y. Through experimentation, under the leadership of Douglas C. Arnold, Keystone's president, a process was found for boiling the odor out of the oil used in the manufacture of oil-base paints. Then a thinner, which has the benefits of turpentine but none of its odor was developed. The paints are available in flat, semi-gloss, gloss, enamel, floor paint and varnish. Theatres which have already used it include the Paris in New York, the Crown and the Lincoln in New Haven and the Fine Arts in Westport, Conn.

Prestoseal Manufacturing Corp. of Long Island City, N. Y., has modified its well-known splicer used in many motion picture studios and exchanges to the speedy, permanent splicing of film in theatre projection rooms. The principle of the "Presto-Splicer Pro Model" (see photo below) is a combination of controlled heat and pressure, applied in precise, automatically controlled time cycles. It is designed to splice either 35 or 16 mm. film without scraping or using cement. Dimensions are: height, 9 inches; width, 11¼; length, 17; weight, 17 pounds. The splicer plugs into a standard 120-volt outlet and is provided with a current control.

Motion Picture Daily Feature Reviews

"The Lusty Men"

(Wald-Krasna-RKO Radio) Hollywood, Sept. 28

THE LUSTY MEN referred to in the title of this sprawling, drawling and sometimes brawling production by the show-wise and sure-handled Jerry Wald are the men who earn their living and often their dying in the rodeo business. The men chiefly concerned in this straight-line screenplay by Horace McCoy and David Dortort (from a story by Claude Stanish) are Robert Mitchum, Arthur Kennedy, Frank Faylen and Arthur Hunnicutt, and the woman with whom the first two of these lusty men are principally concerned is Susan Hayward, who doesn't like rodeo-ing but is stuck with it. Nice billing material.

Director Nicholas Ray seems to have paced the unfolding of his story to the slow and ambling gait of the former rodeo champion played by Mitchum, save for the frequent furious passages in which the rodeo animals galvanize the action on their own volition. The contrast between the plodding progress of the people and the lightning action of the broncs, steers and Brahma bulls is dramatically effective throughout what could have been an overlong 112 minutes otherwise.

The commercial possibilities of the picture are not readily determinable. The names obviously promise a solid opening. The box-office import of the fact that the picture deals exclusively (also intimately, informatively and extremely well) with the rodeo institution and rodeo people is open to question save in localities where predilection for that subject is known to prevail. Neither is it a simple matter to determine in advance whether the tremendous amount of expert riding, roping, bulldogging and so on in the picture is going to prove as profitable in the theatre as in the rodeo arena, especially under a title that doesn't state clearly what the picture's about.

In short, Mitchum plays a former rodeo champion whom Kennedy, the young, cowhand husband of Miss Hayward, persuades to teach him the rodeo business and manage him in it on a 50-50 basis. Kennedy becomes so successful as a rodeo performer that he refuses to retire and buy a ranch, as his wife and he intended in the beginning, and determines to go on with his hazardous career. Mitchum, following a differene with Kennedy, tells Miss Hayward of his love for her, but she says she's still in love with nobody but her husband. Next day Mitchum, who hasn't competed in rodeo since making the deal to manage Kennedy, gets himself killed in the arena, and Kennedy heeds his wife's wishes about retiring to the relative safety of ranching.

Running time, 112 minutes. General audience classification. For October release.

WILLIAM R. WEAVER

"Apache War Smoke"

(Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer)

BLENDING THE ELEMENTS of humor, farce, sophistication and "corn," this Hayes Goetz production is a Western in format. Its content, however, elevates to high moments of tenderness and humor an absolute rascal and other choice rascals, and is therefore unsuitable for youngsters whose parents have been teaching them the difference between right and wrong.

The story by Jerry Davis has Gilbert Roland enact a Mexican bad man, beloved by women, including those with husbands, and the father of numerous and often unknown progeny. One of these is Robert Horton, the upright and dedicated keeper of the Wells Fargo way station. It is the latter's bad luck that a gold cargo shepherded by company official Gene Lockhart arrives at the same time as Roland; and that the Apaches are looking for a white man who did them wrong. Roland captivates the women as usual; and even while disarmed keeps trying to get the gold. Continued Apache attacks begin to decimate the little fort; and the men are for throwing Roland to the Apaches. Horton has to make his difficult choice: to drive his bad but charming killer-father to death, or continue fighting. He chooses the latter. And Roland resolves the problem; he discovers the actual white man the Apaches are seeking, and by strategy sends him out from the fort. The Apaches kill him. This leaves peace, and the various romantic complications which have ensued become straightened. Horton is left with a good girl, the bad girl leaves with Lockhart, and Roland leaves after them.

Roland rides off after the stagecoach and the gold, and those who watch him leave are fairly certain he'll get the gold, because the boy who drives the coach also is his son.

Roland's portrayal of the bad man is good and subtle comedy; and the tense moments of gunplay and Apache attack keep the Western pace. Glenda Farrell's part as a gambling woman who carries two six-shooters with her and welcomes Roland as a fellow adventurer, is in character.

Davis' screenplay is based upon a story by Ernest Raycox. Harold Kress directed. In supporting roles are Barbara Ruick, Henry Morgan, Patricia Tiernan, Hank Worden, and others.

Running time, 67 minutes. Adult audience classification. Release date, Oct. 17.

Bernard an Importer

The opening title, "L. Barry Bernard presents," on Manor Films' "The French Way," marks the entry into the foreign-film importation field of the veteran art-house publicist. Bernard was for several years associated with Herbert Rosener Theatres on the Coast.

Mexican Loans Are Down

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 28.—The trade's own bank, the semi-official Banco Nacional Cinematografico, S. A., publishing its balance sheet as of Aug. 31, for the first time in a long while, reports loans, credits and discounts of only $1,290,375.25 and $1,970,000 worth of its bonds in circulation.

"Horizons West"

(Universal-International) Hollywood, Sept. 28

UNDER the above innocuous title the experienced and always expert Albert J. Cohen has put together an adult Western in the sparse "Outlaw," "Duel in the Sun" category that has made exhibitors so much money and cost them so much family patronage. This one, a bit more temperate than those in some respects but equally violative of the Autry-Rogers-Boyd screen tradition that family folk have been trained by repetition to regard as standard for Westerns, figures to make the same kind of money if similarly exploited, and to cost somewhat less family patronage, although some. From this point of view, the attraction looks like an easy money-maker for the houses that don't cultivate family trade, and a policy problem for those that do.

The people principally involved in the story are Robert Ryan, Rock Hudson, Raymond Burr, Julia Adams, James Arness and Judith Braun, who turn in strong, steady performances under the competent and sometimes remarkably adroit direction of Budd Boetticher. The story and screenplay are by Louis Stevens, a good man with a line of dialogue and obviously a staunch foe of formula. Charles P. Boyle directed the photography, with William Fritsche as Technicolor consultant, and you wouldn't ask to see finer shots of Texas terrain, streams, saloons, driven cattle, grazing sheep and good-looking women. Mighty purty.

The principal role is played by Ryan, a Texan fresh back from the war between the states, who finds the old home ranch too dull and unrewarding for his taste and sets out to get big money fast by any feasible means. He gets it, by all the means commonly employed by the heavies in Westerns, and with it the opposition of the good people of the community (Austin) including his own family. Killed off in the course of his rise to power are Burr, an equally evil but wealthier man whose wife loves Ryan at sight, and a civic officer who decides to make a Federal case of Ryan and his gang, plus numerous others. Finally, of course, Ryan gets killed, too, but for no more clearly established reason than being a split second late on the draw. It brings the picture to a close, but hardly to a conclusion, which small differentiation so often divides the stories from the tales, the successes from the also-rans.

Running time, 80 minutes. Adult audience classification. For October release.

W. R. WEAVER

"Willie and Joe Back at the Front"

(Universal-International) Hollywood, Sept. 28

A SERVICEABLE COMEDY, based on the two Bill Mauldin "G.I." characters, has been fashioned by Universal under the able direction of George Sherman. Tom Ewell as Joe and Harvey Lemback as Willie are in enough amusing situations to please most every audience.

Willie and Joe find themselves back not only in uniform, due to having signed up for inactive reserve, but in Tokyo and in assorted troubles, in this script by Lou Brewlow, Don McGuire and Oscar Brodney. First gales of laughter greet their attempts to "goldbrick" out of service by feigning physical infirmity, and from then on the burble of pleased customers is virtually unbroken. Scenes in a Tokyo bath house are uproarious as is the scene when the pair receives the commanding general's personal aid over protests of all officers, in order to trap smugglers. The script is constantly a laugh producer to the finish.

Leonard Goldstein produced. Others in the cast include Mari Blanchard and Barry Kelley.

Running time, 87 minutes. General audience classification. For October release.

"Under the Red Sea"

(RKO Radio)

UNUSUAL UNDERSEA PHOTOGRAPHY in black-and-white is the factor in this interesting feature that has a wide range of appeal for various audiences. For the action-minded there are close-ups of a moray eel stabbing, a conflict with a manta ray, and a crew member riding a whale shark. It features an impressive scientific experiment conducted by expedition head Hans Hass in which is shown that fish ignore all sounds of civilization including jazz but are strongly attracted by the steady waltz beat of Strauss' "The Blue Danube." Other underwater footage includes coral formations and many types of fish. Attractive Lottie Berl shows to distinct advantage above and below water in various form-revealing bathing suits.

Les Tremayne speaks the narration that explains all the pantomime action of the film which has a suggestion of a story-line. The tale concerns the expedition by Hass and the major conflict seems to be whether expedition secretary Miss Berl can succeed in replacing the photographer who is sidelined by illness. Details about obtaining proper equipment, using a special oxygen respirator, seeing the architectural ruins of Port Sudan, and finding the underwater remains of an old slave ship help maintain interest. The tailor-made climax occurs when Miss Berl is knocked unconscious by a manta ray with a 22-foot wingspread. While everyone's oxygen supply is running low, she is spotted and saved by Dr. Hass, who later marries her.

Other members of the crew who contribute to the proceedings are Gerald Weidler, Leo Rohrer, Edward Wawrowetz, Alfonso Hochhauser and Mahmoud Amir.

Running time, 67 minutes. General audience classification. For October release.

Aim to Keep 'Intent' of Draft Intact

Want Original Plan Of Arbitration to Prevail

The changes which the distributor attorneys currently are making in the draft of a projected industry arbitration system will not affect the "intent" of the draft as agreed upon prior to the recent meeting in Washington of distribution, Theatre Owners of America and Allied officials, it was contended here yesterday by a distributor spokesman.

This was interpreted as signifying that suggestions which the distributor lawyers will offer for draft changes will overlook those proposed by TOA at the Washington meeting, and at the same time will not be one-sided enough to "rub Allied the wrong way."

It was pointed out yesterday also that whatever additional provisions the distributor attorneys recommend for inclusion in the final draft will be

UK Cracks Down on Quota Defaulters

LONDON, Sept. 29.—The Board of Trade has begun to crack down on flagrant exhibitor quota offenders, one of the first cases, that of the owner of a 781-seat theatre in Congleton, having been found guilty and fined £30 ($84) and £35 ($98) costs. He was charged with playing only 11 per cent of British first feature films instead of the 30 per cent prescribed by the quota.

Meanwhile, the Board of Trade

Record Turnout at Dinner for Blumberg

The volume of advance reservations to the "Jubilee Dinner" of the Motion Picture Pioneers honoring N. J. Blumberg at the Hotel Astor on Tuesday, Nov. 25 is greater than in any previous dinner in the history of the Pioneers, Jack Cohn, president, disclosed. At no comparable period in previous years—eight weeks in advance—have so many ticket reservations been received from all over the United States, Mexico and Canada, according to Cohn.

The dinner will honor Blumberg, chairman of the board of Universal Pictures, as the "Pioneer of 1952." George Jessel will be toastmaster and Ned E. Depinet chairman.

NPA CONTROL CUT ORDER IMMINENT

Can. Building Ban May End by Jan. 1

OTTAWA, Sept. 29. — Rapid expansion of steel production and an improvement in the overall supply may bring an end to present bans on the use of steel for all construction, including theatres, by the year's end, it is reported here by the government.

April 1 Starting Date For Theatres Indicated; Earlier Date Is Likely

By J. A. OTTEN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29. — The National Production Authority is expected to issue this week—probably Wednesday — its order officially relaxing theatre construction controls, effective April 1.

It was learned, moreover, that the agency has scheduled for the end of October, on Oct. 29 to be exact, a meeting of top construction industry officials to survey the materials situation and decide whether the April 1 date can be safely advanced, say to Jan. 1 or Feb. 1.

The agency late in August announced its plans to relax construction controls, but never officially issued the order. Once before the agency had announced plans to relax the theatre building ban, effective last

Police Are Probing Memphis Drawings

MEMPHIS, Sept. 29.—Police have started an investigation of a new outbreak of "bank nights" at Memphis theatres to see if state anti-lottery laws are being violated.

A combined "bank night"—with the present jackpot standing at $1,250—is being operated at the Linden Circle, Crosstown and Frayser Drive-in, all owned by M. A. Lightman Sr., and Malco Theatres, Inc. Separate bank nights are being held at the Princess Theatre, Main Street, also owned by Lightman, and at the Hollywood Theatre, owned by J. A. West.

Lightman said he did not believe the law was being violated because

Senate Group Probe Finds 'Possible' Trust Offenses

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The staff of the Senate Small Business Committee said its film industry investigation so far has "turned up evidence of possible violations of the anti-trust laws."

The assertion came in a confidential report prepared by the committee staff for the committee members. No details were given as to who had done the "violating," but presumably the violations would be by distributors. Committee officials refused to discuss details of the report.

The report pointed out that the committee has had under investigation for some time now the trade practices of the distributors, following complaints from small theatre owners. It said the preliminary investigation showed that relations between small exhibitors and distributors were "strained," and then the report made the statement about "possible viola-

Paramount Asks for Bids for 'Sheba'

Hal Wallis' "Come Back, Little Sheba," starring Burt Lancaster and Shirley Booth, will be offered by Paramount for one exclusive prerelease engagement in the Los Angeles area to open Christmas Day, according to A. W. Schwalberg, president of Paramount Film Distributing Corp.

General release is set for early 1953. Producer Wallis is in New York setting campaign and release arrangements with Paramount home office executives.

NEWS FLASHES

An MPAA spokesman said here yesterday that the MPAA will probably not attempt to move against the Maryland State Board of Censors until the Ohio newsreel censorship case is finally decided. The MPAA contemplated an attempt to hit the Maryland board on the legislative level, and not through a court test.

House Group Opens 10-Day 'Red' Investigation on Coast

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 29.—Opening hearings here this afternoon that are expected to run 10 days, the House Un-American Activities Committee heard screenwriter Roy Huggins testify for two hours regarding his membership in the Communist Party from 1940 to 1947.

Huggins named about 20 names, mostly previously named in other hearings, and added Val Burton, former British author, composer and playwright whose recent Hollywood credits include "The Ghost Steps Out," "Time of Their Lives" and "Bedtime for Bonzo," to those reported previously in this connection. Huggins, whose screen credits include "Fuller Brush Man" and "Good Humor Man," said he had found it impossible to combine membership in the Communist Party and loyal Americanism.

At the opening, chairman John S. Wood read statements from Motion Picture Industry Council and AFL Film Council denouncing locally published intimations that "Hollywood" would oppose the committee hearings.

It is believed no picture people are scheduled for tomorrow's session.

Buchman Contempt Trial Postponed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The contempt of Congress trial of producer Sidney Buchman has been postponed again, this time from Oct. 1 to Feb. 9.

Buchman has been cited for refusing to appear before the House Un-American Activities Committee. William Hitz of the district attorney's office here said the new postponement was due to the unavailability of key witnesses. He said Buchman wanted the testimony of committee member Rep. Jackson, and that the latter would be busy campaigning on the Coast. The government, he said, wanted testimony from committee counsel Frank Tavenner, who is also on the Coast for committee hearings. It was finally decided to put off the the trial until after a new session of Congress starts, Hitz declared.

Loew's Sets a Big Campaign for N.Y.

Loew's New York theatres will launch a "Big 5" campaign in mid-October to sell what the circuit's executives believe to be one of the strongest lineups in years. Pictures included are "High Noon," "The Quiet Man," "Affair in Trinidad," "Somebody Loves Me" and "The Merry Widow."

Details of the campaign were mapped at a recent meeting presided over by theatre management executives Joseph R. Vogel, Oscar A. Doob, Eugene Picker and ad-publicity department men headed by Ernest Emerling and Eddie Dowden. Two touring float caravans that will cover Greater New York will launch the campaign, which will include special trailers, lobby displays and theatre-front decorations.

Dismiss Symphony Suit vs. UA, Brandt

The Supreme Court action by the Symphony Theatre here against United Artists and the Brandt circuit, in which the Symphony charged United Artists and Brandt with having improperly conspired to withhold the reissue of Charles Chaplin's "City Lights" from the Symphony, has been dismissed by Justice Greenberg, with the following observations:

"There is not the slightest evidence in this case, giving plaintiff every reasonable inference to which it is entitled, that the defendants or any of them entered into a conspiracy in violation of Section 340 of the General Business Law or of the common law of this State. Nor is there any evidence that any contract was entered into between plaintiff and United Artists. . . . Hence there could be no breach of contract nor the inducing of the breach of a contract which in fact had never been entered into."

Walter S. Beck and Paul Martinson of the firm of Phillips, Nizer, Benjamin & Krim represented United Artists and the firm of Weissman, Celler, Quinn, Allan & Spett, represented Brandt. Monroe Stein represented the Symphony Theatre.

Stolkin Expected Here on RKO Visit

Ralph Stolkin, head of the group which acquired stock control of RKO Pictures from Howard Hughes last week, is expected to arrive in New York from Chicago today or tomorrow for his first visit to the company's home office. During his visit, it is believed, a new board of directors for the company may be elected, although no date for a board meeting had been set up to yesterday.

Ned E. Depinet, RKO Pictures president, arrived here from the Coast over the weekend. In meetings with company executives all day yesterday, Depinet could not be reached for questioning concerning the company's future plans.

Bergman to Speak At Critics' Meet

Nearly 3,000 Houses Are Enrolled In Rogers Campaign

Close to 3,000 theatres throughout the U. S. have already enrolled in the drive to place collection-cans on candy stands for funds for the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital.

The various United Paramount theatre circuits throughout the country are cooperating in the project. With a green light from Leonard Goldenson, Robert Weitman and Ed Hyman, the circuits are enrolling daily. Interstate Circuit, Texas, came in with 141 theatres; Intermountain (Utah-Idaho) added 12; Northio Theatres (Ohio-Kentucky) enlisted nine houses; Florida State jumped the roll by 76 theatres; six theatres of the Buffalo Paramount circuit are in.

Other enrollments include: Dipson Theatres, Buffalo, with 15 houses and the Schad theatres in Reading, Pa. Additional New England circuits include the Lockwood and Gordon circuit; Phil Smith Circuit, Graphic Circuit, Robert Curzan.

* Pictures featured in M. P. Daily advertising during past 6 weeks.

The Vital Spark that ignites the interest of exhibitors for specific pictures, so that it can flame into that enthusiasm which inspires real showmanship, is a soundly planned program of trade advertising. Without that, no exhibitor can be blamed for lacking in excitement over pictures which are offered to him virtually "cold".

It is obvious that the extent of a distributor's confidence in product he has available is generally indicated by either the telling—or lack of telling about it—in trade paper messages.

There never was a greater need for good product. There never was a greater interest among exhibitors to know about the product they should plan to obtain and exploit. There never was a keener readership of trade paper messages.

Requisites for successful motion picture trade paper advertising of good product are: (1) Start it soon enough; (2) Make it effectively proclaim the box-office values of the picture; (3) Publish a sufficient continuity of sales messages to impress and remind.

Soundly planned trade advertising is the basic telling that leads to successful selling. Its cost is dimes that bring dollars. It is the vital spark for the power that produces greatest results!

tions" having been turned up.

Exhibitor complaints were summarized as follows: That small exhibitors can't get the same availabilities as larger theatres; that they are being forced to buy blocks of pictures; that in some areas branch managers of the distributors also own shares of theatres and favor these theatres in distributing the company's films; and that distributors use competitive bidding unnecessarily to get higher prices from small theatres.

Meanwhile, William D. Amis, investigator for the committee, has postponed for another month at least a projected cross-country trip in connection with the committee's investigation of exhibitor complaints against distributors.

Mr. Amis declared that complaints from exhibitors all over the country are still coming in to the committee, but said that since the committee is short-handed now he will be unable to check into them for some time. When he does take off, he said, he expects to spend considerable time in the San Francisco area and in New York, with visits to Chicago and Alabama.

Gillis W. Long, special investigator for the committee, recently returned from Los Angeles, Mr. Amis said, where he spent some time with representatives of the Southern California Theatre Owners Association. SCTOA is working up some additional information for the committee, the investigator said.

NPA Control Cut

July 1. But the order was not issued and when the steel strike came along, the order just never did come out. Industry officials have indicated, therefore, they would be a lot happier when NPA follows up its promise of an April 1 relaxation with an official order.

As previously promised, the relaxation would permit theatre builders to self-authorize up to five tons of carbon steel per quarter per project, up to 500 pounds of copper and up to 300 pounds of aluminum. At present, no self-authorization is allowed except minimum amounts for maintainance, repair and operating work. In addition to the self-authorizations under the new order, would-be theatre builders could apply for NPA allotments of additional amounts of the three metals with much better chances of success than at present.

Even though the relaxation would not be effective until April 1, builders could start lining up their materials now and placing orders for delivery after April 1, when the theatre building season really starts.

The Oct. 29 meeting of top construction industry officials will look over the steel, aluminum and copper supply situation and see if the April 1 date can be moved up.

NPA has been okaying extra copper for some drive-ins, it was learned. An agency spokesman said that in recent weeks it had approved additional copper for "some 10 or 15 drive-ins that just needed copper but no steel.

Reviews

"The Hour of 13"

(Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer) Hollywood, Sept. 29

ALTHOUGH PETER LAWFORD is the only player in this London-produced picture whose name has billing significance in this country, he is seen here with a splendid roster of cast associates in a splendid little picture. It is not, as a matter of fact, a little picture save in the sense that its name-power is slight, so far as American audiences are concerned. In point of actual scale, other than that, it is a quite big picture, filmed in and around and against some extremely good-to-look-at British streets and buildings, and the interiors measure up to the exteriors in every particular. It is a melodrama in which a jewel thief and a pathological killer make Scotland Yard most unhappy until the thief's path and the killer's cross eventually. Both are exposed and meet their merited finish.

M-G-M's Hayes Goetz, a relatively new but fast oncoming addition to that studio's producer list, turned out the picture, with Harold French contributing a fine job of timed and counter-timed direction. An extremely graceful script by Leon Gordon and Howard Emmett Rogers is based on a novel by Philip MacDonald. The Royal Philharmonic Orchestra furnishes the music, but that shouldn't be regarded as indicating a long-hair score.

Others in the cast are Dawn Addams, who's to be used over here as a contract star by M-G-M soon, Roland Culver, Derek Bond, Leslie Dwyer, Michael Hordern, Colin Gordon, Heather Thatcher, Jack McNaughton and Campbell Cotts. All are fine.

Lawford plays the jewel thief and Miss Addams portrays the daughter of Commissioner Bond of Scotland Yard. He successfully steals a priceless emerald under circumstances which lead police to believe that it was stolen by a killer who's been knocking off policemen all over London without seeming object. Since Lawford can't fence his booty safely until the killer's been apprehended, he ingratiates himself with the girl, then with her father, and takes part in the quest for the killer, whom he finally catches up with and dispatches. But the Scotland Yard people catch up with Lawford also and take him off to jail. (This all happens in 1890.)

Running time, 79 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Nov. 13.

"Night Without Sleep"

(20th Century-Fox) Hollywood, Sept. 29

RUNNING CONFIDENTLY counter to the trade-wide conviction that the psychological-melodrama cycle was among the principal causes of the post-war decline in theatre attendance, producer Robert Bassler offers here a typical example of the category, complete with all the standard fixtures including the psychoanalyst (treated seriously this time) who foretells the murder. The producer has given the picture the gloss of painstaking production, proficient photography, and so forth, but there's no chance of deceiving the ticket shoppers as to the kind of picture it is.

The picture has Linda Darnell as its best billing name, but the foremost figure is Garry Merrill, who came to favorable public attention in "All About Eve." Hildegard Neff, who's been getting extensive publicity, and June Vincent, now getting a build-up also, are the others whose names an exploitation-determined exhibitor may utilize helpfully in the picture's box-office behalf.

Probably it wouldn't be wholly honest, and in some places it could be damaging, to exploit the picture as the story of a drunk's black-out, although that is what it really is. Merrill portrays the drunk, the camera opening on him in the act of coming awake in his home after a night of alcohol which he cannot remember, and with a scratched fist. The picture goes then into a series of flashbacks in which it is shown that he is the discontented husband of a wealthy girl he married six years ago in exchange for her backing a show for him, and the occasional associate in amour of a girl of vague delineation, with both of whom he spent a part of the night he doesn't remember. It's also shown that he spent a good deal of time with Miss Darnell, playing a Hollywood star who's long had a crush on him which he hasn't known about. In the sections between the flashbacks it's made clear that Merrill suspects he must have killed one of these women during his night of drinks, and it's this uncertainty that presumably is supposed to build suspense. But the totally conversation nature of the picture prevents suspense from forming. It turns out that it was his wife he murdered.

Frank Partos and Elick Moll wrote the screenplay, from a story by Moll. Roy Baker directed it too deliberately for its own good.

Running time, 77 minutes. Adult audience classification. For October release.

announced that 2,118 theatres applied for quota relief and exemptions for the year beginning Oct. 1, compared with 2,157 applications in the year now concluding.

Relief in varying degree was granted to 1,439 houses against 1,428 this year. Total exemption was given 168 theatres. The reliefs and exemptions granted will reduce the average first feature quota for the country as a whole from the prescribed 30 per cent to 26.2 per cent, the Board estimates.

BUFFALO, Sept. 29.—National Screen Service branch manager Jack Goldstein reports that henceforth trailers for this territory will be shipped to exhibitors from Buffalo instead of from New York.

Aim to Keep

"very few in number." For the most part, they have been working on changes in wording, changes which the layman would regard as insignificant but which lawyers believe are necessary for purposes of accurate definition. Substitution of words, rephrasing and punctuation were said to be the matters with which they have dealt in the main.

Turned 'Thumbs Down'

Apparently, the distributor attorneys have turned "thumbs down" on the proposal made at the Washington parley by Alfred Starr, TOA president, that circuits and other exhibitors be given the right to initiate arbitration proceedings to increase clearance. Abram F. Myers, Allied general counsel, who wrote the original draft following several meetings in New York among all principals, was understood to have regarded this to be a "revolutionary" proposal, and one to which he objected.

There was said to be little doubt that the distributor lawyers would complete their work on draft changes by Friday, possibly sooner. When they have finished the task, the presidents of the Motion Picture Association of America member companies and non-member companies will be invited to review and act on the changes. If the presidents give their approval, then TOA and Allied will be asked to look over the recommendations and indicate whether or not they are acceptable from their standpoints.

Meanwhile, of course, TOA and Allied are at liberty to alter the draft to better suit themselves. Whether either organization has been acting in this direction is not known at present. Myers indicated at the Washington meeting that Allied may have suggestions but that its membership would have to be polled before they were acted upon.

Herman M. Levy, TOA general counsel, is due here today from New Haven to attend a trade press conference which will be held by Starr. It is expected that reporters will ask Levy about any TOA plans for recommending draft changes.

One particularly knotty problem which has been tackled by the distributor lawyers concerns possible arrangements for carrying on unfinished arbitration business after the 18-month agree-upon trial period has ended. If the system is dropped, even if only temporarily, when the period expires, some arrangements will have to be made to accommodate complainants involved in uncompleted proceedings, they remind.

TOA Is Looking

ship will be filled since the organization is faced with the problem of "getting the right man at the right salary." At the convention Sullivan's resignation was attributed primarily to the fact that TOA could not meet his salary expectancy. Sullivan was exccutive director for several years.

Pending the hiring of a new executive director, Sullivan's former duties are being handled by Herman M. Levy, TOA general counsel, and Dick Pitts and Howard Bryant, administrative assistants.

Meetings Open Here On 'Pan' Campaign

Roy O. Disney, president of Walt Disney Productions, and Card Walker, advertising director, arrived here yesterday from the Coast to finalize plans for the release and promotion of Walt Disney's forthcoming $4,000,000 cartoon feature, "Peter Pan."

While in New York, Disney will meet with Robert Mochrie, RKO Radio distribution vice-president, and Leo Samuels, Disney sales supervisor, on plans for pre-releasing the picture in a limited number of cities.

The "Peter Pan" promotional campaign will be discussed in meetings Disney will hold with Disney sales executives Charles Levy and Irving Ludwig; character merchandise division representatives Hal Heisser, Chester Feitel, Vincent Jefferds and Harold Ridenour, and Disney Music Co. official Phil Kahl. S. Barret McCormick and Don Prince will represent RKO Radio at the meetings.

The campaign for the picture reportedly will exceed anything in Disney annals. At least 14,000,000 "Peter Pan" books will be placed on sale, starting early in November, and RCA Victor and Simon & Schuster will press 3,350,000 "Peter Pan" records. More than 30 newspapers throughout the country, with at least 30,000,000 readers, will run a "Peter Pan" Sunday comic strip syndicated by King Features, beginning the first of the year. "Millions of pieces" of "Peter Pan" merchandise will be featured by stores during the coming Yule season, the company said.

'Gaucho' Premiere on Board Ship Tonight

Representatives of all branches of show business and leading New York, U. N., and Argentine government officials will be guests of 20th Century-Fox and the Moore-McCormack Lines for tonight's world premiere of "Way of A Gaucho" aboard the S.S. Argentina, moored at Pier 32.

Among the notables who are said to have signified they will attend are Florence Chadwick, swimmer, Nils Astor, Ann Bancroft, Yolande Betbeze, Vicki Cummings, Bette Davis, Lisa Ferraday, Nina Foch, Art Ford, William Gaxton, Coleen Gray, Nancy Guild, Wanda Hendrix, Celeste Holm, George Jessel, Bert Lahr, Jayne Meadows, Gary Merrill, Ava Norring, Jack Palance, Georgie Price, Gregory Ratoff, Herb Schriner, Mel Torme, and Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr.

it was not necessary to buy a ticket to get a chance on the jackpot. Patrons are registered outside the theatre, in the lobby, and persons who want to wait outside and not buy a ticket are eligible for a chance, Lightman said.

Weekly drawings are held. A telephone hook-up enables a simultaneous drawing to be held by the four Lightman theatres in the single operation. If the winner is present the jackpot is carried over and added to for the next week.

Police banned bank nights at Memphis theatres in 1936 but at that time it was necessary to buy a ticket to get a chance at the drawing. Police Chief Ed Reeves said he would investigate and confer with City Attorney Gianotti.

Dean Elliott, formerly musical director for "All-Star Revue," "Jack Carson Show" and "Jerry Lester Show," in collaboration with Jack Scholl, Warner Bros. director, has completed the score for the forthcoming Broadway Musical, "Herald Square," to be co-produced by Ben Segal and Robert Alda and starring Alda. . . . If the first of the series, "How Death Valley Got Its Name," is symbolical of the other stories of "Death Valley Days," then this new series of Flying A Productions which will be sponsored by The Pacific Borax Co. over DuMont stations starting Oct. 7, should rank high in Western type presentations. Scripter Ruth Woodman is doing a Flying A-1 job. . . .

Another Suit Hits Ohio Censorship

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 29.—Superior Films, distributors of the remade version of the old German film, "M," has sued the Ohio division of film censorship in the Ohio Supreme Court in another effort to knock out Ohio's censorship laws.

Dr. Clyde Hissong, chief film censor, was ordered by attorney general William O'Neill to review the film for a second time, following a mandamus action by Superior which asked that the board be required to review the film, since it had been cut to conform with censorship in other states. O'Neill ruled that the censor board's refusal to review the film a second time was "indefensible."

After the second viewing, the Ohio board again rejected the film. "M" was originally rejected by the board on April 23, 1951, because it was said to be "permeated with crime." The producers said the cut version has been passed by every censor board in the country, except the Atlanta board, where it was not submitted.

The law firm of Wright, Harlor, Purpus, Morris & Arnold is representing Superior. The attorneys, asking a review of the latest rejection order, based their case on two points:

1. The film censorship statute is unconstitutional in the state and the United States since it is an abridgement of free speech and free press.

2. If the statute is valid, then the censorship board has acted arbitrarily and abused its discretion in rejecting the film.

Approve Banning Of Dope Picture

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 29.—The Board of Regents has upheld a decision by Dr. Hugh M. Flick, director of the State Education Department's division of motion pictures, who refused a license to the Argentine-made "Slaves of the Underworld" on the ground that its public exhibition would "tend to corrupt morals and incite to crime."

A special committee consisting of regents W. Kingsland Macy, John F. Brosman and Roger W. Straus witnessed a screening in New York and heard an attorney for the A. J. Film Distributing Co. make a plea for a state seal. The committee subsequently recommended to the regents that Flick's ruling be approved, and the board so voted.

A letter from Federal Narcotics Commissioner H. J. Anslinger declaring "Slaves of the Underworld" to be a "dangerous" picture for public exhibition was made part of the record. The film is described as being of the racketeer type in which characters smoke marijuana and then commit crimes.

Italian Dignitaries Here for Festival

The first group of Italian film stars and officials who will participate in "Salute to Italian Films Week" in New York, Oct. 6-12, has arrived here from Rome.

Among the arrivals are Dr. Renato Gualino, general director of Italian Films Export, and Dr. Emanuele Cassuto, managing director of Unitalia. Premieres of seven Italian films are scheduled for consective nights of the festival.

Aim to Keep 'Intent' of Draft Intact

Want Original Plan Of Arbitration to Prevail

The changes which the distributor attorneys currently are making in the draft of a projected industry arbitration system will not affect the "intent" of the draft as agreed upon prior to the recent meeting in Washington of distribution, Theatre Owners of America and Allied officials, it was contended here yesterday by a distributor spokesman.

This was interpreted as signifying that suggestions which the distributor lawyers will offer for draft changes will overlook those proposed by TOA at the Washington meeting, and at the same time will not be one-sided enough to "rub Allied the wrong way."

It was pointed out yesterday also that whatever additional provisions the distributor attorneys recommend for inclusion in the final draft will be

UK Cracks Down on Quota Defaulters

LONDON, Sept. 29.—The Board of Trade has begun to crack down on flagrant exhibitor quota offenders, one of the first cases, that of the owner of a 781-seat theatre in Congleton, having been found guilty and fined £30 ($84) and £35 ($98) costs. He was charged with playing only 11 per cent of British first feature films instead of the 30 per cent prescribed by the quota.

Meanwhile, the Board of Trade

Toronto Theatres Stand Up to TV

TORONTO, Sept. 29.—Domestic television, introduced a month ago, does not seem to have been troublesome to exhibitors thus far, as indicated by the current situation in which seven of 12 Toronto theatres have holdovers and two others have moveovers, leaving only three houses with entirely new attractions.

Starr Says TOA Is Looking for Executive Director

Theatre Owners of America is intent on finding an executive director to succeed Gael Sullivan, who resigned Sept. 15, as the TOA annual convention got underway in Washington, Alfred Starr, new TOA president, reported here yesterday following his arrival from Nashville.

Starr, who came here for conferences with other TOA officials and Council of Motion Picture Organizations executives, today will hold a trade press conference. He is scheduled to take a plane for Nashville later in the afternoon.

The TOA chief executive could not indicate when the executive director-

Record Turnout at Dinner for Blumberg

The volume of advance reservations to the "Jubilee Dinner" of the Motion Picture Pioneers honoring N. J. Blumberg at the Hotel Astor on Tuesday, Nov. 25 is greater than in any previous dinner in the history of the Pioneers, Jack Cohn, president, disclosed. At no comparable period in previous years—eight weeks in advance—have so many ticket reservations been received from all over the United States, Mexico and Canada, according to Cohn.

The dinner will honor Blumberg, chairman of the board of Universal Pictures, as the "Pioneer of 1952." George Jessel will be toastmaster and Ned E. Depinet chairman.

NPA CONTROL CUT ORDER IMMINENT

Can. Building Ban May End by Jan. 1

OTTAWA, Sept. 29.—Rapid expansion of steel production and an improvement in the overall supply may bring an end to present bans on the use of steel for all construction, including theatres, by the year's end, it is reported here by the government.

April 1 Starting Date For Theatres Indicated; Earlier Date Is Likely

By J. A. OTTEN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The National Production Authority is expected to issue this week—probably Wednesday—its order officially relaxing theatre construction controls, effective April 1.

It was learned, moreover, that the agency has scheduled for the end of October, on Oct. 29 to be exact, a meeting of top construction industry officials to survey the materials situation and decide whether the April 1 date can be safely advanced, say to Jan. 1 or Feb. 1.

The agency late in August announced its plans to relax construction controls, but never officially issued the order. Once before the agency had announced plans to relax the theatre building ban, effective last

Police Are Probing Memphis Drawings

MEMPHIS, Sept. 29.—Police have started an investigation of a new outbreak of "bank nights" at Memphis theatres to see if state anti-lottery laws are being violated.

A combined "bank night"—with the present jackpot standing at $1,250—is being operated at the Linden Circle, Crosstown and Frayser Drive-in, all owned by M. A. Lightman Sr., and Malco Theatres, Inc. Separate bank nights are being held at the Princess Theatre, Main Street, also owned by Lightman, and at the Hollywood Theatre, owned by J. A. West.

Lightman said he did not believe the law was being violated because

Md. Censor Attack Awaits Ohio Action

The Motion Picture Association of America will probably not attempt to move against the Maryland State Board of Censors until the Ohio newsreel censorship case is finally decided, an MPAA spokesman said.

The MPAA contemplated an attempt to hit at the Maryland board on the legislative level, and not through a court test.

The state of Ohio still has until Oct. 10 to appeal the decision of Judge Wiley of Toledo.

Senate Group Probe Finds 'Possible' Trust Offenses

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The staff of the Senate Small Business Committee said its film industry investigation so far has "turned up evidence of possible violations of the anti-trust laws."

The assertion came in a confidential report prepared by the committee staff for the committee members. No details were given as to who had done the "violating," but presumably the violations would be by distributors. Committee officials refused to discuss details of the report.

The report pointed out that the committee has had under investigation for some time now the trade practices of the distributors, following complaints from small theatre owners. It said the preliminary investigation showed that relations between small exhibitors and distributors were "strained," and then the report made the statement about "possible viola-

Paramount Asks for Bids for 'Sheba'

Hal Wallis' "Come Back, Little Sheba," starring Burt Lancaster and Shirley Booth, will be offered by Paramount for one exclusive prerelease engagement in the Los Angeles area to open Christmas Day, according to A. W. Schwalberg, president of Paramount Film Distributing Corp.

General release is set for early 1953. Producer Wallis is in New York setting campaign and release arrangements with Paramount home office executives.

Polio Hits Western Canadian Business

VANCOUVER, Sept. 29. — Business in Western Canada theatres is off because of a polio epidemic. Theatres and other indoor entertainment places have been requested to prohibit attendance of children. Cases of polio are on the increase in British Columbia with 340 to date.

Services Here Today For Adolph Brecher

Funeral services will be held at the Riverside Memorial Chapel here today for Adolph Brecher, former director of New York's 68th Street Playhouse and brother of Leo Brecher, Brecher Theatres president. He died here at the weekend.

Other survivors include his widow, Mrs. Mary Brecher; brothers Philip and Joe; a daughter, Elizabeth, and two sons, Sidney and Robert.

House Group Opens 10-Day 'Red' Investigation on Coast

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 29.—Opening hearings here this afternoon that are expected to run 10 days, the House Un-American Activities Committee heard screenwriter Roy Huggins testify for two hours regarding his membership in the Communist Party from 1940 to 1947.

Huggins named about 20 names, mostly previously named in other hearings, and added Val Burton, former British author, composer and playwright whose recent Hollywood credits include "The Ghost Steps Out," "Time of Their Lives" and "Bedtime for Bonzo," to those reported previously in this connection. Huggins, whose screen credits include "Fuller Brush Man" and "Good Humor Man," said he had found it impossible to combine membership in the Communist Party and loyal Americanism.

At the opening, chairman John S. Wood read statements from Motion Picture Industry Council and AFL Film Council denouncing locally published intimations that "Hollywood" would oppose the committee hearings.

It is believed no picture people are scheduled for tomorrow's session.

Buchman Contempt Trial Postponed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The contempt of Congress trial of producer Sidney Buchman has been postponed again, this time from Oct. 1 to Feb. 9.

Buchman has been cited for refusing to appear before the House Un-American Activities Committee. William Hitz of the district attorney's office here said the new postponement was due to the unavailability of key witnesses. He said Buchman wanted the testimony of committee member Rep. Jackson, and that the latter would be busy campaigning on the Coast. The government, he said, wanted testimony from committee counsel Frank Tavenner, who is also on the Coast for committee hearings. It was finally decided to put off the the trial until after a new session of Congress starts, Hitz declared.

Loew's Sets a Big Campaign for N.Y.

Loew's New York theatres will launch a "Big 5" campaign in mid-October to sell what the circuit's executives believe to be one of the strongest lineups in years. Pictures included are "High Noon," "The Quiet Man," "Affair in Trinidad," "Somebody Loves Me" and "The Merry Widow."

Details of the campaign were mapped at a recent meeting presided over by theatre management executives Joseph R. Vogel, Oscar A. Doob, Eugene Picker and ad-publicity department men headed by Ernest Emerling and Eddie Dowden. Two touring float caravans that will cover Greater New York will launch the campaign, which will include special trailers, lobby displays and theatre-front decorations.

Dismiss Symphony Suit vs. UA, Brandt

The Supreme Court action by the Symphony Theatre here against United Artists and the Brandt circuit, in which the Symphony charged United Artists and Brandt with having improperly conspired to withhold the reissue of Charles Chaplin's "City Lights" from the Symphony, has been dismissed by Justice Greenberg, with the following observations:

"There is not the slightest evidence in this case, giving plaintiff every reasonable inference to which it is entitled, that the defendants or any of them entered into a conspiracy in violation of Section 340 of the General Business Law or of the common law of this State. Nor is there any evidence that any contract was entered into between plaintiff and United Artists. . . . Hence there could be no breach of contract nor the inducing of the breach of a contract which in fact had never been entered into."

Walter S. Beck and Paul Martinson of the firm of Phillips, Nizer, Benjamin & Krim represented United Artists and the firm of Weissman, Celler, Quinn, Allan & Spett, represented Brandt. Monroe Stein represented the Symphony Theatre.

Stolkin Expected Here on RKO Visit

Ralph Stolkin, head of the group which acquired stock control of RKO Pictures from Howard Hughes last week, is expected to arrive in New York from Chicago today or tomorrow for his first visit to the company's home office. During his visit, it is believed, a new board of directors for the company may be elected, although no date for a board meeting had been set up to yesterday.

Ned E. Depinet, RKO Pictures president, arrived here from the Coast over the weekend. In meetings with company executives all day yesterday, Depinet could not be reached for questioning concerning the company's future plans.

Bergman to Speak At Critics' Meet

Maurice Bergman, assistant to the president of Universal-International, will be the guest speaker at the luncheon to be given tomorrow to honor the motion picture critics of the New York press. The meeting will be held in the Hotel Piccadilly.

Among the guests will be A. H. Weiler, Times; William Zinsser, Herald-Tribune; Kate Cameron, Daily News; Ben Rosenberg, Post; Jim O'Connor, Journal-American; Frank Quinn, Daily Mirror; Jane Corby, Brooklyn Eagle; Marie Torre, World Telegram & Sun, and Leo Mishkin, Morning Telegraph.

Nearly 3,000 Houses Are Enrolled In Rogers Campaign

Close to 3,000 theatres throughout the U. S. have already enrolled in the drive to place collection-cans on candy stands for funds for the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital.

The various United Paramount theatre circuits throughout the country are cooperating in the project. With a green light from Leonard Goldenson, Robert Weitman and Ed Hyman, the circuits are enrolling daily. Interstate Circuit, Texas, came in with 141 theatres; Intermountain (Utah-Idaho) added 12; Northio Theatres (Ohio-Kentucky) enlisted nine houses; Florida State jumped the roll by 76 theatres; six theatres of the Buffalo Paramount circuit are in.

Other enrollments include: Dipson Theatres, Buffalo, with 15 houses and the Schad theatres in Reading, Pa. Additional New England circuits include the Lockwood and Gordon circuit; Phil Smith Circuit, Graphic Circuit, Robert Curzan.

Curry, N.E. Circuit Executive, Retires

BOSTON, Sept. 29. — Edward A. Curry, an executive of New England Theatres of Boston and a 40-year veteran in the industry, will retire on Wednesday, the circuit reports.

* Pictures featured in M. P. Daily advertising during past 6 weeks.

The Vital Spark that ignites the interest of exhibitors for specific pictures, so that it can flame into that enthusiasm which inspires real showmanship, is a soundly planned program of trade advertising. Without that, no exhibitor can be blamed for lacking in excitement over pictures which are offered to him virtually "cold".

It is obvious that the extent of a distributor's confidence in product he has available is generally indicated by either the telling—or lack of telling about it—in trade paper messages.

There never was a greater need for good product. There never was a greater interest among exhibitors to know about the product they should plan to obtain and exploit. There never was a keener readership of trade paper messages.

Requisites for successful motion picture trade paper advertising of good product are: (1) Start it soon enough; (2) Make it effectively proclaim the box-office values of the picture; (3) Publish a sufficient continuity of sales messages to impress and remind.

Soundly planned trade advertising is the basic telling that leads to successful selling. Its cost is dimes that bring dollars. It is the vital spark for the power that produces greatest results!

tions" having been turned up.

Exhibitor complaints were summarized as follows: That small exhibitors can't get the same availabilities as larger theatres; that they are being forced to buy blocks of pictures; that in some areas branch managers of the distributors also own shares of theatres and favor these theatres in distributing the company's films; and that distributors use competitive bidding unnecessarily to get higher prices from small theatres.

Meanwhile, William D. Amis, investigator for the committee, has postponed for another month at least a projected cross-country trip in connection with the committee's investigation of exhibitor complaints against distributors.

Mr. Amis declared that complaints from exhibitors all over the country are still coming in to the committee, but said that since the committee is short-handed now he will be unable to check into them for some time. When he does take off, he said, he expects to spend considerable time in the San Francisco area and in New York, with visits to Chicago and Alabama.

Gillis W. Long, special investigator for the committee, recently returned from Los Angeles, Mr. Amis said, where he spent some time with representatives of the Southern California Theatre Owners Association. SCTOA is working up some additional information for the committee, the investigator said.

NPA Control Cut

July 1. But the order was not issued and when the steel strike came along, the order just never did come out. Industry officials have indicated, therefore, they would be a lot happier when NPA follows up its promise of an April 1 relaxation with an official order.

As previously promised, the relaxation would permit theatre builders to self-authorize up to five tons of carbon steel per quarter per project, up to 500 pounds of copper and up to 300 pounds of aluminum. At present, no self-authorization is allowed except minimum amounts for maintainance, repair and operating work. In addition to the self-authorizations under the new order, would-be theatre builders could apply for NPA allotments of additional amounts of the three metals with much better chances of success than at present.

Even though the relaxation would not be effective until April 1, builders could start lining up their materials now and placing orders for delivery after April 1, when the theatre building season really starts.

The Oct. 29 meeting of top construction industry officials will look over the steel, aluminum and copper supply situation and see if the April 1 date can be moved up.

NPA has been okaying extra copper for some drive-ins, it was learned. An agency spokesman said that in recent weeks it had approved additional copper for "some 10 or 15 drive-ins that just needed copper but no steel.

Reviews

"The Hour of 13"

(Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer) Hollywood, Sept. 29

ALTHOUGH PETER LAWFORD is the only player in this London-produced picture whose name has billing significance in this country, he is seen here with a splendid roster of cast associates in a splendid little picture. It is not, as a matter of fact, a little picture save in the sense that its name-power is slight, so far as American audiences are concerned. In point of actual scale, other than that, it is a quite big picture, filmed in and around and against some extremely good-to-look-at British streets and buildings, and the interiors measure up to the exteriors in every particular. It is a melodrama in which a jewel thief and a pathological killer make Scotland Yard most unhappy until the thief's path and the killer's cross eventually. Both are exposed and meet their merited finish.

M-G-M's Hayes Goetz, a relatively new but fast oncoming addition to that studio's producer list, turned out the picture, with Harold French contributing a fine job of timed and counter-timed direction. An extremely graceful script by Leon Gordon and Howard Emmett Rogers is based on a novel by Philip MacDonald. The Royal Philharmonic Orchestra furnishes the music, but that shouldn't be regarded as indicating a long-hair score.

Others in the cast are Dawn Addams, who's to be used over here as a contract star by M-G-M soon, Roland Culver, Derek Bond, Leslie Dwyer, Michael Hordern, Colin Gordon, Heather Thatcher, Jack McNaughton and Campbell Cotts. All are fine.

Lawford plays the jewel thief and Miss Addams portrays the daughter of Commissioner Bond of Scotland Yard. He successfully steals a priceless emerald under circumstances which lead police to believe that it was stolen by a killer who's been knocking off policemen all over London without seeming object. Since Lawford can't fence his booty safely until the killer's been apprehended, he ingratiates himself with the girl, then with her father, and takes part in the quest for the killer, whom he finally catches up with and dispatches. But the Scotland Yard people catch up with Lawford also and take him off to jail. (This all happens in 1890.)

Running time, 79 minutes. General audience classification. Release date, Nov. 13.

"Night Without Sleep"

(20th Century-Fox) Hollywood, Sept. 29

RUNNING CONFIDENTLY counter to the trade-wide conviction that the psychological-melodrama cycle was among the principal causes of the post-war decline in theatre attendance, producer Robert Bassler offers here a typical example of the category, complete with all the standard fixtures including the psychoanalyst (treated seriously this time) who foretells the murder. The producer has given the picture the gloss of painstaking production, proficient photography, and so forth, but there's no chance of deceiving the ticket shoppers as to the kind of picture it is.

The picture has Linda Darnell as its best billing name, but the foremost figure is Garry Merrill, who came to favorable public attention in "All About Eve." Hildegard Neff, who's been getting extensive publicity, and June Vincent, now getting a build-up also, are the others whose names an exploitation-determined exhibitor may utilize helpfully in the picture's box-office behalf.

Probably it wouldn't be wholly honest, and in some places it could be damaging, to exploit the picture as the story of a drunk's black-out, although that is what it really is. Merrill portrays the drunk, the camera opening on him in the act of coming awake in his home after a night of alcohol which he cannot remember, and with a scratched fist. The picture goes then into a series of flashbacks in which it is shown that he is the discontented husband of a wealthy girl he married six years ago in exchange for her backing a show for him, and the occasional associate in amour of a girl of vague delineation, with both of whom he spent a part of the night he doesn't remember. It's also shown that he spent a good deal of time with Miss Darnell, playing a Hollywood star who's long had a crush on him which he hasn't known about. In the sections between the flashbacks it's made clear that Merrill suspects he must have killed one of these women during his night of drinks, and it's this uncertainty that presumably is supposed to build suspense. But the totally conversation nature of the picture prevents suspense from forming. It turns out that it was his wife he murdered.

Frank Partos and Elick Moll wrote the screenplay, from a story by Moll. Roy Baker directed it too deliberately for its own good.

Running time, 77 minutes. Adult audience classification. For October release.

BUFFALO, Sept. 29.—National Screen Service branch manager Jack Goldstein reports that henceforth trailers for this territory will be shipped to exhibitors from Buffalo instead of from New York.

U.K. Cracks Down

announced that 2,118 theatres applied for quota relief and exemptions for the year beginning Oct. 1, compared with 2,157 applications in the year now concluding.

Relief in varying degree was granted to 1,439 houses against 1,428 this year. Total exemption was given 168 theatres. The reliefs and exemptions granted will reduce the average first feature quota for the country as a whole from the prescribed 30 per cent to 26.2 per cent, the Board estimates.

Aim to Keep

"very few in number." For the most part, they have been working on changes in wording, changes which the layman would regard as insignificant but which lawyers believe are necessary for purposes of accurate definition. Substitution of words, rephrasing and punctuation were said to be the matters with which they have dealt in the main.

Turned 'Thumbs Down'

Apparently, the distributor attorneys have turned "thumbs down" on the proposal made at the Washington parley by Alfred Starr, TOA president, that circuits and other exhibitors be given the right to initiate arbitration proceedings to increase clearance. Abram F. Myers, Allied general counsel, who wrote the original draft following several meetings in New York among all principals, was understood to have regarded this to be a "revolutionary" proposal, and one to which he objected.

There was said to be little doubt that the distributor lawyers would complete their work on draft changes by Friday, possibly sooner. When they have finished the task, the presidents of the Motion Picture Association of America member companies and non-member companies will be invited to review and act on the changes. If the presidents give their approval, then TOA and Allied will be asked to look over the recommendations and indicate whether or not they are acceptable from their standpoints.

Meanwhile, of course, TOA and Allied are at liberty to alter the draft to better suit themselves. Whether either organization has been acting in this direction is not known at present. Myers indicated at the Washington meeting that Allied may have suggestions but that its membership would have to be polled before they were acted upon.

Herman M. Levy, TOA general counsel, is due here today from New Haven to attend a trade press conference which will be held by Starr. It is expected that reporters will ask Levy about any TOA plans for recommending draft changes.

One particularly knotty problem which has been tackled by the distributor lawyers concerns possible arrangements for carrying on unfinished arbitration business after the 18-month agree-upon trial period has ended. If the system is dropped, even if only temporarily, when the period expires, some arrangements will have to be made to accommodate complainants involved in uncompleted proceedings, they remind.

TOA Is Looking

ship will be filled since the organization is faced with the problem of "getting the right man at the right salary." At the convention Sullivan's resignation was attributed primarily to the fact that TOA could not meet his salary expectancy. Sullivan was executive director for several years.

Pending the hiring of a new executive director, Sullivan's former duties are being handled by Herman M. Levy, TOA general counsel, and Dick Pitts and Howard Bryant, administrative assistants.

Meetings Open Here On 'Pan' Campaign

Roy O. Disney, president of Walt Disney Productions, and Card Walker, advertising director, arrived here yesterday from the Coast to finalize plans for the release and promotion of Walt Disney's forthcoming $4,000,000 cartoon feature, "Peter Pan."

While in New York, Disney will meet with Robert Mochrie, RKO Radio distribution vice-president, and Leo Samuels, Disney sales supervisor, on plans for pre-releasing the picture in a limited number of cities.

The "Peter Pan" promotional campaign will be discussed in meetings Disney will hold with Disney sales executives Charles Levy and Irving Ludwig; character merchandise division representatives Hal Heisser, Chester Feitel, Vincent Jefferds and Harold Ridenour, and Disney Music Co. official Phil Kahl. S. Barret McCormick and Don Prince will represent RKO Radio at the meetings.

The campaign for the picture reportedly will exceed anything in Disney annals. At least 14,000,000 "Peter Pan" books will be placed on sale, starting early in November, and RCA Victor and Simon & Schuster will press 3,350,000 "Peter Pan" records. More than 30 newspapers throughout the country, with at least 30,000,000 readers, will run a "Peter Pan" Sunday comic strip syndicated by King Features, beginning the first of the year. "Millions of pieces" of "Peter Pan" merchandise will be featured by stores during the coming Yule season, the company said.

it was not necessary to buy a ticket to get a chance on the jackpot. Patrons are registered outside the theatre, in the lobby, and persons who want to wait outside and not buy a ticket are eligible for a chance, Lightman said.

Weekly drawings are held. A telephone hook-up enables a simultaneous drawing to be held by the four Lightman theatres in the single operation. If the winner is present the jackpot is carried over and added to for the next week.

Police banned bank nights at Memphis theatres in 1936 but at that time it was necessary to buy a ticket to get a chance at the drawing. Police Chief Ed Reeves said he would investigate and confer with City Attorney Gianotti.

Another Suit Hits Ohio Censorship

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 29.—Superior Films, distributors of the remade version of the old German film, "M," has sued the Ohio division of film censorship in the Ohio Supreme Court in another effort to knock out Ohio's censorship laws.

Dr. Clyde Hissong, chief film censor, was ordered by attorney general William O'Neill to review the film for a second time, following a mandamus action by Superior which asked that the board be required to review the film, since it had been cut to conform with censorship in other states. O'Neill ruled that the censor board's refusal to review the film a second time was "indefensible."

After the second viewing, the Ohio board again rejected the film. "M" was originally rejected by the board on April 23, 1951, because it was said to be "permeated with crime." The producers said the cut version has been passed by every censor board in the country, except the Atlanta board, where it was not submitted.

The law firm of Wright, Harlor, Purpus, Morris & Arnold is representing Superior. The attorneys, asking a review of the latest rejection order, based their case on two points:

1. The film censorship statute is unconstitutional in the state and the United States since it is an abridgement of free speech and free press.

2. If the statute is valid, then the censorship board has acted arbitrarily and abused its discretion in rejecting the film.

Approve Banning Of Dope Picture

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 29.—The Board of Regents has upheld a decision by Dr. Hugh M. Flick, director of the State Education Department's division of motion pictures, who refused a license to the Argentine-made "Slaves of the Underworld" on the ground that its public exhibition would "tend to corrupt morals and incite to crime."

A special committee consisting of regents W. Kingsland Macy, John F. Brosman and Roger W. Straus witnessed a screening in New York and heard an attorney for the A. J. Film Distributing Co. make a plea for a state seal. The committee subsequently recommended to the regents that Flick's ruling be approved, and the board so voted.

A letter from Federal Narcotics Commissioner H. J. Anslinger declaring "Slaves of the Underworld" to be a "dangerous" picture for publie exhibition was made part of the record. The film is described as being of the racketeer type in which characters smoke marijuana and then commit crimes.
